As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

FURNITURE AND CHAIR WAREHOUSE,

Mattrasses, Looking Glasses, &c.

301 and 303 Broad-st. Newark.

JOHN JELLIFF,

MANUFACTURER of ancient and modern styles of fashionable furniture and chairs, the largest assortment in Newark, and the cheapest.

New Spring Patterns.

Every description of rosewood, mahogany, walnut furniture for the parlor, library, dining room, sitting room and chamber, in suites or otherwise, kitchen furniture, counting house desks, hair moss and straw mattrasses, looking glasses, &c. all of his own manufacture and warranted good.

Look out for stool pigeons, or you will be decoyed by large prices charged for a poor article and falling to what is called below cost or selling one piece less than cost and getting double price on others. Mr. J. has a very large stock of that very cheap work of all kinds, which will be sold at very low prices, without misrepresentation, showing the difference between the poor and good. Call and see. Hotels, saloons, &c. furnished at short notice. [24.

FOR SALE,

A GOOD one horse WAGON. Also a set of single Harness, will be sold cheap for cash. Enquire at this office.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan. 10. 1849.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J. R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap.

by D. BULLMAN.

April 25. 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 7, 1849. NO. 25.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 15 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Quaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspape rpublication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga, Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for Lippard's Washington and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila.

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

All of Lippard's works for sale here.

A Yankee Trick on a Hoosier Landlord.

In a quiet little Ohio village, many years ago, there was a tavern where the stages always changed, and the passengers expected to get breakfast. The landlord of said hotel was noted for his tricks upon travelers, who were allowed to get fairly seated at the table, when the driver would blow his horn (after taking his horn') and sing out, 'Stage ready, gentlemen,' whereupon the passengers were obliged to hurry out and take their seats, leaving a scarcely tasted breakfast behind them for which, however, they had to fork over fifty cents! One day when the stage was approaching the house of this obliging host a passenger said that he had often heard of the landlord's trick, and he was afraid they would not be able to get any breakfast.

'What?—how? No breakfast!' exclaimed the rest.

'Exactly so, gents, and you may as well keep your seats and tin.'

'Don't they expect passengers to breakfast?'

'Oh, yes! they expect you to it, but not to eat. I am under the impression, that there is an understanding between the landlord and driver, that for sundry and various drinks, etc, the latter starts before you can scarcely commence eating.'

'Why, wot on airth air yew talkin' 'bout? Ef you calkelate I'm goin' to pay 'four ninepences' for my breakfuss and not git the valley on't you air mistakin'!' said a voice from the back seat, the owner of which was Hezekiah Spaulding—though 'tew hum' they call him 'Hez, for short. 'I'm goin' to get my breakfuss yere, and not pay 'nary red' till I dew.'

'Then you'll be left.'

'Not as yew knows on, I wont!'

'Well, we'll see,' said the other, as the stage drove up to the door, and the landlord ready to 'do the hospitable,' says—

'Breakfast just ready, gents! Take a wash, gents? Here's water, basins, towels, and soap.'

After performing their abolutions, they all proceeded to the dining-room, and commenced a fierce onslaught upon the edibles, though 'Hez' took his time.—Scarcely had they tasted their coffee, when they heard the unwelcome sound of the horn, and the driver exclaim 'Stage ready!' Up rise eight grumbling passengers, pay their fifty cents, and take their seats.

'All aboard, gents?' inquired the host.

'One missing,' said they.

Proceeding to the dining-room, the host finds Hez very cooly helping himself to an immense piece of steak, the 'size of a hors'es lip.'

'You'll be left, sir! Stage is going to start!'

'Wall, I haint got nothin' tew say again it!' drawls out Hez.

'Can't wait, sir, better take your seat.'

'I'll be gaul-darned ef I dew, nuther, till I've got my breakfuss! I paid for it, and I'm goin' to git the vallee on't! and ef yew calkalate I ain't yew air mistaken.'

So the stage did start, and left Hez, who continued his attack on the edibles. Biscuits, coffee, steaks, &c., disappeared rapidly before the eyes of the astonished landlord.

'Say, Squire, them there cake is ,'bout East—fetch us nuther grist on'em. You,' (to the waiter,) 'nuther cup uv that air coffee. Pass them eggs. Raise yew're owne pork, Squire?—this is 'mazin' nice ham. Land 'bout yeare tolerable cheap, Squire? Hain't got much maple timber in these parts, hev ye?—Dewin' right smart trade, Squire? I calculate. Don't lay yew're own eggs, dew ye?' and thus Hez kept on quizzing the landlord, until he had made a hearty meal.

'Say, Squire, now I'm bout to conclude payin' my devowers tew this table, but ef yew'd jist gibe us a bowl o' bread and milk tew sorter top off with, I'de be much obleeged tew ye.'

So out goes landlord and waiter for the bowl, milk and bread, and set them before Hez.

'Spewn, tew, ef you please.!

But no spoon could be found. Landlord was sure he had plenty of silver ones lying on the table when the stage stopped.

'Say, yew! dew you think them passengers is goin' to pay you for a breakfuss and not git no compensashun!'

'Ah! what! Do you think any of the passengers took them?'

'Dew I think? No I don't think, but I'm sartin. Ef they air all as green as yew 'bout here, I'm going to locate immediately and tew wonst.'

The landlord rushes out to the stable, and starts a man off after the stage, which had gone about three miles. The man overtakes the stage, and says something to the driver in a low tone. He immediately turns back, and on arriving at the hotel, Hez comes out to take his seat, and says—

'Heow air yew, gents? I'm rotton glad tew see yew!'

'Can you point out the man you think has the spoons?' asked the landlord.

'Pint him out? Sartinly, I ken, Say, Squire! I paid you four ninepences fur a breakfuss, and I callate I got the vallee on't! You'll find them spoons in the coffeepot!'

Go ahead, all aboard, driver!

[Spirit of the Times.

Lawyer and Witness.

There is a noted criminal lawyer—and by this term we mean a lawyer in a criminal court—we remember, who in almost every case which comes under his charge, puts the following question to witnesses at the closing of his cross-examination.

'Hem! Witness—were you ever in the State Prison?

Of course the almost invariable reply, amidst the astonishment of the embarrassed witness, is 'No sir.'

'You can step down,' continues the lawyer, without a sylable in explanation, and the jurymen stare at the witness as he moves away, while the counsel pauses, and utters an expressive ,ahem'—as much as to say, 'Gentlemen of the jury, you can judge of this fellow's character for veracity; I say nothing—I don't—I couldn't prove it readily: you may believe as much as you like!

Occasionally, however, the learned counsel alluded to meets with his match. Not long ago he ran foul of a 'knotty customer,' whom he sifted thoroughly to the end of his customary chapter, and to whom he put his final stereotype question, 'Ahem! were were you ever the State Prison?' when, to the attorney's surprise, the witness replied, in a subdued tone:

'Yes, sir!'

'Ah! I thought so,' continued the counsel, 'I thought so. Gentlemen, you will please give your attention to the witness. You have been in the State Prison, then?'

'Yes sir,' continued the other, meekly.

'And how long since?'

'About two years ago, sir.'

'Two years ago, gentlemen—you will please bear in mind—this witness, now by his voluntary confession, admits he was in the State Prison.'

'Yes, sir.'

'His memory, as I have already taken pains to impress upon your minds, gentlemen, is most extr'onnery; and you can place as much confidence as you think proper in a man's testimony who has been an inmate of the State Prison.'

'How long were you there, witness.'

'About an hour sir.'

'Eh? A-hem! How long?'

'I was there; sir, about an hour, on a visit of curiosity to examine the prison, and I very well remember seeing you there, at the time, and took you to be a convict!'

'A-hem—you can step down, sir!' said the discomfitted attorney; and though the above uncorteous reply might almost have been construed in a contempt of Court, yet, in this case, a smile pervaded the faces of Judge and Jury, and the witness 'respectfully retired!'

There is a disposition to worry and hamper witnesses, altogether too common among the legal fraternity, and it is high time that this evil should be abolished. The cause of justice and equity requires this—but as these are matters with which lawyers have very little to do, and which they care far less about—as a general thing—the wrong must find its first corrective elsewhere than among the members of the bar, we presume,

Excuse for Smoking.—In the reign of James I., of tobacco hating notoriety, the boys of a school acquired the habit of smoking, and indulged in it night and day, using the most ingenious expedients to conceal the vice from their master; till one luckless evening when the imps were huddled together round the fire of their dormitory involving each other in vapors of their own creating, lo! in burst the master and stood in awful dignity before them.

'How now,' quoth the dominie to the first lad; 'how dare you be smoking tobacco?'

'Sir,' said the boy, 'I am subject to headaches, and a pipe takes off the pain.'

'And you? and you? and you?' inquired the pedagogue, questioning every boy in his turn.

One had a 'raging tooth;' another cholic; the third a cough; in short they all had something.

'Now, sirrah,' bellowed the doctor to the last boy, 'what disorder do you smoke for?'

Alas! all the excuses were exhausted; but the interrogated urchin, putting down his pipe, after a farewell whiff, and looking up in his master's face, said, in a whining, hypocritical tone, 'Sir, I smoke for corns.'

Young Men.

The most anxious moment in the history of a young man is that moment when he forsakes the parental roof, and goes forth into the wide world to seek a livelihood. The interests of life are crowded into that period. The tears of a mother, the counsel of a father, consecrate that eventful moment. Away from old associates and settled in some new home, how apt the former restraints are to be cast off! Trial of virtue now comes. The test of principle is now applied, If he hold fast his integrity the prayers of his father and mother rising oft when the still dews are falling, will bring blessings, thick as manna that fell round the camp of the elect nation, upon his path. But if he prove faithless, then will memory embitter his life, then will his parents welcome the grave, that they may hide their dishonor in the dust.

Womans Devotion.—A man who had struggled with a malignant disease, approached that crisis in its stage on which his life depended. Sleep, uninterrupted sleep, might ensure his recovery; his anxious wife scarcely daring to breathe, was sitting by his bed; her servants, exhausted by constant watching, had all left her: it was past midnight; a door was open for air; she heard in the stillness of the night, a window open below stairs, and soon a man with his face disguised, entered the room. She instantly saw her husband's danger. Anticipating the design of the unwelcome intruder, she pointed to her husband, and pressing her fingers upon her lip to implore silence, held out to the robber her purse and keys. To her surprise, he took neither. Whether he terrified or charmed by the conrage of affection cannot be known. He left the room, and without robbing a house sanctified by such strength of affection, he departed.

The following dialogue actually occurred between a clergyman and a small lad:

'Well, my lad, what's your name?'

'My father's name is W——'

'And where do you live?'

'I live with my father.'

'And where does your father live?

'He lives with mother.'

'And where does your mother live?,

'Oh! she lives where my father does.,

'You little rogue, where do you all live?'

'I know—we live at our house, when we are home.'

Why is a hub of a cart wheel like a handsome young lady? Because it's always surrounded by fellers.

Lippard's Letter to Gen. Taylor.

Philadelphia, May 22, 1849.

Will you pardon me if I make bold to say a few words with you in explanation of the reasons which induced me to support you for the office of President of the United States? These reasons may also give some idea of the motives which swayed hundreds of thousands of your fellow citizens.

I am no politician. I never yet asked for an office, and certainly shall not ask one at your hands. In speaking to you, I do not claim to any political influence. I am backed by no clique; I control no body of voters, I only speak to you as a citizen of the United States, having no influence beyond my vote, and the truth which I utter.

In the year 1847, while a member of the Democratic Association of the county of Philadelphia, I began the first of a series of four works upon the history of Mexico. That first book of the series was intended to comprise a history of your campaigns in Mexico. While writing that work, I became vividly impressed with the frankness, the iron common sense, the unswerving sincerity of your character. Sick of the warfare of parties, I looked to you as the man who had been called by Providence to put an end to the mercenary bitterness of this warfare, by assuming the position of Washington—not with parties, but in the hearts of the people.

And this idea of your character, embodied in the work to which reference is made, was diffused by its pages among a class of voters entirely distinct and separate from the whig party; a class of voters who; imbued with the progressive spirit of Christianity, are opposed to the principles of the whig party, as embodied in the history of the whig corporation of Philadelphia, and who are in favor of judicial and national reform—who advocate the freedom of the public domain and the right of labor to the harvest of its toil. This idea induced me to desert my party associations, break party lines and advocate Zachary Taylor as the candidate of the people.

In the month of April, 1848, your chances for the presidency were vague and uncertain. The whig politicians in Philadelphia—at least the most prominent of them all—fairly laughed at the mention of your name in connexion with that high office. When the Baltimore Convention assembled, it was the earnest hope of thousands of the democratic masses that you would receive the nomination at the hands of the representatives of the democratic party. This hope proved fruitless. But at the whig convention, assembled in Philadelphia in June, in 1848, party lines were finally broken; the very spirit and front of the whig party were crushed. Henry Clay, balloted for in the name of the whig party, failed to receive its votes, and Zachary Taylor nominated 'in the name of the people,' was presented to the people without any other platform than his independence from the spirit and tramels of party.

Doubtless, you have often had described to you the scenes which marked the history of the June convention—the dismay of the whig politicians of the veritable whig school—the curses, both loud and deep, with which they breathed your name—the three fold sacrafice of whig principles, whig platforms, and Henry Clay, at the feet of Zachary Taylor.

Nominated at this convention amid the ruins of whigism, and nominated in the name of the people, the whig party did not dare to claim you as a veritable whig, of the true whig stamp, until the 5th of July, 1848; when news came to Philadelphia that Hon. Bailie Peyton had, in New Orleans, solemnly endorsed you as a whig, and placed your feet somewhere amid the ruins of the demolished whig platform.

This statement gave inexpressible pain to thousands of your friends in Pensylvania. Well aware that you had not been nominated as the candidate of any party, certain that you could not by any chance be elected in the name or on the platform of the whig party, your friends—I speak of the masses, who loved you for yourself and for your independent position—received the statement of Mr. Peyton with an emotion that was not to be mistaken or evaded. They felt that either Mr. Peyton was in error, or that Zachary Taylor had falsified his often repeated pledges. Under the influence of this wide spread feeling I made bold to write and send to you the following letter. Its very promptness of style indicates the cincerity which impelled its composition:

Philadelphia, July 5, 1848.

General: Will you regard a word from a friend as impertinent or obtrusive? It is after a great deal of reluctance that I am induced to trouble you again; but having faith in you now, as I have had ever since I pledged what literary reputation I posess to you in my book—'The Legends of Mexico, or Battles of Taylor'—I make bold to say a frank word to the general of the people.

This is the case. With thousands of democrats in this State, I depend upon your declaration, 'that you would in no case be the President of a party, but the President of the people.' On this ground the democrats of Pensylvania will vote for you by hundreds and thousands.

But we are now told that you are exclusively the whig candidate, to run as a whig, elected as a whig, and under whig issues.

If this be the case, the State of Pensylvania will be lost to Taylor and the country.

I do not believe this to be the case. Those who think with me in this county do not believe it.—But to set the matter at rest, will you answer this letter with one line? and with that line the democratic hundred and thousands of Pensylvania will move in a body for you.

General, do not reject this appeal from a man who loves you for your battles, and the moral granduer displayed in them; but loves you, first and last because you have taken the position of Washington—not with parties, but in the hearts of the people.

And as for the line, says simply: 'I am still the candidate not of a party exclusively; but if a candidate at all, the candidate of the whole people.'

GEOGE LIPPARD.

Here, General, was the whole case, plainly stated in a line: You were here told that if the attempt was made to elect you as a whig, and upon whig issues, the State of Pensylvania would certainly be lost to Taylor, and the country. At that time, without thousands of democrats, I believe that your election as the candidate of the people would subserve the best interests of the country. And what was your reply to this letter, which appealed to the best feelings for your nature? On the 9th of August I received your answer, which I annex:

[Private.]

BATON ROGUE, (La.,) July 24, 1848.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 5th inst., asking of me a line or two in regard to my position as a candidate for the presidency has been duly received.

In reply, I have to say 'that I am NOT a party candidate,' and if elected, shall not 'be the President of a party, but the President of the whole people.'

I am dear sir with high respect and regard your most obedient servant.

Z. TAYLOR.

George Lippard, esq., Philadelpha, Pa.

This, you well remember, was after you had accepted the whig nomination, in a letter which said nothing at all about whig principles,

The publication of your letter of July 24 created a great excitement among the people and the politicians.

Whig papers in New York denounced it as a 'locofoco' forgery. The north American, in Philadelphia, (once the organ of Henry Clay, and now the northern organ of the Secretary of State,) seized upon the word 'Private,' and in weary columns assailed the person to whom the letter was addressed, as the betrayer of your confidence.—Other journals, however which circulated among the masses, hailed this letter with unqualified approval, and placed it at the head of their columns as 'the great creed and watchword of the Taylor party.

I must frankly tell you, that had you not made the declaration embraced in this letter, I, for one could not have advocated your election, nor given you my vote. Certain it is, that without this declaration (soon followed by your Charleston letter,) you could not have gained the vote of Pennsylvania, famous for her old democratic majority of 'twenty-five thousand.'

What was the result of this letter, and of the excitement immediately consequent upon its publication? The whig party in Pensylvania forthwith dropped the very name of whig They stored it away—perchance under the sepulchre of girads squandered bqeuest, made under the ruins of some broken bank—but you well know, and every reader of the papers knows, that in the late campaign the battle was fought, not under the name of Whig, but under the united names of 'Taylor and Filmore.'

The democrats were asked to vote for you as the independent candidate—the candidate of the people—as the man who had no friends to reward, no enemies to punish—in fact, as Zachary Taylor, who, in case of his election, would not be President of a party, but the President of the whole people.

And with your letter in my hand, I addressed thousands of my democratic fellow-citizens, and, on the security of your unbroken faith, stated that you could not, in any event, become the President, much less the creature, of a party. Upon your own solemn decalaration, I honestly advocated you as 'the President of the whole people.'

I did not for a moment indulge the thought that you could ever become the centre of a mere party administration. Had I been told, by you, that you would ever become the head of an administration made up of whig politicians, I could not, in any case have advocated your claims, nor would you have received the votes of a hundred democrats in Pensylvania.

Now, General, the smoke of the contest has cleared away. You are the President. Elected upon the faith of your solemn pledges, you are at the head of the government.

Have you fulfilled these pledges? Ask your own heart—call back that iron purposes, that clear-souled integrity, which bore you through the carnage of Buena Vista—survey the faces of your cabinet, and the faces of those partisans of your cabinet who now storm the White House for the spoils of office. Answer me! I have a right to ask an answer.—You pledge your faith to me, an humble citizen, and I believed you, and told my fellow-citizens that you had never broken your word, and could not forget to-morrow what pledged to-day.

Was that letter of July 24, which I bore through Pennsylvania, only a cunningly devised fable? Was it your intention to send me forth to the masses of the people with a lie in my mouth? To vouch for your 'independence of party' in October, in order to find you in May at the head of a mere cabal of a party? Did you make a dupe of me, so that I might become your agent in duping and swindling my fellow-citizens into the trammels of the whig party?

You know that the whig party of itself, or by its own issues, could never have accomplished your election. You know that the whig leaders, fresh from the slaughter of Henry Clay—of that man who has for twenty-four years sacrificed to whigism the best instinct which God implanted in his nature—could never have elevated you to the presidential chair.

You were elected by democratic votes. These votes were secured to you by the force of your independent position. They were not bought with silver, gold, or the hope of office, but won to you by your pledges.

And now, sir, you will allow me to ask you one or two questions:

In what party of your administration are these democratic votes represented?

Among the army of office-hunters who now besiege the doors of the White House, how many of your democratic supporters can you discover?

Sir, the truth must be told; and as I supported you earnestly and sincerely, I will speak the truth with most uncourtly frankness.

Your election has been fruitful only in discontent and dissatisfaction. Elected in the name of the people, you are surrounded by advisers chosen not even from the manhood of the whig party, but from its veriest hacks and trimmers. These advisers seek to entail upon the country, on a colossal, scale, a system of error and misrule such as disgraced the age in the shameless expenditure of the Girard bequest, by the whig corporation of Philadelphia.

Had you been elected as a whig, and upon the strength of any known whig creed, I would not complain. Is it not a painful thought that you, the man of the people, should sit there in Washington as the leader of the mere fragment of a party—as the embodiment not of a whigism like that of Henry Clay, which states its principles and fights its battles in the sun, but of a whigism which works in darkness, gathers strength by unholy coalitions, and builds its power upon broken pledges?

And now, sir, as I wash my hands of the last traces of political Taylorism, as I state my regret that I ever acted the part of which your pledges made me act you at at least must admit that I never served you with the hope of office—that I have always been among that humble band who, working well and long for you, under the impression that they also worked for the good of their country, could neither ask nor accept office at your hands; for those hands which were free at Buena Vista—free in the late campaign—are now tied by the trammels which have been fashioned from the very ruins of the whig party.

GEORGE LIPPARD.

To President ZACHARY TAYLOR.

Cholera.

The Cholera is making some progress among us, though less than might have been reasonably feared. In 1832 it came upon us with a rush; in 1834 with diminished violence; and this year, so far as it has been developed with a still further abatement of its original ferocity.—Twenty-five cases a day, and eight or ten deaths, in a population of four hundred thousand, is a very small percentage indeed; and our aggregate weekly bills of mortality are less than usual at this season of the year. Moreover it will be seen by the following schedule, that since the appearance of Cholera among us, the aggregate number of deaths from all diseases, Cholera included, has been diminished.

	Deaths by Cholera.	Total Deaths.	Decrease pr week
Week ending May 12.	–0	326
" " " 19.	– 1	323	3
" " " 26.	–13	294	29
" " June 2	–29	270	24
Less last week than week ending May 12th,			56

Another encouraging fact is, that there is no pervading Cholera influence among the people, as there was in 1832, and partially also in 1834. This affords ground to hope that the disease will not become epidemic.—Jour. of Com.

☞ The following outrageous attempt we clip from an exchange. It was suggested to the imp who perpetrated it by the marriage of Mr. Israel Satan to Miss Grace Parlor:—

Mankind are free, peace shall abound,
Since Grace by Satan has been found—
And in full proof that peace is meant,
Israel by Grace has pitch'd his tent;
No more in desert wild he'll roam,
He's got a Parlor for his home!

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, June 7, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

We trust the People, the honest hard working farmers, laboring men, and mechanic's, the men by the sweat of whose brows our country has attained her proud and enviable station among the nations of the earth; will attentively and candidly read the letter of Geo. Lippard to Zachary Taylor, commencing on the first page of our paper. We think that all such men, who have only the interest of their country at heart, and who are not seeking after petty Post Office appointments, and care not by whom they are held, provided it is in accordance with the previous declarations, unsolicited, of the candidate and party by whom they were made, and upon which it was said they would be dispensed, and if to the true interests of the country; we think that all such must agree with us in condemnation of the course of Gen. Taylor. Certainly all honest men, to whatever party they may have belonged, who have the equal and just rights of all men at heart, and whose interests are identified with the interests and liberty of their country, who were induced to vote for Gen. Taylor on the ground upon which only he declared he could be induced to serve his country, as he solemnly declared in his letters to different, prominent men, as also to Geo. Lippard, and upon his acceptance of the Philadelphia nomination; in his inaugural address, and throughout the canvass by the various parties by whom he was supported, and more especially by the whig party throughout the Union; we say that all those who care nothing for office, or by whom they are held, so that the country is honestly and faithfully served, will agree with us in opinion, that the manner in which Gen. Taylor has made and is making his appointments and removals from office, is a despicable subterfuge of the pledges by which alone he gained the presidential chair; and by all honest men must be viewed as a precise parallel to that of a man who should be caught with a sheep on his back not his own.

What are the facts of the case, simply that the whigs knowing (for know they certainly did, having made repeated trials to elect Henry Clay as the great embodyment of whig principles) that they could not elect a man on the openly and honestly avowed principles of their party, took that ignoble (sheep stealing) course, making no declaration of principles, but declaring to the people that Gen. Taylor was not a party man, that party spirit, as all were willing to admit, had exceeded the bounds of reason and common sense, and moreover that he was in favor of the Wilmot Proviso; thousands of democrats throughout the country, in Ohio, New-York, and particularly in Pensylvania, by the representation of Geo. Lippard, he having it under Gen. Taylor's own handwriting, 'that I am NOT a party candidate' and if elected, shall not 'be the president of a party, but the president of the people,' took the stump in his behalf, and through his representations of these facts, with Gen. Taylor's letter in his hand, he being widely known as the historian of Gen. Taylor's campaigns in Mexico, and as a firm democrat, were induced to cast their votes for Gen. Taylor.

We call upon all the above named classes, petty office seekers alone excepted, (who if they had any souls, would never accept office without its being gained by the trinmph of their principles, but having no souls, nor principles would fawningly accept it of the d——l, if fawning sycophancy could obtain it) to candidly and conscientiously as it is their interest to do, reflect, review, the course of Gen. Taylor and the whig party, who have gained power as they ever have done only by intrigue and fraud.

☞ If you are in want of a fashionable and substantial Carriage, Farm Wagon, or any thing in the Wheelwright or Blacksmithing line, we do not know where you will obtain them better than of Mr. J. B. Brown and Mr. Wm. Reed two industrious young men, who in their particular branches are excelled by none, and are entitled to the patronage of the public. Read their advertisments.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

Our readers as well as ourselves, have doubtless been pleasantly entertained and morally instructed by the agreeable and interesting sketches of J. C. A. The Mountain and Valley adjacent to our Village are interesting, not only for their wild and beautiful scenery, and most splendid prospect from the Montain's top, but for the important events associated with their history; the present sketch is not a fancy picture as many of our citizens know, having heard from their fathers perhaps this and similar naratives connected with the times and place to which it refers. May the author of these sketches long live and kindly favor us with more of a similar character.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

[CONCLUDED.]

The day following the burial of the young couple was appointed for the trial of Morse, who had been the cause of so much sorrow. I need hardly say that the murder of Johnson, followed by the fearful death of Isabella—caused by witnessing the dying agonies of him she loved so devotedly—had created a great excitement in that section The fathers of the victims were well known as firm friends of the country; while the young pair, who had been so suddenly cut off in life's bright morning, were beloved by all who knew them. Johnson, although as brave as a lion when the occasion required courage, was of a mild and gentle disposition, and was ever ready to do a good act. Isabella, while naturally fond of retirement and study, was always willing to minister at the bedside of the sick and dying; and the blessing of those who were ready to perish had often been hers. No hand was more active, or heart more in earnest in promoting the happiness of others. We need not wonder, therefore, that their loss should be deeply felt; and that speedy and stern justice should be demanded against the assassin. The times would not admit of delay; the country was convulsed with the efforts of those who sought to rivit chains on a people determined to be free; while, on the other hand, nothing was left undone to chastise as they deserved the foes who sought to overthrow the hearthstones and alters of an industrious and happy people.

I have not yet said anything concerning the character of Morse, except that he was a tory. He was a young man of dissipated habits, and for two or three years had resided near Green-Brook; his professed employments being fishing and hunting—his real ones, gambling and other improper pursuits. It had been hinted, with every appearance of truth, that he had more than once stopped travelers on the highway, and relieved them of the trouble of taking care of their purses.

At the time of the murder, Morse's character was so bad that he could find few associates except those who were as bad, if that were possible, as himself. He first became acquainted with Johnson at a barn-raising; and in a conversation at the supper table after the labors of the day, he took occasion to make some remarks on the prospect of trouble between the colonies and the mother country, in which he declared that the colonies were alone to blame, and hoped they might be kept in subjection. Johnson replied with some spirit, and expressed the opinion that any one who would not stand by his country was unfit to be the companion or associate of those who mean to live free, or die with arms in their hands. This answer gave offence to Morse, and it was only because he was aware that his opinion was not popular, that he managed to keep his temper tolerably well. It is very probable, however, that he then consoled himself with the reflection, that on the first convenient opportunity he would be revenged on Johnson.

The trial of Morse took place in a building, which stood close to the burial ground. This edifice was used as a place of worship, and also as a school house. The reader must not infer that because I have used the word trial, that it was conducted as murder cases are in our own times. There was no regularly constituted court; and if there had been, so exasperated were the friends of the victims, that it is hardly probable they would have abided the laws delay. I trust, however, that no one will come to the hasty conclusion that the prisoner did not have fair play. On the assembling of the people, an old gentleman named Lossing was chosen to conduct the trial. After alluding to the melancholy scene of the previous day—the burial of the young people—which he did in a becoming manner, he continued, "Our business now is to inquire whether John Johnson came to his death by the act of the prisoner, Anthony Morse, and if so what shall be his punishment? In the name of God I charge you to judge justly; be not warped in your judgment by prejudice; banish all your passions; seek only to ascertain the truth; and let the verdict—whether for or against the prisoner—be one that shall not shame you when the Just One shall summon you to his tribunal."

It is not my intention to enter into the details of the trial. The proceedings, though not according to modern form, were conducted with great decorum, and every reasonable chance was given to the prisoner to defend himself, and, if possible, prove his innocence. He, however, appeared before his judges with a reckless disregard of the important issues at stake. Once only, when a witness alluded to the death of the prisoner's mother—which it was asserted was caused by a broken heart, in consequence of his dissolute life did he appear the least concerned; he merely buried his face in his hands for a few moments, and then assumed his former indifference.

The sentence of the court was heard by the prisoner without causing him to exhibit any emotion; he had been of the impression from the moment of his arrest that his life would pay the penalty of his crime.

Ten days had passed away since the trial. The people had returned to their ordinary avocations, and—so quickly do we forget the friends and neighbors whose remains we commit to the silent tomb—everything appeared to go on as though nothing unusual had occurred. The parents of the victims, however, had been too deeply shocked to moderate their grief. They sat with their heads bowed down, while loud moans and sobs gave evidence of the fearful sorrow which filled their bosoms. I once beheld the grief of a mother whose son had been struck down in a moment; and I pray that it may never be my lot again to witness such a heart-rending scene.

. . . . . The day is a lovely one. The woods are clothed with their richest foliage; the meadows, recently watered with fruitful showers, give evidence that the cattle and sheep which you may see on every cleared spot on the mountain's side, will be provided for during the storms of the coming winter; the fields of grain wave their golden heads in the morning breeze; the flowers give out their richest fragrance; and the birds warble their hymns of praise to the Creator of all these beautiful objects.

Within ten years there was standing—and for aught I know still stands—at the foot of the mountain, about half a mile to the eastward of the old burial ground, a majestic white oak—which, even previous to the revolution, had braved the storms of more than an hundred winters.

On the morning of which I speak there was a large multitude of people assembled in the immediate vicinity of this monarch of the forest. The occasion is evidently one of great interest, for here are loads of people who have travelled for the last forty-eight hours that they might be present at this hour.

It is astonishing how rapidly certain events will become known. Is a murder committed, for instance; or does a man, who for years has been known as a good citizen, but finally perhaps is impelled by the sufferings of a starving family to take a sheep from his neighbors flock—or, what in the eyes of the world is nearly as bad, apply to the town for aid—and all the good acts which the man may have performed during a lifetime shall be suddenly forgotten by all who knew him; and the one fault—or misfortune—of his life shall occupy their minds instead.

. . . . The multitude have become suddenly excited, and crowd around the foot of the oak. Some event, which they have evidently been waiting for, and to witness which some of them have journeyed many weary miles, is about to take place. Here are not only robust men, but gentle maidens, and even young children, all striving to approach a wagon which has stopped under a large limb of the oak which stretches across the road. A solemn silence prevades the assemblage. Perhaps, as was customary in those days, some herald of the cross was about to proclaim that the gospel which teaches "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father in heaven . . . .

A young man in the wagon is supported on his feet by a couple of his companions; a cord, which till now had been concealed in the branches, is slipped over his head; the wagon is driven forward, and Anthony Morse, the murderer—for he it was—is suspended in the air!

. . . . The sun continued to shine as brightly as ever, the birds still poured out their richest notes, the cattle quietly grazed on the mountain's side, all unconscious of the agony that a human being was then suffering. But here were hundreds of his fellow-men quietly gazing on his death throes. Each one of this vast assemblage—who were not heathen but Christians—were capable of suffering the same pains and partaking of the same pleasures; they were children of the same heavenly Parent; all would finally be summoned to the same judgment seat; and to whom the Judge had alike spoken, "THOU shalt not kill." And yet, with this injunction fresh in their minds, they were taken away a life which they had not given, and which—were it ever so desirable to do so—they could not restore!—Among those who had traveled far to witness the dying agonies of a fellow mortal, were men who would have shuddered at the bare idea of shooting a worthless dog, or taking the life of a domestic animal even when required for food; mothers where there, with hearts so tender that they would rebuke a child for disturbing a bird's nest; and blooming maidens, whose sensibilities would not permit them to look on blood without fainting. What inconsistent creatures we are!

. . . . Almost at the summit of the mountain, about ten yards from the left hand side as you ascend the road leading from the valley, and about half a mile from the dwelling formerly belonging to William D. Stewart, Esq. is—or was the last time I passed the spot about six years since—a large stone projecting some five feet above the surface of the ground. Here the remains of Anthony Morse repose in peace.

His spirits above who shall describe? Though he had been guilty of great crimes, who shall say that in the solitude of his cell, or at the foot of the oak, that he did not repent and find pardon? Let us charitably believe that his pious mother's prapers were not in vain.

J. C. A.

The Crevase---Destructive Fire.

CHARLESTON, June 2d

The Southern mail has arrived with dates from New Orleans to the 28th ult. The water was stationary, and the river falling. There was a fair prospect of stopping the great crevasse at Suave's in the course of a few days.

At Mobile, on the morning of the 27th, there were four stores destroyed by fire, including the clothing store of Stanton & Bros. in Dauphin street, Strictland's Book store, Raymond's Hat store, and the store of Pollaad & Edward. The loss is not Short of $60,000; insured for $35,000. Several persons were seriously injured by the falling timbers, &c,—Messrs. Taylor, Clark and D. L. Hommedeiu, dangerously so.

Presentment of the Grand Jury---Indictment of the Pilot of the "Empire."

The Grand Jury of the U. S. District Court yesterday morning made a Presentment relative to the Empire, and the subject of Steamboat Navigation generally. It will be seen that they reccommend a diminished degree of speed at night; that persons be excluded from the Pilot-house on account of their presence distracting the attention of the Pilot; that a better night-watch be instituted; that the Captains of such steamers should be practically experienced in steam navigation; and other improvements.

The Grand Jury have found a bill of indictment against the pilot of the Empire.

CHOLERA PRESCRIPTION.—In our paper of Wednesday we reccommended a prescription for those who desire to keep medicine at hand, to be used in the preliminary stages, and before the arrival of a regular physician.—We have since heard this remedy more highly spoken of. Several physicians have advised that the quantity of brandy be diminished in solution to the other ingredients, viz:

1-4 ounce of Gum Guiacum.
1-2 ounce of ground Cloves.
1-2 ounce of Cinnamon.
1 pint of best Brandy.

Dose, a tea to table spoonful, each half hour till disease arrested.

Some recommend five to ten drops of Laudanum to be mixed with each dose.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Why is a fiddle like a handsome young lady? Because it ain't no use without a bow—(beau.)

The wars of Europe.

The Niagara brings us another week's development of the great struggle with which the heart of Europe is now shaken, but very few indications by which we may find a way through the entanglement of Continental politics, to build any safe estimate of the Future. All is still in the first heated ferment of insurrection and opposition to the spirit of Reaction which has so stealthily dogged the heels of the revolution since its birth behind the barricades of February. The riots which are continually breaking out in all parts of Italy and Germany are the disjointed expressions of this feeling, which has not yet, as at Rome and in Hungary, been brought under the support and guidance of some leading political principle. It is impossible yet to foresee what form this vast and threatening movement will take, or when the hour of its inevitable outbreak will arrive.

The Election have passed over in France more quietly than was anticipated. The complexion of the new National Assembly, so far as we can judge from the imperfect returns, will not differ greatly from that of the old one, and the general policy of the Government will therefore remain as heretofore. Odilin Barrot's attempt to explain the mission of Gen. Oudinot at Rome is no clearer, in view of the actual facts, than is the right or France to invade the Roman territory. All attempts to justify the act, have only added to the disgrace which it has already brought upon France.

Meanwhile, the Roman people, with a desperate valor, to which even their enemies cannot avoid doing honor, have signally defeated the army of Naples, and now calmly await, in their ruined though not fallen Capital, the attack of the armies of France, Spain, Naples and Austria.—There is an indomitable spirit of resistance in this—an energy acting almost against hope—which Italy has not witnessed for centuries. If the partial light which the last two years have shed on Rome, can thus elevate the slaves of her Hierarchy into the heroes of her republic, what may she not become when the long and terrible struggle is over and the birthright of her children to is secured to them forever!

The hungarians, who have, as it were, given a new soul to Republican Europe, fellow victory by victory. The dispatch gives us no particulars of their last successes, but the exciting rumor of their approach to Vienna would seem to indicate the retreat or overthrow of the remaining Austrian troops on the Danube. The opposition of France to Russian interference seems to be settled at last and if it be seriously carried out, the future independence of Hungary is scarcely a matter of doubt.

Germany is enveloped in the fog of another proposition for National Unity. We see nothing but trouble and confusion here. The new plan is less practicable than the old one, and will be less acceptable to the mass of the German People. Perhaps a general European War will settle the matter before it is accomplished in any other way.—N. Y. Tribune.

HINTS TO YOUNG MEN.—Alwas have a book within your reach, which you may catch up at your odd minutes. Resolve to edge in a little reading every day, if it is but a single sentence. If you can give fifteen minutes a day, it will be felt at the year. Regulate your thoughts when not at study. A man is thinking even while at work. Why may he not be thinking about something that is useful? Resolve in your mind what you have last been reading.

When is a baby like cannibal? When it eats its 'pap'

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM;
OR
LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc. etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No. 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

Editors of newspapers giving the above one or more insertions, (including this notice,) and sending a copy of their paper, marked, to the publishers, shall have a complete copy of the work sent them by return of mail.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia.

MARRIED.

On Tuesday Evening June 5th. by Rev. S. J. Drake, Mr. ALBERT D. DRAKE, of Elizabethtown, to Miss MARTHA L. SHEPPARD of Plainfield.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday June 6.

FLOUR	$4 75 a 5 37
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 2 90
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	1 00 a 1 25
CORN	60 a 63
OATS	33 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 10 a 1 15
CORN " do	61 a 62
OATS " do	31 a —
RYE " do	54 a 58
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a 16
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	11

WM. HOWARD,
Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,
Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

Job Printing
Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

WILL be sold at Puhlic Auction on THURSDAY, 14th inst. 40 Acres of good Chestnut, Hickory, and Oak Timber and Wood, in about one acre lots or larger if prefered, on land formerly belonging to Charles Toms, about 2 miles from Bound Brook and the same from Sebring's Mill's, easy of access, and considered the best chance for Post and Rails there is in this part of the country. Sale positive rain or shine, to commence at 1 o'clock P. M. Gentlemen please be punctual to the hour, and I will not detain you long; Conditions and attendance by

STEPHEN VAIL.

June 6. 1849.

CARRIAGE MAKING,
AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street formerly occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

CHEAP
AS
THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress an frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim. "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality "	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY
STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.

JESSE BALDWIN,
Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.

Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:

100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.

Also, a full assortment of

Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,

Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25.

A. WILCOX,
MARBLE MANUFACTORY,
142 Market Street Newark,
NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.
Dealers in every description of
DRY GOODS.
290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and thier goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.

☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

NEW STORE.
BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
MERCHANT TAILORS,
And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.
No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CHEAP MILLINERY.

MRS. CORIELL,

WOULD RESPECTFULLY Invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to examine her assortment of

FASHIONABLE BONNETS,

CONSISTING OF

JENNY LYND, RIBBON SHIRS,
FRENCH LACES, PORCUPINE,
AND PAMELIA HATS,

Together with a select assortment of Dress Caps, Trimmings of all patterns, also, Thread Laces, Artificial Flowers, and Fancy Goods, at her old stand next door to Tittsworth & Duchers Tin and Stove Factory.

N. B. Bonnets cleaned and trimmed at short notice,

☞ Cheap for Cash. ☜

Plainfield, April 25. 1849. [24.

NEW MILLINERY.

MRS. R. ROCAP, & CO.

HAVING OPENED A

FASHIONABLE MILLNERY

IN Front street, next door to Tittsworth, Dunn & Co. Store, would invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to call and examine their large assortment of

SILK AND STRAW BONNETS,

with every variety of trimmings of the latest City style.

Also the dressing of old hats will be promptly attended to.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849

WATCHES, CLOCKS,
AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCKES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c.,

A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c. together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849. [27

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

JUST RECEIVED,

BY the subscriber in addition to his new stock, a new assortment of dry goods of the various fashionable stiles, such as Bareges, Linen Ginghams, Prints, &c. Also the newest and best styles of Crockery and Glass ware.

All kinds of Hardware constantly on hand and got to order together with the best assortment of Groceries that can be produced. Also, Pork, Hams, Fish, Lard, Fresh Butter, and a variety of other articles to numerous to name. Gentlemen and Ladies please favor me with a call, and examine for yourselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

WHERE they are constantly receiving, in addition to their former Large Stock of House-Keeping articles, fresh supplies of Goods in their line, by Importation and from Auction, of the latest and most approved style and pattern.

CARPETING. Brussels, three ply, double superfine, superfine and fine Ingrain, Venetian, Hall and Stair Carpeting; also Hemp, List and Rag do; Figured, Drugget and Green Baize, Plain and Check Matting, Fine Embossed and Plain Piano and Table Covers; Fine Chenelle Patent, Tufted and Brussels Hearth Rugs.

Window Blinds and Transparencies of all kinds. Brass and Silver Stair Rods. Crockery, China and Earthen Ware, Cut and Plain Glass, Brittannia Ware, Table Cutlery, Willow, Wooden & Hollow Ware.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do., and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS, Jr.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [28.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply o goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

LETTER FROM

REV. DR. C. H. O. COTE

TO

KIRWIN, (REV. DR. MURRAY,)

On the the subject of Christian Baptism for sale at this Office at 6 1-4cts. pr copy.

ALSO, A sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. TURTON, pastor of the Baptist Church at Elizabethtown, N. J. in reply to Kirwin's, (Rev. Dr. Murray's) charges against the Baptist, for sale at this Offiee at 10 cts. a copy.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau-st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better: because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties, and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part.

But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding, and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrofula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, or deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week,

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

FURNITURE AND CHAIR WAREHOUSE,

Mattrasses, Looking Glasses, &c.

301 and 303 Broad-st. Newark.

JOHN JELLIFF,

MANUFACTURER of ancient and modern styles of fashionable furniture and chairs, the largest assortment in Newark, and the cheapest.

New Spring Patterns.

Every description of rosewood, mahogany, walnut furniture for the parlor, library, dining room, sitting room and chamber, in suites or otherwise, kitchen furniture, counting house desks, hair moss and straw mattrasses, looking glasses, &c. all of his own manufacture and warranted good.

Look out for stool pigeons, or you will be decoyed by large prices charged for a poor article and falling to what is called below cost or selling one piece less than cost and getting double price on others. Mr. J. has a very large stock of that very cheap work of all kinds, which will be sold at very low prices, without misrepresentation, showing the difference between the poor and good. Call and see. Hotels, saloons, &c. furnished at short notice. [24.

FOR SALE,

A GOOD one horse WAGON. Also a set of single Harness, will be sold cheap for cash. Enquire at this office.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan. 10. 1849.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap by D. BULLMAN.

April 25 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1849. | NO. 26.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Qnaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspaper publication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga, Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for 'Lippard's Washington' and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from 'Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

All of Lippard's works for sale here

From Neal's Saturday Gazette.

NO LIGHT.

The night is passed—the day appears;
  Uplift the window now,
And let the cooling breath of morn
  Refresh that fevered brow.
A mother watches by the bed,
  The bedside of her boy;
The richest blessing God has loaned—
  Her light—her life—her joy!
Long weeks have passed in that still room,
  All darkened from the day;
And she has kept unwearied watch,
  While her fond idol lay,
Sore-stricken of his God—the light
  Of those bright beaming eyes,
Extinguished by a careless touch,
  No gleam of light descries.
And ever as the restless boy
  Is tossing to and fro,
He breathes into his mothers ear,
  In moaning soft and low:
"Dear mother, take me in your arms—
  Oh, let me feel you near,
For when your breath is on my brow,
  I know that you are here.
I tire of this dark, silent room—
  I'm weary, and in pain,
Oh, tell me, dearest mother, mine,
  Shall I ne'er see again?
I well remember, how the sun
  Came glancing o'er the hill—
He dried the dew upon the grass;
  The flowers grew brighter still,
Beneath the kindling of his eye,
  And lifting up their heads,
He kissed the dew-drops from their face,
  Ere they had left their beds.
The chestnut-tree upon the lawn,
  Beneath whose cooling shade,
In each swift-speeding year of life,
  A merry child I played:
And when the frosts of Autumn came—
  The nut came dropping out,
And from their burrs I gathered them,
  Then hasted with a shout,
To throw them in your lap, mother;
  And oh, what real bliss!
You praised me for my diligence,
  And paid me with a kiss.
Mother! you will be honest now,
  Oh, tell me—is it true?
Shall I ne'er see that old tree more,
  Or gather nuts for you?"
"My child, we trust that God will help
  The efforts we have made;
We hope that you will see again,
  The sunlight and the shade;
This very day the surgeon takes
  The bandage from your eyes,
And you must very quiet be,
  Nor let vain hopes arise:
He has done all that mortal could,
  The daylight to restore,
And if this day you cannot see,
  You will not know light more."
"Dear mother, I am very still;
  When will the doctor come?
I long to see your face, mother,
  And the dear things of home.
I hear him coming up the lane—
  Oh, list his welceme voice,—
Methinks it bids us all, this morn,
  Most heartily rejoice."
"My child you must not tremble so—
  Oh, still that throbbing heart!
Perchance our hopes are all in vain—
  My dear one—do not start!
Be firmer than your mother, boy,
  Be very calm and brave;
Remember, it is God alone
  Who has the power to save."
"Yes, mother, I will braver be,
  Than e'en the heroes hold
We read of in the history,
  Who lived in times of old;
I'll still my very heart, mother,
  And if 'tis God's command,
That I shall never see again,
  I'll bow reneath his hand."
They took the bandage from his eyes,—
  Those brilliant orbs of sight;
One piercing cry escaped his lips—
  "Oh, God! there is no Light!
My mother, oh, my mother, dear,
  Our longings,—they are vain!
'Tis bitter darkness, all—mother!
  I shall not see again."
The mother, while her stricken heart
  Is bleeding in despair,
Sinks deep in wo, and wildly cries;
  "Oh, God, in mercy spare!
Take all—take every cherished thing:
  My dearest earthly toy!
Yet do not doom to living night,
  My only darling boy!
My Farther holy Farther, hear!
  If all things bright and fair,
No more shall shed their light for him,
  Oh, give him strength to bear."
The child is rising on his arm,
  He lists his mother's moan,
And softly from his bed he creeps,
  His arms are round her thrown.
"Dear mother, I am with you yet—
  This world is not all dark;
I feel your lip upon my cheek,
  And listen, mother,—hark!
It is the warbling song of birds,
  Their morning song of praise;
I still can hear them sweetly sing—
  I'm grateful for their lays.
Although I cannot see their hue,
  The flowers the perfume give,
And seem like angels whispering good,
  And bid me joy to live.
The strengthening food your hand prepares,
  Doth yield its richest taste,
And since my God hath blest me thus,
  My breath I will not waste
In murmurs for the sight, which He
  In sovereign-right denies;
I'll bless Him for the senses left,
  Though darkness veils my eyes.
Dear mother, kiss your darling boy;
  I'm happy, thoug I'm blind:—
This world is very dark without,—
  But then, I will not mind;
You'll guide me through its darksome ways,
  And I shall love you more;
Far more than you can think, mother!
  I ever loved before."
Oh, were not these high words, which fell
  From that poor sightless child?
More nobly breve that hero bold,
  Who hears the war-shout wild:
He bows in meekness to the blow,--
  This blow, his God has given—
Oh, angel-child, of such as thee—
  Of such as thee—is heaven!

A Cork Leg made and (a Parson) sold.

There is an old gentleman residing in our little city, who though in all else considered perfect, has unfortunately contracted that no doubt pleasant, but very unpopular, habit of 'killing sperits,' which he hangs on to with a pertinacity really surprising.

The gentleman aforesaid, whom we shall designate 'old Stamper,' when his still-house gets to smoking—that is, when he gets about half drunk—has a 'wery pecooliar' twist to one of his legs—in fact, one of the most complicated bends that was ever witnessed—which gives him a walk peculiar to himself alone.

Well, as I was going on to state, old Stamper came stamping down the street, the other day, with about a quart under his jacket, when H——, a notorious wag, was sitting on a corner, in conversation with a certain Rev. gentleman and being, of course, always on the qui vive for an opportunity to 'sell' some one, now had a glorious chance by the Rev. gentleman observing the peculiarity of old Stamper's walk.

'Yes,' replied H——, 'it is the best job I ever saw or heard of.'

'Which job?' eagerly enquired the parson.

'Why, old stamper's leg.'

'Well, what about his leg?'

'Nothing, only it is the best cork leg I ever examined,' said H——.

You don't pretend to say that old Stamper's leg is artificial?' said the now throughly excited parson.

'Certainly! I thought every one knew that his leg was an artifiicial one!' replied H——, with the most serious air.

'Is it possible! exclaimed the parson, as he started off after old Stamper, who had wabbled some distance from them.

'Splendid job!' he ejaculatd at every step, stopping every acquaintance, and descanting upon the great wonders of art, especially in the way of manufacturing cork legs. Finally, he came up with the owner of the admired 'peregrinator,' and after some hesitation and several 'hems,' expressed a very modest desire to see his leg.

'My leg, sir what do you mean?' cried old Stamper, in an ill-natured tone.

'I ask your pardon, sir, but it is really such a good job that I made bold to ask to see and examine it,' said the parson, who was perfectly struck with it.

'I'll job you sir! you scoundrel!' now screamed old Stamper, perfectly infuriated.

'I'll let you see, examine, and feel it too!' and, suiting the action to the word, hoisted the reverend gentleman clear out of his boots, with his 'good job' cork leg.

The parson raised himself, and being satisfied at having made two very important discoveries at the same time, viz: that old Stamper's leg was not artificial, and that he had been most completely gulled took 'one last fond look' at the celebrated 'good job cork leg,' and vamosed.

It is a dangerous undertaking to mention anything concerning cork legs in presence of the parson now. He has stopped his only newspaper because it contained an advertisement of Cork Legs.

A gentlemen went to board at his house the other day (the parson keeps a boarding house,) who walked a little lame, which the parson taking notice of, inquired the cause.

'Nothing much,' said the boarder, who really had a cork leg, which was indeed a 'splendid job,' and would scarcely be detected.

'Well but tell me, I'll keep dark,' begged the parson.

'Well, if you must know, I have but one leg.'

'One leg!—how do you manage so well?'

'Well, I've got a cork leg, which'——

'Get out of my house you rascal! Do you mean to insult me in my own house?' cried the maddened parson; at the same time kicking the proprietor of that individual cork leg out of doors. 'You Joe, bring me my gun; I'll shoot that fellow H—— before dark.'

Montgomery, Ala.,

How Dave Harris was bit----But not by a Rattlesnake.

Anybody that's lived in Galveston Bay, could tell you who Dave Harris war. I recon he won't disremember his first survayin expedishun in a hurry.—He war as green a man as iver you see catched, but he allowed he wer all fired knowin—one of them 'too smart' ones I preached about a smart piece ago. Dave war a little thirsty Yankee, that looked jest 'sif he'd been fotched up on dried codfish tails he wor so thin and dry. You'd have laffed eff you cold hev seen his rig fur his expedish un; he had more blankets and riggin than would have sarved out a dozen, and his saddle war hung around him with coffee-pots and tin cups, tell it looked jest like a tin pedler's waggin a horseback, and as fur spurs, he'd mounted the biggest par I ever see, good six inches across the rowell. The first night we camped out war on Clark Creek whar he'd made his location.—Our horses war staked out, and we war a settin round the fire, on the ground, a tellin big snake stories for Dave's edification, when all ov a sudden up he jumpt gin a most onearthly yell, and then keeled up.

'Oh, Lord!' says he, 'oh, Lord!! oh Lord!!!'

'Why, what's the matter, Dave?' says I.

'Oh' Lord! I'm a dead man; tear out my hat linen and guv me a chunk of coal, I want to make my will directly. Oh, Lord! oh, Lord, that I should have quit the place whar I lived to hum down East to cum out here and be killed by a rattlesnake!'

'A rattlesnake?' ses I. 'Hurrah boys! hunt him up! arter him, or else some ov the rest on us'l catch it!'

Well, we stirred up the fire tell it gave a powerfully bright light, and hunted all around but couldn't see no sign ov anything like a snake, so we give it up, and all hands went to see Dave. He said he war bit war he sat on, and we inspected putty close, but couldn't find notin serus—thar wasn't any swellin nor nothin ov that sort to speak on, and finally he got more docious, and gin that he warnt a goin to make a die ov it that time, but he swar it war a snake bit him, only he reckoned he'd jumpt up so mighty spry that the varmint hadn't time to get the pisen in. He come up to the fire again and dropped on his knees (which war the way he'd been a settin afore.) then he sunk down tell the biggest part ov him lit on his heels and the minit it did, up he jumped again and yelled out—

'Snake! snake!! snake!!!

'Shet up,' says I, 'you dog-on, no-account, crittter, ef you can't tell a durn fool par of spurs from a rattlesnake, ye'd best stayed to hum and sent your old woman a land-huntin.'

Death not a Painful Process.

BY CHARLES KNOWLTON, M. D.

We think that most persons have been led to regard dying as a much more painful change than it generally is; first, because they have found by what they experienced in themselves and experienced in others, that sentient beings often struggle when in distress. But we may remark, that struggles are very far from being invariable signs of distress; muscular action and consciousness are two distinct things, often existing separately; and we have abundant reason to believe that in a great proportion of cases those struggles of a dying man which are so distressing to behold, are as entirely independent of consciousness as the struggles of a recently decapitated fowl. A second reason why men are led to regard dying as a very painful change, is, because men often endure great pain without dying, and forgetting that like causes produce like effects only under similar circumstances, they infer that life cannot be destroyed without still greater pain. But the pains of death are much less than most persons have been led to believe, and we doubt not that many persons who live to the age of puberty, understand correct views concerning the change. In all cases of dying, the individual suffers no pain after the sensibility of his nervous system is destroyed, which is often without much and sometimes without any previous pain. Those who are struck dead by a stroke of lightning, those who are decapitated with one blow of the axe, and those who are instantly destroyed by a crush, experienced no pain at all in passing from a state of life to a dead state. One moment's expectation of being thus destroyed far exceeds in misery the pain during the act. Those who faint in having a little blood taken from the arm, or on any other occasion, have already endured all the misery they ever would, did they not again revive. Those who die of fevers, and most other diseases suffer their greatest pain, as a general thing, hours, or even days before they expire. The sensibility of the nervous system becomes gradually diminished; their pain becomes less and less acute under the same existing cause; and at the moment when their friends think them in the greatest distress, they are more at ease than they have been for many days previous; their disease, as far as respects their feelings, begins to act upon them like opiate. Indeed, many are already dead as it respects themselves, when ignorant bystanders are much the most to be pitied, not for the loss of their friend, but for their sympathizing anguish.

'DISMISS THAT HOG.'—Judge Dooley, of Georgia, was remarkable for his wit, as well as for other talents. At one place where he attended court, he was not well pleased with his entertainment at the tavern. On the first day of his arrival, a hog—under the name of pig—had been cooked whole and laid on the table. No person attacked it. It was brought the next day, and the next, and treated with the same respect, and it was on the table the day the Court adjourned. As the party finished dinner, Judge Dooly rose from the table, and in a solemn manner addressed the clerk: 'Mr. Clerk,' said he, 'dismiss that hog upon his recognizance until the first day of the next Court. He has attended so faithfully during the present term, that I don't think it will be necessary to take any security.'

'I wonder this child don't go to sleep,' said an angry mother to a female friend. 'Well I don't,' replied the lady, 'it's face is so dirty it can't shut its eyes; why don't you wash the little innocent?' 'Why, what is the use? water won't get it off,' was the reply. 'Take soap, then.' 'But the doctor said I musn't give it a soaporific if the child kept awake all night,' 'Well, that doctor ought to be lathered that's all.'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, June 14, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

There are a portion of the young men of our Village who appear to be utterly lost to all sense of shame; the old and the young, male or female, cannot pass along our streets, not even to and from church without being grossly insulted by those who perhaps would claim the title of young men; but if they think by assembling together at the corners of the streets, and in the portals of our churches and public halls, and there making their indecent remarks upon those who are passing in and out entitle them to it, they are very much mistaken. Any young man who has no more respect for himself than to be guilty of such conduct, must not expect to attain to any very exalted character; even those smaller boys who may be induced to laugh, from what in a moment of thoughtlessness they may regard as a wity remark, cannot fail on reflection to dispise the character by whom it is uttered; no person will ever be guilty of such conduct who has any respect for his own character, and a person who has not self-respect, will never secure the respect of others, and must not be disappointed if they are shunned by all who have any respect for themselves. The wise will profit by these remarks, but the fools will continue to show their folly by contempt of all self-control, and by disregarding all admonitions, until they are shunned by all whose respect or countenance is worth retaining, and they will find themselves left as companions of liars, theives, robbers, and murderers. Think not this is exaggerated, it is as certain as that water unrestrained will find its level; as the history of all those who fill our prisons conclusively prove. There is a point in the conduct of such characters when forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and when duty requires our magistrates to interfere.

There is also another character whom we could wish to see some reformation in; there are many who would shrink from contamination with those refered to above, who yet are guilty of practices which must lead to the same results; we refer to that of broken promises; of engagements; how many there are who would not be guilty of improper conduct in the street, at church, or any where else, yet who do not hesitate to obtain goods upon false pretenses, by a promise to pay when they know they cannot finlfill it, many to, who make a profession of better things, and thus not only dishonor themselves, but the cause of Him whom they profess to follow.

After the above was in type we received a communication on the same subject, which will be found in another column.

☞ For extraordinary bargains, call at Seatons, 354 Broad street Newark; where you will find the largest and most select assortment of fashionable Bonnets Lawns and Fancy Goods to be found at any other establishments, and at the very lowest prices, see advertisement in another column.

☞ Graham's Magazine, as ever, in embellishments splendid; contents of a high order; the July number commences a New Volume; a good time to subscribe. Address Samuel D. Patterson & Co. 98 Chestnut st. Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ We have received Sartain's Union Magazine for July, which commences a New Volume. To all who wish a Magazine filled with articles entirely original of a high order of merit, being from the pens of the most able writers, with superb embellishments, should enclose $3. to John Sartain & Co. Philadelphia Pa.

☞ Ladies Wreath.—The single article entitled 'Yelverton Rectory,' in the May number, should obtain it hosts of subscribers. Each number contains one steel and one colored engraving; the work will make a volume of 432 pages. Terms $1. per year in advance. Address Martyn & Ely, 143 Nassau st N. Y.

☞ The New Jersey Journal makes its appearance in a new dress. There is no paper with which we are acquainted better conducted; its editorials are well written, independent, and courteous; its selections good; its present appearance we receive as conclusive evidence that "our people" duly appreciate the liberal course it has heretofore pursued; it deserves a liberal support.

The Difference.

Democratic Presidents made their appointments to and removals from office, upon the openly avowed principles upon which they were elected; Gen. Taylor in direct violation of all the pledges he has given; of principles he made no avowal.

When a party make, as the democrats ever have done, upon the nomination of their candidate, an open avowal of their principles to the country, and the people triumphantly elect them upon such declarations of principles, then the candidate so elected has a perfect right, and which the people before-hand expect him to do, to make his appointments from those who are known to be in favor of such principles; this is democratic, and of which none can have just cause to complain.

But when a party make no declaration of principles, as was the case of the whig party at the Philadelphia Convention, and more especially when the nominee of that Convention, both before, at, and after, the acceptance of that nomination, makes repeated declarations, and pledges himself under his own hand to various bodies. of men, and individuals, and among whom are prominent men of the democratic party, "that I am not a party candidate," and if elected shall not "be the president of a party, but the president of the whole people,"and "I shall make Honesty, Capacity and Fidelity, indispensable prerequisites to the bestowal of office, and the absence of either of these qualities shall be deemed sufficient cause of removal," have no right to make any removals without there is sufficient cause; but which all know has been done in direct violation of all pledges given, by which alone he could have been elected, and which all honest men will denounce and repudiate.

All democratic presidents have been elected upon openly avowed principles made at their nomination; the whigs have ever concealed theirs if they had any.

Andrew Jackson declared that the U. S. Bank was corrupt, and removed the deposits; investigation proved its truth; upon an open declaration of this he was triumphantly sustained and elected by the people.

Martin Van Buren who it was said wrote all Jackson's Messages, was triumtriumphantly sustained in the footsteps of his "illustrious predecessor;" Jackson now dictated, it was said, all Van Buren's Messages, recommending a Sub Treasury, Revenue Tariff &c., which was openly made the issue, and again sustained by the people.

James K. Polk was triumphantly elected upon the openly and most powerfully agitated question of the annexation of Texas, Subtreasury, and Revenue Tariff, and beat the great embodyment of whig principles, Henry Clay; thus proving to the world that democratic principles openly avowed, opposed by the strongest possible opposition that the opponents of these principles could possibly make, were triumphantly sustained and carried into effect by the people; upon the above principles thus openly made the issue and carried into effect by the people, has the country arisen to its present proud position before all the nations of the earth, who have by the example set them by the democracy of our country, hurled the self styled, sanctified, divine rights of tyranical kings to the earth.

The whigs always defeated upon an open issue, seized hold of the popular name of Gen. Taylor, a name made popular in a war which was justly popular with the people, because it was for the maintainance of their rights; but which the whigs (there were honorable exceptions) as ever, where the rights of the people are concerned, denounced; calling all who participated in it cutthroats and murderers; yet through the crafty policy they have ever pursued, selected the chief murderer as their candidate for the presidency; and thus by a concealment of their principles, knowing them to be unpopular; and the people believing that Gen. Taylor would, knowing the decision they had given in favor of the above principles, and from the pledges he had given, would carry out the above principles in the administration of the government as he had done on the battle [fields of Mexico; on these grounds, and on these alone was he elected by the people. But if he continues to violate the pledges he has given, and attempts to subvert those democratic principles that have heretofore so beneficially governed the policy of our country, and attempts to give us whiggery in their place, woe be unto him; it requires no prophet to foretell that the people will remove him for just cause.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

I not long since read of a worthy minister, who notified his congregation that he was shortly to start upon a mission to the heathen; his deacons manifested much sorrow and surprise at so sudden and unexpected an announcement; however he soon quieted their minds, by assuring them that he should not go out of his own neighborhood for the purpose, as it concontained many such subjects. Now I am not considered a missionary, and do not expect to visit each family in our own Village, in order to tell them what they ought already to know; but I wish through the medium of your valuable paper to convey a few thoughts for their consideration, and interest. All who are acquainted with Plainfield, know that it has grown in a few years from a small to a large, beautiful, and thriving Village; with its neat and well painted dwellings; and large and convenient Churches, &c., and all this by the blessings of providence has been accomplished by its sober and very industrious citizens; and we might still continue to advance in wealth and honor, where it not for one serious and growing evil, and which threatens our happiness as well as interest. I now allude to the coarse vulgar and rowdy behaviour of many of our youth; who seem not to regard either age nor sex; and who seem to have taken the rule of the Village into their own hands. So obvious has the evil become that you will hear the subject discussed in the cars and steamboats, by strangers who have visited our Village; and I have heard some wealthy persons admit that this alone prevented their settling among us. Cannot this evil be remedied; shall a whole Village loose its character and have the value of its property diminished, because a few overkind parents suffer their boys to wander the streets at night, making it hideous with their profanity and savage yells; entering private houses, demanding cake and wine, also disturbing concerts of sacred music, and even poluting the house of God with their deviltries? Now many of these boys are sons of respectable and professing christians, who send their children regularly to church and sabbath school; but who do neglect proper training at home, or things would certainly be different; and what folly to think that boys can herd in the streets six nights in the week, with the impure and profane, and then have all the stains washed away by being compelled to learn his sunday school lesson on the seventh; government must commence at home and it should be mild, but desisive. If a boy succeed in having his own way once, he will feel encouragd to attempt it again; and if twice he will feel assured; and if thrice he will triumph. In a state of society like ours, the responsability of the parent is great, and we cannot shrink from the fact that parents generally decide the character of their children; it is so ordered by heaven; children will obey in a great measure the lessons practised at home, and as the stone hurled from the sling, takes its direction from the arm that wieldes it, so the child goes forth and finds its grave in peace or sorrow, according to the influence given at home. I shall at presnt say nothing of the responsability of magistrates or the duty of our citizens in giving them their countenance and support in carrying out these responsibilities, by keeping good order and peace in our Village, and thus avoid those scenes of riot and destruction which have been witnessed elsewhere; but will at present leave the subject to their own good sense and reflection, assuring them I have wrote not with the intention to offend, but for the good of all, and because I am myself a PARENT.

THE UNCERTAINTY OF THE LAW.—We were recently summoned to attend as a juror, in a case wherein the matter in dispute had been three several times before the court,(for the trial of small causes)and wherein one of the parties were nonsuited, because, aye there is the rub, because what? Why, if for no other reason but because the quirl of the tail of the letter g, happened to have a quirl too many, and was construed to form the letter e. What a glorious humbug! Talk about the times when our ancestors were bound hand and foot and thrown into the river, to decide whether they were guilty of witchcraft: ("being instigated by the devil," as we recollect of a coronor's jury bringing in their verdict in a case of supposed suicide not many years since in this enlightened Village;) if they sunk to rise no more they were adjudged innocent, but if they floated they were pronounced guilty, and condemned to die. This mode of dispensing justice at the present day, would be not only thought barbarous, but rediculous. Oh shame, where is thy blush? The chance for justice, if more barbarous, would compare too favourably with the present nonsensical humbug dignified by the name of law.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

GENTLEMEN: Your very kind remarks in introducing my article of last week, I can sincerely assure you, affected me deeply. To learn that I am able to contribute, even in the slightest degree, to the instruction and entertainment of readers so intelligent and worthy as those of the Gazette are, is well calculated to gratify my highest ambition.

And here permit me to allude to the value of a well-conducted newspaper like the Gazette to the intellectual wants of a community; for it is the only medium through which an humble citizen like myself can communicate with the public.—The very large number of original communications which have already appeared in your columns—some of which, (written by persons with whom I am unacquainted, and therefore of whose produc- I can speak disinterestedly,) evince considerable merit—is conclusive evidence to my mind that the Gazette is held in high estimation by writers and readers; for intelligent writers will not contribute to papers which are not calculated to affect public opinion. That paper only is valuable to the reader which is looked afer eagerly: which, when delivered by the carrier, is caught up—to use a homely but expressive phrase—"like hot cakes." I like to see a newspaper contain articles, both original and selected, which will cause readers to think; for if people reflect they will be benefited. I do not mean by this that articles must necessarily be of an argumentative character, for I insist upon it that truth may be presented in quite as attractive and effectual a manner through a well written narrative or fiction as by the most labored effort of the moralist.—That the newspaper press is exerting a mighty influence in favor of the cause of truth—by which I mean everything which pertains to the best interests of the whole family of man—is admitted by all intelligent minds. That the Gazette will do its part in the great work, I am well satisfied, as I know you will receive the aid of those who wish to hasten the advent of "the good time."

As you well know, gentlemen, I have but little leisure for reading; and yet, possesing—what I consider more valuable than silver and gold—an enquiring mind, I have made myself familiar with many incidents in the history of this section of the state, which, with your permission, I will from time to time make known to the public.

During my rambles on the adjacent mountains for a period of twenty-five years—ever since I was twelve years of age—I have been much interested in visiting every spot where important events have taken place and of whose associations I could learn anything worthy of attention. It was in this manner that I became acquainted with the history of Isabella Gray and John Johnson. The neighborhood where they lived and died, though now nearly overgrown with forest trees and bushes, was once a scene of busy life; and I have in my possesion authentic details of other events which occurred at the same place, which are not less interesting than the history of that once happy but ill-fated pair. As you are familiar with the country, you can judge with what fidelity I have described the spot where these events occurred.

There are many other places on the mountains, and also on the plains in this vicinity, where important events have taken place, some of them long before the birth of our oldest inhabitants. In my boyish days I heard vague rumors of these occurrances; and even then I sought information concerning them of every one I thought capable of affording it. Perseverance has enabled me to learn much of many persons and events whose history is well worth studying; and which I flatter myself will be interesting to your readers.

In my next communication I will give you some particulars of an incident which occurred near this village, more than a hundred years ago.

J. C. A.

Later from the Crevasse.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, June 8.

There is at present no better prospect of stopping the great Crevasse, and the water still continues to rise. All efforts to check it have been abandoned.

Sanctity and Bankruptcy.

Rev. G. W. DOANE, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New-Jersey, is currently reported to have failed to meet his pecuniary engagements, owing some $250,000, although enjoying for many years past an income of some $ 12,000 from his wife's property, which is settled upon her and of course remains unaffected by her husband's bankruptcy. An attempt was made in the recently Episcopal Convention of his Diocese to institute an investigation into the matter, but put down by an overwhelming negative. The Trenton State Gazette observes that the mover of the inquiry was calm, considerate and kind in his remarks, while in defense of the Bishop was evinced a violence of voice and language not at all creditable to the Church of the cause. The Gazette palliates the temerity of the mover of the inquiry in the following terms:

'The truth is, every heart was moved with a true sympathy for the reputation of the Bishop as for the reputation of the Church. It was expressed openly and privately that a Committee of Investigation would doubtless detect nothing beyond acts of indiscretion and carlessness in Bishop's financial course, and that he and the Diocese together would share a common blessing in the investigation.

Of the character or causes of Bishop Doane's indebtedness we know nothing, and therefore express no opinion. Many a thoroughly upright man has been deeper and more hopelessly in debt without the means of paying the first farthing.—Yet the refusal of investigation in this case was grossly wrong, and the mealy-mounted languing of the Gazette above quoted is hardly more excusable. The notorious facts in the Bishop's case raise a very strong presumption of extravagance and recklessnes on his part hardly compatible with honesty, and not at all with those qualities essential to the proper fulfillment of his most responsible duties. How came he involved in debt to anything like the extenr of a Quarter of a Million of dollars? We do not hear that he has involved himself so deeply by endorsing for others, or by a vast, uncalculating benevolence. It is well worth considering whether he had any moral right to run in debt to that extent at all. We never heard of a case in which investigation was more urgently demanded.

It is lamentable truth that the popular morality with regard to Debt and Non-Payment is disgracefully lax in this Christian land. We have become so habituated to look to the Law for the collection of debts that most men have no idea of any pressing obligation to pay a debt other than the legal obligation. We understand that a man who 'can't' pay is not culpable in neglecting to pay, but our 'can't' has a very slippery significance Many a man 'can't' pay the mechanics and merchants whom he owes, simply because he lives extravagantly, hiring servants to do the work which belongs to his sons and daughters--because he lives in a more expensive house and spends more money for food, clothing, &c. than he has any moral right thus to dispose of. Many a man 'can't' pay because he does not half work, nor exert himself near so much to get out of debt as he did to get in. The man who 'can't' pay an honest debt has no right to indulge in luxuries—keep his sons at college nor his daughters at the piano. If he thus lives at the rate of three or four housand dollars a year while the frugal and industrious importune him for what is their honest due, he is an outright swindler, no matter how high the circle he moves in nor how many churches he belongs to. These be truths, very obvious indeed, but apt to be forgotton, and we think the Gazette's paragraph calculated to obscure them.—N. Y. Tribune.

☞ The Elizabeth Town Staudard, though an unpretending paper of limited dimensions, betrays a thousand times more tact than many of its 'high and mighty' cotemporaries. We believe it to to be doing a good business in the way of advertising, and busines men generally who patronise it in this way, will be sure to have their statements presented to the public with ample effect. The Standard deserves encouragement and will receive it. It is distributed gratuitously.—Rahway Register.

CHOLERA IN NEW YORK.—There was 121 deaths of the Cholera during the week ending June 8th.

This week the deaths by Cholera appear to be on the decrease.

It is reported that there were in Elizabethtown this week, 3 cases of the Cholera and 2 deaths.

Serious Illness of Ex-President Polk.

CINCINNATI, Monday, June 11.

The Nashville papers received this afternoon state that Ex-President James K. Polk is lying dangerously ill of the Cholera.

It is thought, by those who can see the fartherst into futurity, that Gen. Taylor will be the last of the 'earlier President.

There are some amusing words used in the conversation of the native Mexicans. A kiss is called tetenamiquilizelli! The Hartford Courant says that it feels just as its spelt.

The new Map of New Jersey.

Many inquiries having recently been made concerning progress towards publications of a large new map of N. J., I avail myself of the courtesy of the Press of the State and the neighboring cities, to inform the numerous friends and patrons of the undertaking, and the public generally, that the work has been for some months in the hands of skillful engravers and that they expect to complete the same in a few weeks.

It being near 20 years since the former State Map was published, and the Legislature of N. J. having encouraged the issuing of a new one a much earlier publication was designed, and arrangements were made with the late Judge Gordon, to have it prepared and published more than a year since, but his lingering and subsequently serious indisposition prevented him from arranging and preparing the surveys and other materials, and thereby occasioned the unavoidable delay.

Having procured at a heavy expense his Plates, Copy Rights, Surveys and other materials, and being efficiently aided by some of the best surveyors in the State, together with important valuable assistance from the Coast Survey Office at Washington, (for which I feel under great obligations,) I shall aim at and hope to sustain the high reputation of Judge Gordon's Original Map of N. J., which was pronounced by good judges, to be one of the most accurate State Maps in the Union.

Having employed several of the best Engravers in Philadelphia, who have already excuted a considerable portion of the work to the entire approbation of good judges, I feel a confidence ef giving good satisfaction in the excution of this work.

The size will be full as large as the former one (nearly 3 feet by 5) and contains five more Cities and over thirty new Townships, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, streams, mills, railroads, canals &c. &c. It will be ornamented with a handsome view of the new State House and Coat of Arms of the state, beautifully engraved on copper. Each township will be colored separately, and pains taken to make it a useful appendage for the dwelling or office of every citizen of New Jersey.

It will be engraved on copper printed on good paper, handsomely colored, varnished and mounted on rollers, and subscribers furnished at the reduced price of $5, with a liberal deduction for Public Schools.

 Wanted immediately several good Canvassers, to obtain subscribers in the nothern and middle counties of the State. Terms liberal. Apply (post paid) to R. E. Horxor. Princeton N. J.

Fifth month, 1849

☞ Several notices and advertisements having recently appeared of intention by citizens of other states, to publish certain County Maps of this state, pretending that they would be made from their original surveys, one of which Maps has just appeared (being bunglingly done on stone) with large infringements on my Copy Right and Surveys; and having incurred heavy expenses in obtaining these surveys &c I am determined not to have them filched from me by piece meal with impunity; they are therefore cautioned against any impositions of the kind, as the law will protect my rights.

R E. H.

The press of the state are respectfully requested to insert the above, which favor will be properly appreciated.

A husband and wife travelling through the woods in haste, met with a melancholy accident which is recorded in the following felicitous strain:

'And while retreating through the woods
And through the tangled fern.
He tore his musn't-mention 'ems,
And had to put on HER'N.'

MARRIED.—At the Friends meeting, Philadelphia, Mr. Joseph Rakestraw to Mis Elisabeth Field of that city.

Were I to punning much inclined,
'Twould some musement yield.
To think this man, to rake and bind.
Is furnished with a Field.

A Yankee is about to petition for a license to whittle upon the board of aldermen.

'Mother,' said a lad, 'is it wrong to break egg shells?' 'Certainly not, my dear,' replied the mother; 'but what do you ask such silly questions for?' 'Because I have just dropped the basket with all the eggs in it,' replied the promising chip.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday June 13.

FLOUR	$4 75 a 5 12
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 2 90
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	1 00 a 1 25
CORN	60 a 63
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Prices current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 10 a 1 15
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	31 a —
RYE " do	54 a 58
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a 16
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S
Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 169 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM;
OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc. etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

CHEAP
AS THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim. "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality "	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.

JESSE BALDWIN,

Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.

Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:

100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.

Also, a full assortment of

Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,

Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.

Dealers in every description of

DRY GOODS.

290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and their goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.

☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

FOR SALE,

A GOOD one horse WAGON. Also a set of single Harness, will be sold cheap for cash. Enquire at this office.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan. 10. 1849.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CHEAP MILLINERY.

MRS. CORIELL,

WOULD RESPECTFULLY Invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to examine her assortment of

FASHIONABLE BONNETS,

CONSISTING OF

JENNY LYND, RIBBON SHIRS,
FRENCH LACES, PORCUPINE,
AND PAMELIA HATS,

Together with a select assortment of Dress Caps, Trimmings of all patterns, also, Thread Laces, Artificial Flowers, and Fancy Goods, at her old stand next door to Tittsworth & Duchers Tin and Stove Factory.

N. B. Bonnets cleaned and trimmed at short notice,

☞ Cheap for Cash. ☜

Plainfield, April 25. 1849. [24.

NEW MILLINERY.

MRS. R. ROCAP, & CO.

HAVING OPENED A

FASHIONABLE MILLNERY

IN Front street, next door to Tittsworth, Dunn & Co. Store, would invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to call and examine their large assortment of

SILK AND STRAW BONNETS,

with every variety of trimmings of the latest City style.

Also the dressing of old hats will be promptly attended to.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849

WATCHES, CLOCKS,

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCKES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c.,

A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c. together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849. [27

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

WHERE they are constantly receiving, in addition to their former Large Stock of House-Keeping articles, fresh supplies of Goods in their line, by Importation and from Auction, of the latest and most approved style and pattern.

CARPETING. Brussels, three ply, double superfine, superfine and fine Ingrain, Venetian, Hall and Stair Carpeting; also Hemp, List and Rag do; Figured, Drugget and Green Baize, Plain and Check Matting, Fine Embossed and Plain Piano and Table Covers; Fine Chenelle Patent, Tufted and Brussels Hearth Rugs.

Window Blinds and Transparencies of all kinds. Brass and Silver Stair Rods. Crockery, China and Earthen Ware. Cut and Plain Glass, Brittannia Ware, Table Cutlery, Willow, Wooden & Hollow Ware.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do, and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS, Jr.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [28

JUST RECEIVED,

BY the subscriber in addition to his new stock, a new assortment of dry goods of the various fashionable stiles, such as Bareges, Linen Ginghams, Prints, &c. Also the newest and best styles of Crockery and Glass ware.

All kinds of Hardware constantly on hand and got to order together with the best assortment of Groceries that can be produced. Also, Pork, Hams, Fish, Lard, Fresh Butter, and a variety of other articles to numerous to name. Gentlemen and Ladies please favor me with a call, and examine for yourselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1, 1849. [69.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family cost of arms, and his signature across the cost of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better: because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part.

But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding, and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrotula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, of deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Burclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Sieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

LETTER FROM

REV. DR. C. H. O. COTE

TO

KIRWIN, (REV. DR. MURRAY,)

On the the subject of Christian Baptism for sale at this Office at 6 1-4cts. pr copy.

ALSO, A sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. TURTON, pastor of the Baptist Church at Elizabethtown, N. J. in reply to Kirwin's, (Rev. Dr. Murray's) charges against the Baptist, for sale at this Office at 10 cts. a copy.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap by D. BULLMAN.

April 25. 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1849. | NO. 27.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

WATCHES, CLOCKS, AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends aud the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCKES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c.,

A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c. together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849. [27

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan. 10. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

She's Nothing but a Country Girl.

A young lady, daughter of an agriculturalist, after having been introduced to a company of professed Ladies in a neighboring city, heard one of them remark to the others in a low voice, accompanied with a scornful smile, "She's nothing but a country girl." On her return home, she sent the scornful Miss a note containing something like the following lines, which were published in the Ohio Cultivator:—

I know that I'm a country girl,
And more than this I know—
That such far rather I would be,
Than her I'm writing to—
For pride of heart, and scornful mein,
Detested are, wherever seen.

A country girl, and what is there
So dreadful in the name?
Though "verdant" yet I've too much sense,
For that to blush for shame;
For it will ever sound as well
To me, as that of "city belle."

I would not change my country home,
Where nature's scenes o'erspread,
For one where earth can scarce be seen,
Or blue sky overhead,
For all the wealth and splendid din,
Your "languid beauties" revel in.

What think you of your mother Eve,
Who dwelt in Eden fair?
No luxuries which gold procures,
Or dainties nice were there—
And as there were no cities then,
A country girl she must have been!

I hope for this you'l not deny
Your ancient parentage,
Unless yourself from all our race
You wish to disengage—
If so I pray let old and young
Be now inform'd from whence you sprung!

But if, as still I apprehend,
You are a girl of sense,
And that it is from pride of heart
You make such vain pretence;
Please know humility of heart
Does to our sex new charms impart.

When next in some disdainful mood,
To say you are inclined,
"She's nothing but a country girl,"
This couplet bear in mind—
That scornful lip and haughty air,
Ne'er make a homely face more fair.

USE OF TWO EYES.—To embrace all the objects before us, and see them with distinctness, we require two eyes, because one is always blind to a certain point before it which seen by the other. To prove that such is the case we may perform the following experiment:—On the wall of a room, or on a sheet of black paper held up for the purpose, fix three wafers in a row, three inches apart from each other, and then place yourself directly in front of them, at the distance of from one to two feet. Shut your right eye and look at them fixedly and steadily for one or two minutes with the left. You will now see only two wafers, suppose the first and second in the row; on altering your position, you will see the third and the first; altering again, you will see the second and third; but never, by any movement, will all the three be seen together.

The cause of this phenomenon is, that there is a certain point in the retina, at the junction with the optic nerve, which does not receive impressions—that is, does not picture objects like other parts of the mirror—and on this minute point the impression of the unseen wafer falls. We observe from this experiment the use of two eyes, for the person who has one only, can never see at once three objects placed in the position we have mentioned, nor all the parts of one object of the same extent, without altering the situation of his eye. —Chambers Miscellany.

A few years ago, a couple of Dutchmen, upon the high hills of limestan, though very friendly, had a dreadful falling out about ones killing the other's dog, for which he sued for damages. They were called into court, and the defendant in the case was asked by the Judge if he killed the dog. 'Be shure I kilt him,' said the Dutchman, 'put let him prove it.' This being satisfactory, the plaintiff in the case was called on to answer a few questions; he was asked by the judge to what amount he estimated the damages; he did not understand this question so well; so to be a little plainer the judge asked him what he thought the dog to be worth. 'Be sure,' said he, the dog was worth notting, but since he was so mean as to kill him, he shall pay the full walue of him.'

For the Plainfield Gazette.

A correspondent over the signature of "M." who informed the citizens of Plainfield through the "Union" some months since of an intention of the Elizabeth & Somerville R. R. Co. (now styled the Central Rail Road Co. of New Jersey,) to erect a respectable depot at this point of their road, must have been misinformed, or the Company are delaying the work until the present building shall have removed itself by decay, which from appearances will not be deferred a great while.

We had hoped for better things, and yet do not despair altogether of having a good, convenient, though plain and economical depot, to shelter the passengers from the sun and rain, without being compelled to crowd together like a flock of sheep for transportation—as well as to give strangers a favorable impression of our town, on their first introduction.

We do not ask the company to construct a splendid edifice, nor costly building—but we do most earnestly and respectfully request of them to give us a house, which may in a measure contrast with the patronage which they receive from the citizens of Plainfield.

Perhaps the treasury has penury for its assetts. If such be the fact surely we ought to be lenient and willing to accommodate ourselves to the scanty conveniences which poverty places at our disposal, until a private subscription can be freely circulated among our citizens, who would undoubtedly render aid in behalf of such a noble cause, as the building of a decent depot at this section of the Central Rail Road of New Jersey. If we had come to a final conclusion that nothing was to be done on the part of the Company to further our modest request, a petition for aid would readily be met to accomplish the work. We will remain silent a short time longer hoping the Company will see the necessity of complying with our humble request of moderate accommodations.

We would here simply add that we do not take exceptions to any other arrangements of the road. The machines, cars, track, time, &c., will vie, if not surpass, in all respects any road in the Union—The conductors and agents are gentlemanly, accommodating, business men, and deserve the praise and commendation of the travellers over the road.

Let the work of the new depot be commenced at once; a few hundred dollars will accomplish what we want, and in a short time by increased travel the outlay will be refunded. MANY CITIZENS.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

The people, the hard working millions of toil, who are the source of all political power, and to whom we owe all we enjoy of political and religous liberty, should be constantly on the watch that the knaves and drones do not entirely rob them of these dear bought and inestimable blessings; be vigilent of your rights; retain those you have, and demand the surrender of all others; for to none else do they belong.

All special privileges granted to individuals or companies, are an encroachment on your rights, and a degradation that no freeman should submit to.

Look to the various laws made by interested men in various States, and you will perceive that there is not one that does not deprive you of some right, which belongs to man as a whole, and which it is detrimental to his interests to delegate to any individual; for the moment he does so he losses a portion of his birthright; 'all men are born free and equal and have certain inalienable rights; among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;' and the moment an inch is surrendered, an ell is requested; therefore hold fast that which you have and demand the surrender of those which you have lost.

All inspectorships of merchandize, as grain, wood, coal, tobacco, pork, &c. &c., are a complete humbug, and do not prevent the public from being imposed on, as every individuals experience proves; as all men who have ever dealt in those articles know.

So also the granting of all tavern licences, or licences to practice as a phisician, to preach the gospel, to practice law, or whatever gives to one man a right which all do not enjoy is a usurpation of the peoples rights, anti-republican in practice, and constantly tending to degrade those who toil, these are facts which are evident to all, and which never will be remedied until the working man not only demands, but takes and holds his rights.

MORE ANON.

Coolness—A Tale about a Head.

Jack, a little buck negro who belonged to Dr. Taliaferro; was said to have in his little frame a heart as big as General Jackson's. He did'nt fear even our respectable fellow-citizen, Old Nick; and as for coolness, he was as cool as the tip-top of the North Pole.

One day, Dr. Taliaferro, upon the occasion of the commencement of a Medical College, of which he held the chair of Anatomy, gave a dinner. Among his guests was a well known ventriloquist. Late on the evening, after the bottle had done its work, the conversation turned upon courage, and the Doctor boasted considerably of his favorite man Jake. He offered to bet that nothing could scare him; and this bet the ventriloquist took up, naming at the same time the test he wanted imposed. Jake was sent for, and he came.

'Jake,' said the Doctor, 'I bet a large sum of money on your head, and you must win it. Do you think you can?

'Berry well, master,' replied Jake, 'just tell dis nigger what he's to do, and he do it shure.'

'I want you to go to the dissecting room.—You will find two dead bodies there. Cut off the head of one, with a large knife which you will find there, and bring it to us. You must not take a light, however, and don't get frightened.'

'Dat's all, is it?' inquired Jake. 'Oh! berry well. I'll do dat shure for sartin; and as for being frightened, the debil aint going to frighten me.'

'Jake accordingly set off, reached the dissecting room, and groped about until he found the knife and the bodies. He had just applied the former to the neck of the latter, when from the body he was about to decapitate, a hollow and sepulchral voice exclaimed—

'Let my head alone!'

'Yes sah,' replied Jake, 'I ain't 'ticklar; and tudder head'll do jes as well.'

He accordingly put the knife to the neck of the other corpse, when another voice, equally unearthly in its tone shrieked out—

'Let my head alone!'

Jack was puzzled at first, but answered presently—

'Look a hea! Master Tolliver say I must bring one ob de heads, and you isn't gwine to fool me no how! and Jake hacked away until he seperated the head from the body. Thereupon half a dozen voices screamed out—

'Bring it back! bring it back!'

Jake had reached the door, but on hearing this, turned round and said—

'Now—now, see yah! Jes you keepe quite you fool, and don't wake up the woman folks.—

Master's only gwin to look at the bumps.'

'Bring back my head at once!' cried the voice.

'Tend your right away, sah!' replied Jake, as he marched off with the head, and in the next minet deposited it before the Doctor.

'So you've got it, I see,' said his master.

'Yes sah,' replied the unmoved Jake, but please be done lookin at him soon, kays de gemplin told me to fotch him back right away.'—John Donkey.

FORERUNERS.—'Do you believe in forerunners?' asked a nervous old lady of Deacon J———.

'Yes, ma'am,' replied the deacon, 'I've seen them.'

'Bless me!' exclaimed the lady, 'do tell.

'Yes,' continued the deacon, throwing his eyes with a solemn stare on a dark corner of the room: 'I see one now!'

'Mercy, mercy on me!' shrieked the lady; 'where?'

'There, there,' pointing to the spot where his eyes were directed. 'That cat ma'am, may be called a forerunner, for she runs on all fours.,

PARENTAL MISTAKES.—It is very common for fathers and mothers, in choosing for their children the profession, employment, or business, on which their livelihood is to depend, to be guided in their election by their own success or disappointment, without taking into the account the difference made by lapse of time, circumstances, and other changes, which renders their decisions erroneous.

Politeness in Old Times.

There is a story of an occurrence at Athens, during the celebration of games in honor of a god, illustrative of the respect paid by the Lacedemonians to old age. The seats in the theatre were crowded, and an old man entering late, found no seat Some young men beckoned him towards them, and offered him a seat; but as he advanced they sat closer together, making the vacant seat further along, and continued to do so as he approached it, so as to excite the laughter of the audience. There were departments of the theatre devoted to foreigners, and as the old man approached the seats of the Lacedemonians, they all arose. The Athenians with characteristic impetuosity, cheered their courteous neighbors with tremendous applause, and the old man turning around, remarked—'The Athenians know the right—the Lacedemonians do it.'

The present age might learn a lesson from the Lacedemonians. The politeness everywhere shown to ladies, makes a poor excuse for the inattention to old age. In steamboats, railroad cars, hotels, and elsewhere, it is not an unfrequent occurrence to see an old man scarcely able to walk, supporting himsely in a car by the back of a seat, or by a post on a steamer, for the lack of the seat which a young strong man occupies. We saw a young lady give up her seat to an old gentlemen once, in such a case, and half a dozen chairs were instantly offered her by the gentlemen who had remained motionless before. Americans know what politeness is, if they do not practise it.

A TALL MOSQUITO.—'So you are going to the East Hingies, my darlint, Mrs. Harooney?' said an old Irish crone to the young wife of a soldier, about to embark for Madras. 'I've been in them parts myself, and well do I remember the torments I went through, night and day, with the mosquetoes. They have long suckers hanging down from their heads, they'll draw the life out of ye before ye can say peas.' This terrifying account lived in the memory of the young woman; the vessel made Madras roads, the decks were soon crowded; all hands delighted at the sight of land, Mrs. Harooney with them; but her joy was of short duration; for, on shore she perceived an elephant. Horror stricken at the sight, and in breathless agitation she approached the mate, exclaiming, with uplifted hands, 'Holy mother, is that a mesquito?'

DARK DEVELOPMENTS.—'See, heah, Gumbe, why am you like a blackguard?'

'Neber guess dat in de world, coz I ain't, you brack fool.' 'You is, honey, coz you watches massa Jim's store, and you's not a berry white guard.'

'Now, Pete, dat am berry surprisin,' and conblustifificating to calculate—but, niggar, why is you like a gentleman? Dah? dat stump him.'

'Breff my soul, Gumby, I never tinked ob dat—gibs her up.'

'Yah, yah!—so does I, sensible as I is—been tinking of it tree days, and fudder off dan I was at de start.'

TO MANY STOCKINGS.—Widow Quiggles looked over her fence into Struggle's yard, and discovered five pair of stockings hanging on the line.

'Du tell,' says she, 'where on airth did that other pair of stockings cum from? and I vow thur just like the rest on'em. Thar ain't but four in the family, no heow, and were that ither odd tew cum from enn' a most puzzle me. I didn't see no one go in, as I knows on—heow on airth could they git, in 'thout me seein, on'em. They coulden't have bought it, cause the hull lot on 'em is poor as pizen. Got 'em gin tew 'em mabbe; but that ain't possible, nither, for they ain't got no rich relations. Well, I du wish one of the gals 'ud come eout, I'd ask her. Ah! there is Sally. Sally, dear, I see you hev been a increasin' your wardrobe.'

'How so, Mrs. Quiggles?' inquired Sally.

'Why you hev got a addition of stockings on your line, dear,' answered Mrs. Quiggles.

'Oh yes,' says Sally, 'I have been knitting a pair for the parson, ma'am.'

'Indeed!' said Mrs. Quiggles, turning away in high dudgeon; 'the pesked, nasty, good-fur-nuthin' chit thinks tu begin at the parson's feet and knit upwards tu his affections, but I reckon I'll spile that; I'll gin him a hull suit of woolen to kiver his reverence. I know'd them stockins hed no good purpose—I know'd it!'—St. Louis Reville.

A HAPPY MAN.—An eastern caliph being sorely afflicted with ennui, was advisied that an exchange of shirts with a man that was perfectly happy would cure him. After a long search he discovered such a person, but was informed the happy fellow had no shirt!

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, June 21, 1849.

DEATH OF EX-PRESIDENT
JAMES KNOX POLK.

'NASHVILLE, June 16, 1849.

'Ex-President James K. Polk is no more. He died last evening of chronic diarrhæa.'

It was previously known that Mr. Polk was suffering from a severe attack of disease, but we were not prepared for the sad intelligence which has now reached us.

James Knox Polk, the eleventh President of the United States, was born on the 2nd of November 1795. Consequently, he died at the age of fifty-four years, seven months and thirteen days. No other, President or Ex-President of the United States died so young.

Of all the twelve Presidents of the United States, only three survive, including the present incumbent.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

Ladies Fair.

The Ladies of the Second Presbyterian Church in this Village intend to celebrate the birthday of our National Independence by holding a Fair at Laing's Hall on the 4th day of July next. Whether the object beyond the celebration of the day is to aid in the erection of a new depot refered to on our first page, or to aid us in having a good walk made to it which we have urged in vain, or to reform the rowdy habits of a portion of the young men alluded to in our last number, or to aid the temperance cause, or the foreign or home missions we know not, but our word for it, the object is a good one, or the ladies would not have anything to do with it. Therefore all those in Plainfield or vicinity who intend to celabrate the day could not do better than to give them a call, and see the Ladies Fair, and fair ladies, and thus rationally spend their money in the celebration of the day, and contribute their mite towards aiding them in their benevolent object whatever it may be.

It was with unfeigned delight that we listened on Monday evening last to the eloquence of one of the noble aborigines of our country, (Kah-ge-ga-gaw-bow.) The picture which he drew of the grandeur of our country, from its mountains, its rivers, its lakes, its forests, and that his forefathers were the legitimate owners of all this, but has been cheated out of it by the insidious arts of the pale-faces; were calculated to make us feel the wrong we have done them, and the path which duty points out to redress those wrongs. Notwithstanding all this, and their being contaminated with all the vices of the white man, there is enough of the nobleness of their former noble character remaining, to impress on our minds the conviction that the aboriginal inhabitants of this country can never be made slaves; and therefore the necessity, if we do not wish to see the race speedily exterminated, of some action by our people and by our government for the civilization and final amalgamating absorption of their race with that of the pale faces.

We fully accord with the speakers idea of making them an agricultural people, and by education raise them up, where it is evident they are capable of being raised, as the speaker is a living witness. Want of room compels us to notice this subject in brief, but as we are to have another address or lecture from the same person on Tuesday Evening June 26th at the same place (Laing's Hall) on their manners and customs; we shall hope that some more able pen will give us something more worthy of the subject.

We would call the attention of the public to the advertisment of Doct. Pearson's Medicines, to be found on the opposite page of our paper; the high recommendations everywhere bestowed upon these medicines, as being what they are represented to be, together with the fact that they are not quack medicines, but used by Doct. Pearson in his practice as a physician with complete success, is a sufficient guarantee of their value—E. Kirkpatrick, Esq. Agent for Plainfield.

CHOLERA.—There were 145 deaths of Cholera in New York during the week ending June 15th.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—In the perusal of the last number of the Gazette, I was highly gratified in reading your Editorial remarks—also with the communication signed 'A Parent,' relating to that class of of youth and young men of our Village whose habits are more congenial to associate with Arabs and Hottentots than the civilized community in which they dwell; otherwise they would not assemble in groups in the street insulting peaceable citizens as they pass, and their deportment indicates, that the height of their ambition is to attain the summit of 'Rowdyism.' In our town where every one is personally known, such characters should and will be looked upon with contempt, by every citizen who has any respect for himself, and appreciates a good reputation paramount to every other consideration. I have often reflected on the subject under consideration, and alluded to by your correspondent signed 'Parent,' with painful solicitude for future results, and asked myself the question, when the present generation shall have passed away, where are we under existing circumstances to look for growing pillars to support our Churches, Schools, and judiciously regulate our Township affairs, and sustain the present elevated position, of our highly favored Village in many respects.

I appeal to Parents and Guardians, has parental affection blinded our eyes to the best interests of our children? Have we reflected on this important subject as we should have done? living in the midst of nightly scenes of disorder, and conscious that our children are mingling with the vulgar and vicious and feel no anxiety for the result of improper associations? Remember, our children are the gift of God, and he will most assuredly hold us responsible, if we are unfaithful, and neglect the cultivation of their morals, and to instil in their tender minds proper principles—How can parents, command respect from their children, or children have any respect for themselves, that are allowed from the age of five to sixteen to wander up and down our streets, till 9 or 12o'clock at night, associating with the vile and wicked, whose feelings are callous to all sense of refinement and who seem to 'Glory in their shame,' disturbing the peace of quiet citizens when they have assembled to pass a social evening with ther ifriends. Such conduct has been endured too long, and is insufferable, and I ask every Citizen, whose interest is identified in the prosperity of our Village, shall we any longer disregard our interest, and quietly fold our arms, as our Magistrates do, and submit to Rowdyism, which is destrcying the reputation of our town, and exerting a paralyzing influence, and every effort which would be calculated to elevate us as a community, and place us in an enviable position in reference to the advantages our village posses over most others. Magistrates have a powerful influence in the community in which they dwell; if their efforts are properly directed, and I regard it their duty to use their influence and exercise their authority on all occasions where the disorderly are assembled and they cognizant of it. If they sustain the dignity of their office they will exert a controlling influence which private citizens do not possess; but when they can quietly countenance the burning of tar barrels in the streets, endangering the lives of those passing in Vehicles, witnessing the peace of families disturbed, it is evident they are unqualified to discharge the important duties of their office which they have accepted. The duty of a Justice in a county town, is the same in respect to order, as that of a city Alderman in the Ward over which he presides; and I ask what would the Citizens of New York think of an officer that would countenance the assembling of ruffians in front of their dwellings, unhinging gates, knocking on the doors and windows, demanding refreshments of the inmates that did not feel it his duty to disperse or apprehend them, because no complaint had been entered against them; the respond from every intelligent mind would be, he is unfaitful in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him; we will remove him and supply the office with one that will act more efficient. Impelled by a sense of duty, enjoying the same priviledges as others, I have freely expressed my thoughts without exaggeration on the subject of this communication, without any intention of wounding the feelings of any individual, feeling that existing circumstances demand our immediate and more efficient action on this important subject.

AN OBSERVER.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

MARY CAIRNS.

Many thousand persons annually travel over the first mountain, by the factory road, who have probably never heard—or but very imperfectly—the sad story of Mary Cairns. And yet many who pass that way, could they but learn her history, would pause at least for a moment when they were near the place where she lived and died, and grieve that one so good and gentle should have been the subject of such heart rending sorrow.

Mary was the daughter of Robert Cairns, a Scotch farmer, who migrated to this country in the year 1720. He was a man of strong mind; whose education had been neglected in his youth, but which deficiency had been overcome by resolute study when he saw the value and necessity of learning. He was not a scholar in the ordinary sense of that word; his head had not been crammed full of Latin and Greek before he was twenty, to be forgotten in less time than it took to acquire it. And yet there were few men in New-Jersey who could reason more profoundly, or who were more conversant with the literature of the age.

Mrs. Cairns was in every respect a helpmeet worthy of her companion. Intelligent, well-bred, able and willing to go to the world's end with the husband she loved, she was a woman capable of making their home a paradise, as indeed it was.

After looking around them on their arrival in this country, they concluded to settle on the first mountain, about a mile and a half from the present village of Plainfield. The spot where they lived happily for many years, and where Mary was born, is on the South face of the mountain, and near its summit. Many who read this sketch, I doubt not, have ascended the mountain by a rough path, in the rear of the residence of Mr. Thomas Stead. Those who have done so will remember seeing near the summit the remains of stone fences, and other marks that testify to the industry of its former owner. Although this is now nought but a barren spot, where cattle will hardly stop to graze, it was once as fertile and lovely a place as you would desire to visit.

The view from the spot where the dwelling formerly stood is a charming one; while by ascending the road to the east a short distance, the lowlands spread out before you in surpassing loveliness. Here I have gazed for hours, and longed for a home with a prospect as beautiful. How many live within a short distance of this place who are ignorant of the sublime works of nature at their very door!

As Mr. Cairns brought over everything from England necessary to clear the land and erect a comfortable dwelling, and having abundant means to employ proper help, the mountain's top was speedily cleared of its wood and bushes, and a large and convenient dwelling was erected. He possessed extensive flocks and herds, which roamed at pleasure over the mountains, and were a source of great profit. The land—which has been covered with bushes for many years—was tilled with great care, and produced abundantly. The house was surrounded with trees of the choicest fruit; and a garden, containing flowers and vegetables in great variety, lay immediately in front. Being sheltered from the north, the storms of winter were hardly felt in this pleasant spot.

Mary and Edward, the former being about two years the oldest, were the only children of the worthy couple of whom I am speaking. They loved their parents devotedly, and, I need hardly say, were beloved in return. Mary was ever seeking to lighten the labors of her mother—for in those days it was not considered improper or unladylike for a woman or her daughter to perform the duties of cook or dairy-maid! The affectionate disposition of Mary endeared her to all who knew her. After assisting her mother in the labors of the day, (a large portion of which were over before the time when our modern young ladies—or at least a large number of them—think of rising,) with a book in hand she rambled along on the mountain's top; enjoying the prospect; listening to the brown thrush and others of the feathered tribe which sung undisturbed on every bush; gathering the honeysuckle and the prickly pear; and admiring the wisdom of that Being who had created all the beautiful objects by which she was surrounded.

I fear that some of my lady readers will not fall in love with the girl whose simple habits I am attempting to describe. As I am writing simple matter-of-fact, however, I must adhere to the record, and if any will not be pleased I certainly am not to blame. The reader should bear in mind that at the period of which I write, there were no "institutions" or "seminaries," where yong ladies learned good manners and bad French; where their heads were filled with a superficial knowledge of everything ornamental, but where nothing useful is alluded to, while their hearts become insensible to the joys of home; where they are tought to make a graceful curtsey, and dress in fashionable style—in short, whose tendency is to make a woman a creature to look at and admire, but who, with all her accomplishments, is rarely able to fill her part in many of the most important relations of life. A well-bred and intelligent mother is the best teacher that a girl can have; and Mrs. Cairns was quite as capable of instructing her daughter in all the essentials of a good education, as many of our modern ladies, who offer—for a trifling consideration, say ten dollars per quarter—to learn a young girl French, Italian, music, needle-work, painting, and I know not how many other "accomplishments." And yet I could point you to many girls who have been at boarding-schools and seminaries, who can neither read or spell the English language with anything like accuracy! If Mary was not thoroughly "accomplished," she could at least read and write correctly and elegantly.

When about eighteen years of age, Mary was betrothed to a young man named Charless Turner; who was not unworthy of a companion so amiable and lovely. The announcement of their approaching nuptials was looked for with pleasure by all parties. I am aware that many will think still less of Mary when I tel them that the man of her choice—though rich in every good quality, and well calculated to make a wife comfortable and happy in any situation in life—was poor! I use the word as it is generally understood; he had neither houses or lands, and excepting a number of valuable books and perhaps two or three hundred dollars in money—the fruits of honest toil—he had not ought becide. But then he was one you would love and respect for his many virtues; his mind was well cultivated, and it is a pleasure to converse with one who is well qualified to interest and instruct. In person, he was tall and of preposessing appearance; labor, without having made him stiff and ungraceful in his motions, had fitted his frame for the endurance of any hardship he might chance to encounter. He possessed strong hands and a courageous heart—which, while it knew no fear, was ever alive to every generous emotion.—His knowledge of the world which was gleaned from the books he possessed or could borrow, and from the observation of an active mind, was far in advance of thousands of the young men of our day, who spend ten or twelve years of their lives at school. His manners, though they might in some respects fall short of the requirements of the modern ball-room, were graceful and dignified; and his every act impressed the observer in his favor. To Mary he was far preferable to many who would have endowed her with houses and lands, and procured everything she might desire, could they but have won her hand. Mary's choice was one highly gratifying to her parents; they had long been intimately acquainted with young Turner, and they were satisfied that the daughter they loved so fondly, could not have chosen a man more worthy of her rich affections.

* * * * There is an unusual bustle about the house of Mr. Cairns. It has been rendered neater and more attractive, if that were possible, than ever before.—A large quantity of the substantials and delicacies of the season have been prepared. Some important event is about to take place, as all the neighbors are assembling. The worthy family greet every person who enters their pleasant home with frank cordiality: none are neglected on account of their wealth or poverty—all are made welcome!

The day had been very sultry, and when the company began to assemble at sundown there was scarcely a breath of air astir. Suddenly, a heavy black cloud, driven forward by a gust of wind, overspread the western horison. The oldest settlers had seen nothing in this country that looked so awful and grand, and many of the younger members, of the party—of whom there were a large number present—retired hastily from the piazza into the house that they might not look on the angry sky. Mary was in momentary expectation of the arrival of Charles; for—although I believe I have not mentioned the important fact—this is the evening they are to be united as man and wife. She has no fears for herself—she is under her fathers roof, and among those who love and respect her: but her lover, she fears, will be caught in the heavy storm of wind and rain which is about to break on the mountain. The lightning flashes almost incessantly; while the thunder constantly rolls and reverberates along the rocks.—And where was Charles during this war of the elements? He was ascending the foot of the mountain; and was not aware until the lightning began to flash around him, that there was any probability of a speedy shower. He had almost reached the summit when the rain came down in torrents, and hastening forward, he was recognized from the house by some of the men who sat in front of the windows. The announcement that he was safe and close at hand, caused every one to hasten to the doors and windows; and Mary, distressed though she was at beholding him exposed to the heavy shower, felt relieved of a load that within the last half hour had been setting on her heart. He was safe! and in a moment or two more would be welcomed to the house which was henceforth to be his home.

Reader, were you ever in the woods when the thunder-bolt fell from heaven and crushed and scattered the oak near you, which had upreared its branches unscathed during the storms of centuries? Have you ever been overtaken on the mountains during a sudden shower, and been startled by the lightning which appeared to fall at your side, with a brightness which blinded you for some moments, and which was followed by a report among the rocks at your feet as if an hundred pieces of artillery had been discharged at once? If not, you have not beheld one of the most wonderful displays of the Creator's power.

I said Charles had almost reached the dwelling, and the persons who crowded the door began to make room for him to enter. Alas! his feet were not permitted to touch the threshhold, for a flash of lightning more dazling, if possible, than any which preceded it, instansly deprived him of life! The explosion which followed the flash was hardly louder, and not half as awful, as the cry of agony that arose from the hearts of the hundred persons who beheld the strong man—who but an instant before was battling manfully with the storm—struck down in a moment.

The dealings of the All-wise with his creatures are sometimes mysterious, and for a moment our faith is staggered. We cannot understand why a Being of unbounded benevolence, and who constantly delights in ministering to the happiness of all his creatures, should thus suddenly remove one who had so much to make life desirable. But our finite minds cannot comprehend the Infinite, and it becomes us to bow with submission to the will of God, though it may require all our faith to enable us to do so.

* * * * Mary rose at length from a bed of sickness, but was only the shadow of the lively, healthy girl she formerly was. A brain fever had seized her immediately on the death of her intended husband; and for three months she wavered between life and death. Her strong constitution and good nursing had enabled her to survive this severe illness; but the prospect of her health being permanently restored daily grew more doubtful. There were times, it is true, when she became quite strong, and was able by the assistance of her brother—who loved her doubly since she had been deprived of the company of her lover—to walk out to some of the favored spots where she formerly delighted to meditate, when she was as free and happy as the birds which sung around her. But these occasions were rare; for her strength gradually departed, and in a short time she was confined almost constantly to the house. It was only with considerable effort that she was enabled occasionally to walk out upon the piazza. Reader perhaps you had a sister, or other loved one, whom consumption marked for its victim, and who gradually wasted away; while the eye would sometimes sparkle for a moment, and the roses which formerly bloomed on the cheek would return and awaken fond hopes that the loved one would soon recover? There is scarcely a home in the land where this insidious disease has not entered and snatched away the beautiful and good. The tear will sometimes start unbidden when we think of some idolized object of our affections whom this wasting demon has snatched from our fond embrace. I have not the heart to speak more particularly of the illness of Mary: millions of the human family annually witness the same symptoms in persons whom they love.

* * * * For more than a century Mary Cairns and Charles Turner have reposed side by side, in a small grave-yard near the residence of Mr. Jacob Shotwell.

Mrs Cairns survived her daughter but a few summers, and her remains repose near those of her children. The once pleasant home of Mary is now—or rather, I should say it was the last time I passed the spot, some six years since—a barren, uncultivated waste. The buildings have long since fallen to decay and been torn down, and the place where they stood are almost overgrown with bushes; the beautiful apple and peach orchards are entirely destroyed, and nought supplies their places but a few stragling cedars, and a wild dwarf apple tree or two mock the weary traveller with their bitter, worthless fruit; the stone walls which enclosed fields of fine wheat and corn are thrown down and carted away; and the desolate aspect of the place only impresses the intelligent observer with the consciousness that there is no spot this side of heaven where man can live without encountering misfortune. J. C. A.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

I have ever been an admirer of the society of Friends; not only for their kindness, honesty, and correct moral deportment, but for the neatness and good order observable about their farms, and buildings; the exceptions to this general rule is in the appearance of their out bildings near their meeting house and adjoining the Rail Road, and which certainly should be repaired or removed, as their present appearance mars the beauty of your handsome village; at least so thinks a

TRAVELLER.

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

General Summary.

The steamer, America, from New York made the passage in 11 1-2 days, the quickest on record.

Up to the departure of the steamer, the Government had given no intimation of its intention, as to the final disposal of the State prisoners under sentence of death for high treason. As an evidence of the extreme destitution and misery which exists in Ireland, it is stated, that a shipwrecked human body having been cast ashore, the corpse was actually consumed, by the starving inhabitants of the vicinity.

A statement to this effect was made in Parliament, and though contradicted in part by the Government, yet the fact is beyond dispute, that at no previous time have sickness, intense misery and starvation, been more general than now. The cholera has broken out in Dublin, and still continues its ravages in many parts of the country.

The dissolution of the French National assembly took place on the 26th ult., and passed over without tumult. The new Legislative Assembly met for the transaction of business on the 28th, and on the 30th, was the scene of the most violent debates, that ever occurred in any deliberate body.

The French expeditionary forces are still encamped outside of Rome,—M. Lesseeps, the envoy, having totally failed thus far, to persuade the Romans to admit the French, either as friends or enemies. The utmost dissatisfaction is said to prevail among the troops, who openly avow their sympathy for the Roman Republic.—Whilst negotiations are going forward at Rome, Gen. Oudinot's position, with Malaria threatening his army, is far from pleasant. Every day furnishes him with fresh proofs, of the precarious nature of his command, if not of the moral certainty that the troops will refuse, if called upon, to enter the city by storm. The Naepolitans having been beaten, have withdrawn within their own territories, and with, Austria, seem inclined to let the French have the quarrel all to themselves.

The war between the Danes and Prussians continues, without, from present appearances, the remotest prospect of a satisfactory adjustment. The town of Fredrica has been reduced by bombardment, and the Prussian troops are advancing to Arhuas. The Danish cruisers are strictly enforcing the blockade of the German ports.

A division of the Russian fleet has appeared in the Danish waters, which is considered significant of the intentions of the Czar.

There is very little authentic intelligence from Germany. It would seem, however, that the Western Russian provinces have became somewhat more tranquilized; but in Baden and Bravaria and all that region, the popular chiefs are said to be only waiting to learn the result of the French elections

From Austria and Hungary little is positively known, beyond the fact that vast armies from Russia in concert with Austria are now bearing down upon the Hungarians, large bodies of women have retured into the fastness of the country, where they will be able to fall upon the enemy with almost a certainty of success.

By the latest news, positive information has been received that the city of Buda has fallen into the hands of the Hungarians, who are said to have gained posession of the place by treachery, and put the garrison of 500or 600 men to the sword.

In the South, the Magyars are said to be in posession of Fiume, the only seaport of Hungary; which, if true will give a vast impulse to the cause

The meeting of the Emperors of Austria and Russia, at Warsaw lasted but one day. Nothing has transpired as to the interview.

Upon a close analysis of the result of the late elections in france, it appears that there are about 210, or at most 240 ultra democratic members, which is something more than double the number that they were expected to elect, and will give them a vastly greater influence in the present than they posessed in the old assembly. There are upwards of 500 members elected by the various other parties, but they are split up and divided in sentiment, that it is considered doubtful about their being able to unite, upon leading questions of public policy. Personal disputes among the leading members of the several parties would seem to give small promise that the President will be able to select a ministry, strong enough to carry on the Government with that degree of firmness, so much to be desired.—Journal of commerce.

EUROPE.—The question is very soon to be decided—perhaps is decided already,—whether Europe is to be plunged into a general war, or not. The last accounts looked very much like it. If a general war should ensue, the immediate cause of it will have been the interference of Russia in the contest between Austria and Hungary. It was an interence of despotism to put down freedom and independence. The Hungarians had fairly overpowered their invaders, and would soon have been thundering at the gates of Vienna. Austria admitted as much as this, when she called upon Russia for help. And Russia, by granting the aid sought, has made war upon the revolutionary principle which converted France into a Republic, and which has shaken the throne of nearly every monarch in Europe. Had France marched her armies into Italy, when applied to for aid against the Austrians, she would have been in about the same position, as it respects the 'war of principle' (long since predicted by Canning,) which Russia occupies at present. In taking this step, Russia must have known that she was bidding defiance to every free country in Europe. Perhaps she thought that the longer she waited, the greater would be the power against which she would have to contend. Perhaps she chose to precipitate a conflict which she perceived to be inevitable.

France is a chivalric nation, and would be sufficiently inclined to accept the challenge, on the mere ground of national pride. But in addition to this she may conclude, like Russia, that the conflict must come and that it is better to meet it at once, than to wait till the notions upon whose co-operation she could rely, shall be cut off in detail. Hungary has shown herself a match for Austria; and the rest of Germany is neutralized by its own internal dissensions; so that in effect, unless England should be drawn in (and she evidently does not mean to be,) it would be a war between France and Russia.

In this connection it should be borne in mind, that a popular revolution is now going on in Baden and Bavaria, and that the revolutionary leaders of Rhenish Bavaria have petitioned to be annexed to the French Republic. If France remains inactive, these movements will be put down either by Germany or Russia, and France will at length find herself alone, against the combined power of the Continent. At least, such may be the result. And France may feel herself obliged to contemplate it as probable, unless she now takes measures to prevent it. Hence the strong vote (436 to 184) in the National Assembly, 'directing the serious attention of the government to the events and movements of troops now taking place in Europe,' and 'calling upon the government to adopt the measures necessary for the energetic protection of the country' against the dangers which threaten it.

We are not here attempting to decide what is the duty or interest of France in the present emergency, but only to hint at some of the considerations which may influence her in deciding upon the course to be pursued. The greatness of the calamity of a European war cannot be comprehended by any finite mind. Neither can its results. If however it must come, it is some consolation to reflect, that over and above all these events, God rules, and in one way or another will bring good out of evil.—Journal of Commerce.

DIED.

In Plainfield, on Monday June 18th at the residence of Mr. Jacob Manning, Mrs. CATHARINE EDGAR, in the 83d year of her age.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

THE MRKETS.

New York Wednesday June 20.

FLOUR	$4 75 a 5 12
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	95 a 1 00
CORN	60 a 63
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 06 a 1 12
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a 16
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.
Dealers in every description of

DRY GOODS.

290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and their goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.

☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,
The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim. "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality "	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.

JESSE BALDWIN,
Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.

Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:

100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.

Also, a full assortment of

Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,

Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth, street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.
Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

NEW MILLINERY.

MRS. R. ROCAP, & CO.

HAVING OPENED A

FASHIONABLE MILLNERY

IN Front street, next door to Tittsworth, Dunn & Co. Store, would invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to call and examine their large assortment of

SILK AND STRAW BONNETS,

with every variety of trimmings of the latest City style.

Also the dressing of old hats will be promptly attended to.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

WHERE they are constantly receiving, in addition to their former Large Stock of House-Keeping articles, fresh supplies of Goods in their line, by Importation and from Auction, of the latest and most approved style and pattern.

CARPETING. Brussels, three ply, double superfine, superfine and fine Ingrain, Venetian, Hall and Stair Carpeting; also Hemp, List and Rag do; Figured, Drugget and Green Baize, Plain and Check Matting, Fine Embossed and Plain Piano and Table Covers; Fine Chenelle Patent, Tufted and Brussels Hearth Rugs.

Window Blinds and Transparencies of all kinds. Brass and Silver Stair Rods. Crockery, China and Earthen Ware, Cut and Plain Glass, Brittannia Ware, Table Cutlery, Willow, Wooden & Hollow Ware.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do, and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS, Jr.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [28

JUST RECEIVED,

BY the subscriber in addition to his new stock, a new assortment of dry goods of the various fashionable stiles, such as Bareges, Linen Ginghams, Prints, &c. Also the newest and best styles of Crockery and Glass ware.

All kinds of Hardware constantly on hand and got to order together with the best assortment of Groceries that can be produced. Also, Pork, Hams, Fish, Lard, Fresh Butter, and a variety of other articles to numerous to name. Gentlemen and Ladies please favor me with a call, and examine for yourselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau-st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better: because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties, and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part.

But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding, and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrofula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid, which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, or deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are in capable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the enfeebled and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,)
Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)
Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety.
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

LETTER FROM

REV. DR. C. H. O. COTE

TO

KIRWIN, (REV. DR. MURRAY,)

On the the subject of Christian Baptism for sale at this Office at 6 1-4cts. pr copy.

ALSO, A sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. TURTON, pastor of the Baptist Church at Elizabethtown, N. J. in reply to Kirwin's, (Rev. Dr. Murray's) charges against the Baptist, for sale at this Office at 10 cts. a copy.

☞ Now is the time to Advertise.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap.

by D. BULLMAN.

April 25 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1849. | NO. 28.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

WATCHES, CLOCKS, AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends aud the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCKES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c.,

A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c. together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849. [27

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan.10. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

From the Ladies National Magazine.

THE TWO VISITS.

BY GRACE MANNERS.

'How did you enjoy the party last night, girls,' said Mr. Chester, to his daughters.

'Oh, pappa,' replied Lizzy, 'I was nearly fagged out. I danced nearly ever cotillion—waltz and polka, and was engaged for three or four more when we left, which are to stand over for the assembly to-morrow night."

'Pretty well for you,' said her father; 'and Mary, how were you pleased?' turning to his eldest daughter.

'Just as much as Lizzie, father. I danced until I could hardly stand, and then I flirted until I came away; so of course I liked it.'

'Now, Lucy, my little niece, what say you of this your first ball among strangers?' asked Mr. Chester, of a pretty arch-looking girl, who was seated next to him.

'I must say I had a delightful evening of course, I suppose, uncle. I danced, let me see,' looking very thoughtful, 'one whole cotillion, and half a waltz; two gentlemen bowed to me, and three looked at me; so considering that I knew only about a dozen, and was a stranger, I had a pleasant time, and was very hospitably treated;' and she laughed merrily.

'Why how did that happen, child?' said her uncle, looking annoyed; 'and girls, what were you doing that you did not see after your cousin?'

'La! papa I was dancing in another room all the evening,' replied Lizzie, 'and thought Mary was with Lucy.'

'And I am sure,' said Mary, 'I saw Lucy dancing with the greatest exquisite in the room, and afterward waltzing with him, so I thought she was getting on very well; and I did think, Lucy, you might have introduced him to us; but you seemed to want to keep him all to yourself. You had a regular flirtation with him.'

'No wonder if she had,' replied Mr. Chester, 'as you left her to take care of herself. Who was he, Lucy?'

'Only my cousin, Harry Winslow. He had just returned from Europe, and of course we had a great deal to talk of. Don't he waltz nicely, Lizzie?'

'Yes,' said Lizzie, 'he does waltz to perfection, and I was in hopes you would introduce him to me, and that I should have a waltz with him, but he hurried you off into the entry again, where I suppose you finished your flirtation.'

'Well, Lizzie, what was I to do?' said Lucy—'I did beg Harry to go and talk to some of the belles he knew; but when he found that I knew no one; and that you never came near me, he vowed he would not stir a step, and there he stayed talking of old times and of his travels, until Mrs. B——came to ask him to take one of the married ladies into supper, and then I was left alone.'

'And who took you in?' asked her uncle.

'Mr. Nobody,' said Lucy, 'for finding that I was likely to be the 'left ladye,' I ran up stairs into the dressing-room, and played with one of the children I found up there. And this is a full, true, and particular account of my first ball here. Don't you think it must have been pleasant, uncle?'

'Not very, Lucy, I must own, though I admire the spirit in which you take it, and am heartily ashamed for those of my own city, who had no more politeness to show a stranger.'

'To tell the truth, uncle,' said Lucy, 'I did expect to be a little more noticed, especially as there were several of the beaux who last winter were entertained at our house more than once, when your girls were with us: but they seem to have forgotten that, and me too; and so will I—I suppose I am not formed for the society here. My clothes are not fine enough, and my skin not fair enough for their tastes, and my purse not deep enough—so I must bear their neglect as I may.'

'You give a high standard to our young men, Lucy, at any rate,' said her Cousin Charles. 'Complexion and clothes, and money is what you think they go by, a pretty compliment to us, by Jove.'

'Jove did not tell me so, any how,' said Lucy. 'But I never have heard the gentlemen that come here speak of anything else regarding the ladies, but their feet and hands, their complexion, dress, and wealth—so what am I think? But I will hear all that you have to say when I come from my walk with Mr. Winslow, Cousin Harry, as I always call him. Now he is handsome and rich and yet he always mentions a lady's senses and manners before her feet and her money, and that I like.'

'Are you going to walk with him this afternoon?' exclaimed both girls, in a breath. 'Do bring him back to tea?'

'I will ask him,' said Lucy; 'but he is very odd.'

While Lucy is enjoying her walk with her very desirable cousin, we will take a small survey, of past time, and tell who these young people are into whose society we have been introduced. Lucy Mason is the niece of Mrs. Chester; the daughter of her brother, who in early life had eloped with one of the greatest heiresses in Boston; his sister, Mrs. Chester, being very active in the affair and professing great love for his wife. Mrs. Mason was in truth a most loveable and charming woman, and made her husband a devoted and worshipping wife; but riches she did not bring him, as her harsh, obstinate, unforgiving father never allowed her name to be mentioned in his presence, and actually hated her for having married the man she loved, young, handsome and clever, instead of the ugly, rich old stock-broker, to whom he had destined her. A year after her marrige, he married himself; and having a son, formally announced his intention of leaving all to him and cutting off his daughter entirely: and for twenty years had never seen her, or spoken of her. During this time a lovely family had grown up around her, and though far from rich, she had never regretted the step she had taken, excepting from the grief she felt at her father's anger and her never seeing him. Her children of coure knew of these circumstances: but so dearly did they love their handsome, indulgent father and mother, that no regrets for their want of fortune ever escaped them: and their cross old grandfather and his shining heaps was seldom thought of. Mrs. Chester was a very wordly person, her children were brought up to shine and attract, and above all, she worshipped wealth. When therefore, all hopes of her brother becoming rich through his wife were given up, she cared less and less for either of them and when Lucy came to return the visit her cousins had made her the preceding winter, she made as little of her as was possible without absolute neglect. Fortunately for Lucy she cared but little for such things, and knowing that being passed over at a ball and not having splendid dresses, were neither of them great sins in other places, she was now laughing heartily with Harry over her last night's discomfitures, and doing her best to coax him to come home with her and be introduced to her cousins.

'No, I will not, Lucy,' said he, 'I am determined. I think their behaviour to you last night was too rude. They want to know me because I am rich, and for that I despise them. I am going to get the pretiest boquet for you I can procure. I mean to waltz only with you, and I shall introduce to you two or three distingue friends I have met here; an English lord and a French viscount being among them, and you shall know them and your cousins shall not, if I can prevent it.'

Lucy shook her head. 'You cannot change the nature of the people here,' she said; 'they think of nothing but externals, and of the money that brings them. Now if my cross old grandfather would only forgive my dear mother, and one of his millions was known to be coming to us, I should become one of the greatest belles here.'

'It is all very true,' said Harry, 'but why don't you thank me for my bouquet especially as you know I don't often give such things?'

'Not on this Continent at any rate, my fine cousin,' said Lucy, smiling. 'I do thank you for it most heartily, however, and when I next write to Paris, I shall mention that I heard of you sending such gallantries to a young lady—shall I?'

'Willingly,' replied he, 'if you will only mention her name. It will be a great reccomendation to me in that quarter.'

'Ah! well, Harry, I will keep your secret, for the girls here hate rich young men to come here engaged: good-bye, don't forget the English lord and the French viscount to-morrow night, nor the boquet.' And so saying, she parted with her cousin at the door, to the great indignation of the young ladies. who were looking at them from behind the blinds.

Lucy punctually received her boquet, fragrant, costly and beautiful, the most magnificent that could be procured evidently, and quite eclipsing those that her cousins had received from their admirers; but with it unfortunately came a note, announcing that the donor, very greatly to his chagrin, had been obliged by business of importance to leave there that afternoon for home, and with many regrets at missing the ball, he bade her good-bye. This was hard upon our little heroine. The dismal prospect of a solitary seat on a bench rose before her. Her boquet seemed now a mockery to her feelings. As she feared, the public ball was but a repetition of her experience at the private one.—Though pretty and tastefully dressed, and quite as handsome as her cousin, she was left alone—and with the exception of a waltz with her Couzin Charles, which for very shame's sake he felt obliged to ask her to take with him, and a cotillion with the French nobleman, whom she found she had known at home, she passed the evening sitting by the lady who chaperoned their party to the ball, and who was too busy fussing after her own fine daughters to care much for a young girl, whom she knew was neither very rich nor very fashionable at home.

Lucy was thoroughly mortified, and not a little provoked; and her mind was made up never to try another ball at B——. Her cousins said, 'they were sorry she did not enjoy herself,' but no thought of their own impoliteness ever struck them, and no recolection of the trouble she had taken that they should have a pleasant visit when with her, ever crossed their memories. She did not suit the taste of the beaux there, they thought, and as that must be her fault they cared nothing for it. Lucy finished her visit without again trying another ball, and without being missed or asked after, and returned home liking her own city, and her own people better than ever.

A year and a half afterward she repeated her visit, and what a charming, charming creature her cousins and her friends then found her! Her coming was announced weeks before, and her presence solicited at parties prior to her arrival—nay! the assembly even was postponed a week in order to be certain that Miss Mason's presence would grace it. Visitors crowded to Mr. Chester's in the morning, and every evening a levee of beaux gladdened the eyes of his daughters, and bowed obsequiously before their cousin. The neglected Miss Lucy Mason of a former visit, was now the belle triumphant; her witticisms, which formerly were just smiled at, were now applauded and repeated as wonders of smartness, and though sooth to say, they were generally very cutting, and not a little personal, they were humbly received and much admired—our little Lucy was a person of great distinction And why? Her rich old grandfather was dead; having outlived his son only a few weeks, the shock of whose sudden death speedily brought his old father to the grave. He lived long enough, however, to make a will, by which, true to his vow of not leaving his daughter a dollar, he passed over her, and left the whole of it to her children, four in number. No wonder then that Lucy, with her half million, is now such a sparkling belle with these disinterested folks: and no wonder that she should despise them, and let them see that she has not forgotten their former neglect of her. As to their feeling it when had the worshippers of mammon any feeling? Lucy now was all the 'ton,' the observed of all observers. The two young men who on her former visit bowed to her at her first ball, were now most devotedly in love with her, and spoke of being very old friends of hers. The three looked at her, averred how very much they had been struck with her beauty that night; and as for her 'chaperon' to the assembly, she was never tired of saying how intimate she was with her, and that she had taken her to her first public ball—she gave her dinner and supper parties, borrowed her mantillas, cloaks and dresses for patterns and made her daughters dress, walk, and try to talk like her. How amused at first, and disgusted both first and last Lucy was no pen can describe. She despised the homage paid to her wealth, far more than she felt the former mortifications inflicted upon her from her want of it, and returned the devotion now paid her by affected airs of indifference, quite foreign to her true character. She had a great disregard for dress, and with a costly wardrobe that any one might borrow from, appeared at their grandest balls in the same simple muslin she wore when there before. All wondered, but none abused—it was a charming excentric. She changed her mind about going to the assembly, and sent her French maid to look on in the ladies' dressing-room, carrying two of the largest and most splendid of the half dozen bouquets that had been sent for her acceptance. The donors winced a little when they heard of this, but failed not to call the next day to ask after the headache that had kept her away. She denied the indisposition, and only pleaded a want of inclination to go—they bowed in humility, and sent her more bouquets for the next evening She sent her cards by her footman in return for the visits that had been paid her, and went to see a sick and poor friend on the same morning; and what in others would have been called insufferable rudeness, was in her 'so kind hearted.' She even ventured to talk of books that she liked, and what before was 'bad taste, blue, pedantic stuff,' was now agreeable information, a well filled mind, whereas it was only a well filled purse that dazzled their imaginations. If she was rude it was only a brusque manner—if she was sarcastic, it was wit—if she dressed plainly, it was such good taste—if she wore guady things, it was so stylish—she would not waltz—she would not dance the polka, and half the girls stood still while their partners were clustered round talking to her. True, they were provoked; but there was no use of complaining, for had not Miss Mason half a million of her own, and did not each one of those charming young men hope that he might perhaps be the happy man destined to share it with her—at any rate they would try. But they were doomed to disappointment. Lucy brought her visit to a close, without leaving her heart with any of her disinterested friends—though they offered theirs in exchange by the dozen. She left nothing with them but rejections to her lovers, and jewels to her cousins, and went back to her home quite heart whole to prepare for a visit to Paris, to act there as bridesmaid to her Cousin Harry Winslow's bride long her most loved friend. Then she bestowed herself and her wealth upon a friend of her cousin's; one who had loved her when she was comparatively poor, and who now rich himself, was hastening home to offer himself to her, when he heard she was expected in France. After rehearsing as groomsman and bridesmaid to their friends, they played the principal parts themselves, and returned home—married. Many a hearty laugh did she enjoy with her cousin and his wife, in relating her two visits to the South.

Is not this a caricature I hear some one say; and in sober sadness I answer, it is not. Do we not every day hear and see of the metamorphoses wrought by wealth? The ugly are beautified, the stupid brightened, the old become youthful; and all by the almighty dollar! Even here in this our own enlightened city, in this Athens of America, with its libraries and athenæums, its colleges and schools, its academies of science and art, even here, where society of a much higher stamp, as regards intellect, information, mind and manners, can be found than in any other city in the Union, wealth can, and does stand with many in the first place. The want of it does not banish any one from society, as it does in some other places—but the possession of it gives a false value to many a piece of worthless metal, that otherwise would be rejected and thrown out. What we shall become when California's gold is poured out upon us; when all the 'diggers and miners' return with their hugh lumps of metal transformed into coin, and expect to take their place among the refined and cultivated on the strength of that gold, time only can show. Long may it be with us before wealth is everything, and intellect is sent into the back-ground—long may it be before the 'Golden Calf' is created with us to be fallen down to and worshipped, or before gold is everything and worth nothing.

Kentucky—Her Peril.

The fact that in every Northern State which they cannot hope otherwise to control the party lately hurled from power in the Nation has formed or is forming copartnerships with the distinctive Free Soilers on the platform of hostility to the Extension of Slavery would seem discordant with another notorious truth—namely, that in every Southern State the same party is electioneering with all its might against the present Administration as hostile to Slavery Extension, untrue to the South, &c. and urging all true Southrons to unite with them on that ground. More closely scanned, however, the discrepency is seen to cover a consistency. The object is the same in both cases—to get into power any how, no matter on what principles, so they but get in. If they can carry Vermont and Ohio by Anti-Slavery professions, and at the same time Kentucky and Tennessee by rallying the Perpetual-Slaveryites to their standard, they will have pretty nearly broken down the Administration before it has had time to mature and develop its policy. We shall wait a little, however, before believing that such a game can succeed in this day of abundant Newspapers and widely, radiating Telegraph wires, but we have koown schemes as barefaced to obtain a transitory and unreal success. We think the times, however, were not so enlightened as those we now live in.—N. Y. Tribune June 25th.

The lines we have italicised, and the eleciion of Gen. Taylor, are a sufficient commentary on the above —Ed. Gazette.

THE EX-KING OF THE FRENCH.—Louis Philippe has not been talked of much lately. You have heard of his poverty and of his debts. I have now in my possession the most indisputable evidence that he is still the richest private individual in the known world. His agent in New-York, M. Lafarge, has bought for him in houses, stocks, shares, &c. property producing an annual income of ten millions of francs. It is perfectly useless for any of his friends to deny this fact, perfectly well known on the New-York Exchange—Paris Cor. Glasgow Daily Mail.

MORE THAN BARGAINED FOR.—One day John Gay, a noted disciple of Major Longbow's, was riding by a tavern where he was well known. The landlord a queer fellow, stood on the stoop surrounded by several 'drouthy cronies.' As John was passing in hot haste, the landlord called to him,

'Hallo, Gay, stop and tell us a lie.'

"Pon my soul, I can't' said Gay, pressing on.

But the clamor for the lie was so violent that he was forced to excuse himself by saying, that he was going post haste for the doctor: 'Daniel Chambers,' said he, (naming a highly respcetable farmer some two miles off among the hills,) 'has fallen from his mow and broke his arm and leg, and I must hurry back, for there's scarce anybody with him.'

And with a face full of gravity and sympathy, John sped on his errand of mercy, while the inn-keeper and his comrades performed a steeple-chase across the hills to find farmer Chambers sound, wind and limb; the fact being amply proved by the violent contortions and obstreporous laughter he indulged in at the discomfiture of the party.—N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

Every married man should let his wife have the management of the Home Department, and give her, as Secretary, the control of the different bureaus. Don't let her have any thing to do with the War Department.

When did Adam first use a walking-stick? When Eve presented him with a little Cane.

HARD HIT.—While Raphael was engaged in painting his celebrated frescoes, he was visited by two cardinals, who began to criticise his work, and found fault without understanding it. Said one:

'The Apostle Paul has too red a face.'

'He blushes even in Heaven,' said the indignant artist, 'to see into what hands the church has fallen!'

'Don't be surprised if, after you have sailed smoothly a few months on the voyage of matrimony, you are suddenly overtaken by squalls.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, June 28, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

OUR COURSE.—We percieve by an introduction to an article from our columns, published in the Democratic Banner of Middletown Point N J. and also by notices in several other Journals, that we are set down as neutral. Now whether this is because of our adherence to the truth in any matter which we may have advanced, or on which we may have commented, or whether for our advocacy of the equal rights of all men, or our opposition to all monopolies, special privileges, absurd and tyranical laws, we cannot say: If this may have been the cause, our cotemporaries are all right, and may go ahead; but if they allude to our position in politics or any other matter wherein man's interests are concerned, we must beg leave to correct the impression.

We are not neutral but independent having an opinion of our own on all subjects which we freely express; we have thus far, as we ever intend, pursued an independent course; giving free expression to our opinions on all subjects in any way connected with man's interest, advocating democracy as we understand it, without being swayed by the fear of losing our subscribers who differ in opinion from us, believing that all men who hold an opinion of their own independent of cliques, or parties, sects or creeds, will cheerfully tolerate that independence of opinion in others which they themselves enjoy; those who take their opinions upon trust from the party or sect to which they belong, without examination, although their support in a pecuniary point of view might be acceptable, yet can never be purchased by a deviation from the course we have from the first laid down for ourselves; this we believe all who have taken our paper from the commencement will give us credit for; although somewhat radical in our opinions, we shall continue to give them expression without troubling ourselves to what persons, parties, or sects opinions they may coincide; on this ground we hope for support.

As we have frequently remarked before, many profess, but all do not practice true democracy; its simplicity, its adaptation to man's wants, like the simple religion of Jesus, calls forth the admiration of mankind; but also like it, its requirements of self denial is a great barrier to its universal practice; the great precepts of the gospel is also its precepts, its foundation; viz; "whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets:" this also is the great corner stone of all true democracy. It matters not what name men may take unto themselves, apply this test and you may know whether they are for or against it; therefore all who advocate the right of mankind to enslave or hold in bondage his fellow man, or who are the advocates of special privileges either to one individual or a company, whether that privilege be a bank charter, a rail-road charter, or the right to sell or to buy, to eat or to walk, to vote or to talk, are not democrats, never have been, or ever will be while they advocate special privileges, neither is he a democrat or freeman who voluntarily and without an effort submits to them

May not this error of the Banner and others have arisen from the fact that our cotemporary of the Plainfield Union professed to publish a neutral paper; very probable; he formerly, we believe, published a democratic paper, then neutral, since our commencement he has tried his hand at whiggery, but its "no go," having got somewhat in the habit of telling the truth while publishing the aforesaid democratic and neutral journal, whiggery it is evident is too much for his conscience, his readers do not believe he is a whig when he says so from the facts above given; we hope this will set all parties straight with regard to our neutrality: whether our cotemporary of the Union will be able like Gen. Taylor to sear his conscience sufficient to make a whig editor, time will show.

THE CROPS.—As far as we can learn from our exchange papers throughout the State, and our own observation in our own neighborhood, the crops never promised a more abundant harvest.

☞ The Republicans of Rome are determined on freedom. They never will again submit to be governed by Popery. They are freeing themselves from Priestcraft by exterminating the corrupt horde of Catholic Clergy, who have for ages preyed upon their very vitals. In many instances they have seized upon the carcasses of these worthless fellows, and, after cutting them up into small pieces, threw them into the river. Let Ireland follow the example. Exterminate the Catholic Clergy, and then—and not till then, will they have a chance to gain their freedoom! 'Down with the Catholic Priests!' should be the motto of every friend to Ireland!—Camden Democrat

Does the Democrat mean to say that it would cut up into small pieces and throw into the river every Romish Priest? Is this the Democrats democracy? To us, it smacks somewhat of the principle that burned John Rogers at the stake.

We doubt very much of the Romish Priests being the sole cause of the degredation and misery of Ireland, it is our opinion that English Protestantism has had quite as much to do with it, Priests we admit have ever stood in the way of the advancement of the people in knowledge and consequently of their rights, but it has not been romish priests alone. We believe the late Pope of Rome has done as much for the advancement of liberal ideas and consequently of man's rights as any person in Europe. Our prejudices against a sect in religion or politics often lead us to commit the very errors we condemn.—Tyranny of whatever form is odius to us, and we shall do all we can to help put it down; the best way to do this is to let men know their rights, give them knowledge; not excite their prejudices; let them know that all mens rights are equal, and he that asks for more is a tyrant, and he that submits to less is a slave; therefore give men knowledge, enlighten their minds, do away with that illiberal spirit of sects and parties and men will not long remain slaves.

Education—Convention.

Education is progressive, it cannot stand still, it must either progress or retrogade, which shall it do? The friends of Education in Plainfield have already done much towards its advancement, much more remains to be done. Shall we have any action taken in regard to the approaching National Common School Convention, which is to assemble in Philadelphia on the 22nd. day of August next? If so, some preliminary action is necessary, a district meeting, an address, and selection of suitable persons to represent us at Trenton, which place was recommended for the meeting of the State Convention, and the time 4th. day of July, by what more noble object could we celebrate the birthday of our National Independence.

☞ We would call the attention of our Merchants and others to the card of Messrs Ford & Raynolds, Flour dealers &c., in another column of our paper: we know for we speak from experience, that they are honorable men, and will sell Flour as low as it can be had in the city, being content with small profits; put our words to the test by a call on them at 80 Cortlandt st. one door from West st. New York.

The writings of Maria Edgeworth.

The admirable tales written by this gifted writer, now no more, in our estimation are in moral worth unrivaled; and are as much above the teachings of most of the modern trash, as the practical teachings of Christ are above those of his modern disciples; the impressions left on our mind for good from the recollections of such tales as 'Lame Jarvis,' 'Limerac Gloves,' Out of debt, out of danger,' &c. although read many years since, death alone can ever efface; and which will doubtless live a grateful memorial in the minds of thousands when the deeds of kings shall have been forgotten.

☞ Don't forget the Ladies Fair to be held on the 4th. day of July at Laing's Hall.

☞ John Augustus has been security for the unfortunates who have been arraigned at the Police Court to the amount of more than six thousand dollars since January last. Not a man, within this time, of those whom he has thus befriended, has deceived him or proved a defaulter. This speaks volumes for humanity. —Boston Republican.

☞ If the burning of powder is a preventative of the Cholera, it is to be hoped that the celebration of our Independence will totally exterminate it; what quantity will be necessary for Plainfield, and who will furnish the pewter?—Our devil.

Written for the Plainfeld Gazette.

AMBROSE SPENCER.

Few of the colonies suffered more severely during the revolutionary war, and none made greater sacrifices in the cause of freedom, than New-Jersey. Her peculiar situation enabled the foe almost continually to overrun her territory, marking every step of his progress with acts of which even savages would be ashamed. Women were insulted, and in some cases murdered in cold blood. (I will mention but one instance: when the enemy passed through Springfield, in this county—which they burned—a soldier left the ranks and deliberately shot Mrs Caldwell, wife of the patriot and clergyman of that name, as she was sitting in the window of their dwelling, with a child in her arms.) Our villages and country dwellings in many instances were given to the flames; their moveables destroyed or carried away; even the widow's cow was killed or stolen without remorse; children and hoary-headed men were mal-treated and sometimes maimed for life; and the man who was known to make any effort to resist these demons in human form, if found unprotected, was hurried to the gibbet or the Jersey prison-ship. The Jersey prison-ship! who has not heard of that fearful hell, where thousands of the bravest of our countrymen perished, not by fire or sword—for that would have been comparatively merciful—but by the tortures of starvation, and by breathing the foul, pestilential miasma engendered in that dreadful prison? The "horrors of the middle passage" are not more terrible than were those enacted on board the old hulk which was anchored in the waters of the beautiful Hudson.

Among the thousands who for years were immured in this dungeon was Ambrose Spencer, a young man, who with his father, on the first call for volunteers, had left their ploughs in the unfinished furrow, and rallied in defence of their country.

Young Spencer was taken prisoner shortly after the war commenced, and treated with great harshness. He was a strong, healthy man when captured, with a constitution capable of enduring great fatigue. His father owned a large farm near this village, and previous to the war father and son passed their days in healthful and pleasant labor in its cultivation. But the brutal treatment to which he was now exposed; the want of wholesome, necessary food; the cramped space in which he was confined; and the foul air he constantly inhaled, had reduced him to the shadow of the strong man he formerly was. His whole personal appearance had undergone a great change; the clothes he had on when he was taken prisoner, were the only ones he possessed during the years of his confinemet; his face was unshaven; his hair had grown to an enormous length; and he was such a wretched-looking object that the mother who bore him would not have recognized her child without difficulty.

Why young Spencer was liberated while thousands of his countrymen remained in prison, was always a mystery to him He sometimes thought it had been done by a freak of folly in the officer who had him in charge; who, though generally harsh in his orders, was occasionally the subject of humorous fancies. The day Spencer was set at liberty he had been employed in performing some menial office on deck; and the officer, probably struck with the fancy of seeing a rebel drown, told him if he wished to go ashore he might jump over-board at his earliest convenience. Spencer waited not for a second bidding; the love of liberty, of which he had been a long time deprived, inspired him with the determination of reaching the shore if possible, or if—on account of his weakness—he must perish, he preferred encountering death a hundred times in the free waters of the glorious Hudson, to remaining in the charnel-house where he was. With one bound he sprang out into the clear cool waters; and swam for the Jersey shore. Had he not been long deprived of the use of his limbs in the small space where he was confined, weak as he was he could have reached the beach with comparative ease. But stiff and sore from his long incarceration he soon felt that it would task his strength to the utmost to escape a watery grave. Sink or swim, live or die, he once more felt the free air of heaven cool his fevered brow, and as his blood circulated more freely he thanked God that he had escaped a prison more horrible than the Bastile under its most inhuman keeper.

The shore is gained at length! but not until young Spencer was completely exhausted. He crawled out of the water near some bushes, and dragging his wearied limbs to their shelter he fell insensible on the sand. When he recovered, the sun—which was about two hours high when he reached the spot had gone down behind the mountains, and the shades of night were inviting all nature to repose. Though he had nothing to satisfy the cravings of hunger, and was one of the most pitiable objects over which humanity ever grieved, still the consciousness that he was once more a free man made him truly grateful, and after returning thanks to the Creator for this blessing, he began to reflect on his present position. He was entirely ignorant of everything that had transpired during his imprisonment. Was the country yet in possession of the enemy; or had the people been successful in their efforts to drive the invader from the soil? He had no means of knowing, and feared to make any enquiry. He decided therefore on concealing himself during the day, and traveling each night as far ashe was able. By pursuing this plan he hoped to procure something to eat and avoid notice. Weak as he was he trusted by two or three nights travel to reach his home. His home! what hopes and fears this little word excited in his breast! Had he a home remaining? Might not the enemy, as they had done in thousands of cases, have driven away the loved inmates, and given the dwelling—the house where he was born, and where his youthful days have been passed as in a pleasant dream—to the flames? And the parents, to whom he was so much indebted and whom he loved, would he find them safe and happy? The three beautiful sisters whom he had left with their mother in the enjoyment of health and happiness, had they escaped insult; and would he find them all alive, and ready to welcome their suffering brother? And when he thought of them there also arose in his mind the image of another beautiful creature who was often their playmate and companion. Julia Harris was a prize worth contending for, and Ambrose had persuaded her to promise to become his bride as soon as the war should end. Many wretched days and nights had passed since he had pressed her to his heart as he bade her a sad farewell. Not that he regretted to perform his duty; for tenderly as he loved his mistress he was too good a patriot to hesitate one moment when his country was calling on all her sons to rise in her defence. And even if he had been disposed to hold back in the hour of trial, Julia, though she loved him with all her heart, would have cast him off as unworthy of her regard.

Home! It is a word that inspires the soldier when he strikes at his countrys oppressor; it is a magic sound to the far-off wanderer whenever it falls on his ear, recalling the happy scenes and companions of his childhood; the most abandoned of our race is sometimes deeply affected when he thinks of home! He cannot entirely forget the days when he was innocent and happy; reccollections of a mothers kindness will arise—he will occasionally remember her tender watchful care! her earnest efforts to preserve him from every evil and procure for him everything good; her warnings, her entreaties, her prayers; all present themselves to his mind, and the strong man bows his head and weeps!

Mother! though your child may wander far from you, and stray a great distance from the path of virtue, if his home was a pleasant one he will hardly become a castaway. The remembrance of his home—if it was such a place as a mother should have made it—will cause him to return and crave your blessing before he dies!

Young Spencer made but slow progress in his journey; the weather was intensely hot, his weakness made it painful for him to move, and the fear of being arrested and carried back to the prison from which in so singular a manner he had been permitted to depart, all served to make his movements very tedious. He nearly perished in the woods for want of food, for he preferred to suffer the greatest misery rather than run any risk of being arrested.

It had been one of the most sultry days of the season. The sun during the entire day, had darted down his hottest rays; not a cloud as large as a man's hand had for a moment eclipsed his fiercest beams. The air seemed to have lost its vitality; not a breath from heaven animated wearied man or beast. The way-worn traveler felt the earth grow hot under his feet; and his skin blistered and cracked as though he had passed through the fire. The cattle lolled by the road-side; and the loaded horse sank down under his burden, and death relieved him from his labors. The cornfield and the meadows dried up and wilted almost as rapidly as if they had been exposed to the frosts of winter. The evening was but little cooler than the day. As the sun went down behind the mountains it appeared like a globe of fire; and the air, instead of growing cool as the evening set in, became almost like the glow of the furnace.

Such was the evening that Ambrose approached his home, but he feared he would die of exhaustion before he should be able to reach it. Every movement cost him a groan; his feet were blistered and bled at every step; and nothing but the hope that he was drawing near those who were dear to him could have prevented him from lying down by the roadside to die. It was near midnight when he drew near his birth-place; and he felt a heavy load removed from his heart when he saw that the old farm-house was standding in the same condition as he left it. At length he reaches the gate in front of the dwelling; but instead of entering he pauses for a moment, fearing that some calmity may have happened to these who, years before, had bade him a sad adieu at that very spot. A thousand memories throng his aching head—the scene of his youthful sports is before him—the sufferings he had borne since the morning he left his home all recur to his recollection, and he is truly thankful that he has been permitted to revisit that beloved spot before he dies. Why does he not enter and enquire if all yet live and are happy? His limbs no longer perform their functions; he falls insensible to the ground overcome by the violence of his emotions.

The family are startled by a groan which proceeds from some creature near their dwelling. They had retired to rest long since, but the heat had kept slumber from visiting their pillows. Listening intently for a moment they heard the noise again It apparently proceeded from a human being in great agony. It was a severe trial for the lonely women who occupied the house to open their door at that unseasonable hour, in those fearful times; but they could not hesitate a moment while one of Gods children was perishing, without seeking to save him. Prompted by their humane feelings they hastened out in search of the fellow-creature who, without speedy aid, would soon have been beyond human help. His groans directed them to the spot, and they found him outside the gate, where he had fainted some time previous. After they had carried him into the house and applied camphor and other restoratives to his face and temples he was at length able to whisper— J. C. A.

[To be Continued.]

Cholera.

NEW YORK, Sunday June 24.

Dr. Geer, the Resident Physician, reports 38 new cases of Cholera and 21 deaths, as having occurred since his report of yesterday, returned in the following order:

	Cases.	Deaths.
Private practice,	18	11
Centre-st. Hospital	12	4
William-st. Hospital	8	6
Total	38	21

The register for last week is as follows:

	Cases.	Deaths
Sunday,	26	18
Monday,	42	17
Tuesday,	41	10
Wednesday,	30	14
Thursday,	26	14
Friday,	38	16
Saturday,	40	21
Total	243	110

June 25th 47 new cases, and 25 deaths of Cholera.

CINCINNATI, June 22.

The Cholera is rapidly on the increase in our city; and 54 interments of death by that disease have been made to-day. From other diseases the interments were 16.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, June 25th.

The Board of Health report 20 new cases of Cholera and 8 deaths since last report

LETITIA S. BLAISDELL —It will be seen by the proceedings of the Legislature. that the bill for the commutation of the punishment of Letitia S. Blaisdell. from death to that of imprisonment for life, has passed both branches It will undoubtedly become a law to-day by the signature of the Governor.—Cocord (N. H.) Rep.

An editor down South, who served four days on a jury, says he's so full of law, that it is hard for him to keep from cheating somebody.

LATER LROM CALIFORNIA.

The Crescent City arrived at 5 1-2 P. M. Saturday, 4 days and 8 hours from Havana, with 151 passengers, and about half a million dollars worth of gold dust

This is simply the amount on freight, and does not include that in possession of the passengers. The New Orleans Picayune, of the 16th, says that she has on board $496,500 in gold dust, $50,000 in specie, and 50 packages of merchandise.

The Cresent City also brings the Panama surveying corps.

CHARLESTON June 21, 1849

A correspondent of the Globe from San Francisco, writes that the arrival in that port of a Mexican schooner, had awakened suspicions of a very inimical character to our sovereignty. He says it would not be extraordinary if, by the union of the Spaniards, Mexicans, and Europeans, this jewel is wrested from the hands of the North Americans, and forms a great and powerful nation.

He thinks that the barbarous conduct of General Smith towards foreigners, in prohibiting them from digging at the mines, will be the means of bringing it about.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, June 22.

Late advices from Texas state that the Indians were still committing great depredation on the Texan frontier.

Major Vanhorn with six companies of infantry had left San Antonio on the 1st inst. to operate against them. It is estimated that in all there have been five California emigrants murdered by the indians. The Cholera was still raging violently in the interior towns of Mexico.

BOSTON, Monday, June 25th.

The Legislature of Newhampshire voted on Friday last, by a majority of 63 not to abolish Capital Punishment.

Conundrums.

Why are a parcel of idle children like wafers?

Because you have to lick 'em to make them stick to their letters.

Why are the boys who loaf about the wharvers like hardware merchants?

Because they sell iron and steal for a living.

Why is a cat that hasn't caught a rat for six weeks like Noah's ark?

Because it didn't light on e'er a rat (Arrat) for forty days and nights.

Why does the cook make more noise than the bell?

Because one makes a din, but the other a dinner.

Why is a woman in love like a man of profound knowledge?

Because she understands the 'arts' and 'sigh'-ences.

The Hannibal Journal gives the following as the superscription of a letter which lately passed through the post office of that town:

'to my d ar ant sally
She Cawgar
El nize
I had a short ager spell to day''

DIED.

In this place on Sunday morning Richard H. infant son of Thomas B. and Lucy Ann Woodland.

At Locus Grove near Rahway, on the 22d inst. Hugh Hartshorne, in the 69th year of his age.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday June 27.

FLOUR	$4 50 a 5 25
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 00
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 06 a 1 12
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	14

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19, 1849.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.

Dealers in every description of

DRY GOODS.

290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and their goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.

☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50. Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim. "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality "	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.

JESSE BALDWIN,

Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.

Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:

100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.

Also, a full assortment of

Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,

Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK. sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

NEW MILLINERY.

MRS. R. ROCAP, & CO.

HAVING OPENED A

FASHIONABLE MILLINERY

IN Front street, next door to Tittsworth, Dunn & Co. Store, would invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to call and examine their large assortment of

SILK AND STRAW BONNETS,

with every variety of trimmings of the latest City style.

Also the dressing of old hats will be promptly attended to.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

WHERE they are constantly receiving, in addition to their former Large Stock of House-Keeping articles, fresh supplies of Goods in their line, by Importation and from Auction, of the latest and most approved style and pattern.

CARPETING. Brussels, three ply, double superfine, superfine and fine Ingrain, Venetian, Hall and Stair Carpeting; also Hemp, List and Rag do; Figured, Drugget and Green Baize, Plain and Check Matting, Fine Embossed and Plain Piano and Table Covers; Fine Chenelle Patent, Tufted and Brussels Hearth Rugs.

Window Blinds and Transparencies of all kinds. Brass and Silver Stair Rods. Crockery, China and Earthen Ware, Cut and Plain Glass, Brittannia Ware, Table Cutlery, Willow, Wooden & Hollow Ware.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do., and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS Jr
Newark, N. J. 1849. [28

JUST RECEIVED,

BY the subscriber in addition to his new stock, a new assortment of dry goods of the various fashionable stiles, such as Bareges, Linen Ginghams, Prints, &c. Also the newest and best styles of Crockery and Glass ware.

All kinds of Hardware constantly on hand and got to order together with the best assortment of Groceries that can be produced. Also, Pork, Hams, Fish, Lard, Fresh Butter, and a variety of other articles to numerous to name. Gentlemen and Ladies please favor me with a call, and examine for yourselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec. 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better; because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties, and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part. But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases. By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrotula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, or deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

---

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the enfeebled and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5. 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED across THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

LETTER FROM

REV. DR. C. H. O. COTE

TO

KIRWIN, (REV. DR. MURRAY,)

On the the subject of Christian Baptism for sale at this Office at 6 1-4cts. pr copy.

ALSO, A sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. TURTON, pastor of the Baptist Church at Elizabethtown, N. J. in reply to Kirwin's, (Rev. Dr. Murray's) charges against the Baptist, for sale at this Office at 10 cts. a copy.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing on hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

121-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars. Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap, by D. BULLMAN.

April 25 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1849. | NO. 29.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Quaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspape rpublication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga, Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for Lippard's Washington and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

All of Lippard's works for sale here.

Why don't you take the Papers?

BY N. P. WILLIS.

Why don't you take the papers?
They're 'the life of my delight;'
Except about election time,
And then I read for spite.

Subscribe, you cannot lose a cent—
Why should you be afraid?
For cash thus paid is money lent
On interest four-fold paid.

Go then, and take the papers,
And pay to-day, nor pray delay
And my word, it is inferred
You'll live till you are gray.

An old newspaper friend of mine,
While dying from a cough,
Desired to hear the latest news,
Whilst he was going off.

I took the paper, and I read
Of some new pills in force;
He bought a box—and is he dead?
No—hearty as a horse.

I knew a printer's debtor once,
Racked with a scorching fever,
Who swore to pay her bill next day,
If her distress would leave her.

Next morning she was, at her word,
Divested of her pain,
Dut did forget to pay her debt;
Till taken down again.

'Here, Jessie, take these 'silver wheels,'
Go pay the printer now!'
She spoke, she slept, and then awoke
With health upon her brow.

I knew two men as much alike
As e'er you saw two stumps,
And no phrenologist could find
A difference in their bumps.

One took the papers, and his life
Is happier than a king's:
His children all can read and write,
And talk of men and things.

The other took no papers, and
While strolling through a wood,
A tree fell down upon his crown,
And killed him 'werry good.'

Had he been reading of the news
At home, like neighbor Jim,
I'll bet a cent that accident
Would not have happened him.

Why don't you take the papers?
Nor from the printer sneak,
Because you borrow of his boy
A paper every week.

For he who takes the papers,
And pays his bill when due,
Can live in peace with God and man,
And with the printer too.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism when one day riding through the country, was saluted by a fellow who was lying in a ditch. 'Halloo, Father Wesley. I'm glad to see you. How do you do?'

'I don't know you,' said Mr. W., reining up his horse. 'Who are you?'

'Don't know me! Why, sir, you are the very man who converted me!'

'I recon I am,' said Mr. Wesley, putting spurs to his horse, 'at least one thing is evident—the Lord had nothing to do about it.'

A BOARDING SCHOOL MISS.—I have heard of a young lady 'Down-East,' who thang 'alto, in one of the churches. She had been at a boarding-school for half a quarter somewhere, and came home perfectly amazed that her unfashionable papa did not dine at 'chew' o'clock. There was favorite anthem commencing, 'Turn, oh, Lord, oh, turn away!' &c. much performed by the choir. She always chanted it, 'Tschurn, tschurn, oh, Lord! oh, tschurn away,' much to the edification of the congregation, most of whom were extensively engaged in the dairy business.

CUCUMBERS.—When a cucumber is taken from the vine, let it be cut off with a knife, leaving about the eighth of an inch of the cucumber remaining to the stem upon which it grew, then slit the stem with a knife from its end to the vine, leaving a particle of the cucumber to each division, and as many slits or divisions as are made in it there will be new cucumbers as large and fine as those that grow in the natural way.—Maine Cultivator.

THE TURN-COAT LOVER.

A Remniscence of "Old Put's Gallows."

BY HENRY A. BUCKINGHAM.

NEAR Peekskill, not far from the main road, stands a clump of forest trees, among which an aged hickory is conspicuous. It bore for a long time, and still bears, I believe, the name of 'Old Put's Gallows,' from its branches when Putnam commanded on the lines.

In the early part of August, 1777, General Tryon was at the British outposts, near Kingsbridge. It will be remembered that he was royal governor of New York at the commencement of the revolution, and a full colonel of British regulars. After the war broke out, he was placed on active service, and raised to a general's rank with power to recruit and equip a tory corps or brigade from the Americans who yet remained loyal to the crown and government of Britain.

For a long time it had been a favorite project with Putnam that an attempt should be made to re-capture the city of New York. From all accounts it appears that Washington did not dislike the plan, but with prudent caution did not wish to hazard at that time the risk of a defeat. Putnam, however, made several feints and false movements at his outposts to alarm Sir Henry Clinton, in which he succeeded, and thus kept the British troops within the city for its protection, that otherwise, aided by the fleet would have been ravaging the adjacent shores of other states. It became necessary to Sir Henry Clinton that he should know the position and condition of Putnam's troops more accurately, and also endeavor if possible, to ascertain what parties in the city gave Putnam such accurate knowledge of all his (Clinton's) plans.

Tryon was, busy raising his 'new levies, and for him Sir Henry sent.

'General Tryon,' he said, 'I must know the position of Putnam's troops; and their number, including his fresh battalions of militia. You ought to find some one—a native—who has enlisted in your corps, that will go into the Highlands and obtain it for us. The reward shall be liberal, and, if successful, the person shall be advanced a grade,'

'I think I have such a man, Sir Henry—a seargent in De Lancy's regiment. He enlistened only a week ago, and is intelligent and ambitious. He has friends on the other side who do not know he has joined us as yet.'

'The very man. Go and send him.'

General Tryon was absent about two hours, for he had to send to Harlem, where the seargent was stationed undergoing a drill with others of the 'new levies,' under their officers.

'I have seen the man. and had a long conversation with him,' said Tryon, when he entered. 'He is willing to undertake it on one condition, and that only a condition of pride.'

'What is it?'

'That he shall receive a lieutenant's commission at once. He will then depart the instant you require, and is confident of success.'

'Do you know him to be worthy of reliance?'

'From all that I can learn, and from my own judgment, I should not doubt in the least.'

'Then let his commision be made out, and send him with it to me. If I have the same opinion of him, I will sign it.'

The young sergeant soon made his appearance. He was not more than three-and-twenty years of age, of good personal appearance, and a cunning twinkle about his small black eye denoted no want of confidence in his own good opinion. Sir Henry was so well pleased with him that his instructions were soon complete; and, receiving his commission, the new lieutenant bade the British commander farewell to return in a few days with the desired information. On reaching his quarters he changed his military apparel for a plain countryman's suit, ripped the lining of his cocked hat, under which he placed his commission, which he carefully resewed, saying to himself—

'I think when Miss Rosa Milford sees my commission as an officer in his majesty's service, she will no longer refuse the hand of Nathan Palmer.'

The next morning he left the further British outposts at Kingsbridge, on horseback, where General Tryon had accompanied him, to pursue his expedition. It was a beautiful morning, and he looked forward with all the anticipations of pleasure, and hope gleamed warmly in his breast. He passed the 'neutral ground' without molestion and advanced into what was considered the American district, without being troubled by any of the occasional travellers on the road, although almost every one was armed and carried his musket. Now and then he met an American yeoman or farmer with whom he was acquainted, who knew not yet of his defection, for he was born in that section of the country, and residents within a wide circle were then considered as neighbors. Late in the afternoon he came within sight of the regular American outposts, when he turned off the main road by a narrower one that led to a mill and dwelling on the banks of a rapid stream. Let us for a moment look into the dwelling and notice its inmates. One was a girl of about eighteen, a fine rustic beauty engaged in some trifling housework but mainly listening to the conversation of a lively looking brown-complexion young man in half-military garb. It was evident that what he said pleased her, for she looked at him from time to time, and she smiled archly, with fondness. These two were Rosa Milford, the miller's daughter, and William Townly, a neighboring farmer's son and an ensign in the American army lying near.

'Who is that, William, coming towards the mill on horseback?'

'As I live,' said the young man, 'it is your old spark, that sly rascal, Nathan Palmer, the dominie's nephew, who despises him and has cast him off. The rogue, I heard in private this morning, had enlisted in the refugee corps If I knew certain, he should swing for it. Depend upon it, Rosa, he is here for no good purpose or reason.' 'Do not be seen, William. Leave me to manage him.'

The young man retired by a back door, but not out of hearing, as the tory lieutenant and spy entered by the front. He advanced with a bold step.

'Miss Rosa, I have but little time to spare, and want your answer at once. Read that.'

He took the commission from the lining of his hat and placed it before her.

'Some difference between holding a commission in King George's service, and being a ragged continental.'

'Nathan Palmer,' said Rosa, sternly, 'I always disliked you—now I hate you!' and she handed him his commission.

'Do you refuse to be my wife now?'

'Your wife! Leave this house, or I shall be tempted to loose the dog at the mill upon you.'

'Good-bye, Miss Rosa,' he said, grinding his teeth in anger. 'Look to your father's mill—your house—yourself. I will be avenged!' and he mounted his horse and rode swiftly away.

Rosa hastened to the back-door to look for her lover. He was just entering the woods leading to the camp, and the wave of his hand indicated to Rosa that he knew Palmer's errand. He hastened to camp, had an interview with Putnam, and the latter issued his private orders. Palmer came into the lines that night with the freedom of an old companion, and having as he suppossed accomplished his errand, he was about taking his departure when he was arrested, and the fatal commission was full proof of his guilt as a spy. After a brief trial he was ordered to be hung on 'Put's gallows' the next afternoon.

Before the hour of execution came, Tryon, who had heard of the arrest of Palmer, sent in a flag, declaring it murder to hang a mere civilian, who happened to be a loyalist, and threatning retaliation. He was not aware that Palmer's commission had been found on his person. Putnam wrote back his brief and memorable note:

"HEAD QUARTERS, Aug. 7. 1777.

'Sir:—Nathan Palmer, a lieutenant in your king's service, was taken in my camp as a spy. He was tried as a spy—he was condemned as a spy—and you may rest assured, sir, he shall be hanged as a spy.

'I have the honor to be, &c.,
'ISRAEL PUTNAM.

'His Excellency, GEN. TRYON.

'P. S.—Afternoon. He is hanged.'

Such was 'Old Put'—prompt to execute and decide. The hickory tree still remains standing near Peekskill.— Times and Messenger.

Out in the Woods.

The southern Literary Gazette has the following good story of the celebrated Doctor Maxey, President of the South Carolina College. This is not the only instance, we believe, where people have been completely bewildered in the woods, and where they have found that the fidler must always be paid at the conclusion of a dance:

'On one occasion, several of the students of South Carolina College resolved to drag the Doctor's carriage into the wood, and fixed upon a night for the performance of the exploit. One of their number, however, was troubled with some compunctious visitings, and managed to convey to the worthy President a hint, that it would be well for him to secure the door of his carriagehouse. Instead of paying any heed to this suggestion, the Doctor proceeded on the appointed night, to the carriage-house, and ensconced his portly person inside the vehicle. In less than a hour, some half-a-dozen young gentlemen came to his retreat, and cautiously withdrew the carriage into the road. When they were fairly out of the precincts, they forgot their reserve, and begen to joke feely with each other by name. One of them complained of the weight of the carriage, another replied by swearing that it was 'heavy, enough to have the old fellow himself in it.' For nearly a mile they proceeded along the highway, and then struck into the woods, to a cover which they concluded would effectually conceal the vehicle. With many jokes, and conjecturing how and when would be found the carriage, they at length reached the spot where they had resolved to leave it. Just as they were about to depart—having once more agreed that 'the carriage was heavy enough to have the Old Doctor and all his tribe in it'—they were startled by the sudden dropping of one of the glass door panels, and by the well-known voice of the Doctor himself, who thus addressed them:

''So so young gentlemen, you are going to leave me in the woods, are you? Surely, as you have brought me hither for your own gratification, you will not refuse to take me back for mine! Come Messrs. ———, and ———, buckle to, and let's return; it's getting late!'

'There was no appeal for the window was raised, and the Doctor resumed his seat. Almost without a word, the discomfited young gentlemen took their places at the pole, and at the back of the vehicle, and quite as expeditiously, if with less noise, did they retrace their course. In silence, they dragged the carriage into its wanted place, and then retreated precipitately to their rooms to dream of the account they must render on the morrow. When they had gone, the Doctor quietly vacated the carriage, and went to his house, where he related the story to his family with great glee. He never called the heroes of that nocturnal expedition to an account, nor was his carriage ever afterwards dragged at night into the woods!'

CAUSE AND EFFECT.—We have 'smiled a still smile' sometimes, when thinking of Hackett's whimsical direction to a Dutchman's dwelling:

'Go down dat road dere, till you comes to de barn close 'pon de house dat's always standin' dere by dat little yaller dog!'

A similar instance of placing effect before cause was exhibited, when after long and profound cogitation, a solemn philosopher announced as the result of his deliberate reflections, that it was a remarkable evidence of the goodness of Providence, that great rivers always ran by great towns! It was the same 'great scientificker,' who explained the phenomena of expansion by heat and contraction by cold with the irrefragable illustration, that in summer when it was hot, the days stretched out very long, but in winter, when it was cold, they contracted until they become very short indeed.—Ib.

The following is from a burial ground in Providence, R. I.:

Her soul grew so fast witnin,
It burst the outward shell of sin,
And so was hatched a cherubim.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, July 5, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

☞ WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS, OR LEGENDS OF THE REVOLUTION.—This book is worth all the sentimental trash published in a century. Written by a most powerful writer, filled with bold and noble thoughts on every page, imparting a fresh interest to every thing relating to that interesting period of our history. See prospectus on first page.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Without any circumlocution, I take the liberty to say that the public owe you much, for the independent manner with which you conduct the Gazette. Although differing on many subjects from yourselves in regard to the opinions you have advanced, yet the manner in which you have given them to your readers. certainly all must acknowledge to be independent, and founded on the just rights of man; with these preliminary remarks I beg leave to offer a few independent remarks of my own; believing a public journal the proper medium through which the pulic should convey their opinions on matters of public interest.

In your number of May 31. I made a few remarks on a model town; with your permission I beg leave to offer a few more bearing on the same subject.

As I then remarked, there are in Plainfield six or eight churches, with as many ministers, three doctors, three or four lawyers, whose ostensible business it is to guide the morals, secure the health, and protect the inhabitants in their lawful pursuits; as before remarked if they fail to do this, they fail to accomplish that for which they were established; and the sooner we dispense with their services altogether, the better.

Experience has ever taught me, and doubtless is corroborated by the experience of others, that effects follow causes. Now it has ever been said that wherever Christianity has been introduced, that the blessings of its divine influence have ever been beneficial. If this is the case, either we have not been blessed with pure and undefiled religion, or effects do not follow legitimately their causes. Which of the two propositions are true? Effects doubtlessly follow causes, as they ever have done, and ever will do. The tree is known by its fruit; by this therefore we must judge. All candid men however reluctant, must admit, that if this is the case, there must be a very small amount of pure religion in this town, or its effects would be seen.

Go where you will, to a prayer meeting, to a funeral, and you will find Presbyterian's, or baptist's, or methodist's, or catholic's, or secretarianism of some kind; but few christians, so few indeed that they may be counted. Again go to a funeral, or observe those that pass in our streets, and if the person is reputed to be rich, it matters not how they obtained those riches, whether by taking the advantage of the poor man's necessities, and dictating to him the amount he shall receive for his labor, or whether they have received that labor, and then make an assignmet of their property, or by taking advantage of the loopholes made for rogues in the law—if he was rich, a long train of carriages filled with mourning friends and sympathising neighbors follow his remains to the grave; but if the person be poor, you will see some ten, twenty, perhaps thirty persons following the body to the grave.

What conclusions do the poor, or can any person of sense who has a free thought in his head, arrive at, from all such practical workings of the present preaching of the gospel? Why, either that there is no such thing as true religion, or the present teachers and professors of it do not possess its spirit!

With eight churches or meeting houses, and doctors and lawyers as aforesaid, at an annual expence of about $12,000 and no practical good, but only evil! Many of our young men are growing up without any apparent moral aim to guide them through life; unrestrained by their parents, or by the law; to be taught by the evil example of those who have preceded them, who are allowed to abuse men because they are poor, even in their own premises, and who are also allowed to fight in our magistrates offices without an effort being made to prevent it; and who are taught by the example of professors of religion who disregard all moral obligation to meet an engagement, or pay a debt, unless enforced by the weak arm of the law; and not even then if there is a chance to evade it. Yes, many of them, if their repeated breaches of promise should have weight, could not obtain even a mousetrap on credit. What a state of religion! What a commentary on the influence of the aforesaid churches! What is the remedy, and who has the moral courage to apply it? All know that what is here stated is but too true, I have long felt the effects of this state of things as doubtless have many others, as in fact its effects are felt by the whole community where such a state of things exist; yet I have hesitated to draw so painful a picture, but I am conscious that by procrastination I have neglected my duty. SUBSCRIBER.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

AMBROSE SPENCER.

[CONTINUED.]

"Water! water! for the love of God, bring me some water before I die!"

Of all the miseries to which man is subject, the want of water is one of the most terrible. Death appears in his most fearful form when his victim perishes of thirst. The soldier who is struck down in a moment while battling in defence of the rights of his country, sad as is fate to perish so suddenly and far from the burial-ground where repose the remains of his ancestors, has a merciful end compared with him who for days and even weeks deprived of water, wastes, away, his blood flowing through his veins like a stream of molten lead, and his brains apparently on fire! The invalid who suffers for years and looks to the approach of death as a welcome friend, though deserving of our heartfelt sympathy, suffers not like him who, on the wreck or in the desert, dies miserably for lack of one of the best gifts of a benevolent Creator—water!

The women needed not a second appeal; while the lady raised the sufferer's head the girls hastily procured some water from the spring. The sick man would have drank to his injury had he not been restrained; and the women then proceeded to wash his face and temples with the remainder. He continued to groan at intervals, and was totally unconscious of what was passing around him. Mrs Spencer regretted that there was no physician in the neighborhood; but all that she knew of simple remedies she promptly resorted to. She had no fears that the sick man would be a burthen; her religion taught her that the sufferer was a child of the same heavenly Parent, and therefore entitled to her care. He was poor, travel-tired and sick; and she felt that the Saviour whom she loved and served by doing good to his creatures, would smile on her efforts and crown them with his richest blessing. O ye who make long prayers that ye may be heard of men, has not the Being whom ye profess to worship declared that the most acceptable acts in his sight are feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and ministering to the sick? Remember, that if misery exists near you and you seek not to relieve it, all the prayers you may offer this side the grave will only be an abomination in his sight. The poor and sick are his children, and in no manner can you serve him so acceptably as by ministering to their wants.

The women had thus far been so busily employed that they had not particularly noticed the countenance of the sufferer. They well knew that he needed great care and they had acted the part of Good Samaritans in binding up his wounds. Ambrose in his unconsciousness had murmured something about home and friends; and they wondered whether he was in his right mind. The light had been kept at a distance that it might nor disturb him; but had it been nearer, it is doubtful whether mother or sisters would have recognized the sick son and brother before them. He was now in a deep slumber, and the mother took her seat near his bedside that she might watch over him during the remainder of the night.

Ah! who shall describe the feelings of that woman as she sat in that lonely room by the bedside of the sufferer? Three years since she had a son; and if he has not fallen in battle, where is he? Does he yet live? If alive, he must be in the hands of the enemy or he would at least have written to the mother whom he loved. Nearly three years have elapsed since she heard aught of him; would to God she knew his fate! She has heard of the thousands of Americans who have been carried on board the Jersey prison-ship, who left it not alive. We need not wonder that she should think of her son on an occasion like this. She has no doubt that the poor creature before her is an American soldier; and that he has suffered greatly, the most indifferent observer would readily admit.

Let us pause a moment on this anniversary of our country's independence, and remember at what a cost of human life and suffering our liberties were purchased. From Quebec, on the north—where the gallant Montgomery fell with hundreds of his brave followers—to the extreme south, where Lord Cornwallis and his numerous host laid down their arms—our whole country was exposed to the horrors of a seven years war. And it is a matter of just pride to me that on every battle-field in this protracted struggle, New-Jersey was well represented. The bones of Jerseymen moulder at Quebec, Bunker Hill, Saratoga, Monmouth, Princeton, Trenton, and indeed on every field where the foe was encountered. The spot where I write was frequently passed over by large bodies of the foe, and buildings which stood at that time within sight of the place, were given to the flames. While we rejoice that we are freemen, let us occasionally think of those who purchased our liberties so dearly.

--The day dawns at length, and with the first streaks of light in the eastern sky Ambrose awakes. He is sensible now; but at first thinks he is dreaming Where is he? He has not been in a house for years, and he cannot realise his present position. As it grows lighter, however, the objects around him become more distinct. Is it some illusion to cheat his senses? or is he in the home of his childhood. The window near his cot is open; and in front. outside the gate, stands the majestic black walnut under the shade of which he has passed many of the happiest hours of his life. The shrubbery and flowers in the door-yard are as beautiful as they were on the lovely summer morning when he parted with his mother, sisters and Julia, with his musket on his shoulder and his well-filled knapsack on his back Ah! the memory of that morning! He was of a very corageous disposition, but it required more fortitude to part with them than it did to face the enemies of his country.

He no longer doubts that he is in his right mind, and beneath his fathers roof. He has some faint remembrance of the events of the past night: he recollects arriving at the gate, and of receiving a cooling drink. The room, too, how natural it looks! It is the large front one where the family assembled on special occasions, and where company was entertained; at which times he was more than usually mischievous. A thousand freaks of those innocent, happy days are remembered after so long an interval. Every thing is in its accustomed place: in a corner stands the large clock, with its little glass in front, through which he was accustomed to watch the pendulum as it swung to and fro. Over the mantel hangs a portrait of his father, and one of his mother is suspended nearly over his head Was it his mother who gave him drink last night, or was it but the fancy of his fevered brain?

The door of his room opens softly and his mother enters with noisless step. She approaches the cot to see if its occupant yet slumbers. Ambrose turns his head gently towards her; the care he had received, aided by several hours of quiet sleep, had made him feel and look almost like a different creature. Mrs. Spencer gazes earnestly at his countenance for a moment; there is something in the looks of the travel-worn man before her which is familiar. Ambrose observes his mother in silence; the tears gather in his eyes; his tongue falters; he feels that the sufferings he has undergone have so changed him that his mother does not recognise her long-lost son! At length he recovers sufficiently to exclaim, "Mother! have you forgotten your only boy?

Mrs. Spencer doubted no longer. "God be praised, my son," She replied, "for your return. But oh! how changed!—You left me a strong, hearty man, with sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks; you must have suffered terribly that you are thus prostrate. A child must encounter great trouble to change him so much in the space of three years, that a fond mother does not know him." She could say no more: the son whom she had so long mourned as lost or dead was before her, and though she was much shocked at the sad appearance of her darling boy, she was greatly rejoiced at his unexpected return. I will not attempt to describe the scene which followed when the girls were summoned to assist in taking care of their brother. They had always loved him greatly, and mourned his absence with sincere grief. They reproached themselves that they did not recognise him during the night when they bathed and fanned his fevered head. But if they did much for him when they supposed him to be a stranger, I need hardly say they were active now It was well that Ambrose had gained much strength before they knew who he was; for they asked a thousand questions before he had time to answer ten. But if they did talk, they also worked. With the aid of a neighbor, Ambrose was speedily washed, shaved, his hair cut, and dressed in a very respectable manner. This labor, however, had completely exhausted him; and he was carried back to his cot. The room was darkened, and mother and sisters alternately fanned him while he slept.

At first his dreams are of the prison ship, and he fancies he is again among the thousands of its wretched occupants. He sees a man who was brought there in good health but a few days previous, waste away until at length he lies down on the floor, and—thank God—from sufferings so terrible finds relief in death. He also dreams of a young man whom he well knew, and who was captured at the time he was. Ambrose loved him for his excellent qualities from the moment he became acquainted with him, and it made his heart ache to witness the sufferings of his friend. His name was Henry Fletcher; and his home was near that of Ambrose's. Henry was a year younger than his companion; and was of a remarkable cheerful temper, and of most amiable disposition. The terrible privations they endured never caused him to murmer; he strove by his example and words to inspire his companions with fortitude; he held the head of the dying on his knees and whispered to him of a place beyond the stars where suffering was unknown. Ambrose had early been taught that religion was capable of making him happy in any situation in life. He was now a witness of the excellence of the religion of the savior. Young Fletcher had early felt the value of this divine principle, and his every act was illustrative of its beauty. But the reader must not suppose that he was like many we daily encounter, whose religion—if it is not a mockery to call a morose, uncharitable spirit by that name—is manifested in making long prayers and longer faces; while their hearts are unaffected by the Savior's spirit. Oh, no! Fletcher's religion was something that made him happy by ministering to the wants and contributing to the happiness of others. Ah! if this divine principle actuated those who profess to be the disciples of Him 'who went about doing good," they would take little pleasure in listening to teachers who—instead of preaching the gospel, (which is defined to be tidings of great joy,)—are almost continually discussing doctrinal points, which can neither bless or save their hearers. The reader may smile that one so humble as the writer should speak of matters of such magnitude; but he believes that truth—no matter by whom presented—will receive the consideration of the thoughtful and good. That the christianity of our day is not producing greater good, is lamented by many of the best men living. That the church will ever be more useful until many of its ministers and members have a larger portion of that charity which they profess, it is unreasonable to expect.

—Other visions appear to Ambrose. He dreams he is making his escape by swimming the Hudson. Oh, the happiness of that moment! He remembers the many times when he was suffering the torturers of thirst with what anxious solicitude Fletcher would seek to inspire him with hopes of better days—assuring him that he would soon be able to drink from his own cool spring; and when in return he would point to some one who had just perished for want of water, his companion would reply that he trusted he had gone to drink from the river of life.

His dream again changes, and he sees a beautiful woman sit weeping in a room which, he thinks, he has often visited. He cannot distinctly see her features, but she certainly resembles his own lovely Julia. She is pesently joined by another young lady, who looks like his youngest sister, Jane; who, from her earnest manner, evidently has something important to communicate. The first ceases her weeping; the few words her companion has uttered have greatly excited her; she attempts to rise, but her strength fails, and were it not for the assistance of her companion she would have fallen on the floor.

His next vision is of his home. He fancies he is beneath his fathers roof: his mother sits by his bedside, while his sisters and Julia are whispering to each other at a window in a corner of the room.

Julia had been sent for since he had been sleeping; and unwilling to wait a moment after her arrival without beholding one whom she had long loved so devotedly, she approached his bedside supported on either side by one of his sisters. She had been told that her lover had suffered greatly and was dangerously ill, and had expected to find him looking feeble and sickly; but she was not prepared to gaze upon a countenance so marked by the severe privations he had endured. Uttering a wild, hysterical cry, it was only by great effort she was borne fainting from the apartment. J. C. A.

[To be concluded in our next.]

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Hibernia.

ENGLAND.

The bill for the abrogation of the Navigation Laws passed the house of Lords without material amendment on the 12th and has received the royal sanction. The bill will go into effect in January.

The Jews' disabilities bill passed the House of Commons by a majority of 66. Its success in the House of Lords is considered very doubtful.

The British Government repudiate all cognizance or sanction of the proceedings of the French in their treatment of the Romans.

Smith O'Brien, through his counsel, denies the legality of the commutation of his sentence of death to transportation, and the Government have to provide for the unlooked-for difficulty by special act of Parliament.

Different and apparently reliable statements are made from parts of Ireland to the effect that the potatoe rot has made its appearance in some instances, but generally the vines look vigorous. The weather is represented as continuing very favorable, and the crops of England and Ireland are said to look unusually promising.

FRANCE.

On Wednesday an incipient insurrection was attempted in Paris by about 25,000 of the Mountain party, headed by M. Ettinne Arago. It was dispersed by the troops, whose numbers amounted to 70,000.

Several attempts were made to erect barricades. In the evening the assembly declared itself en permanence and passed a decree declaring Paris and the first military division in a state of siege On Thursday the alarm had considerably subsided and business, which was entirely suspended the day previous, was generally resumed. At one time the peril was imminent and nothing but the President, aided by firmness and sagasity, prevented the most serious consequences. Numerous arrests have taken place, including several members of the Assembly' M. Arago and Ledru Rollin. The last accounts report a state of tranquility, but there was an uneasy feeling afloat that a renewed attempt would be made to upset the Government and that when it comes to the point the troops will not prove steady.

All the Socialist or Red Republican journals at Paris except the National have been surpressed since the disturbance on Wednesday.

The City of Rheims is reported to be in full insurrection, and to have established a Government of Red Republicans.

The Cholera has again appeared in England, and several cases have occurred in Machester and other parts of the country. At Paris the diseases is making most frightful havoc, even more so than in 1837 Upward of 11,000 deaths have already occurred, and in one day there were about 900 cases and 600 deaths reported. Marshal Begeaud and many other persons of eminence have fallen before this scourge, which has also broken out anew in Silica, Vienna and Presburg and is raging most fearfully at Alexandria and Cario in Egypt

ITALY.

From Rome we learn that the French Army commenced the attack upon the city on the 30th inst. and after a sanguinary engagement in which the Romans lost 800 men, succeeded in carrying several important posts A series of attacks has since taken place, in which the victory is variously stated, but in which the invading army has suffered most. The French papers publish conflicting reports of the operations of the army, but from accounts to the 5th inst. it is clear that Oudinot had not then gained access to the city, though he had gained a position at the north of Rome which would enable him to command the city. The latest dispatch from Gen. Oudinot is to the 6th inst. at which time he opened his trenches and had regularly besieged the city. There is no appearance of yielding on the part of the Romans, but on the contrary everything goes to confirm the belief that they would make a most determined resistance and fight to the last.

It is said that the Goverment received advices by the Asmodeus that Gen. Outdinot had resolved to make a grand attack on the 11th, and would storm the City in earnest at all hazards. We believe that there is good authority for this statement.

HUNGARY.

Kossuth has arrived in Pesth and has been received as President in the capital of the Hungarian Republic. It would seem that hostilities are still carried on in the South between the Hungarians and the shattered remains of the Austrian army supported by the Russians, but the reports which reach us are so vauge and contradictory it is not deemed advisable to transmit them by Telegraph.

The russian General has issued a proclamation to the Hungarians, the pith of of which is that if they do not lay down their arms and submit to their fate with a good grace, they will be made to feel the consequences of their presumption. Every effort is being made to rouse the people, and the Magyar Government have ordered clergymen to march against the Russians.

A Mysterious Affair---Probable Escape of Dr. Coolidge.

BOSTON, Friday, June 29.

A dispatch from Portland says that Dr. Mann of Skowhegan, states that a body was brought from Thomaston and interred as that of Dr. Coolidge's, who it was reported committed suicide while in prison about six weeks since. Suspicions being aroused, the body was disintered a few days sidce, in presence of sixteen persons, including Dr mann himself and Coolidge's father, and they all agreed that it was not his body. Mr. Coolidge testified that his son had lost the end of one thumb and had no scar on his face; whereas the corpse had a scar on the cheek, and both thumbs were whole. The circumstance has creted considerable excitement.

WEALTH, like the dripping well at Knaresborough, has the most petrifying properties It hardens the heart, deadens the affections, it narrows the sympathies, it chills the current of benevolence, it raises artificial and unnecessary barriers between the necessitous and the affluent— between the suffering and the successful, it banished the memory of past services, breaks up the bonds of brotherhood, converts the living, breathing man into—stone.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 29—The Board of Health report 48 cases of Cholera and 9 deaths within 24 hours, being an increase of 8 cases and a falling off of 4 deaths since yesterday. Thermometer in the shade 85°.

☞ A one dollar note, changing hands two hundred times and sharved at half a cent, will have paid upon it one dollar—or, in other words, the holders through whose hands it successively passes, will have been taxed one dollar to keep it in circulation.

One of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States says: 'Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted' The Court that decreed the above punishment, was forgetful of its duty and dignity.

SALT.—The activity in the salt manufacture has not been surpassed in any former year. The quantity manufactered since 1st January, is given by the Syracuse papers at 1,171,136,16, bushels, or an increase of 401,488.38 bushel over the previous year. Owing to the low price of the article, the manufacturer is said to have scarcely paid his expenses.

GENTING A GOOD NAME.—We have always thought that a man who had an unhandsome cognomen had a perfect right to have it changed; and we have looked upon all applications to the legislature, in aid of such a purpose, as worthy of especial heed by our State law-makers. A new excuse, however, for a petition of this sort was recently urged, as we are informed, before the Maine Legislature, by a man whose name was as bad as his personal credit. In presenting his petition, he said he was not very particular as to the new name which he trusted might be awarded him, but he hoped the Legislature would give him one that would go at the banks!—Ib.

AGE OF THE WORLD.—The 710,000 tons of water which each minute pour over the precipice of Niagara, are estimated to carry away a foot of the cliff every year. Taking this average, and adopting the clear geological proof that the fall once existed at Queen's-town, four miles below, we must suppose a period of 20,000 years occupied in this recession of the cataract to its actual site; while in the delta of the Mississippi, nearly 14,000 sqare miles in extent, an estimate founded on its present rate of increase, and on calculation of the amount of earthy matter brought down the stream, has justified Mr. Lyell in alleging that 67,000 years must have elapsed since the formation of this great deposit began.—Quarterly Review.

☞ 'Industry must prosper,' as the man said when holding the baby while his wife chopped wood.

Printing in London and New York.

A London correspondent of the Boston Post thus presents a comparative view of printing in New York and London:

The art of printing advances far more in America than here. Liverpool, nearly as large as New York, has no printing done by steam. In London, but one or two printers of books, print by steam, and very rarely print more than twelve pages of a dudecimo book at a time. From an extensive acquaintance with the manner and speed of book printing in New York and London, I will vouch for the fact that, of all the books printed in the two cities our priaters print three copies to the Londoners' one in the same time. First class publications are generally better 'got up' in England than America. But, got up equally as well, the New Yorkers will print two copies to their one.—Not one book in four in London is stereotyped. In New York three out of four. In London one publisher lately boasted that he actually pulished a book in three days from the time he received it. That is quoted as an extraordinary operation that was actually accomplished, once. In New York, the Harpers have issued many a book in from twenty-four to thirty hours after its receipt. But I will not multiply examples to show the greater amount of enterprise or inventive genius in America.

WOOL.—Mr. McConnell, a farmer residing near Springfield, Ill., has sent nine tons of wool to an eastern market—the produce of his own clipping for the present season.

BARBAROUS PUNISHMENTS.—A colored girl, lately convicted at Pensacola, (Florida,) of an attempt to fire her masters house, was sentenced to have her ears nailed to a post for one hour, and to receice thirty-nine lashes, which sentence has been carried into effect.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1 This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T. B PETERSON. No 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

MARRIED.

At Scotch Plains, May 24th. by Rev. Wm. E. Locke, Mr. Joseph M Osborr, to Mrs. Harriet hetfield, all of Scotch Plains

DIED.

In this place on Thursday June 28th Smith, son of John W. Frazee, aged about 13 years.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday June 27.

FLOUR	$4 50 a 5 25
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 00
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Prices current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 06 a 1 12
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	14

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded. JAMES ROSS

July, 1849

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,

Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

WM. HOWARD,

Shaving & Hair Dressing Saloon,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.

Dealers in every description of

DRY GOODS.

290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.

WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS

Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and their goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.

☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

NEW MILLINERY.

MRS. R. ROCAP, & CO.

HAVING OPENED A

FASHIONABLE MILLNERY

IN Front street, next door to Tittsworth, Dunn & Co. Store, would invite the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity, to call and examine their large assortment of

SILK AND STRAW BONNETS,

with every variety of trimmings of the latest City style.

Also the dressing of old hats will be promptly attended to.

Plainfield, April 24. 1849

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon. at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan 10. 1849.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at W. M. DRAKE'S

CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality "	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.

JESSE BALDWIN,

Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.

Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:

100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.

Also, a full assortment of

Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,

Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivailed Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do, and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS, Jr.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [28.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at
W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau-st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better: because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties, and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part.

But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding, and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrofula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, or deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are in capable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND. NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13 3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicit the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

CARPETS.

BEAUTIFUL INGRAIN CARPETS, entirely new designs, for sale cheap by D. BULLMAN.

April 25 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1849. | NO. 30.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Quaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspape rpublication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga, Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for Lippard's Washington and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

All of Lippard's works for sale here.

A SCENE IN REAL LIFE.

BY FANNY DALE.

Clara B * * * was known as a kind neighbor and an affectionate mother throughout the little village of M * * *, and such was the wife of Charles B * * *. They resided in a cottage though not handsomely furnished with the most costly furniture, was neatly; and Clara's exquisite taste in arranging their plain furniture made up for all other deficiencies.

Henry, their only son, a fine youth of seven summers, possessed much the disposition of his excellent mother. Days she would watch if the seed she had planted in his bosom would take root and bring forth fruit in the season. None, I say, appeared more lovely to her. With what delight did not she see him pluck the fair lilies from their little garden—and in all his childish amusements!

Years rolled by, and Henry was now a fine lad of fourteen, when his parents concluded to send him far from home to complete his education. How painful did it not appear to his parents to part for the first time! They spent years in cultivating the mind of their only son—but now must part and mingle with the gay votaries of fashion; and then, perhaps forget a mother's tender love and a father's guardian care; then that soul be lost forever. Such thoughts passed through the minds of Clara B———, the day before Henry's departure. That long but dreaded day at last arrived. Clara, with trembling hands, placed his clothes in his trunk—perhaps for the last time. When she had finished, the coach drove up to the door—and now she must part. She then addressed him:

'My beloved son, you are now about to leave me—perhaps forever. I say, then, will my instructions be erased from your mind, when no mother's smile will greet you after the weary toils of days you spent, until you again meet in your fathers own house?'

Henry replied:

'My dearest mother, your instructions will never forsake my memory. They will appear as fresh as the day they fell from your holy lips. No, never can they be erased. Other eyes may be more bright—other cheeks more fair—but still my heart will always cling to you. And though I may often roam, and may be tossed o'er the tempestuous sea of trouble; yet you and your kind instructions, my dear mother, can never be erased from my memory.'

After that sweet word—Farewell!—was said, he took his seat in the stage—and did not his kind parents watch till the last glimpse of the stage disappeared! Words were inadequate to express the grief that dwelt in their bosoms.—Time could only expel it.

After a few months, they received a letter from Henry, also one from his instructor, in which he praised his excellent character and, above all, his tendency to learning. Henry's letter, as you may justly conclude, was love to his parents—for their safety and welfare; and some day hoped to meet around their cheerful fireside. This letter thrilled the hearts of his parents—to be seperated from their only child! But hope cheered their hearts, and they looked forward for brighter days.

Six weary years had passed away, the time in which Henry was to finish his education. They daily looked for him home. When the war with Mexico broke out, he so dearly loved his country, 'America, land of the free and home of the brave,' that he wrote home to his parents, to give their consent to let him go to war. Grief took posession of their hearts; but with reluctance, they finally consented.

Henry's next letter was from Monterey. From his excellent deportment &c., he was promoted captain. This so excited the feelings of his father that he determined to go to war and share his fate with a child so dear to him. He accordingly set out in a few months, after first informing his son of his intentions.

Clara endured all this with calmness. Hope was the only thing that kept her from giving up in despair. She waited patiently for a letter from her husband.

A few months brought with it a letter from her husband. He arrived safely but had not heard of his son as yet—but expected to meet him in a few weeks.

Time passed on—and the war was over. Peace and tranquility began to cheer the mother's heart—to think of seeing again all those who were so dear to her!

It was a clear and beautiful evening in May, as Clara B—— sat in her parlor, singing some merry tune, when suddenly a young man entered and exclaimed—

'My mother!—Oh, my mother!'

And clasped her in his arms. Clara replied.

'My dear Henry! my beloved son! how can I express my feelings at meeting you once more! How you have grown!—almost out of my knowledge; yet I can still perceive it's my own beloved Henry. But your father, my son—where is he? He is on his way, I suppose.'

Henry answered:

'My father I have not seen or heard of, although I've tried my utmost exertions to ascertain where he was—but all in vain. I therefore concluded he was on his way home.'

Clara replied:

'I have no donbt he is, my dear son; we may hope."

The rest of their conversations during the evening was, as you may readily understand, that of a mother meeting her son after an absence of eight years. In the course of the evening Henry said—

'Mother, I was never so much affected as in the Battle of Sacramento. After the battle was over, on reterning to our camp, we saw an elderly man lying by the side of the road expiring. We hastened to him, but could do nothing, as he insisted on remaining where he was. I can say I never did sympathize with any one in all the battles as much as I did with this elderly man. He possessed one of the most pleasing countenances I ever did behold on any human being. He appeared to realize my feeling, and asked me to pull off his glove. I did so and put it in my pocket, but thought no more of it.'

He handed the glove to his mother.—Upon receiving it she turned pale, and fell to the floor. He took the glove instantly from her, and inside of it was written Charles B——.

The mother survived but a few hours afterwards, her last words were—

'Henry, IT WAS YOUR FATHER!'

Think of it, Reader.

In a few short years—perhaps a month—perhaps to-morrow—you may be called hence, and forced to part with all your fine posessions. You must lay down your pride—for Death humbles all—you must resign your wealth, and take up your little abode among the worms! What a humiliating thought that the millionaire—the proud beauty—all the envied of earth—may to-morrow be food for worms!—Isn't that an extrimety, readers. If people would think more there would be less vanity and more real happiness on earth. The richest man is as poor as the beggar—aye, a thousand times poorer, when death knocks at his door—for all his wealth cannot prolong life an hour. Who is rich then? The man of millions? No. The Beggar. No Who then? He who fears God and loves his neighbor as himself. Neither money nor position can make man happy.

☞Christ, born among the poor, grew up among the poor. toiled with the poor, and died for the poor. The cases in which he ever came in contact with rich men, are noted with emphasis in Scripture, as remarkable exceptions.

☞ Money bears the same relation to labor, that ice does to water. Convert all the water in the world into ice—let it remain ice—and you will have some idea of that policy which converts all the labor in the world into money. Money is petrified labor.—LIPPARD.

'Don't rob yourself!' as the farmer said to the lawyer when he called him hard names.

The Married Man's Soliloquy.

BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

Hang the women! They are always fretting about something or other! Yesterday the coal would'nt burn and the grate must be set; and the furnace must be repaired; and mercy knows what all; and to-day it's as hot as fire. Save us from the wants of an inconsiderate woman! Only let her get the upper hand, and she'll drive the blazes. But I won't be driven. Not I. If she wants the door fixed, or wood dried, or water brought, or the leech set, or the tubs hooped, she may do it herself. Confound it. I can't go into the house, but what something is wanting.—If it is'nt one thing it is another. I'll leave my boots in the parlor every night, if I have a mind. And she may help herself. See if I dont'. We'll see who will be the master. Before we were married it was—'If you please my dear.' But cracky,—if her tone has'nt changed. She shall and shan't from one week's end to another, if I venture to put in a word, otherwise I'm shut up by her infernal clatter. Talk about late hours and extravagance. Wonder what she calls late hours; I could stay out once until broad day light, and she too if the party was agreeable. But now if I chance to attend the club but once a week, there is a pretty mess directly. And don't never think of her. Gracious me! I wish I could forget her for five minutes, just to see how it would seem. If a young man only knew. But no. If a man says a word he is set down for a ninny. He must grieve and bear if it cuts ever so close. And oyster suppers. Wonder if she don't like oysters! Tell me about the propriety of sitting down to the breakfast table with her hair uncombed. Once she was all curls and smiles. Now she's slatternly as a washerwoman. Hang the race! They ought to be indicted for obtaining husbands under false pretences. If they'd only show out, the men wouldn't be such gudgeons. But no; they'll smile and spurk and twitter, until a fellow is fairly caught, and then, Jupiter! if they don't haul down their colors. It's worth a fortune to be compelled to hear the squalling brats night after night. Croup or cholic is the eternal complaint. If I had my way I'd shake cholic out of them in a hurry. But no; they must be dosed with pink and annis, and onions, and the deuce knows what, and trotted until their gizzards are fairly shaken out; and then if any one is to be kept up, why Slocum can sit up, it won't hurt him. But I've done with it; I won't that's a fact. What's that you say? Mended my pants? And four new shirts and a neckcloth? Well I declare Mrs Slocum is clever after all. If she didn't scold so like—but no matter, I know I provoked her, I'll give in; I'll own up; I'll——the remainder was lost in something like a kiss. Five shirts must have done it—for Slocum for got to swear when he was asked to tend the baby.

The most beautiful sight in nature Dobbs says, was a woman he met yesterday. 'Grace was in her step, heaven in her eyes, and in her arms a little baby.' A rose-bush, with a bud clinging to it, was nothing to the heavenly loveliness.

A loafer by the name of Cain, being taken before a magistrate the other day, was asked if he was the man who slew his brother?—'No, yer honor,' said he, 'I is the chap what got slewed.'

An unmarried lady on the winter side of fifty, hearing of the marriage of a lady, a friend of hers, observed with a deep and sentimental sigh, 'Well I suppose it's what we all must come to.'

A bachellor not far from here says he has only one objection to marrying some widows—and that is, he can't put up with second-hand children.

'My good woman,' said the evangelist, as he offered her a tract, 'have you got the gospel here? 'No, sir, we havn't, replied the old woman, but they've got it awfully down to New Orleans.'

'Pray Sir,' said a gentlemen to a wag upon one of our wharves, the other day, 'what is wood now? 'What is wood now?' replied the wag, 'why trees cut down and chopped up.

Official.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES—A RECOMENDATION—At a season when the PROVIDENCE of God has manifested itself in the visitation of a fearful pestilence, which is spreading its ravages throughout the land, it is fitting that a people, whose reliance has ever been on HIS PROTECTION, should humble themselves before HIS THRONE; and, while acknowledgeing past transgressions, ask a continuance of DIVINE MERCY.

It is, therefore, earnestly reccommended that the first Friday in August be observed throughout the United States as a day of Fasting, Humiliation and Prayer. All business will be suspended in the various branches of the public service on that day; and it is recommended to persons of all religious denominations to asbstain, as far as practicable, from secular occupations, and to assemble in their respective places of public worship, to acknowledge the INFINITE GOODNESS which has watched over our existence as a nation, and so long crowned us with manifold blessings; and to implore the ALMIGHTY, in HIS own good time. to stay the destroying hand which is now lifted up against us.

Z. TAYLOR.

Washington, July 3, 1849.

BRADY'S LEAP.—Much has been said and written about McCulloug's leap, when pursued by the Indians near Wheeling, Va.; but, says the Detroit Bulletin, in temerity it does not exceed that of Capt. Brady,—a brother of the general,—who was celebrated in his day for his gallant feats upon the hostile savages along the frontier of Pennsylvania. The Bulletin relates the story as follows:—

'Approaching one of the forts occupied by the Americans one day, Capt. Brady discovered, when too late to avoid it, that the savages had laid an ambuscade for him. In front, near the left, large numbers of armed warriors lay concealed watching for their prey.

'As Brady approached and got within the ambuscade, the Indians in the rear closed in behind him. He was surrounded on three sides, and on the fourth ran a river, the bank of which was eighty feet, of nearly perpendicular descent. The savages felt sure of their prey, and rushed furiously on.

'Brady saw at once the extent of his danger, but being mounted on a high mettled horse, he resolved not to be taken alive. He reined his horse toward the bank and gave him the spur and rein; the gallant charge went off like an arrow and approached the bank with such tremendous speed that he could not stop on the margin, but with a furious bound sprang off rider and all, into the air. Fortunately there grew a large crab apple tree at the foot of the bluff, on the border of the river. The bushy top was thickly interlaced with a wild grape vine; into the top of the tree fell the horse and its rider. The fall was completely broken. The captain toppled into the stream, reached the opposite shore amid a shower of bullets, and regained the land in safety.'

HAVE COURAGE.—Have the courage to confess ignorance whenever, or in regard to whatever subject you are really uninformed.

Have the courage to treat difficulties as you would noxious weeds—attack them as soon as seen. Nothing grows as fast.

Have the courage to meet a creditor. You must be a gainer by the interview, even if you learn the worst. We are our own deceivers.

Have the courage to own that you are poor and if you can, to laugh at your poverty; by so doing you disarm your enemies, and deceive nobody. You avoid many difficulties and much bitterness. Besides there are many people who will not believe you, especially those who make the same pretext for meanness.

Have the courage to be silent when a fool prates; he will cease the sooner—besides, what can he or you gain by prolonging the conversation?

Have the courage to receive a poor relation openly and kindly. His shabby appearance, even his ignorance, will appear to your advantage, for the mind is prone to draw comparisons. We have nothing to be ashamed of but our own errors.

Have the courage to carry a cheap umbrella; you will discover why when you loan it.

Have the courage to subscribe for a newspaper, and not depend upon borrowing your neighbor's—but, above all, have the courage to PAY for it.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, July 12, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

The Spirit of the Age.

The spirit of the age is in favor of universal liberty. Universal liberty of person and mind. The day is past when the divine rights of kings will be permited to interfere with the natural rights of man. The conviction of man, ot these self evident truths, that "All men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just" and only "powers from the consent of the governed, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organising its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

This is the text that is now being preached from, all over the world. It is man's birthright; but through ignorance and superstition he bartered this birthright for a mess of pottage, granting kings a divine right, to priests the keys of the kingdom of heaven.

But thanks, thanks to that Almighty Spirit, the Creator of the Universe, the great Prototype of the spirit of man, for that spirit of Liberty in the human heart; that spark emanating from the Soul of Life, and Light, and forming the soul of man; which although it has been trodden under foot by the self sanctified divine rights of kings and priests, has never been entirely subdued, but yet lives to assert that Almighty power which emanated from an Almighty God.

Knowledge is power; and the facility for obtaining knowledge at the present day leaves men without excuse, who allow kings or priests to usurp even an imaginary right, let alone the substantial and real ones.

The Printing press, that palladium of our Liberties, gives to every man however humble his station in life, facilities to make known his opinions on all subjects which affect his interests, and it is his duty as it is his interest, to unreservedly express his opinions.

The universal right of man to life, Liberty, and to pursue happiness after the dictates of his own conscience, provided he does not interfere with the equal rights of his fellow man, necessarily implies something more than that those rights should be expressed on paper. It necessarily implies that he has a right to personal liberty, to the use of the air we breathe, to the water, to the LAND; and a free people have ever held that freedom to all opinions candidly expressed, is the birth right of all men, but through ignorance and prejudice men suffer themselves to be deprived by tyrants of this right, which is the foundation of their liberties. May the people ever appreciate and sustain all efforts made to perpetuate this inestimable blessing. It is because men may justly differ in their opinions, that a free toleration of the opinions of others becomes necessary to the free enjoyment of their own; all who deny this right are tyrants, and enemies to the liberties of the people.

This principle ever contended for by freeman, caused our forefathers to seek these shores, where uninterrupted they could enjoy the privilege of worshipping God according to the dictates of their consciences. The seed sown by those who landed on Plymouth Rock, took deep root in our soil, and continued to grow until on the Fourth day of July 1776 it produced the tree of Liberty; whose fruit is now being eaten by all the nations of the earth.

These rights are universal to all men; and to whatever right one man aspires all men are entitled to the same right, for, "whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets:" "this is also the great corner stone of all true democracy; it matters not what name men may take unto themselves, apply this test and you may know whether they are for or against it." All men do not enjoy these rights, even in this boasted land of liberty; but recent events in our own country, as well as in the old world, tell us that this is an active living principle; not written on parchment to be laid aside to moulder and be forgotten, but a breathing principle of life to be enjoyed; and woe be unto all those by whom these principles are denied.

Although these principles has been asserted, and written on parchment over half a century they have not as yet been put in practice, but the tendency of all things is towards such a result; kings, priests, and demagogues may retard but cannot prevent it.

If all whose interest it is, would only keep these principles in view, instead of the dogmas of party, how soon would all enjoy universal liberty; but how easy when men can be pursuaded, or allow their ignorance or prejudice to pursuade them, that because some men are black, or because they do not own a jackass, or for any other reason, that they are a species of property, how easy to pursuade such men, who do not enjoy, and therefore cannot appreciate a free spirit, that kings are made kings by the grace of God, and that therefore they are his lawful subjects, born to obey. Have such men souls? No, they are machines, and hence those having souls, or being actuated by the spirit of Liberty have always been able to overcome all the machines which tyranny has been able to bring against them. It was this that sustained our Sires in the Revolution, against the hirelings of a tyranical and soulless king It is this that sustains the Hungarians and Romans against the combined efforts of souless kings and their machines, who having no souls, know not that every blow they strike against those who are contending for their liberties only rivits their own chains the stronger.

Shall we who profess to know the value of liberty, continue to hold our fellow man in bondage? Shall we contend for party supremacy with the declaration of Independence and the precepts of the Gospel in one hand, and manacles for the slave in the other? Have we souls that we should impose on others that, which we should scorn for ourselves? Freemen never impose on others that which is not right, nor submit themselves to that which is wrong.

The above principles we consider sacred, above the principles of party, and the touchstone whereby we judge of the principles of party, and if not found to correspond they are not in accordance with our democracy.

FOURTH OF JULY IN PLAINFIELD.—The day was ushered in by the ringing of bells and firing of cannon—the Star Spangled Banner waved gracefully over hundreds of happy hearts. The Ladies Fair was thronged throughout the day and evening; the only accident to mar the pleaures of the day, was a fire, which was occasioned by those highly useful and profitable articles called fire-crackers, chasers &c., one of which set on fire the roof of Mr. Ira Pruden's store, but which, owing to the highly efficient organization of our fire department, was speedily extinguished with but trifling damage.

☞ A Hard Case.—The Somerset Whig complains that several whig journals are endeavoring to traduce each other's character! This certainly is hard treatment after laboring so zealously together in the cause of whiggery. The attempts of the "Whig" to elucidate the matter so near the dog days is certainly a hard job. See 'Whig' July 4th.

"To shame a liar, tell a bigger lie,"
[Somerset Whig]

Excuse us 'Whig' its folly for us to try;
To the 'Whig' from use, its become a second nature,
And to whig journals, quite a common feature.

☞ Has our old friend and contributor J. A. forgotten us entirely? We hope not, his communications are always acceptable.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, July 7.

DEATH OF COL. DUNCAN.—We learn by a dispatch received fron Mobile that Col. Duncan, the Inspector General of the United States Army, died in that city yesterday, (Friday.) Col. D. was a man much esteemed and highly respected among a large circle of acquaintances, and his departure from this world will be grievously felt by all who knew him.

CURE FOR A HORSE PULLING AT THE HALTER.—Fold one ear under a small strong cord which fastens him. He will give one jerk but never a second.—Boston Cultivator.

Prevention of Cholera.

Gentlemen of the types: believing you are ever ready to do good, I ask the privilege of a small space in your truly independent paper, to convey a few thoughts which may be of benefit to your subscribers. At the present time when there appears to be a considerable excitement in regard to the Cholera, perhaps an ounce of prevention may be better than a pound of cure. Let me advise those who are in the habit of laying late in the morning in close and unventilated bedrooms; to arise early, and walk forth while the foliage of the trees, is still sparkling with the jeweled dew drops of heaven. Although we have no costly monuments or great works of art in our Village to gaze upon, still we have near us places of interest and pleasure; those who have not the strength or courage to take an early ramble on our beautiful mountain, may take pleasure in viewing from the road leading to it, the beautiful garden of Dr. John W. Craig, which displays much credit to its owner, for the taste and order of arrangement, as well as the variety and selection of its fruit. If they wish for further amusement or exercise, they can have it by walking by the residence of David Rockwell and taking a view of his beautiful lawn, which they cannot help but admire, variagated as it is with the most beautiful walks and trees, most all of which was laid out under his own superintendance and persevering industry. I would not forget to mention that he has made a good side walk a part of the way on the public road leading to his house, at his own expense, and for which he should receive the thanks of our citizens; there are other gardens worthy of the refined taste of their owners, such as E. Marsh's, C. Townsend's, &c., but enough for the present. as we wish to keep cool. After taking a walk to view some of the above places, let us spend the day in some useful employment, or in doing good to our fellow creatures, and when the shades of evening shall again close around us, let us feel that we have not lived in vain, and when we retire early to our rest let it be with grateful hearts to that being who has ordered all things aright and will make all things work together for our good, if we but put our trust in him, and do unto others as we would have them do unto us

A WELL WISHER.

MAINE.—The following are the most important of the resolutions passed by the late Democrat State Convention at Augusta:

Resolved, That when the President shall submit his nominations to the Senate for confirmation, it will become the duty of that body to vindicate our fellow citizens, whose reputations have been libeled by his acts, and to convict him of the violation of his deliberate pledges.

Resolved, That the institution of human Slavery is at variance with the theory of our Government, abhorrent to the common sentiment of mankind, and fraught with danger to all who come within the sphere of its influence; that the Federal Government possesses adequate power to inhibit its existence in the Territories of the Union; that the constitutionality of this power has been settled by judicial construction, by contemporaneous exposition, and by repeated acts of legislation; and that we enjoy upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress to make every exertion and employ all their influence to procure the passage of a law for ever excluding slavery from the Territories of California and New-Mexico.

Resolved, That although the exercise of the power of excluding Slavery from the territories of this Union, has received the sanction of every republican administration, yet it involves a principle which has never formed a part of the distinctive creed of the national Democratic Republican party; and from the nature of the case it cannot be made an element of that creed. The only 'common ground,' therefore, which can be occupied by the Democracy of the several States in respect to it, is one of absolute and unqualified toleration of opinion and action.

Resolved, That while we most cheerfully concede to our Southern brethern the right, on all occasions, to speak and act with entire freedom on questions connected with Slavery in the territories, we claim the exercise of the same right for ourselves; and any attempt, from any quarter, to stigmatise us or our representrtives for advocating or defending the opinions of our people upon this subject, will be repelled as an unwarrantable act of aggression on the rights of the citizens of this State.

☞ DEATH OF MR. CROWELL.—Many of our readers will, we are sure, hear with surprise and regret of the sudden death of our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. TIMOTHY B. CROWEL, of the prevailing disease. He was taken with diarrhœa on Friday last, and expired after a most severe illness at about 2o'clock Tuesday afternoon, being sixty-four years of age.—Newark Sentinel.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

AMBROSE SPENCER.

[CONCLUDED.]

I trust that the reader will not imagine that Julia Harris was one of that numerous class of young ladies who make it a rule to faint on the occurrence of any extraordinary event, or every time they behold a fellow creature in distress. On the contrary, she was a strong-minded, cheerful hearted creature, who was not often startled from her propriety by anything which befell her, and who could look upon danger or death without exhibiting any signs of weakness.

But when she was informed that her lover—whom she had long mourned as dead, or what was more dreadful to reflect on, who might be suffering a living death on board the prison-ship—was alive and had returned to his home, the news was so unexpected, so unhoped for, she became very much excited: and it need not surprise us that she was overcome by the violence of her emotions. Nor need we wonder that the receipt of this intelligence should have awakened anew those hopes of happiness which she had long entertained; but which for some time past there was little reason to believe would ever be realized. O, who can fathom that love which, when bestowed by one loving, trusting heart to another, years cannot weaken or destroy! It is one of the surest marks of a true man or woman, this unfaltering devotion to a person worthy of our love.

As we have said, Julia had been informed that Ambrose had suffered greatly and was dangerously ill; and as she was known as a girl of excellent good sense and able to control her feelings, and was anxious to see him and help minister to his wants, no one objected that the interview should immediately taken place.

Need we wonder that, if Ambrose had become so changed by suffering and privations that his mother and sisters at first did not recognize him, Julia should be greatly shocked on beholding his altered appearance? It is true, since he had been properly cared for, and had been blessed with several hours of refreshing slumber, he was altogether a different looking creature from the poor wanderer whose groans the preceding evening had alarmed the family.

However the unthinking may regard the statement that so great a change was effected in Ambrose in so brief a time as three years, the intelligent reader, I am sure, will not think the picture overdrawn. How often do we encounter a friend or neighbor who may have been confined for a week or two to his bed by illeness or an accident, whose altered looks, even after he has recovered sufficiently to enable him to walk abroad for the benefit of fresh air and exercise, almost prevent recognition? Within a few months, I have seen a friend who was so changed by an illness of only ten days that his neighbors scarcely knew him.

When Ambrose last bade Julia adieu he was in perfect health; his eyes sparkled through the moisture which would occasionally suffuse them; his cheeks, though a little browned in the harvest-filed by exposure to a July sun, were hardly less red than hers; his limbs were active and graceful in all their motions; and his whole appearance gave promise of good health for many days to come and of capability to withstand any hardship he might have to undergo.

In what condition he returned I have attempted to show in the commencement of this history; but of the misery he endured through the long days and nights of his imprisonment, words are inadequate to convey a proper estimate. If any proofs were needed that Christian nations are so in name only and not in fact, the horrible outrages they frequently inflict on each other—while appealing to the Almighty for his smiles on their efforts!—are certainly conclusive. We may talk of our civilization and our religion until the final judgement, and erect churches on every hill-top and send missionaries into every neighborhood on the face of the earth, but unless we prove that we are actuated by the Savior's spirit by cultivating peace and good will with all men, and recognise all as our brethern and equals, our profession is but a lie and our religion a mockery! I do not assert that, in the present condition of the world, war is not sometimes a necessary evil; on the contrary, a nation that suffers another to enslave it—or which, being enslaved, does not seek to hurl its oppressors to the earth—is unworthy of the prayers and sympathies of freeman and of the favor of heaven. "Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God!" But when one nation seeks to obtain an advantage over another, and when one man strives to defraud his neighbor, there is no hope of either being useful in the cause of human progress, which is the cause of God. His commandment is, "Do good to all men," and it is idle to talk of doing good unless we are actuated by a proper spirit. Let us hope that we shall speedily hear less boasting of our Christianty, and let us seek to cultivate more earnestly the spirits of its divine Founder. Then misery and vice will soon be banished from our world, and "the good time" of which the prophets wrote, and for which the wise and good in all ages of the world have labored, will arrive; and men everywhere will as zealously strive for each others good as too many now seek to harrass and oppress.

—That Julia was overpowered by witnessiag the great change which suffering had wrought in the countenance of her lover, which, when she last beheld it, was so full of life and beauty, I have briefly stated. She was, however, soon restored to consciousness; and, apologising for her want of fortitude, insisted on being permitted to congratulate him on his return, and with his mother and sisters, minister to his wants. I fear that some of my young lady readers, who have been educated in all the heartless refinements of our day, will pity a young girl who thought it not improper to visit and attend one whom she was in the sight of heaven bound to love and serve. You may smile young lady, if you think proper, at what you may consider an unmaidenly act in a girl situated as Julia was, but with all your accomplishments and ideas of propriety, I fear you are not—in all the truly great qualities which make the lady—greatly her superior, perhaps not her equal.—Though Julia was not, perhaps, perfectly "accomplished"—to use the modern definition of a young lady—she was one who, by her intelligence and excellent good sense could command respect and admiration in any circle. Few were as beautiful, and none of a more amiable disposition. Though her parents were abundantly able to live without labor, they thought it not beneath their dignity to earn their bread by cultivating a large and fertile farm; and Julia feared not to harden or soil her delicate and beautiful fingers by asisting her mother in her household duties. She was one of those noble girls who justly imagine that labor is not disgraceful, and who would scorn to neglect any proper business which claimed her attention, because the wild and thoughtless might laugh at her industry.

I can conceive of no slavery more intolerable than that which our would-be-great folks impose on themselves and families. They fear if they should be seen to pursue any useful employment that they shall be considered poor!

How different the spirit which gentlemen of real wealth exhibit! I could point you to a very wealthy gentlemen in this state—whose splendid mansion is within a very few hours travel—and whose fame as a skillful physician and surgeon is not confined to this continent, who takes pleasure in working several hours each day, summer and winter; with the persons he employs in keeping his beautiful grounds in order. Of the thousands who know gentlemen, and few men in the country have a more extensive acquaintance, I presume none esteem him less because he thinks proper to employ a portion of his time in active manual labor.

—Ambrose, though receiving the best medical treatment, and most careful attention from those who loved him, recovered but slowly. Indeed, it sometimes appeared almost impossible that he could long survive, and the tears would start afresh in the eyes of those who were so much interested in his recovery, and whose labors were redoubled and prayers more in earnest that his health might be restored.

In the meantime the war continued to rage with all its horrors. The patriots suffered greatly, not only from the enemy, but for want of proper food and clothing. In their long winter marches the snow was frequently discolered with the blood which trickled from their exposed feet. They were often without proper shelter in the most inclement season; and when sick or wounded their accommodations were very inadequate. Yet their spirits failed not, and when they gained a victory—no matter at what cost—it only encouraged them to redouble their efforts in the cause of freedom.

This part of the state was often traversed by the American army, and as is well known, from the top of the mountain near this village General Washington frequently watched the movements of the enemy. He was frequently the guest of Mrs. Spencer, Mr. Spencer being absent with the army, and became much interested in the family. The escape of Ambrose afforded him great pleasure, and he frequently assured Julia that her friend would speedily recover, and he trusted they would then be united. He was much affected when he heard the story of Henry Fletcher's captivity and assured the family he would seek to obtain his release.

. . . . It is a time of universal rejoicing. The war, which had so long desolated the country with its terrible evils, had given place to a glorious peace. The people had triumphed! and it was but fitting that they should rejoice. Their enemies—those of them at least whom the arm of the patriot had not reached, for

"They slept their last sleep,
They had fought their last battle"— were departing from the country; and all Americans were thankful that their efforts had been crowned with heavens blessing. Bonfires blazed on every hill-top; cannon roared in every town and city; the church bells rung a merry peal; the multitude shouted for joy, and the solitary inhabitant who could do nothing more, thanked God fervently for his goodness and discharged his old musket until his powder was exhausted.

The people had abundant cause for joy! they had fought long and successfully and the time for rejoicing had come. It is true; there were few but had suffered in their family or property since the war began.—Many a mother was left alone to support her orphan children as best she might; many a young lady grieved the loss of the man who had won her heart; thousands and tens of thousands of soldiers and others were maimed or disabled for life; and multitudes had been deprived of home and all the property they possessed. These, however, were considered as the necessary consequences of war, and the sacrifices the people had made, though painful, were forgotten, or at least were not heeded in this time of general exultation.

. . . . There was evidently some special causes for joy at the house of Mr. Spencer at the time of which I write. It was not merely on account of his return for that event had taken place a short time before, and had been duly remembered.

Two weddings are about to take place! No wonder that there should be some extra rejoicing. And when I assure the reader that the two bridegrooms were as brave men as ever encountered a foe, and had suffered much in the cause of their country, and that they were deserving of the beautiful and worthy young ladies to whom they were about to be united, I feel confident that they will be gratified. One couple, as the reader may have guessed, were Ambrose Spencer, whose health was completely restored, and Julia Harris. The other, improbable as it may appear, were Henry Fletcher and Jane Spencer! Washington had effected an exchange of prisoners shortly after the escape of Spencer, and Fletcher yet lived and was specially selected by the orders of the general, and was taken care of until he was able to be removed to his home near this village, where he was looked upon as one who had risen from the dead; for since Ambrose had recovered sufficiently to speak of the situation of his friend, no one ever hoped to again behold him. His recovery was quite rapid, and as he was almost constantly with Ambrose, whom he regarded with much affection, he could not help falling in love with the beautiful Jane. It was sometimes hinted (but of course that was improbable) that he called at the house quite as much for the purpose of seeing Jane as Ambrose.

Reader, these events did not transpire at a distant town in which you have no interest but took place many of them at least, where stands our beautiful village.

I have written this brief history in moments snatched from sleep, and admit the pressure of many cares. If you have been entertained or benefitted in the slightest degree, my labor has not been in vain

Ever your friend. J. C. A.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at
W. M. DRAKE'S

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

CHOLERA.

We are informed that there were six cases and three deaths of Cholera on Tuesday in Rahway.

CAMDEN, July 5th.

The Cholera has increased to so great an extent in this place, that the Sanatory Committee of the Board of Health refuse to make a report.

MAYORS OFFICE,
New York, June 9th, 1849.

The Sanitary Committee of the board of Health, report 120 new cases, and 46 deaths of Cholera, as having occurred during the last 24 hours.

To the 1060 deaths by cholera reported by the City Inspector down to Saturday noon last, add 73 since reported by the Sanitary Committee, and we have a total this year of 1183.

The largest number of deaths by cholera in any one week in 1832, was 716; in 1834, 193, in a population not much more than half as great as our present population.

CINCINNATTI, July 9th.

The interments of deaths by cholera on Sunday were 74, and other diseases 30. A heavy thunder shower last night has tended to purify the atmosphare.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9th.

The Board of Health report 39 cases of Cholera, and 20 deaths, since yesterday.

THE CHOLERA AT ST. LOUIS seems to baffle the skill of the most experienced physicians, and from its ravages no class of people appear to be exemt. The latest papers received speak despondingly enough of business prospects, present and to come, in consequence of the frightful havoc the disease is making.

Gen. John A. Quitnam is the Democratic candidate for Governor in the State of Mississippi. He will be elected, of course

DIED.

In this place, on the 3d inst. Amelia E. Coe, aged 18 years.

In New York, Thursday last, of consumption, the wife of Josiah J. Dutcher, tinman, until lately, of Plainfield

At Stony Hill, on Monday July 2d. Joshua Seaman, aged about 60 years.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday July 11.

FLOUR	$4 25 a 5 25
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 87
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 00
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 06 a 1 12
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	14

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield July 1st. 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Leveridge Cornl's A
Adams Thomas 2	Long John
Ayers & Tittsworth	M
B	McCord J W
Barton Mr.	McDonald Willliam
Beekman P. S.	Madden HenryG Esq
Beker Gorge	Moore Isaac
Baldwin Nathaniel L	Mallison James J
Byrne Jane	P
C	Pell Mary Jane
Coufmann Mager	Ponell William
Crane James	Pound S S
Coddington J C	R
Codington Wm B	Rodgers Miss Joana
Colthar John 2	Randolph Mrs Mary F
D	Robbinson Ann
Dutcher Josiah J	Reve Robert L
E	S
Eayres Rev. John L	Steward Adolphus
Eakin Robert	Stebbins Wm
F	Simpson Wm
Frazee Mrs Mary	Sperring James
Fisher Mrs Tobitha	Shotwell Mrs M E
G	Spencer Caroline B
Garwood H	T
Gimble Curtis	Trainer Barny
H	V
Hill J N	Verity Isabela
Halsey Stephen L Eq	W
J	Wooden Richard
Jacobus Cyrus F	Watson James H
K	Waldren Reuben }
Kershner Mr	or Wm Frasure }
Killroy Haigh	Willet Lauis
L	Wormes Mr
Lynch Jno. Thomas

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,
DEALERS IN
FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.
80 Cortlandt Street,
ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.
THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,
MARBLE MANUFACTORY,
142 Market Street Newark,
NEW JERSEY,
Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.
With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,
A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.
☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

JOHN H. KASE & CO.
Dealers in every description of
DRY GOODS.
290 Broad Street Newark, N. J.
WOULD respectfully call the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country, to their very extensive stock of
FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS
Their stock will comprise at all times one of the largest assortments to be found in the states, and their goods will be sold at the very lowest prices.
☞ Please call and examine their stock. [30

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!
NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.
Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.
Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.
☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.
May 1. 1849. [69.

STRAYED
FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded. JAMES ROSS.
July, 1849.

TAKE NOTICE.
WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.
WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

FOR SALE.
12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.
Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

CHEAP
AS
THE CHEAPEST.
John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats	at $7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality"	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

PLAIN AND FANCY
STATIONERY &C.
E. KIRKPATRICK,
Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of
NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,
A Variety of School Books,
Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands. Steel and Quill Pens. Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,
BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,
Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.
☞ Pictures framed to order.
E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

IRON, STEEL, AND METALS.
JESSE BALDWIN,
Corner of Market and Mulberry Streets, Newark, N. J.
Offers for sale in lots to suit, at wholesale New-York prices:
100 Tons English, round, flat and square Bar iron.
150 Tons American do do
50 " Sweedish, flat, and square Bar Iron
5 " Sweedish and Norwegian Horse Nail Rods.
10 " Spike rods, and Shoe Shapes, of all sizes.
20 " Hoop Iron, assorted, 5-8x22 to 2x14
5 " Cast, Shear, German, Machinery and Blister Steel of Sanderson, Brothers & Co's. and Naylor & Co's Stamp.
1000 Casks Parker Mills, and Lazell, Perkins & Co's. Nails.
200 Boxes 1-3d X Charcoal Tin.
2000 lbs, Sheathing Copper tinned and not tinned.
3000 " Banca Tin.
3000 " Pig Lead.
4000 " Spelter.
1000 " Bolt Copper.
20 Tons Sheet Iron, assorted sizes, R. G. and common.
3000 lbs. Iron Wire, assorted, bright and annealed.
1500 " Griffin's Horse Nails.
5000 " American and Swedish Steel, Bar and Blister.
Also, a full assortment of
Armitages's Hill's and Wrights' ANVILS,
Wright's and Massy's black and bright face VICES, Trace and Coil Chain, Bellows, Sledges, Horse Shoes, &c. [25.

CARRIAGE MAKING,
AND REPAIRING.
THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of
CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,
&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.
Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms.
J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.
Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.
WM. REED.
Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

BONNETS,
AT 354 BROAD ST.
SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,
The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.
This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.
Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.
Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.
Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.
Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.
Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.
Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.
For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.
P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DOCT. PEARSON'S
PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,
FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.
This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.
PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.
The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"
A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S
Carminative Balsam.
Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.
We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.
This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.
MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,
The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.
Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.
For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps, Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do, and curled hair together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [2

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Wooler Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67

A First rate article of CHEESE and FRESH BUTTER, just received and for sale at DRAKE'S.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at
W. M. DRAKE'S

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better; because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties, and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part. But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's inferior article? This young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn palpitation of the heart, liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrotula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, or deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND, NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce-st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,)
Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)
Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japanned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13 3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicit the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

December, 1848.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

JUST received a first rate article of Lamp Oil, for sale at 6 shillings per gallon, at W. M. DRAKE'S.

Jan. 10. 1849.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1849. | NO. 31.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Quaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspape rpublication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga. Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for Lippard's Washington and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

All of Lippard's works for sale here.

NAPOLEONS' MERCY.

Napoleon was conversing with Josephine when one of his officers entered and announced a young woman from Lyons. 'What is her business with me ?'

'Some petition,' answered De Merville, the officer.

'Show her into our presence,' said he.

'The officer soon reappeared with a lady leaning upon his arm, whose face, as much as could be scanned through the thick folds of a veil, was very beautiful. She trembled as she approached the door.

'Mademoiselle,' whispered her guide kindly, preessing her hand, 'take courage but answer promptly whatever queston the emperor proposes; he detests hesitation.' Then ushering her into the spacious apar'ment, he bowed and retired.

The trembling girl, perceiving Napoleon, on whom her fondest hopes depended, forgot herself and her timidity ; she thought only of another Throwing herself at the feet of Napoleon, she exclaimed in a voice choked with emotoion : 'Mercy, sire ! I sue for mercy and pardon She could articulate no more.

Josephine stepped from her partial concealment, and then approaching the ground contributed more by her sympathising words of encouragement to restore the courage of the young petitioner, than even the emperor, by the graciousness of his manner, as he bade her rise.

'Your petition, mademoiselle,' said he.

Henriette Armond (for that was her name) looked imploringly at the emperor and exclaimed :—'Ah' sire, I ask pardon for Louis Delamarre, who is condemned to be shot on tomorrow ! O ! grant him your royal pardon !'

A cloud gathered on the brow of Napoleon, as he interrupted her with—'A deserter, mademoiselle, he has twice deserted. No, he must be made an example for the remainder of the regiment.'

'But the cause of his desertion !' cried Henriette, in agony ; 'he was compelled to join the army against his will.'

'What were the causes of his desertion ?' interrupted Napoleon.

'Two weeks since,' answered Henriette 'he received news that an only remaining parent, a mother, sir, was on her deathbed, and longed, day and night, to behold her son again. Louis knew that relief or release from his post was impossible. His mind was filled with one thought—that she might close her eyes forever, ere they rested on a son she loved so fondly.'

'Did she die ?' asked the empress with interest.

'No, madame,' replied Henriette, 'she at last recovered. But hardly had Louis received her blessing, been folded in her arms, ere he was torn from her grasp by the officers of justice and dragged hither. O ! must he die ? Mercy, sire, I beseech you.'

'Mademoiselle,' said Napoleon, apparently softened, 'this was the second offence, name the first, you omitted that.'

'It was.' said Henriette, hesitating and coloring—'it was—that he heard I was to mary Comard Ferant, whom I detest as much as he does,' answered Henriette, with naivete.

'Are you his sister, that he feels so great an interest in your fate ?' asked the the emperor.

'O, no, sire,' said Henriette; her lovely cheek assuming still deeper the hue of the rose, 'I am only his cousin.'

'Ah! only his cousin,' repeated Napoleon, glancing at Josephine with a half suppressed smile.

'O, sire, cried Henriette, 'recollect the anguish of his widowed mother, when she recollects that the affection of her son for her is the cause of his death. What,' she continued, 'can I do to save him ?' and the poor girl, forgetting the presence of royalty, burst into tears. The kind hearted Josephine glanced at the emperor with eyes expressive of pity and sympathy. She noticed the workings of his face, and felt at once it was very uncertain whether Louis Delamarre was to be shot the next morning.

Napoleon approached the weeping girl. She hastily looked up, and dried her tears. 'Mademoiselle,' said he, 'would you give your life for his ? would you die could Louis Delamarre be restored to life, liberty, and his mother ?'

Henriette started back deadly pale, looked fixedly at the emperor for a moment then turning away, she buried her face in her hands.

After a silence of some minutes, Henriette looked up; an air of fixed determination rested upon her face. 'I am willing,' she said in a very low voice. Napoleon looked at her in surprise, as if he had not anticipated so ready an answer to his proposal. 'I will see you again,' said he 'in the meantime accept such apartments for your accommodation as I shall direct.'

As soon as the door closed upon the fair petitioner, Napoleon walked to the window against which Josephine was leaning, and said:—'I see how it is ; Louis Delamarre is the lover of this young girl. True to woman's nature, she has braved difficulty and danger to beg for his release.'

'How strong must be this love she bears for him,' said the empress.

'Ah returned he, 'I have a mind to subject the same love to a severer test. Much I doubt whether she will give her life for him. Nevertheless, I will see.'

'Sure,' cried Josephine, 'you are not serious. Louis certainly can be pardoned without the death of Henriette.'

Napoleon drew her nearer the window, and they conversed in a low voice.

* * * * * *

Henriette stood alone in a magnificant apartment. Hours passed unobserved, so intensely was she absorbed in reverie; a small folded paper was tightly grasped in her small hand. On it were traced these words:—'A deserter is condemned by the laws of the army to suffer death. If you wish Delmarre restored to liberty, the means are in your power. Ere day dawns he may be on his way to join his mother, whom he so much loves.'

'Ah !' murmured Henriette, 'Do not I love him too ?' Pressing her hands upon her heart, as if to still its tumultuous beating, she paced the apartment. The door opened, and the Chevalier de Merville entered. He paused ere he articulated, 'Mademoiselle.'

'I am ready,' replied Henriette, 'my decision is made.'

De Merville appeared to comprehend the import of her words. He looked upon her in reverence as well as admiration, as she stood with the high resolve impressed on her beautiful brow. 'Follow me, Mademoiselle,' said he. They traversed long corridors and numerous suites of superb apartments, and descending a staircase, quickly reached an outer court communicating with the guard house. Entering this, Henriette was urshed by her guide into a small apartment, were she was soon left to herself.

On a chair was flung a uniform of the regiment to which Louis belonged. On a table lay a large plumed cap. Henriette comprehended all in a moment. Quickly habiting herself in the uniform she stood before the mirror, and gathering up her beautiful brown tresses in a knot, placed the cap upon her head. She almost uttered a cry of joy at the success of her transformation She knew that she was to be led to the fatal ground at the morning's dawn The bullet which would have struck Louis to the heart, but she shrunk not back Love triumphed over the timid woman's nature. 'Louis's mother will bless me in her heart,' she wispered. 'Louis himself will never forget me. Ah, often has he sworn that he loved me better than all things beside.' Drawing a lock of raven hair from her bosom, she pressed it to her lips and she then breathed a prayer to Heaven.

Morning dawned. The sound of footmen aroused Henriette. She started up—grasped the band of hair, awaiting the summons. The door opened and two soilders entered, repeating the name of Louis Delamarre ; they suddenly led her forth to die. The soldiers, whose bullets were to pierce the heart of Louis, had, taken their stand, and only awaited the word of command from the emperor, who was stationed at the window commanding a view of the whole scene.

'O,' cried Josephine, who stood by the window drapery from the view of those below, 'O, sire, I can endure it no longer ; it seems too much like a dreadful reality. Mark the devoted girl. No shrinking back. See, she seems calmly awaiting the fatal moment.'

'Stop,' cried the emperor from the window, 'Louis Delamarre is pardoned. I revoke his sentence.'

A loud burst of applause from the lips of the soldiers followed this announcement. Not one of them but loved and respected their comrade. The next moment, ere they could press around to congratulate the supposed Louis. De Merville had eagerly drawn the bewildered Henriette through the crowd, back too the cell from which she had emerged but a few moments before.

'Resume your dress again, Mademoiselle,' hurriedly whispered he. 'Lose no time. The emperor wishes to see you. I will return soon.

Henriette was like one in a dream, but a gleam of delicious hope thrilled her soul; she felt the dawnings of happiness break upon her heart. Soon again resuming her pretty rustic habiliments, De Merville reappeared, and once again she trod the audience-room of the emperor. Lifting her eyes from the ground as the lofty door swung open, she beheld Louis. An exclamation of joy burst from the lips of both, as regardless of others, they rushed into each other's arms.

Napoleon stepped forward. 'Louis Delamarre,' said he, 'you have just heard from my lips the tale of this lovely girl's devotion and courage. Do you love her as she deserves ?'

'I could die for her,' aswered Louis proudly.

'Well, well,' cried the emperor, 'this severe test of one will suffice. So dutiful a son, so faithful a lover, will doubtless make the best of husbands. You, Lieutenant Louis Delamarre are discharged from your regiment. Return to your native valley, with Henriette as your bride.'

'Here said the benevolent Josephine, emerging from the recessed window, 'here are one hundred louis d'ors, as the marriage dowry, Henriettee.'

A charming blush suffused the cheek of the beautiful girl, as she received the purse from the hand of the empress.

'Long live Napoleon,' exclaimed Louis, as with a heart too full of grateful emotion for further utterance, he took the hand of Henriette, and, making a graceful obeisance, quitted the apartment.

MODEL BAR APPEAL.—"Judge, your time I know is precious, as must be the case with so able and valued a member of society. This case is perfectly clear, and I know your learning and lucid intelligence. For me to argue would be not only a waste of time, but an insult to your penetration. Much might be said, but nothing is needed. Before any other judge I would lay down the rules of law, but here I know they have been deeply studied, and wisely understood. I look around me and behold an humble house of logs, yet see before me the spirit of truth, the unpurchased distributor of the law, and the old tenement rises before my mental vision, proud and beautiful as a majestic temple to Justice. Judge, I have a bottle of old prime Monongahela in my pocket ; for the respect I bear your character allow me to make you a present of it."

"Verdict for the defendant," said the judge.

TWO LAWYERS' MISTAKE.—When the regulations of West Boston Bridge were drawn up by two famous lawyers, one section was written, accepted, and now stands thus : "And the said proprietors shall meet annually on the first Tuesday of June, provided the same does not fall on Sunday."

A Chinese widow being found fanning the tomb of her deceased husband, and being asked the cause of so singular a mode of showing her greif, accounted for it by saying, that he had made her promise not to marry again while the mortar of the tomb remained damp, and as it dried slowly she saw no great harm in aiding the operation.

Diving Pigs.

The diving pigs which exist in the interior of Pensylvania are remarkable. The town of Pottsville is situated at the point where the Nowegian creek empties into the river of Schuylkill. The creek is a rapid stream but the river where the creek enters is rendered deep and sluggish by a dam below. The butchers of the town reside along the creek, and are in the habit of throwing the offal into the stream, which is washed into the river. A large number of Irish laborers live near the river keeping, as is customary with them, many pigs. These obtain their subsistence chiefly by diving for the offal at the bottom of the river, here about ten feet deep. A particular race of pigs called 'divers,' has been bred in the place, differing from others in the fact that they are web-footed, and are remarkable for their ability to dive, and for the length of time that they can remainder under water. Their power in this way seems to increase with age. One male, of two years of age, was observed to remain under water more than thirty minutes; younger pigs, ten, fifteen, and twenty minutes. An ordinary pig is drowned in less than one minute as ascertained by experiment. The peculiarities of the diving pigs are supposed to result from long practice and physicial change, transmitted and increased from generation to generation. The reason why they remain so long under water is that they may there devour their food, which is in danger of being taken from them by other pigs which frequent the shore. The young of this armphibious breed take to the water with great alacrity at an early age, and soon learn to dive. Nor do they strike their throats with their fore feet in swimming, as do others of the race, by which they frequently destroy their lives.

These singular facts relating to this peculiar breed of pigs show in a striking manner the abilily of nature to adapt herself to peculiar circumstances, and throws some light on the origin of the many varities of the different species of animals.

SHOOTING A BOBALINK.—The Bobalink has an instinctive horror for cold lead, and the faculty of dodging out its way, which no other bird, so far as our ornithological knowledge extends, is possessed of Frequently have we crept directly under a low ash or alder, upon the top of which one of the chatterers was perched, taking deliberate aim, our musket charged with about six inches of powder, and blazed away. Down the bird would come all but to the ground, and, when we thought we had him secure, off he would fly. After performing divers fantastic gyrations, and flapping his wings to convince us that we had not wounded him, he would suddenly stop still in the air, perk knowingly and wickedly in our face, and, in the joyousness of his exuberent fancy, would open with a song of his own composition, the burden of which sounded to us like the following :

"Ha, ha, ha, ha—don't you wish you could ? Click, bang ! Wasn't I off in season ? Hiti ka-dink. Put in more powder. Chickadee, de, de. You'd better shoot with a shovel. Ha, ha, ha. You can't come it Didn't you think you had me ? But you hadn't though Call again to-morrow—always find me at home.—Chickadee—tip, wheet ! Never felt so well in my life. Don't you feel cheap ? Ha, ha. Ripsidady ! Catch a bobalink asleep ! Zitka-wheet ! You are the greatest fool I ever saw. Lickaie-split ! Give my respects to your aunt. How's your ma ? Takes me. Hip ! zip ! rattlebang ! Ha, ha, ha ! skeet !"

After indulging in this bit of extemporaneous raillery, laughing all the time—we could fairly see him laugh—the bobalink would turn and fly off to the next bush, leaving us to load, creep up, and bang away again or not, to suit our own fancy.—Pert, saucy noisy, witty fellows are these bobalinks—the Mercutios and Gossamers of the feathered tribe—but they never meddle with politics—Oasis.

WORLD OF PURE SPIRITS.—An inveterate dram-drinker being told that the cholera with which he was attacked was incurable, and that he would speedily be removed to a world of pure spirits replied—

'Well, that's a comfort at all events, for it's very hard to get any in this world.'

READING SERMONS.—At the meeting of the Synod of the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, a resolution, disapproving of reading discourses from the pulpits of that Church, was carried by a majority of 165 against 121.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, July 19, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

CAMDEN AND AMBOY RAIL ROAD MONOPOLY.—As we are te-totally opposed to all monopolies, we have not said as much about this particular one as many of our cotemporaries, but we are nevertheless as much opposed to it as any of them can be. Whatever we have said or may say of monopolies, will apply with equal force to this monster. We consider all monopolies injurious and unjust to the equal rights of the people, and moreover unconstitutional. All monopolies and special priviliges are unconstitutional, and should and will be declared by the people null and void; whether that monopoly or privilege be a rail road charter, bank charter, ferry company, to sell rum, to buy pork, to preach the gospel, to plead law, or to practice medicine; whatever gives to one man or company of men a special privilege to do the above or any other acts that all cannot do upon the same conditions is unconstitutional; the moment the people give to one man or a company the exclusive right for any of these objects they yield up unnecessarily a portion of their equal rights. As it is thought necessary to have rail roads, banks, taverns, &c &c. let them be under a general law, that all may enjoy the same rights; grant as many rail road charters parallel to each other or to and from any point as shall be called for, making all necessary restrictions and guaranties, open to all on the same conditions, and competition will do away with all monopolies, and supply the wants of the public. On no other ground can they be constitutional.

In union there is strength. Yet it appears somewhat strange that while all acknowledge this self evident proposition, so few of the people, those by the sweat of whose brow all goverments have to be supported, and by the might of whose arm the arts and sciences are made to flourish; who are the creators of the wealth of the world, and who are the only legitimate scource of all political power, should not more generally unite together to obtain from the usurping despotic tyrants of the earth their just and equal rights. It was through this union of interests to obtain their rights that our forefathers effected the independence of these U States from the Crown of Great Britain. It must be through this that those strugling for liberty in Europe must hope to obtain it; nothing but a perfect unity of interests and action can obtain from the despots of Europe a recognition of the peoples rights. The people of France after dethroning one despot, let another usurp his place through the false medium or glitter of the name of Napoleon, and thus let a tyrant through false glory usurp the rights of the people. The government of France with Napoleon at its head, does not appear to possess any more of the principles of republicanism, than the government of Louis Philippe did; they have merely effected an exchange of despots; so easy do the people let tyrants posses the substance while they are content with the shadow; one great reason of this undoubtedly is the want of education among the masses, and a free press to make known the peoples rights. If they possessed this most essential foundation to a true knowledge of their rights, they never would permit their government to interfere with the Roman's who are so nobly contending for their liberties.

But our object in commencing this article was not so much to declare the rights of the people of France or Rome who havn our heartfelt sympathies, as to examine into our own rights, and to see if we are enjoying all the rights to which we are entitled.

A free press, and free discussion by the people, on all subjects connected with their welfare and happiness, has convinced them that all men do not enjoy that liberty, which nature and natures God and the common sense of mankind declares them entitled to. The people we say begin more fully to understand their rights from discussing them, and they are about to unite to demand and obtain the substance in exchange for the shadow; they see plainly that it does not do to preach liberty without making some efforts towards its more universal practice. Recent events in the history of the parties of our country conclusively prove to our minds that parties have been behind the spirit of the age, which is in favor of universal liberty, not alone for the white man, but for all. It is beginning to be supposed that the negro has a soul as well as the white man, and therefore is equally entitled to liberty and the enjoyment of social and political rights. This is being contended for from principle, from the love of the principle of liberty implanted in our hearts by nature, and awakened into life by the precepts and examples of our forefathers, and a knowledge of our rights.

This is truly a democratic doctrine, promulgated by the immortal Jefferson, and is fully set forth in the declaration of independence; and is all predominant in the minds of the people, and will be insisted on by them with unyielding firmness; on this principle our government was established, and it was doubtless supposed by its founders that ere this all men who "are created free and equal, and have certain unalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," would have enjoyed them. How long shall it yet be before we practice that we preach, by making liberty a practical, as it is a theoretical principle of our government? It is now as "sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal," pleasing to the ear of man but to his soul a bitter mockery!

☞ Sarsaparilla as a Medicine.—It is admitted on all hands that Sarsaparilla is one of the very best medicines in the world for curing the innumerable diseases to which man is subject, at least all Physicians use and recommend it; the only difficulty appears to be to get the genuine article; a reference to the card to the public in another column of our paper, of some sixty of the most respectable Apothecaries and Physicians of New York, Brooklyn, and Williamsburgh bears conclusive evidence of the genuiness and superiority of Old Doct. Jacob Townsend's.

THE WEATHER.—Thursday and Friday of last week were the hottest days as yet of the season, the thermometer standing at 90° to 98° in the shade, on Saturday we had a moderate thunder shower, since which the weather has been much cooler, the health of the inhabitants of the Village generally good.

Col. Thomas H. Benton.

To-day we hoist the name of Col THOMAS H. BENTON for the 'Presidency, subject of course to the decision of the National Democratic Convention. This will not operate as a surprise upon any one at all observing of the steady growing sentiment, favorable to this distinguished statesman, spontaneously manifesting itself throughout the country. This is not the result of any preconcerted movement; no machine has been set to work: but it is an admiration, founded upon a manly, independent, and eminently able discharge of public duties, that ever will command the hearts of the American people. None can cavil that experience is wanting, for his life has been spent in the National Councils, and his whole energies, his far seeing sagacity, his grand projects, all have been accorded to the nation. His ipse dixit, is necessory to inspire confidence in a contemplated measure, and happily his judgment may by accounted unerring. His opinion are frightened with practical, convincing reasons, and so perspicuous, that it is manifested to all understandings Certain it is, there is no more eminent civilian—no man with more comprehensive views.—no man with more firmness and stern integrity, than Colonel Thomas H. Benton, and no man in our opinion, who will so effectually unite the strength of the Democratic party, and carry with him the reflecting and patriotic of whatever party. We shall stand by 'Old Bullion' as a candidate, until overruled by the Convention.—Middletown Point Banner.

☞ Among the persons killed by the collapse of the flue of the steamer Embassy near Shawneetown lately, were John Watts, and his wife and three children, from Bound brook, in this County, formerly of Washington Valley.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

BREAKING STEERS.—An effectual and speedy mode of breaking steers, is to use a yoke long enough to hold four bows at suitable distances. Put a strong, steady yoke of oxen on the outside and the steers inside, treat them gently and do not use the whip nor goad, and you will soon have the young ones as well broken as the old

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Union of the Democracy.

Though we may regret the present ascendancy of the whig party, it has at least had the effect of causing the democracy to reflect on the evils which have resulted to them and to the country on account of their departure from one of the great fundamental principles of their politicial faith. It will be admitted, I believe, (now that the time for calm reflection—"the sober, second thought"—has come,) that the democratic party had, for a moment faltered in its fearless assertion that "All men are created free and equal"—and had, for the purpose of securing a supposed present advantage, brought scandal on the cause which it should have zealously promoted with untiring vigilance.

It is in vain to deny that on the question of slavery the democracy had proved recreant to the principles of equal rights and had suffered itself to be cajoled and led by men who were in the interest of the south; and who, to secure their own selfish ends, were ready to bring reproach on the cause of human progress, which they professed to have greatly at heart.

At the time Texas was seeking to be admited into the union, the free democracy were assured that the new country would in time be divided into five states, two of which should be free ones. Although this was a poor excuse, yet as it was in some respects desirable that texas should be admitted, thousands of those who have ever been earnestly opposed to the extension of slavery were induced to advocate—or at least not oppose—the admission.

But Texas once adimitted, we hear no more of the free states which were to be formed within her limits; on the contrary, she has made, and is still making, great efforts to obtain possession of free territory, to which she has no shadow of title that the blight and curse of the "peculiar institution" may be entailed on it also.

By the terms of the late treaty with Mexico, California and New-Mexico were ceded to the United States. These territories were occupied only by free men, who were guarantied all their rights. They resisted the introduction of slavery, and prayed that they might be left in the undisturbed possession of the blessings which the treaty of peace secured to them. California is able to prevent the encroachments of slavery; she will take good care that southerner and his "chattles" do not render labor a disgrace within her borders. But with New-Mexico the case is different; and it is the duty of all who love liberty to assist in restraining the slave-driver from seizing upon her territory that he may only render it a fit home for slaves.

Oregon, too, was looked upon by the slave interest as a desirable possession; and when the free men who had gone out into the wilderness and made it to bud and blossom like a well-watered garden, sought to raise a barrier against an evil, which, wherever it is mentioned in the world's history, is always spoken of as a blight and a curse, the Southern states—which had done nothing in settling that distant colony—raised a great clamor that they were about to be defrauded of their rights!

It was now that thousands and tens of thousands of the democracy—including a very large number of the most distinguished and intelligent of its leadears and supporters—protested that they could no longer acquiesce in the intolerable exactions of the slave interest; and, be the consequences what they might, they would resist to the utmost the attempts to surrender another inch of free territory to the foul embrace of slavery.

It is not my object, however, to speak of this subject farther than to explain the cause of the defeat of the democracy in the late presidential election. The whig party can never elect a president while the democracy are true to their principles. The principles of equality, the doctrine of "the greatest good of the greatest number," will ever be popular with the majority of our people. It is only when the party is false to its principles and its professions, and concientious and patriotic men are compelled to withhold their assistance that their politicial opponents can possibly triumph. And when the party returns to its principles and proclaims them fearlessly, the majority of the free men of the country will rally earnestly in its support.

It is but a very few years since the democratic party of New York city was so completely controlled by bank officers and their dependents, that it proclaimed William Leggett—one of the most uncompromising democrats and truest patriots that ever lived—an enemy to the cause of the people! Yes, the man who had spent the best years of his life in advocating in all their purity the great doctrines of "equal and exact justice to all men," was cast out as unworthy to associate with the party for which he had made such sacrifices. The true reason of the hostility to this great and good man on the part of the leaders was his opposition to the money-power which had arrayed itself against the liberties of the people; and they sought by branding him with reproach, to destroy the effects of his earnest remonstrances.

But the great mass of the party—who are always desirous of doing right—were deceived for a very brief period only. The writings of Leggett—ever eloquent—were now more earnest and spirited than before; and the men who but a short time previous had quietly heard the name of the reformer coupled with "traitor" and other vile epithets, became convinced of the purity of his motives and the correctness of his teachings; and his name was rescued from unmerited reproach, and enshrined in their hearts as one of their greatest benefactors and firmest friends.

Leggett lived to see the people triumph in the overthrow of the money-power which had sought to trample our liberties in the dust; and we rejoice that the time is at hand—which he also labored to hasten—when the free men of the north shall no longer be controlled by the owners and breeders of slaves. I have alluded to the cause of Leggett as an instance of what one man may sometimes do in persuading a great party to adhere to its principles.

It is gratifying to know that the democratic party at the north are uniting as one man in opposition to the farther encroachments of slavery. Already conventions have been held in several of the states and the battle-cry of the united democracy is, "No more slave territory!" With this motto inscribed on their banners in letters of gold, they will hasten to the rescue, and whiggery will speedily be dislodged from the high places which it has reached through the errors of the democracy. "The sober second thought" has done its office; the people have seen the folly of forsaking their principles and running after strange gods, and with strong hands and firm hearts they will buckle on their armor and prepare for the defence of their liberties against all the machinations of whiggery.

J. A.

CHOLERA.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, July 16.

The Cholera is rapidly on the decrease. The interments on Sauterday were 131, of which 89 were from Cholera. Those on Sunday, (yesterday,) were 92, of which 68 were from Cholera The interments for the week past, from Monday to Sunday inclusive, were 937, of which 710 were from Cholera.

New York July 16th, 1849.

The Board of Health, report 158 new cases, and 55 deaths of Cholera, as having occurred during the last 24 hours.

Total number of deaths by Cholera to to this date July 16th is 1836.

The number of deaths last week (991) by all diseases, is greater than ever before occurred in the city in any one week. The greatest number in any one week during the prevelence of cholera in 1832, was 887, or 104 less than last week. The number of deaths by cholera last week was not so great as during the highest week in 1832, by 232, viz: last week, 484,—highest week in 1832, 716. As the population of the city is nearly double what it was in 1832, the proportion of deaths to population is but little more than one-third what it was then,—i e., if we compare with the week of greatest mortality in that year.

By a list of deaths by Cholera in two weeks there were of natives of the U. States Total 575 and of foreigners 766.

Hence it appears that two thirds of all the victims are foreigners, nearly three fourths are natives of Ireland

Death of Mrs. Madison.

Mrs. D. P. MADISON expired at 10 1-4 o'clock P. M. yesterday evening, at her residence in this city —Washington Republic, 13th

Mrs. Madison was the widow of James Madison fourth president of the United States. She was born a member of the Society of friends in Virginia about the year 1770. Her maiden name was Paine. She was young when her father removed to Philadelphia. When some twenty years old she married a lawyer by the name of Todd who died in less than three years after the marriage. She had one son by him who still lives in Virginia. She married Mr. Madison at Philadelphia in the year 1794, when he was a member of Congress. During his Presidency Mrs. Madison did the honors of the White House with eminent grace and dignity, and has since constantly occupied a distinguished place in society at Washington and in Virginia. She leaves no children except Mr. Todd—[Ed. Trib.

The News From Europe.

The French are partly within the walls of Rome and our dispatch mentions a report that the Government is about to yield the city. This is possible, but yet not certain; our latest dispatch from London to Liverpool will perhaps remove the doubt. The bombardment began on the 14th; on the 22d the breaches in the outer walls were carried so far that a French force succeeded in gaining a position within them. The struggle still continued, but in the two succeeding days the French made little progress, and everwhere found their attacks vigorously repelled by the courageous defenders of the city. Oudinot is said to have Rome at his mercy, and therefore the Triumvirs talk of surrender—but nothing has hitherto worn any aspect but that of determined and desperate resistence to the treachorous invader.

In France the Government is having its own way and preparing new difficulties for the future. It seems almost inconceivable that men, before whose very eyes the last twenty-five years of French history have set up their lessons of wanting, should go on repeating the fatal blunders which have again and again brought calamity to their authors and to France. The fools of the hour, they imagine that safety consists in the suspension of the Constitution and in systematic outrages on liberty. They shut up the clubs and muzzle the press, and having caused the ghost of despotic quiet to brood over the outmost surface of society, fancy themselves secure from the energies which fiercely rage beneath, but which rage only because they are denied a free and full manifestation. In France it is calamitiously absurd to think of applying the discipline of Russia. People talk of the necessity of the case, of the impossibility of preserving order except by stringent restrictions on liberty. We totally deny the existence of such a necessity. We assert that the real necessity is exactly on the opposite side. It is impossible to preserve order, to render it permanent in in Paris or elsewhere except by the fullest measure of freedom and by laws consecrating and not destroying it. There was never more complete liberty and never so good order in Paris as during the two months after the February Revolution. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are the best guarantess of public tranquility; liberty is the best preventive of disturbance in a Government based on universal suffrage. This is not a principle true here and false there but it is true everywhere, and its violation cannot but produce evil.—We have a certain respect for some persons who pretend that it is not true for Paris, but their reasoning on that point always makes on us the peculiar impression which arises from what is sometimes called twaddle.—Tribune.

Fire in Allegheny City.

PITSBURGH, July 16.

A tremendous fire is now raging in Allegheny City, and already some 25 to 30 buildings are in ashes, including Dr. Swifts Church. It is impossible at present to tell where or when it will stop, as no water is being thrown to stop its progress in consequence of a disagreement between the firemen and the City Councils, who refused the necessary appropriation for repairing the engines. Numerous companies from Pitsburgh are on the spot to render assistance, but the mob will not allow them to work.

MESSRS EDITORS: will you please publish the following enigma, and confer a favor upon one of your young readers, and also furnish amusement for others:

I am composed of 27 letters.

My 1, 13, 4, 26, is a place of water.
" 2, 10, 9, 6, is one of the States,
" 3, 13, 25, was a Gen. in the American Revolution.
" 4, 16, 1, 13, 3, 26, is a town in Mass.
" 5, 17, 27, 2, 6, 22, 20 is one of the States.
" 6, 22, 17, is a cape in the United States.
" 7, 10, 16, 17, is one of the orbs.
" 8, 13, 17, 15, 16, 22, is a town in Ohio.
" 9, 6, 14, 14, 25, 22, is a county in N J.
" 10, 17, 15, 20, 14, 2, 16, is a co. in N Y.
" 11, 6, 18, 10, 14, 15, 25, is a town in Indiana
" 12, 25, 14, 7, 10, 22, 15, is one of the States
" 13, 15, 17, 6, is a mount in Europe.
" 14, 10, 7, 25, is a town in N. Y.
" 15, 14, 25, 17, 15, 10, 22, is a town in N. J.
" 16, 22, 15, 6, 14, 2, 10, is one of the Lakes.
" 17, 5, 26, 13 is a river in Africa.,
" 18, 3, 20, 24, 17, 23, 5, 13, 16, 27 is a village in N. J.
" 19, 10, 17, 27, 16, 22, is a city in Europe.
" 20, 17, 27, 14, 25, was an officer in the British Army in the revolution.
" 21, 22 27, 2, 6, 17, is one of the Oceans.
" 22, 13, 9, 20, 14, 8, is a city in N. J.
" 23, 13, 6, 14, is a cape in the U. S.
" 24, 14, 1, 5, 17, is a co in Georgia.
" 25, 6, 15, 10, 22, is a co. in Michigan.
" 26, 20, 8, 13, is a co. in Illinois.
" 27, 6, 14, 8, is a co in Ohio.

My whole is the name of the author and his residence.

MURDER AT HOBOKEN.—A horrid murder was committed in Gardiner-st. Hoboken about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. It appears that a man named John Dunn suspected his wife of an improper intimacy with a clergyman who resided in the same house with them, but it appears in evidence before the coroners jury that the clergyman had never spoken to her before that day, and that the real cause was rum; the murderer is now in Newark Jail.

FREE TRADE AND FARMERS PRODUCE.—The protectionist used to tell the farmers that free trade would not help them at all; that they never could send their produce to England unless prices there were very high; and that in such a case, the comparative proximity of the Baltic would enable the Germans to step in before us. Another plea of the protectionists was, that England burdened our produce with very high duties, and it was no more than right that we should impose high duties upon their manufacturies in return. A few years have passed, and England, partly for her own sake, and partly no doubt in the expectation of inducing a more liberal policy on our part, has repealed or greatly reduced the duties on all American produce, thus testing the sincerity of the protectionists' plea of reciprocity or relation, and also the truth of their doctrine as to the bearing of free trade upon the amount of farmers produce exported. The first development of free trade exhibited enormous exportations of American produce to the United Kingdom; but the protectionists, while they admitted the fact, contended that it proved nothing, because there was a famine in Europe. Well, now, in 1849, there is no famine in Europe; the last crops were as good as usual and there is no where even distress for the necessaries of life, except in some parts of Ireland, where it exists as a matter of course. Keeping this in mind, let us look at a few facts. And first a quotation from a Liverpool high Tariff paper called the Mail, as follows:

In 1840 we imported into Liverpool from Ireland—and Liverpool only—10,000 tierces of beef—value £60,000. In the same year we imported into Liverpool 23,800 barrels of pork—value £80,000. This gives an importation into Liverpool from Ireland, in the year mentioned, of produce to the extent of £140,000

In 1848 there were scarcely any beef imported from Ireland. Into London the value of these articles in 1840 was four or five times as much as the value imported into Liverpool. That is in 1840—nearly £700,000 of beef and pork.

All this is gone The United States send us what ruined Ireland cannot send.

There were imported into Liverpool, for the week ending the 6th June, 1849 the following articles:

865 barrels of pork
200 hogsheads of pork.
300 do. and boxes of bacon.
56 do. of pigs heads, &c.
300 barrels of lard.

This is nothing to what is coming, which we shall enumerate by and by; of cerial produce we have the following in one week, for the week ended 6th June:—

10,145 bags Indian corn.
29,713 bushels of do
2,299 barrels of flour.
2,129 sacks of do.
8,426 quarters of wheat.
1,620 do. of beans
1,400 bushels of oats

Next we quote from the Baltimore American, an American Proteetionist paper, as follows:

"It will probably strike many with surprise that the amount of Indian Corn shipped to Europe from the United States during the past month of June exceeds that of the same month in 1847, the famine year. The official statement of the exports for the month have appeared in the New York Shipping List, and the quantity of Corn exported is stated at 1,287,369 bushels, being greater by 550,486 bushels than was shipped in the same month in 1847, and greater. we believe, than was ever shipped in any previous month."

The Albany Argus, after speaking of the immense amount of Indian Corn coming down the Canals, (averaging 33,000 bushels per day for nine days previous to the date of its remarks), adds,—"Large however as these receipts are, they are rapidly absorbed by the New York dealers, almost entirely on foreign account.'—Jour of Commerce.

MARRIED.

On Sunday evening June 15th by Rev. D. T. Hill, Mr Tunis Angleman, to Miss. Sarah Jane Pangborn, all of Plainfield

DIED.

At Boundbrook on Sunday July 15th of Consumption, Susan wife of Eden S. Webster.

At Greenbrook on Monday July 16th. of Cholera, Justices Baldwin of the City of New York.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday July 11.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 94
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 06 a 1 12
CORN " do.	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	14

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deliverers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

July 18. 1849. [82.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [S0.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield July 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Leveridge Cornl's A
Adams Thomas 2	Long John
Ayers & Tittsworth	M
B	McCord J W
Barton Mr.	McDonald Willliam
Beekman P. S.	Madden Henry G Esq
Beker Gorge	Moore Isaac
Baldwin Nathaniel	L Mallison James J
Byrne Jane	P
C	Pell Mary Jane
Con'mann Mager	Ponell William
Crane James	Pound S S
Coddington J C	R
Codington Wm B	Rodgers Miss Joana
Colthar John 2	Randolph Mrs Mary F
D	Robbinson Ann
Dutcher Josiah J	Reve Robert L
E	S
Eayres Rev. John L	Steward Adolphus
Eakin Robert	Stebbins Wm
F	Simpson Wm
Frazee Mrs Mary	Sperring James
Fisher Mrs Tobitha	Shotwell Mrs M E
G	Spencer Caroline B
Garwood H	T
Gimble Curtis	Trainer Barny
H	V
Hill J N	Verity Isabela
Halsey Stephen L Eq	W
J	Wooden Richard
Jacobus Cyrus F	Watson James H
K	Waldren Reuben
Kershner Mr	or Wm Frasure
Killroy Haigh	Willet Lauis
L	Wormes Mr
Lynch Jno. Thomas

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at W. M. DRAKE'S

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms.

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,

Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded. JAMES ROSS.

July, 1849.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE, The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77

GRANNIS & THOMAS,

FURNISHING WAREHOUSE,

No. 300 Broad st. Newark.

CABINET FURNITURE.

Mahogany, curled maple and common Chairs, Looking Glasses, Feathers, Mattrasses, and Feather Beds, Andirons, Shovels and Tongs, Brass Kettles, Tin Wash Kettles, copper, bell-metal and sheet iron Tea Kettles, Sauce Pans; fancy and common Bellows, Tea-Bells, Brooms, Water Pails, &c.

Solar and cut glass Hall Lamps. Plated German Silver and Brittania Tea and Table Spoons, also Castors, Oil Cloth, India Rubber and Hair do, and curled hair; together with all articles usually kept in such an establishment.

Crockery packed at N. Y. prices; Houses furnished at one day's notice.

JOHN W. GRANNISS,
FREDERICK S. THOMAS Jr.

Newark, N. J. 1849. [28

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

John Lutz, Collet Hall. near the Rail Road Depot, Elizabethtown, N. J., offers

Cloth, dress and frock coats at	$7,00	worth	10,00
Tweed coats,	3,50	"	4,50
Sassimere "	6,00	"	9,00
Black, drab, lead, &c	3,50	"	5,00
Croton cloth and alapaca,	3,00	"	4,50
Linen and gingham coats,	1,50	"	2,00
Cloth and cass. pants,	3,50	"	5,00
Satinet "	2,00	"	2,50
Summer cassim "	1,50	"	2,00
Cotton 1st quality"	1,00	"	1,50
" 2d " "	0,75	"	1,25
Lilac silk satin vest,	3,00	"	4,00
Fancy silk plaid, of every quality,	2,00	"	3,00
2d quality black satin,	2,00	"	3,00
Marseilles vest,	1,25	"	2,00
2d quality,	1,00	"	1,50

'Go it while you're young!' [29

CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of CLAPP has engaged with a young man of the name of S. P. Townsend, and uses his name to put up a Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE, Original, etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was; but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr., for the purpose of gaining credit for what he is not. This is to caution the public not to be deceived, and purchase none but the GENUINE ORIGINAL OLD Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Dr's. likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the cost of arms.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau st., New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied; this GRAND AND UNEQUALLED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, especially as it is found incapable of degeneration or deterioration.

Unlike young S. P Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better: because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties and some properties which are inert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not preserved by a scientific process, known only to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential medical properties of the root, which give to it all its value.

Any person can boil or stew the root till they get a dark-colored liquid, which is more from the coloring matter in the root than from any thing else; they can then strain this insipid or vapid liquid, sweeten with sour molasses, and then call it "SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP." But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is so prepared, that all the inert properties of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted and rejected; then every particle of medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA, and LIVER COMPLAINT, and in RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA, PILES, COSTIVENESS, all CUTANEOUS ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES, BLOCTHES, and all affections arising from

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

It possesses a marvellous efficacy in all complaints arising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. it has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing stricture of the lungs, throat, and every other part.

But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the menstrual periods, and the like; and is as effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Diseases.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of

Nervous diseases and debility,

and thus prevents or relieves a great variety of other maladies, as Spinal irritation, Neuralgia, St. Vitus' Dance Swooning, Epileptic Fits, Convulsions, &c.

It cleanses the blood, excites the liver to healthy action, tones the stomach, and gives good digestion, relieves the bowels of torpor and constipation, allays inflammation, purifies the skin, equalises the circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally all over the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then

The medicine you pre-eminently need?

But can any of these things be said of S. P. Townsend's infer or article? This Young man's liquid is not to be

COMPARED WITH THE OLD DR'S,

because of one GRAND FACT, that the one is INCAPABLE of DETERIORATION, and

NEVER SPOILS,

while the other DOES; souring, fermenting, and blowing the bottles containing it into fragments; the sour, acid liquid exploding and damaging other goods! Must not this horrible compound be poisonous to the system?—What! put acid into a system already diseased with acid! What causes Dyspepsia but acid? Do we not all know that when food sours in our stomachs, what mischiefs it produces? flatulence, heartburn palpitation of the heart; liver complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, and corruption of the blood? What is Scrofula but an acid humor in the body? What produces all the humors which bring on Eruptions of the Skin, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Fever Sores, and all ulcerations internal and external? It is nothing under heaven, but an acid substance, which sours, and thus spoils all the fluids of the body, more or less. What causes Rheumatism but a sour or acid fluid which insinuates itself between the joints and elsewhere, irritating and inflaming the delicate tissues upon which it acts? So of nervous diseases, of impurity of the blood, of deranged circulations, and nearly all the ailments which afflict human nature.

Now is it not horrible to make and sell, and infinitely worse to use this and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Genuine Original Sarsaparilla, is an IMITATION of his inferior preparation!!

---

SOURING, FERMENTING, ACID "COMPOUND" OF S. P. TOWNSEND,

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article! and which should bring down upon the Old Dr. such a mountain load of complaints and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's FERMENTING COMPOUND.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute truth, that S. P. Townsend's article and Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla are heaven-wide apart, and infinitely dissimilar; that they are unlike in every particular, having not one single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are in capable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health.

But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience to cook and serve up even a common decent meal. How much more important is it that the persons who manufacture medicine, designed for should know well the medical properties of plants, the best manner of securing and concentrating their healing virtues, also an extensive knowledge of the various diseases which affect the human system, and how to adapt remedies to these diseases!

WEAK STOMACHS AND ENFEEBLED SYSTEMS,

It is to arrest frauds upon the unfortunate, to pour balm into wounded humanity, to kindle hope in the despairing bosom, to restore health and bloom, and vigor into the crushed and broken, and to banish infirmity that OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND has SOUGHT and FOUND the opportunity and means to bring his

Grand Universal Concentrated Remedy

within the reach, and to the knowledge of all who need it, that they may learn and know, by joyful experience, its

Transcendent Power to Heal.

DR. JACOB TOWNSEND, NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1848.

SIR:—On the 20th of July, 1847, I was again attacked with rheumatism, and continued, under various prescriptions, to grow worse for at least two months. I became entirely helpless, incapable of feeding myself, or turning in bed, or helping myself any way. In this state I continued until January, 1848, when I began to mend a little and improve gradually till the 1st May. This amendment was only so far as to be able to feed myself, though still incapable of getting in or out of bed, or even turning in bed. I remained in this condition, with little or no change, until I fairly despaired of getting about again this season. On the 21st July, I was induced to try your Sarsaparilla; on the 24th, three days after taking the first dose, I AROSE IN BED, which I had not done before in ten months, and in less than a week, I

WALKED ACROSS THE ROOM

with the aid of crutches. Since then, I have walked in the street: have gone alone from 36 Spruce-street to the Park; thence to Lovejoy's Hotel and back. I have been to 85 Nassau-street two different times, and am now frequently visiting my neighbors. During all this time, I have taken but two bottles of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Oct. 4. I procured another bottle to-day (5th Oct.) I walked twice across the floor without the aid of crutches. I have also nearly recovered from obstruction of water, which gave me great distress. The pain in my back has likewise left me. I and my family have no earthly reason to ascribe my recovery to any other cause but to

OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALEX. WELSH, 36 Spruce st.

P. S.—Several able physicians despaired of my ever walking or even raising myself from my bed again.

Principal Office 102 Nassau-street, N. Y. City.

M. F. Cushing, Agent.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,)
Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)
Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES, which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick: Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japanned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13 3m.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety.
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J. R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the Land is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1849. NO. 32.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.—To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

LIPPARD'S

WASHINGTON AND HIS GENERALS,

Or, Legends of the Revolution.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

Author of 'The Quaker City,' 'Monks of Monk Hall,' 'Paul Ardenheim, the Monk of Wissahikon,' 'Blanch of Brandywine,' 'The Nazarine,' 'Legends of Mexico,' 'The Empire City,' 'The Rose of Ephraim,' etc. etc.

Complete in two large octavo volumes of 538 pages, printed on the finest white paper. Price for the entire work, one dollar. Or handsomely bound for $1 50.

The reputation of this book extends over the American Continent. It was first published in the Saturday Courier, in a series of legends, entending thro' 57 papers,' issued week after week, with a popularity unparelled in the annals of newspape rpublication, for 57 weeks. The work in book form contains at least twice the amount of reading contained in the Courier Legends.

This work has created an excitement almost without parelell, and received not only the warm encomiums of critics, but the enthusiastic commendations of the press through the Union.

It is emphatically the book of the revolution devoted to the records of the American revolution which it endeavors, how successfully let the public determine, to embody in a series of vivid and original historical pictures. It is the result of five years labor on the part of the author. It comprises his researches into the archieves, documents and papers, now hidden away in the libraries and closets of the Union. It also combines those traditions which old men, survivors of the past, have brought down to our time, concerning the days of '76.

It forms an elegantly printed work of 538 octavo pages, furnishing to every family, library and club in the Union, a book, which in size alone contains more substantial reading than any periodical of the day.

It also comprises descriptions of the following battles; Germantown, Saratoga, Quebec, Brandwine, Trenton, Paoli, Red Bank, with a new and minute description of the singing and proclamation of the declaration of Independence.

This work should be found on the centre table, or at the fireside of every patriot and American in the United States, and it should be handed down to their children and posterity, as an invaluable heir loom.

Purchasers should be careful to ask for Lippard's Washington and his Generals, as a work with similar title has been issued in New York, with whole pages taken from Lippard's Legends.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by return of mail on remitting one dollar to the publisher.

Booksellers, new agents, pedlars, and all dealers supplied at very low rates, and they will please send in their orders at once.—Published and for sale by

T. B. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut-st., Phila

To whom all orders should be addressed post paid.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

Why should we fear Death?

It is a trite remark, I am well aware, to say that man is mortal. And yet it is a subject in which all are interested, and which all should occasionally ponder. Yes, the life of man is of a fleeting, a transitory nature. In the beautiful and figurative language of inspiration, our life is as a vapor, which appeareth for a little season and then vanisheth suddenly away.

These active bodies which now require so much care will soon molder in the dust; soon these sparkling eyes will grow dim and close on all the beautiful objects which they now behold; these strong arms will drop nerveless by our side, incapable of farther service; our tongues, which should have been eloquent in the cause of right—which is the cause of God—will falter and forget to curse or bless; our feet, which too frequently are swift to do evil but easily tire when we are engaged in doing good, will soon refuse any longer to convey us on errands of mercy or hatred; and the mind, which now wills, and our members obey, will speedily cease to direct.

That we are constantly exposed to death in a thousand forms, the experience of almost every family bears testimony. There are few households but miss a beloved one at the table and the fireside; and the youngest member who is able to totter across the room understands but too plainly that the absent one will never return.

I do not, however, look upon death in the same light that he is viewed by many others. If we live the life of true men and woman—if we discharge faithfully the duties of accountable creatures—if we serve God continually by doing good, and receive his favors with thankful hearts—we shall ever be ready to meet death, whether he comes at midnight, at the cock-crowing, or at mid-day. If in all our dealings with our fellow men, we have been actuated by our Saviour's spirit—if we have heeded the injunction, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you," the contemplation of death need not alarm us.

It is painful, it is true, to reflect that we may be suddenly snatched away from those we love and who are dependent on us for support and protection. But, if we have ever properly discharged our duties as parents and Christians, we should be willing to leave them whenever the Master shall call, in the full belief that the God we have served by ministering to the wants of others, is able to raise up friends to protect and assist—if necessary—the loved ones we may leave behind.

Let us strive then so to live that we shall feel no terror at the approach of death. I am confident that we may live in such a manner that we shall at any time be prepared to give an account of our stewardship without fear or trembling. It is not by long prayers, by mortifying our flesh, by making great professions; but by the acknowledgements of greatful hearts, by doing the will of God by making others happy, by being just in all our dealings, by immitating so far as we are able the example of our Savior, and relying on his merits, we shall ever be ready to enter heaven whither our works will follow us. A.

DISAPPOINTMENT.—A lady who had boasted highly to a dinner party of the good manners of her little darling, addressed him with—'Charles, will you have some more beans?' 'No,' was the ill mannered reply. 'No!' exclaimed the astonished mother, 'No What?' 'No BEANS, ma,' said the child.

How to win a KISS.—The late Mr. Jarvey Bush amused us once with a story told of a brother barrister on the Dicester circuit. As the coach was about starting after breakfast, the modest limb of the law approached the landlady, a pretty quakeress, who was seated behind the bar and said he could not think of going without giving her a kiss.

'Friend, thee must not do it,' said she.

'Oh, by heavens I will!' replied the barrister.

'Well, friend, as thou hast sworn, thee may do it but thee must not make a practice of it.

Avow Your Principles.

The following extracts from an address delivered by DR. Olin before the Students of the University at Middletown, Conn. are so appropriate to "the times we live in," that we at once adopt them.

Always be ready to avow your principles of action. Scorn concealment. Put out your true colors, to the gaze of men and angels. There is a false prudence, a mock modesty, which inculcates the opposite method. It is well and safe to stand committed to the right, that the world may know, in advance, where you will be found in any day of trial; and it is a reflection upon a good man's intelligence or integrity to have his opinions and principles forever unsettled or in doubt. Society has a right to know what it may expect from him, and justly suspects him of interested and dishonest aims, when he chooses to remain undecided and uncommitted till suffrage has announced the safe way.

Educated men are the natural sources and guides of popular opinion, and they are bound to stand forth boldly, to battle with prejudice, and breast the inundation of passion, though at some risk of being swept away by its fury. The principles of the educated, active, influential men, of every community, generally become its public sentiment. On this account it was that the laws of Athens held that any citizen was an enemy to the State, who remained a neutral in any important crisis or question of general interest. The Redeemer of the world has given to this equitable principle the sanction of religion, it is only they who confess him before men, whom he will confess before the angels in Heaven.

Let every one who would not become a mere puppet and time-server, beware of feeling more solicitude for promotion than he does for his principles. If they are to be put down, it is a misfortune and a snare to rise, and he should blush and suspect himself a knave, who is conscious of grudging the sacrifice which it may cost him to be an honest man. No valuable ends besides those of selfish or profligate ambition, can ever be secured by such dishonorable successes; and any but a weak or unscrupulous man will prefer to bide his time, and wait for more auspicious days, when God, whose attributes ever side with the right, will pluck its drowned honors from the deep, and make the conscientious and the brave sharers in its triumphs.

An Eloquent Portrait of the Saviour.

The following is a description of the person of Jesus Christ, as it was found in an ancient manuscript, sent by Publius Lentalus, President of Judea, to the Roman Senate.

There lives at this time in Judea, a man of singular character, whose name is Jesus Christ.

The barbarians esteem him as a prophet, but his followers adore him as the immediate offspring of the immortal God. He is endowed with such unparalleled virtue as to call back the dead from their graves, and to heal every kind of disease with a word or touch. His person is, tall and elegantly shaped—his aspect amiable, reverent. His hair flows in those beatiful shades which no united colors can match, falling into graceful curls below his ears, agreeably couching on his shoulders, and parting on the crown of his head, like the head dress of the sect of the Nazarites. His forehead is smooth and large; the cheek without spot, save that of a lovely red; his nose and mouth are formed with exquisite symmetry; his beard is thick and suitable to the hair of his head, reaching a little below his chin and parting in the middle like a fork. His eyes are bright, clear and serene. He rebukes with majesty, counsels with mildness, and invites with the most tender and persuasive language. His whole addres, whether in word or deed, being elegant, grave and strictly characteristic of so great a being; No man has seen him laugh, but the whole world behold him weep frequently; and so persuasive are his tears, that the multitude cannot withold theirs from joining in simpathy with him. He is moderate, temperate and wise. In short, whatever this phenomena may turn out in the end, he seems at present a man of excellent beauty and divine perfection, every way surpassing the children of men.

'GIVE ME YOUR BABY.'—We saw a poor woman sitting on the steps in front of a hotel on Fith street, the other morning, holding a pale yet beautiful infant in her arms; in one hand she had a saucer containing a few pennies. She was about thirty, and neatly clad, although the dress was of the cheapest material. One could see that her position in life had been better, and perhaps a happy one for years.

Our attention was arrested by a crowd of well dressed ladies who were standing around and endeavoring to beg the baby.

'What a sweet child!' said one.

'Poor little deer!' said another, 'how I should love it if it was my own!'

The mother drew the child to her bosom, but said not a word.

Another lady, in whose face one could see at a glance, a fountain of charity and love, seemed more intent in the child than any other.

'Give me your baby,' said she, 'and I will take good care of it.'

The poor woman looked up for the first time, with a face so melancholy, and the tear trembled in her eyes.

'No, madam, I thank you for your kind feelings, but I cannot part with the only thing I have left to love on earth!'

This was enough. The lady dropped a half eagle upon the saucer, and turned away in tears. The others opened their purses, and placed their offerings in charitable sociability with the gold piece. We added our mite, and walked away a happier and better man. [Cin. Com.

A JOKE AT THE JOKERS EXPENSE.—Dr. M., an army surgeon during the American war, was very fond of a joke, (if not perpetrated at his own expence,) and had morever, a great contempt for citizen officers, who were more renowned for their courage than their scholarship. One day at mess, after the decanter had performed sundry perambulations of the table, Capt. S., a brave and accomplished officer and a great wag, remarked to the doctor, who had been somewhat severe in his remarks on the literary deficiencies of some of the new officers, 'Dr. M. are you acquainted with Capt. G?' 'Yes, I know him well,' replied the doctor; 'he is one of the new set.' 'But what of him?' 'Nothing in particular," replied Capt. S.; 'I have just received a letter from him; and I will wager you a dozen of old port that you cannot guess, in six guesses, how he spells cat.' 'Done said the doctor; 'it's a wager.' 'Well, commence guessing,' said S——. 'K-a-double-t.' 'No.' 'K-a-t-e.' 'No try again.' 'C-a-t-e.' 'No you have missed it again.' 'Well, then,' returned the doctor, 'C-a-double-t 'No; that's not the way. Try again; it's your last guess.' 'C-a-g-h-t.' 'No.' said S., 'that's not the way. You have lost the wager.' 'Well said the doctor, with much petulance of manner, how the devil does he spell it?' 'Why, he spells it c-a-t,' replied S. with the utmost gravity. Amid the roar of the mess, and almost choaking with rage, the doctor sprang to his feet, exclaiming, 'Captain S. I am too old a man to trifle with in this manner.'

Beet-Root Vinegar.

MANY families purchase their vinegar at a very considerable annual expense; some 'make do' with a very indifferent article; and others for want of a little knowledge and less industry, go without. It is an easy matter, however, to be at all times supplied with good vinegar, and that, too, without much expense. The juice of one bushel of sugar beets, worth twenty-five cents, and which any farmer can raise without cost, will make from five to six gallons of vinegar, equal to the best made of cider or wine. Grate the beets, having first washed them, and express the juice in a cheese press or in many other ways which a little ingenuity can suggest, and put the liquor into an empty barrel; covered the bung hole with gauze, and set it in the sun, and in twelve or fifteen days it will be fit for use.—Farmer's Advocate.

A good joke is told of a young couple riding home from church after their marriage. The day had been cloudy and the youg man seeing the clouds break away said—'I hope we shalll have a little sun.' The young wife replied very honestly, 'as for me, I should rather have a little daughter.'

A Genuine Love Letter.

A friend in New Hampshire sends us the following genuine love-letter, written by a 'gal' in that state to her 'feller' in Mexico—a volunteer in the American army. Of course we give the epistle verbatim et spellatim—only altering a few names—for such a 'nest of spiery' should be preserved entire:—

DEAR LOVE: These lines are to inform you that I am well—hope you will write me every time you can—I long to hear from you—I am consecrated about yon—I was afraid you was ded, cause I dreamed a bad dream about you last week; but I hope you'll behave well—hered the Sogers was wicked, that they did sware and git drunk, and that there was a great many bad gals in the army—but don't forgit you have a soul to save I am afraid you've most forgot me—you must trust in him who is abel to save you as he did when you was watring flax and slipt in over your bead.

Mother says she hopes you won't leve me though you don't come to see me. Sam Sparks come to see me once—mother thinks I better stay with him cause you don't come and see me, but you told me you wouldn't go and see any body else—I always thought we should have one another. I'm fraid you'll forgit what you promised me when you first come to see me—you must come home soon as your time is out, else I will stay with Sam Sparks next time he comes.

Don't let anybody see this letter—I hav'n't got much nuse to write, only my gourd grows fast—I wish you was home so we could get cowcumbers nites—I'm going to card for Mr. P——to-morrow—folks thinks Mr.——'s boy will be a fool—Sister Em has been living at—— above a month—she's had five sparks since she's ben there, but she means to leave them all in the fall of the year if she can—mother says she must behave well, and she shall be married first—now you're gone, I'me fraid she will—I wish you would write to me and let me know what you mean to do about it—I can get ready by the fall—Mr. P—— gives me four and sixpence a week—I've got fifteen goslins most grone up. So I remain your true friend till death. POLLY JONES.

Yankee Blade.

A RAY OF ASTRONOMY.—'Cæsar,' said a negro to a colored friend of his, 'which do you tink is de mose useful of de comets—de sun or de moon?'

'Well, Clem, I don't tink I should be able to answer dat question, seein' as how I neber had much book larnin.'

'Well, Cæsar, I 'speck de moon orter take de fust rank in dat particular.'

'Why so, nigger.'

'Because de moon shines in de night when we need de light, and de sun shines in de day time when de light am ob no consequence.'

'Well, Clem, you is de most larned darkey I ever seed; I guess you used to sweep out a school-house for a libin.'

Some one, looking at a rich man, said, 'Poor man, he toiled day and night until he was forty, to gain his wealth and he has been watching it day and night, ever since, for his victuals and clothes."

An individual was arrested the other day in Cincinnatti, while endeavoring to pick a gentleman's pocket. He said he wasn't used to the business and was just trying to get his hand in.

THE LAST WELLERISM.—'I guess there ain't no gammon about this,' as the Yankee said when he tried a slice of his wooden ham.

A negro, undergoing an examination at Northampton, in Mass. when asked if his master was a christian, replied: 'No, sir, he's a member of congress!'

FIRST LOVE.—The conversation at holland House turned upon first love—Tom Moore compared it to a potato, 'because it shoots from the eyes.'

'Or rather,' exclaimed Byron, 'because it becomes less by pairing.'

Whatever instruction is reaped from history, may be reaped from a newspaper, which is the history of the world for one day. It is the history of that world in which we now live, and with which we are, consequently, more concerned than with those which have passed away, and exist only in remembrance.

'Well, farmer, you told us your woods was a good place for hunting; now we've tramped through it for three hours, and found no game.' 'Just so! Well, I calculate as a general thing, the less game there is, the more hunting.'

'The world owes us a living;' but like many other debts, in these times, it is pretty hard work to collect it, as many find.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, July 26, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

How many there are who complain of the unjust, unequal, and absurd laws which are passed at every session of our Legislature, and by Congress; yet when the time arrives that they have it in their power to correct these abuses, they still persist in a course to perpetuate them. How few there are who can break through the trammels of party, and carry out by their votes what they know to be for their own and their fellow man's best interest and welfare. If men will persist in sending men to the Legislature who are known to be in favor of monopolies, men who will log roll for your bill for a bank charter, if you will only assist him in securing a charter for a rail road monopoly. Instead of legislating for the general interest of the people, by giving us general laws, under which all useful and necessary objects can be accomplished, they make a system of special legislation, making every law a special act, thereby lengthening out unnecessarily the session to the manifest injury of the people, and to their own pecuniary aggrandisement.

A. B &. C. in the County of Essex want a law to prevent swine running at large, a charter for a railroad, a charter for manufacturing purposes, an act of incorporation to permit them to be charitable! an act to permit or compel a Township to vote by ballot. D. E. or F. or all of them want similair privileges in the County of Morris or Sussex. Now all of these must be special acts, granting special privileges to those named in the applications to the exclusion of every body else. Call you this democracy, founded on the equal rights of all?

This is the manner our legislation is eked out to three times its necessary length, as a reward for partizan services, and to keep the political machinery complicated, so that it may be thought necessary by the people, good simple souls, to send a lawyer, or some one who can mystify and cajole the people out of their rights; some one who can make up in broadcloth and impudence what he lacks of honesty to the interests of the people; such too often it is too painfully evident is the case, by the manner in which the equal rights of man are trampled on.

When will men awake and act to their own true interests, by taking this matter in their own hands, by electing men from the laboring classes, from their own condition in life, who feel and know that through this system of special legislation, their interests are and ever will be overlooked by those who feel themselves above them, and consider themselves born to rule or ruin

☞ We have received from the publisher Mr. Edward Walker 114 Fulton st. N. Y. A copy of The Statesman's Manual, in four large and beautiful volumes, Embellished with portraits of the Presidents engraved on steel; containing the Addresses and Messages of the Presidents of the United States, Inaugural, Annual and Special, from 1789 to 1849 with a memoir of each of the Presidents and a History of their Administrations, also the Constitution of the U. States, and a selection of important documents and statistical information, compiled from official sources by Edmun Williams.

The above forms a complete library in itself of all that is important in the politics of the country. It should be found in every school district library, and in the hands of every man who would understand the history of the government. As a book of reference it will always be invaluable.

Also from the same publisher, a large and handsome volume, entitled The Presidents of the United States, their Memoirs and Administrations, Containing much valuable information, that can be had in no other form so complete. This is an invalwork, national in its character, a book to study, detailing as it does the history of human freedom, and man's inalienable rights; surely none who can afford it will be without a copy.

We will procure copies of the above, or any other of Mr. Walker's publications at the publishers prices; copies may be seen at this office.

☞ The attention of the public is requested to the advertisement of Mr. I. S. Dunham, he is prepared with a good assortment of Cloths, Casimeres, Vestings, &c which he will sell or manufacture into garments, at the shortest notice, and at the lowest possible remunerating profits. Hands wanted to work on Coats, Pants, Vests, &c., at which constant employment will be given, at fair prices, and ready pay.

Protestant Bigotry and Intolerance---Popery and Republicanism.

To the Editors of the Plainfield Gazette.

GENTLEMEN:—From a perusal of your paper I perceive you advocate the rights of all men, and that you are especially in favor of liberal principles; with this introduction I beg leave to offer a few remarks on the following extracts from the Plain-Union of July 17th.

"Popery and Republicanism.—Popery has always seemed to us the direct antagonist of Republicanism, and consequently that Papists cannot be safe citizens of a Republic. How can they be so, owing as they do a blind allegiance and most devoted adherence to a foreign despot? It has ever been our opinion that when it became necessary for our Irish and other papists population to choose between Popery and Republicanism, they would take sides with the Pope and against Liberty—such is their zealous and superstitious attachment to mother Church, and such is their ignorance of the blessing, privileges, duties and obligations of a Republican government."

"Popery has ever been the greatest curse to the people who support it—the enemy of progress, of learning, of liberty—as is evident from the present condition of all the countries where it exists. Even in miserable Ireland, It has done more to bring about her present miserable condition than all other causes, as is proved by the very superior state of what few protestants there are there. In those sections of Ireland where protestantism prevails, nothing like the destitution, wretchedness and starvation exists, as does exist in all the remainder, where Romanism prevails."

I would preface my remarks by saying, (although not directly connected with the above remarks from the Union, yet directly connected with the subject, as they go to show the ignorance and intolerance of the many would be thought wise and liberal protestants,) that at the close of a debate before your Lyceum last winter, I was cornered and interrogated by some of the leading protestants of this Village, as to whether I was permitted to have, or to read in my house a protestant bible. I replied in the affirmative as to both queries. I then put the following question; have either of you ever read a catholic bible and do you know of one's being in Plainfield except those in the hands of the catholics? They replied in the negative. So much for a blind allegiance and superstitons attachment to mother Church.

Who are the authors, and who still continue to uphold the recent movement in favor of a Republican Government at Rome? Who dethroned the Pope, and burnt and destroyed all vestiges of his temporal power; where they not catholics? Such is their ignorance of the blessings, privileges, duties, and obligations of a Republican government.

Why is it that the French are represented to hesitate in the destruction of Rome? Is it not because Rome holds more of the learning, and arts, of what relates to the past than all the rest of the world besides, which have been collected and preserved by catholics, when all the rest of the world were in barbarism and ignorance? So much in continuous proof of their ignorance.

And next as to its being the greatest curse to the people who support it—the enemy of progress, of learning, of liberty—as is proved by the very superior state of what few Protestants there are there.

It would seem that the Editor of the Union must be writing in burlesque on the beauties of protestant English government of Ireland; but according to the general tone of the article it must be he is in earnest, and therefore it must be his ignorance, as from his profession he could not be supposed to burlesque protestantism; or perhaps knowing that catholic's hereabouts are not very popular, hence he could be patriotic and illiberal without fear of opposition.

All who are acquainted with the history of Ireland know that she has been the shambles and grainery of England, and has also furnished her with many of her best generals and thousands of soldiers to fight her battles; and that it is through the grinding tyranny of protestant England that Ireland has become what she is.

"The very superior state of what few protestants there are there," as all know who are acquainted with Irish history is their being quartered upon and supported by catholic's, and the protestants in Ireland, have ever been to Ireland what the tories in this country were towards its liberties, spies and informers favored and upheld by the British government at the expense of catholicIreland. A republican and a CATHOLIC.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

MESSRS EDITORS.—In reading a recent number of your paper I was pleased with the remarks of a "Subscriber," and was glad to think we had one so capable of writing, who had the moral courage to speak out truths which all would have known, had men learned to think for themselves. But alas, for ages mankind have suffered themselves to be pack horses, and to be rode by those who do nothing for the elevation of our species, but who at the same time exact the most honor and the greatest pay. For ages the human family have suffered themselves to be imposed upon by the divine right of kings; by a superstitious veneration of priests; by an ignorant credulity in the pretensions of quacks in the healing art; by impositions practised in the name of law; by all of which the weak have been trampled on; the bold in spirit have been crushed; the conscientious have been martyrized; the honest have been silenced; the friends of liberty, of mercy, and of equal rights, have been hunted through the earth by the blood-hounds of tyranny and superstition, until the heart of philanthropy has drooped even to despair. It is said we live in a land of liberty and equality; but, who speaks of liberty while the human mind is in chains; who of equality, while thousands are in squaled wretchedness. Look for a moment and see the pride of wealth; the debasement of poverty; of youth unprotected; of age uncomforted; of industry unrewarded; of ignorance unenlightened. Much time has been spent in law making; much money in rearing of jails and jibbets, of showy and costly churches; much honor and high saleries have been given to the few who make pretensions to wisdom, while the mass continue in ignorance and oppression. Now would it not be better to have less law, and more common sense and justice, less form, and more substance, less preaching and more practice.

JUSTICE.

Later from California.

Lumber was worth $400 per thousand feet, and scarce at that. Large portions of the inhabitants in San Francisco were madly gambling in land.

New towns were being laid out in different spots around the Bay, and building lots in wilderness sites, were selling from $1,500 to $2,000 each.

San Francisco was full of people, and it is not an uncommon thing for twenty or thirty individuals to occupy one small apartment; the tents about the town are innumerably crowded. Rooms 20 feet square let from $600 to 800 per annum.

Building lots, worth two years since $200, now sell for $50,000.

At the Mines, as yet matters remain pretty quiet; but fears are entertained that ere long there will be serious disturbances between our countrymen and the Mexicans, as some 6,000 of the latter have arrived in the country and evinced a most turbulent disposition.

There are upward of seventy square-rigged vessels now in port and a number of small craft.

SAVANNAH, Monday, July 22.

The Post Office at Dalton, Georgia, was robbed on Saturday night of several letters containing money. The thief has thus far escaped detection.

OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT, Encouraged by the success attending their efforts at the recent fire, are determined that no want of practice in the use of their Engines shall prevent like success on any future occasion; as they practice with their machine every evening, having everything in complete order, as we suppose from the state in which our devil found a portion of the apparatus in the morning after one of their practical preparations; the pipe in a vacant lot, having the appearance of being run over by a heavy wagon or the machine, the machine standing in the mill race, being soked, the handles of the lever lying about on the aforesaid lot.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Cheap postage is a subject which should command the attention of all. There is no question before the public which commends itself so forcibly to the consideration of every one. The present rates of postage are extremely onorous, and tend to deprive the people of one of their most interesting enjoyments, corresponding with their friends. These oppressive rates are also a serious drawback on the business man. Now, if the government simply carried letters at a high price, and did not prevent the people from employing any oue they thought proper to carry their letters, there would be no cause of complaint. But the government is neither willing to serve the public at a low rate, or let private enterprise accommodate them. We are threatened with heavy penalties if we carry letters. This is grosly unjust. I insist that I have as perfect a right to carry letters from one place to another, and receive pay for it, as I have to eat when I am hungry. What moral law do I violate by so doing? And if I break no moral law, why should I be hindered? Government has no right to pass any law which restricts my freedom, while I obey every law of my Creator.

The present rates are entirely too high. Who does not know that if a fair price only was demanded, that ten letters would pass through the post-office where only one does now? If we could send a letter to Rahway, Elizabethtown, Newark or New-York for two cents (which is enough) no one would think of troubling a friend or neighbor to carry one, As it is now, a person can hardly leave town without taking a dozen or twenty. The office charge is so high, we cannot refuse to oblige our friend; whereas if the government carried letters for a fair price no one would think of asking such a favor. It is very plain that it would cost no more to carry a mail bag to New-York, containing a thousand letters than it does to carry one with fifty, or less. What person of common sense doubts that with a far lower rate the revenue would be much improved?

N. A.

Progress of the Cholera.

The deaths by Cholera in 1832, numbered 3,508, out of 6,100, taked sick. This year, up to last Saturday night, 2,262 persons had died of that discorder. Our remarks, in both cases, include only the City and Island of New-York.

Last week was the most fatal to human life of any within our reccollection Is there another on the whole records of city mortality in which 1,409 of all ages were called from among the living to their final account?

On an average of 24 months, in '47 and '48; the monthly deaths numbered 1,220; now we have had 1,409 in a week.

The Board of Health reported the deaths by Cholera in the City, last week, at 36, 26, 40, 51, 55, and 37, total 281. The City Inspector's report is 714; difference 433!!

Is this difference intentional! Can it be accidental? The Board of health tells of 281 deaths when its members had the means of ascertaining that there were nearly 714. Is such a course just toward this metropolis of commerce, and those at a distance who transact business with it? The Board have reported 40 deaths daily by Cholera instead of 102 the real average.

On iquiry, we learn that the physicians will not report daily to the Board, but only once a week to the City inspector. Why then do the Board present daily reports which they must know to be grossly incorrect? Better give the truth or be silent. The deaths some days have reached 150 or more.—Tribune.

The Cholera has made but little progress in this State, since last week. In this city it broke out in the Alms House on Wednesday afternoon, since which, 11 cases and 6 deaths have occurred among the inmates; among the latter Mr. Geo. Wardell, the Superintendent, who was seized with vomiting Wednesday evening, in consequence of having eaten cherry pie at noon, and died on the day following.

In the city we have had but 2 deaths, though several cases have been reported. There has been one death on the Elizabethtown road, and one in Camptown.

We record with much sorrow the sudden death of Wm. M. Scudder Esq., a member of the New Jersey Bar—not of cholera, but anaffection of the heart.

In Paterson and vicinity there have been several cases and 3 deaths

New Brunswick, 25 cases and 15 deaths during the week ending on the 26th.

Trenton and vicinity, 6 cases and 2 deaths.

Camden 139 cases since the 25th June and 55 deaths. Millville, Cumberland Co., 3 deaths. Mt. Holly, 1 death.

The epidemic continues to prevail to more or less extent in West Jersey.—Newark Sentinel.

The Boston papers state that there are now something like eight hundred journeymen tailors on a 'strike' in that city.

News by the Caledonia

Baron Rothschild has been reelected for the City of London—the most important constituency in the Empire—he was elected by an overwhelming majority of between 3,000 and 4,000 votes.

Jews are admitted to high civic dignities, especially in the City of London—they are Knights and Baronets by the Queen—but they cannot sit in the House of Parliament, because the latter are—what think you?—Christian bodies.

Smith O'Rrien and his fellow prisoners have not yet sailed for their penal colony.

Loss of the Charles Bartlett and 134 Lives.

The steamship Europea, Capt. Lott, ran down at sea on the 27th ult. in Lat. 54° 49' Lon. 23° 30', about 700 miles to the westward of Cape Clear; the American bark Charles Bartlett, causing the loss of 134 lives. The Charles Bartlett, was an American ship of 400 tons burden, chiefly loaded with lead and chalk, and having 162 steerage passengers, one cabin passenger, and a crew of 14 men, outward bound for New-York, and at the time of the collision was going at the rate of five knots an hour close hauled on the wind. The Europea was sailing at the rate of 11 1-2 or 12 knots per hour. At the time of the collision both vessels were enveloped in a dense fog, which prevented those on board of either vessel seeing beyond a few yards.

The collision was purely accidental; no human foresight or prudence could have prevented it; and on the unfortunate circumstance taking place, every exertion was made to save the crew and passengers of the sunken vessel. The damage sustained by the Europa was very trifling.

Memorial in favor of Hungary.

The merchants of Liverpool have drawn up a memorial to the Government, asking for the recognition of Hungary and for a commercial alliance with that nation.

IRELAND.

Wheat will be at least a full average crop, and should we have a moderate share of rain we might venture to say the same of oats and barley. We have had several supplies of excellent new potatoes in our market.

The Surrender of the City.

It is stated positively that the French Government has received a telegraphic dispatch, announcing the entry of the French into Rome on the 2d, and that they were received with acclamations by the people. The division of Garibaldi had been conducted to Civitia Vecchia, where they would lay down their arms. Two divisions of the army would be lodged and maintained at the expense of the Roman Government.

Principles---not Men.

There is no greater fallacy than the too common belief in the identity of men with principles. The masses are required to pin their faith, in politics as well as in religion to the sleeve of some self appointed leader; and the slightest rebellion to his beck and bidding is followed by excommunication here and threatened damnation hereafter. Minds that can tamely submit, either in State or Church affairs, to the arbitrary dictates of priest and demagogues, are sure to gain the reputation of being excellent members and partizans. In the Church they are rewarded for their passive obedience with officers of honor and distinction; and in the State, with places of emolument and power. In the one, it is neeessary to bow low to the deacon, and go on your knees to the parson: in the other, one must throw up his cap and shout Io Pœan before the godlike champion of an 'obsolete idea!'

And here begins that fatal error which is made in the estimation of men, and which can only be corrected by the unerring judgments of posterity and eternity. Many a man who has spent his whole life in doing good to his fellow men; in endeavoring to live in accordance with the highest dictates of reason and the holiest precepts of Christianity, has been doomed to 'everlasting punishment' by the Church, because he could not, and would not subscribe to all its narrow dogmas, and circumscribe his religious opinions within the illiberal limits of its 'articles of faith.' And in politics also, we are called upon to believe in men, to worship the Saints, upon the penalty of being turned out of the party. One must reverently murmer over a certain formula of devotion, or have no share in the 'loaves and fishes that are distributed to the hungry multitude.—N. Y. Eve. Mirror.

CHOLERA ON THE HUDSON RIVER RAIL ROAD.—Six laborers employed on section twenty-four, a few miles below Peekskill died of Cholera on Friday last, and 4 more previous to Saturday noon. The panic became so great, that 320 men (near or quite all on the section) who had just been paid off for the month, fled.

Four of them died on the way, and many others were seen vomiting as they went. A Cholera Hospital was provided for them in the vicinity of their work, and a physician kept in attendance, but they were too much frightened to remain.

A gentlemen more remarkable for the excellence of his appetite than the brilliancy of his intellect, remarked one morning at the breakfast-table, 'there is a singular sensation in my head to-day.' 'Perhaps, my dear,' meekly suggested his better half, 'you've got an idea in it!'

The Ordinance of '87---Free Soil Mass Meeting at Cleveland.

The Cleveland papers of the 14th inst contain further details of the great Free Soil gathering at that city to celebrate the 62d Anniversary of the Passage of the Ordinance of 1787. The meeting is said to have been very large and enthusiastic.

The following Preamble and Resolutions, among others where unanimously adopted by the Convention.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, The early history of the Republic establishes the following facts:

That Thomas Jefferson, in March, 1784, introduced into the Congress of the Confederation, 'a plan for the temporary government of the western Territory,' the provisions of which embraced all 'the territory ceded or to be ceded, by the individual States to the United States,' and expressly included the States of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

That prominent among its terms was a proviso. 'That after the year 1800 of the Christian era, there shall be neither Slavery nor involuntary servitude in any of the said States, otherwise than in punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been personally guilty.'

That this plan, now ascertined to have been drawn and engrossed by Thos. Jefferson, only failing of enactment by one vote, (receiving the votes of six States out of the ten present in Congress.) But subsequently, on the 13th of July, 1787, an Ordinance for the government of the North-west Territory was unanimously passed, which prohibited Slavery or involuntary servitude, almost in the words of the Jefferson Proviso of 1784.

That simultaneously with the extension of the ordinance of 1787 to all the territory in the posession of the American people, their delegates in the Convention to frame the Constitution, adopted an organic law which contemplated an extinction of the slave traffic, and with other acts and evidences developed a design by the men of the Revolution to limit, localize and discourage Slavery Therefore

Resolved, That the existence of human Slavery at the seat of Government is a foul stain upon the escutcheon of our Republic; and no efforts should be spared to elect Senators and Representatives to Congress who will vote unhesitatingly for the abolition of Slavery and the slave trade in the District of Columbia, or the removal of the seat of government to a place consecrated to Free Soil.

Resolved, That this Convention approve the platform of the Free Democracy, which was promulgated at Buffalo in Augustus 1848, and which has since been sanctioned by every State, slave or free, where the Free Democracy have been organized.

Resolved, that the Free Democracy, in its efforts to restore the original policy of the Government on the subject of Slavery, are only carrying out the true Democratic principles to their legitimate application, and we thefore hail with the greatest satisfaction the efforts now making, and, we rejoice to add, successfully made in Vermont and some other States to bring up the old Democracy to the Platform of Freedom, and dissolve the bonds of its unnatural alliance with the Slave power.

Resolved, That we witness with great satisfaction the triumphant appeal which Thomas. H. Benton is making to the people of Missouri, sustained fully one of the great principles of the Democracy, to wit: the constitutional power of Congress to legislate for Freedom, even to the exclusion of Slavery.

FORCE OF IMAGINATION.—The following story is related on the authority of the London Medical Times:—

'A curious experiment was recently tried in Russia with some murderers. They were placed without knowing it, in four beds where four persons had died of cholera. They did not take the disease. They were then told they were to sleep in beds where some persons had died of malignant cholera, but the beds, were in fact, new and had not been used at all. Nevertheless three of them died of the disease within four hours.'

☞ A fellow calling himself "Mr Chas. L. Mason, late Professor of Music in Boston," and using the names of several of the most respectable residents of that city as references, recently honored our town with a visit and issued proposals for opening a Juvenile Singing School. After victimising some of our citizens, he suddenly decamped, leaving the afflicted ones to lament his acquaintance. He is of genteel appearance, generally carries a small whalebone walking-stick, and some of his clothing is marked "E. Payne," which is undoubtedly one of the names which he assumes, when convenient. Hotel keepers, proprietors of public halls and printers are particularly advised to look out for this Professor of humbug —N. J. Journal.

'Now tell me if the debbil was to have him tail cut off where would he get a nudder?'

'I gibs dat up.'

'Vell, in course he'd go where bad spirits are re-TAILED.'

'Just so, niggar—now I sees vy the debbil like to stay round dis place so.'

THE SUB-TREASURY.—On the 30th ultimo ex-Governor Bouck squared up, as had already been announced, his accounts balanced the books, and delivered over the key of the Sub Treasury to his successor, ex-Governor Young, who entered at once upon the responsibilities of his office. Some estimate of the amount of business done may be formed when it is known that from October 16th. 1846. to this date. $146 677,534 07 have passed through the custody of the Sub Treasurer without the loss to the Government of a single farthing. So say the New York papers. What a pleasing commentary this on the duties of a public officer—and gratifying to the early friends and supporters of the much abused subtreasury system!

Interfereing in Elections?

'Bloomington, Muscatine county, N. L. Stout, vice Mrs. Sidney Earl, REMOVED'

Why Mrs. Earl has been removed, does not appear, and we presume the only cause that can be assigned is that she has 'interfered in elections!'—Exchange

To be sure she did, in the worst way, for she was the mother of half a dozen bouncing Democratic boys!--Ohio Statesman

GOOD OUT OF EVIL.—It is stated that a woman in Paris was seized with cholera, and a doctor furnished the usual prescription. She nevertheless continued to sink till night, when the husband returned very much intoxicated. He forthwith threw all the phials out of doors, kicked his neighbors out after them, and began to beat his wife unmercifully. The beating effected what the medicine could not—it produced a re-action—and the woman got well immediately.

A man in Norwich, Conn. ate ten pine apples on the 5th and is yet alive!

A FATAL MISTAKE.—Night before last a man fell down a flight of steps in house at the corner of Walnut and Main street, and was badly stunned. A physician was called in who attempted to bleed the injured man, but as no blood followed the lancet, and as there was no sign of remaining life, the Doctor pronounced him dead. He was laid out and left in a room by himself. Yesterday morning it was discovered that during the night he had come to, and subsequently bled to death from the wound in his arm made by the Doctor's lancet.—St. Louis Union, July 13.

ENIGMA.

Answer to Enigma in our last

WILLIAM K. WOLVERTON, PLAINFIELD.

I am composed of 23 letters.

My 15, 10, 18, 6, 21, 3, was a president of the United States.
" 21, 2, 8, 10, is one of the States.
" 5, 23, 20, 9, 13, 18, is a town in Penn.
" 2, 5, 17, 6, 12, is a cape in the U. S.
" 2 23 9, 4, 5, 11, 23, 20, is a cape in the U.S
" 16, 7, 13, 18, is a very useful ore,
" 14, 23, 4, 2, 5, 6, is a near relative.
" 9, 16, 18, is a metal,
" 15, 21, 17, 4, 2, is a space of time.
" 12, 3, 23, 11, is a space of time.
" 23, 20, 19, 23, is the largest grand division of the earth.
" 1, 6, 10, 12, is an ancient city.
" 4, 3, 2, 5, 7, 3, 18, is a city in Persia.
" 20, 8, 15, 21, 10, 15, is a peculiar and sometimes a fatal wind.
" 15, 5, 4, 3, 21, 11, is a shooting star.
" 15, 12, 6, 6, 2, is a gum.
" 2, 5, 7, 15, 16 22, is a secluded person.
" 4, 2, 5, 22, 23, is a Greek letter.
" 1, 10, 15, 23, 4, 20, 3, is a vegetable,
" 12, 23, 15, is a vegetable.
" 15, 13, 1, 2, 3, 6, is a near Relative,
" 20, 23, 11, 23, 2, is a name of a Female
" 15 21, 18, 3, 12, is prized by all.
" 22, 5, 17, 1, 20, is in great demand by Californians.

My whole is a newly settled Country.

DIED.

At Staten Island, on the 16th day of July inst. Mr. Stephen Squire, aged about 86 years, brother of Ludlow Squire of this place.

At Metuchin, on Sunday July 22d Levica wife of John Angleman, aged 47years.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday July 25.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	2 94
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	90
BUTTER per lb.	14 a
HAMS do new	10
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	14

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield July 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Leveridge Cornl's A
Adams Thomas 2	Long John
Ayers & Tittsworth	M
B	McCord J W
Barton Mr.	McDonald Willliam
Beekman P. S.	Madden Henry G Esq
Beker Gorge	Moore Isaac
Baldwin Nathaniel L	Mallison James J
Byrne Jane	P
C	Pell Mary Jane
Coufmann Mager	Ponell William
Crane James	Pound S S
Coddington J C	R
Codington Wm B	Rodgers Miss Joana
Colthar John 2	Randolph Mrs Mary F
D	Robbinson Ann
Dutcher Josiah J	Reve Robert L
E	S
Eayres Rev. John L	Steward Adolphus
Eakin Robert	Stebbins Wm
F	Simpson Wm
Frazee Mrs Mary	Sperring James
Fisher Mrs Tobitha	Shotwell Mrs M E
G	Spencer Caroline B
Garwood H	T
Gimble Curtis	Trainer Barny
H	V
Hill J N	Verity Isabela
Halsey Stephen L Eq	W
J	Wooden Richard
Jacobus Cyrus F	Watson James H
K	Waldren Reuben
Kershner Mr	or Wm Frasure
Killroy Haigh	Willet Lauis
L	Wormes Mr
Lynch Jno. Thomas

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

N. B An entirely new assortment of Dry Goods just opened, cheaper than ever before offered; also Mens and Boys palm-leaf hats, some at 6d. a piece.

A large assortment of Stone and Earthen ware selling at reduced prices.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at W. M. DRAKE'S

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jul4[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are corstantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec. 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deliverers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.
JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,
Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded.

JAMES ROSS.

July, 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1849. | NO. 33.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS

From Graham's Magazine.

THE CURTAIN LIFTED.

Or Professions—Practical and Theoretical.

BY MRS. CAROLINE H. BUTLER.

CHAPTER I.

The Deacon.

Everybody called Mr. Humpreys a good man. To have found any fault with the deacon would have been to impugn the church itself, whose most firm pillar he stood. No one stopped to analyze his goodness—it was enough that in all outward semblance, in the whole putting together of the outward man, there was a conformity of sanctity; that is, he read his Bible—held family prayers night and morning—preached long homilies to the young—gave in the cause of the heathen—and was moreover, of a grave and solemn aspect seldom given to the folly of laughter.

All this, and more did good Deacon Humphreys; and yet one thing he lacked, viz., the sweet spirit of charity.

I mean not that he oppressed the widow, or robbed the orphan of bread; no, not this, it was the cold unforgiving spirit with which he looked upon the errors of his fellow man—the iron hand with which he thrust far from him the offender, which betrayed the want of that charity 'which rejoiceth not in iniquity, suffereth long and is kind.'

He was also pertinaciously sectarian. No other path than the one in which he walked could lead to eternal life. No matter the sect, so that they differed from him, it was enough—they were outlawed from the gates of Heaven. Ah! had the deacon shared more the spirit of our Blessed Saviour, in whose name he offered up his prayers, then, indeed, might he have been entitled to the Christian character he professed.

Mrs. Humphreys partook largely of her husband's views. She, too, was irreproachable in her daily walks, and her household presented a rare combination of order and neatness The six days work was done, and done faithfully, and the seventh cared for, ere the going down of the Saturday's sun, which always left her house in order—her rooms newly swept and garnished--the stockings mended—the clean clothes laid out for the Sabbath wear—while in the kitchen pantry, a joint of cold meat, or a relay of pies, was provided, that no hand migh labor for the creature comforts on the morrow. As the last rays of the sun disappeared from hill and valley, the doors of the house were closed—the blinds pulled down--the well-polished mahogany stand drawn from its upright position in the corner of the sitting-room, which it occupied from Monday morning until the coming of the Saturday night—the great family Bible placed thereon, while with countenances of corresponding gravity, and well-balanced spectacles, the deacon and his wife read from its holy pages.

Thus in all those outward observances of piety, whereon the great eyes of the world are staring, I have shown that the deacon and his good wife might challenge the closest scrutiny. Nor would I be understood to detract aught from these observances, or throw down one stone from the altars of our Puritan fathers. We need all the legacy they left their childen. The force of good example is as boundless as the tares of sin—let us relax nothing which may tend to check the evil growth—and who shall say that the upright walk of Deacon Humphreys was without a salutary influence.

But it is with the inner man we have to do. The fairest apples are sometimes defective at the core.

CHAPTER II.

Grassmere and its Inhabitants.

Grassmere was a quiet out-of-the-way village, hugged in close by grand mountains, and watered by sparkling rivulets and cascades which came leaping down the hill-sides like frolicksome Naiads, and then with a murmur as sweet as the songs of childhood, ran off to play bo-peep with the blue heavens amid the deep clover-fields, or through banks sprinkled with nodding wild-flowers.

A tempting retreat was Grassmere to the weary man of business whose days had been passed within the brick and mortar walks of life, and whom the fresh air, and the green grass, and the waving woods, were but as a page of delicious poetry snatched at idle hours. Free from the turmoil and vexations of the city, how pleasant to tread the down-hill of life, surrounded by such peaceful influences as smiled upon the inhabitants of Grassmere, and several beautiful cottages nestling in the valley, or dotting the hill-side, attested that some fortunate man of wealth had here cast loose the burthen of the day, to repose in the quiet of nature.

Although our story bears but slightly save upon three or four of the three thousand inhabitants of Grassmere, I will state that a variety of religious opinions had for several years been gradually creeping into this primitive town, and that where once a single church received the inhabitants within one faith, there were now four houses of worship, all embracing different tenets. But the deacon walked heavenward his own path, shaking his skirts free from all contamination with other sects, whom indeed he looked upon as little better than heathen.

The pastor of the church claiming so zealous a member, was a man eminent for his Christian benevolence. His was not the piety which exhausted itself in words—heart and soul did he labor to do his Master's will, and far from embracing the rigid views of the worthy Deacon Humphreys, he wore the garb of charity for all and in his great, good heart loved all.

He had one son, who, at the period from which my story dates, was pursuing his collegiate course at one of our most popular institutions, and in his own mind he determined that Hubert Fairlie should become the husband of his only daughter, Naomi. In another month Hubert was to return to pass his vacation at Grassmere, and Naomi looked forward to the meeting with unaffected pleasure. They had been playmates in childhood, companions in riper years; but love had nothing to do with their regard for each other, yet the deacon could not conceive how friendship alone should thus unite them. At any rate Naomi must be the wife of Hubert—that was as set as his Sunday face.

The deacon was a man well off in worldly matters. He owned the large, highly cultivated farm on which he lived, as also several snug houses within the village, which rented at good rates.

But the little cottage at silver-Fall was untenanted. Through the inability of its former occupant to pay the rent, it had returned upon the hands of the deacon, and although one of the most delightful residences for miles around, had now been for several months without a tenant.

A charming spot was Silver-Fall, with its little dwelling half hibben by climbing roses and shadowy maples. Smooth as velvet was the lawn, with here and there a cluster of blue violets clinging timidly together, and hemmed by a silvery thread of bright water, which, within a few rods of the cottage-door, suddenly leaped over a bed of rocks some twenty feet high, into the valley below. This gave it the name of Silver-Fall Cottage—all too enticing a spot it would seem to remain long unoccupied. Yet the snows of winter yielded to the gentle breath of spring, and the bright fruits of summer already decked the hedge-rows and the the thicket, ere a tenant could be found, and then there came a letter to Mr. Humphreys from a widow lady living in a distant city, requiring the terms on which he would lease his pretty cottage

They were favorable, it would seem, to her views, and in due time Mrs. Norton, her daughter Grace, and two female domestics, arrived at Silver-Fall.

CHAPTER III.

One Fold of the Curtain drawn back.

A new comer in a country village is always sure to elicit more or less curiosity, and Mrs. Norton did not escape without her due share from the inhabitants of Grassmere. With telegraph speed it was found out that she was a lady between thirty and forty years of age dressed in bombazine, and wore close mourning caps. Miss Norton was talked of as a slender, fair girl with blue eyes, and long, flowing curls, and might be seventeen, perhaps twenty—of course they could not be strictly accurate in this matter.

Bales of India matting were unrolled in the door yard—crates of beautiful china unpacked in the piazza—sofas and chairs crept out from their rough travelling cases, displaying all the beauty of rosewood and damask, until finally by aid of all these means and appliances to boot,' Mrs. Norton and her daughter were pronounced very genteel—but—

'But, I wonder what they are!' said Mrs. Humphreys to the deacon, as talking over these secular matter she handed him his second cup of coffee.

Not that the good lady had any doubt of their being bona fide flesh and blood; neither did she believe they were witches or fairies who had taken up their abode at Silver-Fall. 'I wonder what they are!' must therefore be interpreted as 'I wonder what church they attend,' or 'what creed they profess.'

The deacon shook his head and looked solemn.

'It is hoped,' continued Mrs Humpreys, complacently stirring the coffee, 'that at her period of life Mrs Norton may be a professor of some kind'

The deacon dropped his knife and fork—he was shocked—astounded.

'I am surprised to hear you speak thus ligtly, Mrs. Humphreys—a professor of some kind! Is it not better that she should yet rest in her sins, than to be walking in the footstep of error--a professor of some kind! Wife—wife—you forget yourself!' exclaimed the deacon.

'I spoke thoughtlessly. I acknowledge answered Mrs. Humphreys, much confused by the stern rebuke of her husband. 'I hoped she had found a pardon for her sins.'

'Have you forgotten that you are a parent?' continued the deacon, solemnly 'Can you suffer the ears of your daughter to drink in such poison! A professor of some kind! Naomi, my child,' placing his hand on the sunny head before him, 'beware how you listen to such doctrine; there is but one true faith—there is but one way by which you can be saved. Go to your chamber, and pray you may not be led into error through your mother's words of folly!'

But there were others at Grassmere most anxiously wondering, like good Mrs. Humphreys, 'what they were,' ere they so far committed themselves as to call upon the strangers. Sunday however, was close at hand; Mrs. Norton's choice of a church was to determine them the choice of her acquaintance.

Does the reader think the inhabitants of Grassmere peculiar? I think not. There are very many just such people not a hundred rods from our own doors.

Unfortunately, on Sunday the rain poured down in torrents. Nothing less impervious than strong cow hide boots—India-rubber overcoats, and thick cotton umbrellas, cauld go to meeting, consequently, Mrs. Norton staid at home, and on Monday afternoon, after the washing was done, and the deacon had turned his well saturated hay, Mrs. Humphreys put on her best black silk gown and mantilla her plain straw bonnet, with white trimmings, and walked over with her husband to Silver-Fall cottage. As the widow rented her house of them, they could not in decency, they reasoned, longer defer calling upon her.

A glance within the cottage would convince any one that Mrs. Norton and grace were at least persons of refinement—for there is as much character displayed in the arrangement of a room as in the choice of a book

Cream colored mattings, and window-curtains of transparent lace, relieved by hangings of pale sea-green silk, imparted a look of delicious coolness to the apartments. There was no display of gaudy furniture, as if a cabinet warehouse had been taken on speculation—yet there was enough for comfort and even elegance; nor was there an over exhibition of paintings—one of Cole's beautiful landscapes, and a few other gems of native talent were all; nor were the tables freighted as the counter of a toy-shop; the only ornament of each was a beautiful vase of Bohemian glass, filled with fresh garden flowers, whose tasteful arrangement even fairy hands could not have rivaled.

The few moments they were awaiting the entrance of Mrs Norton were employed by Mrs Humphreys in taking a rapid survey of all these surroundings, the result of which was to impress her with a sort of awe for the mistress of this little realm.

'My stars!' said she, casting her eyes to the right and left, half rising from the luxurious couch to peep into one corner, and almost breaking her neck to dive into another, 'my stars, deacon, if this don't beat all I ever did see!'

But the deacon with an air worthy of a funeral, shook his head, closed his eyes, and muttered,

'Vanity—vanity!'

The door opened, and Grace gliding in sweetly, apoligised for her mother, whom a violent headache detained in her apartment.

'Well, I wish I knew what they were!' again exclaimed Mrs. Humphreys, as she took the deacons arm and plodded thoughtfully homeward.

Then gowing to a dark cupboard under the stairs, she rumaged for some time among the jars and gallipots, and finally producing one marked 'Raspberry Jam,' she told Naomi to put on her Sunday bonnet, and carry it to the cottage, and—

Naomi, you may just as well ask Grace Norton what meeting she goes to.'

Delighted to make the acquaintance of Grace, Naomi threw on her bonnet and tripped lightly to the cottage, thinking little, we fear, of her mother's last charge. At any rate it was omitted, and so the night-cap of Mrs Humphreys again threw its broad frilling over and unsatisfied brow.

In the morning the deacon received a very neat note from Mrs. Norton, requesting to see him up on business.

'And now, my dear sir,' and she, after the common courtesies of the day were passed, 'I have taken the liberty to send for you to transact a little business for me. If not too great a tax upon your time, will you purchase a pew for me?'

The deacon grimly smiled, and rubbing his knee, repled,

'Why; yes, Mrs Norton, I shall be glad to attend to the matter. True, it is a busy season with us farmers, but the Lord forbid I should therefore neglect his business.'

'Do you think you can procure me one?' asked Mrs. Norton.

'O, I reckon so, for I am certain there are several pews now to be let or sold either.'

'And what price, Mr. Humphreys?'

'Well, I guess about sixty dollars; and now I recollect, Squire Bryce wants to sell his—it is right along side of mine, and I recon my pew is as good for hearing the word as any in the meeting house. I am glad, really I do rejoice to find you a true believer.

'You mistake my church, I see,' said Mrs. Norton, smiling, 'I belong to a different denomination from the one of which as I am aware you are a professor.'

'Then,' cried the deacon, rising hastily and making for the door, 'excuse me—I—I know nothing of any other church or its pews. I caunot be the instrument of seeting you where false doctrines are preached! I—good morning, ma'am."

The widow sighed as the gate slammed after her visiter, but Grace burst into a merry fit of laughter.

'How ridiculous!' she exclaimed; 'was there ever such absurdity!'

'Hush, hush my dear child,' said Mrs. Norton, 'Mr Humphreys is without doubt perfectly conscientious in this matter—we may pity, but not condemn such zeal in the cause of religion.'

'Do you call bigotry religion, mamma?' asked Grace.

'A person may be a very good Christian, Grace, and yet be very much of a bigot,' answered her mother. 'That such a spirit as Mr. Humphreys has just now shown may often be productive of more evil than good, I allow. His aim is to do good, but he adopts the wrong measures.'

'Why, mamma, one would have judged from his manner that we were infidels!' said Grace.

'O no, my child he did not really think that,' replied Mrs. Norton, smiling at her earnestness. 'He only felt shocked at what he deems our error—for he sacredly believes there can be no safety in any other creed than his own. Without the charity therefore to think there may be good in all sects, and lacking the desire to study the subject' or rather so much wedded to his belief that he would deem it almost a sin to do so, like an unjust judge, he condemns without a hearing. There are too many such mistaken zealots in every creed of worship O, my dear child,' continued Mrs. Norton, her fine eyes bathed in tears, 'would that members of every sect might unite in love and charity to one another! They are all aiming alike to love and serve Christ, and yet take no heed to his commandment, 'Love ye one another!'

'Well, mamma, for the sake of his sweet daughter, Naomi, I can forgive the good deacon. I have never seen a more interesting face than hers, and her manners are as graceful and lady-like as if she had never seen the country,' said Grace.'

'And most probably a great deal more so, my love,' replied Mrs Norton, 'for nature can add a grace which courts cannot give. But I agree with you in thinking Miss Humphreys interesting; she is, indeed, so, and if her countenance prove an index of her mind, I think you may promise yourself a pleasing companion.'

But the deacon, it seems, was of a different way of thinking, and no sooner did he enter under his own roof, place his oak stick in the corner, and hang up his hat on the peg behind the door, than going into the kitchen where the good wife was busily employed preparing the noonday meal, assisted by Naomi he made known with serious countenance, that he had discovered what they were at Silver-Fall cottage!

Of course, Miss Norton was not such a companion as they would choose for Naomi. True, she was a pretty girl, and Mrs Norton a lady of faultless manners; but then so much the more danger, and therefore Naomi, though not forbidden was admonished to beware of their new acquaintances.

[Concluded next week.]

'Running a great risk for trifles,' as the thief said when he picked a printers pocket of a brass rule, two broken leads, fine tooth comb, four cents and a scrap of poetry.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, August 2, 1849.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE FAST.—The Governors of New-Jersey and Rhode Island have each issued Proclamations for a Fast on Friday next, in response to the president's recommendation.

☞ Mr. Philipp Lindemeyer, professor of Music ,and Teacher on Piano and Guitar at Somerville, will give a concert in this place on Wednesday the 8th day of August, at Mr. R. Frazee's Hotel, for particulars see handbills. Mr. L's performances are highly spoken of by the Somerville press.

☞ The National Common School Convention, which was to take place in Philadelphia, on the 22d of Aug. has been postponed until the 17th of Oct. on account of the prevalence of the cholera throughout the country.

'The best of the class—[the independent press]—is bad enough, and only carries neutral colors for the want of moral courage to hoist party ones; or because it may with more facility take that side which pays best for the time being. Honest men and honest journals are party men and party journals."—[Somerset Whig.

—It is always painful to be disappointed in one whom we have regarded with favor. The taunts or illiberal remarks of those who are unworthy of our notice may be suffered to pass unregarded. We had for years heard the editor of the "Somerset Whig" spoken of as a gentleman who was liberal in his views, and above the slang and abuse of many partizan editors. But we are forced to confess—and it pains us to do so—that our estimate of his character is sadly at fault if we are to judge by some of his late effusions. Now we do not dislike joking a neighbor occasionally ourselves, and therefore the little rubbings down" that The Whig gives us are received in good part. But when the editor of that paper rates us (and others) in a labored article, of which we have given an extract above, we submit that we have abundant reason to think less favorably of him than we have been accustomed to.

We think it unnecessary at present to say anything in reply to the charge of "want of moral courage to hoist party colors," or do any other act we think right. We believe those who best know us will acquit us of any charge of this nature. In the meantime we wish our readers to notice the sentence, "Honest men and honest journals are party men and party journals.' Of course, every one who will not bow down and worship at the beck of party, is not worthy to associate with honest men. From all such idolatry we pray to be delivered.

☞ We have received a number of The People's Advocate and Anti-Monopolist Journal. It makes a respectable appearance, and professes to advocate the rights of the people. If its practice corresponds with its professions, we bid it God-speed, for surely there are enough that advocate the usurpations of monopolies.

The Royal Mail steamship Great Western has arrived at Mobile from Vera Cruz, with $1,200,000 of California gold on board, consigned chiefly to merchants in New-Orleans.

CURIOUS DISPOSITION OF MONEY.—MR. DAVID DUNLAP, died at Portland, in Calloway County, (Mo) a few days since. It was known that he was posessed of a considerable amount of money, but none of it could be found about his clothes or baggage. Some days after, it was reccollected that he had pockets in an undershirt, which had not been taken off at his death, and it was conjectured that the treasuse might be found there. Acting under this impression, the grave was opened, the shirt examined and $2,225 found in his pocket.

PROGRESS.—The late Free Soil Convenion at Senecaville (O.) among other resolutions, passed one asking a change in the Ohio State Constitution, so that all persons male and female, over the age of twenty-one, might have the right of suffrage. —Concord (Ohio) Free Press.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

To-morrow is the day recommended by President Taylor as a Fast. Of the propriety of a president or governor making appointments of this nature, I shall say nothing farther than that many of the wise and good would prefer to see an officer attend to his constitutional duties, and let Christians fast and pray when they think proper.

So far as my knowledge enables me to speak, fast days are not generally observed in the most proper manner. It is true, we may cease our ordinary employments, abstain from food, and attend divine worship. Some, I doubt not, will conscientiously seek to worship God acceptably. I am acquainted with those who think this day should be one of gloom and sorrow. They would call it sinful to labor, to read any work of fiction, or even to smile. When I encounter one of these persons I cannot help thinking of some enquiries which were addressed long since to Christians of this class:

"Is it," asks the Almighty, "such a fast that I have chosen? a day for a man to to afflict his soul? is it to bow down his head as a bulrush, and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him? wilt thou call this a fast, and an acceptable day to the Lord?

"Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?

"Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?"

This fast, the reader will please bear in mind, is on account of the Cholera. We are not called to mourn the absence of Heavens blessing on the labors of the husbandman; on the contrary, everything in nature is calculated to gladden the heart of man and cause him to be thankful. We are not, like millions of our fellow men in Europe, cursed with the ravages of war. The oppressor does not lay waste our cities with fire and sword; his armies trample not on our fruitful fields. We dwell securely in the enjoyments of liberty, and have nothing to hinder our progress or retard our prosperity.

We are constantly told that the cholera is sent or caused by the Almighty. Our clergy day after day teach that this and similar diseases are afflictions, chastisements and judgements from heaven; and they pray, if it be consistent with the divine will, that its ravages may be stayed. It always grieves me to hear a man pray after this fashion. The Creator is a being of unbounded benevolence, and of course it must be consistent with his will that his creatures should be happy.

Cholera, according to the testimony of medical men, is simply a disease which, like all others, is produced by natural causes. We all understand the effect of many causes. The child who is not yet able to walk across the room knows if it puts its hands into the fire it will be burned. Experience has taught us not to trifle with poisons or dangerous implements or articles. We do not put known poison into our stomachs or fire into our pockets. When we eat improper food in a time when an alarming disease is among us, or expose ourselves in any manner, we are liable to be attacked. Let a person now eat unripe fruit and indulge in other excesses and he might almost as well cut his throat. If he survives; he at least was exposed to disease and death.

We should not do wrong and then charge heaven with the consequences which follow our acts. It is true, death is busy in the crowded city and in the solitary hamlet. But is there not abundant cause for his presence? It is true a few of the rich and the mighty are among his victims, but who for a moment doubts that the great mass of those who fall at his approach are the poor, the sick, the dissolute? It is perfectly philosophical it should be so. The man or woman who is compelled to toil unremittingly and is unable to procure proper food and shelter, is as much exposed to death as if facing the cannon on the battle-field. Step with me for a moment, ye who design fasting on the morrow, into this—what shall I call it? a hovel? you would not shelter your cattle in such a place! Here from twenty-five to thirty human beings make their home. In this miserable place—I cannot dignify such a hole with the title of hovel—they cook, eat, wash, sleep and live! Is it any wonder, think you, that death in a fearful form should come here in search of prey? And yet this wretched abode is in sight of several churches, and hear the mansions of some of the wealthiest citizens of our state.

—Here is the residence of a widow and several children. While her health was good she managed—God only knows how! —to support herself and little ones by sewing for wealthy Christians. Now she is ill, and if she fared hard before I fear she will suffer greatly now. If she and her family escape the cholera, it will not because they are unexposed.

Let us extend our walk a little farther, and I will introduce you to a young lady who sews on an average sixteen hours a day, that she may support herself and aged parents. Miss. —— complains much of a pain in her side, and also of distressing headache. If you tell her she is injuring her health by excessive labor, she will reply that she has no alternative. Her mother and herself both belong to a wealthy church, but receive no aid, although hundreds of their fellow members dress in silk and broadcloth and fare sumptuously every day! Would it surprise you if the prevailing disease should find a victim here?

I will not detain you more than five minutes longer, if you will go to the house yonder. A poor woman leaves her children here while she washes for our "most respectable citizens." This is a poor place, you will admit, to live in; and it does not appear to be very well furnished. This woman, whose health is quite broken, washes on an average five days out of seven. Now you know that this service is very severe, and is generally performed on an exposed stoop or else in a damp basement. Need we wonder that many who follow this employment die of cholera?

But, says the reader, I know that there is much suffering in every community; but what is that to me? I contribute liberally to the relief of the poor, and my property is taxed for their support.

In reply, let me assure you that, if you wish to fast acceptably, something more than this is necessary. If those who wish to understand their duty will turn to the fifty-eight chapter of Isaiah, I am satisfied that they will see the necessity of doing something besides fasting to banish disease and death from our land. I care not how zealously you fast and pray, but if your religion does not lead you to active benevolent efforts your sacrifices will not be accepted.

Reader, before you go up to worship God in his temple to morrow, prepare for his blessing by obeying the injunctions which I have quoted at the commencement of this article, and "Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily: and thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy rereward. Then shall thou call and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am."

J. A. N.

ALBANY July 30.

A fire broke out at 3 o'clock this morning, in a frame house rear of Lumber street between Centre and Water streets, which destroyed all the buildings on the north side of Lumber street betwen Centre and Water streets, also 3 brick buildings running west of Lumber from Centre.

The fire is now raging amidst the lumber owned by C. P. Williams, also on Water and Lumber streets. The loss must be very great. Loosers by the fire—Tennis Van Vechen, the estate of the late Jellis Winne and George Caser. The two former estates were insured. The latter loses three brick buildings, on which there was no insurance.

J. P. William's loss, $20,000; insurance $3000 in the Etna Hartford, $3000 in the Hartford, $5000 in the Protection Hartford, and $4000 City Insurance, N Y. J. P. Romaine's loss, $10,000; insured in the Hartford $2800, and $2800, in the Protection Hartford, and $1000 in the National, N. York. Kitchen & Co., insured in the Lexington Co. On lumber, nothing.

A veteran seargeant previous to the great battle of Solnok, in the month of March last uttered loudly the following prayer:—'Creator, Father of mankind, Father of the Hungarians: I pray now but for one grace: not that Thou wilt assist us in our task, but only that Thou wilt not assist the Austrians. Look at us; and I solemnly promise, Thou wilt enjoy how the Hussars do their duty.' Having finished this prayer, he gave the first sign for the attack. The Hussars put their saddles in order. He gave the second sign; the swords were drawn from the scabbards. The third, and in a wild fury the horses galloped into the midst of the thundering cannon and flying balls.

The cannon at once became silent, and the victory was decided for the Hungarians.

The veteran Seargent had fallen, and half the number of his comrades. Thus fight the Hungarian hussars.

Law in South-Carolina.

A man named John M. Barrett is now in jail at Spartanburg, S. C. on suspicion of being an Abolitionist, and is quite likely to suffer smartly, under the Code Lynch if some provision in the bloody statute-book of Carolina cannot be stretched to reach his case. He is accused of having had an agency in enlightening the White Non-Slaveholders of South-Carolina with regard to the glaring oppressions to which they are subjected by reason of the dominance of slavery—the inequality of Representation between the strong slaveholding and comparitively non-slaveholding portions of the state—the rigid monopoly of Office by the great slaveholders —the degraded condition and gloomy prospect of the white Freemen of South Carolina who do not own slaves, &c.

'The spartan' of a late date says:

'The charge under which he was arrested is punishable by twelve months' imprisonment and one thousand dollars fine. But he may be indicted under the arrest for any crime of which the state attorney may think himself able, by competent testimony, to convict the prisoner. There is more than a possibility that Barrett may be indicted for an offense, the penaly of which is death without benefit of clergy; and assuredly, if convicted, all the abolitionist in the United States cannot save him.'

—But it is not so easy to convict a man legally of crime as to threaten it, even in South-Carolina, and slavery has taken another step in its own distruction at Spartanburg. There is in the post Office at that place a letter directed to 'John Edward Thomson,' which the accusers of Mr. Barrett assert was intended for him; or that he has authority to take it from the office. He respectfully declines to have anything to do with it. They then summon the postmaster to appear in Court as a witness against Barrett, and bring this letter to be broken open and used in evidence against him.—

'Mr. Legg was arrested and brought before the Magistrate. He said in his defense that he was a sworn officer of the Government, and had given his bond and security for the faithful discharge of his duty; that he was not authorised to deliver the letter to any one but the party or his agents; that before the next Court of Sessions he was bound to forward the letter to the Department in Washington; that he was as willing as any one to discharge his duty to the State as a good citizen: that with due deferance to the distinguished authority under which the Magistrate was acting, he felt himself compelled to decline delivering up the letter, or to enter into recognizance except for his personal appearance.

'Mr. Legg was therefore committed to jail, until he shall have given bond and security for his own appearance at court, and the production of the John Edward Thomson letter.

'Thus has been made the first feasible issue at law with the General Goverment.'

We greatly mistake the present Postmaster General if he will suffer the law to be trampled upon to humor Mr. Barrett's ravening persecutors. If there is any law to justiy the opening of this letter, of course let the law be obeyed; if there is not, (as the Chivalry' seem to confess) let them open it at their peril! If Slavery will make an issue with the Law, the sooner it is done the more welcome.

—Mr. Barrett, we learn from our Western papers, is a highly respectable citizen of Indiana—a leading Free Soiler, but not an abolitionist. He is in a perilous position, from which he may never energe with life, but we trust he will at least preserve his honor unsullied. South-Carolina has bullied Northern freemen out of their rights at least once too often already. —Tribune.

Cholera.

New York, July 30th.

Although the mortality last week reached the very large number of 1352, being only 57 less than during the week previous (the deaths by cholera only 22 less), yet we are happy to say that there are decisive indications that the disease is abating. It is, at least, moving up the island. A physician informs us that a majority of the cases are now above 14th st, although probably three-fourths of the population are below that line. The upper part of the island contains many pools of stagnant water, and many nuisances in the shape of pig-styes, slaughter-houses, bone factories, and the like.

The Sanitary Committee of the board of health report 189 new cases, and 81 deaths of Cholera, as having occurred during the last 24 hours.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.

There have been 39 cases of Cholera and 13 deaths here since last report.

Carl Parpenbury, who recently murdered a young Italian, died in the prison of cholera last evening.

The market is unchanged.

ENIGMA.

Answer to Enigma in our last

"The Territory of Minnisota."

Enigma unavoidably crowded out this week.

Later from California.

The steamer Cresent City left Charges July 17, and arrived at New-York at a little past 10 o'clock last evening, making the passage in 11 days and a few hours. The Falcon had not reached Charges when she left.

She brings $231,000 in gold as frieght besides what belongs to the passengers on board, of whom there are 71.

The steamship Panama left San Francisco the 20th June, with about 100 passengers and about $500,000 in gold dust and specie. She arrived at Panama on the night of the 11th July, and would leave again the 1st August.

There is but one opinion among passengers with regard to the gold in California; it is still found in great quantities, but it is only the hard-working chaps who can stand the fatigue of digging it.

There was no sickness at the mines, and everything was going on quietly The number of persons at the mines is estimated at between twenty and thirty thousand—about one half foreigners. Business at San Francisco is very dull, and dry goods and provisions selling below their original cost Lumber is still in great demand, selling for $350 per M. Rents are enormously high and rather on the rise.

The Cresent City passed the Empire City July 23, at 4 30 P. M. lat. 22 55, lon. 72 42.

Action of the People.

A mass meeting was held at San Francisco on June 12th. Wm. M. Stewart presiding. Hon. T. Butler King made a speech, as did several other gentlemen. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Congress of the United States having failed to pass any law for the government of this country, the people of California have the undoubted right to organize a government for their own protection.

Resolved, That the people of California are called upon, by an imperative sense of duty, to assemble in their sovereign capacity and elect delegates to a Convention to form a Constitution for a state Government; that the great and growing interest of California may be represented in the next Congress of the United States, and that the people of this country may have the necessary protection of law.

Resolved, That we earnestly invite our fellow-citizens at large to unite with us in our efforts to establish a government in accordance with the constitution of our beloved country, and that a committee of five persons be appointed by the President of this meeting, to correspond with the other districts, and fix an early day for the election of delegates and the meeting of the Convention, and also to determine the number of delegates which should be elected from this district.

Of this meeting the Alta California remarks that it was enthusiastic and united. The same paper hopes that other districts will follow the example, and that the campaign thus propitiously began will not be suffered to flag till the Representatives and senators of California take their seat in the United States Congress.

The Irishman on the Queen's Visit.

The democratic Irishman on the subject of the Queen's visit the Editor displays his feelings of hatred and contempt for British rule and authority. He asks: 'Why comes this queen among us? Does she come to insult our misery? Does she come to us to revel in the high court of Death? Does she come to dazzle the age of bankruptcy with a drawing-room? She will view Killarney, but she will not visit Toomevara. She will behold the splendor of the Viceregal Lodge, but she will not gaze on the charnel bone yard of Ballinasloe. She will hear the chorus of luxury, but her ears will be closed to screams of misery. She will breathe the perfumes of the saloon, but not the rank smell of the famine bitten corpse. She will eat of rich meat, and drink of rich wines, while men like Diamond gorge on the flesh of a stranded body, and swallow the rotten blood.' The Irishman calls upon its readers to receive royalty with solemn silence, and to mark well all persons who will shout and cheer at her approach, as by that means they can then have a census of Irish slaves.

Shipwreck—Thirteen Persons Starved to Death.

By the Emma Sherratt, which arrived on the 11th from Sydney, particulars have been received relative to the loss of the British ship Sarah Crisp, Captain Taylor, master, and the appalling sufferings of the crew, thirteen of whom perished from starvation. With much care 19 persons, in a most shocking state of exaustion, were taken off the wreck by the Emma Sherratt's boats.—They proved to be Capt. Taylor, the master, the chief mate, and 17 seamen. The sufferings had been truly awful, having been twenty-seven nights and days on the wreck with nothing to subsist on excepting a monkey and two fishes. All the water they had was about a couple of buckets, which they caught by some old canvass. The second mate and 12 seamen had died from exhaustion. The ship's loss was attributed to a plank starting.—The vessel and cargo were insured for £ 20,000.

The American brig Othello was struck by lightning on the river at Tabasco, and totally destroyed by fire.

Anti-Monopoly State Convention.

There will be held, in Trenton, on the Fifth day of September next, a meeting of citizens of New Jersey, opposed to the longer endurance of the impositions practised, and the wrongs inflicted, by the authority and power of that great Monopoly 'the Camden and Amboy Railroad company :' and also to take into serious consideration how our State may be relieved, not only from this particular oppression, but how we may be enabled to shake off entirely the influence of the monopolies (bearing any designation whatever) under which we have long struggled.

It is to be hoped that no county will fail to act promptly on this subject, by the selection of Delegates authorized to assemble and act on this occasion ; it being one in which every section of the State and every true-hearted Jerseyman must feel a deep and abiding interest.

July 25, 1849. [Peoples Advocte.

Anti-Monopoly Meeting.

At a recent meeting of those opposed to the Camden and Amboy Monopoly, in Newark, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted :—

Resolved. That the means by which the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Delaware and Raritan Canal Companies, obtained their monopoly privileges—their illegal purchases of all interests creating a just competition in the carrying trade—their exaction and extortions not only from the people of this State, but of the Union—their bold and reckless confidence in enormous wealth—their control of legislation and government by the use of free tickets and corruption—their utter disregard of the true intent and spirit of their charter demand that the people shall adopt such measures as will best relieve the State from the evils thus entailed upon it.

Resolved, That to remedy these evils, union, concert and organization, are requisite ; and in order to attain this, we do hereby recommend that this city shall be fully represented in the State Convention, to be held in the city of Trenton, on the 5th of September next, for the purpose of considering the grievances complained of, and devising means for their abatement.

St. Louis, July 29th.

A fire broke out at 3 o'clock this morning, on board of the steamer Algonia, that had just arrived from Missouri, with a full freight, burning her, the Mary, Phoenix, San Francisco, and Dubuque. The San Francisco was also just in from Missouri, with a full cargo of hemp, tobacco and bacon.

The value of boats and cargoes burnt is estimated at one hundred and forty-eight thousand dollars. Supposed insurance, one hundred and thirty thousand dollars.

The mail from the California emigrants was on board the Algonia, containing several thousand letters, including important official dispatches. It has been found in a damaged condition ; most of the letters are destroyed. The latest dates are July 4th, from a point sixty miles beyond Fort Kearney. The emigrants were generally getting along well. The roads are strewed with graves of those that died. The cholera had broken out among the Indians, alarming them so much that they had fled from the trail of the emigrants. The Sioux, Pawnees and Cheyness had all disappeared.

A tremendous riot occurred at half past five this morning, between the Irish and the Firemen. The Irish assaulted the Firemen, and drove them from the engines. Pistols were fired first by James O'Brien and ——Lynch, from an Irish Boarding-house on the Levee, upon the Franklin Engine Co. The Firemen rallied, and riddled O'Brien's and seven other houses, part on Morgan street and part on the Levee. John Grant, of Missouri co. was shot in the face, and a number of Irish badly wounded. The riot is still progressing. The Missouri Fire Co. broke open the armory of the St. Louis Greys, and took their arms by force. The Mayor has ordered out the Greys to suppress the riot, and has sent to Jefferson Barracks for troops. A number of arrests have been made, and 18 Irish are in jail.

Arrest of the Spanish Consul and two others for Abduction.

New Orleans, July 26.

The Spanish Consul, with two other persons have been arrested, charged with the abduction of Don Jean Francisco Rey, previously announced by telegraph The Consul has been bailed in the sum of $5,000, and bound over to appear. The investigation is set down for the 27th inst. Great excitemen still prevails, especially among the Spanish population. A thorough investigation is demanded, and the intervention of the National Government will be invoked to demand the return of Rey, with a suitable apology for the gross insult to our flag and our laws, or to inflict summary punishment for such a flagrant violation of international law and the good understanding of neighborship.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday July 25.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	3 00
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a 38

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	15 a
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink ; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework ; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers —price 50 cents ; or three copies for $1 This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B PETERSON, No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM;
OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM ; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper ; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No. 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

'This can't be beat,' (beet) as the farmer said when he pulled up a large carrot.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart ; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup ; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day ; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver ; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills ; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture ; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood ; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints ; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout ; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield July 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others

A	Leveridge Cornl's A
Adams Thomas 2	Long John
Ayers & Tittsworth	M
B	McCord J W
Barton Mr.	McDonald Willliam
Beekman P. S.	Madden Henry G Esq
Beker Gorge	Moore Isaac
Baldwin Nathaniel L	Mallison James J
Byrne Jane	P
C	Pell Mary Jane
Coufmann Mager	Ponell William
Crane James	Pound S S
Coddington J C	R
Codiagton Wm B	Rodgers Miss Joana
Colthar John 2	Randolph Mrs Mary F
D	Robbinson Ann
Dutcher Josiah J	Reve Robert L
E	S
Eayres Rev. John L	Steward Adolphus
Eakin Robert	Stebbins Wm
F	Simpson Wm
Frazee Mrs Mary	Sperring James
Fisher Mrs Tobitha	Shotwell Mrs M E
G	Spencer Caroline B
Garwood H	T
Gimble Curtis	Trainer Barny
H	V
Hill J N	Verity Isabela
Halsey Stephen L Eq	W
J	Wooden Richard
Jacobus Cyrus F	Watson James H
K	Waldren Reuben
Kershner Mr	or Wm Frasure
Killroy Haigh	Willet Lauis
L	Wormes Mr
Lynch Jno. Thomas

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

N. B An entirely new assortment of Dry Goods just opened, cheaper than ever before offered ; also Mens and Boys palm-leaf hats, some at 6d. a piece.

A large assortment of Stone and Earthen ware selling at reduced prices.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices ; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods ; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles ;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear ; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps ; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing doe at short notice, and on reasonable terms

WM REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [60.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, soll also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits deried from it; a single customer thus gaind will pay ten times the cost of advertisin perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr. S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deliverers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D.	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V. Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davidson,	Albert W. Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13 3m.

MOLASSES from 2 shillings to 2 shillings and 6 pence per. gallon at

W. M. DRAKE'S

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 14 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. RR. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

TAKE NOTICE,

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,

Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded.

JAMES ROSS.

July, 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P.S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1849. | NO. 34.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

From Graham's Magazine.

THE CURTAIN LIFTED.

Or Professions—Practical and Theoretical.

BY MRS. CAROLINE H. BUTLER.

[CONCLUDED.]

CHAPTER IV.

Love Passages.

The summer passed, and in the bright month of September, came Hubert Farlie, to pass a few weeks, beneath the glad roof of his parents, whose only and beloved child he was.

Their warm welcome given, the first visit of Hubert was to Naomi. They met as such young and ardent friends meet after an absence of months, and Naomi soon confided to him her regret that her parents would not allow her to cultivate the friendship of Grace Norton, whom she extolled in such warm and earnest language, that Hubert found his curiosity greatly excited to behold one calling forth such high eulogium from the gentle Naomi.

An evenings walk was accordingly planned which would lead them near the cottage, hoping by that means to obtain a glimpse of its fair inmate. Fortune favored them. As they came within view of the cottage, a sweet voive was heard chanting the Evening Hymn to the Virgin, and Hubert and Naomi paused to listen to as heavenly sounds as ever floated on the calm twilight air. Then as the song concluded, Grace herself still sweeping her fairy fingers over the strings to a lively waltz, sprang out from the little arbor, and with her hair floating around her like stray sunbeams her beautiful blue eyes lifted upward, her white arms embracing the guitar, and her graceful figure swaying to the gay measure like a bird upon the tree-top, tripped over the greensward.

Among other amusements which the deacon held in great abhorrence was dancing, and Naomi had been taught to look upon all such exhibitions as vain and sinful. Yet never, I may venture to say, did any pair of little feet so long to be set at liberty as did Naomi's—pat--pat--pat-ing the gravel-walk where they stood, urging their young mistress to bound through the gate and trip it with those other little feet twinkling so fleetly to the merry music.

The cheeks of Grace rivaled to the hue of June roses, as she suddenly encountered the gaze of a stranger; but seeing Naomi, she hastened to greet her, and thereby hide her embarrassment. Naomi introduced her companion, and then Grace invited them to walk in the garden and look at her fine show of autumn flowers. Minutes flew imperceptibly, and ere they were aware Hubert and Naomi found themselves seated in the tasteful parlor of the cottage listening to another sweet song from the lips of Grace.

As this is not precisely a love tale, I may as well admit at once, that Hubert became deeply enamored of the bewitching Grace, and from that evening was a frequent and not unwelcome visiter—a fact which was soon discovered by the deacon, for noting that Hubert came not so often as was his wont to the farm, he set about to find out what could have so suddenly turned the footsteps of the young man from his door.

Alas, for his hopes of a son-in-law in Hubert! He found the footsteps very closely on the track of as dainty a pair of slippers as ever graced the foot of a Cinderella.

Nothing could exceed his, disappointment, save the pity he felt for his minister, whose son he considered rushing blindly into the snares of the Evil One. Nay, so far did he carry his pity as to warn Mr. Farlie of the derelection of Hurbert. But when that worthy man reproved his uncharitableness, and acknowledged that he could hope for no greater earthly happiness for his son, than to see him the husband of so charming and amiable a girl as Grace Norton, the deacon was perfectly thunderstruck! It was dreadful—what would the world come to! In short almost believing in the apostacy of the minister himself, the deacon went home groaning in spirit, as much perhaps for the frustration of his own schemes, as for the 'falling off,' as he termed it of the reverend clergymen!

The swift term of vacation expired, and Hurbert returned to college His collegeiate course would end with the next term, and then it was his wish to commence the study of the law. Mr. Farlie was, perhaps, somewhat disappointed that his son did not adopt his own sacred profession; but he was a man of too much sense to force the decison of Hubert or thwart his wishes. He hoped to see him a good man whatever might be his calling; and if every youth gave promise to make glad the heart of a parent, that youth was Hubert Fairlie.

The intercourse between Grace and Naomi from this time almost wholly ceased, much to the regret of both. Yet such were the orders of deacon Humphreys, whose good-will toward the widow and her daughter was by no means strengthened by the events of the last four weeks.

CHAPTER V.

The Practical and Theoretical Christian

'Why what have you done with Nelly to- day?' asked Mrs Humphreys. of her washerwoman who came every Monday morning, regularly attended by a little ragged, half-starved girl of four years old, whose province it was to pick up the close-pins, drive the hens off the bleach, and keep the kittens from scalding their frisky tails—receiving for her reward a thin slice of bread and butter, or maybe, if all things went right, and no thunder-squalls brewed, or sudden hurricanes swept over the close-field, a piece of gingerbread or a cookey. 'What, I say, have you done with Nelly?' 'O, ma'am, she has gone to school—only think of it, my poor little Nelly gone to school! It does seem' continued Mrs. White, resting her arms on the tub, and holding suspended by her two hands a well patched shirt of the deacon's, 'it does seem as if the Lord had sent that Mrs. Norton here to be a blessing to the poor!'

'Humph!' ejaculated Mrs. Humphreys, spitefully rattling the dishes.

'Only think,' continued Mrs White, 'she has given up one whole room in her house to Miss Grace, who has been round and got all the children that can't go to school because their parents are to poor to send them, and just teaches them herself for nothing! God bless her, I say!' exclaimed the washerwoman, strenously, her tears mingling with the soap-suds into which she now plunged her two arms so vigorously as to dash the creaming foam to the ceiling.

Mrs. Humphreys was at once surprised and angry. She could not conceive why a lady like Mrs. Norton should do such a thing as to keep a ragged school, and that, too, without pay or profit. She had forgotten the words of our blessed Lord, 'Whoso shall receive one such little child in my name, receiveth me,' or, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me' Charity alone, she argued in her selfish nature, could not have influenced Mrs. Norton to put herself to so much trouble for a troop of noisy, dirty, half-clothed children! No, there must be some deeper motive—some sectarian object, perhaps, to be gained; and, impressed with this idea; she said tartly.

'I think it is a pretty piece of presumption in Mrs. Norton to come here and set herself up in this way, telling us as it were of our duty. She is a stranger, and what business is it of hers, I should like to know, whether the children go to school or not!'

'O, Mrs. Humphreys, indeed, I think the spirit of the Lord guides her!' said Mrs. White. 'Miss Grace came and asked me so humbly like, if I would let her teach my Nelly, and then kissed the little fatherless child so, so—that—that—O, I could have worshiped her!' and fresh tears streamed down the cheeks of the washerwoman.

'Worship a fiddle-stick!' exclaimed Mrs Humphreys, out of all patience, 'I know what she wants—an artful creature; yes, she wants to make Nelly go to her meeting!'

Poor Mrs. White could not help smiling at the idea of attempting to form the religious creed of a child scarce four years old.

'Well if she will only make her as good as she is, I dont care!' she answered, 'for the Bible says, 'By their fruits ye shall know them!'

Mrs Humphreys was more and more shocked at this She whispered it to Mrs. Smith who whispered it to Mrs. Jones, who told Mrs Brown, who told all the society, that the Nortons were wicked, designing people, come into the village to stir up schism in the church! Yet all sensible persons applauded the good deed of the widow, and cheerfully aided her efforts. The little school prospered even more than she had dared to hope; the children were cheerful and happy, and those whose parents could not afford them decent clothing, were generously supplied by Mrs Norton— and many a heart blessed the hour which brought her among them.

As the thunder which suddenly rends the heavens, when not a cloud on the blue expanse has heralded the coming storm was the calamity which now as suddenly burst over the head of Mrs. Norton

She retired at night to her peaceful slumbers, supposing herself the mistress of thousands. With the early dawn there came letters to the cottage, telling her that all her worldly posessions were swept from her. The man to whose care her fortune was entrusted, had basely defrauded her of every cent, and now a bankrupt, had fled to a foreign land.

The stroke was a severe one. She must have been divine to have resisted the first shock which the tidings caused her. But that over, like a brave and noble spirit she rose to meet it. Her treasures were not all of earth—in heaven her hopes were garnered; and, although henceforth her path in life might be in rougher spots, and through darker scenes than it had yet traversed, to that heaven she trusted to arrive at last.

It happened, unfortunately, that the half-yearly rent of the cottage became due that very week; and Mrs. Norton, thus suddenly deprived of her expected funds, had no means to meet it. Where should she raise two hundred dollars! Her courage, however, rose with her trials. A little time to look into her affairs—a little time to form her plans for the future, and she doubted not she should be able to liquidate the debt. Unused to asking favors, she yet courageously went to Mr. Humphreys, and stating candidly her inability to meet the rent, requested a few weeks indulgence.

The deacon was not caught napping. Evil news always travels with seven-league boots—and long ere Mrs. Norton knocked at the door of the farm-house, it was known throughout the village that her fortune was gone.

Now the deacon, good man that he was, was 'given to idols,' and Mammon was one. Moreover, he owed the widow a grudge as we already know, and the old leaven of sin was at work beneath the crust of piety.

He was accordingly well prepared to receive her. And sorry, very sorry was the worthy deacon, but he bad just then a most pressing necessity for the rent—he really must have it, if not in cash, perhaps Mrs. Norton might have some plate to dispose of; he would be happy to oblige her in that wny, for the Lord forbid he should deal hard with any one—but, the amount must be paid when due. Wait he could not—and if the rent was not forthcoming on the day stipulated in the contract—why—why—he was very sorry—but he should be obliged to take other measures, that was all!

Mrs. Norton soiled not her lips by making any reply to this Christian Shylock—no expostulation or entreaty—but coldly bowing, she took her leave.

As soon as she reached home she sent for a silver-smith, brought out her valuable tea-set—doubly so from having been the marriage gift of her father, requested its apprisal, and then duly attested as to its weight and purity, it was farwarded to the clutches of the deacon.

Mrs. Norton met with a great deal of sympathy in her misfortunes. During the few months she had resided among them, the villagers had all learned to love and respect her. Even the poor came from their humble homes, and with looks of sympathy and outstretched hands tendered their offerings their hard-earned wages to the kind lady who had taught their little ones; they would work for her—they would do anything to serve her. With a sweet smile Mrs. Norton put back their grateful gifts, and thanked them in gentle tones for their love—to her a far more acceptable boon than gold could buy.

Again Silver-Fall cottage fell back on the hands of its owner.

Dismissing her attendants, Mrs. Norton took a smaller and cheaper house. Her choice and beautiful furniture she sold, only retaining sufficient to render her now humble residence comfortable. The avails of the sale amounted to several hundred dollars—enough at any rate she deemed, for present necessities, while she trusted in the meantime to find som means of subsistence by which she and Grace might support themselves.

What more noble spectacle, than an elegant, refined woman thus meeting, uncomplaining and cheerfully, the storm of adversity.

And Grace, too sweet Grace--sang like a skylark, and made her little white hands wonderful busy in household matters.—Hubert Fairlie was yet absent, though his long and frequent letters brought joy to the heart of his beloved.

And had Naomi forgotten her friend in this season of trial! Not so; yet forbidden as we have seen from the society of Grace, all she could do was to sympathize deeply in spirit, happy when a chance opportunity brough them together; and those meetings although rare, only served to strengthen the friendship which united these two lovely girls.

CHAPTER VI.

The Pestilence. The Curtain wholly Lifted.

It was now the middle of October.

'Filled was the air with a dreamy and magical light, and the landscape
Lay as if new created, in all the freshness of childhood:
All sounds were in harmony blended.
Voices of children at play—the crowing of cocks in the farm-yard,
Whirr of wings in the drosy air, and the cooing of pigeons,
All were subdued and low as the murmurs of love.'

When suddenly the Angel of Death folded his dark wings, and sat brooding over the peaceful, pleasant village of Grassmere.

A terrible and malignant fever swept through the town, spreading from house to house, like the fire which consumes alike the dry grass and the bright, fresh flowers of the prairies. Old and young, husband wife and child, were alike brought low. There were not left in all the village those able to attend upon the sick. From the churches solemnly tolled the funeral bells, as one by one, youth and age, blooming childhood and lovely infancy, were borne to the graveyard—no longer solitary—for the foot of the mourner pressed heavily over its grass-growns paths.

Still the contagion raged, until the selfishness of poor human nature triumphed over the promptings of kindness and charity. People grew jealous of each other; neighbor shunned neighbor;

'Silence reigned in the streets—
Rose no smoke from the roofs—gleamed no lights from the windows.'

save the dim midnight lamp which from almost every house betokened the plague within.

None had shut themselves up closer from fear of infection than Deacon Humphreys. His gates grew rusty, and the grass sprang up in the paths about his dwelling. And yet the Destroyer found him out, and like a hound long scenting its prey, sprang upon the household with terrible violence.

First the pure aud gentle Naomi sank beneath the stroke, and ere the setting of the same day's sum, Mrs. Humphreys herself was brought nigh the grave.

Like one demented, pale with agony and terror, the deacon rushed forth into the deserted streets to seek for aid. His dear ones—his wife and child were perhaps dying; where, where should he look for relief—where find some kind hand to administer to their necessities.

At every house he learned a tale of wo equal to his own. Some wept while they told of dear ones now languishing upon the bed of pain, or bade him look upon the marble brow of their dead. Others grown callous, and worn-out with sorrow and fatigue, refused, all aid, while some, through excess of fear, hurriedly closed their doors against him.

Thus he reached the end of the village, and then the small, neat cottage of Mrs. Norton met his view, nestling down amid the overshadow branches of two veneral elms. From the day he had almost thrust her from his gate with, cold looks and unflinching extortion, Mrs. Norton and the deacon had not met, and now the time had come when he was about to ask from her a favor upon which perhaps his whole earthly happiness might rest—a favor from her, whom in his strength and her dependence he had scorned. Would she grant it? He hesitated; would she not rather rejoice in her power now, revenge the slights he felt he had so often and so undeservedly cast upon her. But he remembered the sweet, calm look which beamed her eyes and his courage grew with the thought.

Putting away the luxuriant creeper which wound itself from the still green turf to the roof of the cottage, hanging in graceful festoons, and tinged with the brilliant dyes of autumn, seemed like wreaths of magnificent flowers thus suspended the deacon knocked hesitatingly at the door.

It opened, and Mrs Norton stood before him, pale with watching—for, like an angel of mercy had she passed from house to house since the first breaking out of the scourge. In faltering accents he told his errand; and, O, how like a dagger did it pierce his heart, when with countenance beaming with pity and kindness and speaking words of comfort, the widow put on her bonnet and followed him with fleet footsteps to his stricken home.

All night, like a ministering angel, did she pass from one sick couch to the other, tenderly soothing the ravings of fever moistening their parched lips with cool refreshing drinks, fanning their fevered brows, and smoothing the couch made uneasy by their restless motions.

Unable to bear the scene, the deacon betook him in his hour of sorrow to his closet where all through the dreary watches of the night he prayed this cup of affliction might pass from him. His heart was subdued. He saw that like the proud Pharisee he had exalted himself, thanking God he was not as other men.

At early dawn came Grace also to inquire afeter her suffering Naomi, and finding her so very ill, earnestly besought her mother that she might be allowed to share the task of nursing her. Mrs. Norton had no fears for herself, yet when she looked at her only and beautiful child, she trembled; but her eyes fell upon the bed where poor Naomi lay moaning in all the delirium of high fever, and her heart reproached her for her momentary selfishness. Removing the bonnet of Grace, she tenderly kissed her pure brow, and then kneeling down, with folded hands she prayed, 'Thy will O Lord, not mine be done! Take her in thy holy keeping, and do with her as thou seest best!'

From that day Grace left not the bedside of her friend.

On the third day Mrs. Humhreys died. Her last sigh was breathed out on the bosom of the woman whom she had taught her daughter to shun. For many days it seemed as if Death would claim another victim; yet God mercifully spared Naomi to her bereaved father; very slowly she recovered, but neither Mrs. Norton nor Grace left her until she was able to quit her bed.

With the death of Mrs. Humphreys, the pestilence staid its ravages, while, as a winding-sheet, the snows of winter now enshrouded the fresh-turned clods in the late busy grave-yard.

The eyes of Deacon Humphreys were opened. He became an altered man. He saw how mistaken had been his views, and that it is not the profession of any sect or creed which makes the true Christian and that if all are alike sincere in love of God, all may be alike received

I have said this was no love tale, therefore, by merely stating that in the course of a twelvemonth Hubert Farlie and Grace were united, I close my simple story.

The Mysterious Poison Case at Newark.

Some time since, Thomas J. Porter a gentlemen residing at Newark, N. J. was taken severely ill with cramps and spasms exhibiting all the symptons, of having a violent attack of the prevailing, epidemic. A physician was immediately in attendance, but the patient got worse, and in a few hours after died, and the M. D. gave a certificate of death by cholera. The deceased was acordingly interred, and the case reported to the Sanitary Committee; but some of his friends not feeling perfectly satisfied, caused the body to be exhumed, and a post mortem examination held, when, to the utter astonishment of every one present a large quantity of arsenic was found in his stomach.

The Jury in the above case after hearing all the evidence came to the following verdict:

That Thomas J. Porter came to his death at the City of Newark, on the 9th day of July last, from the effects of arsenic received by him in some way unknown to the Jury.

The Newark Daily Advertiser has been requested to publish the following certificate:

☞ We, jurymen of the inquest respecting the death of Thomas J. Porter, in justice to his widow, against whom insinuations have been made, do hereby certify our belief, from the evidence before us, that there is nothing to justify any suspicion of Mrs. Porter having in any manner been privy to the cause of her husband's death.

D W. Baldwin, Foreman; George H. Bruen, Coroner; Aaron Coe, Abm. Mockridge, James W. Grover, Elisha Whitaker, Bruen H. Congar, Horace Bedell, Gabriel S. Turner, Wm G. Black.

The Profits of Rectitude.

It is a thought which cannot be too much urged or considered, that all vice is injurious to all our present interests, and all virtue is profitable on a temporal scale as well as an eternal. Truth is better than hypocrasy, honesty than dishonesty, temperance than self-indulgence. If it were our destiny to live in this world and die with the brute, still it would be most unwise, impolitic, and, suicidal, to pursue vicious courses. It would still be the height of wisdom to choose the path of virtuous recitude.

In every view we can take of a bad life it is unprofitable, costly, unsatisfactory. What a toilsome course of shifts and chiacaneries, is the hypocrite's? What a burdensome round, what a mazy, bewildering labarinth, must the dishonest man of business or politics daily tread to gain his end and disguise his motives? What aches and pains, what prostration of nerves, what an expenditure of money, time, talents, character, what sacrifices of inward peace, self-respect, in dwelling joy, must the intemperate man endure as the penalty of his sin?

The honest advocates of any moral reform, temperance, for instance, have a cheering anxiliary in the reflection that they are asking their fellow-men to be the true friends of their own interest and happiness.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, August 9, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

According to the text handed down to us by our forefathers, and for the maintainance of which they pledged to each other their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor; "All men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, and to secure these rights governments were instituted among men; deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, in conformity with the above declaration.

There is no better or more certain way of arriving at a correct conclusion in the science of government, or any other science, than to frequently refer to first principles.

Thanks be to God and the tyranny of our British ancestors for that glorious charter of the liberties of man, the Declaration of Independence.

We have it here acknowledged, and every republican at heart refers to it with pride that all men's rights are equal, and that government derives its powers from the consent of the governed, and that whenever it fails to accomplish this, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it.

Let us contrast the rights of the people as enjoyed, with the rights to which they are declared entitled by this charter of their liberties, this chief corner stone upon which our rights, upon which the unalienable rights of all men are declared to be based.

In the first place being the very foundation of all minor rights, how does the holding of men in bondage, and their being bought and sold as goods and chattels, contrast with the above declaration? Do they enjoy the unalienable equal rights to which the signers of the above declaration declared all men to be entitled? If not, why not? What becomes of those sacred principles for which our fathers fought, and for which they sacrificed their lives, their fortunes, and for which they pledged their sacred honors, if we suffer these principles to evaporate in idle declamation by demagogues, on the anniversary of the day sacred to their manes and to the cause of liberty. Possess we not the spirit of our fathers?

To secure and protect men in the enjoyment of equal rights is, or should be, the end and aim of all government. All men have an equal right to do any act that is not immoral in itself, that does not encroach on the equal rights of another; and the legitimate object of all government is to protect us in this right; anything beyond this is usurpation, as it cannot be delegated to another, it is unalienable. Of man's rights, whatever can be usurped is unalienable, and like stolen goods, may be recovered wherever found by those who are disposessed of them. Therefore it matters not by what right one man or company of men claim a right which all do not enjoy; their right is founded in error, in injustice; they are a usurpation and destroy man's equal rights, and cannot be held by power, nor consent, because they are unalienable. Those who are disposessed of these rights are justified in the sight of God and man in reclaiming them by any and every means in their power, as is proven by our own history, and by man's asserting and claiming this right, and which is accorded to him by the general consent of mankind; except those who claim a divine right as kings. Our rights must be reclaimed through the ballot box; and this can only be done by a faithful and conscientious adherence and discharge of our duty as worthy sons of worthy sires; and as faithful guardians of our children. He who neglects or abuses the sacred trust is only fit and deserves to be a slave.

According to all history which we have read, through the selfishness of man, which appers to be inherent in his nature, it has ever been that the few have usurped the rights of the many. The practical tendencies of this selfishnes in man is towards such a result. Hence the importance of a frequent reference to first principles; to that charter of the rights of man, which our forefathers put their names to and died to maintain.

With this as our guide, what becomes of all monopolies and special privileges? Are they not all (whether invested in one man or company of men, no matter what the pretext, however laudable it may appear, or by whom held) a usurpation of the equal unalienable rights of man? Is a charter for any purpose whatever, granted by the people's servants in contravention of the people's charter, superior to that charter which declares all such rights unalienable? Shall an uujust monopoly like the Camden and Amboy Rail road company, or any other special privilege be suffered to contravene the rights of the people of New Jersey and of the Union? Were these principles for which our fore fathers contended a mere hallucination of the brain, an ignus fatuus, having no foundation but in the heated imaginations of enthusiasts in the cause of liberty? Or have they a foundation, and are they the unalienable birth right of man? If the former, let us cease their agitation, and submit like slaves to the imperious yoke of our masters. If the latter, let us contend for them like men who know the value of the blessing for which our fathers died, and which they bequeathed to us in all confidence, that we would transmit it unimpaired to our posterity.

The following States hold their elections this month. Tennessee the 2d.; Alabama, Kentucky, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Texas, and North Carolina, on the 6th; and Rhode Island on the 28th; the probabilities are in favor of the Democrats having a majority in both Houses.

A Sheriff, Surrogate, and County Clerk, are to be elected in this county this fall as the terms of all these now in office will then expire, these offices pay about $3000 to $4000 each per annum.

MONOPOLIES.—While a large portion of the people of the State are taking a lively interest in regard to the great Monopoly, and other minor monopolies, by holding meetings and discussing the matter, appointing delegates &c, to the State Convention to be held in Trenton on the fifth day of September next, the people of Plainfield who are as much affected by monopolies as any other portion of the State, are doing nothing. Do the people of Plainfield expect others to do all, while they remain inactive? All those who ask no more than equal rights and who expect to take nothing less should be willing to do their part in obtaing them. What is every bodies business every body should attend to, as they may rest assured that those interested in their continuance will leave no stone unturned to perpetuate them.

THE WEATHER.—The copious and refreshing shower on Saturday evening last, and again on Monday, has rendered the air delightfully pure. Its effects on the crops of corn and potatoes will be incalculably beneficial, and also render the soil in a suitable state for plowing for the fall crops. Our Village continues to enjoy most exceeding good health, which is doubtless owing to its situation near the mountain, recieving refreshing breezes therefrom, and the nature of the soil, not allowing of any stagnant water, and also to the superior water with which the village abounds; it is uniformly exempt from epidemic diseases, not as yet having had a single case of Cholera, this was also the case in 1832, doubtless owing to the above causes. The continuance of that greatest of Heaven's blessings, good health, should make us thankful for the past, and inspire us with renewed confidence in the future in the Author of all good.

☞ Mr. Lindemeyer's Concert will take place this Wednesday Evening, August 8th at R. Frazee's Hotel, doors open at 7 1-2 o'clock. Admission 12 1-2 cents.

Joseph Shotwell, Jr., J. O. Tunison, Robert Sym and Stephen Jackson, are names which will be long and gratefully remembered in Rahway. These gentlemen have proved themselves true votarists at the shrine of human goodness, voiding no danger where they could be of service and useful; placing themselves in positions often critical to alleviate human suffering—toiling in rooms covered with filth—breathing and inhaling a poisonous and deadly atmosphere—risking all dear in life to administer comforts to those who were forsaken by their own friends and relations.—Republican.

NORTH CAROLINA ELECTION.—Sufficient returns have been received to insure the election of A. W. Venable, and Ashe, Democrats. Outlaw, whig is re-elected in the 5th district.

The Mexican Protocol.

The baseness of a number of Members of Congress and also of a portion of the Press, in their contemptible course in regard to the aforesaid Protocol, in setting forth with all the venom malignity could invent, that the Protocol was a secret treaty brought about by our Minister Mr. Clifford by secret understanding and instruction of the then President of the U. States, James K. Polk, while it was yet a matter of difference between the two nations, and while it was known by them that it could not be given to the public without detriment to the public interest, deserves, as such conduct is always sure to recieve, the just indignation and contempt of all right minded men.

It will be percieved by the following extracts published by the Journal of Commerce from the Courrier Etats Unis, and also from the Trait d' Union, an able journal published in the city of Mexico, that the origin and sole use of the Protocol was as was stated by Mr Polk in his message of 8th. February last to be, merely explanatory of the treaty to the Mexican people and to relieve the Mexican Government, and has ever so been considered and treat- by them.

From the 'Courier des Etats Unis' of July 9.

'On the arrival of the American Commissioners, sent to ratify the Treaty of Guadaloupe, the government at Queretaro was altogether in favor of the peace, but extremely weak and tottering.—Sixteen thousand Mexican troops quartered in their vicinity, threatened openly to revolutionize the government, and displace the peace party. The excitement had arrived at such a pitch that although both Houses of the Mexican Congress had by their vote authorized the President to ratify the Treaty, he did not dare to do it.

'Under these circumstances a conference was had. On the one side apeared Mr. Clifford with Mr Walsh, the Secretary to the commission.---Mr. Sevier being sick, was not present.

'On the part of the Mexican Government appeared Messrs. Luis O. Cuevas, Bernardo Couto, and Luis de la Rosa. Mr. Clifford, in English verbally explained the effect of the amendments made by the American Senate to the Treaty of 2d February. These explanations were translated into Spanish aud written down in that language. The next morning the Spanish memorandum of this conversation was carried to Messrs. Clifford and Sevier to obtain their signatures to it. After having it translated into English, and some corrections made, the two American Commissioners signed it.

'Such was the origin of the Protocol. The Mexican Government which had only asked for this document in order to give an appearance of satisfaction to the discontented, and allay the storm which threatened to burst over its head, hastening to publish it, and all the newspapers of Mexico republished it. The object desired was accomplished, and the President ratified the Treaty precisely as it had been amended.

'No one in Mexico has ever entertained the idea of attributing to this document any different signification or effect than that given to it by Mr. Polk in his message of 8th Feb'y, 1849, upon the subject, and if the Mexican Government had been called upon here in Mexico, and not through its minister in Washington, to give its understanding of the matter, it is very certain that that message would have been rendered quite unnecessary.

'A material fact stares us in the face. If in the opinion of Mexico the so called Protocal had changed the amendments of the American Senate, it became evidently indispensible to submit the matter to the Mexican Congress.

'This was neither done before the publication of the document; nor did any one ever raise the question after that publication. The Mexican authorities have, on all occasions, loyally and unhesitatingly, or unequivocally, admitted that the miscalled Protocol is in perfect harmony with the Treaty, which it in no way modifies and that even if it had been in absolute contradiction with the Treaty, it could not affect it to change a single syllable. You can count on the scrupulous exactitude of these details.'

From the 'Trait d' Union published in the city of Mexico June 20th. 1849.

'Mr de la Rosa, (the Mexican Minister at Washington) must know that the principal reproach addrssed to the administration of Mr. Polk, 'The having executed a secret Convention, modifying the Treaty,' was utterly groundles, because, under his own eyes, and probably under his own instructions, this secret Convention was published, immediately after its signature, in all the journals of the Mexican Republic. He must kuow that the pretended protocal was nothing more than the memorandum of a conversation, reduced to writing, and published for effect, to answer Mexican politicial necessities. He must know that Messrs. Clifford and Sevier had no powers to modify the treaty, nor, consequently, to conclude a protocol in the true acceptation of the word; that it was only intended to give simple explanations, destined to inform the Mexican people of the nature of the Amendments of the Senate of the United States to the two articles of the Treaty of Gaudaloupe, and that the Governor of Mexico has never interpreted these explanations otherwise than did Mr. Polk, in his message to the Congress of Washington, on the 8th of February last.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Plainfield as it is.

MESSRS EDITORS:—It has long been a matter of surprise to me that some one of your able correspondents has not given to the public some account of our beautiful Village. While the journals of the day are teeming with the beauties and advan- of other towns, ours is left unnoticed.—And although I am a plain man not given to flattery, and perhaps unable to do the subject justice, still I shall make the attempt; not to gratify my own vanity, but for the information of those who live in crowded, dirty, and sickly places; that they may know where to flee to find health and comfort. Plainfield lies in the centre of an extensive and beautiful plain.—On the South East of the Village runs the Central Railroad, which will compare favorably with any in the State, and over which pass several trains of cars each way daily from New York to Easton &c.

On the North West one mile distant and running parallel with the Village lies a range of green Mountains clothed with verdure from their base to the summit, broken here and there by gorges or defiles into many wild scenes of most picturesque beauty not surpassed in sublimity and grandeur and historic recollections by the mountains of Switzerland. At this season of the year it is especially beautiful with its trees clothed in rich foilage of deep and glorious green, all calculated to fill the mind with gratitude and admiration of Him who created it, and pronounced all things good. On the summit of this mountain may be seen "Washington's Rock," so called from the fact, that here the Father of his country with a band of sturdy yeomanry with the fire of liberty burning in their breasts, watched the movements of those enemies of our country, of liberty, and the rights of man; and although not willing to listen to the voice of reason, were made to quail before the bayonets of freemen, and glad were they to return back to their tyranical master.

From this rock the view is extended many miles over the plains below, and the eye may feast on the fields of the husbandman which by the blessings of Providenc are crowned with glorious beauty and abundance. Plainfield contains about three thousand inhabitants whose chief support is derived from Manufactures, which is done here to a considerable extent, not only by the citizens of the place, but over one thousand persons in the surrounding country are employed in one branch alone by some of our enterprising citizens. There are eight places of public worship to which all are invited to attend. There is a large and well established Free School perhaps second to none in the State; there are also several private schools conducted by competent teachers, which are also well attended. The Village contains two printing presses which issue weekly some hundreds of newspapers (The Press is ever a lever of mighty power, aad when conducted fearlessly, and with the view of the elevation of the human mind, are instruments of great good, and when editors do their duty manfully they should always recieve the approbation and support of the community, and the friends of liberty.) There are also a number of Stores, and trade is carried on to a considerable extent. Plainfield is admired by travellers passing through it on account of its neat and cleanly appearance, and as a place of health perhaps it is not surpassed; in proof of this we have only to allude to the fact that while thousands are fallling by cholea in the cities and villages surrounding us, we have as yet escaped without a single case. Plainfield is well watered, and then such water, one has no need to travel to Saratoga and other celebrated springs for health, for here all can drink their fill without money and without price, and it may be this is the water which the Spaniards so eagerly sought for on this continent in the fifteenth century, the drinking of which was said to renew old age to youth again, at all events it is doubtless just as good.

Plainfield has many advantges and facilities for manufactoring over other places, and persons wishiug to reside in the country and do business in the city, can by living here have every facility for so doing, as they can take the morning train and arrive in New York in time for business, and return again at evening to the bosoms of their families Our village has within a few years grown rapidly, and some wealthy men who have settled among us have beautified it much, with stately buildings, and beautiful gardens. Lots are still cheap and there is yet room for those who are weary with the noise, dirt, and sickness, to which large cities are subject; such as love truth, justice, and equality, will here receive a hearty welcome. I have thus given a faint sketch of Plainfield as it is, and perhaps have come far short of doing it justice, as I profess to be neither critic nor scholar, but a friend to all mankind and

A PLAIN BLUNT MAN.

FREE BREAD.—Among the legacies which the corporation of Trinity Episcopal Church, New-York, has in charge is one made many years ago by John Leahe. He leaves £1,000 with the following instructions:—

'I give and bequeath unto the Rector and inhabitants of the City of New-York, in communion of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in the State of New-York, and their successors, one thousand pounds law ful money of said State, to be by them put out at lawful interests, and the annual income thereof to be laid out in sixpenny wheaten loaves of bread, and distributed on every Sabbath day, in some part of said church, after divine service in the morning. to such poor as to them shall appear most deserving.'

Can the 'oldest inhabitant' inform us if the above injunction was ever complied with? At 6 per ct. per annum, this would provide for the distribution of 73 York sixpenny loaves every Sunday, perpetually—or about 3,800 loaves per annum.—Tribune.

Will the "oldest inhabitant" likewise inform us of any other donation (for the good of the poor) to any corporation, or out of which any corporation was created that was ever applied to the purposes of the donor? Was the noble bequest of Stephen Girard or of Smithson so applied or ever like to be? We should characterize a corporation as an invention of the devil to cheat the people out of their rights; thus at least they ever have been.

Extracts from the N. Y. Tribune.

For the present we may regard the Republican cause as lost, and it is but right to inquire how lost and by whom. One little year ago, Europe seemed on the very point of shaking herself free from kingly and aristocratic domination—just about to hunt Royalty away from the homes of civilized men to fitter haunts in somber Sythian forests or amid Turkish ruins. One little year ago—and now how changed! And changed by whom?

That France has mainly done the evil work, no one seems inclined to dispute. That the Russian, Austrian, and Prussian monarchs should act in concert for the suppression of the spirit of Liberty is but natural, and was to have been expected. You might as well quarrel with a troop of wolves for their partiality to mutton.

The King of Prussia deceived nobody when for a season he quailed before the democratic resolution of his people last year. He meant only that he was in difficulty, and must get out as easily as possible, but get out at any rate. The Austrian Court has acted with more flagrant and glaring perfidy to Hungary than Frederick did to Prussia, because its difficulties have been more complicated and its peril was more imminent. The Czar has promised nothing, because nobody has dared or been able to demand anything of him. But a monarch, though personally humane, truthful and Christian, will dissemble and lie to preserve his power.—Trained to regard the preservation and extension of his sway as essential to his proper dignity and glory, he does not scruple to resort to any amount of dissimulation and treatchery rather than surrender his scepter. Charles I. of England, Louis XVI. of France and many other examples might be cited. It would be absurd, therefore, to expect anything of kings but the most lavish outpouring of blood and treasure to uphold and fortify their own power. Their education is so perverse and blinding, their minds so warped and narrowed, that a monarch who prays devoutly confesses regularly, and is in belief a Cristian,' will order thousands of his people to be mowed down with grape shot for merely demanding the common Rights of Man, and never doubt that he is doing God service. Alas, that the keepers of kings' consciences should teach them no better!

The Pope won't come back.

The correspondent of The Times writes from Rome on the 7th as follows:

I have certain intelligence from Gaeta. to-day. The Pope to whom the keys of Rome had been sent by General Oudinot, returns a very civil answer; but I can state in the most positive manner, that Pio Nomo refuses to come to Rome bound by any conditions whatsoever. It is more than probable that Pio Nomo will never return to Rome, and a hint is given to me that he means to proceed to Bologna, where the Austrians will take care that he may be received as supreme Pontiff and absolute Sovereign.

Trial of the Spanish Consul.

NEW ORLEANS, July 31.

The trial of the Spanish Consul for the abduction of the Spanish boy Rey is progressing to day. The evidence against the Consul is very strong.

Tennesee Election.

NASHVILLE, Monday, Aug. 6.

Gen. Wm. Trousdale, Democrat, is chosen Governor over Neil S. Brown (Whig incumbent) by about 3,000 majority.

Andrew Ewing, Democrat is elected to Congress from the VIIIth (Nashville) District by 78 majority over Wm. Cullom, Whig.

The Whigs lose three Members of Congress, (all they had but two) and both branches of the Legislature. It is a clean sweep.

Rail Road Accident.

On Thursday Morning August 2d as the 6 o'clock train from Philadelphia, via Brunswick, was approaching the Eight-mile Turn-out, about two miles south of Princeton, it was thrown off the track, owing to some misadjustment of the switch and precipitated down an embankment into the canal. The train comprised a number of passengers and heavily laden frieght and baggage cars, all of which came on with great momentum, producing a concussion which instantly demolished the forward 1st and 2nd class passengers cars, driving them completely into one another. Two persons were killed, viz., Mr. Conover, Superintendent of Repairs on the Canal, and a 2nd class passenger, whose name could not be ascertained. From 14 to 17 others were wounded, according to various reports. Among them is Capt. Shippen, mail agent of Bordentown, who was considerably injured in the breast. The mail brought by said train, arrived here late in the afternoon (it was due about noon) cempletely saturated with water and many newspapers entirely destroyed. A telegraphic despatch from Princeton to the N. Y. Agent of the Company, says, 'Dr. Dunn reports 2 killed, 3 dangerously wounded, 4 slightly, 7 severely. Three went on.'

We learn from Princton, that all those wounded by the accident to the railroad on Thursday last are doing well and in a fair way to recover. The locomotive is still in the canal.

Cholera.

Six new cases and three deaths were reported at Newark on Saturday.

No place in the Union has been more sorely afflicted than Sandusky. Out of a population of less than 4,000 (or, rather 2,000 for at least one half the population fled) 400 have died.

Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Aug, 6.

A rag picker was kicked to death last night by a rival in the business. The murderer was arrested and committed to prison by the Coroner.

One of the negroes who fought a duel with knives on Friday, died to-day.

A negro attempted to commit a rape on a married lady at Frankfort last night. The scoundrel was arrested and committed to Moyamensing prison.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Aug. 8

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 00
RYE FLOUR	3 00
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 58
OATS	36 a 38

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	15 a
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM;
OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc. etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No. 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

LOWEST CASH PRICES.

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes: public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

N. B. An entirely new assortment of Dry Goods just opened, cheaper than ever before offered; also Mens and Boys palm-leaf hats, some at 6d. a piece.

A large assortment of Stone and Earthen ware selling at reduced prices.

Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) We charge nothing for this advice.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.
April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needle-work; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B. PETERSON., No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety.
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan 11 1849. 1 y.4.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st at 9 o'clock, A M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.
JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,
Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded.

JAMES ROSS.

July, 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TO LET. 4 HOUSES in Plainfield Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1849. | NO. 35.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

For the Plainfield Gazette.

TUNE—Humours of glen.

Their bowers of sweet spices, let other lands tell,
Where soft southern zephyrs waft wide the perfume;
Where the orange and lime, neath their fruitage are bending,
And their gay-plumaged songsters their voices attune.

But dearer to me are our own northern mountains,
Where the daisy adorns; the plain-fields at its feet;
And our own garden Village, with beauties unvaunted,
Where health, hope and happiness joyously meet.

In their gay sunny vales, rich with perfume and gold,
Their Palaces stand, amid sweet scented lawns—
But the Tyrant there dwells unfeelingly bold;
And the slave in his chains unmanfully fawns.

As he wanders as free as the winds of his mountains,
The brave "Jersey Blue" views them with disdain,
Dispises alike, the gold-bubbling fountains,
The Tyrant and Palace—the Slave and his chain.

Plainfield, August 10. 1849.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

If all who call themselves Christian ministers were actuated by the spirit of our Saviour, how much vice and its attendant, suffering, would be banished from our world. The influence of one person for good or evil who can tell? Who shall calculate the value of the teachings of such men as Wesley, Whitfield, Summerfield and other pure-hearted, noble-minded, god-like apostles, who preached the gospel to the poor without fee or reward?

I have nothing to do with their religious opinions; whether I agree with all they say or did matters not. It is enough for me that they were good men, and sought the welfare of others. They were Christian teachers, and employed all their powers in serving God by doing good to his creatures. They were highly gifted, it is true, but the great secret of their success was in their devotion to the glorious work in which they were engaged. Their fame as orators drew thousands and tens of thousands to hear their eloquent and powerful appeals, but it was because their hearts were alive to promoting the best interests of the immense multitudes which gathered to hear them, that crowned their labors with success. Who that reads and reflects on the services of these apostles of modern times but is grieved that there are no clergymen in our day who are equally useful? Will any one say that we have no teachers equally gifted with learning and eloquence? Is truth less effectual at one time than another? Is there less need than formerly that the truth should be presented to the minds of men? Are all men happy? Do all obey the Savior's commandment—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself"? Is there no ignorance, vice and suffering among mankind? There can be but one answer to these questions.

If you doubt the gifts of our ministers—if you think that they are not equal in learning and oratory to the men to whom I have alluded—put on your best coat and go with me. This edifice—as you may see by an inscription in letters of gold over the entrance—is a Christian church. Let us go in with the crowd. We are not quite as well dressed as they, to be sure, but we can worship God as acceptably as those who are clothed in silk and broadcloth. Let us ask the sexton—that is him with the gold lace on his hat and coat—to conduct us to a seat, for it will not do to enter a pew in this church without the owners permission. It is his property, like his horse or his coach, and, while he worships "Him who dwells in temples not made with hands," he does not wish any one to disturb him. We can hardly realise that this is a Christian church; but even if we cannot believe the inscription over the door we should at least believe when the clergyman commences the services by reading from the Scriptures—"The Lord is in his holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before him."

And yet it does seem odd that it required such an expensive building for the worship of God. While the organ—which alone cost enough to build several large and comfortable churches—is pouring forth its music, look around you on the costly altar, the richly carved pulpit, the painted windows, ornamented walls and splendid chandeliers; and while you are resting on a seat which for softness and beauty—it being covered with costly variegated velvet—rivals the costly sofas of the most wealthy, contrast this with the places in which the Savior first promulgated his doctrines to the world. Ah, we need not wonder that many are attracted to church by this glitter and show, and yet are unaffected with the sublime truths which should be taught in the stately cathedral as well as in the most humble church edifice in the land.

The church, although very large, is filled to its utmost capacity; and while several hundred persons are compelled to keep on their feet—the seats being filled—many hundreds more are unable to obtain an entrance. Rev. Mr. —— is one of our most popular preachers, and never lacks for an audience. He is a great "doctrinal preacher," and his discourse on the present occasion is on one of those topics which divide Christians into Sects, and bring discord and hatred into the church. You perceive he understands his subject; you need not wonder at this for he has given it years of intense study. He can quote everything bearing on his subject, both in the English as well as the Hebrew, Greek and Latin languages. He is argumentative, profound and eloquent. No one thinks of the length of the sermon; even those who are pressed together in the aisles forget their uncomfortable positions. All are astonished, gratified, delighted.

But, think you, are his hearers instructed in their duties as Christians by this discourse? Will they return to their homes with more charity in their hearts than when they went up to worship? Will they be better neighbors; more useful citizens? Will they be more likely to "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord"? Is such preaching calculated to hasten the "good time" when bigotry and intolerance shall be forgotten, and Christians shall love one another as they are commanded?

It is true his hearers were delighted with his oratory, but the larger portion would have been equally as well pleased with a lecture on any other subject. Indeed, we cannot doubt that their time would have been better employed in listening to a lecture on astronomy, phisiology, or any kindred science.

This clergyman might be as useful as those I have named. He is learned, eloquent and can command an audience at any time or place. The announcement that he will preach will always draw thousands to hear him. But who ever heard of any one being benefitted by his labors?

Do you ask the reason of this? It is very simple. Instead of preaching the gospel in the maner in which it was delivered on the mount, and the spirit of which is that "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them"—he is constantly engaged in discussing doctrinal points, which cannot possibly benefit any one. In vain is all learning; his eloquence is employed to no useful purpose. I admit that there are many clergymen who preach the gospel and have nothing to do with splitting hairs in theological disputes. They are deserving of our respect. But where is one who seeks only the good of his hearers and the glory of his Master, it is to be feared that many have more regard for the propagation of some sectarian doctrine.

There must be a change in this respect or our clergy will lose all their influence. Why is it that the preaching of the gospel in our day produces such slight effects? We live in a village of churches with well fed pastors, but are we more pious or better citizens than our neighbors? Are a larger proportion of our citizens Christians now, with our numerous churches, than they were twenty-five years ago, with but two or three? Ah, we must have more charity and less controversy; more practice and less profession; more fellowship and less contention about modes and ordinances, or our religion will prove a mockery and our profession a lie.

J. A. N.

IRELAND.

The Visit of the Queen.

While official persons are preparing to celebrate the visit of the Queen with festivities and illuminations a poet in the Irishman breathes such a welcome to the Royal guest as follows:

THE SECOND ADVENT.

Shout yourselves hoarse, ye supple slaves!
God grant it do you good!
But carpet first the frequent graves,
Nor let the dead intrude—
Make bonfires of those ghastly bones,
That ne'er have buried been,
And drown in Pæan-hymns the groans
Of Scull and Skibbereen!

She comes!! make every window bright
Prepare the worthless show—
'Twould wring her woman's heart outright
To learn one half your woe.
Reveal not how they fled or died
Who loved you to the last;
But lose, in one day's tinsel pride,
The future and the past.

Even while Royal galleys wait
Fair seas, and fav'ring skies;
Far to the south, with doleful freight,
A lonely vessel flies!
Oh! turn your thoughts from all the glare
That cheats your eyes around,
And see your noblest pining there,
Your best and truest bound.

Alas! for them 'tis vain to weep—
Assume a cheerful smile,
And rouse the tones of joy that sleep
Long silent through the Isle—
She knows not, she can never know,
What sufferings ours have been—
The daub with red the cheeks of woe,
And fly to greet the Queen!

From the Journal of Commerce.

The Prisoner.

Long years I've lived in this damp cave,
I'm pale and wan and cold,
My hair is gray, my back is bent—
I'm old, I'm very old.

Yet seems it but a day since I,
All young and bold and free,
Sat gaily at the festive board,
And sang of Liberty.

Rude voices broke our joyous songs,
Rude hands bore me away;
Since then I've heard no friendly sound,
Nor seen the light of day.

Yon little straggling ray that beams
At noon through that small chink,
Is all that ever breaks my gloom—
It bids my heart not sink.

It speaks of happy worlds that lie
Far, far beyond the skies,
And bids me hope my soul shall soon
To those bright regions rise.

PARIS. A. B.

THE SECRET OUT.—A man in New Jersey, by laborious and preserving attention to business, had accumulated a large estate. His neighbors did not fancy his habitual reserve, when his private affairs were the object of inquiry, and they were at a loss to imagine the means, by which he had acquired so much money. One or two, bolder than the rest, whose anxiety became intolerable, at last fairly asked him, 'Mr. A. how did you make so much money?" Now it was out; and our zealous 'Paul Prys' had cornered the adversary, and eagerly awaited his reply. There was an awkward pause; at last Mr. A. spoke The long coveted secret was to be brought to light and circulated on the wings of gossip through the village! Mr. A. replied—'Gentlemen, I ascribe my success to the observance of one rule;—I have always endeavored to MIND MY OWN BUSINESS.'

What word may be pronounced quicker by adding a syllable to it? Quick.

Move the Mass.

To move the mass is the and designed in 'the diffusion of useful knowledge,' for it is to the mass that useful knowledge is most useful; thereby 'to strike over the great gulf betwixt the thrones of creative power, and the humble position of men ignorant poor and forgot.'

The ignorant, the poor, and the forgotten are men, no less than the knowing, the rich, and the famed, and as men, have rights, in the knowledge and security of which they are equally interested. Hence to diffuse useful knwledge and security of which they are equally interested. Hence to diffuse useful knowledge to the mass is the appropriate province of philanthropy.

The knowledge and scuritny of rights is an important step towards the attainment of happiness—the pursuit of all men. The monopoly of knowledge, alike with the monopoly of wealth, tends to consolidate that unjust power by which the many are oppressed by the few; and, as unjust, as well as "just power is derived from the consent of the governed," the diffusion of useful knowledge among the mass may tend to overrule that consent which ignorance yields at the sacrifice of right; and which, when yielded, makes wrong and oppression most galling. "Useful Knowledge" then, and knowledge most useful in promoting the happiness of the mass, and this of all, is the great desideratum.

"As a stone thrown into the sea agitates (it is said) more or less everydrop in the expanse of ocean, so every thought that is cast into the fluctuating bnt ceaseless tide of letters affect the human mind and influence the human condition throughout all the habitable globe, and to the last syllable of time."—Wrights Casket.

A REGULAR 'STICK.'—C. was a cute 'Down-Easter'—a real live Yankee—always ready for a joke, and hard to be beat. He was one day in a country bar-room 'Down-South,' where several persons were assembled, when one of them said:—

'Mr. C., If you go out and stick your pen-knife into anything, when you come back I'll tell you what it's sticking in.'

'Yere can't dew no sich a thing,' responded C.

'I'll bet you ten dollars of it,' said the other.

'Wall, I rather guess I'll take that 'ere bet; here Capting, (turning to the landlord,) hold stakes, and I'll e'en just make half a saw-horse in less than no time.'

The parties deposited an X a-piece, and C, went on his mission, but in a short time returned, saying—

'Wall, nabor, what is it stickin' in?'

'In the handle,' replied the Southener, as he reached out his hand for the stakes.

'Guess not; jest wait awhile,' said the Yankee, as he held up the handle of his knife, minus the blade 'I kalkilate the blade can't be in the handle, when it's driv clean up in an old stump aside of yer road out there.'

Johnathan of course won the wager, and the Southerner sloped to parts unknown, amid roars of laughter.

A class was reciting a lesson in metaphysics,—the chapter on motives operating on the human will,—when a mackerel vender went by, shouting,—'mackerel, fine fat mackerel!' Suddenly disturbed by the noise, the master inquired of the class what motive the man had for making such a noise! No answer being given, he said they must be deaf as haddocs and flat as flounders, not to perceive that it was a sellfish motive.

BONAPARTE, who professed, always to be a Catholic, drew a proper distinction when he undertook to justify himself for imprisoning the Pope. 'His spiritual power,' said he, 'is from above It is beyond my reach. His temporal power, however, was bestowed on him by Charlemagne. I am the successor of Charlemagne, and I have a right to resume this gift; I shall take it away.'

DOUBLE LETTERS.—A pretty little maid of Erin presented herself at the grate of the Post-office the other day, and handing in a letter, modestly asked how much was to pay, as she said, the letter was to her mother, and she wished to pay in advance. The clerk, on receiving it, asked the usual question, 'single or double?' when she replied with the most bewitching naivete at the same time blushing up to the eyes, 'double sir! I was married last week."

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, August 16, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

The more widely and equally property and intelligence is distributed, the more virtuous and happy the people become. The tendency of property and also of knowledge, even without extraneous aid, is to concentrate in few hands; and therefore it should ever be a matter of earnest watchfullness on the part of the people, and more especially of those who get their bread by the sweat of their brow, not to permit any advantages to those who already possess more than an equal share. The sole wealth of the world is the effect of labor, why then should not the laborer reap the largest instead of the smallest share of the benefit?

It is only through the concentration of wealth and knowledge that we have any thing to fear for the liberties of our country. Wealth is the power, a special act of incorporation the fulcrum, and the liberties of the people the object to be overcome. The tinsel and glitter of wealth, as the history of the world proves, has always attracted the admiration and adoration of an uncultivated mind, and even now in our humble village the attempt of the vain to make an outward show of wealth should teach us the danger of its power.

A republican government where all men are declared entitled to equal rights, and that these rights are unalienable, is the only posssible kind of government wherein the people can guard against the encroachments of power, and the instatiate ambition of wealth. Of all countries on the face of the earth there are none where the claims of wealth and aristocracy are more absurd and rediculous. Our government was instituted to guard against the encroachments of power, and all it requires is the honest supervisionary care of the people to effect this object.

And what is the power which the people are called upon particularly to array themselves against? Is it not Monopoly? Is there not a constant encroachment on the rights of the people through the selfishness of man, and the power of wealth to monopolize their unalienable rights?

We have only to refer to Europe for the enormous accumulation of wealth and power into the hands of the few, to the exclusion of the many, for coroboration of the truism at the head of this article.—Here we see concentrated in the hands of kings and priests unlimited power, while the mass are in utter degredation and misery. While the Queen of England is pampered with every luxury the world can produce, flattered by the adulations of a corrupt priesthood, and by a profligate and proud aristocracy, who are rolling in untold wealth and splendor, while the people, those by the sweat of whose brows all this wealth was created are suffered to die by famine and pestilence, unregretted and uncared for by a government which professes to be guided by the spirit of the meek and lowly Jesus. A single reflection on the contrast is all sufficient comment.

If but a small share of the wealth of the world, and which justly belongs to those who created it, were faithfully applied to the dissemination of useful knowledge among mankind, how much more virtuous and consequently happy would all classes become; the accumulation in few hands of property and intelligence as the history of the world abundantly proves, have ever been to produce an overweening pride in its possessors, and an usurpation of the rights of the mass, and their consequent degradation and misery.

In a Republic where every man is or should be a unit in its sovereignty, it behooves us that that unit possesses its share of intelligence, otherwise his share is usurped by the designing, and made use of to his further debasement. How important then the diffusion of knowledge; knowledge uncontaminated by the creeds of sects and parties; how difficult of attainment, yet how important? It requires then that all those who possess a spark of liberality, who can look beyond the petty jealousies of party and sectarian creeds up to the high and holy destiny of man, that they unite their efforts to accomplish so glorious an object.

Mrs. Partington wants to hear a tune from the government organ.

Whitney's Railroad.

The Chamber of Commerce of the City of New York which had previously refered the subject of Whitney's Railroad to a Select Committee, have expressed an opinion decidedly favorable to the project, and have adopted a resolution expressly recommending it to the prompt attention of Congress. The plan of the road is as follows:

"The public lands for 30 miles wide on each side of the contemplated road—estimated, for the whole extent, at about 80,000,000 of acres, are to be set aside and appropriated to him for this object—Mr. Whitney paying therefor, at the rate of ten cents per acre, after the road shall be completed. Congress is to regulate and establish the rate of tolls, but the road, when completed is to belong to Mr. Whitney and his associates.

After an animated debate in the Chamber of Commerce, which was participated in by Messrs. Ogden, Whetmore, Lee, and other members of the Chamber, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The construction of a Railroad to connect the Atlantic with the Pacific in a direct line across the Continent, has become of vital importance; and, whereas, the plan of Mr. A. Whitney, of New-York, for the construction of such a communication, in its leading features, as well as the favor it has met with from a large portion of the people, disembarrasses the undertaking from sectional and constitutional objections which so often have impeded internal improvemennts. Therefore,

Resolved, That we highly approve the great features of Asa Whitney's plan for the construction of a Railroad from Lake Michigan to the Pacific, and that we earnestly recommend its immediate adoption to Congress.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to our United States Senators and members of Congress from this district.

We have it here recommended by so respectable a body of men as the Chamber of Commerce, that so enormous a Monopoly as that of Mr. Whitney be adopted. But will the people even through so specious a pretext as this ever sanction so monstrous an usurpation of their rights? Let but a project to grant to actual settlers who shall improve this land by cultivation be started, and the idea is hooted at, while any thing in the shape of a monopoly is encouraged. We trust the people will watch with jealous eye all attempts to create so monstrous a monopoly, whether by an individual, by a company, or by the general government.

It has ever been through some specious pretext like this that the people have been cheated out of their rights. Doubtless a Railroad to the Pacific connecting with our Lakes and the internal commerce of the Country, and also with Europe would be of incalculable advantage, securing as it wonld to us the advantages of the shortest route across the continent between Asia and Europe, and thus secure to us the benefits arising from the great travel and trade between the most important points of the globe. But it is far better to do without all these advantages than that we should create a power independent of the people, a power that should be able to rule the destinies of mankind; let us do without these advantages rather than create a power that shall be stronger than the people. History should give us sufficient warning to beware of all such experiments.

Here it is proposed to give to one man and his associates a tract of land 60 miles wide, (30 on each side of the road) estimated at about 80,000,000 of acres! or at the rate of 384,000 acres for every ten miles! to him and his associates forever!

Can it be possible that any man in a republican government will ever countenance by a serious thought, to say nothing about a vote, a project giving to any man or company, or government so enormous a power, let the recommendation come from as respectable a source as it may? Without this road can be built by some plan of free competition and for the sole benefit of the people as a nation, let it forever remain as it now is.

News from California.

The news from California is abundant and goes to confirm all previous accounts both pro and con, every one setting forth his own experience and success. There is a report of the probable loss of the Dolphin, John R. Clark, Samuel Crane, and Charles Alston of Newark were supposed to be on board of her, eiyhteen dead bodies have been found on the coast. The Ship Philadelphia was entirely consumed by fire in the harbor of San Francisco, she was 543 tons register, hailed from New York, and was under charter by Messrs. Howland & Aspinwall of that city, she was insured for $15,000, and was to have sailed on the 1st of July for Manilla, via the Sandwich Islands.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—After perusing the remaks in your paper last week, on the beauties and advantages of Plainfield, I was induced to visit the enchanted spot. I found that the place and every thing around answered precisely to the description given; and I had almost determined to come and settle among your inhabitants, when it occurred to me that the place with all its advantages, was yet wanting in something to make it more attractive, at least in the winter season; namely a pavement. The walks do well enough for the sunny Summer, but when that dreary, cold, rainy season Winter sets in, then you must be shut up in the house, or if you venture out it must be at the risk of being mired or getting wet feet, and bringing in quantities of mud upon the ladies carpet, thus not only soiling them but which is a greater evil or more expensive at least, wearing them out much sooner. Why do not the ladies give their husbands a few hints concerning this subject and show them, that if they would all unite in putting their mites together, they might very easily have a good pavement extending the whole length of the vilage, at very little expense for each individual. You would derive many advantages from this improvement. The instructors of the youths would be less annoyed with dust arising from the floors of their school rooms every time their classes move to and from their desks. The young gentlemen would enjoy more their walks home with the ladies on dark evenings from church; your domestics would not need to scrub so much, thereby wasting time and wearing out strength; and it would also greatly increase the value of property. Let the citizens of Plainfield consider this matter and if, in a few months I should visit this place again and find that this improvement has been made, they will hear that a house and lot have been purchased by

A STRANGER.

The Temperance Lecture.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—According to notice given by handbills posted throughout the Village that Gen Riley one of the Ex-V. Presidents of the N. Y. State Temperance Society, wanted 1000, men to hear an address in front of your office on the subject of Temperance, I was among others induced to attend. The meeting was not very large nor very enthusiastic, although conducted with the utmost decorum and great good humor. But like many other matters which concern the public, the god of this world so interfered as to blind the people to their true interest, and when this is the case it is a very difficult matter for truth to have any effect; self interest and prejudice were suffered to outweigh the general good. As the speaker very truly remarked; "prejudice never hears but one side of a question; if you ask such men, what do you know about it? why Jacob told me so! the tavern-keeper told me so! the priest told me so! the politician told me so! The lecturer like some few whom history speaks of, endeavored to advocate man's true interest by advocating with too much truth his rights, which in this age of the world as well as under the Roman Governor it is too painfully evident is unpopular, therefore so few have the moral courage to advocate any thing so unpopular and unfashionable as truth, none but those who dare run the risk of being called a madman or an infidel will do so! You may advocate whigism, locofocoism, or any other kind of ism, but truth is too unpopular for the moral courage of most men, and therefore it is but rarely attempted. C.

ALBERT GALLATIN, the venerable statesman and sage, died on Sunday morning, at the house of his son-in-law, in Aristora, aged 88 years and 6 months and 15 days. His funeral will take place at Trinity Church on Tuesday at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Gallatin, who lived to a great age, died a few months since.

☞ A Terrible Accident at Camden occurred on Saturday afternoon last, in which one man was instantly killed and several others severely injured. A new three story brick building owned by Timothy Newell, in consequence of a defective foundation, suddenly gave way while the workmen ware engageed in plastering the parlors on the first floor, eompletely overwhelming them with the tons of brick and mortar of which the building was composed, not a vestige of the walls being left above ground.

The whole neighborhood was immediately alarmed, and by the vigourous efforts of the by-standers the bodies of the laborers were exhumed from the mass of ruins, being four in number. Levi Cook, colored, was already dead; R. Cheeseman, plasterer, had his collar bone terribly fractured and Alex Griscom and J. Lucas also plasterers, were internally injured but will doubtless recover.

Anti-Monopoly Meeting.

According to adjournment, a respectable number of the citizens of the County of Sussex, met at the American Hotel, on the evening of the 8th of August, and organized themselves by the appointment of VICTOR M. DRAKE, Chairman, and John Rorback, Jr. Secretary. Mr. Drake, upon taking the chair, briefly explained the object of the meeting, stating that the main purpose for which they were convened was the selection of delegates to attend the Anti-Monopoly State Convention to be held at Trenton, on the 5th of September next. The matter of choosing delegates to represent this county in the State Convention at Trenton, on the 5th of September next, was then taken up, and upon motion of David Ryerson, Esq, who observed that this was no political movement, but one which affected both parties alike, it was resolved that an equal number of delegates be selected from the Whig and Democratic ranks. Whereupon David Ryerson, Isaac Shiner, Thomas Lawrence, John J. Cooper, Aaron H. Kelsey, Whitfield S. Johnson, Wm L. Smith, C. M. Halsted, Jos. A. Osborne, Victor M. Drake, Jas. H. Struble, Jonathan Whitaker, John H. Nelden, R. R. Morris, and Henry K. Winans were appointed.

Among other resolutions passed was the following:

Resolved, That the giving of free tickets to Editors of newspapers, members of the Legislature, Judges and other public functionaries, is an indirect bribe corrupting in its tendency, and that the accepting of the same is derogatory to the character of an upright and independent man; and that the sanctioning of it by legal enactment, as was done by the Legislature at its last session, is destructive of equal rights and practically establishes a "privileged class" at the expense of the many, and ought to be abolished.

V. M. DRAKE, Chairman.

JOHN RORBACK, JR., Secretary.

MONOPOLIES—PUBLICATION OF THE LAWS.—The origin of all the frauds practised upon the people of New Jersey has sprung mainly from the non-publication of the laws of the State, in the abscence of which the people were kept in ignorance of the encroachments of the Monopoly.—Had the Legislature of that State passed an act authorising the publication of the laws of each session in the County papers of the State, then the people would have known these Monopoly Companies were acting in violation of their charters, and a stop would long since have been put to their impositions. The practice in vogue with the Monopoly members of the legislature has always been to prevent the people from knowing what powers and privileges were confered upon them at each annual legislative session, in addition to those obtained in their original charter by refusing to make public their acts; by this means the people have been completely duped and hood-winked out of their rights, and may always expect to be so long as they tolerate their representatives in keeping their acts hidden in the dark. —Pike Co. (Pa.) Democrat.

Incendiary Fires &c.

ST. LOUIS. Aug. 13.

An unsuccessful attempt was made last evening, to burn the Steamer 'Whirlwind' as she was leaving this port. Three state rooms were fired. Mc. Guire's steam saw-mill was burned down on Thursday night, loss $6,000, insured—the work of an incendiary. A great Democratic meeting has been held at Palmira, at which Benton was repudiated. Another at Platte City. Birch and Benton addressed the different meetings, and at both resolutions were adopted to suit themselves, and there was much excitement. The steamer Tamerlane has just arrived from the Yellow-Stone, and brings intelligence that a great number of Indians had died of Cholera at the head of the river—also, that the Platte River Indians, on the Missouri, were at war among themselves, and that the Sioux had made an attack upon Grosventures village, but were repulsed. They threaten, however, to return and renew the attack and exterminate their adversaries, together with the traitors at the Fort locatd there. The Railroad from Meredosia to Quincy, Ill., has been sold by Gov. French for $1850, to a Quincy company. There were three fires in this city last night, but little damage was done. Two of them were small offices attached to lumber yards. The rivers are falling.

The Directors of the Free Academy in New York, have adopted Phonography as one of the studies of that institution. Its advantages are becomeing more appreciated every day, and before long it will be an indispensable element of education.

The value of steamboats built and registered in Pittsburg exceeds two and a half million of dollars, and the annual value of property of all kinds on the river to which its citizens stand in the relation of owners consigners, &c., cannot fall short of forty millions.

☞ A person, trying to impress upon another the uncertainty of human speculation, observed—'They might be compared to a pot of eels in the river, you could not tell how many there were till you took them up and counted them.'

There is a great mortality among fowls in and near Cincinnatti, and nearly all brought to market one morning died on the farmer's hands.

Election Returns.

The State of Iowa has gone Democratic by a large majority.

MINESOTA.—Mr. Sibley has been reelected to Congress without opposition. The Legislature was chosen without regard to party.

The result of the Congressional elections in North Carolina is the same as before, viz: 6 Whigs and 3 Democrats. In Kentucky there is a nett Democratic gain of one member; in Indiana a nett Democratic gain of two members, besides a Democratic Free Soiler; and in Tennessee a nett Democratic gain of two or three. These gains are sufficient to give the Democrats a small majority in the House, if the members yet to be heard from should be politically the same as in the last Congress.—The Democrats, however, are more likely to gain than lose, in these remaining members. The Tribune, we see, gives up the house; the Senate is also Democratic.

Cholera.

New-York, Aug. 13--105 cases, 41 deaths.

Brooklyn' Aug. 13—35 cases 16 deaths.

Philada. Aug. 13—17 cases, 10 deaths.

Albany, August 13—56 cases, 11 deaths, during the last 48 hours ending this day at noon.

Boston, Aug. 13—29 deaths in the last 48 hours.

CARLISLIE, Pa. Aug. 13.

Gen. Taylor was taken ill on his arrival here, but prompt medical aid rendered him able to proceed to Chambersburg.

BUFFALO, Aug 13.

The steamer Empire State sprung a leak on her passage up Lake Michigan on Thursday morning last during a severe gale. Every effort was made to keep her afloat with her pumps, but it was fouud impossible, and she was run ashore just below the "Sleeping Bear," where she now lies in nine feet of water It is feared that she will be a total loss. The passengers and crew were all saved.

Emigrants—Progress of the Cholera.

ST. LOUIS, Wednesday, Aug. 8.

The pioneer train of California emigrants reached fort Kearney in ten days from Independence, and will probably overtake the first train.

The cholera has disappeared from most of the towns on the Missouri. There is some increase of the disease in this city, during the last few days, though but few of the cases proved fatal. The weather is rainy.

There is a strong movement on foot to reestablish the Quarantine.

CINCINNATI, Wednesday, Aug. 7

The improvement which has taken place in the health of our city, allows the Board of Health to make tri-weekly instead of daily reports.

Horrible Murder and Suicide.

CHARLESTON, Friday, August. 10.

Mr. George Dye, residing near Feasterville in this State, for some unknown cause, shot his wife, killing her instantly, then killed himself. His children were eye-witnesses to the horrible scene.

The Plattsburg Fire.

BURLINGTON, (Vt.) Aug, 11

The fire at plattsburg has proved far more disastrous and extensive than was anticipated.

The village is nearly in ruins; 65 buildings were burnt, among which were 30 stores of our principal business men, such as L. Myres, D. Ketchum, Vilas & Crosby, & Sons, Mr. R. Platt & Co. Bailey, Fitch & Cook, Nicholas & Lynde, W. H. Morgan & Son, T. Convoy, W. Reed, jeweller, and S. T. Vilas. The Post-Office and Bank are also reported burned. The loss is immense. A considerable portion was covered by insurance, but a vast amount was not.'

Four boys died very suddenly in a brick yard near Newburg, N. Y., on Tuesday. They were very much exhausted by labor in the sun, drank copiously of ice water, and were all corpses in fifteen minutes thereafter.

There is not a book so cheap as a newspaper; none so interesting because it consists of a variety measured out in suitable portions as to time and quality. Being new every day, it invites to habits of reading, and affords, an easy way of acquiring knowledge so essential to the individual and community. It causes many an hour to pass away pleasantly, and profitably, which would otherwise have been spent in idleness and mischief.

DEBATEABLE.—The general denunciation of Rose bugs by the owner of fruit trees, brings in mind the following extract from the journal of the Rev. Mr. Bigelow, in 1794. 'To-day picked my Isabella grapes; crop much injured by attack of rosebugs in the Spring. Query.—Whether Noah was justifiable in preserving this class of insects'—Cleveland Herald.

A Boston barber advertises to shave anything—even 'the face of nature.'

Robbery.—On friday Morning last, about 10 o'clock, a gang of six strolling negroes from Philadelphia, entered and robbed the house of Edward Rinear, on the Delaware, about four miles above Burlington, of a watch, clothing bedding, &c. The family was about the farm, and on their return to the dwelling, discovering their loss, pursued the squad of negroes, who had been noticed in passing. After parleying some time, one of them turned informer and charged another with having the watch hid in his boot. The gang scattered, but were all arrested the same morning They had a hearing in the afternoon before A. W. Archer, Esq., who committed them all to Mount Holly jail to take their trial at next court.—Burlington Gazette.

Burglarious Attempt.—On Wednesday night last, about 12 o'clock, a clored man called at the house of Mr. Eli Adams, a short distance from town, and asked for a drink; and being somewhat excited by liquor, Mr. Adams gave him a half-dollar to leave, fearing that he would disturb Mrs. Adams, who is confined to bed by sickness. He then left. At about 2 o'clock next morning, Mr. A. was alarmed by some person breaking into the house; he immediately seized a club and met the burglar about half-way through the window, which was broken to pieces, and after getting a few blows at him, succeeded in ejecting him The ruffin then procured some bricks, which he threw at the house, fortunately without injuring any of the inmates. In the meantime, Mr. A. dispatched the nurse who was tending his wife to alarm a neighbor who came with a loaded gun, which Mr. A. discharged at him, with the view, of intimidating or crippling him, as he could have shot him dead, being but a few yards distant. Seeing he was not injured, the sconndrel made another attack with bricks; but Mr A. having help. succeeded after a fierce scuffle, in capturing him, when he proved to be the same man who had received the half-dollar from him but two hours previous. After a hearing before Edward Vanmeter, Esq., he was committed yestereday morning. He was considerably wounded in the scuffle; which added to his maimed condition, he wanting several fingers and toes, presented a horrible spectacle. He said his name was George Johnson, and did not endeavor to make any defence. We learn he had been an inmate of the Country Poor House for some time. Mr. Adams' courage and self posession is highly commendable.—Salem Sunbeam.

A Post Office has been established at Fair Mount, Hunterdon County, in this State, and P. T. B. Emmons, Esq, appointed Postmaster. This place, formerly known as 'Vesceliu's Store,' is about 3 1-2 miles north of New Germantown.

We learn from New-Orleans, that Rey, the abducted Spaniard, was daily expected to arrive, and to give testimony in his own case.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Aug. 15

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 25
RYE FLOUR	3 00
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 60
OATS	36 a 38

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62 1-2
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	16 a 18
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc. etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No. 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

AN UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

FROM THE INFANCY OF MANKIND TO THE PRESENT TIME. By G. C. Hebbe, L. L. D. Now ready 1st volume bound in cloth.—Price $1.75 and to be continued in monthly parts, until finished, five numbers forming a volume 25 cents per number.

The author of this work seems to have had in constant view the celebrated treaties of Lucian—"How a history ought to be written." Truth in its severity, and reason in its manly state are the chief Muses and graces to which he has done obedience. What a different view has been presented to us by other historians. No wonder that the numbers already issued have met with a large sale, and have been hailed by frequent laudatory notices of the press, of which abridged extracts are here subjoined.

[From the Democratic Review.]

This beautiful octavo--the first volume of Dr. Hebbe's Universal History—forms the initial volume of a new and greatly improved work, devoted to the history of the Universe, based not merely upon the usually received data of former historians but derived from the best authorities, attested by revelations of modern discovery. The recent researches in archœelogy by Chevalier Bunsen, and other learned investigators, among ancient monumental records, have so entirely changed the aspect of primitive times and revealed so many important new data, that the wonder has been not that such a work as the present should make its appearance but rather that the task should not have been before attempted in Europe. From a somewhat careful examination of this volume, however, we find no cause to regret that the theme should have been reserved for the judicious and laborious press of Dr. Hebbe. To such as cannot command the leisure of more systematic course of study, this work proves eminently important and valuable, since, when completed, it will form a compendious library of universal history, the most accurate and complete extant, and written up to the spirit of the age.

[From the N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 23.]

In regard to the literary execution of this work we have spoken as the numbers appeared but not as fully as its merits deserve. Now, on re-examination, we hesitate not to pronounce that this volume, as a history of the earliest period of mankind, has no rival in any single work of universal history in the English language.

[From Graham's Magazine.]

The author of the Universal History, now in publication, judging from the portion already published, is equal to his task. He comes to it prepared by twenty years of study, and a familiar acquaintance with all the necessary authorities, not only those to whom we look for solid records of facts, but those who have gone beneath the surface of events, and tracked the source of politicial convulsions by a thousand pulses, back to the hidden heart of some great principle.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Hebbe by availing himself of the light of which the Egyptian hierologists and other investigators of antiquity, have shed on the earliest history of man, by means of his vast erudition enabling him to avoid the errors of compilers, and to draw from the original and most undoubted sources of authority, and by his acute judgment, his liberal philosophy, his deep sympathy with humanity, and his enthusiastic love for his favorite study has produced what may be termed in many respects an original history of the infant nations of the world. The work is written in the most enlarged and liberal spirit, while the author rejects the supersition of the ancient priesthood he is a stout defender of the immortal and sublime truths of Christianity.

[From the N. Y. True Sun.]

The style of Dr. Hebbe, though writing in a tongue foreign to him, is always flowing and animated, sometimes picturesque and sometimes even eloquent and sublime.

This work appears in monthly numbers —seven numbers now ready

A liberal discount to the trade. Sent by mail to to any part of the country.

Dewitt & Davenport, Tribune Buildings, Nassau-street New-York.

☞ Papers inserting the above three times, including this notice and noticing the nos. as they appear, will have the back nos sent to them by forwarding a copy of their paper to the publishers marked. Also receive the numbers as fast as published.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

THOMAS A. MORTON,
ABRAHAM A. KING.
WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,

Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

A fellow out west having been challenged lately to mortal combat, selected as his weapons, two huge plates of green cucumbers, cut in slices with vinegar, and a full dozen green apples, to each plate as a desert. His opponent backed out.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
" " Thresher	$28
" Separator and fixtures,	$7
" Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

N. B An entirely new assortment of Dry Goods just opened, cheaper than ever before offered; also Mens and Boys palmleaf hats, some at 6d. a piece.

A large assortment of Stone and Earthen ware selling at reduced prices.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14 77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.
April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers —price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B. Peterson, No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr. S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

MERCHANT TAILORS,

And dealers in Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Fancy dress articles &c.

No. 316 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

BEG leave to announce to their friends and the public, and particularly to their customers, in this and the adjoining Counties, that in addition to the regular Fashions they have made full arrangements for the purpose of keeping themselves in the constant receipt of the various novelties of the London and Paris markets. This is done with the view of rendering their assortment still more attractive to their numerous patrons, a continuance of whose favors they will endeavor to merit by an adherence to moderate charges, and by rendering the style and character of their garments second to no house in the trade. Their stock of goods for wear comprises all the various new and approved styles in vogue.

Spring and Summer

In the way of Ready made Garments—we shall have an unusually extensive supply, consisting of our well known styles of sacks, peltos, dress and frock coats, pantaloons, vests, cloaks, &c. with a collection of the richest fancy dress articles, including silk and satin scarfs and cravats, handkerchiefs, gloves, suspenders, half-hose, shirts, silk under-shirts, under drawers, &c.

Country customers who may purchase ready made clothing at our establishment, are assured that it is all made under our immediate supervision, and will be cheerfully warranted.

Our facilities for filling all orders enable us to fit and furnish complete suits at a remarkably brief notice. Call and see.

Newark, May 1. 1849. [33.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

HARDWARE.

ALFRED F. LAGRAVE,

210 Greenwich, corner of Barclay street, New York.

IS now opening his Spring supply of goods consisting of every article in the LINE which he offers on the very lowest cash prices; he would therefore solicit purchasers from this vicinity to favor him with a call. Always on hand

Best Cut and Wrought Nails,

Ames & Rowland's, Shovels and Spades: Field's Tacks, Brads, and Sparables; Harris's grass and grain Scythes, Dunn's grass and grain Scythes; hay and manure Forks; best wood Screws and Hinges; knob, till and closet Locks; best Shoe Thread; Hoes and Rakes; Files and Edge Tools; best London Emery; Coopers Glue; Table and Pocket Knives; Gun Powder, Shot and Caps; Wade & Butcher's Rasors; best Turkey Oil Stone; Brushes and Cordage; Britannia and Plated Ware; German Silver Ware; Hollow Ware, Tin'd and Enameled; Coffee and Spice Mills; Tea Trays; Scales and Patent Ballances; Bath Brick; Screens and Scieves; Molasses Gates; Stair Rods; Plains, Pick Axes and Crow Bars; Japaned Tin Ware; and

California Mining Tools

of every Description

March, 1849. [13.3m.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,
Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

STRAYED

FROM the subscriber a large light bay mare, about 16 hands high, 12 or 15 years old, has a touch of the heaves, the hair of the tail has been docked off with a knife, was last heard of at Scotch Plains; whoever will return said mare to the subscriber at Union Farms, or send a line through the mail stating where she may be found shall be reasonably rewarded.

JAMES ROSS.

July, 1849.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1Y

THE ESSEX STANDARD,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published at Elizabethtown, N. J. is an excellent medium through which professional men, merchants, mechanics, and others can make known their wishes to all classes of society in that section of the State, as it is distributed gratuitously at every dwelling and place of business in Elizabethtown, Elizabethport and many copies in the country. The terms of advertising (which are very liberal) will be made known at the office, at Mr. E. Drake's store, near the Railroad depot.

☞ Letters from a distance (if by mail prepaid) will receive prompt attention.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1849. | NO. 36.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Those Pretty Stars!

Those pretty stars! those pretty stars!
How many a tale their beauties tell,
Of sweet society, and peaceful hours,
Passed with those I loved so well.

Those stars in beauty still will stay,
With that soft unvarying light,
But hearts that throbbed have fled away,
To climes of death—of endless night.

And so 'twill be in after days,
That peaceful light they still will shed,
And others hymn their falling rays,
When I am mingled with the dead.

M.

How Jenks caught the Cholera.

Mr. Jenks was a small man, rather inclined to obesity. He had a full, round, red face, a short, neck, indicative of apoplexy, and wore a white hat. Jenks prided himself on his temperance; but he had a mortal horror of total abstinance societies and was suspected of sometimes taking a drop too much. Indeed his affection for the glass might be read in his countenance, for the carbuncle glowed in all its flaming beauty. One day in last September, as he was waddling along St. Charles st, he imagined that he felt a slight twinge in the abdominal regions. Visions of cholera and collapse, camphor and red pepper, mustard and opium, were immediately conjured up in his mind. In the excitement of the moment, he seized his friend Snooks, who happened passing, and informed him in a mysterious whisper that he had good reason to believe that he—Jenks—had the cholera.

'Well my dear fellow said snooks,—'take some brandy and peppermint.'

Jenks acquiesced; 'he wasn't in the habit of indulging in the use of ardent spirits; but in these times one scarcely knew when he would be called upon to kick the bucket.'

Upon this the two friends entered the Exchange and called for brandy and peppermint. While the interesting ceremony of touching glasses was being performed, 'Snooks,' said Jenks, 'what are the first symptons of cholera?'

'Well, I believe the first symptons are a violent cascading, just as if you had taken a powerful emetic.'

Having drained his glass Mr. Jenkins turned to depart, but scarcely had he reached the door when he became deathly pale, his lips quivered, his limits faltered, he was seized with a sudden nausea which affected him in precisely the manner indicated by his respected friend Snooks. The Brandy was soon ejected and the unfortunate man sank into a chair, exclaiming. 'I've got the cholera, I've got the cholera, what shall I do?' 'Send him home' said Snooks. 'Give him some more brandy and peppermint,' interposed the bar keeper. 'Rub him with mustard,' ejaculated a third. 'Send for the doctor,' suggested a fourth. The latter proposition was after some debate adopted. A physician was sent for and shortly appeared. He felt the sick man's pulse, looked at his tongue, asked how he felt, and then with a wise shake of the head pronounced it a decided case of cholera. A cab was summoned, Jenks was put into it by his kind friends, and with Mr. Snooks beside him, was driven home. Arrived there, Jenks, who, by this time felt a little better, mounted the steps and pulled, the bell. The summons was quickly attended to By Mrs J. in person.

'Why, gracious me! what is the matter, Mr. Jenks?'

The individual thus addressed did not deign to reply, but staggered past his better half and threw himself on a sofa.

'Take off my boots, Mrs. Jenks.'

'For heavens sake what ails you, Mr. Jenks?'

'Mrs. Jenks, take off my boots.'

'Can't you say what's the matter?'

'Madam, your husband has the cholera, and if you don't take off his boots, before five minutes, he'll be in a collapse, an then madam, you'll be a widow, and my life isn't insured, let me tell you,' Here Mr J. had a return of the nausea, and rolling up his eyes declared he felt the cramps coming on. No time was lost in divesting him of his clothes, when he was carried to bed with the assistance of the benevolent Mr. Snooks, who seemed a very unaffected spectator of the moving scene. Two Physicians were called in, and the patient was dosed with the usual remedies. He was rubbed with mustard and pepper, dipped in a warm bath, and in fact, all kinds of horrid mixtures, potions, lotions, pills and draughts, were successfully administered to him, secundem artem, as the doctors say,—which means that poor Jenk's inside was for the nonce turned into an apothecary's shop, without however, its order and regularity. Happily, Jenks had the constitution of a horse, or he never could have digested so much physic with impunity. He finally recovered, although on his first apperance in the street, it was remarked that his corpulence had much diminished, and the carbuncles had entirely lost their fiery hue. He frequently boasts of his narrow escape from falling a victim to the dreadful pestilenc. But there are those who know that on the day that he was attacked, Snooks had dexterously mixed a little ipecachuana with the brandy and peppermint, which his friend so innocently imbibed as a preventive. Jenk's nervous temperament led him first to imagine himself ill, and then, his very good natured friend, to whom he imparted his fears played off on him the practical joke which we have narrated.—N. O. Picagune.

A STREET INCIDENT.—Passing along one of the minor streets of our city, yesterday, for the purpose of making observations on human nature, we saw two elderly ladies and a swarm of children standing and playing at the entrance of a court. At the same time, a foreigner with a box on his back was going by, but was hailed by one of the ladies and asked if the box contained music?

'No Madame,' answered the foreigner, 'it is von most magnificent show. It 'ave got Sheneral TAYLOR and all his shoulders flog de Mexican—I Mexican myself, Madame, but I var not in de fight, so it var not my fault my countrymans got vipped. Only one cent, Madame, for Sheneral TAYLOR see, and his horse Vitey—and all toder heroes. You look in, Madame?'

'No,' answered the spokeswoman, 'I thought it was music. I don't want to see General TAYLOR—General TAYLOR has got no office for me. Hav'nt you nothing else?'

'Oh yes Mame—I got every ting else—I got the California goold mine. Show you how they dig up de gold vid shovel and wheelbarrow. Let you see great big pile goold—three hundred million dollars—all for one cent.'

'What good will it do me to see it, you old fool unless I could get my flippers on it? I want to see something funny.'

'Vell, here I'ave got Mr. CLAYTOON and all de Sheneral TAYLOR Cabinet, drinking de vine and telling de Sheneral who must be poot out and who must be poot in.—You look at dem Madame, for von cent?'

'No—what's the use of looking at them? They can't put me out. Why don't you carry something woth seeing? Have you got no monkey?'

Just at this moment we passed out of hearing, but we had heard enough to convince us that popularity is a thing which great men must divide with apes and baboons, and that the larger share sometimes falls to the latter. A monkey would have been more 'available' in this instance than all the illustrious representative automaton which the show-man had in his box—and we rather think the old lady was in the right.—Pennsylvanian.

'SHE BEARS.'—The principal of an Academy in an advertisement, mentioned his female assistant, and the 'reputation for teaching which she bears;' but the printer—careless fellow—left out the 'which,'—so the advertisement went forth commending the lady's reputation for 'teaching she bears.'

"The prospect of heaven, itself," says Cooper, in one of his novels, "would have no charm for an American of the backwoods, if he thought there was any place further west."

Perilous Balloon Ascent and Descent.

On the 25th ult. Mr. Green the veteran æronaut with his wife and several other individuals made an ascension with his great Nassau Balloon, from Vauxhall, London. After ascending some distace into the air, it came down again rapidly. Mr. Green, who was seated in the, car, perceiving the extreme danger, commenced emptying the sand bags of ballast as quick as he possibly could, but even this did not prevent the gradual sinking. On passing over St. George's road, near West-square, the balloon landed on the roofs of houses Nos. 94 and 95, on the north side of the London road. The car, in which seven of the œrounats were seated, struck the front of the house with considerable violence, so much so that three of the persons who were standing on the hoop were thrown forward on the roof, which fortunately happened to be a flat one, but the fourth clung to the net-work of the balloon. The machine being thus relieved from the weight of three of its occupants, and having escaped perforation, instantly rose into the air to a considerable altitude, when a fresh current of air carried it in a southernly direction, apparently towards Croyden. A messenger afterward arrived at Vauxhall gardens, conveying the information that, after passing over a great portion of the county of Kent, the balloon was safely settled upon terra firma in an open field, within half a mile of Erith Church.

The Mistaken Critics.

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH.

A gentleman had a portrait painted, and wished to get the opinions of his friends, as to its correctness. 'This cannot be your portrait,' said one, 'it bears no resemblance to you, whatever. The painter is an ignorant fellow, he has painted you dark, while you are very fair' 'It represents you old and ugly,' said another, 'and without flattery, you are young and good looking.' 'The eyes are too small,' said a third; 'the portrait must be retoucheed.'

The painter, finding it useless to attempt to convince them that it was well done, paints another, and succeeds to his own perfect satisfaction. But he is again disappointed, for the friends condemned it sans ceremonie. 'Very well gentlemen' said the painter, 'you shall be satisfied. I pledge myself to paint a picture that shall please you, or I will paint no more. Come tomorrow and you shall see.'

The connoiseurs departed, and the painter said to the gentleman, 'your friends are a crowd of ignorant critics. If you desire I will prove it to you. I will remove the head of the portrait, and you shall put yours in its place.' 'Very well' said the gentleman, 'I consent.'

On the next day, the troupe of wiseacres assembled, to inspect the portrait. It was shown to them in a dark corner and at a little distance.

'Well, messieurs, how do you like the picture now?' asked the painter. 'What do you think of it? I have retouched the head with great care.'

'It was useless for us to return,' said they, 'for you show us nothing but a sketch. That is not at all our friend.'

'You are mistaken, messieurs, for it is your friend himself.—Cassville (Ga.) Standard.

Facts for Mechanics.

St. Paul was a mechanic; a tent-maker.—Our Saviour was a mechanic; a carpententer.—The great Architect of the universe, in the mechanism of the heavens and earth, with its productions, animate and inanimate, displays, a power and skill which human hands and human wisdom may attempt to imitate, but which they can never equal or approach.

Next farmers, mechanics are the most numerous and the most important class of the community. Whatever promotes their interests, of course promotes the interests of the public. They, like farmers, have great facilities and great inducements to become men of science and sound knowledge. Every mechanic in every operation, brings into usesome principles of science; which principle it is of course, his interest and his convenience to understand.

Every apprentice boy, no matter how assidious or how rigorous his employment if he spends a few minutes daily in useful reading and other modes of improvement, is certain to be a man of future influence and respectability. That apprentice who seeks most assidiously the interests of his employer, promotes most effectually his own interest; as character in the best capital a young man can have for the commencement of business.

Mechanics, like farmers, make safe and enlightened statesman. They are well educated fyr legislators, and for other offices, because educated in schools of experience Who can be better qualified to make laws for aiding the operations of business than those engaged in those operations.

Ship and Wale Collision.

The packet ship Hibernia on her late voyage from this port to Liverpool while going through at a furious rate, struck full in the head an immense sperm whale, which flinging himself half out of the sea before he sought his depth, struck his assailant with his enormous flukes.

The whale was supposed to be instantly killed for the water around the ship's stern was completely discoloured with blood and oil. No hurt was done to the ship.

It is supposed the whale she struck was either ill or sleeping on the surface. The oldest seamen in the Hibernia had never witnessed nor heard of a similar occurrence. For hours after this accident a solitary whale was seen roving around our vessel, and spouting, doubtless in search of his murdered mate.

Do not Despise Small Things.

The possibility of a great change being introduced by very slight beginnings, may be illustrated by a tale which Lockman tells of a vizier, who having offended his master, was condemned to perpetual captivity in a lofty tower. At night his wife came to weep below his window. 'Cease your grief,' said the sage; 'go home for the present and return hither when you have procured a live beetle, together with a little ghee (or buffalo's butter), three clews one of the finest silk, another of of stout pack thread, another of whipcord; finally, a stout coil of rope.' When she came again to the foot of the tower, provided according to her husband's commands, he directed her to touch the head of the insect with a little of the ghee, to tie one end of the silk thread around him, and to place the reptile on the wall of the tower. Seduced by the smell of the butter, which he conceived to be in store somewhere above him, the beetle continued ro ascend till he reached the top and thus put the vizier in posession of the end of the thread, and drew up the packthread by means of the silk, the small cord by means of the packthread, and by means of the cord a stout rope capable of sustaining his weight--and so at last escaped from the place of his duresse.

Vegetable Remains in Coal.

An abundance of distinctly preserved vegetable remains occur through the coal mines of Great Britain. But the first example is found in the coal mines of Bohemia. The most elaborate imitations of living foliage upon the painted ceilings of Italian palaces, bear no comparison with the beautious profusion of extant vegetables forms, in whichthe galleries of these instructive coal mines are overhung. The roof is covered as with a canopy of gorgeous tapestry, with festoons of the most graceful foliage, hung in wild confusion over every part of its surface. The effect is heightened by the contrast of the coal-black, color with the light ground-work of the rock, to which they are attached. The spectator feels himself transported, as if by enchancement, into the forest of another world. He beholds trees of a form and character now unknown upon the face of the earth, almost in the beauty and vigor of their primeval life, their scaly stems and bendning branches, and with their delicate apparatus of foliage are all spread before him; little imparted by the lapse of ages, and leaving faithful records of systems of vegetation, which began and terminated in times of which those relics are the infaliable historians.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, August 23, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

"We hold these truths to be SELF EVIDENT: that ALL men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain UNALIENABLE rights; that among these are life, LIBERTY, and the pursuit of happiness!"

The above was the unanimous declaration of the thirteen original States in Congress assembled. It was thus the political equality of man's rights was made the fundamental principle upon which our government is founded; and upon its universal application to all alone can any claim this right; and upon such application alone can we hope to see it sustained. Therefore that we may become a republic in fact, as well as in name, to prove our sincerity, it becomes absolutely necessary that we restore to every man under the government this his inalienable birthright, before we can commence the first principles of our government; the justness of this is self-evident to all who revere the principles of true democracy.

It was this sacred principle for which our forefathers fought, and which is implanted in every human breast, and which needs but to be asserted to gain universal sympathy and assent; the justness of which is acknowledge by all nations in their attempts to adopt it for themselves.

This being the inalienable birthright of man, it cannot be delegated to another; and wherever they do not enjoy it, it is evident they are robbed of their just and equal rights; and the government under which this is the case cannot be a republic, as it violates the first principles upon which alone a republic can be founded.

There can only be two opinions on such a subject, because there are ambitious demagogues who are not content with equal rights, but who are constantly seeking some office, or some special act of incorporation, which will enable them to lord it over their fellow men; it is by such men that mankind are robbed of their rights.

The Declaration of Independence contains the true principles of Democracy, and if faithfully applied to man's political and religious rights, will ever direct him aright.

Conventions may agree or disagree, there is, and perhaps always will be ambitious men in them who may have influence enough to set up false gods, and who may have brazen impudence enough to bid the people fall down and worship the golden calf, while they rob them of their rights; and there may be some who through false pride or through the glitter of the golden calf, or a desire to participate in their unholy gains that may obey them; but we trust the people, the honest, fearless, and hardy sons of toil, those by the sweat of whose brows our government is supported, and by whom it must continue to be sustained, will ever keep in view and endeavor to extend those cherished principles of our forefathers which they declared as the basis of universal liberty, and made the foundation of our government; and which in proof of their sincerity they died to maintain.

THE SCALPEL.—A Journal of Health adapted to popular and professional reading, and the exposure of Quackery:—We have read the August number of this journal. It is certainly conducted with superior ability, and its pages possess an interest to the general reader seldom found in any work on so abstruse a subject. It is well adapted to popular instruction; the sound common sense which prevades it is well calculated to convince the most prejudiced mind. The object as stated to be, is to do away with the abuses of Medicine.

"Nature is ever busy, by the silent operation of her own forces endeavoring to cure disease. Her medicines are air, warmth, food, water, and sleep. Their use is directed by Instinct, and that man is most worthy the name of physician, who most reveres its unerring laws.—Editor."

Of course quackery, regular, and irregular, will oppose such simple agents. The Scalpel will in future be published quarterly, at one dollar per annum in advance. Every head of a family should subscribe, and if a man of sense, he will acknowledge at the end of the year it was a dollar economically laid out.

Friendship multiplies joys, divides griefs.

☞ ALL men have certain UNALIENABLE rights; LIFE, and LIBERTY. For the maintenance of these rights our government alone was established. But notwithstanding which, although professing to be guided by these principles, and the precepts of Christianity, as is acknowledged in a governmental capacity during the sessions of Congress; the sittings of which are daily opened with prayer; by a petition to Him who made us all, for the sincerity of their belief in the above declaration; and which our forefathers declared we were entitled to by the laws of nature and of natures God; and which they in adopting as the fundamental principles of our government, appealed to the supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of their intentions. Yet the government as practically carried out declares that negroes are an exception necessary to prove the rule; and that moreover it is also necessary to have a SLAVE MART within hearing of those prayers, and that the head of the nation should be a dealer in the article, to prove our sincerity in the belief that they are nothing more than a species of animate property, or merchandize, like skippers in cheese; in proof of which you are refered to their sale and purchase by members of Congress, and by the President of the United States!

What a commentary is this on the Declaration of Independence, on a republican government, and the inalienable rights of man!

Elections.

Maryland votes on the 3d of October for 6 Congressmen, and Louisiana for 4, Mississippi for 4, and Texas, for 2 members on the 5th of November. There are vacancies in Massachusetts, Ohio and Rhode Island, to be filled by special elections.

The eleven free soilers who have been elected to the next Congress, are likely to hold the balance of power in the House.

Cholera.

There was 11 cases of the Cholera and and 2 deaths in Newark, on Monday.

Fifty-nine new cases of cholera and 23 deaths were reported in New York on Monday, and 70 cases and 30 deaths on Tuesday.

The cholera at Buffalo increases. There were 50 cases and 17 deaths on Sunday and Monday morning. In Albany 11 cases and 5 deaths.

☞ FIRE AT MILLVILLE.—Albert Traphagen's store in Millville, (Springfield township,) in this county, was burned down between 10 and 11 o'clock on Monday evening, only a small portion of the goods being saved. Insured for $1100 in the Newark Mut. Assurance Co.

☞ A Methodist Episcopal Camp Meeting is so be held at Willow Grove, formerly known as the Windmill, 3 1-2 miles from Plainfield, the first week in September, by appointment of Rev. Mr. Winner, Presiding Elder. A similar meeting will be held this week at South Orange.

☞ NEWARK DAILY MERCURY.—This is a spirited little sheet, advocating liberal principles, and should as doubtless it does, receive a liberal encouragement, which is due to its merits; it is well conducted, on the right plan; having an independent opinion of its own which is fearlessly expressed; at least this is our opinion from the perusal of its columns.

☞ See prospectus of Scientific American in another column; it is a most invaluable journal; every inventor, mechanic, and artizan should subscribe.

Is it safe?

Reader, perhaps like ourselves you have business occasionally at Plainfield, and take passage in the cars? Did it ever occur to you while passing over the bridge near town, if it SHOULD prove insufficient to sustain the weight of the train, what a fearful catastrophe would occur? Now we do not wish to excite unnecessary fears, but either the bridge is not the safest (to appearance) of any in the world, or else many persons who have examined it are not very good judges.—Elizabethtown Standard.

☞ One pint of water converted into steam fills a space of nearly 2000 pints, and raises the pistion of a steam engine with the force of many thousand pounds. I may afterwards be condensed and re-appear as a pint of water.

A PROFITABLE FERRY.—The receipts of the Fulton Ferry, New York, are estimated at nine hundred and twelve thousand, five hundred dollars per annum!

For the Plainfield Gazette.

The people of New-Jersey will soon be called on to decide whether they will longer have their best interests sacrificed at the dictation of the railroad companies. Already the preparations betoken the approach of a mighty struggle between the free citizens of a sovereign state and the overgrown and corrupt corporations which have so long controlled its legislation, and warred against its prosperity. There will soon arrive a period when an outraged people will no longer submit to have their rights trampled on, and their good name blasted by the acts of the monster monopoly. This will be no mere party struggle; but it will be a contest between the people and their oppressors; between right and wrong; between the friends of equal and exact justice to all and those who regard special privileges as their birthright.

The people in all parts of the state are aroused to the importance of the antimonopoly movement, and we cannot for a moment doubt that it will gloriously triumph.

There is something grand in this effort of the people of our state. We see men and journals of all parties forgetting their minor differences, and uniting as one man in the efforts to throw off the shackles which special legislation—the fruit of corruption and fraud—has fastened on them. There is no party catch-words—no claptrap devices—employed to entice the unthinking and ignorant, but argument has prepared the minds of all intelligent citizens to understand their duty; and we have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that this most important issue will be met with confidence, and that victory will declare in favor of the people. J.

INDEPENDENT THINKERS.—Who are they? Those democrats who voted for General Taylor last year, and who having deceived by his no-party pledges, have recently come out and voted the democratic ticket—these are the "Independent Thinkers' alluded to by the Tribune. But theg are neither "a loose or casual aggregation." You'll never catch these fellows again voting a whig ticket. Hereafter they'll go in solid phalanx as compact as a rock and as hard to split.—Trenton Daily News.

"HONESTY, CAPACITY, AND FIDELITY."—Geo. C. Pratt, who has been appointed Post Master at Prairieville, Wisconsin, was collector of taxes in Woodstock, Vt., and ran away with the town's money, whereupon the citizens placed on record a vote that he had 'forfeited all claims to honor and integrity, and merits the scorn and contempt of every virtuous citizen.' The Woodstock Age says he was indicted there by the Grand Jury.

In the Hudson Co Court, the Grand Jury on Friday returned bills of indictment against six members of the N. Y. Kelly Guards, captured in the recent disturbance at Jersey city. We learn that no bill has yet been found against Perez, the Captain, who was bailed by Mr. Malone, a blacksmith in Jersey City, nor against Mr. Tyndall, who was also bailed, it being alleged that he took no part in the affair.

NEW-ORLEANS, Aug. 15.

The decision was given to-day in the abduction case. The Spanish council was bound over to stand his trial at the U. S. circuit court, to be held next December. He gave bail in bonds of $5,000 for his appearance for trial

HORRIBLE.—According to a statement in the Sangamon (Ill.) Journal, of the 6th inst. a family in Mason county in that State, consisting of nine persons, were attacked with cholera, all of whom died but one child. The surviving child was removed by the neighbors, and the house then set on fire and consumed, with all its contents including the eight dead bodies.

Damages to the Maimed.

We learn that the friends of those slain and wounded at the railroad accident near Princeton intend to institute suits against the Company for damages. We are glad to hear this, and heavy damages we hope will be awarded in every case where a person was either killed or wounded. Dollars and cents even, can be but a poor recompense to a widowed heart or orphan children. But, since the accident occurred wholly by the wilful neglect of the managers of the company, damages to the amount of thousands should be rendered in every case. We will say to these people, many of whom are strangers in this State, that juries can now be found in New Jersey who cannot be controlled by monopoly power.—Peoples Advocate.

☞ Application will be made to the next Legislature for a law uniting the township of Van Vorst and Jersey city under one act of incorporation, to be named the 'CITY OF JERSEY,'—to be dividied into wards, the officers to be Mayor, Alderman, Recorder, Controller, Street Commissioner, &c.—Newark Daily Advertiser.

Penn. Whig State Convention.

This Convention met at Harrisburg on Thursday last to nominate a Canal Commissioner.

The Convention was permanently organized in the afternoon by the election of Col. E. C. WILSON of Venango Co. as President.

The following resolutions among others were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That this Convention offers its warm congratulations to the people of the United States, and our glorious old Common wealth, in the success of the Democratic Whig party, in the election of that sound, sterling, patriotic Democratic Whig, Gen. Zachary Taylor, to the office of President of the United States, and of Wm. F. Johnston, our firm, enlightened and intelligent Governor, to the highest office within this Common wealth.

Resolved, That protection to the industry of the people is one of the first duties of government; that the true interest of the state and Nation are best promoted by placing the manufacturer, mechanic and laborer side by side with the agriculturist; that the days of greatest prosperity for the country have been those when domestic labor has been protected, and unnecessary and excessive importation of foreign fabrics prevented by a proper tariff of duties; and in our opinion, such results have not followed the tariff of 1846 and can never be promoted by its continuance.

The first of these resolutions in effect resolves, that whereas we have never possessed the principles of democracy, (if we had the name would be immaterial,) and inasmuch as our President in his own person violates the first fundamental principles of our government viz: That all men are entitled to certain unalienable rights among which are life, LIBERTY, and the pursuit of happiness; by holding his fellow men in bondage, therefore resolved, that we adopt the name of Democratic Whigs and that Zachery Taylor be called the first of the earlier Democratic Whig Presidents in lieu of the principles which we thus so flagrantly violate.

The people in their recent congressional elections in lieu of the second have resolved. "that the true interest of the State and Nation are best promoted by placing the manufacturer, mechanic and laborer side by side with the agriculturist" by electing men who are in favor of continuing the tariff of 1846, the Subtreasury, and of all other democratic measures which are favorable to the equal rights of all.

A Christian Turk and A Turkish Christian.

I find the following in the Anti-Slavery Bugle, of Salem, Ohio.

"Christian vs Turk.—Which is the most Christian?—It has leaked out, that when the Sultan of Turkey subscribed for the relief of Irish distress, he was desirous of giving £10,000, but the English government interfered, saying that half the amount given by Queen Victoria would be sufficient. Her Majesty had given only £2,000, and therefore the Sultan was allowed to give only £1,000, just one-tenth of what his liberality prompted. Thus to save the pride of a Christian (!) Queen, who did not wish to be shamed by a Turk, the sum of £9,000, was withheld from a starving nation! How many hundred people were starved to death by this inhuman act, who can tell?'

Now see what an abominable thing the love of man-worship and human glory is. To save the credit of a hypocritical queen £9,000 must be withheld from her own subjects, whom she had robbed, and who were dying with starvarion, by hundreds and thousands, in wretched hovels, and by the wayside, where, in many places they were left to rot upon the ground, because the survivors had not the strength nor means to bury them!

Were it not for the history of the Nazarine and his deciples, and now and then an humble follower of his to be met with in this age, together with the few drops of mercy I have sometimes found within me which serve for proofs to the contrary, I should call the Christian religion the most impudent, shameless humbug that ever existed; but thanks to kind heaven, these proofs clear christianity, and throw all the shame and disgrace upon the hypocritical professors, where they belong. How noble appears the conduct of that despised Turk, compared with that of the British Queen and her despicable advisers!—Portland Pleasure Boat.

MAINE—Home Exemption, Governor's Term.—The Legislature of Maine adjourned last Wednesday morning, after a Session of a little more than three months. The Portland Advertiser says:

'The Home Exemption bill has been signed by the governor. It exempts real estate to the value of $500, and if a debtor is not the owner of real estate to that value then $500 of personal property to be by him selected in additon to the specific exemptions already provided for. The change is not to affect existing debts.—The Resolves submitting the question of a change of the time of holding the session of the Legislature passed both branches in such form as to extend the term of Gov. Dana if the charge is adopted, from May next to Jan. 1851.

From the Blue Hen's Chicken.

OUR COURSE.—We are among the very first to hoist the flag of General Taylor for the Presidency, because we thought him honest, independent and capable—all admit that but for our support he would have lost Delaware—all the independent, unpurchasable whigs and democrats went for the old hero. We understood from his letters, &c., that he would administer the Government with principles of the early Presidents; having no friends to reward, no enemies to punish—we have been disappointed, proscription has been the order of the day. We expected the friends of Taylor to supercede the old hands as fast as the commissions expired, but no sooner except for gross and palpable imcompetency or impropriety—instead of this the gullotine has been at work—in the appointment the best whigs have been neglected or treated with contumely—the real friends of Taylor have been almost mocked at—their recommendations utterly disregarded, and the behests of an unprincipled clique been taken for the voice of Delaware. But Delaware freemen will not tamely bear to be trampled upon. Democratic Whigs have the spirit, the will, and the power to do justice to themselves when cliques and cabals would put their feet upon their necks like slaves—Remember tyrants, your doom is coming!

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT—IS IT SO? A late number of the Exeter (England) Times, has an ably written review of a sermon by the dean of Exeter, entitled, 'The Sacredness of Human Life, and Doom of Murder.' The Dean's Text is the oft repeated passage—'Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed.' The reviewer denies that the original Scripture reads so. He says:—

'I say these are not the words of God. It may seem strange for a layman to contradict a clergyman and a Dean to boot, on such a point! but this is not the first time that ecclesiastical dignitaries have been set right in their theology; nor will it be the last. I must therefore be pardoned for my presumption. The words of God are these:—'Whatsoever sheddeth man's blood, its blood shall be shed;' and if Mr Lowe asks me how I prove this, I refer him to the original Hebrew, to the Septuagint, to the Vulgate, and to the versions (among others) of Wickliff, Calmet, Scio, and Ostervald. The words by man, are an interpolation, and were placed in the passage by the 'Bishops, Priests and Deacons,' who produced one common version, and dedicated it to that Solomon of British Sovereigns, 'the most high and mighty Prince James,' who burned thousands of old women for witchcraft upon Bible authority.'

Is this so? Will some one versed in Hebrew lore ascertain?

☞ In a little over 100 days, 6,000 persons have been committed to the grave—and this out of a population of less than 60,000! This is an awful mortality—perhaps greater than has ever occurred in any city of the United States, with the same population. It is to be observed, however, that a good many hundreds of these persons were not really citizens of St. Louis, but had just landed here, bringing the seeds of death whithin them, and, still more unfortunate, carrying death into whatever quarter they went. To this cause, indeed, is to be attributed a vast portion of the mortality which has been recorded; and if the people are wise they will avoid, as far as possible, contributing to similar epidemics hereafter, by insisting upon greater regard to cleanness and the proper ventilation of the houses occupied by the people.—St. Louis Republican.

☞ The many who labor are slaves to the few that live in idleness. But this is their own fault, they have consented to be ridden, and elect their riders by their votes. Poor Simpletons! to find harness, whips and spurs, consent to be ridden, and then turned into the high-way to grub! Poor simpletons! They have power to cast their riders, and elect men from among themselves that would restore their rights to the earth, which would be the stepping stone to the recovery of other rights. Poor simpletons! they will not do this but throw up their caps and hurrah for drones that rob them, turn their children into the high way and drive them to the ends of the earth and even upon the ocean to procure bread!—Portland Pleasure Boat.

The Lousville Journal, (Whig paper,) winds up an article of two and a half columns, with the emphatics assertion that, 'in the fabrication into course forms of our great staples, Western manufacturers need no protection of a revenue Tarriff.'

CHARGE OF MURDER.—Isac Underhill, a farmer of Seacaucus, in North Bergen township, Hudson, Co. was committed to Newark jail, Friday afternoon, By Morris K. Crane, coroner of Hudson Co. for the murder Thomas Mygin, a blacksmith, who went to Mr. U.'s house, and charged him with taking improper liberties with his wife. The trial will probably take place at the pending term of the Hudson Co Court.

A NEW IDEA.—A company has been started for the insurance of lives against accidental destruction. By a wise provision, those insured are prohibited from travelling on the Camden and Amboy Railroad.

SAILORS' WAGES LOOKING UP.—This gold business is working a marvelous revolution in regard to sailors' wages. Several vessels have recently entered the Columbia River, on board of which seamen were receiving $100, $125 and $150 per month! officers $200 to $400 per month, and masters in proportion. Offers have been made in California for seamen to go the States for $1,000 the run, but they would not engage at that price.—Boston Traveller.

☞ The New York Globe says that whatever they may resolve upon at Rome, the democrats of the city, of both branches, will unite next November.

GREEN CORN PUDDING.—The lovers of good things will lay the following directions by, until roasting ear time. Take of green corn twelve ears, and grate it; to this add a quart of sweet milk a quarter of a pound of fresh butter, four eggs, well beaten, pepper and salt, and bake four hours in a buttered dish. Some add to the other ingredients, a quarter of a pound of sugar, and eat the pudding with meat or sauce, but epicures of the most exquisite taste prefer it, we believe, hot, and with the first service.

☞ Madame Schodel, the great German prima donna, has been condemned to death for attempting to poison Kossuth, the Hungarian leader.

☞ 'Ike,' said a rusty old heathen of the desk, 'how do astronomers measure the distance to the sun?'

'Why,' replied the young hopeful, 'they guess at one-fourth the distance, and then multiply by four.' The old desk-worm fainted.

There is frequently more pleasure in giving a thing than in receiving it. this applies more especially to Medicine, advice and Kicks.

☞ When thou seest misery in thy brother's fall, let him see mercy in thine eye.

☞ Fortune is more equally balanced, after all, than half the world think it is; to the rich it gives fear—to the poor hope.

MARRIED.

At Liberty Corner on the 19 of August by the Rev J. T. English, Mr. John Layton, Jr. of Newark, to Miss Deborah M. Bedell, of Green Village Morris County

At Craneville, near Westfield, on the 18th inst. by Rev. W. E. Perry, of Plainfield, Mr. Hipolyte Dardonville, of Paris, France, to Miss. Julie Lefevre, of Montreal, Canada.

Same time and place, and by the same, Mr. Hipolyte Cogniat, of Paris, France, to Miss. Henriette Lefevre, of Montreal, Canada.

DIED.

In this place, on Saturday evening last, Mr. Gershom Manning, aged about 80 years.

In Piscataway, near New Market, of cholera, on the 16th inst. Mr. Lewis Titsworth, aged 78 years, father of Mr. Edward B. Titsworth of Plainfield. He visited New Brunswick on Wednesday, was taken early on Thursday morning, and died the same evening.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

SIMEON F. RANDOLPH,

ELLEN PICKERING'S BEST NOVEL.

ELLEN WAREHAM;
OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Thrilling Novel of Real Life.

T. B. PETERSON, No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, has just published

ELLEN WAREHAM; OR LOVE AND DUTY.

A Novel by Miss Ellen Pickering, author of the Poor Cousin, Kate Walsingham, the Orphan Niece, Agnes Serle, the Secret foe, the Heiress, Nan Darell, Who Shall be Heir, the Merchant's Daughter, the Quit Husband, The Fright, The Expectant, the Prince and Pedlar, Cousin Hinton, the Squire, etc. etc. Three volumes complete in one; printed from new type, and on fine white paper; price 25 cents; or five copies of any of Miss Pickering's novels for one dollar.

Any person in this country can have any of the above works sent them by return of mail, on remitting the amount for them to the publisher in a letter, post paid.

Any five of the above novels by Miss Pickering will be sent to any place for one dollar. Booksellers, news-agents, and all others supplied on the lowest terms. Address all orders and letters to

T. B. PETERSON.
No. 98 Chestnut St., Phila.

GET UP A CLUB!
And Secure a Free Copy!

ROBERT F. GREELEY'S
Splendid New Romance, Entitled the
CHILD OF THE ISLANDS!
Or the Ship-Wrecked Gold Seekers!
Will appear immediately in successive numbers of the New York

LITERARY AMERICAN.

It is founded on the wild adventures of a party of California Gold seekers, who were wrecked on a desert island in the Pacific Ocean, and went through strange and thrilling scenes. It is believed that this is one of the most vivid and able works that has lately appeared. It will be COPYRIGHTED. The Literary American is well known throughout the country as a moral and entertaining FAMILY NEWSPAPER, got up in the best style for binding, and forming every year two large volumes of more than 1000 pages!

☞ Back numbers furnished to order.

TERMS.—Served in cities, 6 cents a week.
To mail subscribers,

One copy in advance,	$3 00
Two copies, "	5 00
Clubs of Ten, "	20 00

and a free coy to the person getting up a club.

The best and cheapest way to subscribe is to get up a club

Agents wanted in every town in the United States.

All persons who forward us Three Dollars for a years subscrition, to commence with the 1st Number of Vol. III. (July 7th 1849,) will be furnished with all the back numbers, containig Mayne Reid's Great Romance of "WAR LIFE," gratis.

☞ Send in your names and money at once, by mail, at our risk, to

G. P. QUACKENBOS,
105 Nassau-st., N. Y.

NEW VOLUME OF THE

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

To Inventors, Mechanics and Artizans.

The Publishers of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in returning their thanks to the community for the liberal support and encouragement which has been extended to them during the past four years, would respectfully give notice that the first number of Volume 5, will be issued on the 22d of September, affording a favorable opportunity for all to subscribe, who may wish to avail themselves of the valuable information always found in its columns. The new volume will be commenced with new type, printed on extra fine paper, manufactured expressly for this publication, and embelished with a chaste and elegant border. It will be published as heretofore in quarto form, thus affording at the end of the year a BEAUTIFUL BOOK of OVER 400 PAGES, containing between 5 and 600 ORIGINAL ENGRAVINGS of NEW INVENTIONS, described by letters of reference besides a great amount of reading matter, valuable to every man in the country.

An increased amount of care and expense will be bestowed upon this Volume to render it more fully what it has been termed, 'The best mechanical Paper in the World.' Its columns as usual will be filled with the most reliable and correct information in regard to the progress of SCIENTIFIC and MECHANICAL improvements, CHEMISTRY, ARCHITECTURE, BOTANY, MANUFACTURES, RAIL ROAD intelligence, and the WEEKLY LIST OF PATENTS, prepared expressly for this Journal at the Patent Office in Washington.

As an evidence of the estimation in which this publication is held by the Scientific and Mechanical portion of the community, it is only necessary to state, that its circulation has increased within the last three years to upwards of 10,000 copies, already exceeding the united circulation of all the Mechanical and Scientific publications in this country, and the largest of any single one in the world.

TERMS:—Two dollars a years in advance, or if desired, one dollar in advance, and the remainder in six months.

To CLUBS:—5 copies, $8; 10 copies, $15; 20 copies; $28.

All letters must be post-paid and directed to. MUNN & CO.
Publishers of the Scientific American,
New York.

N. B.—Patents secured snd mechanical drawings excuted on the most reasonable terms at the Scientific Ameican office.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Aug. 22

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 44
RYE FLOUR	3 25
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 60
OATS	36 a 38

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a	1 10
CORN " do	60 a	63
OATS " do	33 a	—
RYE " do	58 a	60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	16 a	18
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	13

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are—1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or ryê, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

OH YES! OH YES!! OH YES!!!

NOW is the time to buy, when Goods are selling at prices to suit the times, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office.

Consisting of the various new styles of Dry Goods both for Ladies and Gentlemen, the cheapest and best that can be produced. Also a new and large assortment of Sugars at reduced prices, together with a full assortment of Groceries.

Also a general assortment of notions fancy and staple; call and see them and they will sell themselves.

N. B An entirely new assortment of Dry Goods just opened, cheaper than ever before offered; also Mens and Boys palm-leaf hats, some at 6d. a piece.

A large assortment of Stone and Earthen ware selling at reduced prices.

☞ Wood, Grain, Butter, Eggs, and almost every article of produce will be taken in exchange for goods by the subscriber, at the new store opposite Dr. Craig's office in Plainfield. F. H. BRYAN.

May 1. 1849. [69

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,
The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber:

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.
April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

AN UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

FROM THE INFANCY OF MANKIND TO THE PRESENT TIME. By G. C. Hebbe, L. L. D. Now ready 1st volume bound in cloth.—Price $1.75 and to be continued in monthly parts, until finished, five numbers forming a volume 25 cents per number.

The author of this work seems to have had in constant view the celebrated treaties of Lucian—"How a history ought to be written." Truth in its severity, and reason in its manly state are the chief Muses and graces to which he has done obedience. What a different view has been presented to us by other historians. No wonder that the numbers already issued have met with a large sale, and have been hailed by frequent laudatory notices of the press, of which abridged extracts are here subjoined.

[From the Democratic Review.]

This beautiful octavo—the first volume of Dr. Hebbe's Universal History—forms the initial volume of a new and greatly improved work, devoted to the history of the Universe, based not merely upon the usually received data of former historians but derived from the best authorities, attested by revelations of modern discovery. The recent researches in archœelogy by Chevalier Bunsen, and other learned investigators, among ancient monumental records, have so entirely changed the aspect of primitive times and revealed so many important new data, that the wonder has been not that such a work as the present should make its appearance but rather that the task should not have been before attempted in Europe. From a somewhat careful examination of this volume, however, we find no cause to regret that the theme should have been reserved for the judicious and laborious press of Dr. Hebbe. To such as cannot command the leisure of more systematic course of study, this work proves eminently important and valuable, since, when completed, it will form a compendious library of universal history, the most accurate and complete extant, and written up to the spirit of the age.

[From the N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 23.]

In regard to the literary execution of this work we have spoken as the numbers appeared but not as fully as its merits deserve. Now, on re-examination, we hesitate not to pronounce that this volume, as a history of the earliest period of mankind, has no rival in any single work of universal history in the English language.

[From Graham's Magazine.]

The author of the Universal History, now in publication, judging from the portion already published, is equal to his task. He comes to it prepared by twenty years of study, and a familiar acquaintance with all the necessary authorities, not only those to whom we look for solid records of facts, but those who have gone beneath the surface of events, and tracked the source of politicial convulsions by a thousand pulses, back to the hidden heart of some great principle.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Hebbe by availing himself of the light of which the Egyptian hierologists and other investigators of antiquity, have shed on the earliest history of man, by means of his vast erudition enabling him to avoid the errors of compilers, and to draw from the original and most undoubted sources of authority, and by his acute judgment, his liberal philosophy, his deep sympathy with humanity, and his enthusiastic love for his favorite study has produced what may be termed in many respects an original history of the infant nations of the world. The work is written in the most enlarged and liberal spirit, while the author rejects the supersition of the ancient priesthood he is a stout defender of the immortal and sublime truths of Christianity.

[From the N. Y. True Sun.]

The style of Dr. Hebbe, though writing in a tongue foreign to him, is always flowing and animated, sometimes picturesque and sometimes even eloquent and sublime.

This work appears in monthly numbers—seven numbers now ready.

A liberal discount to the trade. Sent by mail to to any part of the country.

Dewitt & Davenport, Tribune Buildings, Nassau-street New-York.

☞ Papers inserting the above three times, including this notice and noticing the nos. as they appear, will have the back nos sent to them by forwarding a copy of their paper to the publishers marked. Also receive the numbers as fast as published.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B. Peterson., No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD, OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat$1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa, MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

THOMAS A. MORTON,
ABRAHAM A. KING.
WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.
JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,
Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

CARRIAGE MAKING, AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

Mrs. A. M Sanford,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following Card of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

Dr. S. A. Pearson: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1849. | NO. 37.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

From the Essex Standard.

ORIGINAL LINES,

COMPOSED AT THE GRAVE OF WASHINGTON, BY REV. DR. WEST.

A grave, a grave, a hero's grave,
Great WASHINGTON lies here,
Who could approach, and coldly leave
HIS TOMB, without a tear.

A tear, a tear, a NATION wept,
And well she might deplore,
When WASHINGTON lay down and slept
To wake, alas! no more.

Oh! mighty death, thy fearful dart,
Its mightiest conquest won;
That moment, when it pierced the heart
Of deathless WASHINGTON.

Deathless indeed, that glorious name
Shall LIVE when STARS expire;
Seraphic scribes unroll his fame
With pens of living fire.

Time may roll on and sweep the earth
Of kings, and crowns, and names,
The mightiest of mightiest birth,
With all their pompous claims.

And Time's "undainty tooth" SHALL EAT
Inscriptions' boast and pride,
Those monuments of wealth and state
Where haughty despots died.

HIS TOMB may moulder through neglect,
Oh shame, sad shame to say,
Implying sinful disrespect,
To HIM who won THE DAY.

But every breeze which fans the sky,
And whispers through the grove
The zephyr's first, and latest sigh
In pensive, mourning, love.

And every warbling bird which sings
Matin, or vesper lay,
Its quota of his tribute brings
Through earth, and air, and sea.

And every WAVE which roams the deep,
To LASH the distant strand;
In all their wild, tumultuous sweep,
Astouding every land.

Untiring in its ceaseless course
To spread HIS matchless fame;
PERPETUAL MOTION draws its force
From his ILLUSTRIOUS NAME.

G. M. W.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Advice to Young Men.

Having passed that most important period in life denominated youth, and feeling an interest in the welfare of the young men of this my native village, and knowing the importance of forming the character aright, I address these lines to you; and if they should be the means of benefiting but one among you I shall be a thousand times repaid.

I wish to impress on your minds the importance and advantages even in this world of establishing at this period of your lives your character on the firm principles of TRUTH and JUSTICE, leaving to your consciences and to those whose more especial duty it is to show its advantages for eternity.

Whoever among you suffers this period of your lives to pass without some fixed principles, for a guide through life, may rest assured you will never have any; but grow up the creature of circumstances, the mere cyphers of existence, pitied, despised, and contemned by the world.

If you would be respected, you must first respect yourselves, by forming a character for yourselves that shall command respect.

Look abroad upon the world, and among those whom you know, and see who they are who are most sincerely respected, and you will find it to be those who have made the principles of truth and justice their guide, in all their dealings with their fellow man.

The first principle or standard of your life should be a close adherence to truth. No man can ever expect to prosper in business, or receive the confidence and approbation of his fellow man without it; therefore let truth be your guide; the truth in all things will be to your advantage, as by equivocation even in the most trifling matter, will soon give you the character of a liar; and "a liar is not believed even when he speaks the truth." Look among your companions and see if this is not the case; have you not doubts even when probabilities are in his favor? What a despicable character; yet there are those in our village who make a profession (it is a profession only) of religion, and who are members of our churches, who do not hesitate to make promises which they know they do not intend to perform! "Oh," they exclaim if reminded of their promise, "its only a matter of a few dollars, did not suppose it of much consequence." What, is a lie of no consequence! What became of Ananias and Sapphira? Be punctual in all your engagements. He who is punctual to his word can always command a friends purse; I never knew it to fail no matter how poor the applicant may be, if a friend has confidence in his honor, if in his power he will grant his request.

Be just in all your dealings; be honest in the most trifling things as well as in the more important, as in trifles alone is the habits acquired; let not present apparent advantage deceive you into a dishonest act; never spend your time which you cannot afford in idleness, for this begets mischief, and mischief is crime; acquire habits of industry while you are young, in this you will always find advantage; give some portion of your time every day, even if but short, to reading; you will thus acquire much useful knowledge wich will always "come in play," and which once acquired can never be lost.

Those who heed these words will never regret it, while those who do not, cannot expect the confidence or esteem of their fellow men; but will live unrespected and die unregarded. With these thoughts hastily trown together for your serious consideration, and which the writer has ever found true in his own experience he trusts you may receive as the advice of a FRIEND.

An Adventure.

There are many situations in life that men are placed in, which will bring forth talent, strength, courage ingenuity, which himself and others deemed totally at variance with his nature. I am one whose life has been an undisturbed scene of peace and quietness. No quarrel or dispute ever rendered it necessary for me to call forth my moral or physical strength, both of which I am now inclined to think I possess; at least the reader will bear me out when I have related the following adventure:

I was on my way to P——, in the fall of 18—; it was towards the cold evenings in the first fall month, when my horse stopped suddenly before a respectable house, about four miles from N——. There was something strange and remarkable in this action of my horse, nor would he move a step in spite of all my exertions to move him on. I determined to gratify his whim, and at the same time a strange presentiment which came over me a kind of supernatural feeling indiscribable, seemed to urge me to enter. Having knocked, and requested to be conducted to the lady or gentlemen of the house, I was urshed into a neat sitting room, where sat a beautiful girl of about twenty years of age. She rose at my entrance, and seemed a little surprised at the appearance of a perfect stranger. In a few words I related to her the strange conduct of my horse, and his stubborn opposition to my mind. 'I am not,' I observed, 'superstitious, nor inclined on the side of the metaphosicial doctrines of those who support them; but the strange, unaccountable feeling that crept over me in attempting to pass your house, induced me to solicit lodgings for the night.'

'We are not,' she replied, 'well guarded, 'tis true; but in this part of the country we have little to fear from robbers, for we have never heard of any being near us; we are surrounded by good neighbors, and I flatter myself we are at peace with them all. But this evening, in consequence of my father's abscence, I feel unusually lonesome, and if it were not bordering on the superstitious, I might reason as you have, and say I consent to your staying; for similar feelings had been mine ere you arrived; from what cause I cannot imagine.'

The evening passed delightfully away; my young hostess was intelligent and lovely; the hours flew so quick, that on looking at my watch, I was surprised to find that it was eleven o'clock. This was the signal for retiring; and by twelve every inmate of the house was probably asleep, save myself. I could not sleep—strange visions floated across my brain, and I lay twisting and turning on the bed, in all the agony of sleepless suspence. The clock struck one—its last virbrating sound had scarcely died away, when the opening of a shutter, and the raising of a sash in one of the lower apartments, convinced me some one was entring the house. A noise followed as of a person jumping from the window sill to the floor, and then followed the light and almost noisless step of one ascending the stairway. I slept in the room adjoining the one occupied by the lady; mine was next the staircase; the step came along the gallery slow and cautious. I had seized my pistol, and slipped on part of my clothes, determined to watch or listen to the movements seemingly mysterious or suspicious; the sound of the step stopped at my door—then followed one as of applying the ear to the key-hole, and a low breathing convinced me the villian was listening. I stood motionless, the pistol firmly grasped. Not a muscle moved, nor a nerve was slackened, for I felt as if heaven had selected me out as the instrument to effect its purpose.

The person now slowly passed on, and I as cautiously approached the door of my bed chamber. I now went by instinct, or rather by the conveyance of sound; for as soon as I heard his hand grasp the latch of one door, mine seized on the other—a deep silence followed this movement; it seemed as if he heard the sound, and awaited the repetition; it came not—all was still; he might have considered it the echo of his own noise. I heard the door open softly—I also opened mine, and the very moment I stepped into the entry, I caught the glimpse of a tall man entering the lighted chamber of the young lady. I softly stepped along the entry, and approached the chamber; through the half-opened door I glanced my eyes into the room. No object was visible save the curtained bed, within whose sheets lay the intended victim to a midnight assassin, and he—gracious heaven! A NEGRO! For at that moment a tall fierce-looking black approached the bed; and never were Othello and Desdemona more naturally represented; at least that particular scene of the immortal bard's conception. I was now all suspense; my heart swelled into my throat almost to suffocation, my eyes to cracking, as I made a bound into the room.

The black villain had ruthlessly dragged part of the covering off the bed, when the sound of my foot caused him to turn. He started, and thus confronted, we stood gazing on each other a few seconds; his eyes shot fire—fury was depicted in hi countenance. He made a spring towards me, and the next moment lay a corpse on the floor! The noise of the pistol aroused the fair sleeper; she started in the bed, and seemed an an agel of the white clouds emering from her downy bed to soar up to the skies.

The first thing that presented itself to her view was myself standing near her, with a pistol in my hand.

'Oh do not murder me! take all; you cannot, will not kill me, sir!'

The servants now rushed in; all was explained. The wretch turned out to be a vagabond, supposed to be a runaway slave from Virginia; I had the providential opportunity of rescuing one from the worst of fates who in after years called me husband, and related to our children her miraculous escape from the bold attack of a midnight assassin.

☞ A Western Editor, speaking of the venerable appearance of a stump orator, said that 'he stood up like one of 'em, with his bald head and hands in his breeches pocket!'

A Cutting Retort.

The family of Mrs. Brown a good widow, consisting of six daughters, had the misfortune to be poor and proud. Above the gross vulgarity of manual labor, though not above its necessity, they lived in 'stuck up' idleness, and depended mainly on the hard earnings of the mother for support. Finally, Maria, who was the youngest, and rather pretty, managed to win the heart and hand of the village physician, and got married. The alliance be considered as a decided step 'up in the world,' by all the family, the single sisters grew prouder and lazier than ever, while the doctor's wife took a new and improved set of airs to match her advancement in the scale of 'good society.' Being comfortably bestowed in her new house, she began to need somebody to mind the pots and kettles; and seeing a neighbor (a thrifty mechanic, who used to be 'boss' to her father in the same carpenter's shop) going past the door, she called out to him, in an affected manner, to know 'where she could find a servant'—expecting to get an offer of one of his daughters. 'Well, I don't know,' said the carpenter; 'help is a little hard to be got just now; but there are the widow Brown's girls, whom, I should think, you might get, as they are dreadful poor, and seem to be always out of work.' Some neighbors who overheard the colloquy, says that madam retreated into her house with a precipitancy that was quite alarming to behold, and never spoke of the carpenter afterwards, but as 'a vulgar fellow who knew nothing of the proper distinctions of society.'—Boston Post.

PRIDE AND POVERTY.—How often they go together. The young men and the young women, who make the best outside appearance—who wear the finest cloth, and the most costly dress, are not always the wealthiest. Sometimes they stint appetites to cover their backs. When we see poor girls, or poor young men dressed out for show, we cannot but pity their folly. We have seen elegant furniture carried into a house, where we knew a person could not pay his just debts. It is the height of folly to attempt to keep up appearances where there is no foundation. Would not a man be a fool to build his house upon the sand? As great a fool is he who erects a splendid edifice, while he is not able to furnish a single room inside, and perhaps never will be. Pride and show have ruined many a person. Let all beware. Make no deceitful appearances, and if you are really poor, have the manliness to acknowledge it at once. It will save you a world of mortification.

LITERARY.—A gentleman, looking upon an extensive conflagration, expressed his surprise in three words, each the name of an English author: 'Dickens, Howitt, Burns!'

Our boy, John, a very indiosyncratic cognomen, by the way, states that among his elite and fashionable friends, horse-stables are now termed 'ge-who-logical' institutes.

Owing to the limited amount of business caused by the cholera panic, on the mail steamers, from this city to Albany, we learn that in order to pay expenses, the captains have undertaken to transport all kinds of live stock—and coming down last week on the "South America," we thought we might just as well have taken the 'Cattle line.'

In a region not a hundred miles from this place, were the 'young idea' is taught 'how to shoot,' they hang out a sign in the words and figures following, to wit:—"bOrdiNg SkoOl,"—Newark Mercury.

A TIDE-MARK.—A green, one who had crossed the Atlantic, told a story of a storm, when the rain poured down in such torrents, that the ocean rose six inches.

'There's no mistake,' said he, 'because the captain kept a mark on the side of the vessel.'

The "nomination not fit to be made" will tarry a day with Daniel Webster, at Marshfield, on his visit to the East.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, August 30, 1849.

Jerseyman awake! your rights are trampled on, you are no longer freeman! A portion of your rights, of the unalienable rights of the people of New Jersey have been basely surrendered by your servants, and are now held by a despotic and soulless corporation to the manifest and manifold injury of the people of New-Jersey; basely surrendered by those whose duty it is to protect them, bargained, sold, aliened, enfeoffed, conveyed, and confirmed, unto the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Deleware and Raritan Canal Companies, and to their heirs forever!—By whom? By your servants, by men whom you selected and who swore to protect your rights, by the support of the Constitution of your State Do not strive to excuse yourselves and criminate your opponents, you are all equally guilty—The one which granted the monopoly charter, and every succeeding one which has not abolished it, even to the last which has proven itself equally corrupt with any which has preceded it, by its creation of others of a monopolizing character, with the dishonorable, corrupt, degrading, conditions of a free passage to the officers of the State, Judges of Courts, and Members of Legislature!

Will the Sovereign people of New Jersey of all parties, of any party, thus tamely submit to the usurpation of their rights, without an effort to redeem them? The time has now come to enquire into and assert your rights; all honest men of all parties admit that the people are now being robbed of their rights by these companies.

The people are now alive to the fact that all monopolies and especially this overgrown monster are a usurpation of their rights, unconstitutional and unjust. By what right, they are beginning to enquire does a monopoly exist? Is there one line of the Constitution which declares that this or any other company have the exclusive right to lay a track to carry passengers and merchandise from Amboy to Camden or to any other points? If there is the people ask to see it; if there is not they desire that the privelege shall not be exercised, but be left open to the free competition of equal rights. Shall they be told this is an act of the people in their sovereign legislative capacity and that thus they have delegated away their equal and unalienable rights? Will this do to tell the people who are establishing Free Schools, who read newspapers, and whose forefathers died that they might be free.

Where is the difference whether we are the slaves of some tyranical king, or of a railroad monopoly? the one flesh and blood can be made to feel, to relinquish, his usurpations; the other soulless, irresponsible, and beyond the control of its creators, its victims! But thanks be to God the people have a protector; a guardian in the PRESS, that enemy of tyrants; whether they be kings, or corporations, the Press big with the equal unalienable rights of man; incorruptible; being like the polypus prolific, its destruction by tyrants only multiplies its life, and although they may buy up some that are old and corrupt then immediately hundreds start into existence, humble though they be like ourselves, to poor to purchase, and thus remain the assertors and protectors of the equal rights of man.

☞ Is there a God? Are the Christian Scriptures true? Are the Christians of Plainfield, the Ministers and Deacons aware that these questions are now being ably, logically, and profoundly set forth in a course of three lectures, terminating with the last this (Wednesday) evening at 1-2 past 7 o'clock, at the Second Baptist Church, by the Rev. Dr. West? When this doctrine was first promulgated in Judea we read that they were principally fishermen and infidels, (working men) that believed, and that the priests kept aloof from the "seditious fellow." Do they yet consider the doctrine seditious? In charity we must suppose that they have not had notice.

☞ Mr. A. McLaurin will commence his lessons in Penmanship at the Free School on Monday Sept. 3d; his terms are $1.25 for ten lessons. His specimens which we have seen show him to be a perfect master of the art. Do not let so favorable an opportunity pass for acquiring so indispensable, pleasureable, and profitable an art.

How many young men there are who will soon be called upon to take our places in the busy scenes of life, who now appear to be totally indifferent to its important and responsible duties; who neglect the opportunities of youth, the guardian care of kind parents and friends, to acqure the all important knowledge so necessary to the enlightened exercise of the duties and privileges of freemen. Do they expect that the important duties which will soon devolve upon them, can be properly discharged without a proper knowledge of what those duties are? The most ignorant among you know that if you want a coat made it is necessary to go to a tailor, to one whose peculiar business it is to make such a garment, to one who has learned the art and mystery of making a coat; and so likewise if you want a horse shod you do not go to a tailor but to one whose peculiar busines it is; just so with the all important duties which you will soon be called upon to perform; and which cannot be inteligibly performed without knowing what they are. Do you expect to acquire this without an effort; by congregating together for the purpose of obscene and ribbald discourse to the exclusion of all serious reflection? As well might you take your horse to the tailors to be shod, as to expect to acquire the knowledge necessary to the enlightened discharge of the duties of freemen at such a place.

None more than ourselves like to see the young rationally enjoy themselves, it is all proper and necessrry; but do not let this interfere with the more important duties you owe to society, to yourselves and to your country.

We know there are some who may sneer at, and treat with contempt these remarks; but at the same time we know there are many and we trust they are the larger portion, who need but a word of kind advice, and a hint to point out the way who will improve it; to all such we submit the following for their serious consideration:—

Very many of the greatest men in the world have arisen from its most humble citizens; from those who like ourselves and yourselves, have had to depend on their own recourses for all they have afterward become in life. Such men have had great influence in the world, and which has arisen entirely from their own decision of character, acquired while like yourselves serving an apprenticeship; such habits have been formed in almost every case by reading, by reflection, by industry, by PERSEVERANCE. Let the young man but resolve to become someteing and he will never resolve to become bad. Ask yourselves what is your object in life; make but this single reflection and the result cannot fail but be beneficial. Look abroad through the world, through our own state, through our own village, and see who those are who have the most influence, and who occupy the most important positions in society; are they those who possesed the advantages in early life of wealth, or are they not rather those who have been in early life cast upon their own resources, and thus from necessity become the architects of their own fortunes and character? This was especially the case with Franklin, who landed in Philadelphia with but a single dollar, a poor printers boy; with Roger Sherman who was a boot and shoe maker; with Simeon Cameron now of the United States Senate, who was also a poor printer boy; with David Rittenhouse with Thomas Ewbank, with John Fitch, with Oliver Evans, with former Mayors of New York, Mickle and Brady, and hosts of others whom at the moment we do not recollect, who have arisen from as humble stations in life as any of you, who have become by their own efforts, by resolving to become SOMETHING, by study, by reflection, by industry by PERSEVERANCE, the able Statesmen, Philosophers, Mechanics, Merchants, and Patriots which we know them to have been; honored by all men, and whose lives have made them immortal in their countries history.

Your opportunities are equal to what theirs were, therefore make an effort; do not because you may think you cannot achieve what they did, despair; resolve immediately, at the present reading, to become somebody; to achieve, something you do not know what you may do until you try, you may achieve as much as any of them, aye more; there is nothing to prevent but the want of resolution, of perseverance.

NEWARK CRIES.—E—oh! pea-cheese! e-tha-go. Uk—kle—bir—rees; Pi—nappeels, Tum—ma—teeo, e—a—go.—Newark Daily Mercury.

We copy the following sensible, just, and important remarks from the Newark Daily Mercury. They are worthy the attention of all, and especially of our whig friends of this place who appear to be rather indifferent on so important a subject. Will they admit of their application to them? Will the democrats? We shall see.

The Monopoly Question.

As the period approaches for the State Convention to be held for the purpose of developing the action of the people of the state on the Monopoly question, we find a general anxiety pervading the public mind, that their action may be honest in its purpose, and efficient in its execution. It is too late to play at the cross purpose of politicians, for a public sentiment is aroused which no temporary expedient can satisfy and no ordinary compromise conciliate. Not only has this feeling taken root among our people, but sentiment abroad is combining with action at home, in endeavoring to check a great Monoply reckless of public or private interests, and careful only of its own aggrandizement. Ordinary cases cannot compare with this when we recognize the fact that for years our legislatures have been their instruments, used but to perpetuate their enormous powers. Our state Directors have been anxious only that year by year the receipts of the State Treasury should be increased, or in collusion with the objects and designs of the companies. But the time has come when the action, must take place upon this vital question. Our state may be small, her people, unused to extreme measures, but if it is forced upon them let these joint companies beware!

We are daily told that the Whig ascendancy in the State is endangered by the movement; that by its operation Burlington, Middlesex, Camden and Passaic will be lost to that party friendly to those monopolies, and obliged to shield them from the indignant expression of the people?

'No, but they are unprepared to act and therefore choose to be neutral upon the question' Then depend upon it. if they can learn no lesson from experience, they must prepare to suffer the consequences. In the winter of 1842 the question of revising the State constitution was brought before the people, and was met by the Whigs with silence and by the Democratic party with approval. This alone was sufficient to account for the success which the latter party experienced in the ensuing year. It is madness to remain upon the bank when the fatal land slide is certain to involve you in ruin. All that regards the internal welfare of our State, its consideration and character abroad, its honor and just pride in its past heritage and renown, are contending in a struggle against wealth hitherto unimportant, but now powerless before the movement of the masses. The whig party if it would preserve its strength must represent the popular will, and move, onward in all just reforms and redress all evils within the scope of its design. It may justly take its stand against anarchy and destruction when it has been foremost against error and wrong.

Upon this question and its decision the interests of New Jersey hang; it is far more important to us that the state should be freed from this incubus than that its local goverment should be in the hands of either party. Let the party now in ascendancy acknowledge publicly as they do privately the justice of the movement against these Monopolies, assist in curtailing their enormous privileges, and in restoring a proper legislative power to the State, and they need having nothing to fear:

'Thrice is he armed, who hath his quarrel just,
And he but naked, tho' locked up in steel,
Whose conscience within injustice is corrupted.'

The Irishman on the Queen's Visit.

Her Majesty has come, and is already gone. She has been in Cork, and was 'charmed with the magnificent river'—if you can believe Sir George Grey. She has been in Dublin, and was interested and delighted by the intellectual conversation of Tim O'Brien and his compeers. She has seen Ireland, which means that she has visited a few aristocratic streets, and dined at the Viceregal Lodge–places, with the addition of the Mansion-House, the most un-Irish of all Ireland. But she has not seen the Coombe, which represents this country better than Sackville-street; nor has she entered a single Workhouse, though much more characteristic of our condition than the Viceregal Lodge.

For, let us ask ourselves, like practical men, what has she done for us? In what way has she realized the promises of the Press?

What has she done? She has spoken in high terms of our glorious scenery—has baptised our beautiful Cove 'Queenstown' has knighted some renegades from the cause of truth—has driven through our principal streets, and bowed graciously to the few who welcome her—has held a Levee, at which seedy loyalists attended—has drank rich wines—

'Rich as the wine of the vine benign
Which flames so warm in Sansovine,' and eaten of sumptuous meats, and slept on beds of down and there the matter ends. She has done nothing to relieve our poverty—she has given no employment, she has thrown us no money, she has ordered no food. On the contrary, she has ratified the acts of Whiggery—subscribed the 'law of Blackburue, and approved of the policy of Clarendon.

Mass Meeting in the Park.

The meeting of the friends of Hungarian Liberty, of all nations and languages, resident in New York, took place Monday Aug. 27th. according to previous appointment, at 4 o' clock, P. M. An auspicious sun shone forth with splendor for the occasion, and under the broad canopy of Heaven were assembled a multitude of enthusiastic spirits, glowing with zeal and animation in the sacred cause of Humanity which had called them together. The Park must have contained not less than 15,000 people, whose hearts beat high in sympathy and hope for the magnanimous nation whose cause they had espoused.

Here, fellow-citizens, from the heart of our proud and populous City, must we send up our voices, and earnestly call upon all who love Freedom, in the full and holy acceptation of the term—to join in one loud acclaim, that it may become world-wide known, that the people of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, RECOGNIZE THE HUNGARIANS AS A FREE AND INDEPENDENT PEOPLE AMONG THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That the form of government which a people may choose never has been and never should be a matter of question by other nations; but the principles at the base of that government may at all times be questioned and discussed. Nay, more; the nations of the world have a right to interfere and prevent tyranny in any form. True, the policy of the world is peace, but peace may be bought at too dear a price; and they who endeavor to vindicate their rights are worthy of all honor, whether that vindication come in the thunder-tones of Eloquence, or in the force of the gleaming Sabre on the battle-field!

In the full belief of the foregoing sentiments, the people of the City of New-York, in public meeting assembled, hereby declare and proclaim our sympathies with the patriotic Hungarians who have devoted their lives and fortunes and sacred honor to the cause of their country against the tyranny of Austria, on one hand, and against the imperial ambition of the Czar of Russia, on the other: and we say to Kossuth, Bem, Dembinski, Gorgey and Guyon, as well as their compatriots, God speed you!

Resolved, That what form of government the Hungarians may adopt, in the event of a seperation from Austria, it is not our object at present to divine or suggest. In the meantime, let their liberties and nationality be preserved, and we are satisfied. So far, indeed, they have shown a devotion to free institutions. The Hungarian Diet has already abolished the priviliges of Nobility, freed the serfs, invested actual cultivators of the soil with freehold rights, proclaimed the freedom of the press and of religious belief, placed all citizens on an equal basis before the laws, and created a representative government.—Their attachment, therefore, to liberal principles, as well as their unexampled patriotism, ther undaunted bravery, for the independence of their country, demand at our hands all the assistance which our free and happy country can render to so deserving a nation.

Resolved, That no nation in modern times has presented stronger claims to the admiration of the civilized world than the people of Hungary, whom we greet in the language of our beloved Washington to the French Ambassador, Adet, on his presenting the colors of Republican France after her first Revolution, "We rejoice wheresoever, in any country, we see a nation unfold the banner of freedom. To call your nation brave, were but common praise;—wonderful people, ages to come shall read with astonishment the history your exploits."

Resolved, That having made and established a declaration of human rights, without precedent in the anals of the world, we rejoice in every demonstration in behalf of Freedom, and that our sympathies are raised to-day in favor of a nation of heroic descent and heroic action.

Resolved, That we tender to the patriots of Hungary our heartfelt congratulations on their success in resisting the encroachments of Tyranny, and our confidence that the right will prevail, and Hungary be elevated to the position of one of the first nations of Europe.

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this meeting, it is held as the bounden duty of the Cabinet at Washington to immediately recognise the Hungarians as a free and independent nation, and so instruct our representatives in Europe without delay.

☞ We hear of numerous complaints of boys and young men who are in the regular habit of marring and breaking fences, buildings, &c., Now this disgraceful conduct we are pleased to learn has proceeded its full length, and the proper authorities have determined to make an example of the first violation of the peace of which cognizance can be had; and they call upon all good citizens to aid them in bringing such persons to justice, by giving information of all such breaches of the peace.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mr. James Watts, near Martinville, in Bridgewater, Somerset Co., on Saturday last, accidentally threw down a loaded gun, by which its whole contents were discharged into his knee, making a frightful wound, which soon mortified. On Sunday his leg was amputated; he died on Sunday evening.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Will you give place to the following Prices Current, in the moral market of Portland, which I copy from the Portland (Me.) Pleasure Boat; which with some very slight alterations will be found to apply "first rate" to the home market of this place. By so doing you will "candidly express" the "opinions" of a SUBSCRIBER.

Portland Price Current.

HONESTY.—Stock in the market very light, at 90 per cent discount and very litttle demand for it.

ROGUERY.—Stock large, demand good, price 90 per cent above par.

CHARITY.—There is great demand for this article, among the poorer classes, and great need of it among the rich, but very little in the market.

HUMANITY.—This article has gone out of fashion here; very little in the city, and what there is is chiefly in the hearts of the poor who have not funds to put it in operation.

PRIEST-CRAFT AND CHURCH-CRAFT.—As these articles are now extensively used to cover fraud and trickery, and sin and iniquity of all kinds, the demand is rapidly increasing; indeed no other stock in the market sells so quick nor brings so high a price.

OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTIANITY.—There is but little of this stock in the city, and but little demand for it, churches have cast it aside like old furniture or useless lumber. A few of the poor and unfortunate, aged worn-out people and poor widows, have a little on hand for their own use, but the priests and their flocks, together with the rich and prosperous have supplied its place with hypocricy which suits their turns much better, as it imposes no cross but gives them more scope in grinding the faces of the poor, and in the gratification of the lusts.

AVARICE.—No sales at present. Nearly all use the article, but are well supplied.

"The candid opinions of "Subscriber" both now and in a former communication we trust are rather harsh for the "home market" of this or any other rural town of New Jersey; yet as we know by sad experience that there is a little, it may be "very slight" truth in his "opinions candidly expressed" that we give them place, hoping thereby that those interested will see the necessity of redeeming the good name of one of the fairest villages but for the "very slight" abberations of man in all creation."—[EDS. GAZETTE.

EXTRACTS FROM THE JOURNAL OF

FRANCIS F. RIPLEY, ESQ.

Erom the Dailg Standard.

RIO JANERIO, May 27th, 1849.

I must give you a criminating account of myself in describing the singular manner in which we spent the sabbath, yesterday, being Whitsunday, or pentecost. It was a great festival day in the Romish church in commemoration of the descent of the Holy Spirit on the day of pentecost, being the seventh Sunday after Easter.—The only apology I can offer in mitigation of my departure from our northern custom, is, that I have often read and heard of the peculiar customs of these Catholic countries, more particularly of Italy, Spain, Portugal and Brazil, and I felt desirous of being an eye-witness to some of their Sabbath-scenes, and therefore require very little apology. After breakfast we dressed with the intention of going to an Episcopal church, but some of the passengers said that the preaching was dull and prosy, so we read and conversed until after dinner, when 18 or 20 of us went to witness a bull-fight, which only occurs on Sunday. The place of exhibition was a large circle in the center on the ground surrounded by an ample barricade or broad fence, outside of which were seats after the amphitheater style, surmounted by a circle of boxes, which are occupied by ladies and the higher classes. One of the boxes is splendidly decorated and curtained for the emperor and suite, after the manner of the old English tilting grounds. In these boxes we took our seats a little time previous to the commencement of the entertainment, anxiously awaiting the introduction of the bulls, which were represented to have had nothing to eat for three days previous to the onslaught, to whet up the dull edge of their fury, and consequently add to the intensity of the interest. At length a pair of huge doors opened on one side of the circle and the entree of a cavalier in full dress, on horseback, took place, followed by eight men on foot in fighting dresses, which can better be described by saying they were theatrical in appearance, each carrying a red shawl or blanket in his hand. These men or mattadores, were neither powerful, athletic, or active, and I thought presented a very easy conquest for an enraged bull, in fact they were miserable representatives of the heroes of the Olympic games, but such as they were, they were sufficient to kindle up our curiosity to a high key. The horseman took his station on one side of the arena, and those on foot deployed themselves across from the emperor's box to the opposite side. This arrangement being concluded, the folding doors again opened, which presented to the audience a fine-looking man, well dressed and well formed, with a green military coat, and a green falling plume in his chapeau, which, as he caracolled his roan to the emperor's box he doffed most gracefully; then prancing his horse sideways round the whole circle, he took his position near the center of the arena, a little to the left of the folding gates through which the bulls were to be admitted, being opposite to the entrance of the champions. This, as we were informed by one who spoke English, was the principal bull-fighter, who engaged the bull on horseback, all the others being on foot except the horseman who first entered, who took no part in the contest but to escape to another part of the arena when the combat raged too fiercely where he was. There was a good band of music which played at intervals. After some little suspense and we being all on the qui vive to see the first attack of the first bull, the gates were suddenly thrown open and in dashed a bull who rushed to the center, when the applause and noise caused by his entrance seemed to set him almost wild. He turned his head quickly from one object to another in the ring, and then plunged at the horseman who received him with a sort of pike or javelin, about eight feet in length, with which he wounds him in the back of the neck between the head and shoulders. Their aim is always there, which gives evidence of their braving his horns to inflict the wound. The javelin, which is only used by the horseman, is sawed partly through about two feet from the point, which is iron or steel, with a barb like a fish-hook, and the handle of wood, so that when he strikes the point in his neck, the shaft breaks where it is sawed, leaving about two feet of the handle dangling from the bull's neck, showing a good or a bad thrust of the champion; when good, the house rings with applause, when bad, silence prevails, and when two or three successively bad, they hiss.—Those on foot are provided with a short weapon about two and a half feet in length, with a wooden handle and barb in the end, which remains entire hanging from the animal's neck. These short weapons, or "darts," as Byron calls them in Childe Harold, are ornamented with paper braid of various colors, and when six or seven of them were suspended from his neck, which was the case, he becomes enraged and furious, and withal, looks quite bedizened. But one bull is admitted at a time, and when he enters, his first attack is upon the horseman, the footmen unwilling to encounter him until he has spent some of his freshness and vigor upon his more defensible assailant; then they come forward with their red shawls, and as the bull plunges at the shawl the man springs aside and thrusts his dart in the neck of the bull, leaving it there as a proof of his dexterity. The bull's horns are covered with a thick leather covering as a preventive against the invasion of the mattadore's abdominals, and twice, during the entertainment, did one of the bulls divest one of his horns of this appendage presenting a sharp uncovered weapon which struck his adversaries with terror. When this occurred it became necessary to secure the gentleman and clothe him, with more security, which was done by throwing a lasso over his horns and putting on his leathern thimbles, which done, he was again let loose upon his valiant tormentors. Several times the bulls attempted to leap over the barrier between them and the audience, and almost succeeded, creating great consternation in that part of the house.—When the bull was so far cowed down and exhausted that he would not attack his assailant, he was secured in a very singular manner. One of the heaviest and strongest of the champions would go up and spat his hands in front of the bull and approach him nearer until the bull would rush at him, the man being very careful to fall upon the bull's head between his horns and clasp his arms tightly round his neck and there hold himself with all his strength until two other men would run up and seize him by the horns, and then aided by two more they marched his highness out. In one instance the bull succeeded in throwing the man up, who fell with his head downward and I thought had broken his neck, for he lay perfectly still until two men came up and carried him back, when he appeared as well as ever. Thus it continued until four bulls had gone through the scene of action. The throwing of the lasso was elegantly done the first time, but afterward indifferently. After the performance was over we went down into the arena, and although we could not make ourselves understood except by signs, they gave me one of the footman's darts, and one of the handles of a broken javelin, which I shall endeavor to bring home as curiosities.

DIED.

In this place, on Sunday Aug. 26th of Consumption, Cristopher Stewart, in the 72 year of his age.

At Shorthills on Monday Aug. 27th Sarah Dolbeer, aged 76 years.

HELP.

☞ THE time of a colored girl of industrious habits, and in good health, who has nine years to serve, (being now twelve years of age) is offered for sale. For particulars enquire at this office.

Aug 28. 1849.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

GET UP A CLUB!
And Secure a Free Copy!

ROBERT F. GREELEY'S
Splendid New Romance, Entitled the
CHILD OF THE ISLANDS!
Or the Ship-Wrecked Gold Seekers!
Will appear immediately in successive numbers of the New York

LITERARY AMERICAN.

It is founded on the wild adventures of a party of California Gold seekers, who were wrecked on a desert island in the Pacific Ocean, and went through strange and thrilling scenes. It is believed that this is one of the most vivid and able works that has lately appeared. It will be COPYRIGHTED. The Literary American is well known throughout the country as a moral and entertaining FAMILY NEWSPAPER, got up in the best style for binding, and forming every year two large volumes of more than 1000 pages!

☞ Back numbers furnished to order.

TERMS.—Served in cities, 6 cents a week.
To mail subscribers,

One copy in advance,	$3 00
Two copies, "	5 00
Clubs of Ten, "	20 00

and a free coy to the person getting up a club.

The best and cheapest way to subscribe is to get up a club

Agents wanted in every town in the United States.

All persons who forward us Three Dollars for a years subscrition, to commence with the 1st Number of Vol. III. (July 7th 1849,) will be furnished with all the back numbers, containig Mayne Reid's Great Romance of "WAR LIFE," gratis.

☞ Send in your names and money at once, by mail, at our risk, to

G. P. QUACKENBOS,
105 Nassau-st., N. Y.

NEW VOLUME OF THE

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

To Inventors, Mechanics and Artizans.

The Publishers of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in returning their thanks to the community for the liberal support and encouragement which has been extended to them during the past four years, would respectfully give notice that the first number of Volume 5, will be issued on the 22d of September, affording a favorable opportunity for all to subscribe, who may wish to avail themselves of the valuable information always found in its columns. The new volume will be commenced with new type, printed on extra fine paper, manufactured expressly for this publication, and embelished with a chaste and elegant border. It will be published as heretofore in quarto form, thus affording at the end of the year a BEAUTIFUL BOOK of OVER 400 PAGES, containing between 5 and 600 ORIGINAL ENGRAVINGS of NEW INVENTIONS, described by letters of reference besides a great amount of reading matter, valuable to every man in the country

An increased amount of care and expense will be bestowed upon this Volume to render it more fully what it has been termed, 'The best mechanical Paper in the World.' Its columns as usual will be filled with the most reliable and correct information in regard to the progress of SCIENTIFIC and MECHANICAL improvements, CHEMISTRY, ARCHITECTURE, BOTANY, MANUFACTURES, RAIL ROAD intelligence, and the WEEKLY LIST OF PATENTS, prepared expressly for this Journal at the Patent Office in Washington.

As an evidence of the estimation in which this publication is held by the Scientific and Mechanical portion of the community, it is only necessary to state, that its circulation has increased within the last three years to upwards of 10,000 copies, already exceeding the united circulation of all the Mechanical and Scientific publications in this country, and the largest of any single one in the world.

TERMS:—Two dollars a years in advance, or if desired, one dollar in advance, and the remainder in six months.

To CLUBS:—5 copies, $8; 10 copies, $15; 20 copies; $28.

All letters must be post-paid and directed to. MUNN & CO.
Publishers of the Scientific American,
New York.

N. B.—Patents secured snd mechanical drawings excuted on the most reasonable terms at the Scientific Ameican office.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Aug. 29.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 44
RYE FLOUR	3 25
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 25
CORN	57 a 60
OATS	36 a 38

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62
OATS " do	33 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	16 a 18
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

WHO
WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4 This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

PLAIN AND FANCY
STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Tatsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

FIRE AND WATER
PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

BONNETS,
AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,
The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.
Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14/77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.
April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849 1y

AN UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

FROM THE INFANCY OF MANKIND TO THE PRESENT TIME. By G. C. Hebbe, L. L. D. Now ready 1st volume bound in cloth.—Price $1.75 and to be continued in monthly parts, until finished, five numbers forming a volume 25 cents per number.

The author of this work seems to have had in constant view the celebrated treaties of Lucian—"How a history ought to be written." Truth in its severity, and reason in its manly state are the chief Muses and graces to which he has done obedience. What a different view has been presented to us by other historians. No wonder that the numbers already issued have met with a large sale, and have been hailed by frequent laudatory notices of the press, of which abridged extracts are here subjoined.

[From the Democratic Review.]

This beautiful octavo—the first volume of Dr. Hebbe's Universal History—forms the initial volume of a new and greatly improved work, devoted to the history of the Universe, based not merely upon the usually received data of former historians but derived from the best authorities, attested by revelations of modern discovery. The recent researches in archœelogy by Chevalier Bunsen, and other learned investigators, among ancient monumental records, have so entirely changed the aspect of primitive times and revealed so many important new data, that the wonder has been not that such a work as the present should make its appearance but rather that the task should not have been before attempted in Europe. From a somewhat careful examination of this volume, however, we find no cause to regret that the theme should have been reserved for the judicious and laborious press of Dr. Hebbe. To such as cannot command the leisure of more systematic course of study, this work proves eminently important and valuable, since, when completed, it will form a compendious library of universal history, the most accurate and complete extant, and written up to the spirit of the age.

[From the N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 23]

In regard to the literary execution of this work we have spoken as the numbers appeared but not as fully as its merits deserve. Now, on re-examination, we hesitate not to pronounce that this volume, as a history of the earliest period of mankind, has no rival in any single work of universal history in the English language.

[From Graham's Magazine]

The author of the Universal History, now in publication, judging from the portion already published, is equal to his task. He comes to it prepared by twenty years of study, and a familiar acquaintance with all the necessary authorities, not only those to whom we look for solid records of facts, but those who have gone beneath the surface of events, and tracked the source of politicial convulsions by a thousand pulses, back to the hidden heart of some great principle.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Hebbe by availing himself of the light of which the Egyptian hierologists and other investigators of antiquity, have shed on the earliest history of man, by means of his vast erudition enabling him to avoid the errors of compilers, and to draw from the original and most undoubted sources of authority, and by his acute judgment, his liberal philosophy, his deep sympathy with humanity, and his enthusiastic love for his favorite study has produced what may be termed in many respects an original history of the infant nations of the world. The work is written in the most enlarged and liberal spirit, while the author rejects the supersition of the ancient priesthood he is a stout defender of the immortal and sublime truths of Christianity.

[From the N. Y. True Sun.]

The style of Dr. Hebbe, though writing in a tongue foreign to him, is always flowing and animated, sometimes picturesque and sometimes even eloquent and sublime.

This work appears in monthly numbers—seven numbers now ready.

A liberal discount to the trade. Sent by mail to to any part of the country.

Dewitt & Davenport, Tribune Buildings, Nassau-street New-York.

☞ Papers inserting the above three times, including this notice and noticing the nos. as they appear, will have the back nos sent to them by forwarding a copy of their paper to the publishers marked. Also receive the numbers as fast as published.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers—price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B. Peterson., No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD, OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa, MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

THOMAS A. MORTON,
ABRAHAM A. KING.
WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,

Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.

SIMEON F. RANDOLPH,
JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

CARRIAGE MAKING, AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

Mrs. A. M Sanford,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following Card of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

Dr. S. A. Pearson: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1849. | NO. 38.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.

WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country.) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

From the Tribune.

Love All.

Love all! There is no living thing
Which God has not created;
Love all! There is no living thing.
Which God has ever hated:
His love sustains the meanest life,
Whate'er doth live or perish—
And man may not disdain to love
What God has loved to cherish.

Love all! For hate begetteth hate,
And love through love increaseth;
Love all! For hate shall faint and fail,
While love like God ne'er ceaseth:
Love is the law, the life supreme,
The goal where all are tending;
The hate shall die, the strife shall cease.
But Love is never ending

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Nor silent sea, nor level lake
More truly glass the scenes they take,
In their calm bosom; than her face,
Reflects each beauty, virtue, grace.
[SCOTT.

Ah she is gentle as the spring
That wakes the bloom and sents the dawn,
As sinless as the birds which sing
Metallic choral songs to morn.

Ah lovlier she thanare the flowers
With brimming tearful dew be-sprent,
As soothing in her smile as hours
When loves star lights the orient.

Her pastime is the joy of birds
Warbled in love songs in the vale,
As tender as impassioned words,
In wondrous sad ancestral tale,

Her beauties seen in young springs prime
Her eye as soft as dew that wets
With tristful tears in that sweet time
The blue of virgin violets.

And like the lillies of the stream
From its blue bosom mind—uplifted
Her eyes beneath those soft-lids beam [ed
As skies whence two pale clouds have drift-

In summer doth her beauty dwell
Her cheek a crimson hue hath on,
As hath the harvest jarjonell
The blushing side that meets the sun.

Those silken tresses autumn hath
Their semblance in its smile of grief
When in the vale up wild wood path
Glints in the wood the golden leaf

When winters ruffian gust doth blow
His sleety breath o'er northern hill.
Her heart is like the valley's snow
As stainless but ah! not as chill,

I know not if her bosom feels
The glow that human love imparts
Diviner Loves to her reveals
Evangels known of holier hearts

For pity; gentle pity, dwells
In every thought, tone, smile and air
Her eyes are Loves own liquid wells
And truth is seen not hidden there.

Plainfield N. J.

☞ BAPTISMAL.—A poor woman in one of the Middle States who lisped, carried her daughter to church for baptism. Being asking its name by the bishop, she replied, 'Luthy sir.' 'What?' says the doctor. 'Luthy sir,' says she. 'Lucifer, Lucifer; that wont do,' says the bishop, and baptized the child George Washington. The poor mother, confounded could, not speak until near the church door, when she told the parson the infant was a girl.

LANGUAGES.—Thera are three thousand six hundred and sixty-four known languages now used in the world. Of these, nine hundred and thirty-seven are Asiastic; five hundred and eighty-seven European; two huudred and seventy-six African; and one thousand six hundred and twenty-four American languages and dialects.

'Pa, ain't I growing tall?' 'Why whot's your height, soney?' 'Why! I'm seven feet, lacking a yard. Ain't that some?' Pa fainted.

A wag recently defined moustaches to be the upper lip in mourning for the brains!

The parent who would train up a child in the way he should, go, must go in the way in which he would train up the child.

EXTRACTS FROM THE JOURNAL OF

FRANCIS F. RIPLEY, ESQ.

Erom the Dailg Standard.

[CONTINUED.]

After the bull-fight was over we repaired to a hotel and took tea, then went up to a spacious square or common opposite to which was a church brilliantly illuminated, not as we do in the states, but by having hooks fastened all over the exterior of their churches, on which are hung glass lamps forming figures to suit their own fancy, among which the cross figures most conspicuously. The churches were also illuminated inside as well as out, with numerous candles from eight to ten feet in length. In front of the church is a very large porch also surrounded by lamps, on which a dignitary of the church was selling at auction, turkeys, hens, chickens, pigeons, and all kinds of toys and cakes, interspersing his sale with jokes and witty observations, at which the multitude would ever and anon patronise with a generous bar-room laugh.—We passed through the church in all its brilliancy, then out upon the common in front of the church where was erected an immense tent, covering I shoud think a plot of ground fifty feet by seventy-five, which proved, upon our entering it to be a theatre. All sorts of buffoonry was being performed upon the stage, together with an impotent attempt at a "Jim Crow dance," and other theatrical performances. Their police is composed of numerous armed soldiery who are distributed throughout all these places of religious and other amusements as well as in their churches. While in this theatre, one of these soldiers discovered the little barb in the end of my bull-baiting weapon, and as the Californians as well as all foreigners are forbid to carry any kind of weapon, he seized it and attempted to take it from me, but not succeeding, another one came up and also seized it and attempted to force it from me, which I refused to relinquish without some explanation, and as I could not understand them nor they me, we three men holding on to one stick and all engaged in unintelligible jabber, created some confusion, when a spectator stepped up and told me of their police regulations, and that they would take me to the Calaboose, when I requested him to say to them, that I had procured this dart at the bull-fight in the afternoon, and I wished to retain it as a curiosity merely, upon which they concluded to break off the barb while I held on to the handle. The evening being far spent we repaired to the ship, in posession of the ocular knowledge of the manner in which the Brazillians celebrate their holy saints' days, as well as the Sabbath, which we could hardly believe unless we DID see.

MONDAY, May 28th. To-day the passengers of the bark Mazeppa went up into a large public square in the city and engaged in a game of ball to the great delight and amusement of the citizens, who crowded about us in such numbers that it was almost impossible to keep them without our bounds, and who, I suppose had never witnessed anything of the kind before, as they are a very inactive, lazy set of people, whose supineness is attributable to this particular climate. I should think there were about 1500 people collected in the square. When a boy I was very expert in the game, and when we played here, I found I had not forgotton how, for when we returned to the ship they reported me, (excuse my egotism,) the best player on the ground. I made several attempts to keep the people back out of our bounds, but could not make them understand, and finally two or three gentlemen who appeared to understand me, took it in hand and gave us a fine chance. They have a great number of soldiers in Rio who are always about when any part of the city is threatened with disturbance, and as soon as the people began to collect about us, we descried a company of soldiers in one corner of the square. We had some very good players among us and the game went off very pleasantly and peaceably. Some of the citizens were very desirous of seeing our ball and knowing how it was made, and whenever it was knocked among them during the game, they would dodge and run as though it had been a cannon ball, and when they saw us throw it so swift, and catch it so readily in one hand or both, as occasion required, it seemed to surprise them.

FRIDAY, June 1st. About a dozen of us took a boat and went down to fort Villegagnon to witness a military execution, but were dissappointed, as well as many other Californians, who were not allowed to land, so we went on board the frigate Brandywine which was lying in the harbor, and were shown very politely all over the ship. The people of Rio readily distinguish us Americans as we pass along the streets, and the men and boys are continually calling out to us in their peculiar sonorous way "California," but they always say it in a good-natured way, and whenever we meet any other Californians in the street, we sing out to them in the Portuguese style, "California," which is our general mode of introduction.

Love at First Sight.

BY SAMUEL SCRIVNER, ESQ.

So gaze met gaze,
And heart saw heart, translucid through rays;
One same, harmonious, universal law,
Atom to atom, star to star can draw,
And heart to heart! Swift darts, as from the sun,
The strong attraction, and the charm is done!

"You have dropped your glove, Miss."

"Thank you," replied Lucinella; in a bewitching tone of voice, and having taken her glove, she took her seat in the car which she entered—then gazed at him who had restored her lost kid

He was a scraggy, lank individual, who was evidently of no common rank in society. Dumas' last novel and a late number of the London Punch peeped out from the ample pockets of a loose, short-skirted dark- green jacket: a broad blue stripe adorned his gosling-green unmentionables; and his shapeless travelling hat was jauntily stuck on one side of his head. A mild mustache gave an expression to a countenance neither strictly Roman, Grecian, Saxon or Jewish, but combining the stern nose of the first, with the chisselled lip of the second, uniting the fair complexion of the third, with the sparkling eye of the fourth. An immensity of standing collar hid his almost invisible whiskers, and the ends of a bold Joinville cravat-tie floated over his shoulder. In his hand was a knowing-headed cane, and as he gazed at Lucinella through his eye-glass, (keeping the other eye convulsively closed,) that damsel's mind, in reply to a question from her heart, admitted him to be the creature of her dreams.

"Cough!—couch! kough!—kough!—kou!—ku!—k-u-u!"—off rattled the Fall River train, and before it was out of sight of the State-House doom, the Unknown had offered Lucinella his "Dumas."—What saw she upon the cover, written in a large English running-hand? The name of "Lord Somerset Plantaget.' Her heart surrendered at discretion.

When the train arrived at Fall River, the Unknown waited upon Lucinella on board of the "State of Maine." She now admitted that she was Quixottish in having left her uncle's house in Beacon street, alone, and declared had a kind Providence not given her a protector she "should have died" The Unkown felt a throb of joy. His fate was sealed, and then he thought she had spoken of Lowell, and wondered how much factory stock her father owned.

'Tis evening—the bounteous tea-table in the lower cabin of the "State of Maine" has been cleared away—the gallant steamer ploughs her way through the phosphorescent waves—the light houses on the shore twinkle as do the stars—and a miserable German Band are giving bad notes for good copper coin in the saloon.

Upon the farther extremity of the promenade deck, near the flag-staff, stand two individuals They stand closely—so closely that the breath of the one moves the dark ringlets of the other. Their hearts are closer still. Apparently discussing the merits of the novel loaned by the youth to the maiden while in the cars, each is imbibing and imparting the delicious poison of love. He is ardent, and she is only as coy as becomes a prudent maiden. Her hand lies fast in his, and ever and anon he presseth her little fingers.

"But whereabout in New-York do you reside, love of mine?" pleaded the Unknown.

"Never mind," replied Lucinella, playfully, 'perhaps I may tell you beforre I go away—that is if you are very good."

"But in what part of the city—tell me that?'

"Never mind!"

"But I do mind?"

"Do you?"

"Yes!"

"Ah!"

But the conversation of lovers has ever been deemed uninteresting to the world, nor dare we flatter ourselves that the above will prove an exception to the rule. Suffice it to say that ere the lovers "turned-in," their troths were plighted. The Unknown felt joyously as he crawled into berth number ninety-four. He drew his curtain, went to sleep, and dreamed that Lucinella's father owned half of Lowell, and quarter of Lawrence.

The "State of Maine" is paddled through the troubled waters of "Hell-gate," and the lovers are again side by side on deck. The maiden has permitted the Unknown to escort her to her residence under a pledge that he will not get out of the carriage there. And as she says 'there,' her eyes shoot loveglances of hope which make the youth's heart-blood swell like Ned Kendall's bugle notes.

The shot-tower is passed by—and the navy-yard—and the boat rounds the Battery.

'Carriage, sir.'

Lucinella is safely seated in a back, on the rear of which her trunk is safely strapped. Her band box is within, on the front seat, and now is the time that she discloses her abode, else where shall that fiery Jehu be told to hasten?

'Towards Union Square!'

The heart of the Unknow rejoiced. His conquest was a worthy one. The moments fled faster than the horses trotted, and they were soon above Canal street.

'What number in Union Square, dearest?'

'Not exactly in the Squre, but in University Place!'

"University Place?' a strange coincidence.

"The lover's face lengthened.

"Number sixteen please!'

"Number s-i-x-t-e-e-n!' repeated the Uoknown, aghast—and his face grew still longer.

"Yes, dear!'

"Are you quite sure it is sixteen?'

"Certainly, my love, I remember it plainly, because I once committed to memory the sixteenth psalm of David."

The lover consigned the sixteenth psalm to a warm region, where the royal autor himself consigned a good many of his enemies.

"Have you any objections to that house dear?" enquired Lucinella.

"Eh!—why—do you know that I live here?"

"You! Lord Somerset Plantaget?"

'Oh! it was a mere joke. My name is Thomas Tompkins, and I am clerk in father's store. I've been on to Boston, a collecting."

'What!" screamed Lucinella. "Then you are the son of the lady I'm going to live with as a help. Your mother didn't tell me, when she got me to leave the factory and come here that there was a young man in the house. How nice!"

"Stop!" roared Thomas, the ex-Plantaget, to the driver, and opening the door he jumped out. He has not been heard of since. Some suppose that he has gone to California.

The moral, of course, is, that you should be properly introduced before you commence love-making.—Boston Bee.

Wonders of Philosophy.

The polypus, like the fabled hydra, receives new life from the knife which was raised to destroy it. There are four thousand and forty-one muscels in a caterpillar. Hook discovered four thousand mirrors in the eyes of a drone; and to effect the respiration of a cup, thirteen thousand three hundred arteries, vessels, veins, bones, &c., are necessary. The body of every spider contains four little masses, pierced with a number of imperceptible holes, each hole permitting the passage of a single thread; all the threads, to the amount of a thousand to each mass, join together when they come out, and make the single thread, with which the spider spins his web; so that what we call a spider's thread, consists of more than four thousand united, Lowenhock, by means of microscopes, observed spiders, no bigger than a grain of sand, which spun thread so fine, that it took four thousand of them to equal in magnitude a single hair.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, September 6, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

The Bigotry of Party and Sect.

How lamentable the fact, for fact it is which none will have the boldness to deny, that there are so few if any who have the moral courage and independence to advocate the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, independent of all sectarian and party creeds. How few men who have arrived at the meridian of life, but have regretted this departure from truth in favor of the religious and political dogmas of sects and parties. What a scource of error has this ever been, and must continue to be until the Press, the Pulpit, and individual man, dare advocate the truth without this millstone about his neck.

The true interests of man are only promoted by the truth; but his selfishness has ever been a barrier to its promulgation. If man wishes to do away with this incubus on his energies, this only barrier to a true knowledge of his rights, he must first tolerate the opinions of others, without holding in terror over his head the excommunications and anathemas of sects and parties; a kind of sectarian church and state. First remove the wood-pile out of his own eye, and then he will be enabled to see the splinter in his brother's.

In almost all matters not directly, or too indirectly connected with party or sectarian creeds, mankind are most uniformly agreed; but the moment you come in contact with the god of party, or creed, that moment you arouse the selfishness and prejudice of man, and you are denounced as a renegade and an infidel.

Our government is founded on the fundamental principle of the equal inalienable rights of all; all possess this knowledge, yet all do not advocate these rights. Why? Because they are under the peculiar control of the bigotry of party, and therefore they dare not advocate it only as advocated by the party, for fear of their pecuniary interest, or being denounced as a renegade to party! Oh truth, art thou of so little value that none dare advocate thee for thyself alone!

The strict partizan papers, what are they? —Echo answers what are they? A great many keep aloof from this question, and dare not agitate or advocate it, although knowing that the abstract principle is right, yet for fear of creating divisions in or being denounced by party, they dare not advocate it, they also dare not oppose it for fear of the people. Both parties, as parties, are waiting for some contingency to take place which will enable them to decide for or against it, and then condemn or advocate it as true democracy, as the said contingency is for or against the success of the party to do so.

As in political so in religious sects, if not seen through the red, blue, green, or other sectarian colored spectacles it cannot, it dare not be recieved as orthodox; no matter what the object if not in accordance with the preconcieved opinions of sectarian dogmas it cannot be received as truth. We do not have to go far for the proof of these things, all can find them at home, our own village is sufficient to prove its truth either in political or religious subjects.

Our cotemporary of the Union although professing dare not advocate it; and although recently giving us a definition of true democracy, and which all parties would admit to be correct, yet dare not advocate it, but turns round in the face of its own definition and advocates the selection of an ultra whig as Postmaster, in direct violation of the expressed will of the people, and of its own definition of true democracy.

There are but few journals which we receive in exchange, but what are bound by this bigotry of party or sect, and which dare not advocate an independendent opinion of their own for fear of offending its party god. How degrading, how contemptible are such fears under a government professing to be republican! How long can a republican government exist where men dare not advocate what they conceive to be right, or to condemn what they know to be wrong?

Twice quite recently has the truth been denied a hearing by sectarian churches, by the bigotry and proscription of sectarian creeds. The first an address on Temperance by Gen. Riley of Rochester, late one of the Vice Presidents of the New-York State Temperance Society; although all admit the the abstract principle of temperance to be right, yet the green spectacles of sectarianism would not allow of its being delivered in any of the churches, yet we believe this is acknowledged as one of the fundamental principles of the Christian religion, Christ and his disciples taught, "Be ye temperate in all things." The lecture was delivered by consent in front of our office*.

The second was but last week, the Rev. Dr. West made application to the churches to deliver a course of lectures on the subject of "The truth and beauties of the Holy Scriptures," or the existence of God and the authenticity of the Bible, yet strange to say, although coming with the very best recommendations was denied the use of the churches for such a subject! but finally succeeded in obtaining the basement of one of them by paying for its use!

Believing in the immutability of Truth, and that it only requires to be sought after and promulgated free from sectarian and party dogmas, to be admired and followed as the only source from whence man derives a knowledge of his true interest and happiness, we shall at all times endeavor to advocate what we conceive to be the truth, to the best of our abilities, whether in accordance with the preconceived opinions of parties or not; hoping to be sustained by those who have liberality enough to appreciate the truth over error, let it come from as humble a source as it may.

We have understood that we have been denounced by a Minister in his pulpit as an infidel or as having advocating infidel sentiments. Now as we are not particular about names, having made up our minds that all are not democrats who call themselves so, it perchance may be that all who call themselves Christians are not. Whether we received this name for permitting a temperance lecture in front of our office, or for expressing ourselves favorably toward the latter lecturer we are unable to say; but as in any thing we may have advanced we endeavored to advocate the truth, we are as willing that it should be known by that name as any other.

* This lecture was repeated in the evening in the Seventh-day Baptist Church. The liberal, enlightened, and christian example of whose Pastor forms an exception to the above remarks.

☞ All those who have a superabundance of Gold and Silver on hand are informed that they can exchange it to great advantage at French & Bryan's, for the more necessary articles of family use. Those who have but a small supply of the above having already found out the place to economise it. See their advertisment in another column.

Cholera.

ALBANY, Sept. 3d.

The Board of Health reports 20 cases of cholera and 11 deaths, for the 48 hours ending this day, noon.

BOSTON, Sept. 3d.

The Board of Health reportd the occurrence of 20 deaths from cholera, during the 48 hours ending Monday noon.

BANGOR, September 3.

During the 24 hours ending at 12 o'clock last night, there were 20 cases of Cholera in this place, and 16 deaths. To-day we have had 16 new cases and 2 deaths.

New York, Sept. 3.

The Board of Health report 7 deaths from cholera as having occurred in the city during the last 24 hours,

BROOKLYN, Sept. 3d.—Eleven deaths by cholera, in the preceding forty-eight hours.

☞ ALTERED ELIZABETHTOWN NOTES. —The Phila. Bulletin last evening notices "two notes of the denomination of two dollars, purporting to be the issue of the State Bank of Elizabethtown, altered from the State Bank of Trenton, which were passed at a store in Spring Garden. It says they are miserably executed, and can easily be detected by the manner in which the "Elizabethtown," substituted for that of "Trenton," is printed across the space that was occupied by the latter.— The names, also, of James Crane, Cashier, and A. Thomas, President, are written by the same hand, and that apparently, a female. A single glance should detect them."

☞ The Burlington Gazette says that the murderer of Collins at Berverely, has been fully identified and his name and residence ascertained. If so he will of course be demanded of the Governor of Pensylvania. The Coroner's inquest returned a verdict of wilful murder. A special police of 25 has been appointed at Beverely to protect the place hereafter from these Phila. incursions.

The late news from Europe is cheering to the cause of Hungary.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Believing that you are the friends of truth, or whatever is for the good of man, I have no doubt that you attended the lectures recently delivered in this place by the Rev. Dr. West, "On the truths and beauties of the holy scriptures." The Dr. brings the most respectable reccommendations, from England, Scotland, and Ireland, as well as from many eminent men in this country, all giving him credit as being an eminent scholar, and most able defender of the Bible at the present day; of this however no further proof is necessary than to attend his lectures. The few who did condescend to hear him in our village, were edified and delighted with his eloquence and christian bearing. But I was pained and surprised to find our village so poorly represented in the cause of truth. Now I would ask why it was that those who are in the habit of making so much ado about infidelity, kept themselves away; was it because he did not come recommended by a certain clique, to preach sectarian creeds? Was it because of envy of the man's talent, or was it from fear least they should hear something that would condemn their own hypocritical conduct? Some not even satisfied with staying away themselves strove to prevent others from attending, by raising a report injurious to the speaker, thereby showing their own hollow-heartedness, in their great pretensions. I trust as the Rev. gentleman received but little countenance or support in the cause of truth, by those who claim to possess most of the piety of Plainfield, that those of less pretentions but more humility, will call a meeting and make some arrangement for another course of those admirable lectures, and that the speaker may be treated as a man and a christian, and thus in some measure redeem the character of Plainfield.

x.

☞ The New York Tribune in speaking of the Trenton State Gazette and Newark Daily Advertiser in referance to the Railroad Monopoly says:—

We do not find in the journals above named any direct counsel to the Whigs of the Counties affected to take care that none but DECIDED anti-Monopolists get on their tickets this Fall—and when we say anti-Monopolists, we mean men who feel that New-Jersey is injured and dishonored by the existence of the Monopoly, and must be relieved from it. Mere professions of theoretical or tradiditional dislike to it will not answer. If the Whig journals will only extend their caution so as to cover the whole ground, there will be no abrasion in the Whig ranks this Fall; but any attempt to shield the Monopoly with the smoke of a blank-cartridge war upon it will be pretty sure to fail, and will at all events provoke disaster. Nothing short of frankness and throughness will meet the present emergency.

MONOPOLY.—A writer in the Elizabethtown Journal in speaking of Monopoly says:—

I know it to be a fact that the great mass of the people of both parties are Anti-Monopolists—but I believe also that the leaders of both parties are the contrary; every one knows that the people, except when aroused to action by the existence of monstrous abuses, leave the management of affairs to their party leaders. Well, then in consequence of this, the Democratic party were induced to run as a candidate for Governor one of the officers of the Monopoly, and were defeated on the Anti-Monopoly cry raised by the Whig press. Well, the Whig party came into power and have been in power for five consecutive years—what have they done in that time to make manifest their Anti-Monopoly sentiment? The acts of the Legislature show: and your readers may judge for themselves.

INTERESTING RUMOR.-The Boston Traveller of Saturday states, on the authority of a private letter, that the French Government will not receive Mr. RIVES, our new embassador to Paris. The Traveller supposes the reason will be drawn from certain dispatches sent home by Mr. Rives during his former envoyship in France, and published by our Government. They related to the difficulties concerning the French Indemnity, and going back to France helped to highten the irritation which existed there on the subject.

'FIFTY-TWO thousand Jews,' says the Jewish Chronicle, 'are now fighting in the ranks of the brave Hungarian army of liberty and civilization, and not one Jew is to be found serving under the Austrians (although there are myriads of Jews in Austria proper, Gallicia, Bohemia, Moravia, and Transylvania.')

THE disturbance in Canada, according to the Times and the ministerial Globe, are a mere tempest in a tea-pot. There is a certain piece of water called 'the harbor of Boston,' which once served the purpose of a tea-pot, and brewed a little tempest, the effects of which are felt all over Europe at the present hour.—Halifax paper.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Washington.

HUNGARY.

The Breslau Zeitung of the 15th says, that persons who arrived in Vienna on that evening, affirmed that a sanguinary engagement had taken place at Groswardein. The Hungarians had there concentrated a body of 80,000 men, including the troops from Klausenburg. The Diet, by latest accounts, held its sittings in a Church at Groswardein.

The Vienna letters of the 12th confirm the occupation of Raab by the Hungarians, and state that they had advanced posts at Hochstrass and Babot. They had also taken Vesprin (on Lake Balton) and Papa, (between Vesprin and Raab,) and it was said Gen. Aulich had advanced to Stuhtweissenburg, and had threatened Pesth. Some huzzars had appeared, even within a few leagues of Vienna. The Austrians were hastily collecting an army of 26,000 men at Presbnrg, to assume the offensive on the 13th.

The Magyar force in Raab is 18,000 strong, with 18 guns. The Austrians fortifying Schlossberg, and were constructing entrenchments on the Road to Tyrnau. Since the commenccment of the war Raab has been occupied alternately eight times.

The affairs of Comorn are in the same state. The Hungarians were threatening Presburg, and had hoisted their colors at Vesprin, Papa. &c.

Vienna is now garrisoned by only a few new levies, and when the post left, Presburg had been occupied by the Hungarians.

Haynau is stated to have almost annihilated the Magyars at Szeganin.

The Landstrum was gathering at Lesford under the Austrian Gen. Nugent. The junction of Haynau and the Ban is confirmed.

It is rumored that tbe split in the Viena Council is attributable to the influence of the Rothschilds, who will advance the "sinews of war" only on condition of peace with Hungary being agreed upon.

The Emperor of Russia has recalled Prince Woronzoff from the Caucasian war, to assist him in the Hungarian struggle.

The following Russian intelligence is given: What, then, must have been the reality if they confess thus much?

On the 23d July the Cithuanian Rifles were attacked in the Pass of Ojtorz by the Magyars and forced to retire. They were reinforced by Gen. Arwnow with four pieces of cannon, but again forced to retire after three hours fighting, in which they lost in killed and wounded 4 officers and 160 privates.

The Magyars passed through the Pass.

DYSENTARY.—We learn that Dysentary is very prevalent in many parts of the country, far and near, also in this vicinity —and we hear of deaths from it in Scotch plains, Samptown, &c. In reference thereto, we have received the following timely communication from one of our most respectable citizens. Where he is known, which comprehends a wide circle we need not say his communication is entitled to the utmost confidence:—Plainfield Union.

'About 45 years ago, the dysentary raged in the eastern part of Conneticut to an alarming degree. In one family 4 died, 3 in another, &c. It extended more than 30 miles, A colored woman came through the country and reccommended Peach tree bark and Elder bark, of each equal quantities—the outward bark to be scraped off and thrown away, the inward bark of both to be boiled and made into a strong tea, to be drunk very freely from the first stage of the complaint until cured. It will not hurt any one to drink as freely as he can. Since that time I have been attacked with dysentery ten times, have tried the remedy and in every case was cured in less than 12 hours.

GEORGE WELLS.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 1849.'

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.

Late advices from the Plains represent the Cholera as raging fearfully among the Indians, at the Nort-west.

It is thought that the disease will prove a greater scourge than the small pox in 1839.

The epidemic has disappeared from the south of the Arkansas River,

The Indians on the Missouri River continue to to be greatly incensed against the whites for introducing the Cholera among them, and numerous murders by the Indians are the daily result.

The weather this morning is very cool and pleasant.

Business continues dull.

Several riots took place yesterday, and one or two prize fights.

A letter has been received in this city from Round Island, midway between Mobile and New Orleans, dated Aug. 12, which says that 1,000 men connected with the Secret Expedition had arrived there and would sail on board the ship Taney, on the 20th, for an Island 100 miles distant from Vera Cruz.

The writer thinks that Sierra Madra is their ultimate place of destination. It is expected that 20,000 men will rendezvous at a point near Vera Cruz, from different seaports in the United States.

The universal definition of a mile by the Arabs is "the distance at which you can no longer distinguish a man from a woman."

The Island of Cuba.

The Island is 624 miles in extreme length with a width varying from 22 to 117 miles, and covers an area of 37,000 square miles, being about the size of the State of Maine. It contains a population at the present time, of 1,400,000: of which about 610,000 are whites, 190,000 are free colored, and 600,000 slaves. Its imports in 1847 were $32,389,119. of which $7,049,975 were from the United States. Its exports during the same period were $27,998,119, of which $7,049,-975 were from the United States. Its exports during the same period were $27,998,770, of which $12,394,876 were to the United States. In 1847 the number of arrivals, at its ports, was 3740, and the number of clearances 3346. Its principal harbors are the finest in the world. The amount of american tonnage employed in the trade with Cuba is 476,773 tons. It has 195 miles of railroad completed and in successful operation, and 61 miles in course of construction. It is well watered by numerous rivers, and its surface, except in the central portion of the Island, diversified with mountains. Only two fifths of its surface are cultivated. Of the remaining three-fifths, now unused, one is probably worthless, leaving one half of its agricultural resources undeveloped. The climate is so genial, that it yields two crops a year of many of its productions. It also abounds in materials of manufacturing purposes, and its mountains contain mines of copper which are worked to considerable advantage.—Scientific American.

THE GRAND JURY of this county concluded their business on Friday and were accordingly discharged. They found 114 bills, a large number of which are for selling liquor without a license and also on Sundays, and most of the others are minor offences. Centre Market in Newark was presented as a nuisance.

We hear that there were six deaths by Cholera at New Haven last Sunday.— Three of the victims were Irishmen, two were colored persons, and one a sea-captain an American. Dysentery is quite prevalent there, as also at Hartford, Springfield and various other places along the coast and in the interior.

THE BIGOTRY OF PARTY.—The editor of the New Yorh Trtbune, considering his liberal tendencies and affinities for Reform generally, is peculiarly under the control of the bigotry of party. The Catholic is scarcely more blindly devoted to his church than he is to the Whig party; and, where his prejudices are aroused, it seems almost impossible for him to do justice to opponents.—National Era.

☞ Advice from Texas to the 16th of August have been received. Sufficient election returns have come to hand to indicate the elections of Bell as governor of the state.

OLD TIMES.—Umbrellas were introduced by British officers into this country about the time of the revolutionary war. Parasols were then unknown. As a defence from rain, men then wore 'rain coats,' and women 'camblets.' Gloves were introduced about the year 1755. There were very few carpets before the revolution on the floors; when first introduced, they covered the floor outside of the chairs around the rooms.

No religion is calculated to promote happiness among men, but a religion of love; and this, whether it be found among Mahometans, Pagans, or Christians is from above, an emanation from the Deity.

☞ PRETTY GOOD.—A story is going the rounds, of a politicial aspirant in Indiana, who, mounting the stand to make a politicial speech, commenced with, 'Fellow-citizens, notwithstanding my youthful appearance, I am the father of two children!'

☞ Mankind are very odd creatures. One half censure what they practice, the other half practice what they censure. The rest say and do as they ought.

☞ A little child being at a sermon and observing the minister very vehement in his words and bodily gesture, cried out —'Mother, why don't the people let the man out of the box?'

☞ Is that a † that I C B 4 me? Come, let me clutch it.—Exchange.

MARRIED.

In this place, on Saturday evening, Sept. 1st, by E. Kirkpatrick, Esq. William R. Moore to Harriet, widow of Nathan Manning, both of Plainfield.

DIED.

In this place, on the 30th of August, Tempe, widow of Gershom Manning, aged near 80 years.

In Plainfield, Aug. 30. Edwin Hicks, infant son of Wm. A. and Maria F. Beecher.

HELP.

☞ THE time of a colored girl of industrious habits, and in good health, who has nine years to serve, (being now twelve years of age) is offered for sale. For particulars enquire at this office.

Aug 28. 1849.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtlaud st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2 They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

GET UP A CLUB!
And Secure a Free Copy!

ROBERT F. GREELEY'S
Splendid New Romance, Entitled the
CHILD OF THE ISLANDS!
Or the Ship-Wrecked Gold Seekers!
Will appear immediately in successive numbers of the New York

LITERARY AMERICAN.

It is founded on the wild adventures of a party of California Gold seekers, who were wrecked on a desert island in the Pacific Ocean, and went through strange and thrilling scenes. It is believed that this is one of the most vivid and able works that has lately appeared. It will be COPYRIGHTED. The Literary American is well known throughout the country as a moral and entertaining FAMILY NEWSPAPER, got up in the best style for binding, and forming every year two large volumes of more than 1000 pages!

☞ Back numbers furnished to order.

TERMS.—Served in cities, 6 cents a week. To mail subscribers,

One copy in advance,	$3 00
Two copies, "	5 00
Clubs of Ten, "	20 00

and a free coy to the person getting up a club.

The best and cheapest way to subscribe is to get up a club.

☞ Send in your names and money at once, by mail, at our risk, to

G. P. QUACKENBOS,
105 Nassau-st., N. Y.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
" " Thresher	$28
" Separator and fixtures,	$7
" Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.
April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

AN UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

FROM THE INFANCY OF MANKIND TO THE PRESENT TIME. By G. C. Hebbe, L. L. D. Now ready 1st volume bound in cloth.—Price $1.75 and to be continued in monthly parts, until finished, five numbers forming a volume 25 cents per number.

The author of this work seems to have had in constant view the celebrated treaties of Lucian—"How a history ought to be written." Truth in its severity, and reason in its manly state are the chief Muses and graces to which he has done obedience. What a different view has been presented to us by other historians. No wonder that the numbers already issued have met with a large sale, and have been hailed by frequent laudatory notices of the press, of which abridged extracts are here subjoined.

[From the Democratic Review.]

This beautiful octavo--the first volume of Dr. Hebbe's Universal History—forms the initial volume of a new and greatly improved work, devoted to the history of the Universe, based not merely upon the usually received data of former historians but derived from the best authorities, attested by revelations of modern discovery. The recent researches in archœelogy by Chevalier Bunsen, and other learned investigators, among ancient monumental records, have so entirely changed the aspect of primitive times and revealed so many important new data, that the wonder has been not that such a work as the present should make its appearance but rather that the task should not have been before attempted in Europe. From a somewhat careful examination of this volume, however, we find no cause to regret that the theme should have been reserved for the judicious and laborious press of Dr. Hebbe. To such as cannot command the leisure of more systematic course of study, this work proves eminently important and valuable, since, when completed, it will form a compendious library of universal history, the most accurate and complete extant, and written up to the spirit of the age.

[From the N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 23.]

In regard to the literary execution of this work we have spoken as the numbers appeared but not as fully as its merits deserve. Now, on re-examination, we hesitate not to pronounce that this volume, as a history of the earliest period of mankind, has no rival in any single work of universal history in the English language.

[From Graham's Magazine]

The author of the Universal History, now in publication, judging from the portion already published, is equal to his task. He comes to it prepared by twenty years of study, and a familiar acquaintance with all the necessary authorities, not only those to whom we look for solid records of facts, but those who have gone beneath the surface of events, and tracked the source of politicial convulsions by a thousand pulses, back to the hidden heart of some great principle.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Hebbe by availing himself of the light of which the Egyptian hierologists and other investigators of antiquity, have shed on the earliest history of man, by means of his vast erudition enabling him to avoid the errors of compilers, and to draw from the original and most undoubted sources of authority, and by his acute judgment, his liberal philosophy, his deep sympathy with humanity, and his enthusiastic love for his favorite study has produced what may be termed in many respects an original history of the infant nations of the world. The work is written in the most enlarged and liberal spirit, while the author rejects the supersition of the ancient priesthood he is a stout defender of the immortal and sublime truths of Christianity.

[From the N. Y. True Sun.]

The style of Dr. Hebbe, though writing in a tongue foreign to him, is always flowing and animated, sometimes picturesque and sometimes even eloquent and sublime.

This work appears in monthly numbers —seven numbers now ready.

A liberal discount to the trade. Sent by mail to to any part of the country.

Dewitt & Davenport, Tribune Buildings, Nassau-street New-York.

☞ Papers inserting the above three times, including this notice and noticing the nos. as they appear, will have the back nos. sent to them by forwarding a copy of their paper to the publishers marked. Also receive the numbers as fast as published.

LADIES' WORK-TABLE BOOK.—A Book every Lady should possess—containing clear and practical instructions in all kinds of Plain and Fancy Needlework; with 67 engravings, illustrative of the various stiches in those useful and fashionable employments, making one fine volume of one hundred and sixty-eight pages, printed on the finest white paper, neatly done up in beautiful paper covers —price 50 cents; or three copies for $1. This book will be sent to any person ordering it, by mail, free of postage.

"This is one of the most useful and instructive books for a lady ever published, and one that should be in the hands of every family in the land. Send, by all means, and get it at once."—From a review of the Work.

Any person in this country can have a copy of the above work sent them by mail, on remitting the amount for it to the publisher, in a letter, post-paid.

Published and for sale by T.B. Peterson., No. 98 Chesnut st. Philadelphia

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD, OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat$1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa, MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

TAKE NOTICE.

WHEREAS we the undersigned, having been much damaged and inconvenienced by persons trespassing on our lands, with dogs and guns: Therefore we do hereby forbid all persons crossing or hunting on our lands, with dog or gun; or cattle, or in search of nuts, or fruit, without special permission; under the penalty of the law.

THOMAS A. MORTON,
ABRAHAM A. KING.
WILLIAM I. MOOR.
MAHLON SMALLEY,
ISAAC I. SMALLEY,
Stony Hill, June 19. 1849.
SIMEON F. RANDOLPH,
JEPTHA CLAWSON,
THEODORE VERMULE,
DAVID SHOTWELL,
A. BERRY,
JAMES F. ROCHE,
RICHARD MANNING,
CORNELIUS CADMUS,
JAMES VERDON,
CYRUS TOWNSEND,
IRA CORIELL,
Plainfield, March 28. 1849.

☞ Cheap Job Printing at this office ☜

CARRIAGE MAKING, AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

Mrs. A. M Sanford,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following Card of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M-D.	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape-M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

Dr. S. A. Pearson: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. Pearson, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

SEARS'

PICTORIAL PUBLICATIONS.

The Pict. Family Bible, (Large Quarto,) Sears' new Pict. description of the United States, (Containing an account of the Topography, Settlement, History, Revolutionary and other Interesting Events, Statistics, Progress in Agriculture, Manufactures, and Population, &c. &c. of each State in the Union. Illustrated with 200 Engravings of the principal Cities, Places, Buildings, Scenery, Curiosities, Seals of the States, &c. &c. One of the most useful and saleable works published.)

Sears' Scenes and Sketches of Continental Europe,
Pic. Description of Great Britain and Ireland,
Pict. Family Annual for 1849 (212 Eng.)
The History of Palestine,
View of New-York in 1849. (This engraving is printed on a mammouth sheet of 47 by 19 inches,
Information for the People,
New Pictorial Family Library,
Pictorial History of the American Revolution,
Pictorial Sunday Book,
Bible Biography,
Wonders of the World, (Second Series,)
New and complete History of the Bible,
New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine,

Any of the above named works can be had by applying at this office, as we are authorized to act as agent for the sale of Sears' Pictorial Publications, and for Sears' New Pictorial Monthly Illustrated Family Magazine.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1849. NO. 39.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ If you have goods or property of any description to dispose of, remember it will cost but a trifle to advertise it in the GAZETTE, (a paper read and admired by every man, woman and child in this part of the country) ☞ We charge nothing for this advice. ☜

[By Request.

THE PEARL.

The Pearl that worldlings covet, is not the pearl for me,
Its beauty fades as quickly, as sunshine on the sea,
But there's a pearl sought by the wise,
It's called the pearl of greatest price,
Though few its value see.
O that's the pearl for me,
O that's the pearl for me,
O that's the pearl for me.

The crown that decks the monarch, is not the crown for me,
It dazzles but a moment, it's brightness soon will flee,
But there's a crown prepared above,
For all who walk in humble love,
For ever bright 'twill be.
O that's the crown for me. &c.

The road that many travel, is not the road for me,
It leads to death and sorrow, in it I would not be,
But there's a road that leads to God,
It's marked by Christs most precious blood
The passage here is free.
O that's the road for me. &c.

The hope that sinners cherish, is not the hope for me,
Most surely will they perish, unless from sin set free,
But there's a hope which rests in God,
And leads the soul to keep its word,
And sinful pleasures flee.
O that's the hope for me,
O that's the hope for me,
O that's the hope for me.

THE MURDERED TINMAN.

BY WILLIAM L. STONE, ESQ.

Soon after the close of the war which terminated in the establishment of the North American Republic, one of those itinerant gentlemen from Connecticut who deal in tinware and other vendibles—a class of our fellow republicans long since known in every portion of the Union where a 'York sixpence' can be obtained in exchange for a tin Skimmer or a pepper-box—found his way through the 'Nine Partners' and Poughkeepsie into the county of Ulster, in the State of New York. He was a good-looking man, of a free and jovial disposition, glib with the tonge, keen at a bargain, smart at a joke, and 'cute at a swap. As he travelled up and down among the river towns from Saugerties and Æsopus, through New Paltz and Plattskill, to New Windsor and the Highlands, and occasionally back towards the wilderness as far as Minisink, year after year, he became very generally known throughout out all that region. Three or four times a year he was wont to return to Connecticut to replenish his stock in trade and rid himself of the old pewter and other 'notions,' for which he had bartered his goods, when he could not exchange them for a less cumbersome and more valuable metal.

But these absences were short; and far the larger portion of his time was spent among his honest Dutch customers, to whom he was sure to bring something new and still more inviting at each successive visit. So much of his time was passed among these Dutch settlements, that he soon acquired enough of their language to enable him to crack jokes with the old ladies in their mother-tongue, and banter with their plump, simple-mined daughters-from whom he now and then stole a kiss—not much to the dissatisfaction of either themselves or their mothers, for he was a general favorite At the quiltings and other merry-makings in the settlements through which he leisurely passed, he was ever a welcome guest; and he could always dance the double-shuffle with the prettiest girl of them all, not excepting 'Squire Vanderspeigle's Katrina. Nay, scandal, in after years, went so far as to say, that there were a number of little flaxen-haired children along-shore, who, unluckily having no fathers to resemble, looked very like the Tinman. But that is neither here nor there.

Eight or ten years rolled away, and the Tinman continued to make his rounds, seated on the box of his cart, and, when alone, whistling Yankee Doodle, or some other grave melody 'for want of thought,' and extending his circuits, as the settlements were pushed further into the interior. He extended his business, moreover, in process of time, as the taste for finery increased with the march of civilization—the march of mind not having then commenced—so that in addition to tin pans, cups, graters and mousetraps, he had a chest constructed within the body of his cart, in which he carried pins, needles, coarse muslins and calicoes, pink and black silk for bonnets, and yellow and flame-colored ribands Alas, the frailty of woman! From the moment the pedlar began to sell flame-colored ribands, his influence was irresistable; and the balance of trade was in a short time so much against the people of Orange and Ulster, that they must have all failed, had not their wheat, butter, and fat turkeys, continued to bring full prices in the city of New York. It is certain that the specie, as well as old pewter and rags—not bank-notes, gentle reader, as that species of rags was unknown in the halcyon days of which I am writing—was very rapidly leaving the country, and had it not poured in from other sources of supply, it must have diminished with each quarterly journey of the pedlar to Connecticut. But happily there were few newspapers and no political economists in those days, so that the worthy burghers never found out that they were ruined because the balance of trade was against them, and because, also, they could not keep their dollars lying idle and without interest, in their lockers.

Whenever the Tinman sojourned for a day or two in the rocky and romantic town of New Paltz, he put up at the inn kept by old Mr. Nicholas Van Hoesen, upon whose sign hung the effigy, rather clumsily executed, as the historian must in candor admit, of the patron saint of the Niew Niederlandts, indulging in the luxury of a pipe. The house was of only one story, and the heavy beams, thickly laid across from wall to wall, were not covered by a ceiling. But these beams, with the massive, well-plastered walls, where as white and clean as quick-lime could make them; while the bedrooms beneath the high, sharp-pointed roof, and the beautiful white homespun linen sheets were as sweet and wholesome as need be desired for a bridal chamber. Here it was that the weary traveller could find the luxury of repose, after sitting, if he choose, of a winter's evening around the noble fire that crackled and blazed upon the broad hearth, to hear the simple village chroniclers talking, over their mugs of cider, of the news from 'Sopus, or of Sheneral Vashington and King Shorge, while the vapor of the Indian weed was ascending in little misty wreaths from their pipes, or pouring forth in more dense and ample volume from their clouded and capacious mouths. Here, too, he might learn, from their own lips, their chivalrous deeds in arms, as they fought their revolutionary battles over again, in the relation of the massacre of Minisinks, or the burning of 'Sopus by the red-coats, who, to quote their own glowing language, though poured forth in a rather oddly-constructed climax had come there 'to punrn up dare houshish, murder dare sons, ravish dare wives and daughters, and trow down dare fences pesides!'

Such were the comfortable quarters of the Tinnman during his quarterly visits to New Paltz. But, temporo mutantur: old Mr. Van Hoesen died one day, and that too, most unfortunately, before the pedlar had ceased furnishing the people in that region with tin milk-pans, dutch ovens and flamecolored ribands. The widow of the defunct innkeeper returned to reside with her daughter, who was married to the Rev. Mr. Rip Van Valzer of Tappan The old tavern stand was rented to a man by the name of Fowler, who had been a tory sutler in the British army while in New York. Soon after these changes, the good old sign of St. Nicholas was taken down, and another erected in its place having a square and compasses on one side, and a strange mark of five lines, terminating in five acute angels, surrounding a large letter G, on the other. The house was not half so clean as it used to be; 'the cider had not half enough apples in it;' and, in short, nothing went on as before. For a time the mysterious characters on the sign were not understood, but, as soon as the honest burghers were told that good St. Nicholas had been compelled to give way to the emblems of freemasonry, they shook their heads, knocked the ashes out of their pipes, and went away, one by one, to visit their old favorite haunt no more. Mr. Fowler, the new landlord, was not so well-favored a man as some; but that was not his fault. His eyes were large and prominent, of a light grey, and lustreless. His words were few; and he did not care to look an honest man in the face. His wife had red hair and a sharp. slender nose, just reddening into bloom at its tip; she was not neat in her person or household; and, having a touch of the snapping-turtle in her temper, it was said that their domestic felicity was not altogether uninterrupted. After the neighboring burghers ceased repairing thither to smoke their pipes and drink their pennyworth of cider, it was gravely concluded that the new host would never be able to pay his rent, unless——and it was soon whispered about that a well dressed gentleman, who put up at the inn, one snow-storm y night, had never been seen afterwards.

Not many months subsequent to the events which I have just related, the tinman came along, once more to gladden the hearts and lighten the pockets of his friends in New Paltz. He had gone forth on his present excursion with a much more ample supply of wares and gewgas than usual, and had taken a much wider circuit—having swept up along the western margin of the Hudson, beyond Albany, to Half Moon and Schenectady—and was now returning with a cart nearly, empty naturally supposed, with well filled pockets. He drove his horse and cart directly to the same spot, and put them under the same shed. He had 'passed the time of day' with many of his old customers that morning on the road, and have given Christina Dieffendorff the remanant of a broad flame-colored riband that very afternoon, for the privilege, as he called it, of cutting it off on her sweet,

[Concluded next week.]

From the Quaker City.

Perpetual Motion.

Labor turns the Crank..—'Will it ever be discovered!' This question has occupied the world for at least five hundred years. Here is a Legend which may throw some light on the subj ct:

About fifty years ago, an announcement was made in a town in Germany, that an obscure mechanic had discovered the secret of 'perpetual motion.' In a little time his room was crowded with professors of science, rich burghers, and curious people of all sorts and classes, from a circle of one hundred miles. On a table in the centre of the room, appeared 'the perpetual motion,' in the shape of a wheel, which without any visible agency, went round and round again' all day long Everybody was astonished: the Professors put on their spectacles; the burghers looked about them with eyes as big as saucers, and the curious folks swore incessantly, in high German, that the like of this had never been heard of before—no, never! Not even from the time of Appolonious of Tryana down to Cornelius Agrippa. But all the while the wheel stood on the table—stood alone—and continued to go around, in spite of the Professor's spectacles and burgher's oath's. The great secret was discovered. The world had advanced at least an hundred years. The self-motive power which propelled the solitary wheel, could be applied to all forms of machinery. Hereafter papermills, saw mills (not mentioning cotton mills,) would go, not by water, or by steam, but by perpetual motion. Such, at least, was the impression of the crowd until a little incident put an entire new face upon the matter:

One of the burghers a little more curious than the rest, noticed a square pillar, which stood about four feet from the table. He tapped it with a stick: it returned a hollow sound. He tore one of the boards away and discovered that these boards concealed a rope, which passed under the floor, and up one of the legs of the table into the machinery of the wheel. The rope turned the wheel. That was certain! But what was at the other end of the rope?—This soon became the question. While the inventor manifested the greatest agitation, a search was made, the rope was followed to its 'tother end' And that end was discovered in an obscure garret, where amid rags and straw was streched an emaciated fo m, whose skeleton hands where occupied in turning a crank, which set the rope in motion, and with the rope the wheel. This living skeleton was the brother of the inventor. He had been in fact buried alive that his brother might reap the reward of a great d scovery, from his very misery?

Of course 'perpetual motion' was at once explained, and the inventor was sent to prison, while his sick brother was put to bed and fed on nutrious food.

Such is the story; let us take a peep at its moral. How many perpetual motions in this world depend upon the bony hands of some living skeleton, who turns the crank in an obscure garret, while the successful speculator reaps his money and his honors in proud day!

Perpetual Motion! You will find it everywhere. It builds house, charter's banks rears churches, grades railroads, makes shirts, boots, and shoes, plants cities, tills farms, prints books, overspreads the desert with the living harvest, and from the dark caverns of the mine brings coal, which lights the fires of a million homes. Yes, you will find it everywhere, this perpetual motion. But who turns the crank? It is the Capitalist's 'Sick Brother,' confined in the caverns of society and working away in darknes with bony hands, while his rich brother reaps the fruit of his labor, about the ground, and in sunny air.

Here is a rich Publisher. How well he dresses, how glibly his carriage wheels go round, how copiously the dollars twinkle in his well filled till! But who turns the crank? Oh, there is yonder in some obscure garret, an author working away with tremulous hands, and eyes filled with fever He turns the crank. He writes books at midnight, which the Publisher turns into gold by day. Gold for the Publisher's pocket, of course.

Here is a window along Chestnut st. anorned with the most exquisite needle work. Vests, shirts, bosoms and collars—all elegantly done, and worth a score of dollars to the store keeper. But who turns the crank? Some poor woman, in a basement story—away out in the surburbs—who works for 12 1-2 cents a day, in order that her employer may 'realize' one hundred per cent, on her labor. She turns the crank. This time it is not the Capitalist's sick brother—only his 'sick sister.

Here again is a huge building, where all kinds of tracts, moral books and sectarian pamphlets are printed for gratuitous distribution. Hurled by thousands from a power press, they are scattered broad cast through the land, and scattered free. Free! Without a cent of cost to anybody, But—

Who turns the crank? Where does perpetual motion come from? Look into the printing office of the moral establishment. Behold an hundred poor girls working for half price! Peep into the Bindery! Behold an hundred poor girls working for wages that would not buy varnish for a rich man's carriage harness. Dive lower down—go into the Church. Behold hundreds of poor men and women stripping themselves of their hard earned pennies, in order to help the "Moral Establishment." They turn the crank. They are the Perpetual Motion.

☞ Why is the profession of a parson sooner learned than that of a doctor?

Because it is easier to preach than to practice.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, September 13, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is the growing disposition of the masses—"the lower orders"—to think, speak and act for themselves. They are awaking to the importance of assuming their proper position in society, and it requires no prophet to foretell that henceforth their influence will be seen and felt in the affairs of the world. They feel that they have long been the dupes of their leaders both in church and state; and they are rapidly coming to the conclusion that they are as capable of choosing the right path as those who claim "by the grace of God!" to be their only safe guides.

The masses of both political parties are honest and have the welfare of their country at heart; but is it not notorious that large numbers of those who claim to lead are corrupt and only actuated by selfish motives? These men always talk loudly of their services, and all the offices in the state are looked upon by them as their proper reward. If these are gained, it matters but little what becomes of the best interests of the country.

These facts are notorious to all—what are the causes that have produced them and what is the remedy? The cause is as plain as the fact is notorious that the interests of the people and of their rulers are not the same—they are not from nor of them—they are a class distinct, their interest is only promoted by the usurpation of the peoples rights--politics is their trade, they have no other means whereby they can live. The time has now come when the mass—those by the sweat of whose brows these "divine right"—these hereditary office holding gentry have been supported—are determined on assuming the responsibility of governing themselves.—There can be no other way whereby they can break up this coalition of office holders and party managers than by choosing men from their own class—"the lower orders," men who are identified with their own interests, the farmers, laborers, mechanics—men who have experienced the worth of a dollar by producing it; these are the men that have too long been neglected—or that have neglected themselves—these men have determined to select men from among themselves identified with their interests, that their interest may be identified with them.

The past history of the legislation of our state is certainly fraught with instruction for the future; the usurpations of the peoples rights through those who have been selected to protect them—by a coalition with railroad and other special priviledged companies—by receiving free tickets, champagne drinks, oyster suppers, with more substantial desserts—have disgusted and aroused the people to action—they now demand a restoration of their usurped rights—a repeal of the charter, or of that clause of the charter of the Camden and Amboy Railroad company which gives them the exclusive privilege of traversing the state between certain points, and for special purposes, and of all other acts whereby a special privilege or monopoly is created, as being destructive of their equal and just rights, and therefore a violation of the Constitution, and of most serious detriment to the best interests of New Jersey.

☞ The Newark Daily Advertiser is a journal with which we would prefer not to differ. Its Editor is so generally right when he says what he thinks that we try to be resigned to his silence on many points where he evidently thinks what he does not deem it expedient to say. His paper is a capital one, though not near so good as it would be if its conductor stood less in awe of titular dignities and local respectabilities.—N. Y. Tribune.

The above is a just rebuke of a paper which has ever been but the mouth piece of a clique, who have tyranized over the People of New Jersey through the columns of that paper, and others of a similar stamp. The upholders of the old Constitution of the State which required a Property qualification for voters &c., the upholders of special corporations, railroad monopolies, the opposers of whatever is calculated to advance the peoples rights, the protectors of the few at the expense of the many. What a humbug. How long will the people continue to be led by the nose by such automatons? "When he says what he thinks!" Will the people continue to be humbugged by those Editors who dare not say what they think, the mere echo of those awful "titular dignities and local respectabilities?" We trust the time has come when Editors will express their convictions of right and wrong boldly and fearlessly on all matters concerning the rights and interests of the People, and that the People will appreciate and uphold a free Press, the true guardians of their rights, without permission of or dictation from any "titular dignities or local respectabilities."

"The Rev. Dr. West made application to the churches to deliver a course of lectures on the subject of "The truth and beauties of the Holy Scriptures," or the existence of God and the authenticity of the Bible, yet strange to say, although coming with the very best reccommendations was denied the use of the churches for such a subject! but finally succeeded in obtaining the basement of one of them by paying for its use!

☞ We have been requested to make the following correction in the above paragraph, "paying for its use," should read, paid for the services of the Sexton and for the light!

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.—Not one hundred miles from Plainfield is a village containing several churches; in which place about 3 years since was instituted a lodge of Odd Fellows, which at the time caused some talk, especially by certain churches, which condemned such institutions as being immoral and dangerous to the community; however, time has thus far proved that the conduct of said lodge has been quite as commendable as their sensors; for they have not only visited the sich and afflicted faithfully, but have paid out to the needy several hundred dollars. What has been paid to the poor and sick of said churches I know not, but this much I do know, that some of their poor and needy members have been neglected; and at the present time a poor old man and his wife the latter quite sick, are in want, and would have suffered but for the assistance of some kind neighbors. "Verily by their fruits ye shall know them."

A LOOKER ON.

Hope for Hungary.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore sun, under date of the 8th, mentions the following interesting item:

The disastrous news from Hungary, brought by the Washington, is believhd by the Secretary of State, we understand, to be greatly exaggerated, if, indeed, it is true in any particular. Coming as it does from Austrian sources, it is more than probable tt was manufactured to put an end to the uhiversal sympathy which was being expressed for the gallant Hungarians; and the authentic accounts previously received here, render it almost certain such is the case.

The rumor that the people in some portion of the Island of Cuba—St. Jago, Cienfuegos, Trinidad and Puerto Principe—have risen in revolution is believed to be true; as the Government have had information previously which rendered such an event probable. The conjunction of circumstances cannot fail to be remarked that just at the time when the secret association of armed men were gathering here the revolution in Cuba breaks out, evidently in anticipation of the arrival of the armed force from this country. It is too palpable to admit a doubt that a descent upon Cuba was the aim of the parties against whom the President's proclamation was directed.

It is known that $190,000 has been raised in New York and $250,000, in N. Orleans in aid of the 'cause' Of course, it will be impossible for any of the parties to succeed in reaching Cuba as the whole home squadron is on the look-out to prevent it.

The following cause of death was reported at the interest office: it appears that some days ago a boy, named Joseph Kenedy, six years of age, while sitting in the kitchen at home, received a severe shock, of fright from a cat, which had been shut out, suddenly leaping through a pane of glass into the room, shivering the glass. The boy immediately sickened and died, and as the physician pronounced, solely from the effect of the shock.—Boston Traveller.

ANTI--RENT DISTURBANCE.—Deputy Sheriff Wm. Hegeman was assaulted by some eight or ten men in disguise, on the 28th, at Sandlake, and his papers forcibly taken from him while in the act of making a public sale of the personal property of John Snoeck for rent on an excution in favor of W. P. Van Rensselaer.—Whitehall Chronicle.

Maria Monk, whose falubous book on convents created so much stir a few years ago, is now dying in an asylum for abandoned women, in this city.—The Era.

☞ The President is reported to be in a very feeble state.

Anti-Monopoly Convention.

The following officers were chosen:

FOR PRESIDENT.—Charles Stokes.

VICE PRESIDENTS.—1st Dist. James H. Trenchard, Charles J. Hollis. 2d. Dist. George Hayward, T. W. Ivens. 3d. Dist. David Ryerson, A. C. Davis. 4th. Dist. E. W. Whelpley, J. W. Stout. 5th. Dist. E. C. Mayo, E. S. Van Wageman.

FOR SECRETARIES.—1st Dist. C. D. Hineline. 2d. Dist. Dr. J. T. Clark. 3d Dist. Wm. M. Martin. 4th Dist. C. M. Halstead. 5th. Dist. J. H. Vorhees.

Extracts from the Address and Resolutions.

Fellow Citizens:—The purpose of this convention and the result of its deliberations, will, without doubt, be a subject of inquiry and of much interest to every inhabitant of the State of New Jersey. We therefore deem it proper, in a clear, concise and truthful manner to lay before you the reasons which have brought us together, and the object which we seek to attain, and the advantages which will follow from the course of action which we desire to pursue.

Upwards of seventeen years ago on the 2d of March, 1832, an act was passed by the legislature of New Jersey, depriving the people of a right, which by every rule of common sense and justice, is inalienably theirs, and vesting it in an incorporated company. This, with other kindred acts, dated long previous—some having their origin in priviles granted by the Sovereigns of Great Britain—some by the usurpation of cunning and designing men—is the cause that New Jersey, with all the advantages of location, of climate, of soil, and of the industry and enterprise of its citizens, is far behind its copartners in this great confederation, in all the elements of greatness and prosperity.

The object which we seek to attain is the resumption of the sovereignty of which the people have, in part, been deprived. We wish to have free roads, free ferries, free ingress and egress and free transit in, and over the state; we wish to be no longer tramelled and hemmed in by incorporated or associated monopolies; we wish to enjoy in its fullest extent, all the natural and unalienable rights guaranteed to us by our constitution. Our forefathers having obtained for us freedom from royal despotism, we wish to be equally free from the tyranny of railroad kings, ferry kings, and turnpike kings; this is what we aim at, and what we call upon the people of New Jersey to unite in achieving; this is not a matter of sectional or individual interest, it is not one of party aggrandisement, but it is one in which every citizen, whatever might be his occupation, whether a farmer, mechanic, merchant, capitalist or laborer, whether Whig or Democrat, might and ought to unite.

It requires no argument to prove that partial legislation is unjust and contrary to the spirit of governments founded on the great principle of equal rights. To grant to individuals the power of doing that which others with equal advantages are deprived of doing, is certainly wrong, and cannot be justified.

But if partial legislation in the cases refered to, is objected to, even where the legislature retains the power of control by amendment or repeal, how much more objectionable must it be, to legislate for all future time, and to pass acts not only partial in their character, but violative of the natural right of the citizen? Under what pretence can any legislature justify such acts? Who dares to advocate their correctness? Who can tolerate their injustice? Such an act, fellow citizens, disgraces the statute book of New Jersey! Shall it be tolerated or not, is now the question.

On the 4th February, 1830, a charter of incorporation was granted to the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation Company. The company was forbid from charging more than at the rate of eight cents per ton per mile 'for the transportation of every species of property'—nor more than ten cents per mile for the carrying of each passenger. The state was authorized to take the road at the expiration of thirty years at its appraised value.

On the 15th February, 1831, an act was passed to consolidate the stock of the Delaware and Raritan Canal with that of the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation Company. One of the provisions of this act is 'that it shall not be lawful for the said companies to charge more than $3 for the transportation of passengers from and to the cities of New York and Philadelphia.'

On the 2d March, 1832, a supplement to the foregoing act was passed, by virtue of which one thousand shares of the stock of the joint companies, was transferred to the state. It was also provided as follows: 'That it shall not be lawful at any time during the said railroad charter, to construct any other railroad or railroads in this state without the consent of the said companies, which shall be intended or used for the transpartation of passengers or merchandise between the cities of New York and Philadelphia, or to compete in business with the railroad authorized by the act to which this supplement is relative.

It will be observed that if this monopoly privilege is worth any thing, it is conditioned to last 'during the railroad charter.' Now the charter provides for no termination, except by the purchasers of the works by the state at the end of 30 years. Will it not then be perpetual? Are the people of New Jersey prepared to submit and to suffer this evil themselves; and also to bequeath it to their children? If not then the question arises, how shall it be disposed of? And here it is that you are called upon fellow citizens to act deliberately, wisely, and with a proper respect to your honor and to your true interests. The management of your public affairs is necessarily committed to the care of representatives chosen by your suffriges. In the selection of these representatives lies your power; the responsibility therefore rests with you. This is no trifling matter—the reputation, happiness, and prosperity of yourselves and succeeding generations depend upon your decision. New Jersey is not what she ought to be if this monopoly and its appendages are not destroyed. The creation of this monopoly has generated, its existence has perpetrated, the spirit of monopoly in the state. Its example and its influence support and maintain the numerous vampires that feed on your life's blood. In shaking off its fond but fatal embrace, you will free yourselves from a bond which is not endured and would not be endured by any state in this Union.

We will say nothing of the fraudulent practices charged upon this monopoly—they are in the course of examination. and we will not pre-judge the decision. But that it has violated its charter in more instances than one is a notorious and unquestionable fact. The violations have been committed with premeditation, wilfully and designedly; so it is always with ill gotten power. Will you then with the means of ridding yourselves of an enemy, put in your hand by the enemy himself, still permit him to harass, injure and destroy you? If you will, then we have no more to say. Our duty is in advising you of your injuries, and in showing how they may be redressed.

Resolved, That we, the people of New-Jersey, in general convention assembled will labor for the abolition of these monopolies, so injurious to our best interests; and for the accomplishment of that object do hereby pledge ourselves to use our best efforts to secure the return to the next legislature of honest, intelligent and independent men, who understand our rights, as here declared and will mantain them.

Resolved, That the passage of a general railroad law is essential to the promotion of the interest of the people of the state.

Resolved, That while the covention does not desire to interfere with the political combinations of the respective parties of the state, we earnestly reccommend to the several country conventions to select no candidates for the legislature but such as are known to be friendly to the priciples declared in the foregoing preamble and resolutions, and who will pledge themselves to use their influence and votes to carry them out.

Resolved, that the giving of free tickets to members of the legislature, judges and other public functionaries, is an indirect bribe, corrupting in its tendancy, and that the accepting of the same is derogatory to the character of an upright and independant man; and that the sanctioning of it by legal enactment, as was done by the legislature at its last session, is destructive of equal rights and practically establishes a 'privileged class' at the expense of the many, and ought to be abolished.

A resolution condemning the practice of giving free tickets to members of the legislatures and other politicial functionaries, was read to the convention, but decided negatived.

Mr. H. Carey was here called upon to state the origin and cause of the difficulty between himself and the railroad company. When he concluded the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this convention be tendered to Henry C. Carey, 'A Citizen of Burlington,' for the zeal and ability which he has manifested in calling the attention of the people of New-Jersey to the misconduct and extortions of these monopolies.

On motion it was

Resolved, That Mr. Carey be requested to furnish a copy of his speech for publication.

A resolution that the different counties be requested to appoint corresponding committees was adopted. After which the proceedings of the convention were ordered to bo printed.

A committee was appointed to receive contributions to defray the expenses of publishing the proceedings of the convention and distributing them among the people, $68 was contributed. The business having been concluded the convention adjourned.

CIDER.—Here is a receipt worth to farmers the price of our paper for a year;—'Take a pint of pulverized charcoal and put it into a small cotton bag, then put it in a barrel of new cider, and the cider will never ferment, never contain any intoxicating quality and the longer it is kept the more palatable it becomes.'—Middletown Banner.

☞ It is not what we earn, but what we save, that makes us rich. It is not what we eat, but what we digest that makes us fat. It is not what we read, but what we remember, that makes us learned. All this is very simple, but it is worth remembering.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

HUNGARY.

LONDON, Aug. 25.

La Presse of Paris states that it is generally believed in Paris that the surrender of the Hungarians is to be attributed to the result of negotiation, rather than through any corrupt motive of Gorgey or of despair on the part of his army.

It is said that the arrangement for the surrender was made by Prince Schwartzenburg during his last visit at Warsaw, and honorable terms were obtained.

La Presse gives Great Britain the credit of effecting the negotiation, who acted from desire to terminate the contest in which Hungary was engaged and to prevent Russia from making any further incursions on the Hungarian territory.

ITALY.—Letters had reached Paris which state that the Pope had conferred on Gen. Oudinot the title of Duke of Pinerazio, and granted him a pension of 6,000 crowns for his valuable services in the cause of the Holy See.

RUSSIA.—The Berlin Correspondent of Jerrold's News says:—'In the first interview between Lamoriciere, Schwarzenberg, and the Russian Czar, a plan was broached for an alliance between France, Russia, Austria, Prussia, Naples, and the Pope. The condition was to keep in view, as an ultimate aim, a war with England. The immediate object was to be the extinction of all the revolutionary element. Turkey, Italy, the Rhenish Provinces, and Belgium, which is no longer to be tolerated, furnish materials for indemnification. Prussia is to have North Germany to the Maine; Austria, Bosnia and South Germany, except Bavaria. Bavaria, is to have Wirtemberg in exchange for the Rhenish Province, which is to go to France with Cologne. Wirtemberg, Baden, Resse, and other princes, are to be mediatized Switzerland also is to be divided. Chimerical as this may sound, still it formed the matter of discussion. Withdrawing definite conclusions from this statement, it allows one to see with what kind of plans dimplomatic heads are busied. The Czar took up Alexander's journal, and read out of it the conversation of that Emperor with Napoleon. Respecting Constantinople, nothing could be agreed upon. It was the Emperor's notion that Byzantium might one day be left as a free city, with some territory It was assumed that France, Russia, and Austria with the help of Naples, would be able to produce a fleet able to cope with that of England.

Arrival of the Steamship Falcon.

NEW-ORLEANS, Sept. 7. 1849.

Ths steamship Falcon arrived last evening from Chagres, having touched at Havana on Monday, the 3d inst.

Private letters from Cuba state that the Island is in the greatest commotion, but make not the slightest mention of insurrectionary movements there, except in a single instance, in which the Colonel and several officers of one of the regiments were murdered.

The Captain General was using the most energetic measures to suppress any attempt at rebellion that might occur in any part of the island,

By an order of the Captain-General the Falcon was prohibited from receiving any passengers at Havana; and no United States newspapers were allowed to pass the post-office.

The commander of the sloop-of-war Albany, now at Round Island, has been requested by the Consul at Havana, to proceed there immediately.

The Steamer Autocrat, arrived to-day from St Louis, brought down 160 United States troops, destined to the everglades of Florida.

The blockade of Round Island, which has been rigidly enforced for some time, is now discontinued, the United States vessels stationed there allowing provisions and other necessaries to be landed without the slightest molestation.

Postponement of the National Common School Convention.

At the suggestion of Several State Superintendents and other influential friends of the cause of popular education in different sections of the Union, the meeting of the National Convention of the friends of Common Schools, which was to have taken place in this city on the 22d inst, has been postponed to the 17 of October, on account of the prevalence of the Cholera throughout the country ☞ Officers of Conventions or Associations which have appointed delegates, will please forward to the Corresponding Secretary the names of persons appointed as delegates.

By order of Local Committee of Arrangement,

JOS. R. CHANDLER, Chairman.
ALFRED E. WRIGHT, Cor. Sec.
Philadelphia, Aug. 1, 1849.

Notice.

☞ Delegates to the National Common School Convention. In order that every section of the country may be represented at the approaching National Convention, I would suggest that the officers of the various State, County and town Conventions, forward without delay, the names of the delegates to the National Convention appointed by their several Conventions. Circulars of invitation will be addressed to the most prominent friends of the cause in those districts where no delegates have been appointed. Address,

A. E. WRIGHT, Cor. Sec.
Local Com. of Arrangements.

Cure for Rheumatism.

We recommend, the following recipe, which will be found, upon trial, to be a simple, still an invaluable remedy for rheumatism.

RECIPE.—Take a pint of the spirits of turpentine, to which add half an ounce of camphor; let it stand till the camphor is dissolved; then rub it on the part affected, and it will never fail of removing the complaint. Flannel should be applied after the part is well fomented with turpentine. Repeat the application morning and evening. It is said to be equally available for burns, scalds, bruises and sprains, never failing of success. We can vouch for its efficacy in rheumatic affections.—Wrights Casket.

ODD.—Salt Creek, Jackson Co. Indianna, does not contain one Whig voter, but it happened to have more citizens in the State Prison than any other four towns in the State. This circumstance reduces the Loco-Foco majority considerably, but it is still heavy.—N. Y. Tribune.

QUERY.—Are all the whigs in the State Prison?

It is not piety but hypocrisy, the world despises and contemns.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Sept. 12.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 25
RYE FLOUR	3 00
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 20
CORN	57 a 62
OATS	36 a —

PLAINFIELD

Pricees current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt.	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62
OATS " do	31 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	16 a 18
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

MARRIED.

On Sept. 9th. by Rev. Stephen Haff, MR. HENDERSON RYNO, to MISS. REBECCA HILL, all of Plainfield.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY

$1250 Upon unincumbered Real Estate, in the vicinity of Plainfield, in the county of Essex, worth four times that amount. Apply to

Sept. 12. 1849. J. ANNIN.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield, where he can be found on Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

HELP.

☞ THE time of a colored girl of industrious habits, and in good health, who has nine years to serve, (being now twelve years of age) is offered for sale. For particulars enquire at this office.

Aug 28. 1849.

GET UP A CLUB! And Secure a Free Copy!

ROBERT F. GREELEY'S

Splendid New Romance, Entitled the

CHILD OF THE ISLANDS!

Or the Ship-Wrecked Gold Seekers!

Will appear immediately in successive numbers of the New York

LITERARY AMERICAN.

It is founded on the wild adventures of a party of California Gold seekers, who were wrecked on a desert island in the Pacific Ocean, and went through strange and thrilling scenes. It is believed that this is one of the most vivid and able works that has lately appeared. It will be COPYRIGHTED. The Literary American is well known throughout the country as a moral and entertaining FAMILY NEWSPAPER, got up in the best style for binding, and forming every year two large volumes of more than 1000 pages!

☞ Back numbers furnished to order.

TERMS.—Served in cities, 6 cents a week. To mail subscribers,

One copy in advance,	$3 00
Two copies, "	5 00
Clubs of Ten, "	20 00

and a free coy to the person getting up a club.

The best and cheapest way to subscribe is to get up a club.

Agents wanted in every town in the United States.

All persons who forward us Three Dollars for a years subscrition, to commence with the 1st Number of Vol. III. (July 7th 1849,) will be furnished with all the back numbers, containig Mayne Reid's Great Romance of "WAR LIFE," gratis.

☞ Send in your names and money at once, by mail, at our risk, to

G. P. QUACKENBOS,

105 Nassau-st., N. Y.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on STEPHEN VAIL.

March 1. 1849. 1y

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848."—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.

195 Front-st. N. Y.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ If you have anything to dispose of, or any matter to make known to the public, there is no more efficient or economical plan than to advertise in the Gazette.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,

FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

AN UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

FROM THE INFANCY OF MANKIND TO THE PRESENT TIME. By G. C. Hebbe, L. L. D. Now ready 1st volume bound in cloth.—Price $1.75 and to be continued in monthly parts, until finished, five numbers forming a volume 25 cents per number.

The author of this work seems to have had in constant view the celebrated treaties of Lucian—"How a history ought to be written." Truth in its severity, and reason in its manly state are the chief Muses and graces to which he has done obedience. What a different view has been presented to us by other historians. No wonder that the numbers already issued have met with a large sale, and have been hailed by frequent laudatory notices of the press, of which abridged extracts are here subjoined.

[From the Democratic Review.]

This beautiful octavo—the first volume of Dr. Hebbe's Universal History—forms the initial volume of a new and greatly improved work, devoted to the history of the Universe, based not merely upon the usually received data of former historians but derived from the best authorities, attested by revelations of modern discovery. The recent researches in archœelogy by Chevalier Bunsen, and other learned investigators, among ancient monumental records, have so entirely changed the aspect of primitive times and revealed so many important new data, that the wonder has been not that such a work as the present should make its appearance but rather that the task should not have been before attempted in Europe. From a somewhat careful examination of this volume, however, we find no cause to regret that the theme should have been reserved for the judicious and laborious press of Dr. Hebbe. To such as cannot command the leisure of more systematic course of study, this work proves eminently important and valuable, since, when completed, it will form a compendious library of universal history, the most accurate and complete extant, and written up to the spirit of the age.

[From the N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 23.]

In regard to the literary execution of this work we have spoken as the numbers appeared but not as fully as its merits deserve. Now, on re-examination, we hesitate not to pronounce that this volume, as a history of the earliest period of mankind, has no rival in any single work of universal history in the English language.

[From Graham's Magazine]

The author of the Universal History, now in publication, judging from the portion already published, is equal to his task. He comes to it prepared by twenty years of study, and a familiar acquaintance with all the necessary authorities, not only those to whom we look for solid records of facts, but those who have gone beneath the surface of events, and tracked the source of politicial convulsions by a thousand pulses, back to the hidden heart of some great principle.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Hebbe by availing himself of the light of which the Egyptian hierologists and other investigators of antiquity, have shed on the earliest history of man, by means of his vast erudition enabling him to avoid the errors of compilers, and to draw from the original and most undoubted sources of authority, and by his acute judgment, his liberal philosophy, his deep sympathy with humanity, and his enthusiastic love for his favorite study has produced what may be termed in many respects an original history of the infant nations of the world. The work is written in the most enlarged and liberal spirit, while the author rejects the supersition of the ancient priesthood he is a stout defender of the immortal and sublime truths of Christianity.

[From the N. Y. True Sun.]

The style of Dr. Hebbe, though writing in a tongue foreign to him, is always flowing and animated, sometimes picturesque and sometimes even eloquent and sublime.

This work appears in monthly numbers—seven numbers now ready.

A liberal discount to the trade. Sent by mail to to any part of the country.

Dewitt & Davenport, Tribune Buildings, Nassau-street New-York.

☞ Papers inserting the above three times, including this notice and noticing the nos. as they appear, will have the back nos sent to them by forwarding a copy of their paper to the publishers marked. Also receive the numbers as fast as published.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

Mrs. A. M Sanford,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D, and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following Card of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be trunsted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are—1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B ALLEN & CO.

188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

Dr. S. A. Pearson: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,

AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S A. Pearson, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1849. | NO. 40.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

☞ Mr. JOHN R. SWALLOW, 123 Fulton st. New York, is authorized to act as our agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ If you have anything to dispose of, or any matter to make known to the public, there is no more efficient or economical plan than to advertise in the Gazette.

THE MURDERED TINMAN.

BY WILLIAM L. STONE, ESQ.

[Concluded.]

cherry lips. But that was the last time Christiana had the opportunity of purchasing such a beautiful riband of the Tinman at so cheap a rate; for he was never seen coporeally in New Paltz again. Early the next morning, Fowler alarmed the neighborhood by a story that the Tinman had fled during the night, leaving his horse in the stable, and his cart under the shed. On forcing the locks of the cart box, it was found empty of everything save a bundle of cast-off clothes. His overcoat that had shielded him from the peltings of many a pitiless storm, was left in his bed-room, and his hat was found behind the old stone barn. All enquiries for the Tinman proved fruitless, the horse and cart were advertised by written notices that nobody could read; and the result was, that Fowler took both, to pay for the feeding of one. His rent soon afterwards became due, and he paid it without difficulty; nay, he shortly made some repairs of the premises, and even talked of purchasing! From that time forth, moreover, ne had money enough, and small sums to lend at usury.

For several weeks after the Tinman's disappearance, there was much excitement upon the subject, and many unwelcome remarks could not fail of reaching the ears of the inkeeper. But in process of time it died away, as all excitements do; nevertheless, there were those in the immediate vicinity of the inn who did not believe in the story of the honest Tinman's running off after that sort in the nigh, leaving his horse, cart, overcoat, and hat which, though rather the worse for wear, were all worth something still The more the circumstances were pondered over by those who had laid them up in their hearts, and the longer the Tinman had been absent, the graver were the looks of the elder neighbors, and the more dubious and solemn the shakes of the head when he was mentioned, and the girls sighed over their fading ribands

Finally, an event occurred which determined what had been the fate of the poor Tinman, beyond doubt or contradiction. It was proved that he had been most foully dealt with, by testimony much stronger than has ever been brought into a court of justice—probably because subpœnas from human tribunals will not be obeyed by such witnesses. The development was after this sort. It happened that, rather late one night, at the dread hour of deepest darkness 'when churchyards yawn,' as Conrad Van Vranken was passing Fowler's premises, on his return from a visit he had been making to the fair Christina Dieffendorff, during which the Tinman and the flame-colored riband, the last present he had ever made, were subjects of conversation, he beheld a sight in the road beside him, which froze his young blood and chained him to the spot with affright. It was the shade of the Tinman which he saw, and it was 'confirmation strong as proof from Holy Writ' that had been murdered! There he was, travelling close by his side, seated on the box of the identical cart he had for so many years driven the country, and drawn, too, by the same horse, with three white feet, although Conrad well knew that both cart and horse had been sold by Fowler to the first family moving on their way from New England to Ohio. Though appalled, and for the moment struck motionless, Conrad watched the apparition as it passed slowly by him. It was indeed the pedlar, looking as in life, only that his cheek was deadly pale, and he could not endure the cold, setglare of his eye! In a moment afterwards, to Conrad's further surprise, the Tinnman turned his spectre horse and vehicle short off to the right, and, without the slightest impedient from a stout six-railed fence, drove over it, and across a small field, and entered directly into a ledge of high, precipitous rocks, by which the field was bounded on tee western side, and disappeared! Conrad thereupon hurried home, as fast as his legs could carry him, and crept shivering into his bed, just in the grey of the morning. But slumber was most effectually driven from his eyelids—not by waking visions of blis with the fair Christiana Dieffendorff in his warm embrance, but by the Tinman, whose cold, dull eye seemed to glare on him still, and the image of the horse and cart, which their master had driven strait into the ledge of rocks.

The vision of Conrad soon became bruited about, nor was a single pleasantry indulged at his expense, as how he had only been frightened by getting into a doze after he had staid out late, making love in Low Dutch to his sweetheart. Indeed, had any one doubted that he had seen a veritable ghost, such doubt would soon have been dissipated by the testimony of Dr. Vandenhuel, who, having been called up to attend one of those delicate though nameless causes which generally occur in the night, was obliged to pass the fatal place at about the same hour in which honest Conrad had encountered the the apparition. As might have been expected, both the doctor and the messenger with him saw the Tinnman seated, as when of this world, on the box of his cart, his hair queued with an eel-skin, and his horse with three white feet. The vision appered in the road, as at first, but soon turned off across the field, without disturbing the fence or leaving a track, and disappeared in the ledge. From this time forward there was—there could be—no doubt as to the fate of the Tinman, or that his unquiet spirit was a frequent visitor upon earth—for it always happened that those who were compelled to pass the dreadful spot at the witching hour of night were sure of a visit from the Tinman in his spectre cart, who always disappeared by driving into the rocks. Sometimes, indeed, in the eyes of those who possessed more excitable and poetical temperaments, the spectre was invested with more picturesque, if not more terrific, characteristics. The eyes of the steed had been seen to glare like fireballs, while flames and smoke were breathed from his nostrils, and, instead of the Tinman, a skeleton sat upright upon the box—

'Whose loose teeth in their sockets shook,
And grinn'd terrific a sardonic look'— guiding the reins, and rattling his bony fingers upon the sideboads, as he whistled Yankee Doodle. But, for the most part, in these oft-repeated nightly visitations the Tinman appeared as when a regular and substantial inhabitant of this world, in the same plain attire, seated on the same cart, drawn by the same white-footed horse, and wearing the identical hat that had been found behind the old stone barn. He had, indeed, been seen so many times without injurying anybody, that less dread was in the haunted ledge than for weeks after his first appearrance, although it is believed that Conrad ever afterwards contrived to sit an hour later with Christiana Dieffendorff than had been his custom before, until, by the intervention of Dominie Waughkerhagen, there was no further need for his hurrying himself. But that is neither here nor there.

It may well be imagined that, under these circumstances, the popularity of the inn did not increase, though its character was in some other respects improved. With the growth of the country, travelling had increased, and the village superstitions, whether well or ill founded, were known at great distances abroad. Of course Fowler received a share of business, and continued to improve his premises. Still he was sullen and morose in his disposition his house was avoided as much as possible not only by the immediate neighbors, but by all the people roundabout, in the region of Ulster. Not even the Tinman's cart-box, full of Dutch ducats, could have hired and any one acquainted with its former owner to have passed a nigt under his roof. Fowler, however, purchased and paid for the old homestead of St Nicholas; and the announcement of this fact caused many more dark surmises and doubtful shakes of the head.

It happened, some five or six years after the occurrences above related, when I was one day riding from 'Sopus down to the Limekilns, that I was overtaken by a storm near the premises of Mr. Fowler, and obliged to seek shelter in his house. It rained with great violence, and 'the red artillery of heaven' played tremendously. The storm continued until it was too late for me to proceed by daylight, and I determined to remain where I was for the night. Not that I had forgotten the story of the Tinman; but Fowler knew me, and had no reason to suppose that I could have more than a few dollars of change about me, for the exigencies of a thirty miles' ride. There needed, therefore, be no apprehension of danger in my case, even though the pedlar's strange disappearance was yet a mystery. Besides, I was ashamed to allow, even to myself, that fear could disturb my thoughts, or that the least particle of superstitious dread, now that I had become a grownup man, yet lurked within my bosom. So, ordering my horse to the stable, I seated myself upon the broad stone steps at the door, as the storm broke away, to watch the sun, whose beams pierced through the watery clouds, and revealed that glorious luminary just as he was sinking into a bed of molten gold. I next busied myself awhile in counting the stars, as they successively began to twinkle with silvery radiance in the heavens.

But before the orange glow of the departed orb of day had quite disappeared from the western horizin, a stranger rode up to the tavern, mounted upon a spirited, coal-black charger, who stood pawing the ground, champing the heavy, plated bridle-bits, and snorting away the foam, as his master enquired for lodgings. The stranger was a tall man, of elegant though rather slender proportions. His hair was as black as his steed, and his dark, quick eye was lightened up with a peculiar lustre. A slight curl of the lip denoted a more southern origin; and, as he threw off the oil-cloth cloak which had protected him from the drenching shower just over, his mein was still more graceful and commanding. Like his own attire, the equipage of his horse was nearly new and elegant, and a well filled portmantau contained his luggage. The traveller took the portmanteau from the saddle with his own hands, while the host (our old acquaintaince Fowler) stripped the noble animal of his trappings. When the stranger placed the portmantau upon the stoop, I thought it descended with uncommon momentum; and I also observed that Fowler took occasion, rather dexterously, and, he supposed, without being seen, to try its weight, as he placed the saddle by its side, before he led the impatient animal to the stable.

These matters having been arranged, the stranger partook of some slight refreshments at the same board with myself, and requested to be shown to his apartment for the night.

'I will take my portmanteau to my room,' said the stranger.

'Never mind that, sir,' said the landlord, 'it will be just as safe in the bar, sir.'

'But I choose to have it in my room,' replied the stranger, firmly.

'Very well,' said Fowler, doggedly; 'I will bring it along, sir.'

'I prefer taking it myself,' returned the stranger; and, the light being ready, he was ushered upstairs into his room.

The apartment assigned to me was next to that of the stranger, and my window looked out upon the memorable field, across which the Tinman was reported so often to have made his trackless journey. And there, too, a little further on, was the formidable buttress of rocks, into the solid sides of which the unquiet shadows were wont to enter. The moon having risen, objects were distincly visible to a still greater distance than the haunted ledge. Certain strange, indefinable feeling began to come over me. I strove to quell them. Creeping into bed, I buried my eyes in the clothes, and tried to compose myself to sleep. But the effort was vain. The Tinman and his cart, the stranger and his portmanteau, and the sinister look of Fowler, as he adroitly tried the weight of it, danced through my imagination with a vivid and painful distinctness. I got up, and barricaded my door as silently as possible, and crawled into bed again, only to toss from side to side, with feverish restlessness and excitement—starting now and then from a fitful slumber, as I dreamed of the Tinman and his cart. Thus, hour after hour passed away, though perhaps I was, for a time, more than once, entirely obvious. But my courage and feelings were, in the course of the night, put to the severest trial. I hear noises, as of persons passing and repassing upon the stairway, and a whispering, as of people who wished not to be overheard. I likewise heard the stranger's door gently opened. Soon afterwards a groan, followed by a gurgling noise, as of a death-struggle, mingled with the trickling of some liquid into a wooden vessel. Then all was still as death for a moment; and then again the cautious whispering was heard. I was unarmed, and if I made an alarm, there was no help within call so that I should only be bringing the point of the fatal knife to my own throat. Besides, the fell deed had been done; I therefore lay still suppressing my breath, and shuddering with horror. Again there was passing and repassing upon the stairway, and more whispering. I heard the words—'Are you sure he is asleep? Don't you think he heard us?' And these questions were followed by a—'Hush!' Then I heard a noise, as of persons taking some heavy object down the staircase. I listened with breathless and horrid silence until the door closed after them, when I carefully rose from my bed, and stepped softly to the window. There, truly enough was the dreadful reality. I saw Fowler and his wife by the light of the waning moon, carrying the dead body of the stranger, wrapped in his cloak, directly across the field, in the course always taken by the spectre-Tinman and his horse and cart. At last they arrived at the foot of the rocky steep, into whose granite walls the shadows always appeared to glide. Stopping, breathless from the weight of their burden, both the he and she-villain looked cautiously around, as if to note whether they had been observed. They then lustily applied themselves to the removal of some heavy fragments of rocks, at the base of the precipice, the weight of which, judging from their size, would have required the strengh of thirty men to remove, and I distinctly saw the narrow opening of a cave—the charnel house, no doubt, of the Tinman, and of many others. Into this dark sepulchre the body of the murdered man was thrust, and the cowardly homicides stole back to the house to tell their spoil, and perhaps to retire to sleep, folding each other in their bloody embrace! 'Wretches!' I inwardly exclaimed, 'your hidden crimes have but a little longer to remain 'unwhipt of justice!' Little do you think that the eye of man has beheld your bloody tracks—that the darkest cavern cannot longer hide your guilt—and that you will so soon be sent from an earthly to a yet higher tribunal of justice!' * * * * * Again I heard steps upon the stairway. They approach nearer,—now they are at my door. And * * * * * at this moment I was startled from a very deep, though unquiet sleep, by the shrill and well known voice of Mrs. Fowler, squealing out—'Mr. Doolittle—Mr. Doolittle—ain't you going to get up? Breakfast has been waiting this half hour, and the man with the black horse has been waiting for you. Poor man! he' been desput sick all night, or else he'd have clean got to 'Sopus for't, I know, afore now!"

* * * * * * * *

Perhaps I may as well add, in conclusion, that, being at Washington on the installation of President Jefferson, some years afterwards, I saw among the members of Congress from somewhere beyond the westward—not the Tinman's ghost, gentle reader but—the real Tinman himself—a leading Senator in Congress from one of the new States, of which he was the first Governor, and in which he was a land-holder of some thirty-five thousand acres! As to the thrift of the Fowlers, which was so unintelligible to the lovers of the marvellous, I apprehend that its solution may easily be found in the pregnant meaning of Poor Richard's saw, that a, penny saved is two-pence earned.'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, September 20, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

Monopolies.

This curse of our State we trust is about to receive its death blow: the interest taken in this question by the people, and its discussion by them at their social gatherings, and through the Press, and its able presentment to the people by the convention guaranties a beneficial result: discussion by the people of all questions bearing on their rights must ever result in good. History proves conclusively, that they cannot be too jealous of their rights, of the encroachments of power—not the exploded doctrine of divine rights—but the more dangerous because more subtil doctrine of special priviliges; this insidious foe is sapping the foundation of our rights, under some plausible pretext to benefit the people; by some railroad project, bank charter, ferry company—some special act to prevent swine running at large, to erect some temperance hall or market; even charity cannot be dispensed without a special act: it is time this pharisaical, farcical protection of charity and propagandism of morality by special act of the legislature were done away with; it is anti republican in principle, destructive of equal rights, and when applied to small matters like the above named it is disgusting to every reflecting mind.

The laws of nature, the common sense and consent of mankind—the charter of our liberties, proclaimed to the world by our forefathers, sealed with their blood—all declare the politicial equality of man's rights, and their inalienableness: these democratic principles are inscribed on the heart of every true republican—and we trust there are a sufficient number incorruptible, who possess these principles, to prevent their violation by interested and designing men--who will veto through known and determined representatives, the monopoly clause of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company, and to insist strenously on a general Railroad Bill, or what is more to the purpose, of general laws on all matters of legislation. A special act should ever be the detestation of every true republican; as it is the main channel whereby the liberties of the people can be usurped.

Rights of Man.

The Creator has established universal, unerring. and general laws throughout nature, for the government of the universe and all that therein is: there is no special act whereby one individual has a preference over another—all men know what those laws are by intuition, gained by experience, through their sensations, unerringly for all the purposes of life. These laws operate equally upon all; their violation are attended with certain punishment, and that in proportion to their violation; every man has an unerring guide in his own bosom—a knowledge of those laws placed there by his own sensations received from experience. The most humble citizen as well as the President of this mighty republic, the most degraded being as well as the King on his throne, are all subject to and controlled by these unalterable laws. These laws unequivocally declare the equality of man's rights; "dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return,"

Thus it is unequivocally declared by the very nature and existence of man, that his rights are equal and unalienable: but man dressed up in a little brief authority, delegated to him by his fellow man for their mutual benefit and protection, cuts "fantastic tricks before high heaven," and declares these delegated powers his own; such was the origin of the present political and social inequalities of man's condition; such is the tenure by which they are at present held, aided by the powerful but fictitious advantages which society gives the tyrant, he thus gloats over the usurpation of the equal and inalienable rights of his fellow man; therefore these usurped rights are stolen goods, and may be justly reclaimed wheresoever found, by whomsoever possessed.

To counteract these fictitious advantages, and to regain these lost rights, is the peculiar province of every true hearted republican; and although an up-hill job, yet from the nature of the materials and the tools he has to work with, with determined perseverance by those interested in their reclamation, success will certainly crown their efforts.

Free discussion of the rights of man by the great mass of the people, is one great lever whereby thrones are overturned and thereby their lost rights are regained.

The great parental protector of man's rights however is EDUCATION, educate the mass—"knowledge is power," without education there will be no free discussion.

Education is the great moral lever, free discussion the fulcrum whereby the usurped rights of man can be overturned and regained. Let us extend the blessings of Education, the foe of tyrants; this will teach man what his rights are; that he is INALIENABLY entitled to LIBERTY, to EQUAL RIGHTS, through EQUAL LAWS; to a portion of the earth for cultivation, and that none have a right to more than they do cultivate.

Society, and more especially under a republican government, owe every soul a good EDUCATION, it is called upon by the most powerful of all motives, self interest, and by the sacred obligations of duty to thus arm him against the machinations of tyranny in every form.

A Large New Map of New Jersey.

We were shown last week a copy of the Northern section (being about one third) of the new State map, now nearly completed, by Robert E. Hornor, of Princeton

It is a beautiful specimen, neatly engraved on copper with a perfect vignette of the State Capitol.

The lower section will contain an accurate representation of the Coat of Arms of the State, already beautifully engraved, with a handsome Title, Table of Counties, Population, Representation &c. together with other additions and improvements.

The whole map will be nearly 5 feet by 3, and handsomely colored, separately by townships, (a decided improvement, now adopted for the first time at considerable extra expense) varnished and mounted for the low price of only $5.

The publication of the State Map is intended to be made early this Fall, it having been delayed in consequence of sickness on the part of the Engraver.

Now is the time to subscribe for it, Mr. JACOB L. BROTHERTON, is Agent for this Township.

Daily Standard.

Persons in Plainfield who wish to have the Elizabethtown DAILY STANDARD served at their dwellings, can be accommodaby sending their address to the Gazette office.

Fire at New-Market.

The carriage and wagon manufactory of John Giles, at New-Market, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The loss is estimated at $2300—insured for only $500. There is reason to believe that some scoundrel caused the conflagration.

☞ For purifying the blood, and thus preventing disease, Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla is now universally admitted to be inferior to no known medicine. It is pleasant to the taste, and should be kept on hand as a family medicine. For sale by M. F. Cushing.

MAINE ELECTION.—From the returns thus far received there is no choice for governor. In the senate the whigs will probably have a majority. The house is democratic by a small majoity.

COMMON CARRIERS—THEIR LIABILITY FOR TRAVELLERS' BAGGAGE.—A case of considerable importance has just been decided in the district Court of Penn. at Phila., to persons traveling with baggage containing money, jewelry, and other valuable articles, the contents not being made known to the carriers. The action was brought to recover of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Co., the amount of a sum of money contained in a trunk, the knowledge of which was not communicated to the Company at the time the trunk was placed in the Baggage Car, and the owner having paid extra freight. The Company prove the usual notices to passengers both in the public papers, and on their tickets, and argued that they would be liable for the ordinary contents of a trunk, but they could not be liable for usual and valuable articles, unless they had notice, and is was so proved. The Court decided that the Plaintiff must recover on the ground that the charging and receiving freight for the extra baggage, was sufficient evidence of the defendant's knowledge of the contents of the trunk.

The Court in this case were undoubtedly correct. By reference to Jones on bailment, p. 34, appendix; the principal is laid down.—Newark Daily Mercury.

The Young Ladies of Plainfield—A few Hints for their Benefit.—Plainfield is justly celebrated for the hundreds of its beautiful and accomplished maidens. Indeed, few villages of the same size can boast of half the number of bright-eyed rosy-cheeked lasses that gladdened our hearts by their kindness, and gratify our sight with their charms. When I state that these virgins are lovely in appearance, and as good as they are fair, I but express the opinion entertained by all who are so happy as to be acquainted with them.

It is because I entertain a profound respect for these virtuous and beautiful damsels, that induces me to offer a few remarks for their consideration. Without further apology I wish to invite their attention to the following brief hints—

1. There are but few of those whom I address that do not, sooner or later, expect to be united to some "nice young man" in marriage. Nay, do not frown, young lady, or declare that such an absurdity never entered your mind. I am too good a judge of human nature—or, too speak more properly, angelic nature—to be humbugged with "gammon" like this. However, I will not increase your blushes by pressing this point; we will merely suppose that at some future time—some happy day, let us hope and pray it may prove—you will give your heart and hand to a beloved one who shall prove himself worthy of one so lovely and deserving.

2. In forming an opinion of the merits of the young men who may seek to win your affections, you may rely on one point, and this is worthy of your most profound attention, viz: that a young man who does not read (and pay for) the newspapers, cannot possibly make you happy. I care not what may be his pretentions or professions, if you do not know that he patronises the printer as you hope for happiness in a married state, do not for a moment think of bestowing your hand on him. If there is any doubt on this subject, you do a great wrong to listen to his addresses an instant. If you do not bear this in mind, and make it the rule of your conduct, you are not the intelligent young lady I supposed you to be.

3. I have only time at present to add another word of advice. It is scarcely less important than the point to which I have just alluded. Have nothing to say to a young man who does not love and respect his "maternal parent" more than all the world beside. I generally speak out plainly at all times, and on a subject of such magnitude as this I shall not suppress the truth to gratify any one. It is my deliberate opinion—formed on much reflection and observation—that a young man who does not love his mother is unfit to have a wife. You might as well attempt to extract blood from a turnip, or, or information and entertainment from The Plainfield Union, as love or esteem from one so destitute of every noble sentiment as not to love his mother. His mother! what not love her who bore him, and from whose bosom he extracted the nectar which for many months was his whole sustenance! A nice young man, truly, he must be who does not with all his heart love her who guided his infant footsteps that he stumbled not over a grasshopper; and watched with intense emotion least he should choke himself with a hot potato or a "bell-button." Be warned, dear girl, and do not throw yourself away on the ungrateful wretch who does not regard the fond mother who gave him molasses cake when he was hungry, and an application of birch when he soiled his Sunday trowsers. Ah, it makes me sad to think that there is any young man who does not heed the counsel of the parent to whom he is under such great obligations. Such an one is not calculated to make any girl happy, I care not how amiable or intelligent she may be. He would break any heart which might rely on him for happiness.

I am one of the most charitable persons in the world, but I cannot help thinking at times that not only will a young man like this be unhappy through life, but there is little reason to hope that he will be permitted to enter the future abode of the good and wise.

Ponder this matter, fair reader, and recollect that these remarks are intended for your benefit, by one of your most sincere friends.

J. A. C.

Syracuse Convention.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 14.

The mass union convention of the barnburners and hunkers here, to-day, ratified the nominations made at Syracuse and Utica, and adopted resolutions going the whole hog for the ticket.

Important from Washington.

Trouble with the French Minister.—A telegraphic dispatch to the Journal of Commerce, dated at Washington last evening, announces the virtual dismissal of the French Minister. 'The cause,' says that paper of Tuesday morning, 'was his sending a note to our government, which we may presume to have been highly offensive, but whether in its matter or manner, or both, we cannot at this moment say. It may have related to the recent appointment of Mr. Rives as our Minister to France. The Washington Republic recently remarked that the French Government was not in very good humor towards the United States, or to that effect. That some sort of trouble has arisen between the two governments, is very obviovs.—We trust it will not prove to be of a serious nature.—The despatch is as follaws:'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.

The President has directed that the French Minister, Poussin, be informed that his passports are ready for him. An important note from Poussin is the cause.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, Sept. 14.

Considerable excitement has been created in the city by the sudden disappearance, on Wednesday last, of Mrs. Matton, who is supposed to have been kidnapped, as articles of her clothing were found yesterday near the Medical College.

The excitement was so great that a mob collected around the College, and, on a warrant issued, it was carefully searched, but nothing was found to confirm the suspicions which had been created.

The mob continued, during the most of the night. They were, however, prevented from doing any mischief by the authorities.

A man named Bernard Seller, was arrested in this city yestesterday on a charge of poisoning his wife and child by giving them arsenic Neither of them are expected to live.

Two attempts were made yeseterday to blow up Smith's large flouring mills, but they fortunately failed.

Several acts of incendiarism and one murder occurred last night.

The weather is cool and bracing, and the city generally healthy.

ILLINOIS.—The Governor of this State has published a proclamation conveneing the Legislature on the 22d of October next, for the purpose of filling a vacancy in the office of the United States Senator from the State of Illinois. The Governor also announces, as additional reasons for this extra session various other matters of important domestic interest.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE IN NEW-JERSEY.—A Convention of Colored People was held at the Mount Zion Church, Trenton, on the 21st ult. for the purpose of obtaining from the Legislature the right of suffrage. Delegates were present from Essex, Burlington Salem, Mercer, Monmouth, Gloucester and Camden Counties. The proceedings, which occupied two days, resulted in the adoption of an address to the people genenerally reminding them that 'we are men like unto yourselves, &c. and appealing to them in view of their 'honesty and love of liberty,' to use their influence in obtaining for them the requisites of liberty in the exercise of the rights of suffrage, &c. &c. The following is the form of their petition, intended for the next Legislature:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Assembly of the state of New-Jersey, at Trenton assembled:

We, the undersigned, citizens of the State of New-Jersey, herehy respectfully petition your Honorable body to take the lawful measures to so amend the Constitution as to leave out the word 'white' in Article 2d, Right of Suffrage, Section 1st, of the Constitution of the State of New-Jersey, so as to grant the Right of Franchise to all citizens thereof, irrespective of color.

THE PLEDGE.—"Every man has his price"—such was the declaration of Burke, on a certain occasion, in the British House of Commons. We may have an opportunity, possibly, of seeing Burke's doctrine fully tested next winter. A bid, and doubtless a heavy one, will be made at each of our anti-monopoly members, but whether such 'bid' is to prove, in a single instance, the 'price' of infamy, has yet to be demonstrated. We go for the pledge. —Rahway Register.

MURDER IN BRANFORD, CONN.—A girl aged 12 years, named Emily Cooper, was violated and murdered (her throat being cut from ear to ear) on the 14th inst., by her cousin, a dissipated man, named Leander Foot After committing this crime, Foot drank more rum, and then proceeded to the house of his mother, and commenced beating her with a hammer. Some of the neighbors being attracted to the house, he fled to the cellar, where he attempted suicide by opening a vein in his arm. When found, he was so much exhausted by the loss of blood that he was unable to speak. He was, of course, committed to jail.

Two men on a raised scaffold were awaiting the final delicate attention of the hangman; the notice of one was aroused by observing that a bull had got into the crowd of spectators, and was busily employed in tossing one here and another there; whereupon one of the criminals said to the other, 'I say, Bill, how lucky it is for us that we are up here.'

OWE NO MAN ANYTHING.—How practical is this admonitton of Scripture! How much toil of body and anxiety of mind would be saved, were we to follow strictly the admonition, to 'owe no man anything!' There are those who believe the world would stand still or retograde, if it were not in debt—that the credit system is what puts fire to the bodies, and becomes the main-spring of human enterprise; but experience teaches that independence is the great boon. He who owes no man anything is light of heart,—he eats the bread of independence and sleeps at ease. No cares disturb him—no spectres of inexorable creditors disturb his slumbers, or train of numberless duns beset his path. No one can tell the slavery of mind, the sleepless hours, the fearful forebodings, of a debtor, when the times press upon him. If you wish to sleep quietly—if you would not be tempted to dishonor,—owe no man anything.

Cholera at the East.

The cholera continues to rage at Bangor and on Friday last ten deaths occurred. Since the disease first made its appearance, there have been 112 deaths.

At a French settlement near Bradley, Maine, out of 28 persons 7 died in one day. Those who were spared immediately left this place, and the settlement is now broken up.

☞ James Connell and John Caldwell, charged with having been concerned in the murder of Collins, were taken before Judge Cambell of Phila., on Saturday, on a requisition of Gov. Haines. Connell was delivered to the authorities of Burlington County, and Caldwell was remanded to the Philadelphia prison.

SEASONABLE INFORMATION.—As the housewives are now rummaging their closets for their stoves, the following piece of information may prove seasonable:

To Keep a Stove bright by two Applications a year.—Make a weak alum water, and mix your Brittish lustre with it, perhaps two teaspoonfulls to a gill of allum-water; let the stove be cold, brush it with the mixture, then take a dry brush, rub the stove till it is perfectly dry.—Should any part, before polishing, be so dry as to look gray, moisten it with a wet brush and proceed as before said.—Phila. Ledger.

A SMART WOMAN.—'Ah!' said old Mrs. Docenbury, learning is a great thing, I've often felt the need of it. Why, would you believe it, I'm now sixty years old, and only know the names of three months in the year, and them's spring, fall, and autumn. I larnt the names of them when I was a little bit of a gal!'

'I feel too lazy to work,' said a loafer, 'and I have no time to play, I think I'll go to bed and split the difference.'

☞ Seventeen out of the 21 Democratic papers in Michigan, have come out in favor of the exclusion of slavery from the free territories by act of Congress.

A WAY TO GET OFF.—'Pray, madam," said a country-Johnithan, in a low tone of voice, at the close of a quilting party, 'shall I see you home?'

'No,' answered the lady sharply.

'Perhaps you did not understand me, said Johnithan aloud.

'I understood you to ask for my company home.'

'Not at all,' said Johnithan laughing, 'I asked you—how's your marm?'

'You want a flogging, that's what you want,' said a parent to an unruly son.

'I know it dad, but I'll try to get along without it,' said the independant brat.

A QUEER VERDICT.—In a liabel suit at the West, the counsel for the plaintiff told the jury that he did not ask for damages from a desire to obtain money, but merely as an indication that his client had been wronged; and if a verdict in his favor, giving damages, was returned, not one cent of the money would he take from the defendant. The jury thereupon returned a 'verdict for the plaintiff of four hundred and fifty dollars, not to be paid!'

DIED.

At Scotch Plains on Sunday morning Sept 16th. Hannah Farlee, aged 23 years.

THE MARKETS.

New York Wednesday Sept. 12.

FLOUR	$4 87 a 5 50
MEAL (Jersey)	2 50 a 3 25
RYE FLOUR	3 00
WHEAT per bushel	90 a 1 20
CORN	57 a 62
OATS	35 a —

PLAINFIELD

Prices current; corrected weekly for the Gazette.

FLOUR per cwt.	$3 00 a
WHEAT " bushel	1 00 a 1 10
CORN " do	60 a 62
OATS " do	31 a —
RYE " do	58 a 60
POTATOES do	75
BUTTER per lb.	16 a 18
HAMS do new	—
LARD do	9
EGGS per doz.	12

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50.☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞lowest rate.☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY

$1250 Upon unincumbered Real Estate, in the vicinity of Plainfield, in the county of Essex, worth four times that amount. Apply to

Sept. 12. 1849. J. ANNIN.

NEW VOLUME OF THE

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

To Inventors, Mechanics and Artizans.

The Publishers of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in returning their thanks to the community for the liberal support and encouragement which has been extended to them during the past four years, would respectfully give notice that the first number of Volume 5, will be issued on the 22d of September, affording a favorable opportunity for all to subscribe, who may wish to avail themselves of the valuable information always found in its columns. The new volume will be commenced with new type, printed on extra fine paper, manufactured expressly for this publication, and embelished with a chaste and elegant border. It will be published as heretofore in quarto form, thus affording at the end of the year a BEAUTIFUL BOOK of OVER 400 PAGES, containing between 5 and 600 ORIGINAL ENGRAVINGS of NEW INVENTIONS, described by letters of reference besides a great amount of reading matter, valuable to every man in the country.

An increased amount of care and expense will be bestowed upon this Volume to render it more fully what it has been termed, 'The best mechanical Paper in the World.' Its columns as usual will be filled with the most reliable and correct information in regard to the progress of SCIENTIFIC and MECHANICAL improvements, CHEMISTRY, ARCHITECTURE, BOTANY, MANUFACTURES, RAIL ROAD intelligence, and the WEEKLY LIST OF PATENTS, prepared expressly for this Journal at the Patent Office in Washington.

As an evidence of the estimation in which this publication is held by the Scientific and Mechanical portion of the community, it is only necessary to state, that its circulation has increased within the last three years to upwards of 10,000 copies, already exceeding the united circulation of all the Mechanical and Scientific publications in this country, and the largest of any single one in the world.

TERMS:—Two dollars a years in advance, or if desired, one dollar in advance, and the remainder in six months.

To CLUBS:—5 copies, $8; 10 copies, $15; 20 copies; $28.

All letters must be post-paid and directed to. MUNN & CO.
Publishers of the Scientific American,
New York.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield, where he can be found on Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

HELP.

☞ THE time of a colored girl of industrious habits, and in good health, who has nine years to serve, (being now twelve years of age) is offered for sale. For particulars enquire at this office.

Aug 28. 1849.

FIRE AND WATER

PROOF PAINT.

THE subscriber having the agency for Plainfield for the sale of this

VALUABLE PAINT

offers it to the public at the New York prices; it comes highly recommended from all parts of the Union wherever its virtue has been tested, it is suitable for all kind of Wood, Tin, Brick &c. said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, April 4. 1849. [67.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa,

MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

EVERYBODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are : 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding ; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power ; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye ; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city ; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE, The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods ; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.
Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps ; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight ; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat$1—by N. J. R R. $1 121-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and
Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family ; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms.

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.
Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy ; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession ; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising ; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it ; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr. S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3: The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power ; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye : or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON : Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia ; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1849. NO. 41.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.

WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ ECONOMY.—How can persons expect to succeed in business without advertising? they may have the most desirable goods at the cheapest possible prices, but without making their names known and where they may be found, it is impossible they can succeed: 'a word to the wise &c.'

A Parody.

John Alcohol, my Joe John,
When we were first acquaint,
I'd money in my pockets, John,
Which now I know there ain't,
I spent it all treating, John,
Because I loved you so;
But mark me how you've treated me?
John Alcohol, my Joe.

John Alcohol, my Joe John,
We've been to long together,
So you must take one road, John,
And I will take the other;
For we may tumble down, John,
If hand in hand we go,
And I will have the bill to foot,
John Alcohol, my Joe.

The Ventriloquist and the Cats.

BY SPASM.

A ventriloquist traveling, put up over night at a country hotel, and getting in a room with a fidgety old fellow, he bethought he'd get up a little fun, by treating old gent to a cat serenade. Valentine, the ventriloquist, on having his bed pointed out to him, darted between the sheets in the space of a minute; for as Mr. Jones Beagle facetiously observed, he had but to shake himself and everything came off. He then turned the thing seriously over in his mind, while Mr. Beagle was quietly undressing, being anxious for that gentleman to extinguish the light before he commenced operations.

'Now for a good night's rest, observed Mr Jones Beagle to himself, as he put out the light with a tranquil mind, and turned in with a great degree of comfort.

'Mew—mew!' cried valentine softly, throwing his voice under the bed of Mr. Beagle.

'Hish! confound that cat! cried Mr Beagle—'we must have you out at all events, my lady? And Mr. Beagle at once slipped out of bed, and having opened the door cried 'hish' again, emphatically, and threw his breeches towards the spot, as an additional inducement for the cat not to 'stand the order of her doing, when Mr. Valentine repeated the cry, and made it appear to proceed from the stairs. Mr. Beagle thanked Heaven she was gone, closed the door, and very carefully groped his way into bed.

'Mew!—mew!—mew!' cried Valentine, just as Mr. Beagle had again comfortably composed himself.

'What! are you still here, madam? inquired that gentleman, in a high and sarcastic tone. 'I thought you had been turned out, madam. Do you hear this witch of a cat?' he continued, addressing Dr. Valentine—but Valentine replied with deep, heavy snore and began to mew again with additional emphasis.

'Well, I don't have a treat every day, it is true, but if this isn't one why I am out of my reconing that's all,' observed Mr. Jones Beagle, slipping out of bed. 'I don't like to handle you, but if I do, I'll of course give you physic!' and he 'hished' again with consummate violence, and continued to 'hish' until Valentine scratched the bed post sharply, a feat which inspired Mr. Beagle with the conviction of its being the disturbed of his peace in the the act of decamping, then he threw the pillow very energetically towards the door which he closed, and returned to his bed in triumph. The moment, however, he had comfortably tucked himself up again he missed the pillow he had converted into an instrument of vengeance, and as that was an article without which he could not even hope to go asleep, he had of course to turn out again and fetch it.

'How many more times, I wonder,' he observed to himself, 'shall I have to get out of this blessed bed to night? Exercise is certainly a comfort, and very conducive to healt; but such exercise as this—why, where have you got?' he added, addressing the pillow, which, for all the sweeping actions of his feet, he was for some time unable to find—'Oh here you are, sir, are you?' and he picked up the object of his search, and gave it several severe blows, when, having reinstated himself between the sheets he exclaimed in a subdued tone, 'Well, let's try it again.'

Now Mr. Jones Beagle was a man who prided himself especially upon the evenness of his temper. His boast was that nothing could put him in a passion.

He did, however, feel when he violently smote the pillow that the little ebullition partook somewhat of the nature of passion and just commenced reproaching himself for having indulged in that ebulition when Valentine cried 'meyow! meyow!'

'Hallow!' exclaimed Mr. Jones Beagle, 'here again?'

'Mew!' cried Valentine in a somewhat higher key.

'What another come to contribute to the harmony of the evening?'

'Meyow!—meyow! cried valentine, in a key still higher.

'Well, how many more of you?' enquired Mr. B. 'You will be able to get up a second concert, by and by;' and Valentine began to spit and swear with great felicity.

'Swear away, you beauties!' cried Mr Beagle, as he listened to this volley of feline oaths; 'I only wish I was not much afraid of you, for your sakes. At it again! Well, this is a blessing. Dont you hear those cats?' he cried, anxious not to have all the fun himself; but Valentine continued snoring very loud.

'Well, this is particularly pleasant,' he continued, as he sat up in bed. 'Dont you hear? What a comfort it is to be able to sleep soundly!' which remarkable observation was doubtless provoked by the no less remarkable fact that the spitting and swearing became more and more desperate. 'What's to be done? My breeches are right in the midst of them all. I can't get out now; they'd tear the very flesh off my legs—and that fellow there sleeps like a top. Halloo! Do you mean to say that you don't hear these cats, how they are going it?'

Valentine certainly ment to say no such thing, for the whole time he was not mewing and spitting, he was diligently occupied in snoring, which has a very good affect, and serves to fill up the intervals exceedingly well.

At length the patience of Mr Jones Beagle began to evaporate for the hostile animals continued to battle, apparently with great desperation. He therefore threw a pillow with great violence into the bed of his companion, and shouted so loudly, that Valentine feeling it would be perfect nonsense for to pretend to sleep any longer, began to yawn very naturally, and cried—'who's there?'

'Tis I?' shouted Jones Beagle, 'more like two and twenty. I've turned out a dozen myself. There's a swarm, a whole colony of them here, and I know no more about striking a light than a fool.'

'Oh, never mind,' said Valentine, 'let's go to sleep, they'll be quiet by and by.'

'It's all very fine to say let's go to sleep, who's to do it? cried Beagle, emphatically; 'Blast the cats! I wish there warn't a cat under heaven—I do, with all my soul. They're such a spiteful vermin too, when they happen to be put out, and one of them is in a passion, I knew from her spitting confound her! I wish from the bottom of my hear it was the last spit in her.'

'Who's there? what's the matter?' cried Valentine at length, in the coolest manner imaginable, although his exertions made him sweat like a tinker.

'For Heaven's sake my dear young friend,' said Mr. Beagle, 'do assist me in turning out these cats.'

'Cats! where are they?' 'Hish!' cried Valentine.

'Oh, that's of no use whatever, I have tried the hissing business myself. All the hissing in the world won't do. They must be beaten out; your afraid of them, are you?'

'Afraid of a few Cats?' exclaimed Valentine with an assumption of some considerable magnanimity, 'where are they?'

'Under my bed,' replied Beagle. 'That's a brave fellow. Break their necks!' and Valentine leaping out of bed, and after striking at the imaginary animals very furiously with the bolster, he hissed with violence and scratched across the grain on the boards in humble imitation of those domestic creatures scampering out of a room, when he rushed to the door and proceeded to make a very forlorn mewing die gradually away at the bottom of the stairs.

'Thank Heaven they are all gone at last,' cried Beagle, 'we shall be able to get a little rest now I suppose,' and after minutely surveying every corner in the room in which it was possible for one of them to have lingered, he bade Valentine good night.

Valentine assisted Beagle to remake his bed; and when they had accomplished this important business with the skill and dexterity of two thorough bred chambermaids, the light was soon extinguished, and Mr. Beagle very naturally made up his mind to have six hours uninterrupted sleep. He had, however, scarcely closed his eyes, when the mewing was renewed, and as he had not the slightest disposition to listen to sounds so familiar to his ear, he started up and exclaimed, 'I wish I may die if there out now. Here's one of them left,' added he, addressing Valentine; but Valentine having taken a deep inspiration, answered only by respiring with a prolonged gurgling sound.

'He's off again!' continued Beagle. 'I never heard of one sleeping so sound. Hollo, my good fellow, ho! Fast as a four year only? Won't you be quiet, you witch? Are you determined not to let me have a wink of sleep to-night? She must be in the cupboard; I must have overlooked her; and I dont see how I could. Oh keep the thing up, my dear! Don't let me rest,' and he fumbled about for his box, and having taken a heavy pinch of snuff began to turn the thing seriously in his mind, and to make a second person of himself, by way of having, under circumstances, a companion with whom he could advise and if necessary remonstrate.

'What is to be done now?' inquired he of the second person thus established—'What's to be the next step, Jones? It's of no use to go to sleep; we may just as well try to get a kick at the moon nor must we again disturb—Hush you——; Jones, Jones, keep your temper. Don't let a contemptible cat put you out—and Mr. Beagle took another pinch of snuff, from which he apparently derived a great degree of consolation: 'Ah at it again!' he continued. 'I wish I had the wringing of your neck off, madam! You want to put me in a passion; but you won't you can't do it! therefore, don't lay the flattering unction to your soul! Well, Jones how are we to act? shall we sit here all night, or take up our bed and walk Jones, eh?'

Jones was so much struck with the expediency of the latter course, that he apparently urged its immediate adoption, for Mr. Beagle in the first place, half dressed himself in bed, and in the next threw the counterpane, a blanket and a sheet over his shoulder; when, tucking a pillow and a bolster under his arm, he said, 'we'll leave you and your conscience, madam; good night,' and left the room, with a view of seeking repose elsewhere.

Growth of our Cities.

The growth of our American cities is unparalelled in the history of the world. Already half a million are embraced within the limits and suburbs of New York; and nearly four hundred thousand in that of Philadelphia—New Orleans contains about one hundred and fifty, Boston, one hundred and thirty, and Baltimore, one hundred and five thousand inhabitants. The second child born in cincinnati, it is said is still living, and has not reached the middle age of life. The city has a population of more than one hundred thousand. The population of St. Louis was one thousand six hundred in 1810; sixteen thousand in 1840; forty thousand in 1845; and is now probably not less than sixty thousand. Buffalo contained two thousand four hundred and twelve in 1825; in 1849. twenty-nine thousand seven hundred and seventy-three; and now contains about forty-five thousand. In 1828, the population of Lowell was three thousand five hundred and thirty-two; it is now more than thirty thousand. Chicago, a place scarcely known on the latest maps, has already reached a population of eighteen thousand; and Milwaukie, of still more recent origen, is rivaling it in its growth and population.—Scientific American.

GRATIFYING RESULT OF AN INTERESTING OPERATION.—The New Albany (Ind.) Bulletin, has an interesting account of an operation performed by Dr. Sloan, of New Albany upon the eyes of Rev. N. Hoskings, of Crawford County, Ind. who had been blind from birth. The bulletin says:

Mr Hopkings was taken home to Crawford County before the bandages were removed, and when this was done, we are informed by a gentleman residing in that neighborhood, the operation was found to have been eminently successful. He describes the emotions of the patient when suddenly possessed of a scene so novel to him, to be of the most enthusiastic description. Things which he had long been acquainted with through the medium of the other senses became possessed of a new and surpassing beauty, and roads which he had been used to travel fearlessly when blind, had to be again learned. His wife and children, whom he had never seen, his friends, his parishioners, his home, everything endeared to him became an unending source of delight and new-born gratification. He had the same confused notions of distance which we see the smallest children manifest, and took the liveliest pleasure in beholding the great variety of colors. In short he was compelled to learn to see, in precisely the same manner that the smallest child does, and to him it was an occupation of the most gratifying nature.

Foreign Railroad Iron.

English Railroad iron which has been bought for some of the Pensylvania roads has been found to be very poor stuff—dearer than ours at $50 per ton, although purchased for $40. It is not the lowest priced article, that is the cheapest. Some people purchase iron, as if its value was in its name—that iron is iron, no one doubts, but an egg is an egg, be it fresh or rotten, and many of our companies, may find out that their cheap railroad iron, like eggs, has the qualities with the price of their far-fetched profits.—Sci. American.

A REGULAR TOPER called for a glass of old Jamaica, the price was 12 1-2 cts. He took the decanter, filled the tumbler to the brim, and emptied it at one mouthful; he then took out a shilling, handed it to the barkeeper who returned him a sixpence. 'I thought the price was 12 1-2cents.,' said the toper. 'It is,' said the barkeeper, 'when we sell it at retail, but when we sell it at wholesale we only charge half price.'

A writer of a modern book of travels, relating the particulars of his being cast away, thus concludes: "After having walked eleven hours without having tracked the print of human foot, to my great comfort and delight, I saw a man hanging upon a gibbet: my pleasure at the cheering prospect was inexpressible, for it convinced me that I was in a civilized country."

TRADE BETWEEN CALIFORNIA AND OREGON.—We have a leter from a Newburyport ship-master, dated on the 12th of July, at San Francisco. He writes that he has obtained a freight of lumber from Oregon for San Francisco at $125 per thousand feet. He has twenty passengers from San Francisco to Oregon at about $125 each. The total proceeds of the trip from Oregon will be about $14,000; estimated expenses $5,000; net profit of the trip down of about 25 days, $9,000. The Captain writes that he has been obliged to increase the wages of a boy who shipped here for six dollars to $125 per month. He says that if he wishes to be put ashore at San Francisco, he is obliged to pay six dollars, and not grumble at that. In looking at the town of San Francisco from his ship, he is reminded of the passage of Scripture—'How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob.'—Boston Traveller.

Iron Cottages.

An iron cottage weighing 1500 lbs. 16 1-2 by 18 feet in two compartments—a kitchen and sitting room, with five plate glass windows, two beds, one, table, one chest of drawers, two chairs, a fountain wash-stand, and complete, apparatus for cooking, can be bought in liverpool for $150.

If one could be built in this city, for double that amount, our mechanics would soon lower the rents, by occupying their own dwellings.—Scientific American.

It is said, that hemlock makes excellent hedges, if planted young in rows, and kept properly trimmed for some years.

KNOWLEDGE OF IGNORANCE.—It is impossible to make people understand their ignorance, for it requires knowledge to perceive it, and therefore he that can perceive it hath it not.—Bishop Taylor.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, September 27, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

Fire!—Insure Immediately.

The attention of the public generally, and of all those not insured, particularly, is requested to the advertisment of the CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY. The advantages there offered should induce all who are not already insured to do so immediately. Fire is a treacherous element, tomorrow it is too late. For the public convenience in this section of the country we are appointed Agent to the Company. All necessary information and surveys can be had by application at this office.

☞ It will be perceived by a reference to the advertisement of Mr. Reuben Titsworth that he is prepared to supply the public generally, and the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity particularly, with that indispensible article of comfort, a good Stove. He has a great variety of the various kinds, which can be purchased as low as elsewhere—by purchasing at home the risk of transportation is avoided.

☞ The attention of the public is requested to the advertisement of Mr. Lutz in another column. Persons wishing to purchase ready made clothing would do well to give him a call, he has always on hand, a general assortment suitable to the season, which for durability and neatness of make, or low prices, cannot be surpassed at any other establishment. ☞Don't forget the place, Collet Hall near the Railroad depot, Elizabethtown, N. J.

☞ We would commend to the attention of those wishing to purchase Harness the establishment of T. Benedict & Co. No. 364 A Broad-st. Newark wholesale and retail dealers in all kinds of Harness, Collars, Whips, Trunks, Valises, Carpet Bags, &c. The quality, quantity, variety, and price, together with their desire to give satisfaction to their customers should induce purchasers to give them a call; their card will be found in another column.

The decision displayed by Gen. Taylor in the dismisal of the French Minister has our most hearty approval, his promptness in the matter recals to our mind the decisive measures of the firm patriot Andrew Jackson with the same government—may the crowned heads of Europe refer to this as a precedent of what is to follow all insults offered to our government—may it ever do what is right and never submit to what is wrong

In the neighborhood of Trenton, the people seem to be cutting out work for the Legislature with free Scissors. In addition to the Anti-Monopoly fever, they are agitating in favor of exempting the Homestead from sale by execution—in favor of restricting the working day to ten hours—and opposed to the freehold qualifications for jurors.—Somerset Messenger.

The above named measures are certainly important subjects of public interest, and we are glad to perceive that the people have taken the matter in hand. We hope to see all these remnants of kingcraft and priestcraft—these handmaids of tyranny and oppression—these superstitious attachments to the absurd laws of the kings of Europe abolished, or amended until they are more in accordance with the true spirit of liberty in which our government was founded. Certainly the people have had enough of monopolies—of special privileges—they now ask for general laws on all subjects of legislation, that all may enjoy equal rights, which under a special act they cannot do—a special privilege gives to one man, what it denies to another the right to do, and therefore is unconstitutional, null and void. That the people ever should have been humbuged by such absurd and tyranical laws has ever been our surprise; we trust that Common Schools and a free Press are preparing the rising and adult generation for full and free enfranchisement.

That the Homestead should be exempt from sale by execution we beleive all who will seriously think on the subject will admit—it is but a part of the barbarous and tyranical law of imprisonment for debt, which utterly deprived the debtor from paying a bebt—deprive him of a home, disperse his family, and you put it out of his power nearly equally to imprisonment, to pay a debt, by depriving him of the means whereby he can do so. But there is another and a more noble object and one which will better secure the payment of a debt than all the executions that ever were invented, and that is probity—while the old system constantly holds out temptations to get in debt, and to dishonesty, its exemption makes debts of a certain amount debts of honor, and therefore there is an inducement held out to honesty, to punctuality—which is the life and soul of business—and those only could obtain credit whose characters for honesty entitle them to it—misfortune then as it should would have an opportunity to live, to retrieve itself--we therefore not only go for exemption of the Homestead from execution, but for the total abolition af all laws for the collection of debt, for the reasons above given.

Ten hours of faithful babor are sufficient—when monopolies are abolished—to give every man the necessaries and comforts of life, and is as much as his physical nature can profitably to the constitution undergo—relaxation and cultivation of the mind are of more importance than the swelling of the coffers of those who have already more than their due share, more than they can rationally enjoy—this all important reform we take it for granted will succeed.

The freehold qualification for jurors is of a piece with many other absurdities conected with the law—with the property qualification under the old constitution for voters—the one is as absurd as the other. How the ownership of a quarter of an acre of bog land, or the same quantity of sprouts on the mountain, or ten thousand acres of the best land in the world can qualify an ignorant biped, any more than it would a quadruped, to act as juror is more than we are capable of perceiving; why not say he shall have red hair, or that he shall be six feet high, the one qualification is as necessary and as reasonable as the other—to name it in the presence of a lamp-post would excite its risibilities, the thing is too absurd to longer disgrace our statute book—we count on its repeal.

We would commend to the serious consideration of every candid mind the following important views on the present unfavorable and evil tendencies of Taxation on the producing clases. The wealth of the world, and the luxuries and enjoyments of life, are produced by labor; surely those whom favorable circumstances have placed beyond the necessity to labor, should willingly renumerate those whom unfavorable circumstances have placed at the foot of the ladder. The subject is worthy the serious consideration of all classes of society.

Correspondence of the Tribune.

Wealth--Poverty-Monopoly--Duty of the State.

Hitherto the policy of Governments has been to encourage the accumulation of Wealth. What has been the fruit of this policy? It has stimulated Avarice, made the few rich and the many poor, robbed Labor of its fair reward, enabled those of superior tact, talent and dishonesty to subjugate Weakness and Honesty to their will, and is filling even our Republic with gross inequalities, in spite of her freedom from primogeniture and entailments. The The ranks of Poverty are constantly enlarging in this country—and that in a far greater ratio than the increase of population. There was a time in our early history when there was no poverty, when the wants of all were supplied from the products of their labor. With this happy condition of things immigration made no difference, because there was no Monopoly to deprive them of a place for a house, neither was there a class of heavy capitalists to control the pursuits of the people, amass their wealth, fill up the ranks of competitive labor, and force the people to toil for such wages as might please their employers.

Now, how stands the case in the 'Old Thirteen?' Is it possible for a poor young man to obtain a farm anywhere in their consecrated territory short of ten to twenty years of toil for a master? Compute the wages of common labor at as high a rate as you can, and then estimate the price of fair land anywhere within a hundred miles of any battle-ground of American freedom at as low a rate as possile, and the question is submitted to you, if every young man who is heirless and homeless is not compelled to toil at the despotic bidding of another during the best part of his life before he can have a house in which to live as an independent freeman? Is this the condition for which his father fought? Is this the fruit of the policy that was cosecrated on the altar of Liberty in 1776?

We need not confine ourselves to the 'Old Thirteen,' for this species of slavery has extended North, and South, and West, far towards the Great River, and a few years more, under the same policy will find the fate of the Poor and of Freedom Sealed between the Antlantic and the Mississippi. A few years more, and no one from the ranks of the poor of this vast region, except those endowed by their God with superior power, will be able to obtain a comfortable home until the best portion of his days have been spent in servitude; and these few will owe their gratitude to their God instead of their country. A few years more, and the ranks of Poverty will swell at an alarming rate, and for every poor yonng man who becomes independent, many of the sons of rich parents will sink into the serfdom of the poor.

This cannot be denied. As a country grows older the difficulty of obtaining a competency by labor increases This is proved by facts that every one can observe for himself.

What are the causes?

I. Land Monopoly.—A few individuals are permitted to posess the land, and the many, who need it to till, cannot obtain it except at a high rental, and without any certainty of holding it more than a year. No one has a right to more land than he wishes to till for himself, and every one has a fair right to this amount. If this be true, how great is the wrong done to the landless, by those who hold the soil and 'toil not nor spin.' How can we calculate the depth of the wickedness of holding tracts of land which our wants do not require, and for which many are suffering! What epithet in the English Language is severe enough to properly characterise the policy that permits this state of things?

II. The Disposition of Capital.—All Capital invested must be paid a per centage for its use. The law of New-York allows 7 per cent, and sanctions and enforces the right of Capital to take this amount. Every one, therefore, who holds property, whether money, land or anything else, deems himself entitled to 7 per cent. increase without any labor of his own,—this is the absolute legal right of Capital. See, now, how this principal operates. The aggregate amount of Capital in the united States is estimated at $8,000,000,000, and 7 per cent. on this amount to $560,000,000.—Now the annual product of the United States is largely estimated at $1,500,000,000 from which we must deduct the amount paid to Capital, and there remains $940,000,000 as the reward of the Labor of the People. Thus all the Labor of the whole People does not command two thirds of the aunual production! This is the way Capital operates. Some investments make far more than 7 per cent; thus, the Utica and Schenectady Railroad made a dividend of 16 per cent. last year.

It is thought right by all the approved Moralists, Political Economists, Statesmen Clergy and Philosophers of the world, for Capitalists to make as much with their capital as possible. One makes 7 per cent. by lending, another, 8 per cent by investing it in manufactures, and another from 8 to 16 per cent. in in Railroad Stock. Hence there is a constant strife among Capitalists to make the largest profits.—This strife frequently waged to the prejudice of Labor, for it is sought at the lowest possible rate. If 'times are hard,' Capital is loth to relent, and its holders will not accept of less than ordinary profits if Labor can possibly be made to contribute the usual gain. No respect is had to the condition of the laborer, whether he can live or not,—the only question with Capital is, can Labor be obtained at a certain rate, and the question of starvation rests entirely with the laborer.

The competition of Capital is never so great as the competition of Labor; and hence, Labor cannot maintain its rights in the contest. The latter must always bear the burden of the times; if there be any depression it must be the first object depressed.

III. The Accumulation of Wealth.—This is another cause of the increase of Poverty in our country. Want is the measure of Wealth, and whereever the latter is amassed, there we find evidence that some of our fellow-men are suffering for lack of a full supply of all their wants. It cannot be otherwise; for were the wants of all amply supplied, there would be no surplus Wealth in the world. Anything that is not needed to supply some want is not Wealth, because it possesses no value. Hence, all accumulations beyond the supply of all the true wants of an individual, are made at the expense of the people; and the greater these accumulations are, the poorer do the people become, and the stronger grows the arm of Capital to make further exactions from the already impoverished.

But must this policy continue? Is there no remedy? There is ample remedy, and we will indicate it as briefly as we have stated the wrong to be remedied:

I. Education.—The people must be so instructed that they will respect the equal right of any one to a free use of the elements of Nature, and to a full supply of every want from the products of his own toil. The truth on this subject must be pressed home, until every individual will scorn accumulations at expense of the mass, and until no one will dare to use superior talent, which is the free gift of God, in exacting from the weak and the poor more than half their earnings. To the end that the truth may be known on this subject and all become so educated against Averice that the mass shall not suffer for its gratification, do we write these things, and not to denounce the Rich. We desire that Morality on this subject may be elevated, Political Economy, Theology and Philosophy reformed, and Partial Legislation abolished. This done, and there is some hope for the extinction of Crime and Poverty.

II. The Repeal of Unjust Laws.—That is an unjust law which permits one to monopolize the earth—to hold from the use of others more than he needs for his own cultivation. This monopoly is at the basis not only of slavery at the South but of all poverty at the North. Break up the plantations at the South by 'Land Limitation,' and every slave will go free and have land enough of his own to cultivate. Break up Land Monopoly at the North and the Labor Market will cease to be so crowded as to enable Capital to fatten on the impoverishment of the People. We want not only the Public Domain free in limited quantities to the actual settler alone, but we want provision made against the accumulation of large landed estates herafter in the old States, and for the breaking up of those already posessed by their legal division among the heirs. No one can say that Land Monopoly is right, for then any one would have the right, if he could obtain the power. to possess a whole State and exclude all others from the cultivation of its soil. If it be wrong for the law to assist individuals in obtaining and keeping large landed estates, as it has done and still does in Europe, it is wrong for any one individual to do the same thing by his own power. Whatever is wrong for the State to do is wrong also for an individual. If it be wrong for the law of Britain to confirm unto the Duke of Sutherland a tract of land containing more than 3,000,000 of acres, it is wrong for the law of this country to confirm unto any one of our citizens ten, twenty, thirty or forty thousand acres. If it is wrong for the law to secure ten thousand acres to one, it is also wrong for it to secure to any one more than an independent home.

III. Taxation.—The State should favor equality among the people instead of promoting that gross inequality which we now behold through all Society. If the object of Government be to benefit the greatest possible number without injuring any it should discourage Avarice and the extensive accumulation of Wealth. We would have Taxation levied with discrimination in favor of small estates and against large ones, to the end that the lust of gain shall be diminished, and the people at large have a more equal chance of obtaining a full supply of their wants from the reward of moderate labor. The objeet of any Government should be to promote the equitable distribution of Wealth, for all statistics show that happiness depends upon this and not upon the amount of the aggregate Wealth of a nation. Britain has Wealth amounting to $4,000 to each family, while our Wealth will not give over $2,000 to each family; and who will say there is more general happiness in Britain than in the the United States of America?

Another reason for adopting a discriminating system of Taxation is that the money which is needed to suitably educate the People may be obtained in a larger ratio from the great fortunes which have been accumulated at the expense of the people's ignorance. Wealth is bound for the support of Education, and enough should be raised to give every child a thorough physical and mental discipline. As large estates have been the means of keeping the Poor in their present condition, it is but just that they should contribute largely to repair the wrong they have done.

The system of Taxation we would recommend to effect this object would be something like the following: Exempt all properties of less valuation than $500; levy 3 mills on the dollar for the first $500 of every propety, as also on every estate, between this and some other value, say $1,000; levy 4 mills per dollar on the first $1,000 of every property, deducting the first $500 that has been taxed 3 mills, as also 4 mills on all estates valued between this amount and, say, $2,000; levy 5 mills per dollar on the next $1,000, 6 mills on the next $2,000, 7 mills on the next $4,000, 8 mills on the next $8,000, 9 mills on the next $16,000, and so on.

If it be objected that we take away one of the great incentives to activity, in striking at the gratification of Avarice, we reply that it is time the attention of our talented men and women were turned from Avarice to that which is nobler—to Mental Development, Virtue and Happiness. The pursuit of Knowledge and Goodness has charms of eternal endurance, and the public mind should be diverted from the Perishable to that which shall never fade. Let us begin –raise Money and Educate the People.

L. A. H.

Serious Riot.

ST LOUIS, Monday, Sept. 24.

We have received an account of a serious riot at Yellsville, Ark. which arose from the Sheriff's attempting to arrest some desperate characters who where charged with murder and other crimes. A fight ensued, which resulted in the death of eight persons, and several others were wounded. At the last accounts a large party had fortified themselves, determined to resist the authorities.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

The Young Ladies of Plainfield.

In an article published in The Gazette last week, I advised you not to encourage the addresses of any young gentlemen—

1. Who did not read (and pay for) the newspapers; and

2. Who do not love their maternal parents.

Let me now invite your attention to a few additional thoughts.

Do not cultivate the acquaintance of any young man who considers it disgraceful or dishonorable to labor. No matter what may be his station in life; depend upon it you are not wise to fall in love with him. He may be intelligent, goodlooking, well behaved, and "adore you to distraction."

But, if he is lazy, or is disposed to live by his wits—which generally means being dishonest—depend upon it you will have "a hard row to hoe" if you choose such an one for a husband. I would not for the world advise you to marry for the sake of having some one to support you in idleness; because I believe every woman should perform her part. While the man earns the flour and meat to make the dumplings, the woman should not be idle But if you marry a man who has not a disposition to labor and earn a support for himself and family, you might better have remained in a state of single-blessedness all your days. How many maidens leave a happy home to lead a wretched life with idle husbands! I know of no more contemptible object than a man who squanders his time in idleness, while his wife is compelled to toil early and late to earn his bread and butter! While I wish evil to none living, I can hardly refrain from expressing the opinion that every lazy, thriftless husband should be ridden on a rail or sent to the state prison as a person unworthy to live in an industrious community. I care not whether a young man owns houses or lands, or has money at interest—this should not occupy your attention for a moment. But if he wishes to get through life without working and paying his way like an honest man, you should avoid him as you would a leper. A man may be as poor as a printer—or, if you do not understand how poor that means, I will admit that he may be as poor as Job's turkey—and yet if he is of industrious habits he will make his companion comfortable and happy. He may labor under great disadvantages for a season—he may eat his potatoes without salt and have no cradle or caps for his first-born—but if his wife is faithful and industrious also, he will soon live in clover, and the hearts of all who are dependent on him will have cause to rejoice. No lady who is courted by a worthy man of this class, should for a moment let thoughts of coming hardships and trials cause her to hesitate one moment on their account, for if she really loves him she will strive to banish the fancied evils from his hearth, or if they must come, her kindness and firmness will encourage him to encounter them with fortitude, and they must indeed be of a most formidable nature if they are not wholly overcome.

I will tell you, fair lady, how you may be certain whether a man is lazy or otherwise. If you see a young man let his mother bring a pail of water, or an armful of wood, or a basket of potatoes from the store or cellar, while he walks about, gazing at his new boots and trowserloons—perhaps neither of them paid for—and smoking a vile "soger," you might better be wrapped in your winding sheet than be decked in bridal robes to meet him at the altar!

J. A. C.

The importance of correct Time.

The young ladies of Plainfield (our junior says God bless them) were induced to aid in furnishig one of our churches with a good 'Town Clock' that they might have notice of the proper hour at which their beaux 'marm's might expect them home. Two or three weddings (in anticipation) have already been broken up in consequence of its irregularities. Ebenezer contending that he was at home as the Clock struck one, while his 'marm' declares it was after daylight! He can go no more! Katrina's 'marm' declares that she will have no such excuses for keeping 'Jeems' all night; he can come no more! To prevent suicides this matter should be attended to immediately.

Burning of the Steamer Jamaica at Newark---Loss of Life!

The steamer Jamaica, lying at Scribner's coal dock, at Newark, was consumed on Saturday morning, and, melancholy to relate, a man named John Hastings perished in the flames. The fire commenced at 1 o'clock, A. M. and lasted until 5 o'clock. Its origin is unknown. The steamer was a tow-boat, belonging to New-York.

DIED.

In this place, on the 19th inst. an infant daughter of Mr. Clark Johnson, aged 1 year and 10 months.

In Lower Rahway, on the 16th inst. of Cholera, Miss Lucretia Brokaw, aged 51 years.

In Lower Rahway, the same week of Cholera, Miss Mary Jane Brokaw, sister to the above, aged about 23 years.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys. Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

☞ As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

☞ All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.

Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

He invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attention to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuahce of the same.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.—Give us a call. ☜ [54.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public fof past favors and notifiies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c	1,50 to 3,00
Black & Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following: Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not. SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield, where he can be found on Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.
WILLIAM M. DRAKE, Agent at Plainfield.

Advertise.

If you have an article to sell or one to purchase, the most economical and public notice you can give is to advertise in the Gazette.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes.. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources; and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

UNDERTAKING IN GENERAL.

IT is an old maxim "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," ie. an advantage, to the Public to have Coffins ready made, of all sizes and descriptions, trimmed and polished in the latest styles. The undersigned having been connected with the undertaking and furnishing business for five years, (having furnished five hundred Coffins in that time,) We would refer to our former patrons that the public may be satisfied we have given entire satisfaction in every case; also having had private instruction from the most experienced undertaker in the city of New York in his styles of making and trimming; We now flatter ourselves, we are prepared to give entire satisfaction to the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

We have been to considerable expense in fitting up, that none may be disappointed we would respectfully solicil the Public generally to give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

Also, Cabinet, Chair, & Sofa, MANUFACTORY.

We would inform the Citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that we have from a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars worth of ready made Furniture on hand, consisting of Black Walnut, Maple, and Mahogony, to suit the taste, and pocket.

Our motto is Cheap for the "Chemicals."

Thankful for the encouragement we have already received; having had a perfect rush ever since we refused that proposal which was directly opposed to the peoples interests: We are going through the world on our own hook, without any incumbrance.

☞ General jobbing in Furniture and Chairs, at the shortest notice.

J. W. S. MARTIN.

Jan. 11. 1849. 1 y.4.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7 The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE, The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50. Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

WHO WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.
Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed"

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Many persons have made large fortunes from small profits by extending their business by a judicious system of advertising; a very trifling expense for the benefits derived from it; a single customer thus gained will pay ten times the cost of advertising perhaps at a single bill.

THE OLD DR. VINDICATED.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the following CARD of nearly all the principal Druggists and Apothecaries of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh, respecting Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla Here are

SIXTY NAMES,

among whom are

Sixteen Educated Physicians,

who testify to the public of the superiority of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, over that made by S. P. Townsend. Let it be remembered that these men are experienced Druggists and Physicians, fully acquainted with all kinds of medicines, the manner of compounding them, and are probably more capable of giving an opinion of the value of any medical compound than other class of persons in the world. From the fact that they are putting up prescriptions of all the physicians from morning till night, the year round, continually mixing drugs, also close observers of the effects of different preparations upon patients, enables them most fully to judge when a medicine is good and when bad.

These are the men whom Mr S P Townsend shamefully abused and libelled, calling them 'Swindlers,' and 'willing to commit any fraud for money,' simply because they felt it their duty to sell the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla, instead of S P's article, believing it to be far better medicine. In vindicating themselves from these foul charges it became necessary to speak out frankly and fully, their views of the two Townsend's Sarsaparillas. This they have done in the following Card to which we now invite the readers attention

"CARD TO THE PUBLIC."

'We the undersigned Physicians and Druggist of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg having seen an advertisement addressed to us, and others who sell Sarsaparilla by S. P. Townsend, which is calculated to bring us and our business into reproach, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla, we have nothing to do and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But since we are called 'Swindlers' and branded with the declaration of being willing 'to commit any fraud for money' and as 'men having no honor, and should not be truusted,' we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, to Mr S. P. Townsends, and leave the public to judge whether we are 'deceivers and swindlers, and not to be trusted' by so doing.

1 Our experience and observatio have satisfied us that the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsend's, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty when two articles bearing the same name and purporting to cure the same disease are in market, to sell that which we consider the best.

The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr's preparation. We do not feel ourselves called upon to decide the true merits of either article as standard preparations; but when asked by our customers for our opinions which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not besitate in giving our preference in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr's preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Henry L Parsons, M D	James Newman,
Phillip Merkle, M D	James Boyce,
C Marsh, M D	J W Troutman,
Geo A Newman, M D	H C Predham,
D D Belknap, M D	John Hinton,
H D Wynans, M D	Francis Wm. Day
J Witherell, M D	W P Smith,
R S Carpenter M D,	Abel Priest,
C R Case, M D	John Mills,
D Francis, M D,	Gabriel D Ayres,
F X Payfer, M D,	Stephen P Leeds,
Wm N Gilchrist, M D,	A Hotchkiss, Jr,
Dr Pape M D,	C M Wright,
E L De Grandvel, MD,	J Haywood,
Chas S Belding, M D,	James Prescott,
J W Sleight, M D,	Paul Mead,
Lucas Parsons,	Charles C Smith,
Charles H Clark,	J Badeau,
H V Bush,	H Parker,
Wm B Mann,	James D Nowill,
Charles P Fay,	Benj Dean,
Henry Trimmer,	Joseph Leggett,
Alan M Davinson,	Albert W Gobble,
Chilion Ashmead, Jr,	Alexander P Boyd,
Reuben E Moss,	Alfred Marsh,
E H Payton,	Samuel Taylor,
J H Watt,	D D Tallman,
Miles L Cook,	Joshua Green,
C G Norguest,	Morillo & Robbins,

We hope the public will bear in mind the fact that all these men state explicitly, that S. P. Townsend's article has "GREATYY SOURED, FERMENTED AND BURST THE BOTTLES," thereby giving 'great dissatisfaction to their customers.

M. F. Cushing, Agent for Plainfield.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3 The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6 The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power, thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, gails, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1849. | NO. 42.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ ECONOMY.—How can persons expect to succeed in business without advertising? they may have the most desirable goods at the cheapest possible prices, but without making their names known and where they may be found, it is impossible they can succeed: 'a word to the wise &c.'

A Lawyer's Bar Room Speech.

Jerry Wilkins, formerly kept a Jersey tavern, and although one of the cleverest fellows in the world, and universally esteemed for his social and convival qualities, was full of vanity and most inordinate conceit, and the main point upon which he plumed himself was the important fact of his claiming the paternity of an interesting little succession of fifteen Wilkinses, who lisping 'called him sire,' and although in those days phrenology and numberless other ologies slumbered in udiscovered non-existence, yet it cannot be doubted that the bump of philoprogenitiveness was developed in Jerry's cranium, to a very remarkable extent, and in fact, after he had entertained an appreciating circle of bar-room listeners with the best jokes he could remember or manufacture for the occasion he would invariably wind up with an eulogium on the various accomplishments of his young progeny in general, and descant, largely on the vast amount of credit 'due, or about to fall due,' to himself in particular, for the paternity of so large and promising a brood especially emphasizing the number of tender pledges.

This little foible, by frequent repetition, became a kind of second nature with Jerry, and he at length become so habituated to bragging of the number and quality of the scions of the house of Wilkins, that his associates, who were well aware of his peculiarity, would invariably leave their coat buttons in Jerry's hand whenever they perceived an approach to the landlord's epilogue, and like Joseph of old, be glad to escape minus the necessary fragment of clothing.

Lawyer S———, in travelling to and from the courts of several of the neighboring counties, invariable stopped with Jerry, and like him the fund of conversational amusement he enjoyed in his society, and withal, was well aware of his besetting sin, having heard the old song sung to the same tune until he was tired of the motonous repetition, and determined, the first good opportunity, to give Jerry a quietus.

On one occasion the bar room was filled with judges and lawyers, returning from Gloucester court, and jokes and stories had circulated until the congregation had attained to a very respectable degree of hilarity. Jerry at last got on his favorite hobby, and bragging battery upon S——, with an apparent determination to spare neither friend nor foe. The lawyer listened with the grave and attentive air of a most learned judge deciding a case involving points of law of the most abstruse and incomprehensible character, and patiently heard Jerry out 'even unto the end.'

He then arose, and with the most impertuable gravity, obsered; 'May it please the Court—You have heard the case of the plaintiff, Jerry Wilkins, who has, somewhat contrary to the usages of courts plead his own cause. The case is an important one, in which Jerry claims of this commonwealth large damages for the important services he has rendered to this country by his paternal exertions in fathering so numerous a progeny of Wilkinses. The nature and multitude of those services, and their important bearing upon the great interests of posterity, if allowed, would command the highest honors a nation could bestow. His statements of the facts of the case are plain and lucid; but gentlemen of the jury, it is but a statement, and assertion is not proof—it needs corroboration, and in all courts of justice in this enlightened and patriotic State, every statement must be sustained by the direct and positive testimony of one or more creditable witnesses; and in order to show to the court, and especially to the plaintiff, the extreme importance of such evidence in cases having a direct bearing upon the great population question, already of increasing interest, I will quote a case in point, which came under my own immediate observation.

My grandmother, gentlemen of the jury had a favorite turkey hen, and a remakable fine hen she was, I assure you, and the entire family of turkeys in the possession of my venerable progentrix, was this hen and her husband and co-mate, a consequential conceited, strutting old gobbler. My grandmother was anxious to raise a large brood of young turkeys from her favorite, but, gentlemen, from some cause not appearing in the evidence, she laid but six eggs during the season, and after the usual delay prescribed by etiquette on such occasions, she evinced a desire to set, and it was deemed inexpedient for the bird to waste her energies on six turkey eggs, and there being none easily procured, a full setting was obtained, consisting of a varitey, some geese, some ducks, and some common hens' eggs, and after the usual period of incubation had elapsed, the turkey hen came of her nest with a fine, large, but motely brood of turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens. The old gobbler hailed her public re-appearance with the most lively expressions of joy, and with great show of strutting, and swelling and puffing, proudly exclaimed the paternal prerogative over the whole family. Gentlemen of the jury, there was not a shadow of evidence, either in law or equity as you have perceived, to prove his right of paternity to more than six turkeys; but the conceited old fool believed he was father of the whole flock!'

HIGH WORDS.—A fashionable lady in Buflalo once said to a friend, 'My new house now 'directing' is to be 'sublimated' and splendiferous.' There is to be a 'Porto Rico' in front, and a Pizaro in the rear.'' This is the same lady who told Gov. Clinton how remarkably stormy it is apt to be when the sun is passing the 'Penobsscott.'

The Husband's Mistake--Or Going Into Mourning.

A few weeks since, friend Clark was lying sick with the billious fever. The attack was severe and he believed death was near. One morning he awoke from a short sleep to hear a hurried and smothered conversation in the adjoining room in which his wife took part. The first words that Clark caught were uttered by his better half:

'On the ground,' said she, 'I object to mourning!'

'Yes, 'replied another, 'but the world looks for it—it is fashionable, and one might as well be out of the world as to be out of the fashion.'

'Very true.'

'Here, thought Clark, 'is a nice wife. She thinks I am about to die--to be planted, if I may use the expression, in the cold earth, and yet she refuses to go into morning for for me,—Ah me!'

'Now, that I'm here, perhaps I had better take your measure.'

'The unfeeling wretch!' exclaimed Clark, 'to think of sending for a dress maker before I am dead! I'll live in spite!'

'Well,' mused the wife, 'I believe you may measure me. I will let you buy the trimming' and let it be as gay as possible.'

'What heartlessness!' groaned Clark.' —'Woman like, though. One husband is no sooner dead than they set about entrapping another. I can scarcely credit it.'

'Of course you will have a flounce?'

'Two of them, and as the body is to be plain, I wish you to get the wide gimp to trim it.'

'How will you have the sleeves trimmed?'

'With buttons and fringe.'

'Well—well—this beats all,' sighed poor Clark.

'When do you want the dress?' enquired the mantu-maker.

'I must have it in three days. My husband will then be off my hands, and I shall be able to go out!'

'Oh! horrible—horrible!' ejaculated the sick man, 'I am only half dead, but this blow will kill me.'

His wife heard him speak, and flew quikly to his bed side.

'Did you speak, my dear,' said, she with the voice of an an angel.

'I have heard it all, Madam,' replied Clark. 'The mourning gay dresses—fringe —every thing. O? Maria—Maria!'

'You rave!'

'Do you take me for a fool?'

'Certainly not, my dear.'

'You expect me to be out of the way in three days, do you?

Yes, the doctor said you wold be well in that time.'

'What means the dress?'

'It is the one you bought for me before you were taken sick.'

'But you were speaking of mourning?'

'We were talking of Mrs. Taperly.'

'Oh, that is it?'

'Yes love. You know she is poor, and the family is large, and it must inconvenience her very much to find mourning for them all. On this ground alone, I oppose it.'

'So—so that's it, is it? I thought you were speaking of me, and it distressed me. Let me beg you to be more careful for the future.'

Clark was out in three days and he now laughs at the matter, which then appeared so horrible.

No Sabbath.—Business Habits.

I have mentioned the fact of there being no seventh day in China, when the worn-out laborer and jaded scholar may alike rest from their tasks; but the transient visitor also can see no days set apart for amusement in a more worldly point of view. It would seem to the hard working American, just from the land where toil and the search for wealth is the one object from the cradle to the grave, that the spirit of his nation was transcended in the Celestial Empire, and that no such trivial desire as recreation ever entered the mind of one of its inhabitants. He sees the streets thronged with busy cooleys, hurrying with bundles and boxes of merchandise, sees the occupants of the shops as keen on Sundays as on other days, as watchful for customers at sundown as when the morning lights their narrow apartments; and he believes before ten days are over that life in China is one perpetual treadmill motion. There is not a cafe that he can lounge into to play dominoes and read the papers; there is not a gallery of paintings or a public library; and if he stops a native in the street, instead of an acceptable invitation to dine and sail on the river he is questioned as to how many shawls he wants, what ivory carvings he intends to take home, and how long he is going to stay, or rather how soon he is going to be off after making his purchases. If in despair he turns from the natives, and into the factories, he finds no one in the counting-rooms at leisure to talk to him, but master and clerks are all alike engaged immersed in mighty folios, becoming more interested every day. He believes firmly than Canton is a workshop inscribed with "no admittance except on business," and unless he wishes a clerkship, thinks he had better depart and be forgotten.

Anecdote of Washington.

[The following anecdote of Washington we find in the government organ. We do not believe it is true.]—Literary American.

"By a vote of the House of Burgesses of Virginia, the speaker, Mr. Robinson, was directed to return thanks to Washington for his distinguished military services in behalf of the colony. Upon his appearance in the House, Mr Robinson discharged that duty with dignity and eloquence. At the conclusion of the Speaker's address, the historian tells us that 'Washington rose to express his acknowledgments for the honor, but such was his trepidation and confusion, that he could not give distinct utterance to a single syllable. He blushed, stammered, and trembled for a second, when th speaker relieved him by a stroke of address, which would have done honor to Louis the Fourteenth, in his proudest and happiest moments:

" 'Sit down, Mr. Washington, (said he, with a conciliatory smile,) your modesty equals your valor, and that surpasses the power of any language that I can express.' "

Paper made by Wasps.

The Tradesman's Journal says that the manufacture of paper, the secret of which was not discovered for centuries, has been carried on by the wasp ever since the creation. They make it in the same way and by the same materials; the insect is peculiarly fastidious and is cautious to take nothing which is not of a filamentous nature, as the pulp of linen rags. It consequently rejects sawdust and everything of that kind, and resorts to the filaments of wood and decayed vegetables, which have rotted in the rain. These are worked up by means of a glutinous secretion, converted into paste and rolled into a ball, which is easily conveyed to the spot where it is required. The substance of this ball is then rolled off into threads, and these by constant passing and repassing of the animal over them, are consolidated into sheets of sufficient thickness to resist the rain.' With all the aids, therefore, of chemistry and machinery, men are now manufacturing paper in substantially the same way this insignificant insect has done for thousands of years.

Enoch says he once knew a man who sat up all night, because he couldn't decide which to take off first his coat or his boots.

A MAXIM OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.—"Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire, conscience," was one of a series of maxims which Washington framed, or copied for his own use when a boy. His rigid adherence to principle, his steadfast discharge of duty, his utter abandonment of self, his unreserved devotion to whatever interests were committed to his care, attest the more than vestal vigilance with which he obeyed that maxim. He kept alive that spark. He made it shine before men. He kindled it into a flame which illuminated his whole life.

The fact that every barrel of flour which bore the brand of "George Washington, Mount Vernon," was exempted from the otherwise uniform inspection in the West India ports—that name being regarded as an ample guaranty of the quality and quantity—supplies a not less striking proof that his exactness was everywhere understood.—Winthrops Address.

PERFECTION OF NATURE.—Upon examining the edge of the sharpest razor or lancet with a microscope, it will appear fully as broad as the back of a knife—rough, uneven, and full of notches and furrows. an exceedingly small needle resembles an iron bar; but the sting of a bee seen through the same instrument exhibits every where the most beautiful polish, without the least flaw, blemish or inequality, and it ends in a point too fine to be discerned. The threads of a fine lawn seem coarser than the yarn with which ropes are made for anchors. But a silk worm's web appears perfectly smooth and shining, and every where equal. The smallest dot that is made with a pen appears irregular and uneven. But the little specks on the wings or bodies of insects are found to be the most accurately circular. How magnificent is the system of Nature!

Nearly all the suicides in this country are by foreigners. Yankees rarely make way with themselves—for nearly every one thinks he has a chance of becoming President, and at any rate, his curiosity prompts him to live on, just to see what he will come to.

Gutta Percha Solutions.

Gutta Percha readily desolves in a solution of chloroform without the aid of heat. The solution thus formed makes a capital varnish, for if it is brushed on any object, the chloroform evaporates with great rapidity and leaves a thin skin of the gutta percha, which thus acts as a preservative against the influence of water and air. It is therefore excellent as a plaster for cuts. This solution is excellent to preserve fruit in a collection of natural history. Heretofore wax has been used for this purpose, but it is not so good as this, for this solution prevents the fruit from drying. This solution is the best and most delicate varnish for paintings and drawings on paper.--Scientific American.

FENCE POSTS.—Apractical farmer informs the Hartford Times, that in taking up a fence that had been set 14 years, he noticed that some of the posts remained nearly sound, while others were rotted off at the bottom. On looking for the cause he found that those posts that were set limb part down, or inverted from the way they, grew were sound. Those that were set as they grew were rotted off. The fact is worthy the attention of the farmers. The reason is said to be that no moisture will run towards the butt end of a post, the pores favoring a movement from the butt to the small end, but not the contrary.

OH SAW MY LEG OFF—A traveller on the eastern railroad, recently, had his leg broken by imprudently putting it between two cars. The 'snap' was distinctly heard by the passengers around, but, to the surprise of some, he walked into the ferry-boat, with the aid of a cane. He obstinately refused to have a surgeon, who was in the cars, examine his injured limb, asserting as a reason that no professional man could do it any good, as it was made of white ash.

He who is always enquiring, 'what will people say?' will never give them an opportunity, to say any great things about him.

A GENTLE HINT.

Men brandy drink, and never think,
That girls at all can tell it;
They don't suppose a woman's nose,
Was ever made to smell it.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, October 4, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

☞ Those whose advertisments have been crowded out will please bear with us a short time, we are making arrangements to accommodate them all. For the constantly increasing patronage we are receiving, both in our subscription and advertising list, we return our thanks, and trust by continued exertions to deserve still further success.

☞ We would invite the attention of the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country to the very extensive assortment of New and Fashionable Dry Goods advertised in another column by W. L. & W. H. Bassett 182 Broad-st. opposite the Park, Newark N. J. We are acquainted with no place where a more splendid and extensive assortment can be found, the moderate prices and polite attention offer- to customers will always induce them to call again.

☞ All those wishing to purchase a good Hat—one in which they could expect to make a respectable appearance—constructed on the best scientific principles, with Gutta Percha sizing for the bodies, which makes them more pliable and at the same time impervious to water, (an important consideration at this season of the year) are informed that they can find such an article together with every other variety of Hats and Caps at Agens & Co. 244 Broad-st. Newark, 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

TELEGRAPH POLES.—By what authority is our streets encumbered with these unsightly poles? Is there not room sufficient along the banks of Green Brook, or some other route as direct, to pass the village, without thus tresspassing on the rights of our citizens by their erection through our principal streets? Will our citizens who at the cost of much labor, time, and money, in beautifying and adorning our Village by setting out shade trees, keeping their buildings neatly painted &c. thus suffer it to be disfigured? Certainly it will be the duty of the overseer of the highway if placed in the street to have them removed, and if placed on private property the owner can appropriate them for oven wood. There is no authority which can thus deprive us of our rights, and we trust all will see the propriety of not thus marring what they have been at so much trouble and expense to adorn.

THE CROPS.—New Jersey certainly never in our recollection was blessed with more abundant crops. The grass was most abundant, with most delightful weater for making it into hay; the oats, wheat, and rye were also abundant and of most superior quality; the potatoes, and corn which it was feared in July and August would suffer from the drouth have exceeded all expectations, and especially the corn will be much beyond an average crop; while the buckwheat which is now ripe. if secured without loss from the equinoixial storm, will also be a large crop. Although, like the old lady we buy our bread, yet we feel we have abundant cause for thankfulness; may the poor widow and the orphan be not fogotten, but partake of the plenty which nature has bestowed upon us, that they also may have cause to rejoice.

NEWARK EAGLE.—'Competition is the life of trade.' The appearance of the Eagle in a new dress verifies the above trite saying; may its improved appearance be rewarded by a large accession of cash subscribers. The 'Union' has been made quite a respectable paper, 'for which it was full time.'

Great Fire and Loss of Life.

A great fire took place on Fridy night at the corner of Tenth-avenune and Fifteenth-street, New-York. In spite of all the exertions of the firemen, 150 cows and 15 horses were burned. We regret to say that two persons, a man and a woman, whose names we have been unable to learn, perished in the flames.

The Fair of the American Institute.

This Fair, the 22nd of the Institute, opens on next Tuesday at Castle Garden. The anniversary address will be delivired on the 11th by the Hon, Levi Woodbury. It will ho doubt be an able one.

Publication of the Laws.

Certainly if there is one thing more than another which the people should possess a knowledge of, it is of the laws by which they are governed. Every person is expected to know and obey the laws whether they have seen them or not; but how unreasonable are such requirements when they cannot know what they are, and especially when they are so contrary to common sense, so partial and exclusive in their operation? True, the laws are published, but when, how, and where? They are published by authority of the legislature, some six months after they are passed, and distributed to the officers of the government, judges, justices, postmasters &c., whose duty it is to see that they are obeyed. How rarely do the people, those for whom they are made, and who must obey them, ever see them? If they wish to know what they are they must go to them or to a lawyer for the information!

It is thus that laws so partial and exclusive in their character defy public opinion; as but a few, and those in whose especial favor they are made, are from the manner in which they are published ever able to see them. It is thus that laws so repugnant in their character to the spirit of republicanism are enacted. How long will the people be the dupes of designing men? What matters it which party was in the ascendency when the Camden and Amboy monopoly was chartered, was not the clause in its charter giving it its present monopolizing character passed at a subsequent legislature? Is this the only exclusive priqilege, the only monopoly? Has not every legislature from the passage of that act until and including the last legislature passed laws granting exclusive privileges, to the few at the expense of the many? What can be more degrading to the honor of man and the stability of republican institutions, than the conditions annexed to charters granted at its last session? This recrimination of parties is all idle, a mere evasion of the question, which the people will not permit. The question is shall the monopoly clause of the Camden and Amboy Company, (they having forfeited it by violating its express conditions) be done away?—This is the question, and that party or those persons alone who are opposed by their acts to its continuance are in favor of equal rights. As all acts containing an exclusive privilege, or one which all cannot enjoy upon the same conditions, are a violation of the Constitution, and therefore null and void, no matter from what party emanating we shall ever oppose all such, as is the duty of every true republican.—This digression we were drawn into to illustrate the importance of having the laws published in every newspaper in the State, that all those who are affected by, and whose duty it is to obey them can know what they are. What can be more despotic and anti republican than to require men to obey laws that they have no knowledge of? Will the Legislature at its next session pass an act to publish the laws in the newspapers, that the people may have knowledge of what most concerns them to know?

Dreadful Fires.

Two Persons, 15 Horses, 200 Cows Burned!—Johnson's extensive stables, corner of 15th st. and 10th Avenue, and extending into 16th st., N. Y., were burnt late on Friday night. Two persons were burnt—Jas. Keegan, who went into the burning building to rescue his cows, and was suffocated and burned to a cinder, being found by the side of one of them, (identified by his knife,) and the reputed wife of Ed. Gainer, a poor creature who was asleep in the loft. There were some 400 cows in the stables belonging to milkmen in the neighborhood, of which some 200 were burnt, together with 15 horses. Mr. Mint lost 54 cows and 2 horses. The total loss of animals is estimated at $1,000—no one being insured An adjoining house, occupied by five families, was partially burned. The owner, Johnson, is wealthy, and his loss is small.

CONFLAGRATION IN WILLIAMSBURG.—The N. Y. firemen were taken across the East river on Saturday evening by a destructive fire, which destroyed Perrine, Paterson & Stack's ship-yard and stables with all their valuable contents, including 3 horses, Keith and Lockwood's lumber yard, a stable and two houses of Mr, Lake, with two horses. He kept an aviary, in which were 800 canaries, and these being let losse, hovered over the fire during the night. Many of them dropped into it. Total loss $200,000—insurace $40,000.

The Middlesex County Democratic Convention will be held at New Brunswick on Saturday, Oct. 13th, at 10 o'clock, A. M. to nominate a County Ticket.

The Desire of Office.

If there is one thing more than another which tends to demoralize political action, and render public services discreditable, it is that continnal thirst of office and station with which the minds of our people are imbued' It is wonderful how this one ambition controls the action and governs the desire of the masses, how men of refined intellect moved by these impulses lower their proper aspirations and enter into the lists with low cunning and bar-room patriots. It has become proverbial to look upon all the efforts of men as simply exertions to blind the community to their real purposes, by affecting some object of public good, when they are entirely wrapped in their selfish designs. That high patriotism which would sacrifice personal interest to the good of the commonwealth which looks upon the prosperity of the State as conected with wise principal and honest purposes, is becoming so exceeding rare that scarcely any expect it can be found. In its place, however, we have the strongest professions, and the greatest apparent anxiety for the public good, but while railing at the base betrayals of trust and confidence which have characterized others, they are executing privately these gyrations of the thumb which denote the gullability of the people.

This desire of office in this country infects every class of the community; no station is so high, no hovel so wretched as not to be moved by its impulses, and we present in our often repeated elections the picture of a people engaged in one continual scramble for office. Men of business ability, engaged in reputable employments, will leave the certainty of success in those pursuits, for some golden shadow which leads on in a never ending and unsatisfactory pursuit. All plans of usefulness and honor, the higher pursuits that dignify and adorn our nature must yield precedence to this absorbing desire for the spoils of office. Private friendship must be sacrificed, political principlas betrayed in this disgraceful pursuit, and in its general effect we are all made in some degree responsible. Allusions to this morbid state of the public mind will not of course correct the error, yet if Tully may be believed, 'Cujusvis hominis est errare; nullius nisi insipientis in errore persenerare.' Here in our own community how many have been disappointed in the bestowal of office by the General Government, and how many more are doomed to feel it a misfortune that others reach the local stations within the gift of the people. Reached but by few, and the majority of those ruined by it, it seems strange that madly and blindly others crowd on in this struggle of passion and hope.

We are far, however, from discouraging that honerable ambition which honesty seeks the prosperity of the State through the development of its political action with designs full of advantage to the community. There are men whose promptings are for the honor of the land, whose public zeal and patriotism are sure guarantees that in their hands power would subserve the ends of justice and not of personal gain.

Let us then in the selection pass by the greedy mass, that are dogging the steps of all whom they imagine possessed of influence, and single out for officers of trust and honer those men in whom ability and integrity are combined. Thus we shall do our part to restore public opinion to a healthy condition upon this subject.—Newark Daily Mercury.

Mr. Printer man, I was reeding your nice paper tother day, and I seed you took notice that our big clock in the meetin house steple, dident act verry nice, And no more it dont, And I think it is hardly fare, for when the good minister come to our house to git scribers to pay for it, he sed it wud be so nice when the Boys come a cortin, to no when it was time for them to go home. So our oldest gal, Clementine Dilaphilette, sed she wud giv foure shilin to help the thing along. Wel for a while it dun verry wel. But at last it got strikin tu times to littel, And so when Natty Standfast cum to se our bigist gal, thay Both got mistaken by the rottin thing, and sot up tu hul ours to late, That you no made Clementine Dilaphilette, very slepy next mornin and wen she got up she had to hurre so to milk, that she forgot to woter the milk before the fokes cum to by it, so we lost foreteen pense by that operashun. I never noed much good to cum of Boys and gals settin up late, and if that clock aint a goin to be fixed, thay had better take it doun, so that onest fokes wunt be deceved, And if thay dont du one or tuther you wil here more about it from ant SOOKEY.

☞ Georgia to-day opens the October elections, choosing a governor, senate and house of representatives. The candidates for governor, are Edward Y. Hill, whig, and George W. Towns, the loco-foco incumbent. We have but little doubt the latter will be re-elected by the force of peculiar considerations.—Tribune October 1.

☞ The Somerset county Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Hints to "Nice Young Men."

There are few young men that do not seek to cultivate the acquaintance of beautiful and accomplished women. They do this from various motives; some wish to pass now and then a pleasant evening; others seek an introduction into female society that they may win the heart of some fair one, and after trifling with her affections for months and even years, then cruelly disappoint the fond hopes they have raised, and abandon the lovely creature that they had vowed to love as long as memory was faithful to its office, and their hearts should continue their pulsations. Of this class of triflers I will say nothing farther, than to express my firm conviction that they deserve the hearty contempt of all honorable minds.

My present object is to present a few thonghts for the consideration of those who seek the company of young ladies in order that they may find a "help-meet." "It is not good for man to be alone" is a proposition which receives the unequivocal assent of a very large proportion of the "nice young men" through all creation; and no sooner are they old enough to venture away from the apron-strings of their maternal parents than they find out where beautiful and affectionate and impressible maidens reside, and with trembling knees and faltering accent they desire to know if their company will be agreeable. Of course, the "pretty dears" are all silks and blushes; and if the youth is good-looking, and is the son of Mr. Moneypenny, who has lots of "tin," he is answered by the lady that sho is very happy to receive a visit from one so worthy and accomplished.

Now, there are some things which the young man in search of a companion will do well to "make a note of," if he wishes to obtain one who will prove to him a blessing and not a curse. And,

I. He will look in vain for an intelligent and amiable young woman in a family where no newspapers are taken. It is my solemn conviction that no young lady is calculated to make a good companion who has not enjoyed the opportunity of reading the papers regularly all her life.

2. If you hope for happiness in the married state, avoid girls who spin street-yarn for a business, as you would the plague. I would not be uncharitable, but I cannot at times help thinking that a woman who can, day after day, pass whole hours in gadding about, and listening to and telling tales of scandal, will, unless she speedily reforms, be despised by the good and wise on earth, and excluded from their society in a future state.

3. Avoid youg ladies who are constantly neglecting the important duties at home and running to every evening meeting they can hear of. Girls who form this habit are of very little value to themselves or anybody else. They will never be contented, when they are married, to spend their evenings at home with their companions, after the labors of the day are completed.

4 Choose a partner who knows how to make good cakes, bake excellent bread, mend stockings, make a good cup of coffee; one who knows how to make home a paradise, by keeping everything in order; and who is capable in every condition in life, to discharge the duties she assumes when she promises to "love, honor and obey" the nice young man who has chosen her to be his guardian angel.

J. A. C.

[Conclusion in our next.]

ESSEX COUNTY CONVENTIONS.—The Democrats of Essex will hold their County Convention at Seiple's Hotel, Elizabethtown, Oct. 27th, to nominate a County Ticket, &c.

The Anti-Monopolists will hold their County Convention, for the same purpose, on Saturday, Oct. 13, 2 o'clock, P. M. at the Park House, Orange.

The Quaker and Secret Societies.

At the late session of the New York and Pennsylvania Yearly Meeting of the Free Will Baptists, a set of resolutions against secret orders was passed, which are quite stringent in their character. They declare that the tendency of such orders 'is to destroy the peace of Zion;' forbid the licensing of any minister who is known to be a member of any of them; reccommended the churches under their authority to expel members who adhere to secret orders, and interdict fellowship with any church, quarterly or yearly meeting which refuses to comply with the resolutions.

Daily Standard.

Persons in Plainfield who wish to have the Elizabethtown DAILY STANDARD served at their dwellings, can be accommoda- by sending their address to the Gazette office.

Sixteen Days Later from California.

The news from the mines is of a quite glowing character; the yield of gold was steady, and though there was, as a matter of course, much disappointment among individuals, the general result was highly satisfactory. It is estimated that the average product of all the mines together, thus far, since the beginning of the season, has been $2,000,000 per month, and there was thought to be no doubt of its continuance at the same rate of abundance. No change is quoted in the prices either of gold or merchandise.

The health of the population, both at the mines and elsewhere, is generally good, and neither cholera nor any other serious malady is reported as having made its appearance.

The jealous, unfriendly feeling which has so long been in existence between the Americans and South-Americans of Spanish origin, has at last approached a crisis, and by the next arrival we may expect to hear of a grave collision, at least if the party warned off display anything like a manly spirit.

The Americans have determined that the Mexicans and Chilians who are at the mines shall no longer enjoy the privelege of digging out the riches of the earth, and have taken deliberate measures accordingly.

SENTENCES OF THE ASTOR PLACE RIOTERS.—The convicts were sentenced on Saturday morning. The light punishment of 30 days in the city prison was awarded to the three youths; Greene was sentenced to the state prison one month, and Adriance for three months. Ned Buntline was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, to serve a year in the state prison—and Judge Daly, in pronouncing the sentence, expressed the regret of the Court that this was the utmost limit of the law.

HENRY CLAY.—The Marengo Argas (Alabama) hoists the flag of Henry Clay for Presidents in 1852.

DIED.

In this place on the 29th of September, of Consumption, which she bore with great meekness, and perfect resignation, Mary Ann, wife of Jacob L. Brotherton, in the 42nd year of her age. She was truly an affectiouate wife, a fond mother, a kind sister, and a firm friend. May her virtues be long cherished by her surviving friends.

At Green Brook, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 25th, at the residence of her son-in-law, Ephriam Vail; Prudence, widow of Samuel Vail, in the 80th year of her age. Although her sufferings a part of the time were severe, she bore them with Christian fortitude, and longed for the time of her departure to come, repeating, 'Come Lord Jesus, come, quickly, if it be thy will!'

In South Brooklyn, on Friday, Sept. 28th, Elizabeth, wife of Mr. Wm. B. T. Lane, formerly of this vicinity, in the 28th year of her age. Her remains were brought to Plainfield for interment.

☞ Published by an act of Congress, in the paper having the Largest circulation. ☜

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield, Oct. 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Little Miss Abbey C
Akin J H	M
Arrowsmith Mary E	McClearn Mrs And.
Armstrong Margaret	Manning Randolph
Atridge Isaac	Madden Henry G
Allin Miss Frances	Mahon Baetty
B	Martin Sarah Eliz.
Brister Miss Mary	Manning Isaac
Bradbury Mrs W B	Moore Wm
Barton Charles	P
Beland Colin	Powell Wm
Brocaw David	R
Bishop Mrs Jowana	Reoley Miss Ann 2
C	Reamer Margaret
Clark George B	Reamer Wm
Crabtree W Esq	Runyon John
Cornwell Hannah E	Rowan Thomas
Clinton Miss Ellen	Rino Wm
Comboy Rose	Reider Daniel 2
D	Randolph Christian
Dunn Theodore A 2	S
Dumon Martin	Skoswell Jacob V.
Drake Randolph 3	Smith Capt Benj.
Dare Miss Rebecca	Schmit Nicholas M
F	Simpson Mrs Harriet
Flenn John	Suydam Cornelius
Ferris Ewin R	T
Flatt R	Totten David
G	Tingly Joseph
Gray Robert	Turner Wm
Garratt Mr	Tamarind Catharine
H	U
Halken Abm	Underhill Henry S
Hand Mrs Wm	V
Hatfield Mrs A E	Varity Honour
Hillyer Rachel	Vail Thomas
Hand Wm	Vail Duncan P Esq
Henry Sylvester	Vail A B
J	Vanvaul Renburg S
Jones Mrs	W
Jurish Philip F	Williamson Piatt
L	Wilson J
Laing Able	White Patrick
Lee Frazee

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M

BASSETTS ! !

BROADWAY BRANCH!!

IS NOW OPEN, WITH AN ENTIRE

New Stock of DRY GOODS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

W. L. & W. H. BASSETT,

HAVING taken the store No. 182 Broad street, opposite the Park, has converted it into a spacious and airy Sales Room, neatly and handsomely arranged, and is now opening an entire new and the most extensive assortment of Rich and Fashionable Styles of Goods in the State; one of the firm will remain in Boston and New York most of his time in the Auction Room selecting such bargains as are offered; and we will offer the greatest inducements ever offered in New Jersey in DRY GOODS, give us a call and examine for yourselves, as all goods will be shown freely, and offered at the lowest possible prices.

W. L. BASSETT, } Late of the firm of
W. H. BASSETT. } A. R. Baldwin & Co.

N. B. Mr. Chas. P. Hall, formerly with Ward & Kitchen, is engaged at this establishment. [oc4.42.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

For Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering. as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of wich is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

AGENS & CO.

No. 244 Broad st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal. [80.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

REAL ESTATE,

AT PRIVATE SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the House and Lot known and occupied as the Village School, on the corner opposite Joseph Webster's residence, and near the Rev. Mr. Mond's, in Second street. The lot contains a quarter of an acre of land, the building is a story and a half, 18 by 48 feet, well built and filled in with brick, and well located for a Dwelling House, School, or a shop for any kind of mechanical business. Title indisputable. It will be sold for $875, and on very easy terms, if application is made soon Apply to Mr. ROBERT ANDERSON, or to

W. W. DAVISON.

Plainfield, Oct. 2. 1849.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c	1,50 to 3,00
Black & Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not. SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

VENDUE.

WILL be, sold at Public Vendue on SATURDAY October 6th, near Benjamin Piatts, New Brooklyn, the WOOD and TIMBER standing on about three acres of land, in lots to suit purchasers. Also, at the same time and place, about five acres of corn in the shock.

Conditions and attendance given by

E. L. SHEPPARD.

Oct. 2. 1849.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also, a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkable low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin stile $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense. J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furnitur, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3 1849. [54.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

He invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attention to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuahce of the same.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.—Give us a call. ☜ [54.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys. Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

☞ As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

☞ All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Window blinds sawed at 12 1-2 cents per hundred, or the stuff found and sawed at 4 shillings per hundred.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.

Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

Fire!—Insure Immediately.

The attention of the public generally, and of all those not insured, particularly, is requested to the advertisment of the CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY. The advantages there offered should induce all who are not already insured to do so immediately. Fire is a treacherous element, tomorrow it is too late. For the public convenience in this section of the country we are appointed Agent to the Company. All necessary information and surveys can be had by application at this office.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.
WILLIAM M. DRAKE, Agent at Plainfield.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS, &c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [59.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS, Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds, Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

JOHN LEFORGE,

BARBER & HAIR DRESSER,

Next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield, where he can be found on Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's. Please give him a call.

☞ Razors put in superior order.

Advertise.

If you have an article to sell or one to purchase, the most economical and public notice you can give is to advertise in the Gazette.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries, which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table.' There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,
The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.
Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

TO LET, 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

WHO WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S
Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S
EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1849. | NO. 43.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ ECONOMY.—How can persons expect to succeed in business without advertising? they may have the most desirable goods at the cheapest possible prices, but without making their names known and where they may be found, it is impossible they can succeed: 'a word to the wise &c.'

A GOOD STORY.

Old Col. W——, formerly a well known character in one of our eastern cities, was remarkable but for one passion out of the ordinary range of humanity, and that was buying any lot of trumpery that came under the head of "miscellaneous," for the reason that it could not be classified.—Though close fisted in general, he was continually throwing away his money in fives and tens on such trash. In this way he had filled all the old corners in his dwelling and out-houses with a collection of non descript articles that would have puzzled a philosopher to tell what they were made for, or to what use they could be put. This, however, was a secondary consideration with the colonel; for he seldom troubled his head about such articles after they were fairly housed. Not so with his wife, however, who was continually remonstrating against these purchases, which served only to clutter up the house, and as food for the mirth of the domestics. But the colonel, though he often submitted to these remonstrances of his better half, could not resist the passion; and so he went on adding from week to week to his miscllanies. One day, while sauntering down the street, he heard the rich, full tones of the auctioneer, and of course stepped in to see what was being sold On the floor he perceived a collection which looked as if it might have been purloined from the garret of some museum, and around which the motly group were assembled, while on the counter stood the portly auctioneer, in the very height of a mock-indignant remonstrance with his audience.

'Nine dollars and ninety cents!' cried the auctioneer. 'Gentlemen, it is a shame; it is barberous to stand by and permit such a sacrifice of property! Nine dollars and ninety—Good morning, colonel! A magnificent lot of—of antiques—and all going for nine dollars and ninety cents—Gentlemen, you'll never see another such lot; and all going—going—going for nine dollars and ninety cents. Col. W——, can you permit such a sacrifice?' The colonel glanced his eyes over the lot, and then with a nod and a wink assured him he could not. The next instant the hammer came down, and the purchase was his at ten dollars. As the articles were to be paid for and removed immediately, the colonel lost no time in getting a cart, and having seen every thing packed up and on their way to his house, he proceeded to his own store, chuckling within himself that now, at least, he had made a bargain at which even his wife couldn't grumble.

In due time the colonel was sitting at the dinner table, when lifting his eyes he observed a cloud on his wife's brow.—'Well, my dear?' said he, inquiringly.—'well' repeated his wife: 'it is not well, Mr. W; I am vexed beyond endurance. You know G——, the auctioneer?'—'Certainly,' replied the colonel, 'and a very gentlemanly person he is, too.' 'You may think so,' rejoined the wife. 'but I don't, and will tell you why. A few days ago I gathered all the trumpery with which you have been cluttering the house for the last twelve months, and sent it to him with orders to sell the lot immediately to the highest bidder, for cash. He assured me he would do so in all this week at farthest and pay over the proceeds to my order. And here I have been congratulating myself on two things: first, on having got rid of a most intolerable nuisance; and secondly, on receiving money enough therefor to purchase that new velvet hat you promised me so long ago. And now, what do you think? This morning, about an hour ago, the whole load came back again without a word of explanation! The colonel looked blank for a moment, and then proceeded to clear up the mystery. But the good woman was pacified only by the promise of a ten dollar note beside that in the hands of the auctioneer, on condition, however, that she should never mention it. Of course she kept her word!

A new race of men has been discovered in the interior of Africa by a French scientific explorer, with tails. They are called Ghilanes.

Where the bad Niggers go.

A Long Island Quaker, who had a very unruly negro boy living with him, and whose disposition he had tried for a long time to bring under the control of the peaceful inflences of Quakerism, in vain, tried a new species of punishment, that he related thus:

Tired of moral suasion, the old Quaker was about giving up in despair, when a thought struck him. 'I will punish the lad.' said Aminadab to himself, 'I will not strike him, for he is one of God's creatures, on which men should not lay their unworthy hands. Josiah,' said he, addressing the boy, 'come here.' Josh, whose keen eye discerned, in the look and manner of the old Quaker, signs of some mysterious movement, came doggedly up to his master, and hung down his head in token of humble submission. 'Josiah,' continued the old man, 'thee has been a bad boy, and thy master has lost all patience with thee. Dost thou know, Josiah, where the wicked and unruly lads, like thee, go to?'

'No,' whined the negro.

'No! boy, has thee never heard of the bad place?'

'Yes,' was the reply; 'I have heard that bad boys go to——, down, down, down, to dat dark dungeon where they get their brimstone from.'

'That is the place, boy,' continued the Quaker, in a solemn tone, 'and there I must take thee, Josiah.'

'Me, massa! or lora or lora, I—I—I—O lora massa.'

'Get thy hat and come with me; I can hear no words from thee.' The boy got his hat followed the Quaker to the rail-road depot, where they took the cars for Brooklyn. On flew the cars at the rate the boy never had rode before—the engine snorting and puffing not unlike what his imagination had pictured the chief of the infernal regions.

Trees, houses and fences seemed to fly, as if on wings, and before the cars reached Brooklyn, the poor lad's head was fairly bewildered, and he scarcely knew whether he was going up or 'down, down, down.' Furious as the wind, came the train down Atlantic street; horses snorted and dashed away from the track in firight; the boys hooted and screamed and poor Josh looked as if he thought he was on his way to the world of spirits. Presently the engineer gave one of those terrible whistles that echoed throughout the whole city, and the engine plunged into the tunnel. 'Good bye, Josiah,' said Aminadab, and he suddenly stepped from his seat to the platform out side the cars. A screech, a groan, and then a stifled moan, were heard where the negro sat, and then all was dark and still, save the puffing and whistling of the engine and the rattling of the cars, as they whistled on through the narrow passage. Once or twice, a noise like a struggle or catching for breath was faintly heard coming from the negroe's seat, but nothing was known of the horrors of that 'middle passage' until the train emerged from the tunnel on the west side. The passengers were then horrified at a sight which they supposed was a case of cholera in their midst. A 'dead nigger,' sure, was right among them. The old Quaker had poor Josh by the collar, shaking and scolding him, and trying to make him stand upon his feet. But Josh was a 'gone nigger,' to all appearances, and it was an hour before the pasengers and 'Josiah' could understand that he had passed through the infernal regions. For a few minutes, the old Quaker was as frightened as anybody, and thought that his punishment had terminated in manslaughter. Josh finally 'came out right,' and is hoped that he will hereafter be a better boy, and long remember his visit to the 'bad place.'—N. Y. Spirit of he Times.

THE RIGHT WAY.—'I see,' said a young lady, acording to one of the funny papers, 'that some booksellers advertise blank declarations for sale. I wish I could get one.' 'Why?' asked her mother. 'Because Mr. E. is too modest to ask me to marry him; and perphaps, if I could fill a blank declaration with the questions, he would sign it.'

Kindness the Best Punishment.

A Quaker, of exemplary character, was disturbed at night by footsteps around his dwelling; and he arose from his bed, and cautiously opened a back door to reconnoitre. Close by was an out house, and under it a cellar, near a window of which was a man busily engaged in receiving the contents of his pork barrel from another within the cellar. The old man approached, and the man outside fled. He stepped to the cellar window and received the pieces of pork from the thief within, who, after a while, asked his supposed accomplice, in a whisper, 'Shall we take it all?' The owner of the pork said softly, 'Yes, take it all'—and the thief industriously handed up the remainder through the window, and then came up himself. Imagine his consternation when, instead of greeting his companion in crime, he was confronted by the quaker. Both were astonished; for the thief proved to be a near neighbor, whom none would have suspected of such conduct. He pleaded for mercy, begged the old man not to expose him, spoke of the necessities of poverty, and promised faithfully never to steal again.

'If thou hadst asked me for meat,' said the old man, 'it would have been given thee. I pity thy poverty and thy weakness, and esteem thy family. Thou art forgiven.'

The thief was greatly rejoiced, and was about to depart, when the old man said, 'Take the pork, neighbor.'

'No, no,' said the thief, 'I dont want pork.'

'Thy necessity was so great that it led thee to steal. One half of the pork thou must take with thee.'

The thief insisted he could never eat a morsel of it.—The thoughts of the crime would make it choke him. He begged the privilege of letting it alone. But the old man was inexorable, and furnishing the thief with a bag, had half the pork put therein and laying it on his back, sent him home with it. He met his neighbor daily, for many years afterwards; and their families visited together, but the matter was kept a secret; and though in after time the circumstances was mentioned, the name of the delinquent was never known. The punishment was severe and effectual. It was probably the first, it was certainly the last attempt made by him to steal.

Had the man been arraigned before a court of justice and imprisoned for the petty theft, how different might have been the result! His family disgraced, their peace destroyed, the man's character ruined, and his spirits broken. Revenge, not penitence, would have swayed his heart, the scorn of the world would have darkened his future; and in all probability he would have entered upon a course of crime at which, when the first offense was committed, his soul would have shuddered. And what would the owner of the pork have gained? Absolutely notning. Kindness was the best punishment, for it saved while it punished.

Science Turned Criminal.

Perhaps one of the most original and marked signs of the times, says the London Patent Journal, is an application of science to crime—whether it be for the commission or the detection of it. The anæthetic properties of chloroform have been already adapted to the art of burglary—house breakers having recently availed themselves of it as a means of stupifying an old lady into whose house they had entered. The precipitation of metals by the electrotype has been used to coat leaden cast of pennies with a pellicle of copper, while the ingenious process of anastatic printing, or of producing one engraved impression from another, has, within the last, month, been applied to the indefinite multiplication of bank notes—and that with such consummate success, it is said that the ink of the signature alone enables the bank authorities themselves to distinguish the forgery from the original.

☞ 'I shall soon die, Cuffy—I must soon set out upon a long journey.'

'Berry well,' replied Cuffy—I guess hab good going, bekase it's all the way down hill.'

A GENTLE REPROOF. The following, though not new, will bear reading at least once in every seven years.

One day as Zachariah Hodgson was going to his daily avocation after breakfast, he purchased a fine large codfish, and sent it home with directions to his wife to have it cooked for dinner. As no particular mode of cooking was prescribed, the good woman well knew that whether she boiled it or made it into chowder, her husband would scold her when he came home.—But she resolved to please him once if possible, and therefore cooked portions of it in different ways. She also, with some litttle difficulty, procured an amphibious animal from a brook back of the house, and plumped it into the pot. In the meantime her husband came home; some covered dishes were placed on the table, and with a frowning, fault finding look, the moody man commenced the conversation:

'Well, wife, did you get the fish I bought?'

'Yes, my dear.'

cooked it, I will bet anything you have

'I should like to know how you have spoiled it for my eating, (taking off the cover,) I thought so. What in creation possessed you to fry it?—I would as lief eat a boiled frog.'

'Why my dear, I thought you loved it best fried.'

'You didn't think any such thing. You knew better—I never loved fried fish—why didn't you boil it.'

'My dear, the last time we had fresh fish, you know I boiled it, and you said you liked it best fried. But I have boiled some also.'

So saying, she lifted a cover, and lo the shoulders of a cod nicely boiled, were neatly deposited in a dish, the sight of which would have made an epicure rejoice but which only added to the ill nature of her husband.

'A pretty dish, this!' exlaimed he—'Boiled fish! chips and porridge! If you had not been one of the most stupid of woman-kind, you would have made it into a chowder.

His wife, with a smile immediately placed before him a tureen containing an excellent chowder.

'My dear,' said she, 'I was reoslved to please you. There is your favorite dish!'

'Favorite dish, indeed,' grumbled the discomfitted husband, 'I dare say it is an unpalatable wishy washy mess. I would rather have a boiled frog than the whole of it.

This was a common expression of his, and had been anticipated by his wife, who as the preference was expressed, uncovered a large dish near her husband, and there was a bull-frog of protentious dimensions, and pugnacions aspect, stretched out at full length! Zachariah sprang from his chair at the sight of the unexpected apparation.

'My dear,' said his wife, in a kind entreating tone, 'I hope you will at length be able to make your dinner.'

Zachariah could not stand this. His surly mood was overcome, and he burst into a heartly laugh. He acknowledged that his wife was right and he was wrong; and declared that she should never again have occasion to give him another lesson.

The Difficulty of Navigating the Air.

No body can float in the air unless it be eight hundred times lighter than water; such a body therefore, must of course cary 800 times less power than might be used in a steamboat.—But the utmost power that a steamboat can carry will not enable it to make the least headway against wind blowing 200 miles an hour. How then is it possible for a body of 800 times less power to make any headway against even a gentle wind blowing three miles an hour?

In navigating the air we can obtain no fulcrum but the air itself, and that is yielding, and but a small portion of even the power which can be carried could prove effective.

If a body, so comparitively solid as water, causes a loss of power, the loss must be vastly greater in a body eight hundred times lighter and exceedingly elastic. When to all this we add eight hundred times less power than a steamboat, and at the same time bear in mind the further fact that a steamboat cannot make the least headway against wind blowing two hundred miles an hour. It is no go.—Scientific American.

A Hoosier editor gives a very good reason for want of editorial matter thus:—'A little 'circumstance' in our domestic affairs, which is not likely to occur oftener than once in a year or two, must apologize for any deficiency in the editorial department.'

☞ A late English paper says:—'It is a remarkable and significant fact, that all the later improvements in cotton weaving machinery have come from the United States.'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, October 11, 1849.

☞ All communications must bear the name and address of the writer; not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith, otherwise no attention will be paid to them.

Essex County Conventions.

The Anti-Monopolists will hold their County Convention at the Park House, Orange, on Saturday, Oct 13. at 2 o'clock.

The Democrats of Essex will hold their County Convention at Seiple's Hotel, Elizabethtown, Oct. 27.

The Whig Convention meets at the Park House Orange, on the 31st. of October.

Georgia Elections.

All the counties in this state have been heard from but three, from which it appears the legislature will stand as follows:

In the senate the democrats will have 25 members, and the whigs 24.

In the house the democrats will have 67 members, and the whigs 63.

Towns, the democratic candidate for Governor, has been elected by a majority of 3,300 votes.

Maryland Elections.

Well, the contest is over, the smoke has cleared away, and the Whigs have been most gloriously defeated. We have lost two Congressmen that we should have elected, but for some unaccountable apathy which seemed to prevail in the Whig ranks.—N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Oct 6th.

The 'Union' states the number of Whig member-elect of the next House to be 112 and of the Democrats 110. Of the eight members to be chosen in Mississippi and Lousiana, the Union calculates upon the whole; is pretty sure of seven, and every one concedes six. Thus the Democrats will certainly have 116 members, while the whigs will have 114.--Journal of Commercé.

Commodore Stockton publishes a very long address (which our limited space alone prevents us from giving) setting forth the rights of the monopoly. The substance of which is that the People of New Jersey through their Representatives, granted to the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Delaware and Raritan Canal Companies, the exclusive privilege to transport passengers and merchandize across New Jersey, for which the State receives certain considerations.

The Kings of the earth claim that they hold their power and authority by the grace of God—the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company by authority of the Legislature of New Jersey.

Our forefathers declared that the People are the source of all political power, that ALL men's rights are EQUAL and INALIENABLE.

This principle they so ably set forth and so nobly defended, they made the FUNDAMENTAL principle of our government, both general and particular. Thus the foundation of our government upon the inalienability of man's rights forever secures their certain protection. If any person chooses to usurp these rights they do so at their peril.

If this doctrine upon which our government is founded is correct,(and we trust no republican will dispute it)then the pretext set up by the Camden and Amboy (or any other) Company to the exclusive right of way across New Jersey, although claiming under the authority of the Legislature of New Jersey, is null and void, as it does not, neither does any other authority on earth possess the power to legislate away the inalienable rights of man.

The plea set up by the Commodore of the obligation or inviolability of contracts will not avail them, as the people declare that the company has repeatedly forfeited its charter by violating its express condititions, by over charges on freight, passengers, &c.,(which since the agitation of the question, the company tacitly admits by putting down the fare to a lower rate) and that through the enormous power and wealth which the company enjoys, it is impossible to get redress. The people have become alarmed at this enormous and growing evil,and are now determined--now that the company have placed it in their power—to annul the monopoly clause of its charter, and to grant a charter to a competitor. This plea therefore it will be seen does not avail them, for not only have the company violated its charter and thus abrogated the contract, but the party granting this privilege did not possess the power. The oyster suppers and wine drinks, with more substantial 'fixens' have therefore been thrown away; as, if this violation of the express conditions of the charter by the company does not amount to its forfeiture, the People fall back upon their reserved rights.

This however, we trust, is not a war on the Camden and Amboy Monopoly alone, but against all exclusive privileges, which the people declare are a usurpation of their inalienable rights; and this brings us back to the question, by what authority did or can the people's representatives legislate away their equal and inalienable rights? If the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and of New Jersey are practical realities and not a dream, if they embody the principles for which our forefathers fought, and which they transmitted to us as our inheritance, then it behooves us to look to it that we do not loose the substance in an attempt to preserve the shadow.—Where is the substance if we permit the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company to enjoy the exclusive privilege of the right of way to transport passengers and merchandise across the State? Where is the substance if we permit our representatives to grant charters with exclusive privileges, with the understood conditions annexed securing to themselves and officers of the government, Judges of our Courts &c., the exclusive right to ride free, while the people must pay? Do you call this equal rights?

If Commodore Stockton or any other person chooses to invest their money for the sake of gain or the lust of power, into any and every speculation that offers, in contravention of man's rights, that is their business; it is the people's business to see that the first principles of our government are not violated, and if violated through the treachery and venality of our representatives, it is their duty to bring it back to that only true republican basis, equal rights.

The Commodore is very sensitive at the bare mention of the word monopoly, and prefers that of protection; although the words have different significations, practice has made them synonymous, but we are not particular about the word so that the people understand they are made to have the same meaning; 'a rose by any other name would smell as sweet,' and monopoly is no less monopoly although called protection; it is not the first time the word protection has been made to cover a monopoly: he says, 'I was always opposed to the present system.'—What system does he mean? He cannot mean the system of exclusive privileges, for that he is endeavoring to mantain is protection.

The flings of the Commodore at the equal inalienable rights of man, as not being "any thing more or less than the specious idea of socialism,' is in bad taste, coming as it does from one who has boasted that he carries New Jersey in his breeches pocket, and who now insults the people of New Jersey by declaring that the exclusive privileges which he holds of the right of way across the State is superior to the power which created it, superior to the people's inalienable rights.

The Commodore contends that the Company has the exclusive privilege of the right of way across New Jersey, but prefers that it should be called protection instead of monopoly. If the exclusive privilege of the right of way across the State is not a monopoly then we are at a loss as to what constitutes one. If it is, if it confers privileges which all cannot enjoy upon the same conditions then is it unconstitutional, as no power on earth can destroy or legislate away an inalienable right.—These principles were bequeathed to us by our forefathers, and if we wish to transmit them unimpaired to our children and to posterity we should watch them with jealous eye, or the lust of power and of wealth will deprive us of our birthright.

☞ We are sorry to learn that Frazee Cole Esq. of this place, on Saturday, in discharging a pistol which had been loaded for some time, so much injured his left hand by its bursting, that he will probably loose the fore-finger. Fortunate indeed is it that it was no worse.—Plainfield Union.

FIRE IN NEWARK.—The new building of Rosendale Lime and Cement Company near the gas works, Newark, was entirely destroyed on Friday evening. The property is fully insured.

The Camden and Amboy Company have reduced their way-fares generally to two and a-half cents per mile, on both their roads, and determined to issue season or commutation tickets between New-Brunswick and Philadelphia.—Newark Daily Advertiser.

The following concise expose from the New Jersey Herald is worthy the attention of a monopoly rid people.

We much mistake the signs of the times if the Directors and Managers of the Monopoly do not find occasion for the performance of a much less pleasant duty for the next few years than the counting of the princely revenues out of which they have annually defrauded both the State and the people. They have yet to do what neither Commodore Stockton in his Address as a citizen, or in their capacity as Managers and Directors of the combined Companies, have yet done, given to the people of the State a fair and satisfactory exhibit of their transactions for the past eight years, during which time the Companies have made no report either for the satisfaction of the stockholders or the citizens of the State. The public already anticipating the verdict of the Investigating Committee to whom this important duty has been assigned, and it is to this point that the Commodore devotes much of his Address. He charges that an attempt is making through misrepresentation and falsehood, to forestall public opinion with a view to influence the decision of the courts of last resort in which a great number of cases are now pending between the citizens of the State and the combined Companies. He quite overlooks the very important fact that the decisions in the lower courts in all these cases have been rendered adverse to the Companies, that these suits are appeals to the court of the last resort by the combined Companies, involving judgments to a vast amount, to sustain their unlawful and illegal proceedings. The public, who are quite as much interested in the decision of these cases as the stockholders and directors of the combined Companies are equally as capable of judging of the facts involved in the controversy as the monopoly lords. The public are quite as competent to judge whether it was a fulfilment or evasion of their charter when the companies contracted with the State to build a railroad from New York to Philadelphia, running thro' the State, but instead terminated it at Bordentown, 60 miles from Philadelphia, and charging the same as if the road had actually been built through Burlington, Monmouth, and other Counties, and terminating at Camden, opposite Philadelphia. The $365,000 out of which the companies annually fleeced the public in thus construing their charter, during a period of seventeen years, and which overcharge only terminated upon the assembling of the Anti-Monopoly Convention at Trenton, 5th September, A. D., 1849, we do not doubt has curtailed the dividends upon Commodore Stockton's railroad stock, in exact proportion as it has iucreased tha travel and revenues arising therefrom to the State, and therefore we are not surprised to find the railroad managers thus taking exception to its proceedings. It would, however, have been in better grace had the rail-road companies quietly yielded thus much to public opinion, for it is but a small proportion of the concession asked for by the people of New Jersey. It will be borne in mind that the deduction already made, is a deduction only upon the foreign passengers travel across the State; no deduction or discrimination has yet been made in favor of Jerseymen: the same high charges and tolls are still levied and paid upon the produce of the New Jersey farmer as before, when it seeks a market out of the State, and the same amount of tax or duties levied upon every necessary commodity received in exchange for it. The system of taxing the toil and industry of the people of the State to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, that the empty farce of paying over annually to the State some $30,000 of the pickings and stealings of our rail road masters, is to be still kept up.

Com. Stockton, in his Address, more in derision than in earnest, we should think points to the advantages that the State has derived from its connexion with the combined rail-road and canal Companies. Among the fruits, and they are the only ones, he enumerates the construction of the State Prison and the building of a Lunatic Assylum! Only think of it, a Lunatic Assylum and States Prison, as the only reward of seventeen years of fidelity of the people of New Jersey to the rail-road kings. It is fortunate that the State has something to show, even if it is nothing better than a State Prison, after so long a connection with the rail-road Managers, but unfortunately for the reputation of the State, its greatest rogues never get there, or the Monopoly Managers, or more particularly the swearing man of the concern, who testifies to the truth of the accounts rendered the State, would long since have enjoyed that unenviable position. But it is not true that even these two monuments of rail-road fame were ever built with the earnings of the Companies, but by an annual tax upon the people of the State: the Companies have always paid the least tax in exchange for the greatest benefits, while their immense rail road property has been entirely free from taxation, and while the princely revenues derived from the public works have been annually enriching the stock holders, the people of the State have been made poor and to depend upon the bounty of a soulless corporation.

☞ PENNSYLVANIA and OHIO hold their State Elections (for Legislature, &c) today, October 9.

From the (Morristown) Democratic Banner.

☞ Capt. Stockton has published an appeal to the people of New Jersey, in which he attempts to prove the validity of the contract between the State and the Monopoly companies, and the unjustness of the present movement by the people to annul it. The Jerseyman calls the movement a political excitement, for what reason we cannot tell, unless becase his party is opposed to it, of which we have had pretty strong evidence for two years past in the repeated defeat of the bill for a new road from this town to Elizabethtown, thus sustaining the present Monopoly road through this town. The Anti-Monopoly Journal printed at Trenton shows in the following article, the strong claim the Captain has on the people for sympathy. The monopoly companies have violated most shamefully their contract with the State, charging a third more than their charter allows on every passenger, and in the same proportion on freight. The Jerseyman and other monopoly papers are trying hard to mislead the people, but they try in vain—the imposition and tyranny practised upon them for seventeen years past, has roused them to action, and the next Legislature, if composed of the right men, will make the right of way free to all, and thus at once crush all exclusive privileges with its long train of crying abuses.

'The Cap'n strongly urges upon the people to let them go on a few years longer—trust them but yet a little while, as they have had but seventeen years power and not yet satisfied. A few years more and they will have the agricultural portions of the State just as poor as is their desire. We will let the valliant Captain know that there are others in New Jersey who have rights to maintain as well as those who have $400,000 of stock in the monopoly companies. We will let him know that the farmers—the mechanics—the workingmen, and all the citizens of New Jersey have rights as well as the capitalists of the railroad monopoly. We ask not to injure the property of others, neither are we willing to submit, quietly, without raising our voice, whilst others are robbing us of ours. We grant, that by cunningness, craftiness and fraud the railroad and canal companies persuaded an innocent and good hearted legislature to sell to them the 'right of way' over the free soil of New Jersey. But my valiant Captain, you well know that you held out inducements to the legislature of the great benefit that would accrue to all classes of our citizens from the facilities of communications that would be opened to them with other sections of our great republic. When you obtained this great privilege 'the right of way, was there a single individual in the whole world who could have been induced to believe, that in the year eighteen hundred and forty-nine passengers and merchandise would be carried on their way between the two great cities of America, (New York and Philadelphia,) three hundred miles, along a rough and boisterous coast, cheaper than you would carry them on this your great 'right of way?' Did any one believe that, instead of holding out inducements to the farmer, the mechanic and the whole industrial community, a cheap and speedy conveyance to market of the products of their labor, you would virtually say to them, 'you cant go.' You said to the farmer 'your peaches can't go to market until mine are sold' and then you charged him for freight nearly as much over what the law allowed you as his fruit was worth, and yet you have the 'right of way.' Have you, then not been robbing him of the products of his hard earned labor by keeping him from market with his produce? Yes, in this way you have robbed the farmers of New Jersey alone, of millions of money, and you now come before the people, who you are pleased to call by the refined names of 'socialists, speculators, demogogues,' &c., and humbly ask to be allowed to still continue your 'big gun,' Captain, is enough to sink your boasted 'right of way' into utter oblivion.

N. Y Working Men's Convention.

This Convention assembled at the Capitol in Albany on Wednesday Oct 3.

The following Platform of Principles was reported, discussed, and finally adopted, viz:

1. We are in favor of an Act to prevent the operatives of this State from being forced to work more than Ten Hours in one day for any Company or individual employer.

2. We approve of the General School Law passed at the last Session of the Legislature of this State.

3. We are in favor of instituting a Law securing to every member of this Commonwealth the Gratuitous Administration of Justice.

4. We are in favor of securing to the actual Laborer, who is a citizen, a sufficient quantity of Land to subsist himself and family.

5. We are in favor of a Lien Law that shall always requite the honest laborer or his toil.

6. We protest against the principle that the extensive Capitalists of Europe, or of our own Country, shall be permitted, either directly or otherwise, to buy up an unlimited quantity of our native land thereby enhancing the price and curtailing the means of the impoverished to provide against destruction.

7. We are in favor of Homestead Exemption.

8. We call for the enforcement of the neglected law of 1842 in relation to State Prison.

9. We demand the insertion of the personal liability Clause in the existing General Manufacturing Law, or a repeal of the same.

After much discussion, the Convention decided to nominate a 'clean ticket of supporters of the above platform, which was done.

The following resolution, moved by Mr. Wm. West was discussed and finally adopted, though somewhat opposed. The general sentiment appeared to be favorable to the Pacific Railroad, but opposed to Whitney's plan of building it.

Resolved, That the scheme of Mr. Asa Whitney to build a National Railroad with the proceeds of the sale of the Public Lands, of which he demands no less than 30 square miles each side of the proposed road from the Lakes to the Pacific, is a scheme of gigantic robbery, the successful prospection of which would, more than any other cause, corrupt the Legislature of the land, and hasten the downfall of the Republic.

It is estimated that there have been built in the United States, from the year 1824 to the year 1848, 2310 steamboats. The present rate of steamboat building is about 200 per annum.

A Curious Fact.

The whole population of the United States could be compressed into the space of one mile square, and each individual be allowed sufficient room to breathe in. Fifteen inches square would suffice for this. There are 1760 yards in a mile, which multiplied, give 63,360 inches; and this product divided by fifteen, the number of inches of space occupied by each individual would place 4224 of them in a row to extend the length of a mile; and the same number of row to compete a square mile would consequently number 17,842,576. —Scientific American.

Persons in Plainfield who wish to have the Elizabethtown DAILY STANDARD served at their dwellings, can be accommoda- by sending their address to the Gazette office.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ŒCONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn. Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITTSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

He invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attention to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuahce of the same.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.—Give us a call. ☜ [54.

☞ Published by an act of Congress, in the paper having the Largest circulation. ☜

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield, Oct. 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Little Miss Abbey C
Akin J H	M
Arrowsmith Mary E	McClearn Mrs And.
Armstrong Margaret	Manning Randolph
Atridge Isaac	Madden Henry G
Allin Miss Frances	Mahon Baetty
B	Martin Sarah Eliz.
Brister Miss Mary	Manning Isaac
Bradbury Mrs W B	Moore Wm
Barton Charles	P
Beland Colin	Powell Wm
Brocaw David	R
Bishop Mrs Jowana	Reoley Miss Ann 2
C	Reamer Margaret
Clark George B	Reamer Wm
Crabtree W Esq	Runyon John
Cornwell Hannah E	Rowan Thomas
Clinton Miss Ellen	Rino Wm
Comboy Rose	Reider Daniel 2
D	Randolph Christian
Dunn Theodore A 2	S
Dumon Martin	Skoswell Jacob V.
Drake Randolph 3	Smith Capt Benj.
Dare Miss Rebecca	Schmit Nicholas M
F	Simpson Mrs Harriet
Flenn John	Suydam Cornelius
Ferris Ewin R	T
Flatt R	Totten David
G	Tingly Joseph
Gray Robert	Turner Wm
Garratt Mr	Tamarind Catharine
H	U
Halken Abm	Underhill Henry S
Hand Mrs Wm	V
Hatfield Mrs A E	Varity Honour
Hillyer Rachel	Vail Thomas
Hand Wm	Vail Duncan P Esq
Henry Sylvester	Vail A B
J	Vanvaul Renburg S
Jones Mrs	W
Jurish Philip F	Williamson Piatt
L	Wilson J
Laing Able	White Patrick
Lee Frazee

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M

T. BENEDICT & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c	1,50 to 3,00
Black & Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not. SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

BASSETTS! !

BROADWAY BRANCH!!

IS NOW OPEN, WITH AN ENTIRE

New Stock of DRY GOODS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad-st. Newark, N. J.

W. L. & W. H. BASSETT,

HAVING taken the store No. 182 Broad street, opposite the Park, has converted it into a spacious and airy Sales Room, neatly and handsomely arranged, and is now opening an entire new and the most extensive assortment of Rich and Fashionable Styles of Goods in the State; one of the firm will remain in Boston and New York most of his time in the Auction Room selecting such bargains as are offered; and we will offer the greatest inducements ever offered in New Jersey in DRY GOODS, give us a call and examine for yourselves, as all goods will be shown freely, and offered at the lowest possible prices.

W. L. BASSETT, } Late of the firm of
W. H. BASSETT. } A. R. Baldwin & Co.

N. B. Mr. Chas. P. Hall, formerly with Ward & Kitchen, is engaged at this establishment. [oc4.42.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerons Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys. Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

☞ As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

☞ All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Window blinds sawed at 12 1-2 cents per hundred, or the stuff found and sawed at 4 shillings per hundred.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.

Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

For Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering. as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of wich is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

AGENS & CO.

No. 244 Broad st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal. [80.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.
WILLIAM M. DRAKE, Agent at Plainfield.

Advertise.

If you have an article to sell or one to purchase, the most economical and public notice you can give is to advertise in the Gazette.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also, a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkable low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin stile $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense. J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furnitur, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings,

of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonoble terms

J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c. and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms.

WM. REED.

Plainfield, June, 6. 1849. [50.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries, which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by. MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE, The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

FOR SALE.

121-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

TO LE . 4 HOUSES in Plainfield. Also,

FOR SALE on very easy terms several good Houses and Lots, Farms of all sizes and various prices, payments easy. All those that have Real Estate to sell would do well to call on STEPHEN VAIL, Real Estate Agent, at Plainfield every day except Saturday's on that day in New York, at No. 5 Courtlandt st. from 10 to 2 o'clock.

P. S. For sale 40 Acres of Chestnut, Oak and Hickory, good size for Posts and Rails.

☞ Wanted, to hire $500 on good security. Call on

STEPHEN VAIL.
March 1. 1849. 1y

WHO WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, consisting in Dry Goods, of Ladies and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of Groceries, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849. [69.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings, of the various Qualities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings, &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Also, a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over shoes, Men's and boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for. TITSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Dec, 20. 1848.

N. B. We would also inform our friends and the public generally that we are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Govornor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon T J Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon J S Simmons, Senator from R I; Hon S S Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon Wm Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon S Foot, Senator from Vermont, Hon H D Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon W S Martin, Wisconsin, Gen A C Dodge, Iowa, C C Trowbridge, Esq, Detroit, S H Holmes, Esq, Ct. G W Jones, Esq, Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property on the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The Empire Company, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Cortland st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medicial preparation by the name of Pain Killer, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in New York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better descriped than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear Ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. EMPIRE COMPANY, No. 53 Courtland st. N. Y.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The Acoustic Oil sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics, muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuine has the stamp of the Empire company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the Children! as well as the worms, and the only safe article that kills, the worms, and not the children, is the one made an sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the Trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own Stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Heudache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the EMPIRE COMPANY! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the EMPIRE COMPANY, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED PERSONS may read and test, and have the head covered with a find, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1849. | NO. 44.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st.opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ ECONOMY.—How can persons expect to succeed in business without advertising? they may have the most desirable goods at the cheapest possible prices, but without making their names known and where they may be found, it is impossible they can succeed: 'a word to the wise &c.'

One way to Nullify a bad Lease.

There is a shrewd and wealthy old Yankee landlord away down in Maine, who is noted for driving his 'sharp bargains,'—by which he has amassed a large amount of property. He is the owner of a great number of dwelling-houses, and it is said of him, that he is not overscrupulous in his rental charges, whenever he can find a customer whom he knows to be responsible. His object is always to lease his houses for a term of years, to the best tenants, and get the utmost farthing in the shape of rent.

A diminutive Frenchmen called on him, last winter, to hire a dwelling he owned in Portland, and which had long remained empty. References were given, and the Yankee landlord ascertaining that his applicant was a man 'after his own heart' for a tenant, immediately commenced to 'jew' him. He found that the tenement appeared to suit the little Frenchmen, and he placed an exorbitant price upon it; but the lease was drawn and duly executed, and the tenant moved into his new quarters.

Upon the kindling of fires in the house, it was found that the chimneys wouldn't 'draw,' and the building was filled with smoke. The window sashes rattled in the wind at night, and the cold air rushed through a hundred crevices about the house, until now unnoticed. The snow melted upon the roof, and the attics were drenched from leaking. The rain pelted, and our Frenchman found a 'natural bath room upon the cellar floor'—but the lease was signed, and the landlord chuckled.

'I have been vat you call 'such in,' vis zis dam maison'—muttered our victim to himself, a week afterward—'but n'importe—ve sal see!'

Next morning he arose bright and early and passing down town, he encountered the landlord.

'A-ha!—Bon jour, monsieur,' said he, in his happiest manner.

'Good day, sir. How do you like your house?'

'Ah! Monsieur—elegant, beautiful—magnificent! Eh, bein monsieur; I have but ze one regret—'

'Ah what is that?'

'Monsieur—I sal live in zat house buttree litel year.'

'How so?'

'I have find, by vot you sal call ze lease zat you hav given me ze house for but tree year an' I have ver' mooch sorow for zat.'

'But you cant have it longer, if you wish—'

'Ah, Monsieur—I sal be ver' mooch glad if I can hav zat house so long as I pleas—eh, Monsieur?'

'Oh, certainly—certainly, sir.'

'Tres bien monsienr! I sal valk rite to your offees—an' you sal give me vot you call ze lease for zat maison jes so long as I sal vant the house. Eh, Monsieur?'

'Ceartainly, Sir. You shall stay there your life time, if you like.'

'Ah, Monsieur—I hav' ver' mooch tanks for zis accommodation.'

The old lease were destroyed and a new one was delivered in form to the French gentleman, giving him possession of the premises for 'such period as the leesee may desire the same, he paying the rent thereof promptly,' etc.

The next morning, our crafty landlord was passing the house just as the Frenchmen's last load of furniture was being started from the door; and an hour afterwards, a messenger called on him with a 'legal tender' for the rent eight days, accompanied with a note as follows;

'MONSIEUR,

'I hav bin shmoke, I hav' bin drowned I hav' bin frees to death, in ze house vot I hav' hire ov you, 'for ze period I may desire.' I hav' stay in ze dam hous 'jes so long as I plees,' an' ze bearer of zis vil giv you ze key. Bon jour, Monsieur.'

It is needless to add that our Yankee landlord has never been known to giv up 'a bird in the hand for, one in the bush.'—Boston Times.

Thruth is the object of Philosophy.

Capping the Climax.

Speaking of perseverance and economy puts us in mind of a 'yarn' that a friend of ours tells in superb style, and which never fails of being received with a hearty laugh. It is something like this. A party of middle-aged men and matrons having assembled at the house of a friend to pass a social evening, the conversation turned upon the subject of perseverance and economy—each one remarking those who had risen from small means to affluence within their acquaintance, and the process by which it had been accomplished. At last one who had not taken so prominent a part in the conversation as many of the others, said he would tell them the adventures of one of his acquaintances who died not many years before, it being a case in point.

'A bachelor acquaintance of mine,' said he, 'who at the age of thirty was not worth a dollar in the world, and of rather an eccentric turn, went into one of the extensive wool growing counties of Vermont, and build himself a little log hut, where he could perform his own culinary operations and sleep o'nights, while in day time he employed himself diligently in scouring the pastures and hills where the sheep grazed, picking up the locks of wool which the sheep rubbed off in going through the brushwood and shrubbery—carrying it to a market when he had collected a sufficient quantity to make it an object, or as his necessities required, which was often, at first, as he had none of the 'ready' to lay in a stock of provisions with. He followed this mode of life until he was upwards of fifty years old. And what should you suppose he was worth when he die?'

'Five thousand dollars,' said one.

'No.'

'Ten thousand dollars,' said another.

'No,'

'Twenty thousand,' said a third.

'No.'

And so it went on through the whole company, some guessing as high as fifty and an hundred thousand dollars.

'And what was he worth?' asked they all, addressing him that had told the story who sat the very picture of candor, except an occasional slight roguish look about his eyes that he could not fully suppress. All was quiet for a moment, waiting with intense anxiety the reply.

'Well said he, 'he was worth—not the first red cent.'

The whole company were completely dumbfounded for a moment, and then gave way to a hearty burst of laughter, at the manner in which 'the wool had been pulled over their eyes' so completely.—Maine Farmer.

Large Flower and Bird.

In 1818, Dr Arnold discovered in the Island of Sumatra, a flower which he named the Ruffisia Arnold, and which an author has called, with much justice, 'the magnificent Titan of the vegetable kingdom.' The human mind indeed, has never conceived such a flower; its circumference, when expanded, is nine feet; its nectarium is calculated to hold nine pints; the pistils are as large as a cow's horns, and the entire weight of the blossom computed to be about 15 pounds. Temple in his recent travels in Peru, states that he shot a conodor and from notes taken on the spot, give the following dimensions of its size:—When the wings are spread, they measure forty feet in length, and the quill part eight inches in circumferenc. This almost realizes the fabled rock of Sinbad, in the Arabian Nights; but its dimensions, as here given, rest on good and recent authority.

THE APPLE CROP OF WESTERN N. Y.—This year the apple crop is almost an entire failure, both in respect to quantity and quality. Orchards that have born year after year hundreds of bushels of fair, large and sound apples, will this year not produce 50 bushels; and the few there are, are small, wormy and unsound.—Rochester American.

French, who was exhibiting some sacred relics, and other curiosities, produced among other things, a sword, which he assured his visitors was 'de sword dat Baalam had when he would kill de ass.' A spectator remarked that Baalam had no sword, but only wished for one. 'Ver well—dis is de one he wished for.'

Cheap Riding.

A tradesman with whom we dealt, and who had a store in Maiden Lane—and a very hard working, careful man he was—having early in life united himself to a prolific fair one, had the happiness of seeing his table sorrounded by what, in figurative language, are termed 'olive branches.' Now we must here declare, by way of parenthesis, that we never heard real olive branches squall, even when shaken by the wind, while those which surrounded the table of our friend in Maiden Lane, did most lustily cry out when troubled in a similar, or any other manner. One of these dear little off-shoots was taken seriously ill, and had he been a royal baby, bulletins would have been issued to the effect, that 'the most serious apprehensions were entertained'—'that gloom pervaded fashionable circles,' &c., &c. As it was, Dr. Snooks was called in, a gentleman of limited practice, but boundless attention to any stray patient he fell in with at his boarding-house, who had means. He told our friend that his child must have change of air. This was rather a stunner, as our friend could not leave his business, nor his wife nor the ballance of the olive branches

'Well,' said Dr Snooks, 'you must take him out for a drive every day.'

Some days after this, we met the careful father in company with his sickly son—said we, 'Well, my friend, how do you get along?

He told us he was going for a drive with his little boy.

'Dear me,' said we, 'don't you find it very expensive?

'Oh! no,' he replied, 'when I go into neighbor Smith's, at the Saracen's Head, every day to take my bitters, I look over the 'Sun,' and there I sees among the deaths some notice as that the lamented remains will be taken to Greenwood Cemetery. N. B. Carriages in waiting at such and such a place, at quarter past four; so my son and me goes as mourners.'

'Dear me,' said we, 'don't people find out that you are not invited? 'Oh! no, we always gets in one of the last carriages'

'Well,' again we suggested, 'is it not very melancholy for your little boy? does it not affect his spirits?'

'Oh! bless you, no! people are generally merry enough on such occasions, and we jog along pretty brisk too.'

We did not ask the gentleman to take our hat, but we will bestow it on any one who will tell us of a cheaper drive.—Spirit of the Times

A Legal Anecdote.

Recently, while attending a court held at H—— county, where Judge S. presided, a very plain question was presented for the decision of the court. It was argued elaborately on the wrong side, and when the opposite attorney (a real Paddy, who had just waded through Blackstone and Chitty, so as to enable him to obtain a lisence,) rose to reply, he was stopped by his honor, who informed him that his opinion was made up against him, that he would have no further argument Paddy laid his hand slowly upon a volume of Blackstone, and opened where the leaf was carefully turned down, and commenced reading the law directly in conflict with the opinion of the court.

'Stop sir,' cried the judge, 'I have decided the case, and my mind is no longer open to conviction, nor will I have any futher argument in the case.'

'Oh,' said the lawer, 'I did not intend to argue the point, nor did I expect to convince your honor—I only wanted to show the court what a blasted fool old Blackstone was.'

Such a shout of laughter as went up from every part of the court-house, was beyond the means of the sheriff or the court to control for some minutes, when Paddy was fined a dollar for his slander of Blackstone, and the court then adjourned to liquor.

A mountain is made up of atoms, and friedship of little matters, and if the atoms hold not together, the mountain is crumbled into dust.

☞ The editor of the Boston Post says: All that is necessary for the enjoyment of sausages at brekfast, is confidence.

☞ To kiss an old lady by mistake for a young one, is defined to be a blunder-buss

TAKING TOLL.—The St. Louis Reveille is publising a tale, purporting to give some adventuries in the life of a young physician, from which we take the following extract:

A snow had fallen, the young folks of the village got up a grand sleighing party to a country tavern at some distance; and the interesting Widow Lambkin sat in the same sleigh, under the same buffalo robe with myself.

'Oh, oh—don't!' she exclaimed, as we came to the first bridge, catching me by the arm, and turning her veiled face towards me, while her little eyes twinkled through the gauze in the moonlight.

'Dont what?' I asked, 'I'm not doing anything.'

'Well, But I thought you were going to take toll,' replied Mrs. Lambkin.

'Toll?' I rejoined, 'what's that?'

'Now, do tell:' exclaimed the widow, her clear laugh ringing above the music of the bells. 'Dr. Mellows pretends that he don't know what toll is!'

'Indeed, I don't then,' I said laughing in turn.

'Don't know that the gentlemen when they go a sleighing, claim a kiss as toll when they cross a bridge! Well, I never!'

But shall I tell it all? The struggle of the widow to hold the veil were not sufficient to tear it, and somehow when the veil was removed, her face was turned directly towards my own, and the snow glistening in the moonlight, and the horse trotting on of himself, the tolls was taken for the first time in the life of Dr. Mellows.

Soon we came to a long bridge, but the widow said it 'was no use to resist,' and she paid up as soon as we reached it.

'But you won't take toll of every span, will you doctor?' she asked, to which the only reply was a practical negative to the question.

Did you ever, reader, sleigh ride with a widow, and take toll at the bridges!

☞ 'What's that air thing?' enquired Ephraim Gould of the conductor of the railroad train in which he came first to Boston.

'It's a snow shovel, to clear off the track in winter.

'Why yu don't mean to say that you shovel all the snow off from yer irons, dew ye? Why don't you put yur lokerrotiv and yur carridges on runners?'

IRISH TWINS.—An old, ragged, red-faced, forlorn-looking. Irish woman accosted us with,—"Plaise, sure, for the love of heaven, give me a fip to buy bread wid. I am a poor lone woman, and have two young twins to support.' 'Why, my good woman,' we replied, 'you seem too old to have twins of your own.' 'They are not mine, sur, I am only raisin' 'em.' 'How old are your twins?' 'One of 'em is seven weeks ould, and t'other is eight months old plaise God!'

INTO HIM.—A conceited colonel in the cavalry lately complained that from the ignorance of his officers, he was obliged to do the whole duty of the regiment. I am' said he, 'my own captain, my own cornet.' 'And your own trumpeter!' said a witty lady.

If the sun is going down, look up to the stars; if the earth is dark, keep your eye on Heaven. With God's presence and God's promises, a man or a child may be cheerful.

As gold which he cannot spend will make no man rich, so knowledge which he cannot apply will make no man wise.

We have heard of a fellow who was determined to commit suicide, even if he perished in the attempt.

Gen. Taylor is a 'great' man, but a piece of perforated tin you rub nutmegs on, is a 'grater.'

Why are the Anti-Renters like refractory children? Because they won't submit to pay rents.

☞ A watchmaker being asked the age of his youngest child, said he wanted just a quarter of three.

☞ Washing shirts wears them out. When they get dirty, rub them over with chalk.

☞ Duelling bullets are now called, 'half an ounce of satisfaction.'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, October 18, 1849.

DIED.

In this town, at 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning, of an Apoplectic fit, ABRAHAM LAING, aged 63 years, 7 months and 2 days. His friends and acquaintances are invited to attend his funeral to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, at his residence.

[FROM THE ELIZABETHTOWN STANDARD OF OCT. 10.]

Died:

In this town, at half-past five o'clock last evening, of consumption, JAMES M. LLOYD, printer, aged 20 years.

—I cannot be mistaken when I say that the death of Mr. Lloyd will be lamented by all who knew him. An intimate acquaintance of several years' duration, and a very good opportunity of forming a correct opinion, enables me to testify to the uprightness of his character, and to hold up his example as worthy of imitation. For several years he has been the guide of his brothers and sister, and the comfort and hope of his widowed mother. Ah, that mother has great cause to grieve over the loss of one who loved her so well, and who regarded the promotion of her happiness as his most important duty. It is for this I esteemed him most highly, and I shall long remember him as one who loved his mother more than all the world beside.

Few young men of his condition in life were more intelligent, and his knowledge was gained under great disadvantages. He was self-taught; and although not versed in the classics, but few could read, write or speak more elegantly and correctly. As an active member of the Franklin literary association, he was esteemed by his fellow members, and his loss in that body will be deeply felt.

—Young men of Elizabethtown! one of you companions has been struck down in the midst of his usefulness, before his sun had attained its meridian. The hundreds who knew him weep that he was called so soon, and while he had so much to make life desirable. Follow his example as far as it is entitled to your regard; live justly in the fear of God, and a happy death a glorious immortality will also be yours.

[FROM THE STANDARD OF OCT. 15.

THE SABBATH.—Another Sabbath morning beams upon our world, inviting the children of men to praise the Creator for the institution of this holy day. How sweetly everything is hushed to repose; there is nothing stirring to disturb the meditations of the most devout. It is necessary to the well-being of mankind that this day should ever be observed as a period of rest. The sons of toil, in particular, are greatly interested in preserving the Sabbath from desecration.

—A week ago, a dear friend lay on his deathbed, struggling in the grasp of the destroyer. It was a fearful night; the wind howled fiercely as it swept past the dwelling; the rain poured down in torrents; and the storm caused every humane heart to feel for those who might be exposed to its dreadful visitation I thought for some minutess that the period of my friend's departure was close at hand, he had failed greatly since I saw him the preceding evening. He was aware death was snapping asunder his heart-strings, and whispered that the sands of life were almost run out. After remarking that he always felt much for those who were exposed on such dreadful nights, especially for sailors, he suddenly remembered that the next day was the Sabbath, and invited me to call and see him if he survived as long.

I need hardly say that I considered it my duty to spend a part of the next day and the night with him. He knew as well as myself that it was his last Sabbath on earth. A day or two, at most, we both felt would bring him to the close of his pilgrimage.

—It is a great privilege to be with a just man when he approaches the borders of the grave. He has no desire except to glorify his Redeemer, by recommending his friends to put their trust in him. Few young men have a more extensive acquaintance than had the friend of whom I speak; none are listened to with greater attention than he commanded. To all who approached his bedside, he was eloquent in speaking of the necessity of living a holy life. Many a strong man listened to his testimony in favor of the excellency of religion, and with tears, promised the dying man to live in the fear of God. Who shall say that these exhortations, though spoken in great weakness, shall not be the blessed means of causing many to walk in the path of life?

—My friend has passed away from the embrace of those who loved him with all their souls. A widowed mother weeps and will not be comforted, because the son who was the joy of her heart, and whom she trusted would be the comfort and support of her old age, has been deprived of the residue of his years.—God help that mother in her hour of sore trial, and may she look forward with confidence to the enjoyment of that Sabbath which is eternal, where mother and son shall never be separated!

—A few weeks or years at most, and the last Sabbath-day will arrive to both writer and reader. Happy will we be if we can meet death with unfaltering confidence, having lived in such a manner that we may not be ashamed or afraid when the Master calls us to a settlement. If we have dealt justly, lived in peace with all men, ministered to the widow and orphan in their hour of affliction, we may—through the merits of our Redeemer—depend on meeting our departed friends where Congreations nee'r break up.

And Sabbaths never end.

PLAINFIELD LYCEUM.—The evenings are now of sufficient length to resume the meetings of the Lyceum, will the Secretary, or who ever may be authorised, call a meeting of the members?

ANNEXATION.—The people of Canada seem determined on annexation, having published an address setting forth their reasons signed by some 400 influential names of all parties and creeds.

OHIO.—The new Senate of Ohio will almost certainly stand—

Whig 18. Democrat 17. Disputed 1.

The House will pretty certainly stand:

Whig 30. Democrat 31. Free Soil 5.

This is exclusive of Hamilton County.

The Elections are near at hand. Will the People be honest to their own true interest by selecting men who will truly represent their interest by passing such general laws on all matters requiring legislation—in which their aid is invoked—as are necessary to insure to each and all equal rights?

It is not necessary that men who are chosen to guard our rights should be brawling politicians, but on the contrary men who knowing our rights shall have honesty and independence enough to maintain them. All men, however plain may have been their education, know that our rights are equal and inalienable, and therefore whatever deprives us of these rights by giving to one man or company of men a privilege which all cannot enjoy upon the same conditions, are both unconstitutional and unjust, and should never be submitted to by men who have inherited from their forefathers the birthright of freemen.

We hope to see men by whichever party chosen, who will ask themselves the question upon all matters that may arise for their deliberation, before they cast their votes for or against; is it just, will the people enjoy equal privileges under the proposed bill? If not, then we hope they will have honesty and independence enough to vote against it, without regard to party predilections, or local considerations. The question should be, is it for the best interest of the people, and will all enjoy under it equal rights?

This petty legislation of which we have ever had too much—of granting exclusive privileges to the few at the expense of the many, has ever been a fruitful source of corrupt legislation; there is no excuse for it, and every man who values his country's liberty and his own inalienable rights above the degrading influences which this corrupt system of legislation entails on his country, should use all his influence to discourage and prevent it.

All laws necessary for building railroads, canals, bridges, turnpikes—for creating banks, or for manufacturing purposes, should be general; there is no necssity for a special act—a special act should ever be the detestation of every true republican, as being more dangerous to the liberties of his country than the open attacks of all the kings of Europe combined against our republican institutions, which are founded on man's equal inalienable rights.

This petty legislation which has occupied about nine-tenths of the time heretofore consumed by our representatives, what is it? granting to the inhabitants of one township an act to prevent swine running at large, to another the the right to keep dogs without paying tax for the same! to another the privilege to erect a temperace hall! to another a special act permitting them to be charitable!! Thus the session is lengthened out to the detriment of the people's interest by this species of special legislation, by granting to one township the privilege to vote by ballot which another does not have, or does not wish, simply because that manner of voting may endanger this or that parties predominance is a disgraceful tampering with the people's rights. If voting by ballot deprives no one of an equal right, and is just to all, and as all can attend the polls at their own convenience, within the time, then why not pass a general law to that effect? If on the contrary it does not secure equal rights, why grant it to any?

There is also another very important subject which has had the attention of the people for some length of time, and which we trust will claim the attention of their representatives; and that is the freehold qualification for jurors. This remnant of feudalism in the laws of a people claiming equal rights, and the perpetuity of whose institutions are alone guarantied in the intelligence of her people, is too absurd to longer disgrace our statute book. That the people have too long bowed down to the god of party to the neglect of their own best interest, and to their own disgrace as intelligent freemen, we think all who have given the subject a serious thought will admit. There are certain measures of public policy which are advocated by the parties to which we may severally belong, which we would wish to see predominant; but we think that all parties should hesitate in passing any measure, however much present advantage it may promise the party advocating it—which destroys an inalienable right, and which cannot bear the scrutiny and free discussion of the people--if it violates the first principles of our government, however desirable, or plausible to party views, such an act should never be passed; as the gaining of any undue advantages to any party, or to any company of exclusive privileges is only at the expense of the rights of man.

The Monopoly.

There appears to be in the minds of many persons a misaprehension or wilful misunderstanding of this question. They appear to think the Monopoly can do no wrong; that having got a Charter from the State of New Jersey for the exclusive right of way across the State that they may now do as they please, that all other rights are of minor importance and cannot be brought in contact or competition with this ail powerful corporation, which now defies the power which created it.

In the first place we contend that the act granting this charter is unconstitutional, as there is no power, but direct the contrary, to grant an exclusive privilege, as that destroys an inalienable right; which guarantees to all equal rights; upon this ground alone if there were no other we contend it is null and void. But in the second place were the first not all sufficient, this Charter contains express conditions as to the amount to be charged upon freight and passengers, which it is alleged, and which is notoriously true to all persons who have freighted or paid fare over the road have been violated. Is this not sufficient, or shall this violation of the express conditions upon which the Charter was obtained, and this abuse of the peoples rights be suffered by their silent acquiesence to grow into a confirmed right? Doubtless this would suit the Monopoly managers, but are the people prepared to thus tamely submit to the encroachments of a power claiming such enormous priveleges, and which is already too strong for the laws, when they cannot be prevented their violation? If they have thus wantonly and in express contempt of the peoples petitions and remonstrances violated the contract on their part, we can see no violation of the faith of the State in annuling the monopoly clause of the charter, or that clause of the charter which gives them the exclusive right of way: repeal this clause and grant a charter to a competitor, and competition will soon do away with all cause of complaint, and the people will then enjoy what they should never have suffered themselves to be deprived of, equal rights.

☞ The Newark Daily Advertiser and a few kindred prints are endeavoring to evade the question now before the people by a false issue—by endeavoring to prove that the Democrats were the authors of the present unjust monopoly. Now this reminds us of the boy who stole the water melons, seeing the owner coming towards him he cried out, "I did not steal your water melons sir"—the owner although not before aware of the loss wanted no better evidence of who was the thief. The efforts the Daily is making to evade this question is sufficient evidence to convince the people that if not the author, it is nevertheless equally guilty and deserves the same punishment, as being the receiver and upholder of the stolen goods.

☞ The attention of the Ladies of Plainfield and vicinity is requested to the advertisement of Mrs. S. Macknet, to be found in another column. Mrs, M. opens this day a very extensive assortment of Fashionable Millinery, well worthy the attention and inspection of those wishing to purchase. Consisting of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edging, together with a large assortment of Fancy dress Caps &c. &c. Give her a call at 332 Broad St. Newark opposite the first Presbyterian Church.

☞ The Cout of Errors at Trenton will this week, we believe, give a decision on the celebrated suit against the Rail Road Company for taking illegal toll. We doubt not they will confirm the decision of the Supreme Court which was unanimous against the Company; if so, we trust the Legislature will abolish their boasted "right of way," that free competition may accommodate the people.

DESERET.—A new State by this name situated in the centre of the plains between California and Missouri, will apply at the next session of Congress for admission into the Union, having made all necessary preparation. The people though professing the Mormon faith have adopted in their Constitution free toleration to all religous opinions, which convinces us they have been much misrepresented.

Cheap handbills printed at this office.

Com. Stockton in his address charges that there is a spirit abroad among the people of New Jersey to repudiate the existing contract between the joint companies and the State. He reminds the people of the inviolability of contracts, as if they had been the first to violate the contract entered into between the State and the Incorporated Companies. This is putting the saddle on the wrong horse entirely. The people have not failed in any respect to fulfill the requirements to the companies: the repudiation has been on the part of the Companies, in their refusal to carry out and faithfully fulfil the conditions of their Charter. Falsehood and deception is the natural resort of those who have so long governed the State, nnder a system of bribery and corruption. When men desire to rule their fellow men in an easy way, they prefer to do do so by means of incorporations. We never knew of an incorporated company that did not extend its powers and influences far beyond the intention of its creators, and that did not play the sycophant when it was weak and the tyrant when it was strong. Soulless and reckless, armed with peculiar authority, and supported by legal fictions, it corrupts its own circle first, and then the community that surround it. Like the Leprosy, it spreads from the heart to the extremities of the body, until they finally become a blotch and a pollution upon the body politic. Associations without the power of the State at their command, are beneficial and seldom injure their neighbors; they being too weak to defy public opinion, and too poor to purchase it; but this is not the case with our assocated Railroad Monopolies, and so long as they are permitted to go on and usurp power, the people will remain in a comparitive state of vassalage. We would as soon have the right of suffrage repealed as to have their legal existence acknowledged by the State, after the many repeated and flagrant violations of their Charter. Their vast powers have been continually exerted to defeat the acknowledgement of all general principles in the administration of our State government. hence we have no general banking law; no general Rail Road law; no general incorporation law, no homestead exemption or extension law; no organized system of education; or scarcely a single principle acknowledge as a basis for legislation and good government of our State. Our statute book for the most part is a mere record of restrictions, pains and penalties. Our Rail Road masters have feared the acknowledgement of any leading or humane principles of government, in New Jersey, for fear of being disturbed in the enjoyment of their vested powers. Their studied policy has been to keep the people ignorant of ther rights, to keep them enslaved and poor, and to make them perpetually subservient and obedient to the Rail Road incorporations. The time has now come for putting an end to their legal existence.—New Jersey Herald.

At the Anti-Monopoly. Convention for this County held at Orange on Saturday—David Felt, presiding—all but five townships represented, an Address and Resolutions in opposition to the Railroad Monopoly was adopted, and the following ticket placed in nomination:

FOR ASSEMBLY:

D. W. PRICE, Newark; DAVID NAAR, Elizabeth;
W. G. LORD, do. IRA SQUIRE, Livingston;
Jno. H. MEEKER, do. DAN'L NOE, New Providence
WILLIAM M. SANFORD, Belleville.
COUNTY CLERK—WILLIAM A BALDWIN, Newark.
SURROGATE—JOHN R. WEEKS, do.
SHERIFF—JOHN KENNEDY, Belleville.
CORONERS: Elias Darby, M J Lyndo, S O Heaten.

Two thousand copies of the Address and Resolutions were ordered to be printed.

John R. Weeks declines.

Essex County Conventions.

The Democrats of Essex will hold their County Convention at Seiple's Hotel, Elizabethtown, Oct. 27.

The Whig Convention meets at the Park House Orange, on the 31st. of October.

☞ Oregon has chosen S. R. Thurston, Democrat, as a Delegate to Congress.—Goods of all kinds are scarce and consequently very high, prices are not likely to soon diminish. Flour $9 bbl., Wheat $1,-25 bush., Butter 30 cts., Wood $7 cord, Teas $1,50 lb. Dry goods and other things bear proportionate prices.

FORCIBLE CONTRAST.—The editor of the New Orleans Bulletin, in a late letter from this city, in speaking of the resources of Pennsylvania, says, nothing gives a better idea of the rapid increase of this country in all the elements of national greatness, than the facts that the present annual revenve of Pennsylvania, is equal to that of the United States during the first term of Washington's administration and that her population in the approaching censur of 1850, will be found also to equal that of the whole Union, at the adoption of the present Constitution. Moreover, it is not doubted that her present wealth is also fully equal to that of thirteen States at the same period. What would our fathers have said sixty years since, if they then had been told that at the expiration of that period, one single State of the confederacy would be as populous, as rich and as powerful as the whole of the thirteen, who had so successfully contended with the gigantic power of Great Britain?"

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Hints to "Nice Young Men."

I was prevented by illness from concluding my remarks in last weeks Gazette, as I had intended.

There are so many who marry wives that are not calculated to make them happy, that you cannot possibly be too careful whom you wed. Look around among your acquaintance, and you will find many who have wives who are a curse instead of a blessing. Here is a hard-working young man with a lazy wife; he rises early and late, and eats the bread of carefulness, but he does not prosper. How can he? As long as he lives with her, she will hold his nose to the grindstone, while she wastes the proceeds of his industry in idleness and folly. It is in vain that he endures hunger and thirst, the winter's cold and summers heat, to lay up something for a rainy day; she will consume it like a moth doth a garment.

In seasons of prosperity, and while in the enjoyment of health, the most indifferent house-wife may render her home a comparatively pleasant one. But when storms of aversity come, as come they will to all, then it is that the real character of the person will manifest itself. What signifies beauty of form, or gifts of mind, or fashionable accomplishments, if the wife is not calculated to watch at the bedside of the sick, to encourage the fainting heart, and, in a thousand other ways, prove a blessing to her companion? If she is to be a mere doll, and expects to spend here time in decorating her person or her parlor, she will be about as useful as a mantel ornament, but a thousand times more expensive. Young man! if you get a companion of this stamp, you will curse your marriage day as long as youlive.

I do not mean to say that you should not marry a beauty or a lady who is 'accomplished,' but see to it that she is calculated to make you happy in every condition in life. J. A. C.

MARRIED.

On Wednesday evening Oct. 10. by the Rev. J. G. smith, Mr. Moses Brown to Miss. Ann M. Pangborn all of Plainfield.

☞ It was the saying of a great divine based on long observation, that he had found more good in bad people, than ever he expected.

BEEF-PACKING IN CLEVELAND.—The Cleveland Herald of the 6th instant, says the number of cattle packed in Cleveland this Fall and Winter will probably reach 12,000 head, making 20,000 tierces of beef, of 304 pounds each. Nearly if not quite the the whole quantity is packed for the English market.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

EVENING SCHOOL.

☞ The Subscriber supposes one Free School and one Evening School sufficient for Plainfield, consequently will withdraw his and let Mr. M. F. Cushing have all he can get. Also thinks one church of each denomination sufficient.

W. W. DAVISON.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the country, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News—both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the state of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,

No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and tiimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortmen of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞Large sales, and small profit.☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constanly on had, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash.☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

THE LARGEST

DRY GOODS ESTABLISHMENT

IN THE STATE.

IS NOW OPEN, with the most extensive assortment in the city of Newark, of RICH CASHMERE LONG SHAWLS, SCOTCH PLAID LONG SHAWLS, with Five "Cartons" of Lyons ("best" all wool) BROCHE SQUARE SHAWLS, purchast in the Auction Room—about half of the original cost to import. They are the greatest bargains ever offered in New Jersey, with a large stock of Rich Dress Goods, Merino's, Coburg's and Parramatto's English Prints and Ginghams, Cassimers and Satinets, Flannels and Blankets.

DOMESTICS, the largest stock in New Jersey, selling at New York Wholesale prices, by the Bale, Piece or Yard, as we received them direct from the manufactory and the only agents for the State, of New Jersey at the "BROADWAY BRANCH."

N. B. Auction Goods, opening daily, a large lot of Drapery's from auction this morning, with many other styles of Goods, very cheap, at

BASSETTS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad st.
55] Newark.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of!

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N.B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifies. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey.☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50.☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings,

of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞lowest rate.☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

☞ Published by an act of Congress, in the paper having the Largest circulation.☜

LIST OF LETTERS

REMAINING in the Post Office in Plainfield, Oct. 1st 1849.

Persons calling for letters, in the following list will please say they are advertised, as they are kept separate from others.

A	Little Miss Abbey C
Akin J H	M
Arrowsmith Mary E	McClearn Mrs And.
Armstrong Margaret	Manning Randolph
Atridge Isaac	Madden Henry G
Allin Miss Frances	Mahon Baetty
B	Martin Sarah Eliz.
Brister Miss Mary	Manning Isaac
Bradbury Mrs W B	Moore Wm
Barton Charles	P
Beland Colin	Powell Wm
Brocaw David	R
Bishop Mrs Jowana	Reoley Miss Ann 2
C	Reamer Margaret
Clark George B	Reamer Wm
Crabtree W Esq	Runyon John
Cornwell Hannah E	Rowan Thomas
Clinton Miss Ellen	Rino Wm
Comboy Rose	Reider Daniel 2
D	Randolph Christian
Dunn Theodore A 2	S
Dumon Martin	Skoswell Jacob V.
Drake Randolph 3	Smith Capt Benj.
Dare Miss Rebecca	Schmit Nicholas M
F	Simpson Mrs Harriet
Flenn John	Suydam Cornelius
Ferris Ewin R	T
Flatt R	Totten David
G	Tingly Joseph
Gray Robert	Turner Wm
Garratt Mr	Tamarind Catharine
H	U
Halken Abm	Underhill Henry S
Hand Mrs Wm	V
Hatfield Mrs A E	Varity Honour
Hillyer Rachel	Vail Thomas
Hand Wm	Vail Duncan P Esq
Henry Sylvester	Vail A B
J	Vanvaul Renburg S
Jones Mrs	W
Jurish Philip F	Williamson Piatt
L	Wilson J
Laing Able	White Patrick
Lee Frazee

LEWIS CRAIG, P. M

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

He invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attention to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuahce of the same.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.—Give us a call. ☜ [54.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c	1,50 to 3,00
Black & Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not. SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

For Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of wich is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

AGENS & CO.

No. 244 Broad st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal. [80.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.
WILLIAM M. DRAKE, Agent at Plainfield.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat$1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys, Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

☞ As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

☞ All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Window blinds sawed at 12 1-2 cents per hundred, or the stuff found and sawed at 4 shillings per hundred.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.

Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also, a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkable low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin stile $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense. J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furnitur, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye: or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
" " Thresher	$28
" Separator and fixtures,	$7
" Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

Advertise.

If you have an article to sell or one to purchase, the most economical and public notice you can give is to advertise in the Gazette.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1849. NO. 45.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office---in Front st. opposite the Rail-Road Hotel

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

Keeps constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of

NOTE & LETTER PAPER, Copy, Blank and Memorandum books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Pen-Knives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA,

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pills, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

☞ ECONOMY.—How can persons expect to succeed in business without advertising? they may have the most desirable goods at the cheapest possible prices, but without making their names known and where they may be found, it is impossible they can succeed: 'a word to the wise &c.'

THE CAPTIVE.

BY W. GILMORE SIMMS.

The Captive couch'd in his dungeon,
On the floor the sunbeam lay;
He crept the length of his fetter,
But the sunbeam flitted away·
"Ah! thus hath the cruel fortune
Still mock'd me," the Captive said;
"She came with her sunshine smiling,
But ere I could clasp her, fled."

The Captive slept in his dungeon,
And a vision of visions spell'd
The sense of sleeping sorrow,
The fairest he ever beheld;
A maid at the door stood smiling,
And she said--"Come hither to me;"
From his wrist his fetters crumbled,
And his soul was free.

But with dawn the maiden vanish'd,
And lo! by the Captive stood,
The form of the savage headsman,
With his axe still dripping blood.
"Ah! now, indeed," said the Captive,
"The sense of the dream I see;
The maid was the angel of Mercy,
And 'tis Mercy that sets me free."

A Fight at Billards.

BY T'OTHER ONE.

I respectfully dedicate the subjoined reminiscence to the junior editor of the Montgomery Flag and Advertiser. It burst in upon my memory the other morning, while reading a pungent political article whch emanated, as I suppose, from his pen.

During the exciting presidential campaign of 1844, there were published in a thriving village in this state two political papers, which (as 'twould not be proper to give the real names) We will call them the Star and the Gazette. The Star was a democratic sheet, and of course battled enthusiastically for Mr. Polk.

The Gazette, on the other hand, was thoroughly whig, and no more, at the period to which we refer, doubted the election of Henry Clay, than it did the shining of the sun, or any other 'fixed' physical fact.

These two papers were edited by gentlemen of about the same age, and of not dissimilar temperaments. In fact, they had not strong scoial proclivities, and were very good friends, nine-tenths of the time; there being only an occasional interruption of good feelings, when something rather too 'spicy' appeared in the columns of one paper or the other. These disagreeable things, however, became more frequent as the political battle waxed hotter; but even then, at the end of every week, there was a general adjustment of all personal matters; the boys 'Pickwicked,' and—shall I tell it?—generally got gloriously fuddled together. They both, I believe, do better now, but then—ah! the headaches.

One Saturday afternoon, at the end of a particularly spicy week between the papers—the Star having spoken of the 'damask cheek' of its neighbor, and the Gazette having retorted upon the "Bardolphian nose' of the Star's editor—the two gentlemen were seen to enter an establishment where 'sugar and water with the privilege' might be obtained in one room, and a game of billiards played in another. They had, perchance, an explanation, in which mutual deblarations of Pickwick had been made. At any rate, they went in lovingly, arm in arm.

Walking up to the bar, 'Wnat shall it be!' asked Star.

'Cocktails,' said Gazette; and cocktails it was.

'Here,' said Star, touching the rim of his companion's glass with the bottom of his own; 'here is to the freedom of the press, whether the same advocate the claims of the exalted patriot James K. Polk, or takes ground for the embodiment of all that is—'

'Hold on there! You'll be on my toes directly,' exclaimed the Gazette; 'drink simply to the freedom of the press--though one would think it was sufficiently a free thing already, seeing how many take the papers without paying for them!'

'The freedom of the press, then!'

'The freedom of the press!'

Having deposited their cocktails, our worthies agreed to agame of billiards, and passing into the back room, closed and locked the glass door beeind them, and adjusted the curtain so as to conceal themselves as much as possible. About the time they had done this, Jim Wilkins, a strong whig and one of the Gazette's subscribers, came in to take a stirrup cup. Jim was already quite groggy.

'I'll meet you on fair terms, but you shan't have all the advantage,' said Gazette, in a loud, excited tone.

'Well, let's toss up for choice of ball,' rejoined Star, petulantly, 'one of us must have the broken one.'

'What's that?' asked Wilkins, in the bar-rooom pricking up his ears; 'aint that them eddyturs?'

'It's no business of yours,' replied the barkeeper to Jim, 'they're only settling some private business.'

'It is my business,' said Jim, eagerly, and he pressed hurriedly to the door, to hear more distinctly—'it is my business! Go it, Gazette! I'm wi' ye! Balls or no balls! Sticks or knives! Fight him enny way he wants to!'

Clack-lack went the billiard balls.

'Then I took you, you red-mouthed locofoco!' exclaimed Gazette, triumphantly.

'Stand up to him, my little coon! shouted Jim—'them's the licks! Hooraw for Henry Clay of Kentucky! Open this door, or I'll bust it down! Fair play!'

'If you'll ever leave me a cannon,' said Star, with feeling, 'I'll give you the devil.'

'Cannons or pocket-pistols! Fight him enny way he wants to, my crowin' Claybird!' roared Jim, almost phrenzied—'hoop-a-diddle--dee!

'Keep still, you jackass!' said the barkeeper; 'they don't want your interference.'

'You'll run out your string before I get another lick,' said Star.

'I'll be hanged if he ever runs,' shouted the excited Wilkins—'ef he does, I'll cut his throat myself. Stand up, my little ringtail, 'tell I git in to you.' Jim violently shoved the door, and the barkeeper collared him; whereupon there was a considerable scuffle, Jim shouting, 'Stick to him, little one—draw your knife—hash him!'

All this while the cracking of the balls, and the frequent violent exclamations of the players, confirmed Wilkins' illusion that a fight, growing out of politics, was going on. But he could not release himself from the grasp that held him.

At length Gazette exclaimed—

'I give in—whipped!—let's liquor!'

The whole expression of Jim's countenance changed; his struglings ceased.

'What's that?' he asked, in a low, doubting tone.

'Your man's whipped,' was the reply of the bar-keeper, to humor the joke.

Mr. Wilkins walked away from the door, and took a position in the middle of the room with folded arms. Presently the editors came out, and instantly decanters and glasses were in requisition.

As they were about to drink, Wilkins stepped up, and, attracting the attention of Gazette—

'Stop Jim Wilkins' paper,' said he.

'Very good,' was the reply.

Jim then walked to the door, and then walked back.

'Stop my paper—you understand?

'Certainly. But you seem excited. what's to pay?'

'It's well enough,' returned Jim, white with rage and indignation--'it's well enough after all's said and done, for you to ax me what's to pay. But I can tell you. In the fust and foremost place, you let that feller (pointing to Star) whip you like a sack! In the second place, you hollered like a dog; and then you treated to git friends again! I say, stop my paper! I won't read arter no sich a cowardly, co-'count, sow-pig of an eddytur!' And Jim took himself off in high dudgeon.

'The freedom of the press for ever!' shouted the Star.

'For ever!' responded Gazette.

And the frolic the boys had that Saturday night, was a regular old-fashioned affair. For a month afterwards, you might have squeezed brandy out of the pores of either, as you do the juice out of the peel of a fresh orange.—Chambers Ala. Tribune.

A Plot and Revenge.

M. P., an old soldier of stern and unyielding disposition, decided to marry his son to the daughter of a fellow companion in arms. The young man had conceived other projects, and contracted another engagement. But, through excessive timidity, poor Arthur did not dare openly to resist the commands of his father, whose first words had been so brutally overwhelming, that he passed all the time between the engagement and the wedding, doing nothing but sighing deeply. Mlle. Emma L. took his melancholy for classic symptoms of love, and began to adore him more than ever.—On the morning of the wedding, they repaired to the house of the Magistrate; Arthur was sad, reserved, and seemed to have formed some desperate resolution. Emma was in raptures.

Monsieur, the Mayor of C——, the preliminaries being over, addressed to the bridegroom the customary question:

'Arthur P., yo you consent to take Emma L. for your wife?'

Arthur slowly raised his head, and in a voice choked by emotion, but full and resolute, replied:

'No!'

General excitement, scandal, and scenes of confusion prevailed. They separated in disorder, the indignant parents demanded an explanation from M. P., the father, who seemed struck with apoplexy. As for Arthur, he escaped, and left for Paris.

Some days after, a young lady ascended the stairs of a furnished hotel, Rue Saint Hanore. She had enquired of the porter for M. Arthur P., who had arrived the evening previous. It was Emma, come to Paris with her father and M. P., in search of her affianced who had shamefully insulted her; but she was alone now. She rapped at the door of No. 17, and entered without waiting for an answer. The young man was lying down reading a newspaper. Emma walked directly to the bed, and drawing from under her shawl an enormous horse pistol, which, doubtless, she had stolen from her father.

'Sir,' said she, to Arthur, her eyes flashing fire, 'you have insulted me; I demand satisfaction; that satisfaction I exact, pistol in hand. Let us return to the Mayor of C——, both in wedding attire; he will put you the usual question; you will say 'yes;' I will say 'no.'

Emma brandished her pistol in both hands. It was an argument. But after all it was only her right, or nearly so; at least such was Arthur's opinion. He consented and left the same evening, with his father, who gnashed his teeth all the way. They appeared again before the Mayor—the same Magistrate. Arthur boldly answer-'yes,' and prepared his countenance, always bashful enough, in order to hear the reply of his betrothed.

The Mayor continued, Emma L., do you consent?' Emma answered 'Yes,' in the most natural tone imaginable.

M. P., the father, is delighted, and feels assured that a union commenced under such auspices will end like a fairy tale!—Literary American.

Taxation for Free Schools.

The people of Indiana have declared in favor of taxation for the benefit of Common Schools. The Amount of tax is to be ten cents on each hundred dollars' worth of real and personal property. The property of the State being $140,000,000, the tax will be, next year $140,000. In addition to this are the profits of the bank stock; the surplus revenues, and Saline funds; and three dollars on every policy of insurance on property within the State, by companies not chartered by the State.—The scources will yield about $200,000, which added to the sum derived from taxation, will make 340,000. To this are to be added all fines for violations of the penal laws, forfeited recognizances, and the interests of monies derived from the sale of school lands, which will swell the entire yearly fund for Free School purposes, to $500,000. This is a magnificent sum.

Talking with Fingers.

The female operatives in some of the mills 'down east,' being prevented by the unceasieg noise and clatter of the machinery, from indulging in the indispensible amusements of the gentler sex, have resorted to a new mode of telegraphing. Fingers have been substituted for tongues, and through the instrumentality of the alphabet of signs, invented for the use of the deaf and dumb, while away their 'ten hours' with discussions upon matters and things in general The new mode has a great advantage over the old, since the whole party can talk at once without any confusion, a hundred feet being as little interruption to these communications as five. This language of signs is well worth acquiring, as the facilites which it affords are often valuable, especially in the sick room. A distinguished philanthropist in this State, has become so habituated from the force of circumstances to the use of this mode of interchanging thought, that its superiority over the oral system is a theme which he never wearies with discussing. Upon his showing, the tongue is not only an unruly, but very nearly a useless member.—New Haven Palladium.

A Hard Lot.

A scotch gentleman recently sold 700 shares of the United States Bank, at $2,50 per share the same having been purchased at $127 cash in 1836. His loss was $68,550, besides eight years interest.

NATIONAL DEBT.—An Englishman observed a stone roll down a stair-case. It bumped on every stair till it came to the bottom; there, of course, it rested. 'That stone,' said he, 'resembles the national debt of my country: it has bumped on every grade of the community, but its weight rests on the lowest.'

We have a number of subscribers who always pay for the 'Casket' in advance. They have never had a sick day in their lives—never had any corns or toothache—their potatoes never rot—the wevil never eats their wheat—the frost never kills their buckwheat—their babies never cry in the night—and their wives never scold—Reader, have you paid the printer in advance?—Mt. Holly Casket.

Just Missed It.—'Bob,' said a tormenting friend to a bachelor acquaintance, 'why don't you get married?'

'Well, I don't know; I came very near it once, Just missed it.'

'You did? Let's hear it.'

'Why, I asked a girl if I should see her home from a party one evening, and she said No! If she'd said yes, I think I should have courted and married her. That's the nearest I ever came to getting married.'

His friend was satisfied.

ON A STRIKE.—The Knickerbocker says: 'One of our tailors was on 'a strike' yesterday. He struck his wife, then upset his eldest boy into the slop-pail, and finally threw all the tea things out of the third story window.'

More money is expended by the city of Boston for education, than by the English government for the education of its seventeen million of people.

'Bob, is that dog a hunter? 'he's a half-hunter and half-setter; he hunts bones half the time, and sets by the stove when he's satisfiied.'

Dick says about the prettiest thing to behold is an accomplished woman, after she has upset and broken her lamp, gathering up the fragments and wiping up the oil.

A nervis and timid dandy having at length screwed up his courage to submit to a bleading, and having undergone the operation without fainting, said, whilst looking at the blood' 'Docter, I think you are a great butcher.' 'Ay, 'said the docter, 'and I have stuck a calf.'

My dear,' said a printer to his lady-love 'permit me 2 ~ u;' when the termagant immediately made, a——at him, and planted her ☞ between his iis, which put his head into PI. 'This conduct,' said the gallant typo, looking †† at her, 'is without a ‖.'

☞ The Philadelphia Inquirer states that in Berks County, Pensylvania, about six thousand gallons of wine are made per annum. In Hamilton County, Ohio, there are two thousand acres of vineyard lands.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, October 25, 1849.

ELECTION—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6.
POLL OPENED ONE DAY, FROM 8 O'CLOCK A. M. TO 7 O'CLOCK P. M.

All citizens are entitled to vote on a year's residence in the State, and five months in the County.

Essex County Conventions.

The Democrats of Essex will hold their County Convention at Seiple's Hotel, Elizabethtown, Oct. 27.

The Whig Convention meets at the Park House Orange, on the 31st. of Oct.

The 6th of November is close at hand—the day that is to decide whether Jerseymen shall or shall not be free. Reader, are you a Jerseyman, and do you feel the importance of a freeman's privilege? If so, we trust you have made up your mind to cast your vote—that inalienable and inestimable right, secured to you by your forefathers on the battle-fields of Trenton and Monmouth—for men who will guard this right as sacred to the manes of those who fell in the cause of freedom—and who will seek the good of the state, of their country alone. It is to such men alone that you should trust the guardianship of your rights—to men who have souls above the tricks of the mere partisan politician. Cast a look around, if not enough, there are many such men, but they are not generally found among the most noisy but among the modest and retiring. Select such men, and the cause of freedom will be found progressing, not retrograding, neither shall we again be cheated out of our birthright. Do not be gulled by pretensions, but let your own best judgment on a proper examination of the qualifications of the several persons who may be presented for your suffrage, decide; from a judgment so made up let no sophistry dissuade you.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

County Offices.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Many of your readers are probably aware that several of the most desirable offices in this County are to be filled on the 6th of next month.—A Clerk and Surrogate will then be elected for five years. Newark and Elizabeth have for a long while furnished these officers and taken at the same time a goodly share of all other appointments. In view of this fact it seems to me eminently proper that for the next term, one or both should be selected from among the other townships. The citizens of Plainfield have an interest in this mattter. Our fellow townsman Cornelius Boice Esq. has been named in other parts of the county for Surrogate. That he is every way qualified to discharge the duties of the station and highly deserving so distinguishing a mark of public confidence must be the conviction of all who know him. The Newark Daily Mercury thus speaks of him in connection with the office referred to.

"Cornelius Boice is a lawyer of good standing in his profession and located in the present township of Plainfield, a flourishing village in the Southern extremity of the County. His residence at a distance of 17 miles from the county town has rendered him less known in this vicinity than his competitors; but he bears at home and abroad a character void of reproach, and a personal integrity that is unquestioned. From the present organization of parties he has been known as a firm consistent Whig aiming to sustain the supremacy of that party, both in its general and State policy. Unpretending in his deportment, with a sound, equitable mind, he would perform its responsible duties in a manner honorable to himself and advantageous to the public."

☞ A spirited revival is now progressing in the Methodist Church, under that zealous pastor, the Rev. Jas. O. Rogers. A large number have been added to the church during the past two weeks.—Salem Sunbeam.

CHARLESTON, S. C. Oct 18.

The deaths from the strangers' fever, during the past week, were 21, it being a slight increase on the previous week.

The Vienna Lloyd's Journal states that 500 Hungarian refugees are lodged on a vast plain at Widdin, entirely surrounded by Turkish troops KOSSUTH, BEM, and the other chiefs, were lodged in High Fortress.

MAINE ELECTIONS STATISTIC.—We have in type complete returns of votes for governor from all the towns and plantations in the State, showing the election of Dr. Hubbard by a majority of 1254 over all. The House will stand 88 Democrats to 63 opposition—relatively 6 better than last year.—Augusta Age.

[Written for the Plainfield Gazette.]

There is something wrong—perhaps some calamity has occurred—at the mansion of my aristocratic neighbor. Horsemen leave the door at break-neck speed, as though life or death hung on their performing their errand in the shortest possible space of time. The very fact that the park gate is left open after they pass out, is conclusive evidence that some untoward event has occurred, for never before do the neighbors remember to have seen the premises exposed to the intrusion of the cattle from the wayside.

A minute or two more and a number of carriages of different descriptions are driven from the stables in the rear, and after halting a moment at the mansion to receive orders, the drivers urge their horses forward so rapidly that the lookers-on hold their breath for fear that the vehicles will be dashed to pieces. One is at first surprised at the rapidity with which every order is executed; there is some great reason doubtless, for the haste–but there is no confusion. The numerous employees attached to the estate all move with the regularity of machinery, and it has required but a very few moments to despatch a dozen messengers in different directions.

In a very brief time the horseman who first left the mansion has performed his duty, and returns almost as swiftly as he went forth. The noble-looking horse is covered with foam, and his exhausted condition is proof of the fearful speed at which he has borne his rider.

—Ah, it must be that disease has seized on some member of the great man's family, for here comes the physician at a rate which none but a well-paid physician can travel. He has little regard for the comfort of his horse, which looks as though he had been attached to that sulky since morning. The doctor would not be unkind to his beast if he could well help it, but when the rich patron calls it will not do to stand upon trifles.

Yes, some one must be serioasly ill, for see with what anxiety the physician is looked for by the door-keeper! At length he gains the portico of the mansion, and throwing the reins to an attendant, leaves the almost breathless horse to be taken caree of, while his master is received by the house-keeper; who, with her finger on her lips as a token of noiseless silence, leads the way to the bedside of the sufferer.

—The other messengers begin to return. Some of them appear to have been sent after friends of the family, for this is the carriage of one who has been an intimate acquaintance for a long period. "The rich have many friends," it is said, and it appears to be true in the present instance. Look at the large number of carriages which roll up the gravelled road, and observe the number of persons who enquire if their services are desired.

There can be no impropiety in our walking over, and enquiring of the well-fed servant in attendance at the park gate, What is the matter? "Master——is dangerously ill, and we are afraid he will not recover," is the answer. When you learn that Master —— is the infant heir of one of the wealthiest families in the state, you will no longer be surprised at the anxiety manifested for his welfare. His mother' it is true, has heretofore considered it unlady-like to perform a mothers part by him, and he has been left in the care of a hired nurse by night and day from his earliest moments; but now she is overwhelmed with sorrow at the sufferings of her only child. For forty-eight hours the physician's skill is exerted to save, but all in vain! In vain is Heaven's blessing invoked on the efforts of the medical men; the mother's love and the father's anxiety avail not to save. Infinite Wisdom has decided that the child shall be transplanted to the garden of the skies. Here, the roses fled from its cheeks, its sparkling eye grew dim, its notes of mirth are hushed in death; there, thank God! it will be free from the blight of disease, and will dwell in immortal youth forever.

—The infant's funeral is attended by a large number of the wealthy and aristocratic families of the county. There are many mourners, for when did the rich and mighty perish but hundreds swelled the funeral train? As the procession moved past my dwelling, the thought would arise in my mind, Suppose this family had suddenly been deprived of their riches ten days ago, how many of these elegent carriages would have followed the infant to his last resting-place?

—One of these days, if my life is spared, I may have something to say about the death and burial of one of the children of poverty.

A. J.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN NOT LOST.

Interesting and probably Highly Important News from Baffin's Bay.

From the New London Chroniele, 18th.

Capt. Chapel, of the bark McLellan, of this port, from Davis's Straits, whose arrival we announced yesterday morning furnishes information which will at least be read with interest in the United States, and indeed in every part of the world.

About the 1st of August while the McLellan laid in Ponds Bay, lat. 74, lon. 72, the natives of the coast came on board the Chieftain, an English whaleman, and gave information by signs that two large ships were then lying in Prince Regent's Inlet, and had been there fast in the ice for four seasons; and being asked with regard to those on board, whether they were dead or alive they replied in the the same way that the crews were not 'asleep,' (that is, not dead,) but were all well.—This information was considered by the Englishman and by Capt. Chapel, as indicating that the ships of Sir John Franklin were clearly meant.

The Englishman landed at Cape Hay, Some distance from Pond's Bay a quantity of coal and provisions with which his ship was furnished by the British Government for the use of the long missing ships, if they should chance to come there, as they would be obliged to do on their return to England. This is certainly the latest news from that quarter, and there is a possibility, perhaps a probability, that the commander of the unfortunate expedition and his crews are still alive. Heaven send that it may be so!

The McLellan and her gallant officers and crew have reached home almost by miracle—at any rate have done so under circumstances that entitle them to the highest credit.

On the 12th of June the bark got 'nipped' in the ice, and only escaped destruction by the almost superhuman exertions and good conduct of those who were in charge of her.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

The Breach with Russia.

By far the most important political news by this arrival is the possible and even probable rupture of Russia and Austria with Turkey. It forms the chief topic of discussion in the English and French journals as well as among all classes, and in its paramount importance, the Roman difficulty as well as all other matters of national importance, appears to have been almost wholly lost sight of. The most recent accounts from Constantinople state that the Emperor of Russia has made a formal demand, through a special envoy to the Porte, for the surrender of Kossuth, Bem, and other patriots who played a prominent part in the late Hungarian struggle, who have sought refuge at Widda, on the Danube, in the territories of the Sultan. The Turkish Government, with a manliness which cannot be too highly commended, refused to be bullied into a compromise of its independence, and Prince Radzivil, after having ineffectively endeavored to urge the Sultan into a compliance with his demands, has taken an abrupt departure from Constantinople, and Count Titoff, the Russian Minister, has closed all diplomatic relations with the Porte. England and France, through their respective representatives, have prevailed with the Sultan in keeping him firm to his first resuloution. Already in England and France cabinet councils have been held to consider these grave circumstances.—Not the slightest doubt can be entertained of the result should Russia persist in demanding the surrender of these devoted men, a European war is thought to be inevitable.

The Difficulty with France.

It will be seen that our telegraph despatch from London, in another column, contains the gratifying intelligence that the French government have disavowed the action of M. Poussin in his correspondence with Mr. Secretary Clayton, and that M. Bois Le Compt, the minister to Turin, has been appointed to succeed him at Washington. We have no doubt that, when Mons. Bois Le Compt arrives, all misunderstandings between the two Governments will be speedily and amicably settled. The trifling matter in dispute can be easily arranged to the satisfaction of the French Government.—Tribune.

The Journal des Debats of Thursday, Oct. 4th, says: We are glad to learn that England and France are most cordially united in their determination to support their Ambassadors in the advice given by them to the Porte, respecting the extradition of the Hungarian refugees, and a note has been drawn up.

From the Journal of Commerce.

Mr. Editor:—If the camden and Amboy R. R. Company had the right to charge $4 for passengers between New York and Philadelphia, why have they lowered their price to $3? If they had the right to charge 4 1-2 cents a mile, for way passengers, why have they 1educed the rate to 2 1-2 cents the mile? If they had the right to charge 65 cents for 100lbs. freight between New York and Philadelphia, why do they now charge but 32 cents? Will Mr. Stockton please answer these simple questions, and oblige

FREIGHTERS AND TRAVELERS.

The Mormon City.

In the Auburn Daily Advertiser of Wednesday we find a letter from an adventurer who had reached the Mormon city of the salt Lake, on his way to California, and writes as follows of that newly found community:

The settlement at the point from which I am now writing was commenced in the month of July, 1847, the second anniversary of which will be celebrated by them on the 24th of the present month. The valley in which the city is located on the east side of the lake, and is about twenty-five miles wide and completely shut in by high mountains, the Utah and the Bear River ranges being the principal. From the spot where I am now writing I can see the tops of them reaching almost to the clouds, covered with perpetual snow.—The city contains about 9,000 inhabitants, and is laid out in squares, the streets running at right angels with each other. These squares are fenced in by one fence running around the whole; the square are divided into wards, and the wards in blocks into lots—each lot contains one acre and one-fourth of land.

The possession of these was given by drawing lots, in this way: tickets were got up with the numbers on them, and put into a hat together, and then drawn out, each man taking the lot bearing the number of his ticket. The houses are built of adobes or sun-burnt brick; they are small but present a neat and cleanly appearance. The entrance to the valley is over a very rough and mountainous road, and the city bursts suddenly upon the view as you emerge from a canon or gorge in the mountains, through which the road runs, and at the foot of which the city is situated. The Lake, which is a great curiosity, is 21 miles from the city; the water is a great deal salter than sea-water, and is so buoyant that a man can float on it without any difficulty whatever. Salt is so plentiful about the shore that it is shoveled by wagon loads like sand, and drawn to the city. It is coarse and clear, and is very clean. Fine salt is obtained by boiling springs a few miles from here; also surphur and alkali springs, from which good saleratus is obtained.

The country is settled by farmers for forty miles north and south. They are now engaged in harvesting their wheat, which is yielding an abudant crop. They are very strict in enforcing their penalties—punishing each crime according to its enormity—making the thief return four-fold, and give so much into the public treasury by working on the roads. The Government is composed of a High Council, the President being the head; they enact laws try offenders, and make suggestion for the good of the community, and all such laws and suggestions are declared from the pulpit every Sunday. Their money consists of treasury notes, which are issued for coin and gold dust placed on deposit. Arrangements are now made for coining this dust and establishing a currency of their own. Large quantities of gold dust have been brought into the settlement by discharged soldiers, and those who have gone from there for the purpose of digging, so that all the reports we heard there are confirmed here by those who have been and returned loaded with gold.

The public improvements are carried on by a fund which is raised by every man giving one-tenth of his yearly earnings for that purporse. They are building a council-house of stone—a large, substantial edifice. In that way, they also intend to build a temple soon. They are expending large sums on the roads over the mountains, and are projecting a new road across the desert at the south of the lake to California. They are an industrious hospitable people, and have the means within themselves to become rich and powerful.

A Platform for New Jersey.

Give to the people a General Railroad Law, so that all who choose to construct railroads can do so.

Give the people a General Banking Law—that all who desire to issue bank bills as a circulating medium, may do so, by pledging ample security with the State authorities for their full redemption in case the persons or banks should fail to redeem them, thus securing the innocent bill holder from any loss.

Give to the people a General Insurance Law, for the protection of life and Property so that all who choose to engage in the business can do so, by furnishing security in the same manner as proposed in regard to the banking law,

Give to the people an Equal System of Taxation, so that every man pays for the support of government according to his means—tax bonds and mortgages.

Give to the people a Genearl System of Free Schools and appropriate money enough to support them, so that every child in the State may be equally benefited.

Give to the people a Law making Ten Hours a Day's Labor, so that the body may have time to recruit its physical powers, and the mind be prepared for the intellectual duties and enjoyments of life.

Abolish the Freehold Qualification—let men be elected to the office—not their half acre of bog swamp, or their Jackasses.—Burlington County Casket.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.

An address against Annexation has been published to-day, with six hundred signatures attached. A few of the signers are respectable names. The rest are unknown or dependent on the Government.

SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE,

THE ACKNOWLEDGED BLACKWOOD OF AMERICA.

An impartial press has awarded to Sartain the credit of publishing the best Magazine in America. Their decision is founded upon the established fact, that he publishes better and more varied embellishmens than any of his rivals and that pays for original contributions more than all his competitors combined, and hence has secured authors of the highest repute in America and Europe.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS
TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COMING VOLUME
JANUARY, 1850.

The publishers of SARTAIN'S MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE AND ART, announce to the reading public, that whilst their Magazine for 1849 is acknowledged to be superior in every respect to any other published in this country, they have made arrangements whereby the Magazine for the next year will EXCEL ALL ITS FORMER ISSUES.

The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will remain under the control of its present able Editors.

Prof. JOHN S. HART, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. CAROLINE M. KIRKLAND, of New York, who, besides articles from their own pens every month, have secured contributions from the

BEST AUTHORS
In Europe and America.

These contributions, including some of the most brilliant Magazine articles any where to be found, are entirely original, being WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR OUR MAGAZINE, and not selected from other publications.

If we cannot attract distinguished names to our list of contributors by the liberality of our prices, or the respectability of our Magazine, we assuredly shall not try to gain the appearance of it, by taking extracts from authors of great name, and so mixing them up in our table of contents, that they shall seem to be original. Among the many distinguished names in our list of contributors, may be mentioned the following,

MANY OF WHOM
WRITE FOR NO OTHER PERIODICAL.

Frederika Bremer, of Sweden, William Howitt, of England, Mary Howitt, do., R. H. Horne, do., author of "A new spirit of the Age," "Orion," &c., Silverpen, the popular contributor to "Eliza Cook's Journal," the author of "Mary Barton," Henry W. Longfellow, Rev. George W. Bethune, D. D., N. P. Willis, Miss C. M. Sedgewick, George H. Boker, John Neal, J. Russell Lowell, Francis J Grund, Joseph R. Chandler, Rev. W. H. Furness, D. D., Mrs L. H. Sigourney, Prof. Alden, Rev. J. P. Durbin, D. D., Mrs. E. Oakes Smith, Rev. John Todd, D.D., Mrs. Francis S. Osgood, Rev. Albert Barnes, Mrs. L. M. Child, Prof. Rhoads, Mrs. Anne C. Lynch, Park Benjamin, Mrs. C. M. Butler, Henry T. Tuckerman, Miss Eliza L. Sproat, Hery William Herbert, Mrs. Joseph C. Neal, Mrs. E. F. Ellett, Edgar A. Poe, Prof. Moffat, Mrs. E. C. Kinney, Rev. Robert Davidson, D. D., "Edith May," Augustine J. Duganne, Caroline May, Richard Willis, Alfred B. Street, Charles J. Peterson, George S. Burleigh, C. H. Wiley, Charles G. Leland, Rev. Thomas Brainerd, Rev. H. Hastings Weld, Miss E. Bogart, Miss E. A. Starr, John H. Hopins, T. S. Arthur, G. G. Foster, Mrs. Mary S. Whitaker. R. H. Stoddard, Eugene Lies, Richard Grant White Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Miss Harriet Farley, Rev. S. I. Prime, D. D. Wm. D Lewis, Mrs. E. H. Swift, Mrs. Emma C. Embury, Miss Alice Carey, Francis De H. Janvier, Mrs Mary Hughs, Miss Maria J. B. Browne, Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton, Mrs. F. M. Brotherson, Miss Anne T. Wilbur, Mrs. J. L. Gray.

NO SECOND-HAND WORN-OUT PLATES
APPEAR IN THIS MAGAZINE.

Mr. SARTAIN has entire control of the PICTORIAL DEPARTMENT, and beside embellisements from his own burin, he will be assisted by some of the BEST ARTISTS OF THIS COUNTRY.

WORN-OUT LONDON STEEL ENGRAVINGS, WHICH ARE FREELY USED BY SOME PERIODICALS, will not find their way into the pages of 'SARTAIN,' under any circumstances. There would be a vast saving to the Publishers in using such plates, as they can be purchased at almost any price, from $25 down to the price of the metal. We aim to give the best, both in Literature and Art.

THE FASHIONS

Fashion Plates are of the nature of news. The lady who wishes to dress frshionably, does not ask what was worn, but what is worn. She does not want in 1849 the fashions of 1848, nor in December those of of August. Paris is the acknowledged centre of the mode, whence all fashions primarily originate. Any periodical which emplops a process of "Americanizing" them, that requires from three to six months, can only be compared to a newspaper that should persist in importing its files of foreign news by the old line of Liverpool packets, or hire a man at great "extra" expense to bring the news on foot from New Orleans, instead of using the Steamer and the Telegraph. By the method we have adopted, a cut, giving the Fashions with the minutest accuracy, can be completed in three or four days after the arrival of the steamer. To execute the same on steel, and then color it, for a large edition, requires as many months. Of this we had a striking proof during the issue for 1849, by which we gave the FASHIONS THREE OR FOUR MONTHS AHEAD OF OUR COMPETITORS! Our plan enables us also to furnish triple the number of plates, thus furnishing our readers with all the prevailing modes of Paris and London. Instead of a single plate with two figures, we often give three or four plates, with eight or ten distinct figures, each exhibiting a seperate costume.

NEW FEATURES.

We have many features and improvements entirely new in Magazine publishing, which will be introduced into the forthcoming volume. We do not design, however, to solicit support to SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE by promises. Assured of the confidence manifested in our enterprise by a liberal and discriminating public in more than tripling the original subscription list in a single year, we close our Prospectus for the New Volume, by referring the public to a few of the thousand notices of our brethren of the press, promising only that there shall be no diminution on our part, either in exertion or expense, to merit a continued and increased patronage.

TERMS: Single Copies 25 cents.

One Copy $3 per Annum, and a premium of either a portrait of the late Ex-Presidents James K. Polk, William Henry Harrison, Group of the Washington Family, General Taylor, Benjamin West or Henry Clay. Either of these Engravings is worth alone $3.

Two Copies $5 per Annum, and either of the above premiums to each subscriber.

Five Copies $10 per Annum, and an extra Magazine and one of the premiums to the agent or person getting up the Club.

Having made an arrangement with the publishers for copies of the clebrated mezzotinto Picture, "THE DATH-BED OF JOHN WESLEY," we make the following LIBERAL OFFER!

One copy of the Magazine one year, and the Wesley Print, $3, or 20 copies of the WESLEY PRINT, and Nine copies of Sartains Union Magazine for $20.

Remember, the impressions are not from a worn-out English plate, but from a new plate engraved in the highest style of the art. Those sending their money early will get proof impressions.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY!

Any new subscriber, sending us Five Dollars prior to the 1st of February 1850, shall receive in return full setts of Sartain's Magazine for 1849 and 1850, and two volumes of Campbell's Foreign Monthly Magazine, and the Washington or Taylor print, thus securing upwards of 3000 pages of literary matter, and upwards of 400 engravings for $5.

The post town sending the largest number of mail subscribers for the year 1850, prior to the 1st of April next, together with the advance payment, will be entitled, gratis, to the same number of Sartain's Magazine, for the year 1851. For the second largest list each subscriber will be entitled to one of our premium plates. Remember, these plates are of a large size, and suitable for a parlor ornament.

Persons wishing to get up a club, will be supplied with a specimen number, by writing for it, and paying the postage. TERMS INVARIABLY IN ADVANCE. Address

JOHN SARTAIN & Co., Philadelphia.

FREE SCHOOL.

MR. DAVISON'S Free School is now in operation in the Village School House. Colored Children now avail yourself of the privilege, the school is now open for your reception. He returns thanks for past favors and solicits a continuance.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortmen of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profit. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constanly on had, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

THE LARGEST

DRY GOODS ESTABLISHMENT

IN THE STATE.

IS NOW OPEN, with the most extensive assortment in the city of Newark, of RICH CASHMERE LONG SHAWLS, SCOTCH PLAID LONG SHAWLS, with Five "Cartons" of Lyons ("best" all wool) BROCHE SQUARE SHAWLS, purchast in the Auction Room—about half of the original cost to import. They are the greatest bargains ever offered in New Jersey, with a large stock of Rich Dress Goods, Merino's, Coburg's and Parramatto's English Prints and Ginghams, Cassimers and Satinets, Flannels and Blankets.

DOMESTIC'S, the largest stock in New Jersey, selling at New York Wholesale prices, by the Bale, Piece or Yard, as we received them direct from the manufactory and the only agents for the State, of New Jersey at the "BROADWAY BRANCH."

N. B. Auction Goods, opening daily, a large lot of Drapery's from auction this morning, with many other styles of Goods, very cheap, at

BASSETTS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad st.
55] Newark.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Duning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironiring, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June 6. 1849. [50.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N.B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hays Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, & OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carringe house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings,

of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

☞ We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the country, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News—both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the state of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

He invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attention to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuahce of the same.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.—Give us a call. ☜ [54.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

For Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of wich is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

AGENS & CO.

No. 244 Broad st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal. [80.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c	1,50 to 3,00
Black & Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not. SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

T. BENEDICT & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparaleled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained loses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not hazardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cents. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and riskes termed hazardous will be taken generally on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionable provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the polices of the other companies, are scrupulously excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuary of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may settled by arbitrators, at the opition of either party, Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statements of its business:

Amount of property insured -	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued - - -	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon -	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A C M Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S H Meeker.

OFFICERS:

SAMUEL H GARDNER, President.
CHARLES A SHERMAN, Secretary.
ALEX. C M PENNINGTON, Treasurer.
ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent. [54.
WILLIAM M. DRAKE, Agent at Plainfield.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House; Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. I, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat$1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

121-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys. Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

☞ As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

☞ All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Window blinds sawed at 12 1-2 cents per hundred, or the stuff found and sawed at 4 shillings per hundred.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.

Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also, a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkable low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin stile $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense. J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furnitur, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

ALLEN'S IMPROVED PORTABLE RAIL ROAD HORSE-POWER AND OVERSHOT THRASHER AND SEPARATOR.

The advantages of the horse power are —1. They occupy but a little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. 4, They are simply constructed, and not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane geering without any complex or intermediate wheels, directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pully belt runs.

The Threshers consist of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect, and control the motion of the horse by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2 In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances, such as stones, blocks, &c., drop at the end of the table and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave, whch is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of taking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single Power, can thrash 75 or 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or 5 men with a double Power, 175 to 225 bushel of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat, per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may readily be taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of single Power.	$80
' ' Thresher	$28
' Separator and fixtures,	$7
' Bands for driving, etc.	$5

The price of the Two Horse Power thresher, separator &c, complete is $145. The above are sold singly or together, as desired.

A. B. ALLEN & CO.
188 and 191 Water st., New York.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

Advertise.

If you have an article to sell or one to purchase, the most economical and public notice you can give is to advertise in the Gazette.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1849. | NO. 46.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the conntry, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News—both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the stat of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

NOBLEMEN.....[From the Tribune.

BY C. D. STUART.

The noblest men I know on Earth
Are men whose hands are brown with toil;
Who, backed by no ancestral graves,
Hew down the woods, and till the soil,
And win thereby a prouder fame
Than follows king or warrior's name.

The working men! what e'er the task,
To carve the stone, or bear the hod—
They wear upon their honest brows
The royal stamp and seal of God!—
And brighter are their drops of sweat
Than diamonds in a coronet!

God bless the noble working men,
Who rear the cities of the plain;
Who dig the mines, and build the ships,
And drive the Commerce of the main;
God bless them! for their swarthy hands
Have wrought the glory of all lands.

One of the Weddings.

A CONNUBIAL SKETCH

A few days ago, there arrived, at a hotel in Boston, a couplê from Rhode Island who came to get joined, quietly, in the bonds of matrimony. As soon as they were fairly domiciliated, the would-be bridegroom—who was a rough, but apparently honest specimen of the country Yankee—sent for the proprietor of the hotel, who quickly answered his summons.

'Say, lan'lord,' proposed the stranger, pointing to his modest dulcinea, in the corner of the parlor 'this is my young 'ooman. Naow we've cum all the way from R'ode Island, and we want to be spliced. Send for a minister, will yer? Want it dun up rite strait off.'

The landlord smiled and went out, and half an hour afterwards a licenced minister made his appearance, and the obliged host, 'with one or two waggish friends, were called in, as witness to the 'scene.'

'Naow Mr. Stiggins,' said the Yankee 'deu it up braown, and yure money's ready;' and forthwith the reverend gentlemen commenced, by directing the parties to join their hands. The Yankee stood up to his blushing lady love, like a sick kitten hugging a hot brick, seized her hand and was as much pleased as a raccoon might be supposed to be with two tails.'

'You promise, Mr A., 'said the parson, 'to take this woman—'

'Yass,' said the Yankee, at once.

'To be your lawful and wedded wife.'

'Yass—yass.'

'That you will love and honor, her in all things.'

'Yass.'

'That you will cling to her, and her only, so long as you shall live.'

'Yass, 'ndeed—nothing' else!' continued the Yankee, in the most delighted and earnest manner; but here the reverend clergyman halted, much to the surprise of all present and more especially to the annoyance and discomfiture of the intended bridegroom.

'Yass—yass, I said,' added the Yankee.

'One moment, my friend,' responded the minister, slowly, for it suddenly, occurred to him that the law of Massachusetts did not permit of this performance, without the observance of a 'publishment,' etc., for a certain length of time.

'Wot 'n thunder's the matter, mister? Doan't stop—go on—put 'er threu. Nothin's split, eh? Aint sick, mister, be yer?'

'Just at this moment, my friend, I have thought that you can't be married in Massachusetts—'

'Can't!—wot 'n natures the reason? I like her—she likes me; wot's to hender?'

'You haven't been published sir, I think.'

'Haint a goin' tu be, nuther! 'at's wot we cum 'ere for. On the sly; go on—go on, old feller.'

'I really, sir—' said the parson.

'Railly! Wal, go ahead! 'Taint far, you see, 'taint, I swaow; you've a maaried me, and a haint teched her. Go on—doan't stop 'ere! 'at aint jes' the thing, naow, by grashus taint!'

'I will consult—'

'No yeu wunt—no yeu don't—consult nothin,' ner nobuddy, till this 'ere business is concleuded, naow mind I tell ye!' said Jonathan, resolutely—and in an instant he had turned the key in, and out of the lock, amid the titterings of the witness,' who were nearly choked with merriment!

'Naow say, mister, as we ware—" continued the Yankee, seizing his trembling intended by the hand again--'go on, rite strait from ware you left off; yeu can't cum nun o' this haaf-way bis'ness with this child; so put 'er threu, and no dodging. It'll all be right—go it!'

The parson reflected a moment, and, concluding to risk it continued—

'You promise, madam, to take this man to be your lawful husband?

'Yaas,' said the Yanke, as the lady bowed.

'That you will love, honor and obey—'

'Them's um!' said Jonathan, as the lady bowed again.

'And that you will cling to him, so long as you both shall live?'

'That's, the talk!' said John; and the lady said 'yes,' again.

'Then, in the presence of these witnesses, I pronounce yon man and wife—'

'Hoorah!' shouted Johnathan, leaping nearly to the ceiling, with joy.

'And what God hath joined together, let not man put assunder!'

'Hoorah!' continued John. 'Wot's the price?—haow much?—spit it aout?—don't be afeared—yeu did it jes' like a book, old feller!—'eres a V—never mind the change—sen' for a hack, lan'lord—give us yeur bill—I've got her!—Hail Columby, happy land!' roared the poor fellow, entirely unable to control his joy; and ten minutes afterward, he was on his way again to the Providence depot, with his wife the happiest man out of jail.

We heard the detaifs of the above scene from an eye-witness of the ceremony, and we could not avoid putting it down as 'one of the weddings.'—American Union.

A Prostrate Politician.

CITY POLICE, OCTOCER 11.—The following confabulation will explain itself:

Mayor. Ralph Hutchinson, you were extricated from a mud puddle in Race street, last night; lying like a beast, on your back.

Ralph. Hold, sir; that lying wont do.

Mayor. How sir—Lying! What do you mean!

Ralph. You say I was lying, like a beast, on my back. I never saw a beast lie on its back. Beasts lie generally on their bellies; sometimes on their sides, but never on their backs.

Mayor. You lie every way. A drunkard commonly lies on his back.

Ralph. If he does, that's better than lying in his throat. But I was not drunk, sir, precisely; I threw myself on the ground in a fit of despair and unutterable anguish.

Mayor. On what account, pray?

Ralph. Can your honor be a Whig and ask that question! Are we not used up, root and branch? As soon as the terrible news of our defeat came to my ears, I fell into a swoon, with my face on the ground, just as if I had been knocked down with a brick-bat.

Mayor. With your face on the ground! But how does that account for your being found on your back?

Ralph. When I had lain insensible for about fifteen minutes, I turned over and looked upward, as if to see if there were any dawnings of hope for us. But all was impenetrably dark Mayor. No wonder, when it was half past twelve o'clock.

Ralph. I saw what seemed to be a glimmering star in the distance. This afforded me some comfort. The twinkling luminary drew nearer, and at last I discovered it to be a lighted segar in the mouth of a tipsy watchman. He took the weed out of his potatoe-trap; spit about half a pint of rank tobacco juice in my face, and then asked me what I was doing there, making a hog of myself.

Mayor. And a very pertinent question it was, I think. Now if you had sense enough to see and observe all this, why didn't you get out of the mud?

Ralph. Well, the sense of shame and distress I felt for the ruined prospects of our party, made me feel like I diden't care where I was. Thinks, I if Whiggery's gone to the dogs, I might as well go among the hogs; so I wallowed in the mud like a real grunter. The ground was pretty dry when I first fell down; but I shed so many tears for the ruin of the Whig cause, that I made a real quagmire.

Mayor. Humph; I wonder you were not afraid of being taken up as drunk.

Ralph. Why I thought of that; but then I considered that if any fool of a watchman should have the impudence to take me, your honor would have sense enough to set all to rights.

Mayor. This tale will hardly do, Mr. Hutchinson; but considering all circumstances, you may go. Only take care not to give way to such extravagant grief another time, as my successor might have little discretion enough to mistake your case for one of intoxication.

Ralph. Very likely sir. I'll take your advice. Good morning, sir. Exit.—Pensylvania.

Keep Bees!

A French bishop being about to make his annual visitation, sent word to a certain curate, whose eclesiastical benefice was extremely trifling, that he meant to dine with him, at the same time requesting that he would not put himself to any extraordinary expense. The curate promised to attend to the bishop's suggestion; but he did not keep his word, for he provided a most sumptuous entertainment.—His lordship was much surprised, and could not help censuring the conduct of the curate; observing that it was highly ridiculous in a man whose circumstances were so narrow, to launch out in such expense, nay, almost to dissipate his annual income in a single day.

'Do not be uneasy on that score, my lord,' replied the curate, 'for I can assure you that what you now see is not the produce of my curacy, which I bestow exclusively on the poor.'

'Then you have a patrimony, sir?' said the bishop.

'No, my lord.'

'You speak in riddles,' rejoined his lordship; 'how do you contrive to live in this manner?

'My lord, I have a convent of young damsels here, who do not let me want any thing.'

'How! you have a convent? I did not know there was one in this neighborhood. This is all very strange, very unaccounttable, Mr Curate.'

'You are jocular my lord.'

'But come, sir, I entreat that you would solve the enigma; I would fain see the convent.'

'So you shall, my lord, after dinner; and I promise that your lordship will be satisfied with my conduct.'

Accordingly, when dinner was over, the curate conducted the prelate to a large enclosure, entirely occupied by bee-hives, and pointing to the latter, observed, 'This, my lord, is the convent which gave us a dinner; it brings me in about eighteen hundred livres a-year, upon which I live very comfortably, and with which I contrive to entertain my guests genteelly.'

The surprise and satisfaction of the bishop may be readily concieved. The sequel of the story informs us that ever afterwards, wenever a curate made application to his lordship for an improved living, he would only energetically reply—'keep bees! keep bees!'—From the French.

The Time to Read.

How often do we hear men excuse themselves from subscribing to a paper or periodical, by saying they have no time to read. When we hear a man thus excuse himself, we conclude he has never found time to confer any substantial advantage either upon his family, his country, or himself. To hear a freeman thus express himself, is truly humilating and we can form no other opinion than that such a man is of little importance to society.

RECEIPT TO MAKE POTATOES VERY MEALY—Take and wash them well before you wish to use them, and then, without drying or wiping, put them in—an old meal bag

THE POWER OF GOLD.—Until recently no Jew was allowed to live, or even to sleep, in the Protestant university town of Erlangen, in Germany. Now however, if a Jew be worth 20,000 florins, and will buy a house in which to dwell, Erlangen tolerates his presence!

☞ A Scotch pupil being asked 'who David was that killed the muckle giant?' replied, he was the son of Jessee, and that Jessee was 'the flower of Dunblane,' Anecdote of Latimer.

It is related of Latimer, that when he once preached before that tyrant, Henry VIII, he took a plain, strait-forward text, and in his sermon assailed those very sins for which the monarch was notorious, and he was strong to the quick for truth always finds a response in the worst man's conscience. He would not bend beneath the authority of his God, but sent for Latimer and said: 'Your life is in jeopardy, if you do not recant all you said to-day when you preach next Sunday.' The trimming courtiers were all anxious to know the consequences of this, and the chapel was crowded. The venerable man took his text and after a pause, began with a soliloquy thus:

'Now, Hugh Latimer, bethink thee, thou art in the presence of thy earthly monarch—thy life is in his hands, and if thou dost not suit his fancies, he will bring down thy gray hairs to the grave; but hugh Latimer, bethink thee, thou art in the presence of the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, who hath told the, 'Fear not them that kill the body and can do no more; but rather fear him who can kill both body and soul, and cast thee into hell for ever?' Yea, I say, Hugh Latimer fear him.'

He then went on, and not only repeated what he had before advanced, but if possible enforced it with greater emphasis. After he had finished, Henry sent for him and said: 'How durst thou insult thy monarch so?' Latimer replied, 'I thought if I were unfaithful to my God, I could not be loyal to my king.' The king embraced the good old Bishop, exlaiming. 'There is yet one man left who is bold enough to tell me the truth.'

Influence of Newspapers.

Small is the sum that is required to patronize a newspaper, and amply rewarded is its patron, I care not how humble and unpretending the gazette which he takes. It is next to impossible to fill a sheet with printed matter without putting into it something that is worth the subscription price Every parent whose son is away from him at school, should supply him with a newspaper. I well remember what a marked difference there was between those of my schoolmates who had, and those who had not access to newspapers. Other things be ing equal, the first were always decidedly superior to the last, in debate, composition and general intelligence.

ALLITTERATION.—"An Austrian Army awfully arrayed," is entirely put to rout by the following, from a western paper:

"James Johnson, of Jonesboro, Jefferson county, jewed Jared Jacobs out of that julep which Jackson Jenkins jawed Jerry Jilston about, when old Jupiter Joe, Jake Jemison's jigger, jerked Juba Jehial's jaw out of joint."

ANGELS UPON EARTH.—In sickness there is no hand like a woman's hand—no heart like a woman's heart—no eye so untiring—no hope so fervent. Woman by a sick man's couch is divinity impersonated.

THE PROPER STATE.—A chaplain at one of our state prisons was asked by a friend how his parishoners were. "All under conviction!" was the answer.

Oregon.

Oregon is the greatest lumber country in the world. Around one mill, within a circle of three miles, stands timber enough to last a hundred years, the mill all the time cutting 6000 feet a day. The trees are from 9 to 10 feet in diameter, and some of them 300 feet high. They are felled into a lake, floated to the mill three miles, sawed by water power and turned out at the side of the mill whence a vessel takes them to California. Wheat in Oregon averages 65 lbs. a bushel, and Oregon flour brings $6 more a barrel at the gold mines than any other. The number of votes cast in Oregon, in June, was 943.

How to Keep Smoked Hams.

The best method of keeping hams, is after they are smoked, to put them back into the pickle, and the smoky taste is preserved as perfectly as when put in ashes or kept in a dry place.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, November 1, 1849.

ELECTION—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6.
POLL OPENED ONE DAY, FROM 8 o'CLOCK A. M. TO 7 o'CLOCK P. M.
All citizens are entitled to vote on a year's residence in the State, and five months in the County.

Essex County Conventions.

☞ The Democratic County Convention at Elizabethtown, adjourned to meet at Newark on Fridsy next Nov. 2.

Democracy.

It is all important in our opinion that the people do not loose sight of true democracy or republicanism. It must be evident to all reflecting minds, (and to such only will an appeal to 'right reason' be of any avail,) that names do not constitute principles; if they did, there is no party or person however corrupt, that might not lay claim to them. It is this confounding of names for things, the popular name of a principle for the principle itself, the profession for the practice, that has ever led the ignorant and unreflecting away from their own true interests.

True democracy we would define to be, as we understand it to have been defined by our forefathers, and as by them maintained by the sacrifice of their lives, that we too might be free to enjoy it, is the equal inalenable rights of all men; that all men are equally and inalienably entitled to protection of life, liberty, and to the equal enjoyment of all political and religous privileges, without any conditions whatever save those growing out of these, viz: the duty of the whole in the protection of each in the enjoyment of these rights. That these privileges are man's inherent birth-right: that he can neither sell, give, grant, lease, alienate or delegate them to another; and that whenever or wherever he finds himself deprived of them he is entitled to recover them by any means in his power. All tests to deprive him of these rights are necessarily, if the foregoing premises are correct, null and void. All property qualifications, religous tests, tests of color or condition, are anti-democratic or republican, degrading, and opposed to the best interest and elevation of the human race, as is evident throughout all history. The more enlightened any people have become, the more liberal they have become on all these matters, and it yet remains for a truly enlightened democratic people or government to throw down all these barriers, and to ensure to all that honesty, and qualification, combined with true moral character alone shall be the only distinction necessary to merit the favor and encouragement of a people truly democratic.—But so long as the people are left in ignorance will partisan services and political sycophancy be rewarded by those assuming to be the people's masters.

The Menagerie.

The far-famed and very extensive Menagerie of Van Amburgh & Co. will exhibit in Plainfield this (Wednesday) afternoon, October 31st. from 1 to 3 o'clock. All persons, and especially all parents should embrace this opportunity to let their families see so rare and so instructive an exhibition, containing as it does all rare and important living specimens of Natural History, collected from the four quarters of the globe, being the largest collection in the world. Mr. Van Amburgh has recently returned from a European tour with a great variety of interesting specimens of the animal creation, among which is a Royal Black Tiger, the whole forming the most extensive collection ever offered in one exhibition. The opportunity for families to see such a show is rare and should be embraced by all.

☞ Those visiting Newark to purchase Stoves, will find every variety of pattern of Parlor and Cooking Stoves, Air Furnaces, Kitchen Ranges, &c. &c. at J. B. Ward's 148 Market st. See advertisment in another column.

IMPORT OF PROVISIONS FROM AMERICA.—Mr Gardner the provision broker, gives the following as the import into Liverpool alone, from the United States, for the last twelve months; 26,000 tierces Beef, 37,000 barrels Pork, 224,000 cwts Bacon; 15,000 Hams, 50,000 barrels Lard 100,000 boxes Cheese, 8,600 firkins Butter.—The value of the above is £1,000,000 sterling.

The above is a part of the fruits of the tariff of 1846, in thus producing a reciprocity of trade.

Profane Swearing---Political Nomenclature.

What can be more disgusting to the reflecting mind than profane swearing. Those who constantantly make declarations accompanied by an oath, we have uniformly found to be persons utterly unworthy of credit, even in the most trifling matters. No person who has any regard for his own character, no person of sound sense and reflecting mind, no gentlemen, is ever guilty of such a disgusting habit; a simple yea, or nay, by a person who attaches any responsibility to his word is all sufficient. 'A liar is not believed when he speaks the truth,' an oath seems a superfluous condemnation.

In connection and closely allied with this subject is that of partizan nomenclature; we think it not amiss to express our condemnation of the degrading influences which are scattered broadcast over the land, by the partizan press, by their stigmatizing and degrading epithets of each other; surely this is a disgrace to all parties or persons making use of the same, and its effects produced in the minds of reflecting men are the same as that of an oath in the mouth of a confirmed liar, a sure confirmation of falsehood. Do these degrading epithets add a single argument, or do they not rather convey the idea to the minds of all reflecting men of the want of it? If so, we should suppose that a good cause could be better sustained without the use of these degrading, unargumentative, and therefore useless expletives. 'A word to the wise is sufficient.'

☞ The low and irresponsible portion of the country, who ought not to vote at all, do in fact, decide our elections, and these are largely on the democratic side. Every vile instinct of an intemperate, vile, embruted nature, is naturally opposed to a party embracing a larger proportion of wealth, talent, and character of the country.—New-Haven Courier.

Is it possible that any paper making any pretension to respectability, under a republican government, should be so lost to all the ennobling influences that that government should inspire in the heart of every true republican, as to give utterance to the above anti-republican sentiment.—It is enough to cause our forefathers to rise from their graves and smite the wretch thus unworthily living under its protection, who could cast reproach and thus attempt to destroy or call in question the inalienable birth-right of man, for the maintainance of which they pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor.

Can it be possible, that under a government whose fundamental principles are founded upon the political equality of all men's rights, that any, wearing the human form can be found, having the control of a public Journal, who would insult its readers by thus reproaching those who hazarded their all that man might be free? Was it that property and wealth alone should be free, that our noble heroes and statesmen contended? Was it for this that Washington and his compatriots fought? Was it for this that a Hancock, an Adams, Sherman, Hopkins, Morris, Stockton, Franklin, Rodney, Carrroll, Jefferson, and all the host of worthy's contended? No, perish the thought with him who gave it utterance. Sentiments like the above, come from what source they may, and especially under a republican government and by the conductor of a public Press, are a disgrace to the utterer, and a gross calumny on the honored dead.

Planting Chestnuts.

At a late farmers' meeting in New York Mr. Rice, speaking of planting Chestnut timber remarked, that he plowed up a track of unproductive hill-side, several years ago, and planted it with chestnuts in rows four feet apart every way. The first sprouts coming up rather crooked and scrubby, he went over the field, and cut them down close to the ground, which caused new sprouts to shoot up straight and vigorous. The trees are very thrifty, completely shading the ground, and grow more and more rapidly as the soil becomes strengthened by the annual deposit of leaves. So well satisfied is he with the experiment, that he is now placing other worthless lands in a similar course of improvement.

☞ At the meeting of medical men concerning the state of poisons, on Wednesday, Mr. J. Bell stated that he knew one person who had sold, during the last three years, between 3,000 and 4,000 cwt. of arsenic.

GEORGIA.—The Democrats have a majority of three in the Senate, and four in the House. Town's (Dem.) majority for Governor is about 3,400.

For the Gazette.

"When the wicked rule the land mourns."

MESSRS EDITORS:—In reading your truly useful and independent Journal, I perceive that you wish to call the attention of the public to the degraded condition in which we are placed by an act of former legislation by their granting what is properly called a monopoly railroad. It is indeed a foul blot upon our State, and is pointed at with scorn and derision by our sister States; and it appears as though we should never be exempt from this species of special legislation as we are continually having monopolies fastened upon us, in the way of special legislation to companies and individuals. And how I would ask are we to better our condition? It has been an act of folly hitherto to ask the legislature to correct the abuse. Men who have so disgraced themselves and the State by receiving bribes in the way of wine drinks and FREE TICKETS, have but little respect for the rights of man.

There is one way, and but one way, whereby the people can regain their long lost rights; and that is to make use of the right which the God of nature has given and reason entitles them; to think and act for themselves. To be no longer hoodwinked by designing politicians. To no longer cast their votes for a man because he may have been college bred, or dresses and lives in fashionable style, with a carriage at his command when he wishes to ride, or else to strut with a cane assuming a verry grave and important bearing towards his less fortunate but more useful (by him styled plebian) neighbors; he has but one idea of politics and that is personal and party aggrandizement, being devoid of political honesty or moral courage to do right. From such turn away as from the Plague. If we value our rights and the good of prosperity, let us cast our votes for men of sound and independent minds, men who know and dare do the right, no matter if they are not college bred; no matter if they do obtain their support by honest industry and the sweat of their brow. Too long have the people been duped by those Political moths who eat out their substance, and who act as though they were born to command. True they are very affable before election, and will even take a poor man by the hand but that over and they mounted into power, they will know him no longer. Let the people then begin to select men from among themslves and no longer submit to the yoke of oppression. Let them through their suffrages sustain the rights of man; let' them cast their votes for men who love liberty, justice, and political equality.

Jerseymen let us do our duty manfully, we may then rest assured that the enemies of liberty and equal rights will ere long be driven from the strong holds of their imaginations, they will be made to bow before an oppressed and indignant people, they will tremble at the voice of reason, and quail before the eagle glance of truth. KOSSUTH.

Light fron the Oyster.

Open an oyster, retain the liquor in the lower or deep shell, and, if viewed througe a microscope, it will be found to contain multitudes of small oysters, covered witn shells, and swimming nimbly about—one hundred and twenty of which in a row would extend but one inch. Besides these young oysters, the liquor contains a variety of animalculæ, and myrads of three distinct species of worms, which shine in the dark like glow-worms. Sometimes their light resembles a bluish star about the centre of the shell. which will be beautifully luminous in a dark room.—Scientific American.

'Make way, gentlemen,' cried a Massachusetts representative to the populace who were crowding him out of his place in the procession on election day, 'make way we aie the representatives of the people.' 'Make way yourself,' replied a sturdy member of the throng, 'we are the people themselves.'

The agent of the state bank at Morris N. J. has suspended the redemption of the notes of that bank.—Tribune.

Reduction of Fare.

The Camden and Amboy railroad company yesterday reduced the fare for second class passengers by the 12 o'clock train to Philadelphia to $2. The public will be daily thankful for this little concession.

HOGGISH.—A Paddy writing from the west, says pork is so plenty that "every third man you meet is a hog."

Ground Coffee should be kept in a tight vessel; if this is not done, it soon looses its fine flavor—the aroma disappears with its volatile oil.

Written for the Plainfield Gazette.

In a very small garret of a humble dwelling in the centre of one of the oldest towns of our State, a little girl—the child of a worthy, hard-working woman—a few days since lay on her death-bed. It needed but a glance from the most indifferent observer, to see that consumption—that fearful scourge which annually sweeps away as with the besom of destruction so many millions of our race—had fastened on the vitals of the sufferer, and was quickly bearing her away from the pains and pleasures of earth. The pleasures of earth, did I say? Ah, the children of poverty have but few pleasures; and God knows the sufferer of whom I speak was one of his most needy children.

Her mother did all that a parent could do to make the situation of her sick child as comfortable as possible. But old age and ill-health had reduced the mother to the utmost distress; and at the time of which I write—which is but a few days since—she often dragged her feeble frame from a bed of sickness, to earn a miserable pittance by washing all day on a back stoop or in the open yard of a professing Christian sister, who spent much of her time in the parlors of her wealthy neighbors in making up garments for people whom she never saw, and whose condition could not possibly be worse than that of the poor woman who had done her drudgery for years!

It is a painful sight to behold a young person in the last stages of consumption, even when surrounded by sympathysing friends, and blessed with everything which can mitigate the pangs of approaching death. Who that has watched at the bedside of such an one,—wiping the death-sweat from his brow, ministering to his incessant thirst, and aiding his failing breath by fanning him, until your arm fals to your side from the efforts you have made to keep death from sundering the last heart-string,—but will bear testimony that the consumptive meets death in a terrible form?

But when Poverty is joined to Disease, then it is that the cup of human misery is full to overflowing. Sad as it is to see one cut down early, it is at least a consolation to know that he is released from an existence which for him has little or no enjoyment, and is fraught with so much of bitterness.

—It is apparently one of the hardest tasks which the philanthropist can undertake, to try to persuade those who have everything to make existence pleasant, that—in our country, at least—there are any worthy persons who suffer for the necessaries of life. If you call their attention to any case of hardship in their immediate vicinity, and ask them to contribute a mite of their abundance to aid the sufferer, you are almost invariably asked "Why do not they apply to the town for relief?" Will the world never learn that there are many who prefer to suffer in silence than to be stigmatised as town-paupers?

—The child is evidently at the point of death, and yet is without fire, and has none of the necessaries suited to its condition. It has suffered for weeks with a fortitude which would have done no dishonor to a stoic; and yet, with the exception of occasionally wishing that she was not so cold, no murmer escaped her lips.

A circumstance which by many would be considered providential, occurred two or three days before the death of the child, which made her as comfortable as her low condition would admit. A few benevolent ladies who were appealed to, at once ministered to her wants; and the daughter of Sorrow, after suffering for many months in the heart of a wealthy Christian community, at length closed her eyes on the miserable garret in which she lay, and awoke in Paradise, "where there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

—If the funeral procession of the little girl was of a humble character, who shall say that her mother's heart was not grieved as sorely as the rich lady's, an account of whose bereavement I wrote you last week?

It is a matter of joy to me to reflect that the children of wealth and of poverty, when called to the mansions of the skies, will there live in terms of friendship which their parents on earth—with all their professions of being governed by Christ's Spirit—know nothing about. When will Christians so learn to live that their indifference to the wants of the poor and needy will not constantly give the lie to their professions? A. J.

The most grateful sense to man is freedom.

Resolutions Passed at the Anti Monopoly Convention.

WHEREAS, It is the sacred duty of every citizen of a Republican State to use his best exertion for the advancement of its interests, and for the promotion of its general prosperity. And whereas, the test of long experience has proved that undisturbed and unchecked competition in the various branches of useful industry, is the surest safeguard against extortion, and the most certain promoter of industry, enterprize, and prosperity. And whereas, owing to the present active and energetic pursuit of business of every kind, influenced by the competition referred to, it is found necessary for success that every means of economy, both in the expenditure of time and money, should be used. And whereas, the cost of transporting merchandise, produce, and persons from place to place, is a considerable item of expense, which it is necessary should keep pace in cheapness with the other expenses of trade. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the high rates of fare and of tolls on the Railroads, Canals, Turnpikes and Ferries of this State, disproportioned to similar accommodations in neighboring States, are injurious to the interests of the people, by preventing them from entering the adjacent markets upon as favorable terms as their neighbors, thereby checking their enterprize, hampering their industry, and retarding their prosperity.

Resolved, That the high rates complained of are the result of partial and monopoly legislation, and especially of such as in some instanees have vested in corporations, powers that properly belong to the people, and can only be exercised by them through their immediate represetatives: such as the right of ferriage across the waters of the State and of the United States—and in other instances forbid the people of the State from transporting passengers and freight between New York and Philaelphia without the consent of a corporation, or of competing in business with said corporation, and of establishing as many avenues of travels as they may deem necessary.

Resolved, That we consider all such legislation as violative of the constitutional rights of the people of New Jersey, and subject to amendment and repeal, and that therefore we find it absolutely necessary to return such men to the next legislature as we can depend upon to restore to the people their lost rights.

Resolved, That the undue and improper influence exercised by incorporated companies and their agents over the legislation of the State; the shameless interference of lobby members, or as they are termed the "third House," and their evident control over the members of the Legislature, render it an imperative duty on the constituent body to select such representatives as they have not only entire confidence in, but who will stand pledged to obey the will of those whom they are in duty bound to represent.

Resolved, That we hold every person nominated by this Convention as a candidate for the Legislature and who shall accept such nomination, as being sacredly and solemnly pledged to vote and use his influence: 1st in favor of such laws as will guarantee to the pubic all the necessary accommodation and facilities for transit in and out of the State at as cheap rates as possible. 2nd, that he will vote and use his influence for the repeal of the second section of the supplement to an act entitled "Act relative to the D. & R. C. & C. & A. R. R. Transportation Companies" passed the 2nd of March 1832 unless the same shall be proved, by sufficient legal and judicial opinions and decisions, a constitutional contract, 3rd, that he will vote and use his influence for the enactment of general laws in all matters and subjects involving the public welfare provided always, that in all things the said candidates will faithfully and religiously respect the rights of property as guaranted by the constitution and laws of the State.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to use every exertion and every fair and honorable means to secure the election of the persons nominated by this Convention.

AN INCIDENT.—During the trial of Cogzell, for kidnapping, which took place a few days since at Hillsborough, an incident occurred which created considerable fun at the expense of big whigs and counsel. A Miss Sloan was testifying and was requested to state all she knew about a certain transaction.

Witness—I was in the sitting room when Mary came from the kitchen hurriedly and Cogzell after her. He caught hold of her at the sitting room door, and said Mary you have been here long enough; come and go home now.

Attorney for defendant—What did Mary say?

Attorney for the State—Stop there—I object to the question!'

Here a discussion of nearly two hours took place, in which four or five lawyers participated. After which the three judges held a long, serious and excited discussion on the subject, and finally, in a very formal and pompous manner, stated that it was the opinion of a majority of the Court that the question must be answered The Court Room was crowded almost to suffocation, and most intense interest was manifested at this stage of the proceedings. The question was repeated—'What did Mary say?' and the witness answered—

'She didn't say a word!'—Richmond Republican.

☞ The Preston Chronicle says of agricultural meetings: With a boiled leg of mutton on the table, people think of eating turnips rather than growing them; and with the bottle before them thorough draining may be thought of, but it is not as regards land.'

☞ A Leeds pickpocket the other day stole from the pocket af a police inspector, who was in plain clothes, a paper containing—a pair of handcuffs!

'Ma, where's the state of Matrimony?' Sit down my child, it's one of the United States.'—N. O. Delta.

MARRIED.

On Saturday, 27th inst. by Rev. D T. Hill, Mr. Isaac D., son of Benj. Jennings, Esq. to Miss Susan Waldron.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Courtlandt street, Fare 62 1-2 cents. At 9 o'clock, A. M. and 4 1-2 P. M. By Steambot pier No. 1 N. river, fare, 50 cents. At 11 o'clock A. M. freight, and 4 o'clock P. M. Leave Plainfield, 53-4 o'clock, A. M. freight, and 7,25m. A. M. and 3 P. M. passenger.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [52.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand, a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. ltd.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. ☜ [54.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Mecker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.

No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price, $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden. Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE,

THE ACKNOWLEDGED BLACKWOOD OF AMERICA.

An impartial press has awarded to Sartain the credit of publishing the best Magazine in America. Their decision is founded upon the established fact, that he publishes better and more varied embellishmens than any of his rivals and that pays for original contributions more than all his competitors combined, and hence has secured authors of the highest repute in America and Europe.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS

TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COMING VOLUME

JANUARY, 1850.

The publishers of SARTAIN'S MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE AND ART, announce to the reading public, that whilst their Magazine for 1849 is acknowledged to be superior in every respect to any other published in this country, they have made arrangements whereby the Magazine for the next year will EXCEL ALL ITS FORMER ISSUES.

The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will remain under the control of its present able Editors.

Prof. JOHN S. HART, of Philadelphia, and

Mrs. CAROLINE M. KIRKLAND, of New York, who, besides articles from their own pens every month, have secured contributions from the

BEST AUTHORS

In Europe and America.

These contributions, including some of the most brilliant Magazine articles any where to be found, are entirely original, being WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR OUR MAGAZINE, and not selected from other publications.

If we cannot attract distinguished names to our list of contributors by the liberality of our prices, or the respectability of our Magazine, we assuredly shall not try to gain the appearance of it, by taking extracts from authors of great name, and so mixing them up in our table of contents, that they shall seem to be original. Among the many distinguished names in our list of contributors, may be mentioned the following,

MANY OF WHOM

WRITE FOR NO OTHER PERIODICAL.

Frederika Bremer, of Sweden, William Howitt, of England, Mary Howitt, do., R. H. Horne, do., author of "A new spirit of the Age," "Orion," &c., Silverpen, the popular contributor to "Eliza Cook's Journal," the author of "Mary Barton," Henry W. Longfellow, Rev. George W. Bethune, D. D., N. P. Willis, Miss C. M. Sedgewick, George H. Boker, John Neal, J. Russell Lowell, Francis J Grund, Joseph R. Chandler, Rev. W. H. Furness, D. D., Mrs L. H. Sigourney, Prof. Alden, Rev. J. P. Durbin, D. D., Mrs. E. Oakes Smith, Rev. John Todd, D.D., Mrs. Francis S. Osgood, Rev. Albert Barnes, Mrs. L. M. Child, Prof. Rhoads, Mrs. Anne C. Lynch, Park Benjamin, Mrs. C. M. Butler, Henry T. Tuckerman, Miss Eliza L. Sproat, Hery William Herbert, Mrs. Joseph C. Neal, Mrs. E. F. Ellett, Edgar A. Poe, Prof. Moffat, Mrs. E. C. Kinney, Rev. Robert Davidson, D. D., "Edith May," Augustine J. Duganne, Caroline May, Richard Willis, Alfred R. Street, Charles J. Peterson, George S. Burleigh, C. H. Wiley, Charles G. Leland, Rev. Thomas Brainerd, Rev. H. Hastings Weld, Miss E. Bogart, Miss E. A. Starr, John H. Hopins, T. S. Arthur, G. G. Foster, Mrs. Mary S. Whitaker. R. H. Stoddard, Eugene Lies, Richard Grant White Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Miss Harriet Farley, Rev. S. I. Prime, D. D. Wm. D Lewis, Mrs. E. H. Swift, Mrs. Emma C. Embury, Miss Alice Carey, Francis De H. Janvier, Mrs Mary Hughs, Miss Maria J. B. Browne, Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton, Mrs. F. M. Brotherson, Miss Anne T. Wilbur, Mrs. J. L. Gray.

NO SECOND-HAND WORN-OUT PLATES

APPEAR IN THIS MAGAZINE.

Mr. SARTAIN has entire control of the PICTORIAL DEPARTMENT, and beside embellisements from his own burin, he will be assisted by some of the BEST ARTISTS OF THIS COUNTRY.

WORN-OUT LONDON STEEL ENGRAVINGS, WHICH ARE FREELY USED BY SOME PERIODICALS, will not find their way into the pages of 'SARTAIN,' under any circumstances. There would be a vast saving to the Publishers in using such plates, as they can be purchased at almost any price, from $25 down to the price of the metal. We aim to give the best, both in Literature and Art.

THE FASHIONS

Fashion Plates are of the nature of news. The lady who wishes to dress frshionably, does not ask what was worn, but what is worn. She does not want in 1849 the fashions of 1848, nor in December those of of August. Paris is the acknowledged centre of the mode, whence all fashions primarily originate. Any periodical which emplops a process of "Americanizing" them, that requires from three to six months, can only be compared to a newspaper that should persist in importing its files of foreign news by the old line of Liverpool packets, or hire a man at great "extra" expense to bring the news on foot from New Orleans, instead of using the Steamer and the Telegraph. By the method we have adopted, a cut, giving the Fashions with the minutest accuracy, can be completed in three or four days after the arrival of te steamer. To execute the same on steel, and then color it, for a large edition, requires as many months. Of this we had a striking proof during the issue for 1849, by which we gave the FASHIONS THREE OR FOUR MONTHS AHEAD OF OUR COMPETITORS! Our plan enables us also to furnish triple the number of plates, thus furnishing four readers with all the prevailing modes of Paris and London. Instead of a single plate with two figures, we often give three or four plates, with eight or ten distinct figures, each exhibiting a seperate costume.

NEW FEATURES.

We have many features and improvements entirely new in Magazine publishing, which will be introduced into the forthcoming volume. We do not design, however, to solicit support to SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE by promises. Assured of the confidence manifested in our enterprise by a liberal and discriminating public in more than tripling the original subscription list in a single year, we close our Prospectus for the New Volume, by referring the public to a few of the thousand notices of our brethren of the press, promising only that there shall be no diminution on our part, either in exertion or expense, to merit a continued and increased patronage.

TERMS: Single Copies 25 cents.

One Copy $3 per Annum, and a premium of either a portrait of the late Ex-Presidents James K. Polk, William Henry Harrison, Group of the Washington Family, General Taylor, Benjamin West or Henry Clay. Either of these Engravings is worth alone $3.

Two Copies $5 per Annum, and either of the above premiums to each subscriber.

Five Copies $10 per Annum, and an extra Magazine and one of the premiums to the agent or person getting up the Club.

Having made an arrangement with the publishers for copies of the clebrated mezzotinto Picture, "THE DATH-BED OF JOHN WESLEY," we make the following LIBERAL OFFER!

One copy of the Magazine one year, and the Wesley Print, $3, or 20 copies of the WESLEY PRINT, and Nine copies of Sartains Union Magazine for $20.

Remember, the impressions are not from a worn-out English plate, but from a new plate engraved in the highest style of the art. Those sending their money early will get proof impressions.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY!

Any new subscriber, sending us Five Dollars prior to the 1st of February 1850, shall receive in return fall setts of Sartain's Magazine for 1849 and 1850, and two volumes of Campbell's Foreign Monthly Magazine, and the Washington or Taylor print, thus securing upwards of 3000 pages of literary matter, and upwards of 400 engravings for $5.

The post town sending the largest number of mail subscribers for the year 1850, prior to the 1st of April next, together with the advance payment, will be entitled, gratis, to the same number of Sartain's Magazine, for the year 1851. For the second largest list each subscriber will be entitled to one of our premium plates. Remember, these plates are of a large size, and suitable for a parlor ornament.

Persons wishing to get up a club, will be supplied with a specimen number, by writing for it, and paying the postage. TERMS INVARIABLY IN ADVANCE. Address

JOHN SARTAIN & Co., Philadelphia.

FREE SCHOOL.

MR. DAVISON'S Free School is now in operation in the Village School House. Colored Children now avail yourself of the privilege, the school is now open for your reception. He returns thanks for past favors and solicits a continuance.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,

No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,

332 Broad-st. opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

THE LARGEST

DRY GOODS ESTABLISHMENT

IN THE STATE.

IS NOW OPEN, with the most extensive assortment in the city of Newark, of RICH CASHMERE LONG SHAWLS, SCOTCH PLAID LONG SHAWLS, with Five "Cartons" of Lyons ("best" all wool) BROCHE SQUARE SHAWLS, purchast in the Auction Room—about half of the original cost to import. They are the greatest bargains ever offered in New Jersey, with a large stock of Rich Dress Goods, Merino's, Coburg's and Parramatto's English Prints and Ginghams, Cassimers and Satinets, Flannels and Blankets.

DOMESTIC'S, the largest stock in New Jersey, selling at New York Wholesale prices, by the Bale, Piece or Yard, as we received them direct from the manufactory and the only agents for the State, of New Jersey at the "BROADWAY BRANCH."

N. B. Auction Goods, opening daily, a large lot of Drapery's from auction this morning, with many other styles of Goods, very cheap, at

BASSETTS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad st.

55] Newark.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family: with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,

FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

BONNETS,

AT 354 BROAD ST.

SEATON'S HALL OF COMMERCE,

The New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st. Newark.

This unrivalled Bonnet Establishment, located a few doors north of William st., 3 doors from Franklin Hall, offer to the Ladies great bargains in Bonnets, Ribbons, Flowers, Tabs, Lace and Fancy Goods; Bonnets trimmed, altered, and cleaned to the present style in a very superior manner, unequalled before in the city of Newark. Ladies can get a Bonnet cheaper and trimmed richer than elsewhere.

Open and Plain Bonnets for 2s6d, 3s6d, 4s6d, 5s6d, 6s6d, 7s6d, 10s, 12s, 15s, 16s, 18s, 20s, 24s.

Bonnet Ribbons, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 1s, 1s3d, 1s4d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s, 2s6d.

Caps, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1s.

Dress Caps, 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 3s6d, 4s, 4s6d, 5s, 6s, 8s.

Rich Swiss Capes at $8, $9, $10, $12,50.

Stand up Collars, 1s, 1s3d, 1s6d, 1s9d, 2s 2s6d, 5s6d.

For extraordinary bargains call at SEATON'S, 354 Broad st.

P. S. 450 yards Jean for children's wear. jn14[77.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon: L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chasons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

LOWEST CASH PRICES.

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Summer Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON AND AFTER MONDAY, APRIL 2. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to the White house (10 miles) was open for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the termiuus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

NEW YORK AND PLAINFIELD.

Leave New York, by N. J. Railroad, foot of Liberty st. at 9 o'clock, A. M. and 5, P. M. Freight train, from the foot of Courtland st. at 2 o'clock P. M. Fare 62 1-2 cents.

By steamboat, Pier No. 1, North River, at 9o'clock, A. M. and 5 P. M. Freight, 1 P. M. Fare 50 cents.

Leave Plainfield at 5 1-4 and 6 25 m. o'clock, A. M. and 2 40m. o'clock, P. M. First train for Freight.

Leave White house at 3 3-4 freight; 5 1-2 o'clock, A. M. and 1 40m. P. M. Fare by boat $1—by N. J. R R. $1 12 1-2.

Fare—N. Y. and Elizabethtown, 25 cents. N. Y. and Westfield, by boat 37 1-2 cents—by N. J. R. R. 50 cents. N. Y. and Somerville, by boat 75 cents—by N. J R. R. 87 1-2 cents.

Fare between Elizabethtown and Elizabethport, 12 1-2 cents. Passengers are requested to provide themselves with tickets before getting into the Cars at Elizabethtown. The Conductors will sell no Tickets nor receive the Boat Fare.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

MILLERISM REVIVED.

The world may come to an end when no man knoweth.

THE Subscriber having done what never was before done in the same time, viz: Raised a New Saw Mill from the foundation with Mill Saw, Circular and Scroll Saws, and all the necessary machinery to work them with, in six days; would now respectfully inform the public that he is prepared for sawing all kinds of timber in the same double quick time in which the aforesaid mill was built, viz: Stage, Wagon, and Cart Felleys. Window Blinds, Brush Blocks, and Small Veneering. A good assortment of the above constantly on hand.

All kinds Lathe Turning done to order.

As this Mill is expected to tend itself, competition in price and quality of work is defied.

All kinds of Timber wanted for which the highest market price in cash will be paid.

Window blinds sawed at 12 1-2 cents per hundred, or the stuff found and sawed at 4 shillings per hundred.

Thanks for past patronage, a continuance provided for by punctuality, justice, and despatch.

LEWIS M. FORCE.
Plainfield Sept. 26. 1849. [66.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also, a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkable low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin stile $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense. J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furnitur, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50.

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the lowest rate.

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS, Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds, Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

We intend to pay particular attention to the wants of our customers; Ladies and Gentlemen please give us a call.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

April 16. 1849. [68.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1849. NO. 47.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE
IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY
William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,
DEALERS IN
FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.
80 Cortlandt Street,
ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.
THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

A. WILCOX,
MARBLE MANUFACTORY,
142 Market Street Newark,
NEW JERSEY,
Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.
DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S
EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Ten Minutes on an Inclined Plane.

BY JOE MILLER, JR.

To the lovers of nature, in her most savage aspect, and the admirer of the wonderful, whether in nature or art, perhaps no place presents more attractions than the coal region in the vicinity of Mauch Chunk, Pensylvania. The wild and rapid Lehigh, partly subdued to the uses of man for the purposes of canal navigation, winds its way for miles through ranges of lofty mountains, presenting to the eye of the traveller, with every turn of the stream, a rudely magnificent and never-tiring panorama, replete with savage grandeur and wild sublimity. Sated with the beauty of God's works, the curious observer may gratify himself with the works of man, and contemplate, with pride and astonishment, the contrivances designed by intellect to overcome the difficulties which, for a time, embarrassed the Lehigh Company in pouring forth in profusion, to the far off denizens of city and hamlet, the anthracite treasures, whose geniel glow gladdens, in winter's blasts, the proud abode of the rich, or humble dwelling of the poor.

The "Summit Mines," the most extensively worked coal basin of the Lehigh Company, are situated nine miles from Mauch Chunk, and in order to transport the black diamonds to the the Lehigh, a gentle inclined plane' or grade, was made from the mines to the shute on the canal, down which the loaded cars were suffered to descend by their own gravity, governed only by the brake; and with each train went, as passengers, in cars provided for them, a goodly number of mules, which, having arrived at the end of their pleasure trip were employed to haul back the empty cars. This arrangement produced much delay and hindrance, until it was discovered that a mountain called Mount Pisgah, in the vicinity, was higher than the Summit Mines, and, accordingly, a grade by which to return the emhty cars was established from Pisgah's top to the Summit. In order however, to place them upon the grade, it was necessary that they should be conveyed to the summit of Pisgah, and to this one of the most wonderful and steep inclined planes has been made that can be found in this country, or perhaps in the world. In a letgth of twenty-three hundred feet it rises over six hundred feet, and, to the eye of an observer at its foot, appears to ascend with a steepness almost perpendicular. A stationary engine at the top hauls up the empty cars, by means of iron bands welded together, and the plane, being in many places built on embankments, renders the ascent exciting and interesting.

It was on a bright summer afternoon, abot eighteen months since, that Bridget O Conner, the wife of a miner at the Summit arrived at the foot of the Pisgah plane with two of her children, one an infant of tender years, and the other a boy of about three years of age. Family necessities had caused her to visit Mauch Chunk, and a bundle which she carried with her contained grocery articles for domestic use. There was no means of conveyance to her home but by the empty cars, and, placing herself and children in one of these, she was prepared for the ascent of the plane. The jerking motion of the bands, commenced, and slowly the train was drawn up the mountain. Although she had often ascended in safety, the miner's wife could not subdue a thrill of terror, as she gazed over the awful precipices on each side of the track: and as her eye drank in, occasionally, the wild grandeur of the mountain ranges, rising like terraces far off in the blue distance, her woman's heart would shudder, as she also marked at the bottom of the plane, and in the far off abysses of the rocks, the shattered fragments of cars which were dashed off the road, in consequence of the breaking of the band attached to them. Often had such accidents occurred, at times, too, when the ascending trains carried men as passengers; but they had always, by means of superior agility, managed, at the risk of limb to save life by leaping from the cars, ere they had acquired much impetus; but she was accompanied with two helpless children, boxed up in a car to the height of five feet, and she was a woman. Upward and onward the slow train was dragged by the stalwart power of steam, and lighter grew the heart of the anxious mother—still onward—onward until a space of about twenty-five feet remained to the top. Here her brightening hope sunk, for she knew that this was the part of the ascent at which was the greatest strain upon the bands—jerk by jerk the cars were drawn violently foward—ten--fifteen feet were passed, and again hope rose buoyant, when a sudden sharp crack proclaimed disaster, and the disconnected train paused for a moment, as if gathering strength fot the rapid decent. With a wild and fearful shriek, the agonized mother seized her oldest child and threw it out upon the side of the track, where it landed safely, but vain was her effort to save the other; the rapid momentum acquired in this short instance was so great, that immediate death would have been the consequence. Unable to save herself or child, she was compelled to remain in the dashing train, whose rapidity became every moment more fearful. Downward with the speed of lightning, it flew, and the horror-struck spectators could only distinguish the form of the mother hugging close her infant. Downward! still downward! till nothing could be seen but a flying mass of blackness—now it bounded off the rails, and, plashing, rushing, took a sudden turn off a precipice, and shattering into thousands of pieces, covered the rocks and the sloping sides of the mountain Search was made for the mother and child, and in a chasm, where they had been hurled, were found their mangled bodies--the child hugged close to its mother's breast, and around it were immovably locked the arms of the unhappy parent.

This terrible accident was the last that happened upon any planes of the company from a similar cause. A cog rail running between the two tracks was invented over which, attached to a safety car, glides e safety-latch, and if a break occurs in the bands, the latch immediately catches in the cograil, the cars recede one inch and are there held securely by this admirable contrivance. The ascent of the Pisgah plane is now made with certain safety, but oft-times the stranger is seen to shudder, as, during the ascent some brakeman relates the fearful story of the miner's wife.

The Cholera in New York in 1849.

Report of the Board of Health in relation to the Cholera as it prevailed in this City during the past Summer.

1st. That the general cause of the disease appears to exist in the amosphere.

2d. That in attacking individuals the disease generally gives notice of its approach by some preliminary symptoms.

3d. That these symptoms are ordinarily under the controll of medicine, and, being arrested, the further developement of the disease is checked.

4th. That the agency of various exciting causes is generally necessary to develop the malady. Among these, the principal are: the existence of filth and imperfect ventilation, irregularities and imprudences in the mode of living and mental disturbance.

The duration of the disease, with the exception of isolated cases introduced into the City from emigrant vessels, was from May 10 to October 1—making a total of 143 days.

The number of persons admitted into the Hospitals was 1,901. Of these, 985 were males and 916 females. The deaths were 1,021. Cured, 880. The percentage of cures, accordingly, was 46.29—deaths, 53.71.

Total mortality 15,219. Cholera asphyxia 5,017, Cholera infantum 901, Cholera morbus 226. &c.

The aggregate mortality in the corresponding year was but 6,362.—Tribune.

What is the reason a lady can't whistle? because she can't stop talking long enough to fix her mouth.

A would-be wit asked a barber's boy if he could shave a monkey. 'No,' replied the boy, 'but if you will take a seat, I will try.'

How to Subdue a Vicious Horse.

The following fact, says the Commercial Advertiser of New York, occurred on Tuesday:

"A beautiful and high spirited horse would never allow a shoe to be put on his feet without a resort to every species of power and means to control him. At one time he was nearly crippled by being put in the stocks; he was afterwards thrown down and fettered; at another time one of our most experienced horse-shoers was unable to manage him by the aid of as many hands as could approach. In an attempt to shoe this horse yesterday, he re-resisted all efforts, kicked aside every thing but an anvil, and came near killing himself against it, and finally was brought back to his stable unshod. This was his only defect; in all other respects he is gentle and perfectly docile, especially in harness. But this defect was just on the eve of consigning him to the plough where he might work barefoot, when, by mere accident, an officer in our service, lately returned from Mexico, was passing, and being made acquainted with the difficulty, applied a complete remedy by the following simple process.—He took a cord about the size of a common bed-cord, put it in the mouth of the horse like a bit, and tied it tightly on the top of the animal's head, passing his left ear under the string not painfully tight, but tight enough to keep the ear down and the cord in its place. This done, he patted the horse gently on the side of his head, and commanded him to follow, and instantly the horse obeyed, perfectly subdued and as gentle and obedient as a well trained dog, suffering his feet to be lifted with entire impunity, and acting in all respects like an old stager. That simple string thus tied made him at once as docile and obedient as any one could desire. The gentlemen who furnished this exceedingly simple means of subduing a very dangerous propensity, intimaied that it is practized in Mexico and South America in the managemement of wild horses. Be this as it may, he deserves the thanks of all owners of such horses, and especially the thanks of those whose business it may be to shoe or groom the animals.

THE RICHEST JOKE YET.—One of the most respectable merchants of Henry county, whose store is not over a thousand miles from Paris, while returning from the East, after making his 'Spring and Summer' purchase, on board a steamboat, and while sitting in the cabin one day, with several other gentlemen, a lad came up to him and inquired for the captain The merchant, in a rather gruff manner, told him to look around among the men and the ugliest looking man he could find on board the boat was the captain. He disappeared, apparently highly delighted with such a novel way of finding the captain—'up stairs and in the ladies' chamber'—and after concluding the search for the 'ugliest man' he returned to the merchant, with a light step, and a mischievous smile playing in one corner of his mouth, said to him. 'Sir' you certainly must be the captain, for you are really the uqliest looking man I can find on the boat!'—Paris Gazetteer.

Stave and Shingle Machinery.

The Stave machine of Mr. C. B. Hutchinson, of Waterloo, N. Y., illustrated in No. 2 of the present volume of this paper, has been put in operation by the ingenious inventor, and performs most admirably. The machine has cut 18,000 staves per day, and as manny barrel headings, attended by five hands; it has also produced 25,000 shingles in the same length of time, and does the work well.

The above statements are from respectable authority, and from our knowledge of the principles of his machine, we should think it capable of executing the very best of work.—Scientific American.

A precious youngster being asked how many genders there were, replied. Three sir--the masculine, the feminine, and neutral.' 'Well done, my son, now define them.'—'The masculine, is men, the feminine, is woman; and the neutral is old bachelors'

They are beginning to pave the streets of Havannah with Boston granite.

MUSIC BY TELEGRAPH.—We had the pleasure this evening of listening to the transmission of music by telegraph over the wires from Boston to New York.

We happened to be in the office, 5 Hanover-street in this city. When there was a pause in business operations, Mr. W. Porter, a young but skilful operator in the Boston office, asked us what tune we would have. We replied, 'Yankee Doodle;' and, to to our surprise, he immediately complied with our request. The instrument commenced drumming the notes of the tune, as perfectly and as distinctly as a skilful drummer could have made them at the head of a rigiment. Many will be astonished to hear that 'Yankee Doodle' can travel by lightning.

We then called for 'Hail Columbia,' when the notes of that national air were distinctly beat off. We then asked for 'Auld Lang Syne,' the notes or sounds of which were also transmitted.

A friend called for 'Old Dan Tucker,' when Mr Porter also sent that tune, and, if anything, in a more perfect manner than the others. So perfectly and distinctly were the sounds of these transmitted, that good instrumental performers could have had no difficulty in keeping time with the instrument at this end of the wires. This is one of many telegraphic novelties.—Journal of Commerce.

A Newspaper.

The newspaper is the chronicle of civilization—the common reservoir into which every stream pours its living waters and at which every man may come to drink. It is the newspaper that gives to liberty its practical life, its constant observation, its perpetual vigilance, its unrelaxing activity. The newspaper informs legislation of public opinion, and informs the people of the acts of legislation. And this is not all. The newspaper teems with the most practical morality; in its reports of crime and punishments you find a daily warning against tempation; not a case in a police court, not a single trial of a wretched outcast or a trembling felon, that does not preach to us the awful lesson imprudence leads to error, how error conducts to guilt, how guilt reaps its bitter fruits of anguish and degradation. The newspaper is the familiar bond that binds together man and man—no matter what may be the distance of climate or the difference of race. Here it is that we have learned how to sympathise with the slave how to battle for his rights—how to wrest the scourge from its task-master.

A MONSTER BEDBUG.—Barnum, the proprietor of the American Museum in N. York, is a droll fellow.—Among the natural curiosities which he has lately added to his collection, is a living bedbug from Chagres, said to be nearly as large as a pewter plater! Cockroaches and centipedes protect! Whoever heard of such a monster? We suppose he must have carried the young negroes around on his back, and made a meal of them at leisure.

A NEAT COOK.—We have heard an old lady who was so very particularly neat, that she would always nicely wash her eggs before she broke them into the pan to fry, and was always particularly careful moreover, to spit in the pan to see if the fat was just exactly hot enough for them.

Very few, even mechanics, are aware how much machinery there is in their own bodies. Not only are there hinges and joints in the bones, but there are valves in the veins, a forcing pump in the heart, and other curiosities. One of the muscles of the eye forms a real pulley. The bones which support the body are made precisely in that form which has been calculated by mathematicians, to be strongest for pillars and supporting columns, that of hollow cilinders.

WASTE OF PROPERTY.—Com. Vorhees at San Francisco, says, in a letter to his brother, that if the vessels in San Francisco harbor, crewless and deserted, are not taken care of in time, all will be wrecked the coming winter, before winter arrives the number will probably increase to four or five hundred—and the loss, if they are permitted to suffer the fate which he predicts, cannot be less than five or six millions of dollars.

Seven bears were seen on Sunday on the hills of Benington, Vt,; three had been shot previous.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, November 8, 1849.

Election Returns.

ESSEX COUNTY.—300 Whig majority.

Hudson Co.—'Anti-Monopoly' ticket elected.

Morris Co.—350 Whig majority. One Township to hear from.

Sussex Co.—2,100 Democrat majority.

Warren Co.—Reported 1,100 Democrat majority.

Passaic Co.—Reported gone for Union Ticket, majority undecided.

New York.

New York City.—Whig majority about 1,985.

P. S. Dutchess, Columbia, Rennsselaer, Oneida, Onondaga and Cayuga Counties are close; Schenectady, Saratoga and Washington Whig; Herkimer and Wayne Democrat.

The elections are over in New Jersey—and we trust the people have through the discussion of the question of Monopoly, secured a return of members to the Legislature who are opposed to its longer continuance. If this should prove to be the case its discussion will not have been in vain. There are other benefits which will result from this discussion, our representatives will have learned that the people's rights are not to be trampled on with impunity, that they are not to be cheated out of their rights by the venality of their servants. A monied aristocracy will also learn that the people do not bow down and worship a golden calf, that they value their rights as above price, as being received as a sacred legacy from their forefathers which it would be sacrilege to violate themselves, or suffers to be violated by others. It matters not by what party this object is attained, both parties being guilty accuse each other as being the authors, neither party being willling to own its paternity; which is good evidence at least that the people are right in stigmatyzing it is an unjust usurpation of their inalinable rights, which none but those directly interested in its continuance have the hardihood to uphold. Future action on this subject we shall watch with interest, and shall not hesitate to give warning of any evasion of this or any other question wherein the peoples rights are jeopardised.

☞ The attention of the public is requested to the prospectus of Sartain's Magazine; to be found in another column. Its peculiarities are there set forth. Commendation from us is unnecessary we would merely say to these who are unacquainted with its merits, that in our judgment it has no superior, and but few equals.

☞ The attention of the public is requested to the advertisement in another column of Hutchings Dyspepsia Bitters. The certificates thereunto attached should be read by all suffering under this complaint. E. Kirkpatrick Esq. agent for Plainfield.

THE LOCO MOTIVE ADVERTISER.—We have received a number of a paper with the above title, purporting to be published at 56 South Twelfth street, which we somewhat doubt. It bears strong evidence of being in the interest of the Camden and Amboy Monopoly–which the people have determined shall no longer control the legislation of New Jersey. It is an uphill job which it has undertaking, and one which we trust the $400,000 of the commodore will be unable to sustain. The people will not "quarrel with their bread and butter," but for it, "nor induced to dishonor the good faith of the State" by longer submiting to the unjust monopoly of their inalienable rights.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—A most painful accident occurred near Paterson on Saturday morning. Mr. Megler, a woodcutter, was engaged in cutting down a tree in the woods and when it was half cut through it fell. Mr. M. seeing his danger, attempted to escape, but in vain; he was knocked down by the tree and his two thigh-bones broken He remained confined under the tree for nearly three hours before the sad accident became known; the placewhere the accident happened being remote from any residence, it was not until his son brought him his dinner that it was found out. He was immediately conveyed home and surgical aid procured.

While on the way home with the wounded man, a lad (his son)fell out of the wagon and the wheels passing over his leg, fractured it dreadfully.

☞ How important and necessary is TRUTH to man's political and eternal salvation, yet how very few there are who dare honestly, sincerely, and openly advocate it? All, from the president down to the holder of the most insignificant office in the land, dare not advocate what they know or believe to be the truth, without its being warped by the party or sect to which they may belong; if they do they are ostracised and anathematised by that party or sect as unworthy of their confidence and support; such is the baneful influence of partisan politics and sectarian creeds.

General Taylor it was thought by the great mass of the people was disconnected and uncommitted to any of the parties of the country; and from his having conducted a popular war with Mexico to the entire satisfaction of the people, he was looked upon by them as a proper person to be made President of the United States. He was accordingly consulted on the subject and unhesitatingly declared that he would accept the nomination if made by the people, as upon no other conditions would he become a candidate, as he would not be the president of a party but of the people. Accordingly he was put in nomination by various bodies of men in different sections of the Union composed of all parties, they thus putting confidence in his declaration made to the many interogatories put to him by various bodies of men and by individuals, that if elected he would not be the president of a party but of the whole people, conforming his government to that of the earlier presidents. These nominations was followed up by that of the Philadelphia Convention, upon the acceptance of which he reiterated the previous declartion that he would not be the president of the Whigs or of the Democrats but of the people.

How have these declarations thus far been fulfilled? By the selection of an ultra Whig Cabinet. By the removal of all Democrats in office under the government and the appointment in their places of ultra Whigs.

If the president of the nation thus violates his pledges repeatedly given and solemnly reiterated while under the sanction of an oath to support the Constitution that he will not be the president of a party, that he will make "Honesty, Capacity, and Fidelity the prerequisites to the bestowal of office, and the absence of any of these qualities sufficient cause of removal;" we need not descend to the petty officers of the government to prove the declaration at the head of this article, that although TRUTH is necessary to man's political and eternal salvation yet there are very few who dare honestly, sincerely, and openly advocate it.

We might follow this sacrifice of truth throughout all the ramifications of society, to the advancement of partisan politics, to the propagation of sectarian dogmas of the various religous sects, instead of the "golded axiom" which we believe is as old as the creation of man, but which is ascribed to Christ, to "Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." This maxim like the declaration that all men's rights are equal and inalienable, are so much easier preached than practised, hence we have so much declamation upon and so little practice of them. Why is this? They both commend themselves to man as reasonable and just, and are all that are necessary if strictly adhered to to make this world a terrestial paradise.—The one, declared by Christ to be all that is necessary to man's salvation, as the fulfillment of the law and the prophets. The other, as declared by as pure patriots as ever lived, to be the birthright of man. These two maxims or principles (they are but one in fact,) commend themselves to man for their simplicity and truth, perfectly in accordance with reason and justice. But in steps the selfishness and cupidity of man, the first a law of his nature indelibly imprinted in his mind by experience, for self protection and preservation; the second is the result of a false system of education which teaches him that the accumulation of wealth and power or their representatives gold and office is the only true source of happiness; hence the scramble for offices of honor and emolument both in church and state; hence the sacrifice of truth and principle to attain what all the world set so much value upon, utterly disregarding the "golden axiom" of the inalienable rights of man, or Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you.

We might enlarge upon this subject in illustration and proof of what we have advanced, by showing how sectarian dogmas in the advancement of the peculiar interests of sectarianism, have run away from the fundamental principles of true religion, as set forth in the "golden axioms" above alluded to, as political partizans have from the principles of true democracy; but it is unnecessary; here is sufficient to illustrate our meaning; we would simply offer a few hints to remedy this evil.

We can conceive of but one way to arrest this alarming and growing evil which will be effectual, and that is very difficult as being necessary to begin with the reader and writer of this article.

Reader, do you wish for the melioration, elevation, and regeneration of the human race? If you do you must begin by practising that fundamental principle of true christian democracy, or true christianity, and true democracy before alluded to. Do unto others as you would have others do unto you, for upon this rests all the law and the prophets, this also is the foundation of true democracy, those alone who practice upon these principles are true christians or true democrats. Let us illustrate this a little. Are you a preacher of the gospel, or the editor of a paper, have the independence to preach or publish what you honestly concieve to be the truth, whether in accordance with the preconceived opinions of men or not. If a priest do not warp the truth into a lie to advance Presbyterianism, Methodistism, Catholicism, Baptism, or any other ism.

If an editor does not pervert facts to obtain partisan supremacy, rather seek to promote the advancement of the inalienable rights of man. If in the more independent position in society as that of a workingman, farmer, mechanic, or artizan, do not lend yourselves as the tools of designing men, to elevate themselves at your expense to be your lords and masters. Inform yourselves of the principles of your government, of all governments, that you may intelligently carry out the principles most conducive to freedom and the elevation of the human race. By thus honestly and conscientiously adhering to truth and justice, you will in the end best promote your own true interests, and soonest bring about that glorius millenium when men will do unto others as they would that others should do unto them.

☞ The great mass of the intelligent freemen of our country are very nearly agreed as to what is the true interest of the country both in its National and State policy—but interested politicians, men who make politics their trade, whereby they may live at the expense of the people's labor, are interested in continually leading them astray, by exciting them by hard names to hard thoughs of each other, that they may accomplish their own selfish ends. It is the true interest of the people to discountenance this degrading abuse as unworthy the attention of a people who should be governed by their intelligence and not by their passions.

The great fundamental principle of our government is the political equality of all men's rights guaranteed to them by the constitution, and which all men as being an integral portion of the Sovreignty of these United States should religiously maintain, as thereby best securing their own individual rights by maintaining the eqnal rights of all. By a strict adherence to this fundamental principle of our government alone can the people hope to sustain and transmit to their posterity a government truily democratic.

The great mass of the people, the workingmen, the farmers, mechanics, and artizans, who create all the wealth of a country, should stand firm and true to each other and not be cajoled out of their rights by designing men, men who under som specious pretext to benefit the people, cheat them out of their rights.

Has not every special act of incorporation that has ever been granted by our legislature been obtained under some specious pretext to benefit the people, as the Camden and Amboy Rail Road and Delaware and Raritan Canal Companies, as the Plainfield Bank, and a thousand other special priviliges for banks, ferry companies, bridges, turnpikes, &c. &c., which special acts have always defeated the very object as held out as an inducement to grant them? Will the people ever again submit to have their inalienable rights, purchased by the blood and treasure of their patriot forefathers, and the Constitution violated by the creation of another special act.

ANOTHER CALL..—We learn that the Collegiate Reformed Dutch Church of this city have sent a call to Rev. T. W. Chambers, of Somerville, N. J.--Tribune.

PROCLAMATION.
By Daniel Haines
Govenor of the State of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, it becomes a Christian people publicly to acknowledge their dependence upon Almighty God, and unitedly to render Him humbly and hearty thaks for all his benefits:

AND WHEREAS, during another year, the people of this State have been placed under peculiar obligations for the removal of the pestilence, and the restoration of health; for the abundant products of the earth, and for the peace and prosperity that prevails throughout the land:

I do, therefore, hereby set apart and appoint THURSDAY, the 29th day of Novembr next, as a day of public thanksgiving, prayer, and praise; and I respectfully recommend to all my fellow-citizens, that, abstaining from their usual employments, they assemble on that day in their respective places of public worship, to offer unto God the incense of humble and grateful praise; and to supplicate the continuance of His Goodness to us, and that he would extend the gospel of His grace, and the blessings of peace, and of civil and religious liberty to all nations.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name, and affixed the privy seal, at the City of Trenton, the twenty fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine.

[L. S.]

DANIEL HAINES.

Arrival of the Hibernia.

The British mail steamer Hibernia reached her dock yesterday at 2 P. M. She brings London papers to the 19, and Liverpool of the 20th ult., both inclusive.

It makes one's blood start to read of the diabolical murder of Hungarian officers by the Austrian authorities. Count Batthyany, and the late Prime minister of Hungary, is one of the victims. Some 13 to 15 Hungarian Generals have perished in the same way. Everlasting shame to the nation which can thus imbrue its hands in the blood of prisoners. Surely the day of veangance will come, and may come sooner than is expected.

Russia, after many disasters, has gained an important advantage over the Circassians, in the capture of one of their principal fortresses. Troughout Europe, with the exception, perhaps, of France, despotism has regained its accustomed ascendancy. Popery is lifting its head as proudly as ever, and liberty, both civil and religious, is languishing. 'O rise some other sun!'

The Roman question is still pending in the French Assembly, and the result is uncertain.

Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—60,000 men were yesterday reviewed at San Stefano, on the coast of Marmora, by the Sultan. Sir Stratford Canning and General Aupick were present. After the review both Ambassadors were honored with an audience by the Sultan.

Her Majesty's steam-frigate Odin arrived here this morning from Corfu and Athens, with despatches for Sir Stratford Canning. It is understood that the Odin is to remain here for some time under the orders of the Ambassador. Her arrival caused a great sensation. She brought the news that the English and French fleets were shortly expected at Vourlabay, near the mouth of the Dardanelles.

Turkey and Russia.

There is no later news in the European Times, the only paper that has come to hand, from Constantinople or St. Petersburgh, and of course we have got no solution of the difficulty between the Porte and the Autocrat: the general belief, however, among well informed circles, is said to be that Russia will pocket the affront, rather than provoke a colission with France and England. There is a rumor from Paris, that in consequence of the relation in which Louis Napoleon stands with the Czar, he would gladly forego the support of the nation in behalf of Turkey. A correspondent writing from Belgrade on the 1st instant, states that the Hungarian refugees were still at Widden, ready to set out for the destination they may receive. They were divided into three camps –an Italian, a Hungarian, and a Polish one. Each camp is under the order of a colonel, and each man receives daily rations according to his grade, like the Brittish troops. Prince Alexander, of Servia, had behaved very well towards them, allowing them free passage through his territory, and provisions. Bem, Dembinski, and several others, have not only embraced Islamism, but entered the Turkish army. The Porte is said to have appointed the Isle of Candia as the residence of the refugee Magyars.

Horrible Crime, Double Murder, The Perpetrator to be Burned Alive.

St. Louis, Nov 5.—A revolting case of rape and murder took place the other day, near Palmyra. A negro belonging to Mr. Glasscock, committed violence on Miss Bright, an interesting little girl, 14 years of age, and then murdered her. For fear of being detected, the inhuman monster turned round and killed her brother, aged 11 years. The wretch has been arrested, and will be burned alive on Friday.

Young Barnum, who was shot in St. Louis by the French brothers Montesquieu, is much better, and hopes are entertained of his recovery.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—To those wishing to take a periodical of a scientific nature, we would most heartily commend the Scientific American. We know of no work which furnishes such a vast amount of valuable information on scientific and utilitarian subjects, for so insignificant a sum ($2,00 per annum) as the above named journal. All will find it valuable and interesting; at least every mechanic in the land should take and preserve a copy.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

The season of flowers and fruits has passed away, and the falling leaves, withered grass, and neglected gardens, all bear witness that

"The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of the year."

It is true, at times the weather is very pleasant, and the children of Poverty rejoice that the chilling blast of Winter do not yet howl around their humble dwellings.

—This is one of the most glorious days of the season. Late as it is, the air is very mild, and the sun shines brightly and warmly on the open field, as well as in every nook and corner of the leafless woods. The streets are thronged with well-dressed people, on their way to church. Mistres and maid, master and servant are all clad in their best attire; and it is difficult to tell the employer from the employed. One would suppose that those who worship in Christian temples imagine that God had more respect to the adornment of their persons than to the clean hands and pure hearts of those who approached his altar. When will professing Christians learn that their pride is a greater hindrance to the advent of the good time—when all shall deal justly and love mercy—than aught beside?

—Yonder comes a long procession, embracing a large number of the young and beautiful; what can it mean? Ah, their downcast looks and measured tread furnish painful evidence that they are following a beloved companion to her last resting-place.

The seventeenth Summer had hardly passed over the head of Mary —— ere she drooped like a beautiful flower that has been destroyed by a worm gnawing at its heart. It makes me very Sad to see one so good and lovely fall a prey to the Destroyer. We would be almost tempted to call in question the goodness of the Creator, when we see one whose early dawn gave promise of a glorious day so suddenly overshadowed by the Spirit of Darkness did we not know that mercy and judgment are the habitations of his throne. Infinite Wisdom never errs, though our faith is often weak and our path dark. The light of eternity will reveal to us the wisdom of many of the dealings of God with us, which now appear like unnecessary chastisements.

—Let us follow in the rear of the procession, and heed the lessons we may receive in the City of the Dead. If we are not deaf and blind we may here learn the unsatisfactory nature of all earthly goods. The companions of our youth, the friends whom we loved with all our hearts, lie in the silent and dark chambers beneath our feet. Their work is accomplished: they are resting from their labors: and the good works they have done are registered on high. While the clergyman pronounces "Earth to earth, and dust to dust," the thought will arise, "Who of us who now stand around the open grave will first be borne on our companions' shoulders to the place of his last rest?" If we love our neighbor as ourself, Death will not find us unprepared let him come when or how he may. While we should not wish to shun our part in the Battle of Life it will not be unwise or unmanly to be ready when the Master calls, whether we are in the bloom of youth, in the prime of life, or even though we have reached threescore and ten.

J. C.

ILL-JUDGED ZEAL.—The Presbyterian synod of New York have issued an address to the Israelites within its district, of a character aimed to enlist the sympathies and efforts of that people in the great work of disseminating spiritual knowledge among the heathen. The appeal fully anticipates the rely which the jews will make to an address of this kind—namely, that they have no faith in many of the leading doctrines of presbyterianism, and that, therefore, they cannot form any union with it. The synod, however, considers it the duty of all, not of the heathen world, to unite in the object they propose. This object is the dissemination not only of the Bible—to which we presume the Israelites would have no objection—But the New Testament also. We do not know on what ground the Presbyterians can expect the Jews to aid in the distribution of the new Testament, and the proposition seems to us rather an impudent one. The Israelites do not believe in that book and therefore cannot consistently aid in its dissemination. If the followers of Islam were to ask the Presbyterians to aid in the distribution of the Koran among the Israelites, the followers of Calvin would feel quite indignant at the insulting proposition; and yet in fact there is no more difference between such a proposal and that which is now made by the Presbyterians. We think that the address of the Presbyterians is in extremely bad taste, and can only be excused upon the plea of immoderate and ill-judged zeal.—Sunday Dispatch.

MARRIED.

On Saturday evening, Oct. 27. by Rev. E. L. Ambler, Mr. Francis W. H. Estus of Plainfield, to Miss. Elizabeth Blazur of Basking Ridge.

On Sunday Eveing Nov. 4th., by Rev. Lewis Bond, Mr. Alvah Freeman to Miss Sharlet Terry, all of Plainfield.

GEORGE VANNESS'

SHAVING & HAIR DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call. ☜

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. F. BROOKS.

Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1840. [72.

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

HUTCHINGS'

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY.

No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.

L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy: her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs: there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st

Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Upstairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜

November 1849. [98.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS, Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds, Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N.J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m. Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk. Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [52.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59] 148 Market-street Newark.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy. Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. ☜ [54.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufncture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.

No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE,

THE ACKNOWLEDGED BLACKWOOD OF AMERICA.

An impartial press has awarded to Sartain the credit of publishing the best Magazine in America. Their decision is founded upon the established fact, that he publishes better and more varied embellishmens than any of his rivals and that pays for original contributions more than all his competitors combined, and hence has secured authors of the highest repute in America and Europe.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS

To SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COMING VOLUME JANUARY, 1850.

The publishers of SARTAIN'S MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE AND ART, announce to the reading public, that whilst their Magazine for 1849 is acknowledged to be superior in every respect to any other published in this country, they have made arrangements whereby the Magazine for the next year will EXCEL ALL ITS FORMER ISSUES.

The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will remain under the control of its present able Editors.

Prof. JOHN S. HART, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. CAROLINE M. KIRKLAND, of New York, who, besides articles from their own pens every month, have secured contributions from the

BEST AUTHORS

In Europe and America.

These contributions, including some of the most brilliant Magazine articles any where to be found, are entirely original, being WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR OUR MAGAZINE, and not selected from other publications.

If we cannot attract distinguished names to our list of contributors by the liberality of our prices, or the respectability of our Magazine, we assuredly shall not try to gain the appearance of it, by taking extracts from authors of great name, and so mixing them up in our table of contents, that they shall seem to be original. Among the many distinguished names in our list of contributors, may be mentioned the following,

MANY OF WHOM

WRITE FOR NO OTHER PERIODICAL.

Frederika Bremer, of Sweden, William Howitt, of England, Mary Howitt, do., R. H. Horne, do., author of "A new spirit of the Age," "Orion," &c., Silverpen, the popular contributor to "Eliza Cook's Journal," the author of "Mary Barton," Henry W. Longfellow, Rev. George W. Bethune, D. D., N. P. Willis, Miss C. M. Sedgewick, George H. Boker, John Neal, J. Russell Lowell, Francis J Grund, Joseph R. Chandler, Rev. W. H. Furness, D. D., Mrs L. H. Sigourney, Prof. Alden, Rev. J. P. Durbin, D. D., Mrs. E. Oakes Smith, Rev. John Todd, D.D., Mrs. Francis S. Osgood, Rev. Albert Barnes, Mrs. L. M. Child, Prof. Rhoads, Mrs. Anne C. Lynch, Park Benjamin, Mrs. C. M. Butler, Henry T. Tuckerman, Miss Eliza L. Sproat, Hery William Herbert, Mrs. Joseph C. Neal, Mrs. E. F. Ellett, Edgar A. Poe, Prof. Moffat, Mrs. E. C. Kinney, Rev. Robert Davidson, D. D., "Edith May," Augustine J. Duganne, Caroline May, Richard Willis, Alfred R. Street, Charles J. Peterson, George S. Burleigh, C. H. Wiley, Charles G. Leland, Rev. Thomas Brainerd, Rev. H. Hastings Weld, Miss E. Bogart, Miss E. A. Starr, John H. Hopins, T. S. Arthur, G. G. Foster, Mrs. Mary S. Whitaker. R. H. Stoddard, Eugene Lies, Richard Grant White Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Miss Harriet Farley, Rev. S. I. Prime, D. D. Wm. D Lewis, Mrs. E. H. Swift, Mrs. Emma C. Embury, Miss Alice Carey, Francis De H. Janvier, Mrs Mary Hughs, Miss Maria J. B. Browne, Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton, Mrs. F. M. Brotherson, Miss Anne T. Wilbur, Mrs. J. L. Gray.

NO SECOND-HAND WORN-OUT PLATES

APPEAR IN THIS MAGAZINE.

Mr. SARTAIN has entire control of the PICTORIAL DEPARTMENT, and beside embellisements from his own burin, he will be assisted by some of the BEST ARTISTS OF THIS COUNTRY.

WORN-OUT LONDON STEEL ENGRAVINGS, WHICH ARE FREELY USED BY SOME PERIODICALS, will not find their way into the pages of 'SARTAIN,' under any circumstances. There would be a vast saving to the Publishers in using such plates, as they can be purchased at almost any price, from $25 down to the price of the metal. We aim to give the best, both in Literature and Art.

THE FASHIONS

Fashion Plates are of the nature of news. The lady who wishes to dress frshionably, does not ask what was worn, but what is worn. She does not want in 1849 the fashions of 1848, nor in December those of of August. Paris is the acknowledged centre of the mode, whence all fashions primarily originate. Any periodical which employs a process of "Americanizing" them, that requires from three to six months, can only be compared to a newspaper that should persist in importing its files of foreign news by the old line of Liverpool packets, or hire a man at great "extra" expense to bring the news on foot from New Orleans, instead of using the Steamer and the Telegraph. By the method we have adopted, a cut, giving the Fashions with the minutest accuracy, can be completed in three or four days after the arrival of te steamer. To execute the same on steel, and then color it, for a large edition, requires as many months. Of this we had a striking proof during the issue for 1849, by which we gave the FASHIONS THREE OR FOUR MONTHS AHEAD OF OUR COMPETITORS! Our plan enables us also to furnish triple the number of plates, thus furnishing four readers with all the prevailing modes of Paris and London. Instead of a single plate with two figures, we often give three or four plates, with eight or ten distinct figures, each exhibiting a seperate costume.

NEW FEATURES.

We have many features and improvements entirely new in Magazine publishing, which will be introduced into the forthcoming volume. We do not design, however, to solicit support to SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE by promises. Assured of the confidence manifested in our enterprise by a liberal and discriminating public in more than tripling the original subscription list in a single year, we close our Prospectus for the New Volume, by referring the public to a few of the thousand notices of our brethren of the press, promising only that there shall be no diminution on our part, either in exertion or expense, to merit a continued and increased patronage.

TERMS: Single Copies 25 cents.

One Copy $3 per Annum, and a premium of either a portrait of the late Ex-Presidents James K. Polk, William Henry Harrison, Group of the Washington Family, General Taylor, Benjamin West or Henry Clay. Either of these Engravings is worth alone $3. Two Copies $5 per Annum, and either of the above premiums to each subscriber.

Five Copies $10 per Annum, and an extra Magazine and one of the premiums to the agent or person getting up the Club.

Having made an arrangement with the publishers for copies of the elebrated mezzotinto Picture, "THE DATH-BED OF JOHN WESLEY," we make the following LIBERAL OFFER!

One copy of the Magazine one year, and the Wesley Print, $3, or 20 copies of the WESLEY PRINT, and Nine copies of Sartains Union Magazine for $20.

Remember, the impressions are not from a worn-out English plate, but from a new plate engraved in the highest style of the art. Those sending their money early will get proof impressions.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY!

Any new subscriber, sending us Five Dollars prior to the 1st of February 1850, shall receive in retura full setts of Sartain's Magazine for 1849 and 1850, and two volumes of Campbell's Foreign Monthly Magazine, and the Washington or Taylor print, thus securing upwards of 3000 pages of literary matter, and upwards of 400 engravings for $5.

The post town sending the largest number of mail subscribers for the year 1850, prior to the 1st of April next, together with the advance payment, will be entitled, gratis, to the same number of Sartain's Magazine, for the year 1851. For the second largest list each subscriber will be entitled to one of our premium plates. Remember, these plates are of a large size, and suitable for a parlor ornament.

Persons wishing to get up a club, will be supplied with a specimen number, by writing for it, and paying the postage. TERMS INVARIABLY IN ADVANCE. Address

JOHN SARTAIN & Co., Philadelphia.

FREE SCHOOL.

MR. DAVISON'S Free School is now in operation in the Village School House. Colored Children now avail yourself of the privilege, the school is now open for your reception. He returns thanks for past favors and solicits a continuance.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,

332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

THE LARGEST

DRY GOODS ESTABLISHMENT

IN THE STATE.

IS NOW OPEN, with the most extensive assortment in the city of Newark, of RICH CASHMERE LONG SHAWLS, SCOTCH PLAID LONG SHAWLS, with Five "Cartons" of Lyons ("best" all wool) BROCHE SQUARE SHAWLS, purchast in the Auction Room—about half of the original cost to import. They are the greatest bargains ever offered in New Jersey, with a large stock of Rich Dress Goods, Merino's, Coburg's and Parramatto's English Prints and Ginghams, Cassimers and Satinets, Flannels and Blankets.

DOMESTIC'S, the largest stock in New Jersey, selling at New York Wholesale prices, by the Bale, Piece or Yard, as we received them direct from the manufactory and the only agents for the State, of New Jersey at the "BROADWAY BRANCH."

N. B. Auction Goods, opening daily, a large lot of Drapery's from auction this morning, with many other styles of Goods, very cheap, at

BASSETTS, opposite the Park, 182 Broad st.

55] Newark.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,

FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold. Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some Kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, & OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the country, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News---both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the state of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator–The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings,

of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1849. NO. 48.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

The inducements to dishonesty and hypocracy as held out by the world, are greater than those which are offered to honesty and virtue; hence the ignorant and superficial are led astray by its flattering allurements.

He who flatters wealth and titles with fawning and servility, he who in the place of his own knowledge and judgment pays the most defference to the dictum of party, he who blindly submits to the sectarian dogmas of priests, in place of the more weighty matters of truth, of love, of justice, in his dealings with his fellow man, are considered by the world as the most honest, the most religious, and the best men; while those who acknowledge no merit in wealth, no religion in profession, no truth that contradicts the evidence of their own senses, no divine right of kings and priests, no rule of life that is not in accordance with that golden axiom "do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you," are proscribed like its author as infidels, as having no rights, and as only worthy to be hewers of wood and drawers of water to those whose chicanery have placed them above the honest and deserving. Need we wonder longer that men are dishonest, that they are hypocrites, when every inducement is held out for them to be so?

Take for example that person crossing the street yonder, you all know him, he lives in a fine house, has fine furniture and wears costly and fashionable clothes.—Does he "owe no man any thing?" Ask the carpenter who built his house, the tailor who made his coat, the merchant who furnished the cloth; all will tell you they cannot get their pay; yet his favors are courted, he is a member of the church, and to all outward appearance in the worlds treatment of him an honest and an honorable man; he may equivocate, aye he may lie as he has done numberless times in his promises to pay the tailor, the shoemaker, the carpenter, and the merchant; yet he is courted and flattered while honest poverty is "passed by on the other side." All know this is not exaggeration, every persons experience corroborates it, yet if he acknowledge the powers that be, whether in his own judgmet they are of God or not he is courted, flattered, trusted; while he who lives by the sweat of his brow, who pays his debts, and therefore does not have a fine house, or fine or fashionable clothes, because he is cajoled, cheated, lied out of his just dues and rights by the dishonest pharisee, he is treated with contumely, and because he is independent enough to hold such characters at their just estimation, he is anathematised and consigned to—no one knows where. C.

The election in New Jersey has resulted beyond doubt in the triumph of the so-called anti-monopolists. But they have only triumphed in name; in principle they have declared their bankruptcy, and their representatives will never perform the act for which they were virtually elected. A set of demagogues, kicked out by both of the political parties, have managed to ride into power upon an impulse of the people, to enjoy for a term the spoils of office, when they will be stripped of their hypocritical plumes, and execrated as unmitigated cheats. The just elected Legislature of New Jersey will no more think or dare to repeal the Charter of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, than they would dare to violate the Constitution of the United States. The members are no doubt chuckling in their sleeves at this moment over the clap-trap by which they have gotten the votes of the people; and if there were no United States Constitution in the way of their repudiation, it would not require a vast amount of money to make the New Jersey Legislature in spite of pledges, supple to any purpose.—N. Y. Sun.

That is, provided they are of the same kidney as the New York Sun, men who were connected with the Plainfield Bank do not stand at trifles—we wonder what the company paid for those extra Sun's distributed at Somerville N. J., and for the above paragraph? As they have generally speculated on a large scale, it doubtless requires a lare sum to make them so "supple to any purpose."

Wheeling Suspension Bridge.

The Wire Suspension Bridge, at Wheeling, Va., over the Ohio River, is completed, as we learn from the Wheeling papers, and the scientific and daring engineer Charles Ellett, Jr., has added another laurel to his chaplet of honor, in thus having successfully erected the longest suspension bridge in the world, an honor to our country, and especially to the good folks of Wheeling; to one of her respected citizens, James Baker, Esq., we are indebted for a very neat pamphlet of Mr. Ellett's on the subject, from which we derive the following particulars, and perhaps we may say more about it at some other time.

The flooring is supported by 12 cables of iron each cable 4 inches in diameter, composed of 550 strands of No. 10 wire, and is 1,380 feet long, and from centre to centre of the abutments, the flooring is 1,010 feet long, 24 feet wide, with two foot-ways, each 3 1-3 feet, and an intermediate carriage way 17 feet wide. The cables rest on iron rollers placed on the summits of the towers, the movements of which will relieve the towers of the strain, and are anchored into the heavy masonry of the wing walls at each end of the bridge. The length of the wood-work which rests on the cables, is 960 feet; its weight 546 lbs. per lineal foot, or 524,160 pounds, or 262 tons in the whole. The weight of each lineal foot of the 12 cables, composed of 6,600 strands, is 330 pounds, making, with the weight of timber, bolts, castings, suspenders, &c., 920 lbs per lineal foot, or 441 tons as the permanent weight of the bridge itself. Above its own weight the bridge is constructed to support the greatest transitory weight that is ever likely to be, or we may say, can possibly be brought upon it, such as two columns of teams and the sides loaded with men, so as to weigh, jointly, 297 tons, or the average weight of 4,000 men, and the strength of the bridge is calculated to support three times the amount of tension that ever can be brought to bear upon it. This bridge will no doubt last long as a monument of American skill and enterprise.—Scientific American.

"There are over a thousand princes in Germany, great and small, who receive annually from the people over two hundred millions of dollars; while a laborer works eighteen hours out of twenty-four for seventy-two cents per week."

This system of robbery is called "government protection," and the workers in America will yet be as severely robbed unless they take the reins of government into their own hands, and give every man his natural rights. It matters not whether robbers are called princes, or lawyers, doctors, priests, or republican officers, so long as their acts are the same. Here in this Union, every year witnesses an increase of officers and an increase in the amount of salaries, which were in the beginning too high by one half, and the workers submit to it, vote for it throw up their caps and hurraw about it, and then toil like slaves to foot the bills of expense!—Portland Pleasure Boat.

FILING NEWSPAPERS.—How easy it would be, and how much satisfaction would be derived from it, and how much more orderly and business like would it look, if people would just file and preserve their papers after reading them. It is true yesterday's paper may be a very stale affair, but keep it for your grandchildren to read and he will find it a richer treat than wine of the same age.—[Pic.

A QUEER PARTY.—A paper published at Akron, Ohio, states that some time since a party of gentlemen and their ladies, from that village visited a place of refreshment in Middleburgh, where they passed a short time, and after they departed, a boy about the house, who had occasion to enter the room several times during their stay, remarked that "they were the queerest gals he ever see'd, cause when there were chairs enough in the room for them to sit on, the tarnal critters would sit on the boys' laps."

"My love, you don't look so handsome as common, lately."

"I know it but how can one afford to be beautiful when paint is so dear?"

INDIAN LITERATURE.—The Chippeway Indian Chief Ka-ge-ga-gah-bowh, (who delivered a lecture on Indian customs at Laing's Hall,) several of whose letters from the Far West have lately appeared in the Journal of Commerce is about to publish, 'A Narrative of the Traditional History of the Ojibeway Nation,' and a volume of 'Legends and Tales of the Forest.' The latter will comprise about twenty-five Legends and Tales, among which is the following:

From the Journal of Commerce.

THE THUNDER'S NEST—AN INDIAN LEGEND. By G. Copway, or Kah-ge-ga-gah-bowh, Ojibeway Nation.

Wild fancies have wrought out wild stories in the wigwam. The following, which was related to me, will impart some information relative to the Indian's idea of Thunder.

Once upon a time when no wars had existed among men, the only thing they feared was a great bird which was occasionally seen moonlight nights. When it was seen in the day time, its presence was usually followed by the visitation of some great misfortune upon any one who should chance to see it.

These monstrous birds were supposed to have their nest somewhere, and great anxiety existed to know its location, as well as to learn somewhat of the nature of the bird. But no one seemed to have been fortunate enough to discover the resort of these great birds, which were called Ah-ne-me-kexg (Thunder.)

There lived on the Northern shore of Lake Superior an indian warrior, who, from his childhood, had been noted for being a wise and sedate man. It was supposed by many that he would some day go on a great exploit, as none were like him for courage, wisdom, and prudence.

As he was returning from one of his hunting expeditions, the night came on sooner than he expected, and darkness gathered around, while he was a great distance from his home. On his way he was obliged to traverse the ice on lake and river. The moon arose clear and bright as ever it shone to light a traveler's path. On his back was the beaver, and in his hand the tried and trusty spar with which he had captured it.

As he was crossing the last lake on his way home, the shadow of some great object passed before him, and he soon saw approaching a great bird, which in a momentcaught him, and all he had, and arose.

The bird carried him Westward, far above the earth, yet not so far as to prevent him from seeing it, and what was taking place upon it. After travelling a great distance, they came in view of a high hill, upon which were no trees, but there stood South one bold, barren rock.

As they neared it, the bird endeavored to dash him upon one side of this great rock, but as it did this, the old Indian so placed his spear that he was not injured in the least degree. At last he was thrown upon the place were the young birds were; he heard fierce thunders over his head, and found himself left to the mercy of the young. Soon they began to peck his head, when he, finding them helpless, ventured to make battle with them. The Indian warrior arose and soon found they were too much for him. Whenever they winked, a flash of lightning would pass from their eyes, and so scorch him as to burn his hands and face.

The birds were quite small, and were not old enough to do much execution.

He by persevereance gained the mastery over them, and finally killed both with his spear. He dragged one of them to the edge and rolled it over the precipice. He took the skin from the other; then looking around, discovered that he was near the Northwest end of Lake Superior. He threw the carcase from him, and after filling his pipe with Ke-ne-ke-nick and tobacco, and drawing one or two whiffs, he held it in his hand and pointing with the stem to four corners of the heavens, offered up a prayer, which he believed was heard. He got inside of the young Thunder-Skin, sewed himself in it, and rolled down the rocks. Tumbling from rock to rock, the feathers of the skin in which he was sewed, bore him on its wings, and a fews days flight carried him near the spot from whence he was taken ten days before. His wife and children were mourning his loss, for they had seen him taken from the ice. They were sure that he had been taken away by some mysterious spirit; but when he thus returned he surprised them by bringing to his chidren the hearts of the young Thunders. He broiled them, and as he did so the fire made a crackling noise. (Children are told now, when the fire makes a noise, that the hearts of young Thunders are broiling in it.

The next summer the mountain West of Mushelugachtong, on Lake Superior was continually enveloped in flames and heavy clouds, for there the nest of the Thunders rested before mankind went in such crowds; since, the great birds are seen but seldom, but are often heard in the skies. They fly higher than they then did. Then they lived on mankind, but now they subsist on wild game of the forests. They wink, and the fire flashes from their eyes. They now live on the Ah-sin-wah-gorig, (Rocky Mountains,) in the West and you hear them pass over your heads, towards the East, on their way to the Sea; for they live on serpents since they have been subdued by man, and had it not been for them, there would have been a vast number of serpents.

Boot and Shoe Convention.

A Convention was recently held in this City at Judson's Hotel for the purpose of forming an association on the old plan of manufacturing, but the Chairman J. R. Pidkin, Esq., stated that having heard of a new system, introduced into Massachusetts, he was induced to enquire into it, and the result was, that they concluded to postpone the starting of the company till they were able to begin right, and upon a broader scale. The plan proposed was that of Manufacturing by "teams," that is upon the well established princible of division of labor, which has been so successful in England. Instead of having one man to make an entire shoe, there will be 15 makers each, every man having his own department. One man cuts out the sole the shape of the foot by a single stroke of an instrument, and by another stroke the edge is pared, another man puts on the van, another drives the pegs, and so on. There was one boy, 12 years of age, in the estabsishment of Bigelow & Co., Marlborough, Mass., who commenced to peg in April, and from the 1 st to the 14th of June he earned at the rate of $12 per month, and on the 15th he earned $15 and his board, having pegged 35 pairs in a day. He knew an instance of another boy, in New Haven, who pegged 11 pairs a day for his schooling and boarding, and on Saturday when there was no school, he pegged 30 pairs. In one of these factories a Frenchman was able te earn $35 per month and board, by putting in the vans. One house was manufacturing $250,000 worth a year, another $500,000 worth, and in Mass. there were $18,000,000 worth manufactured annually; yet the demand was greater than the supply, and there was an ample field in New York for the investment of capital and the enjoyment of the surplus labor—hence the American Union Association was set on foot.

We believe that the brothers Bigelow, of Marlborough, Mass., have commenced he manufacture in this city, and there can be no doubt of their success, owing to the ingenuity and enterprise enlisted in the business.—Sci. American.

A SCRAP FOR DEBATING SOCIETIES.—At a debating club not far off, the question was discussed, whether there is more happiness in the possession or pursuit of an object? and was decided no doubt in favor of the following: 'Mr. President,' said the orator, 'spose I was courtin' a gal, and she was to run away, and I was to run arter her, wouldn' I be happier when I cotched her than when I was running arter her?'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, November 15, 1849.

Does the Constitution of the United States and of the State of New Jersey guarantee to the people equal rights? If they do, and these rights are inalienable, as they were declared to be by those who asserted and maintained them, then how can the legislature, the representatives of the people, who are sworn to protect and defend the constitution, legislate away an inalienable right? Shall we be told that because they did pass such an act, although violating the Constitution, and the oath which they had taken to support it, that because it was accepted and acted on for a longer or a shorter time, that therefore it has become a right? Wherefore the use of a Constitution if it may thus be evaded and set at defiance by an act of the legislature, who possess no powers other than those delegated to them by the people through the Constitution? An inalienable right cannot be delegated away, not even by the largest possible majority, because this is made the fundamental basis of our government, thus securing the rights of the minority inviolate; which principle we trust will ever make it imperishable; every man being an integral portion of its sovereignty, enjoying equal rights under equal laws, is equally bound to protect it. He who would ask for more is a tyrant, he who submits to less is a slave.

If this doctrine is correct—and we trust no true republican will dispute it—then are all exclusive privileges unconstitutional—whatever is not open to all upon equal condtions, as under a general law is of this character, and will be declared by the people when made fully aware of their rights by education, null and void.

The great mass of the intelligent people of the State of New Jersey are fully sensible of the importance of these rights, as is evident by their recent agitation of them; and as both parties at the recent election professed to be opposed to monopolies and pledged themsleves against all exclsive priviles, we trust the people will hold them to their pledges.

The people of New Jersey have determined that this incubus on her energies—which not only has the monopoly of the right of way across the State, but has also the audacity to otherwise interfere in the legislation of the State, making all other measures subsidiary to their interests, thereby setting at naught the freewill and mandate of the people—shall be done away—and as both parties courted their suffrages as being par-excellence the anti-monopoly party, and as some of both parties have been elected by assuming this to be the cause of the people, and that they are its champions—we trust they will unite together to be, as they justly should be, the protectors and defenders of the people's rights.

We also trust there will be no special act passed—as it has ever been, by special acts, through some plausible pretext to benefit the people, that they have been cheated out of their rights—that the few have been enabled to live without labor, at the expense and labor of the many—this has ever been the great source of corrupt legislation—will the people longer suffer its continuance?

As the members elect are all committed against this species of legislation, and in favor of general laws, we shall look with much confidence for a general railroad law, a general banking law, also a general law as applicable to all manufacturing purposes requiring an act of incorporation—to free schools, ferry privileges, bridges, turnpikes, or plank roads, temperance houses, taverns, charitable institutions, &c. &c., Shall we have them?—we shall see.

The Result in New Jersey.

The Senate comprises 16 members, of which we have ten, just a majority. In the House of 58 members, the Whigs have 33, including the Passaic Assemblymen who were elected on Union tickets, one being and old Whig member, and the other said to be a Whig—which gives a majority of 9 on joint ballot.

The Whig majority on joint ballot last year was 25, viz: 5 in the Senate; House 20.—Newark Sentinel.

ABSENCE OF MIND.—It is related of a certain magistrate living in the valley of Conuecticut, who was so fascinated by the appearance of a pretty lady witness before his court that instead of the Blble, he presented his face to kiss. He never discovered his mistake, till his wife, who happened to be present, gave him a rushing box on the ear.

We have been informed by Mr. Peabody, a very respectable old gentleman living on the road leading to Rahway, about two miles from this village, that his house was violently assaulted on Sunday morning last between 12 and 2 o'clock, by some young rowdies of this place.—They broke in the door and window and demanded something to drink, they also overturned a cask of Buckwheat at the door, threw some wash-tubs down the well and otherwise maltreated him. They finally, after repeated remonstrance departed.

How long must the citizens of this place and vicinity submit to these outrages? We understand that most of the outrages of this description are done by some six or eight boys from 14 to 16 years of age. Shall the peace and quiet of our village, the property and perhaps lives of its citizens, be thus jeopardized by a few worthless vagabonds? Must we wait until some act of incendiaryism or murder is committed before there is any exertions made to anate these disgraceful acts. We would recommend the citizens to contribute a fund, sufficient to employ a private watch, until they shall be detected, and also for prosecution, as most generally these outrages are committed upon those least likely to resent them.

Burglary.

The premises of Mr. John Briant, Manufacturer of Clothing, in this village, were entered on Wednesday night 7th inst, supposed by false keys, and robbed of about $1,000 worth of ready made Clothing; as also the store of French & Bryan communicating with the former by a door, of some pieces of Cloth. No discovery has yet been made of the thieves or goods. One hundred dollars is offered for the recovery of the goods and conviction of the thief.

Joseph Cowan, of New Market, and Michael Field, of Somerville, were arrested on suspicion; they were examined before Elias Kirkpatrick Esq.; the former was discharged, and the latter gave bail for his appearance on the 26th. inst. for further examination.

Theodore Boice was also arrested on Tuesday night at Gateville, at the house of his brother-in-law, James McCullough, who denied his being there, and resisted those who attempted to arrest him. McCullough will also be arrested, and both be examined this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Elections.

Election Day is not now what it once was. We reccollect when the polls were surrounded by crowds of thousands eagerly wating to deposite their ballots. We remember when election-day might wtih propriety have been called riot-day and intoxication day; and when as a consequence liquor-venders marked it with a white stone. Now, thanks to temperance, and some very judicious regulation on the part of our Aldermanic Fathers, the elections are characterized by neither rioting, nor drunkenness. All is orderly; and though torchlight processions with fife and drum may form a lively evening picture, though some excitable spirits may celebrate the hollday with too little regard for sobriety, these are exceptions, and not the rule.

One cannot help wondering, on comparing the number of those entitled to vote with those that do go to the polls, to find so great a discrepancy. The inference is plain; there are many, perhaps a majority of voters, that do not avail themselves of their rights of suffrage. The whole system by which both parties couduct these matters; the outrageous manner in which nominations are bought and sold; the notorious corruption employed to elect the candidates on both sides; the humiliating coutrol which a few artful and intriguing demagogues exercise over the masses; have become so evident, so gross, and disgusting, that many an honest man shuns the polls, and refuses to vote, lest he be deemed guilty of abetting so vile a system. Our whole plan of nominations and elections, of committees and cliques, needs expurgation. The people of America do NOT elect their rulers! it is the demagogue, the petty and pitiful committee-man that does it. When will the people cast off this yoke, and make their own selections? When will they vindicate their boasted freedom, and throw off a despotism, unworthy of men!—Literary American.

☞ Captain Yard, formerly of Trenton in this State, has been elected to the N. Y. Legislature on the Democrat ticket in Kings County, L. I. by about 30 majority.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Russia, alarmed by the hostile attitude of France and England, has expressed a willingness to settle the difficulty with Turkey, without a recourse to arms. This is what we predicted, being the most prudent course the Emperor could adopt; but, at the same time, it is a humiliating blow to Russia—coming, as she did, fresh from the field of victory in Hungary, it is worse. This positive declaration of war against Turkey, in case the Hungarian refugees were not delivered up, has been arrested by the demonstrations of England and France, and Russia will forever be paralyzed in her warlike demonstrations, and her uplifted arm arrested by those two powers, whenever pride or ambition induce her to violate the rights of other powers. For Europe and civilization it is a triumph, for Russia a humiliating blow, and a merited one.

The pope had not yet returned to Rome, and it was reported that a Neapolitan Army of 18,000 men had arrived at Andradoia on the frontiers of the Roman States, and that another corps of 14,000 men was expected to join them. So large an army as 32,000 men, looks as if the Pope relied for aid to sustain him in Naples and probably Spain. General Zuchi has resigned, on the ground that he was engaged to serve a constitutional and not an absolute Government. Great excitement prevails, in Rome. Several have been arrested for singing the Marseillese in the streets—others to avoid arrest recite revolutionary passages. Placards appear with enormous letters of 'Death to the priests.' 'Death to the Rea Triumvirate.'

The lives of several French officers have been in danger. These events may account for the necessity of a powerful army in the vicinity of Rome to preserve order.

The Chamber of Deputies, after a stormy debate, voted in favor of the appropriations for the Roman war by a majority, of 299—the large majority, however, was to sustain the credit of the French government without approving the war.

The cholera had ceased in Paris. The movements of France in relation to Turkey appear to be unanimously approved by the people. The French fleet, consisting of six ships of the line, two frigates and steamers, with 8000 men and 600 guns was under weigh for the Derdanelles. The English squadron has left the Adryatic for the neighborhood of the Derdanelles, under the command of Admiral Parker. The Austrian fleet of frigates and brigs has also sailed for the Derdanelles. At Sebastapool there was a Turkish squadron of 26 vessels, only four hours sail from the Borpherus—all this naval display will be rendered useless by the settlement of the questions. The Emperor of Austria has ordered the executions of the Hungarian officers to cease, in consequence of which the tiger Haynan has resigned his post. They are still making arrests in Hungary, and punishing the insurgents severely.

In England all is quiet and prosperous, and in Ireland a better condition of affairs is apparent. Mr. and Mrs. Manning have been convicted of the murder of Patrick O'Conner, and sentenced to be executed; of their guilt no doubts are entertained. Mrs. Manning is represented to be a woman connected, in a subordinate station, with noble families, and a woman of considerable mental power, and is considered a vulgar transcript of Lady Mackbeth. She was quite violent on the verdict and the sentence being passed, and asserted her innocence.—N. Y. Republic.

Louisiana Elections.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10, 1849.

There is no doubt of the election of Walker, the demoeratic candidate for Governor.

The Congressional delegation, it is believed, will Stand the same as in the last Congress.

Election for Congress in Virginia.

WHEELING, VA., Nov. 12. 1849.

The elections for a member of Congress in the Wheeling district, in the place of A. Neuman, deceased, has resulted in the choice of Col. T. S. Haymond, whig.

☞ WISCONSIN held her Election on the same day with ours—The vote is very tight. Gov. Dewey, democrat, is reelected of course, and his party have everything.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.—Boston has gone Whig by 3,200 majority, (1,000 less than last year.) Returns have been received from 60 towns, which indicate that Gov. Briggs will fall short of an election some 1,200 votes

The House of Representatives is largely Whig.

Palfrey has been defeated for Congress.

Philips's vote will be 10,000 smaller than last year; Boutwell's will be larger.

NEW YORK STATE ELECTIONS.—The Senate is still in doubt. If the democrats elect in the Onondaga and Schoharie districts, it will be a tie!

The House is in the like predicament—though with perhaps a prospect of a democratic majority. At the worst, the democrats may tie the whigs there also.—Albany Argus of Monday.

The Duty and privilege of Man.

What a world of peace and purity this would be if all were just what they should be in all respects! Is it not strange, when all needful good is within the reach of man, that he cannot enjoy it rationally? Think, dear reader what a brotherhood there would be if each and all made the 'golden rule' the foundation of all their thoughts, words and acts, and if each and all were in all respects doing unto others just as they would have others do unto them. The first result would be to overthrow the whole system of carnal government in every State and Nation; all penal law would cease, for a universal obedience to the law of right would end all crime, would destroy all selfishness, would cause all to labor for the universal good:—all taxation that is consuming the heart's blood of honest industry would end.

Again, all the race would possess and enjoy, unmolested, their natural right to the soil, and the use of all the natural elements, whereby they would be enabled to procure the means of subsistence without drudging in slavery to pay the powerful for the use of their natural rights, which are now wrenched from them. Every man could then sit under his own vine, with no monopolist nor landlord to exact the products of his toils. Each and all would conscientiously perform their own proper part of the labors of life, so that one portion would not, as now, be compelled to support the other portion in idleness and splendor. The toiling would then find it necessary to toil but just enough for health and exercise, and would enjoy all sufficient opportunities for the improvement of their higher nature, and would thus ennoble themselves and each other, and rise to a more pure and perfect state; and such as are now killing precious time, or destroying themselves and each other with dissipation for want of honest employment, being conscientiously required to perform their proper share of labor, would be saved from the evils of idleness that are now operating for their ruin.

Obedience to the 'golden rule' or law of right, would put an end to all wars and fightings. The earth would no longer be drenched with the heart's blood of brother warring with brother—widowed mothers would no longer be multiplied by the sword, to sweep over their fartherless babes—cities would no longer fall before the horrid ravages of deadly hate, and the time and means of the vast multitudes that are now engaged in war, would be appropriated in a manner that would change the wilderness to a garden and cause the desert to blossom as the rose. All envyings, back-bitings and evil surmises would cease, and universal love and kindness would cover the earth as the waters do the sea. O! there would be songs of gladness from East to West, and From the North to the ends of the earth. No mind can calculate the vast amount of good that woald flow from obedience to the 'golden rule.'

Reader, canst thou not see and understand that man has implanted in him the love of eternal right, which if obeyed, would lead him to do as he would be done by? and dost thou not se that universal obedience to that law would produce the glorious results that I have so feebly described? Then why not obey it? Say not that this law would change this weary world to a paradice if all would obey it, but as all will not, thou must hobble along in the same old way? Make no such excuses, for thou canst obey, if all others go wrong and in thy obedience thou shalt find heaven in thy own family,—yea the influence of thy example shall be felt upon thy neighbors, and spread its power farther and farther as time rolls on, for 'Truth is mighty and must and will prevail.' It is only by this individual obeyance to the law of right that the universal brotherhood will eventually be established, and each and all are required to perform their own part without waiting for others to lead them;—'behold now is the acceptable time, now is the day of salvation to thee if thou wilt but embrace and improve the means.—Portland Pleasure Boat.

YELLOW SCUM.—A woman who had taken milk of a neighbor for several years saw fit to change her milkman. He had always watered his milk, but having recently 'become hopefully pious,' left off cheating his customers, and gave them good milk. The old lady regretted to part with him, but as his milk was so changed for the worse, as she thought, she could not endure it any longer.

'I am sorry to part with you,' said she, 'but for a week past, your milk has had a dirty yellow scum on it, and I don't want any more of it.'

COMING WITHIN ONE OF IT.—'Did you intend to hit me, sir?' said a gentleman dining at the Lake a few days since, as a sweet potatoe came slap on the side of his head, thrown by a person a little below.

'Beg your pardon, sir, I did not. I intended to have hit the person sitting next you, who is a friend of mine.'

'Well, you made a pretty good shot, considering,' said a half-intoxicated wag close by 'You came within one of it, any how.,

TAKE NOTICE.

TO all whom it may concern.—I hereby forbid any person trusting my wife Martha Wilson on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation.

ZACHARIAH J. WILSON.

November 14. 1849.

FOR THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

SONNET.

Yes! thou art gone from Earth—but not within the tomb,
We think of thee—(the silent darksome gloom.
Would chill the soul,) but with assurance given,
We follow thee—by seraph's led to Heaven.

But oh—what words can tell the anguish wild—
That rends the bosom, of thy stricken'd child!
Methinks I feel the ice-cold touch e'en now—
As when I bathed the death-damp from thy brow!
Oh, not in vain is this bereavement given,
It calls by love, the wayward up to Heaven:—

Each pious sentence from thy lips that fell,
Hath bound my spirit with a holy spell—
Each thought was uttered with a voice as sweet,
As angels use—or spirits when they meet.
The cross Oh! Father assist me now to bear,
All radiant with a dying Mother's prayer.—

Oh! spirit of the loved, and sainted come,
A visiting angel, to thy lonely home;
And with the influence of celestial birth,
Cheer the lone way of those thou loved and left on earth,
And when "the last of earth," with us shall be.
O may we spend Eternity with thee!

ANNETTA.

Plainfield, 11th mo. 12th. 1849.

Four Weeks Later from California.

Arrival of the Empire City.

The news is of the highest interest. There are about one hundred thousand persons in the mines; their average earnings are about three dollars per day each.

American gold dollars sell in San Francisco at $3 a piece.

The Convention at Nonterey, was still in session, organizing a State constitution for California, and it was supposed, would finish its labors about the 6th of October. So far as completed, and what may be considered as the settled opinion of the majority, and will doubtless, form a part of the constitution, may be summed up as follows:—

Pueblo San Jose had beed agreed upon as the permanent seat of government.

Slavery is for ever prohibited.

Free negroes are not permitted to enter the state.

The right of suffrage is extended to all free white male citizens of the United States, 21 years of age, after six months residence in the state, and thirty days in the district; to all mexican citizens of California at the ratification of the treaty, (Indians, negroes and the descendants of negroes excepted.)

All officers of the state to be elected by the people after the first one to four years, during which time they will be appointed by the Governors, &c.

The constitution will be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection on the 7th of November. At the same time an election will be held for a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Senators and Representatives of the state Legislature, and two Representatives to the Congress of the United States.

The Legislature will convene in December, and elect two senators to Congress, and proceed to organize a state government forthwith.

Banks of discount are prohibited, and banks of deposit are strictly guarded, by making the stockholders liable, &c.

The boundary agreed upon includes all Alta California; but an effort would be made to confine it to the Sierra Nevada on the East.

The judiciary will consist of a superior or appellate court, three judges, circuit courts and county courts. In all other respects, the constitution will conform, at least in spirit, to several of our state constitutions. From all I could learn, the constitutions of Iowa and New York were regarded as the special models.

Pay of delegates to Convention, $16 per day; interpeters, $25 per day; and clerks, from $20 to $25 per day.

The Senate will probably consist of 14, and the House of 36 members.

PROCLAMATION.

By Daniel Haines

Govenor of the State of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, it becomes a Christian people publicly to acknowledge their dependence upon Almighty God, and unitedly to render Him humbly and hearty thaks for all his benefits:

AND WHEREAS, during another year, the people of this State have been placed under peculiar obligations for the removal of the pestilence, and the restoration of health; for the abundant products of the earth, and for the peace and prosperity that prevails througout the land:

I do, therefore, hereby set apart and appoint THURSDAY, the 29th day of Novembr next, as a day of public thanksgiving, prayer, and praise; and I respectfully recommend to all my fellow-citizens, that, abstaining from their usual employments, they assemble on that day in their respective places of public worship, to offer unto God the incense of humble and grateful praise; and to supplicate the continuance of His Goodness to us, and that he would extend the gospel of His grace, and the blessings of peace, and of civil and religious liberty to all nations.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name, and affixed the privy seal, at the City of Trenton, the twenty fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine. [L. S.]

DANIEL HAINES.

A CARD.

TO THE PATRONS OF

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

The close of the current Volume is deemed a proper period to announce to the patrons of this "Magazine" that arrangements have been completed which cannot fail to increase its attractions during the coming year. The best writers in the country will continue to enrich our pages with their productions, and our engravers—who stand foremost in their profession—will put forth the best efforts on their art to make this peculiar department of the "Magazine" more beautiful than ever.

Promising unremitted exertions to merit a continuance of the favor bestowed upon the "Magazine," we respectfully solicit a renewal of the subscriptions of all its old patrons, and the addition of the names of all who desire to avail themselves of the satisfactionof reading what is universally conceded to be 'THE BEST MAGAZINE IN THE COUNTRY.'

Attention is called to the following list of Terms, which are unquestionably more advantageous to subscribers than those offered by any other work of the kind.

TERMS.—For THREE DOLLARS, in advance, (par money in the States from which it is remitted,) one copy of "GRAHAM" and a copy of a LARGE AND MAGNIFICENT PRINT, by a distinguished Engraver, and which may be considered one of the most beautiful specimens of Art ever presented by any Magazine publisher, and also a new and beautiful Engraving, suitable for framing, of a Sacred Subject, "Bearing the saviour to the tomb," prepared expressly, and at a very heavy cost, as a Premium Gift to new subscribers to Graham's Magazine. Or, if desired, we will furnish in lieu of either of the above Prints, a complete set of our Mezzotint Portraits of the AMERICAN HEROES OF THE LATE WAR WITH MEXICO.

For FIVE DOLLARS, Two Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints to each subscriber.

For TEN DOLLARS, Five Copies for one year, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person forming the Club, and either of the above prints, or a set of portraits to each subscriber.

For TWENTY DOLLARS, Eleven Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints, or a set of the portraits to each subscriber, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person sending the Club, with a copy of each of the large prints as an additional premium.

☞ Any person forwarding a Club of 20 or upwards, shall receive for his trouble a complete copy of W. H. Graham's "American Historical and Biographical Library."

SAMUEL D. PATTERSON & Co.,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

MARRIED.

In Plainfield New Jersey, Nov. 12th. by the Rev. Lewis Bond, Mr. Theodore A. Stout, of Kingston N. J., to Miss. Lucy L. Colby, of Hopkinton New Hampshire.

☞ Newark Sentinal, and Somerset Whig, please copy.

On Wednesday Evening Nov 7th By Rev. S. J. Drake Mr. Isaiah Brainard of New York to Miss. Mary E. Hatfield of Plainfield.

At Green Brook Wednesday Nov 7th, by Rev. R. K. Rogers, Mr James F. Harris, to Miss. Christian Giles.

GREAT REWARD

IF WALKED AWAY OR TAKEN THROUGH MISTAKE.

A large DOG purchased in Plainfield of one Mr. Frazee very highly recommended by him as being a Superior Watch Dog, said dog is a large size, minis his narrative (alias) Tail, of a good standing Color, and has not been known to Bite, he has a large wound on his right shoulder received a few days since in an encounter with a small dog. Any person finding said dog will confer a great favor by retaining him or so disposing of him that it will not be necessary for us to keep two men to prevent so valuable an animal from being enticed away, and in addition to our thanks the finder shall receive a reward of 50cts by calling on Mr. Frazee in Plainfied or at the Broadway Branch 182 Broad st. opposite the Park Newark, N. J. where there is this day opened

500 SHAWLS,

Comprising every variety and price shawls from 2 shillings to $40,00 among which are some handsome all Wool Broche Shawls for $7,50 cost $12,00 to import. [55.

GEORGE VANNESS'

SHAVING & HAIR DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call.☜

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC.

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY.
No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.
L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy; her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st
Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Up stairs.
☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield.☜
November 1849. [98.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.
J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.
Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N.J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m. Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk. Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.
October 30. 1849. [52.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,
59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils.

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order.☜
E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call.☜ [54.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.
SAMUEL C. DUNN,
54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.
54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.
☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield.☜

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure agaiust the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufncture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.
80] AGENS & Co.
No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1. 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey.☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE,

THE ACKNOWLEDGED BLACKWOOD OF AMERICA.

An impartial press has awarded to Sartain the credit of publishing the best Magazine in America. Their decision is founded upon the established fact, that he publishes better and more varied embellishmens than any of his rivals and that pays for original contributions more than all his competitors combined, and hence has secured authors of the highest repute in America and Europe.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS
TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COMING VOLUME
JANUARY, 1850.

The publishers of SARTAIN'S MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE AND ART, announce to the reading public, that whilst their Magazine for 1849 is acknowledged to be superior in every respect to any other published in this country, they have made arrangements whereby the Magazine for the next year will EXCEL ALL ITS FORMER ISSUES.

The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will remain under the control of its present able Editors.

Prof. JOHN S. HART, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. CAROLINE M. KIRKLAND, of New York, who, besides articles from their own pens every month, have secured contributions from the

BEST AUTHORS
In Europe and America.

These contributions, including some of the most brilliant Magazine articles any where to be found, are entirely original, being WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR OUR MAGAZINE, and not selected from other publications.

If we cannot attract distinguished names to our list of contributors by the liberality of our prices, or the respectability of our Magazine, we assuredly shall not try to gain the appearance of it, by taking extracts from authors of great name, and so mixing them up in our table of contents, that they shall seem to be original. Among the many distinguished names in our list of contributors, may be mentioned the following,

MANY OF WHOM
WRITE FOR NO OTHER PERIODICAL.

Frederika Bremer, of Sweden, William Howitt, of England, Mary Howitt, do., R. H. Horne, do., author of "A new spirit of the Age," "Orion," &c., Silverpen, the popular contributor to "Eliza Cook's Journal," the author of "Mary Barton," Henry W. Longfellow, Rev. George W. Bethune, D. D., N. P. Willis, Miss C. M. Sedgewick, George H. Boker, John Neal, J. Russell Lowell, Francis J Grund, Joseph R. Chandler, Rev. W. H. Furness, D. D., Mrs L. H. Sigourney, Prof. Alden, Rev. J. P. Durbin, D. D., Mrs. E. Oakes Smith, Rev. John Todd, D D., Mrs. Francis S. Osgood, Rev. Albert Barnes, Mrs. L. M. Child, Prof. Rhoads, Mrs. Anne C. Lynch, Park Benjamin, Mrs. C. M. Butler, Henry T. Tuckerman, Miss Eliza L. Sproat, Hery William Herbert, Mrs. Joseph C. Neal, Mrs. E. F. Ellett, Edgar A. Poe, Prof. Moffat, Mrs. E. C. Kinney, Rev. Robert Davidson, D. D., "Edith May," Augustine J. Duganne, Caroline May, Richard Willis, Alfred R. Street, Charles J. Peterson, George S. Burleigh, C. H. Wiley, Charles G. Leland, Rev. Thomas Brainerd, Rev. H. Hastings Weld, Miss E. Bogart, Miss E. A. Starr, John H. Hopins, T. S. Arthur, G. G. Foster, Mrs. Mary S. Whitaker. R. H. Stoddard, Eugene Lies, Richard Grant White Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Miss Harriet Farley, Rev. S. I. Prime, D. D. Wm. D Lewis, Mrs. E. H. Swift, Mrs. Emma C. Embury, Miss Alice Carey, Francis De H. Janvier, Mrs Mary Hughs, Miss Maria J. B. Browne, Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton, Mrs. F. M. Brotherson, Miss Anne T. Wilbur, Mrs. J. L. Gray.

NO SECOND-HAND WORN-OUT PLATES
APPEAR IN THIS MAGAZINE.

Mr. SARTAIN has entire control of the PICTORIAL DEPARTMENT, and beside embellisements from his own burin, he will be assisted by some of the BEST ARTISTS OF THIS COUNTRY.

WORN-OUT LONDON STEEL ENGRAVINGS, WHICH ARE FREELY USED BY SOME PERIODICALS, will not find their way into the pages of "SARTAIN," under any circumstances. There would be a vast saving to the Publishers in using such plates, as they can be purchased at almost any price, from $25 down to the price of the metal. We aim to give the best, both in Literature and Art.

THE FASHIONS

Fashion Plates are of the nature of news. The lady who wishes to dress frshionably, does not ask what was worn, but what is worn. She does not want in 1849 the fashions of 1848, nor in December those of of August. Paris is the acknowledged centre of the mode, whence all fashions primarily originate. Any periodical which employs a process of "Americanizing" them, that requires from three to six months, can only be compared to a newspaper that should persist in importing its files of foreign news by the old line of Liverpool packets, or hire a man at great "extra" expense to bring the news on foot from New Orleans, instead of using the Steamer and the Telegraph. By the method we have adopted, a cut, giving the Fashions with the minutest accuracy, can be completed in three or four days after the arrival of te steamer. To execute the same on steel, and then color it, for a large edition, requires as many months. Of this we had a striking proof during the issue for 1849, by which we gave the FASHIONS THREE OR FOUR MONTHS AHEAD OF OUR COMPETITORS! Our plan enables us also to furnish triple the number of plates, thus furnishing our readers with all the prevailing modes of Paris and London. Instead of a single plate with two figures, we often give three or four plates, with eight or ten distinct figures, each exhibiting a seperate costume.

NEW FEATURES.

We have many features and improvements entirely new in Magazine publishing, which will be introduced into the forthcoming volume. We do not design, however, to solicit support to SARTAIN'S UNION MAGAZINE by promises. Assured of the confidence manifested in our enterprise by a liberal and discriminating public in more than tripling the original subscription list in a single year, we close our Prospectus for the New Volume, by referring the public to a few of the thousand notices of our brethren of the press, promising only that there shall be no diminution on our part, either in exertion or expense, to merit a continued and increased patronage.

TERMS: Single Copies 25 cents.
One Copy $3 per Annum, and a premium of either a portrait of the late Ex-Presidents James K. Polk, William Henry Harrison, Group of the Washington Family, General Taylor, Benjamin West or Henry Clay. Either of these Engravings is worth alone $3.
Two Copies $5 per Annum, and either of the above premiums to each subscriber.
Five Copies $10 per Annum, and an extra Magazine and one of the premiums to the agent or person getting up the Club.

Having made an arrangement with the publishers for copies of the clebrated mezzotinto Picture, "THE DATH-BED OF JOHN WESLEY," we make the following LIBERAL OFFER!

One copy of the Magazine one year, and the Wesley Print, $3, or 20 copies of the WESLEY PRINT, and Nine copies of Sartains Union Magazine for $20.

Remember, the impressions are not from a worn-out English plate, but from a new plate engraved in the highest style of the art. Those sending their money early will get proof impressions.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY!

Any new subscriber, sending us Five Dollars prior to the 1st of February 1850, shall receive in return full setts of Sartain's Magazine for 1849 and 1850, and two volumes of Campbell's Foreign Monthly Magazine, and the Washington or Taylor print, thus securing upwards of 3000 pages of literary matter, and upwards of 400 engravings for $5.

The post town sending the largest number of mail subscribers for the year 1850, prior to the 1st of April next, together with the advance payment, will be entitled, gratis, to the same number of Sartain's Magazine, for the year 1851. For the second largest list each subscriber will be entitled to one of our premium plates. Remember, these plates are of a large size, and suitable for a parlor ornament.

Persons wishing to get up a club, will be supplied with a specimen number, by writing for it, and paying the postage. TERMS INVARIABLY IN ADVANCE. Address
JOHN SARTAIN & Co., Philadelphia.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law.
R. F. BROOKS.
Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1849. [72.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,

No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and taimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits.☜
MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.
Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash.☜
MOSES P. DEMMINGS.
Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.
PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.
TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.
Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.
Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS, Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds, Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.
DANIEL BULLMAN.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, & OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the conntry, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News—both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the state of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power		$80
"	Thresher	28
"	Separator and fixtures	7
"	Bands for driving, &c	5
"	Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an intalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1849. | NO. 49.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

Toddlehams' Vengeance.

How He 'Come it' over Himself.

BY PAUL CREYTON.

Mr. Ben Burney and Mr. Frank Toddleham were rival suitors for the hand of Miss Nelly Norton, and they had the reputation, some years ago, of being the finest beaux to be met with in the whole town of S——.

Miss Nelly it is said, was quite pretty, and the rivals has good reason for loving her to distraction. So completely, indeed, had she bewitched them with he beautiful face and exquisite, inimitable ways, that it was actually believed by many, that if she should come to a decision, and make choice of one of her suitors, she would just as surely prove the death of the other.

But it was feared by many that she was utterly unable to decide with regard to the merits of Mr Ben, and his rival, Mr Frank. She seemed to like both well enough, and she gave marked encouragement to both.

It was not long, however, before an event transpired which influenced her towards making a choice. There was a grand party given one night in S——, and all the respectable young beaux were invited to attend and bring their ladies. It was generally understood by the gossips what particular lady each gentlemen would invite, but all had a curiosity to know whether Miss Melly would favor with her company Mr. Frank Toddleham or Mr. Ben Burney.

Both suitors flew to the feet of their mistress, each anxious to be first in the field. Ben arrived first—lucky fellow! his invitation was accepted, and he was rewarded for his attention and devotedness with one of her sweetest smiles. Frank came ten minutes later. He proffered his services, and had the satisfaction of being told that the lady, his adored Nelly—was engaged!

Engaged!—and Mr. Ben Burney was the favored man. Mr. Frank Toddleham knew it—he had seen his rival leave the house.

'I can't stand it,' thought Frank, 'I'm sure I can't—it'll kill me! Nelly don't love me—she's determined to become another's! That'll be the death blow—It'll quite smash this heart which is already broke into two or three several pieces.—But vengeance shall be mine—a bloody vengeance!'

Frank was desperate. He was bent on a fearful pupose. Publicly I feel it my duty to condemn him, but, like the just judge, while I pass sentence, I would at the same time recommend him to mercy. His bloody thoughts were excusable, for he was jealous.

Frank flew down the road like a wild goose, only keeping nearer the ground. He approached old Deacon Foster's house, and in a fit of desperation invited his daughter Susan to accompany him to the party in question.

Susan was delighted at Frank's attention, and, after making quite a respectable attempt to appear modest about accepting the invitation, finally simpered that she didn't know, but that she would try to go. Frank detested her, but he must go with somebody to spite Nelly, and he thought Susan would answer the purpose as well as any one else.

Evening came, and the guests began to assemble. Mr. Ben Burney, in company with his beautiful lady, arrived in a nice buggy, drawn by a spirited horse; and Mr. Frank Toddleham, having the honor to escort Susan, drove up the minute after, exhibiting an establishment no less tasteful and elegant than his rival's. Ben and his lady entered the house carrying their heads quite as high as common people would be justified in doing. And after them, immediately, Frank and Susan swept in, carrying their heads still higher, by a few inches, than the couple that had preceded them.

The soiree passed off agreeable enough to all except F. Toddleham. He was agitated by jealousy and a desire for revenge. It was getting late, when in the confusion of the games of forfeit which the company were enjoying, he stole from the house unobserved.

He was bent on a mysterious purpose. The night was 'black as ink.' Certainly he could have none other than a dark object it view. He groped his way to the fence by the road, and climbed over near the spot where his friends horse was tied. He even felt an ill-will against the horse, because Mr. Burney drove him, but he did not disturb him, not liking to make a noise; besides, his business was with an article still more dumb than the horse—it was his rival's buggy.

Silently Frank loosened the linch-pin, and taking it out, threw it upon the ground. He next managed to take off the wheel, and to let the end of the axle drop easily to the ground.

This heroic feat performed, Frank rolled the wheel some twenty rods from the spot where he took it off, and hid it in a corner of the fence. Chuckling with satisfaction and anticipated triumph, the young man groped his way back in the dark to the house.

Excited with the idea that vengeance was at hand, Frank joined the company, and waited impatiently for the party to break up that he might enjoy the perplexity of his rival's ludicrous situation, on learning the trick of which he was the victim.

Mr. Ben Burney and his lady were the first to leave. An attendant procured a lantern to show them the way to their carriage. Frank thought it would be a grand thing to drive off with Susan just as his rival was hunting about for the lost carriage wheel, and accordingly proposed to take his departure also.

Expecting every moment to hear the cry that a wheel was lost, Frank slowly drew on his gloves, and chatted nervously with the ladies. But there was no such cry, and Mr. Toddleham, thinking his rival meant to replace the wheel before any one could know of the trick, hurried with Susan from the house.

He was just in time to hear Ben cry out 'good night'—to hear Nelly laugh merrily at something that her companion said—and to hear (mirabile dictu!) the buggy rattle away on its two legitimate wheels.

"Hang it!' thought Frank, biting his lips, 'I had my work for nothing. Who'd have thought that they could find the wheel and put it on so quick? I wish I had carried it twice as far!'

Frank was startled from these reflections by the voice of the attendant, who was walking around with the lantern.

'Is that you Mr. Toddleman?'

'That's me. myself,' answered Frank.

'Step this way if you please there is something the matter.'

'Ah! with what?'

'With your buggy.'

'With my buggy!'

'Yes—there's one of the wheels missing.'

Frank was stupified.

'No!' he exclaimed.

'Fact,' said the attendant. 'There's one of the wheels gone clear off.'

'But I didn't leave my buggy standing there,' cried Mr. Toddleham, angrily.

'I know it. But as Mr. Burney's horse was restless, I tied htm where yours was, because the fence is stronger there, and brought yours here.'

The mystery was explained, and Mr. Frank Toddleham had the immense satisfaction of being conscious that he had made a slight mistake, and had been to the trouble of removing a wheel from his own vehicle, and rolled it away!

Of course Frank found the wheel without difficulty, but it was not until the joke was known to the whole company.

From that time Mr. Toddlenam ceased paying his addresses to Miss Nelly Norton, and she was shortly after married to his more fortunate rival, Mr. Burney.

A NEW WAY OF ADORING.

A certain green horn touch'd with love to the core.
Call'd upon a fair maiden who opened the door;
He made a low bow and thus he began—
'O! I adore you, my charming Susan.'
'I'll a-door you, too!' she answered at once,
And slamm'd the door in the face of the dunce.

The Lawyer vs. the Fool.

Deacon Frost, a wealthy drover residing in K., one of the most beautiful and flourishing towns in the Granate State, was taking a large number of selected beeves to the Boston market. It chanced that on the way thither, several of the stock belonged to Christopher Grant, an extensive farmer residing in an adjoining town, accidentally strayed among the drove of Deacon F. The good Deacon, of course, not noticing the addition to his herd, could not be expected to seperate them, and in time, all, includiug those belonging to friend Grant, were duly disposed of, (if not according to law, certainly according to his custom,) and the proceeds safely deposited in the pocket of the worthy Deacon.

It so happened, however, that Bill Dykes, (better known as 'The Fool,') saw the cattle as they passed, and recognized those of Grant.

'Bill,' said Mr. G., 'are you sure it was my cows you saw in Deacon Frost's drove?'

'Sure?' said Bill, 'wall now I guess I are; I know old Brindle and Lopped-horn jest as easy as nothing—haint I driv 'em out of our cabbages more times than their pesky necks are worth, any how?'

When deacon Frost returned home he was politely waited upon by Mr. Grant, and requested to fork over a fair amount of the needful for the missing cows which he as politely declined to do.—The result was the Counsellor Doney's services were invoked The fool was the chief witness; and Concellor Grey, of Mass., a man of some celebrity in his profession, was retained to defend the suit. The trial came on—Dykes was placed on the witness stand. Counsellor Grey interposed an objection to the witness being sworn, on the ground of incapacity, and proceeded to state to the court that the witness was a perfect non compos mentis, in other words a fool, and well known to be so by every body in that vicinity—that he had no definite or fixed idea, either regarding himself or respecting any thing else; that he could not give an intelligent answer to the most simple question; and says Counsellor Grey, with emphasis, 'I do not believe he can tell who made him. If your Honor please, I will put that question to him, that the jury may have an opportunity to see what a perfect imbecile he is'

Counsellor G.—'William, look up! Tell us, William, who made you?'

The fool, screwing his face, and looking thoughtful and somewhat bewildered, answered: 'M-o-s-e-s, I s-p-o-s-e.'

'That will do. Now,' says Counsellor G., addressing the court, 'the witness says he s-u-p-p-o-s-e-s M-o-s-e-s made him. This is certainly a more intelligent answer than I supposed him capable of giving, for it shows that he has some faint idea of the Scriptures. But I submit that it is not sufficient to justify his being sworn as a witness in the case. No, sir it is not such an answer as a witness qualified to testify, would give.'

'Mr. Judge,' says the fool, 'may I ax the lawyer a question?'

'Certainly,' says the Judge, 'ask him any question you please.'

'W-a-l-l, then, Mr. Lawyer, w-h-o'd you s-p-o-s-e made you?'

Counsellor G., imitating the witness, 'A-a-r-o-n, I s-p-o-s-e.'

After the laughter had somewhat subsided, the witness continued, 'W-a-l-l, now, we do read in the Good Book, that Aaron once made a c-a-l-f, but who'd thought the critter had got in here!'

THE LOUDEST YET.—Friends are in the habit of warmly greeting their acquaintances, upon the arrival of passenger trains, at this as well as at all other station-houses. It was the other day that a young gentleman rushed through the crowd towards a lady, seized her hand, and gave her a hearty kiss, the smack of which sounded above——we were going to say, the din of gongs; but it's enough to state that the report startled a country lass hard by, who exclaimed to her "feller":—Massy, Josh! what on airth's gev way on the keers?"

Affected Deafness.

A stranger dismounted at the door of the —— Hotel, and gave his horse to the officious waiter. The bar-keeper opened the register to take his name.

'You are right,' said he, 'a single room would be more agreeable;' and he walked into the supper-room, to which the crowd of boarders were pressing. The bar-keeper ran after him, and screaming in his ear—

What did you say?'

'Thank you,' said he, 'I can find the way don't give yourself any trouble.'

On his return to the bar-room, a waiter took up his saddle-bags and told the deaf stranger he would show him to his chamber.

'My friend, who will spend the evening with me, prefers pale sherry,' said he. 'You may send up a bottle, and a few cigars.'

'I did not,' said the bar-keeper, 'exactly understand your name.'

'I think a little ice would improve the wine;' was the answer. 'And now I think of it, you may put the bottle in a wine-cooler.' His friend now joined him, and they walked to his room together. The deaf lodger patronized the house to the extent of another bottle before he slept. The waiter, who brought it up, ventured once more to inquire his name.

'Nothing more,' said he, 'except a slice of cold ham, a pickle and a little bread and cheese.' The next morning after breakfast when the stranger's horse was at the door, he asked for his bill. He was told it was six dollars and three quarters. 'You are very kind,' said he, 'I had expected to pay you but if this is your custom, to charge nothing for the first visit, you shall loose nothing by it—all my friends in Spongeville will certainly give you at least one call when they come into the city—good-morning.'

'I would thank you to pay your bill before you go,' screamed the bar-keeper.

'I am obliged to you,' said the deaf gentleman. 'I can put them on;' and he took up his saddle-bags and departed. As he mounted, the bystanders began to laugh immoderately at the awkward embarassment which afflicted the barkeeper, who was in despair, while he bawled after the delinquent who continued bowing and repeating his assurances, that he would ceartainly remember the accommodation, civility, and liberality of the house, and reccommend it to all his friends who might pass through the city. The gentlemen who so well affected deafness, won the wager he had staked on the success of his scheme, and paid his bill the next time he visited the city.

Doctor Franklin's Toast.

Long after the the victories of Washington over the French and English had made his name familiar to all Europe, Dr. Franklin chanced to dine with the English and French ambassadors, when, as nearly as the precise words can be reccollected, the following toasts were drunk:

'England—The Sun whose bright beams enlighten and fructify the remotest corners of the earth.'

The French ambassador, filled with national pride, but being too polite to dispute the previous toast, drank the folllowing:

'France—The Moon whose mild steady and cheering rays, are the delight of all nations, consoling them in the darkness, and making their dreariness beautiful.'

Dr. Franklin then arose, and with his usual dignified simplicity, said:

'GEORGE WASHINGTON,—The Joshua who commanded the Sun and Moon to stand still; and they obeyed him.'

A DREAM.—'I once dreamed,' said Pat,' 'I was with the Pope, and he ax'd me would I drink? Think's I, wud a duck swim?—and seeing Innishowen, and the lemons, and the shugar, on the side-board, I tould him I didn't care if I tuk a dram of punch. Cowld or hut? ax'd the Pope. Hot yer holines, and be that he stepped down into the kitchen for the bilin' water, and befare he got back, I woke strate up, and now it's disthressing me that I didn't TAKE IT COWLD.'

The latest montrosity is that of a man so thin and lean that he slept all night in his bed and his wife never discovered him until the next morning, when she commenced making up the bed and shook him on the floor.—Balt. Sun.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, November 22, 1849.

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.--Now is the time to subscribe for this deservedly popular Magazine. The new volume commences with the next number, see 'A Card' in another column.

☞ If we are not entirely mistaken in our judgment, the election of Charles D. Hineline Esq. editor of the Camden Democrat, to the legislature of this State is a cause of congratulation to every working man. Mr. Hineline has ever advocated their interests in the columns of his paper with distinguished ability. May he not now forget he is one of the people, and responsible to them for his acts.

CHANGE OF NAME.—The Daily Republic an ably edited democratic Journal has recently changed its name to New York Daily Times, and is published at 82 Nassau-st. at Four Dollars per annum payable semi-annually in advance. The weekly is $1 per annum in advance E. Philip Williams Editor.

☞ The 'True American' has recently changed hands. It now appears in an entire new and beautiful dress under the Editorial charge and proprietorship of Morris R. Hamilton Esq. May its editor be guided by his motto, "Principles not men," and we shall heartily wish him success.

DAILY TRENTONIAN.—We have received the first number of a neat and spicy little penny paper published daily at Trenton N. J. Franklin S. Mills, Charles W. Jay, Lewis R. Justice, Editors and Reporters. Success to it.

☞ There will be a Sunday School meeting held in the M. E. Church in this place on Sabbath next at 3 o'clock P. M. Rev. Mr. Kidder, Editor of the Sunday School Publications of said church, will deliver a sermon on the occasion. Parents and children are respectfully invited to attend.

Education—The only guarantee of Equal Rights.

The capability of man for self government, in our humble opinion, depends entirely on the education of the masses.—All history, with which we are acquainted, proves the truth of this opinion. To be sure no government hitherto established has stood upon the broad basis of the political equality of all man's rights; but what of that? the bare assertion of these rights upon paper is but a very insufficient guarantee of their inviolability—these rights must first be made known, and appreciated, before they can ever be established on a firm and enduring basis; and how can this be done without education? Will, does, the political demagogue—the seeker after the loaves and fishes, pay any regard to these paper declarations of man's inalienable rights? What is the history of our own government—national and state—from their creation until the present time? Does not slavery exist under the first at the present time, at the very seat of government, while under the latter up to the adoption of the present constitution, the ownership of a jackass, or quarter acre of bog meadow, or other equally valuable property, constituted the enlightened and necessary qualification—although the sire may have shed his blood that his son might be free—to enable him to exercise the inestimable and inalienable rights of man; although this remarkably wise provision is so far done away as to allow him to express an opinion through the ballot box, it yet remains when called upon to exercise the sacred privilege of jurymen—to act in the capacity of freeholder, assessor, collector, and numberless other township and county offices—a barrier to his equal rights—which sacred privileges are calculated to make him feel an interest in his government, and the importance of being equally the peer of his fellow man.

This violation of the first principle of our government, and that in sight of the Capitol of this boasted land of freedom, and these disqualifications so absurd and degrading to man's most noble aspirations, are utterly unworthy and inconsistent with a republican government, and the boasted freedom which we hold up to the world as worthy their imitation, and a practical denial of man's capability for self government. How long shall we continue to be taunted by the world—with that which our consciences also condemn—with the violation of the fundamental principles of our government—hypocritically proclaiming the equal inalienable rights of all men, while we practically deny liberty to a part, because they are black, and equal rights to the majority because they are poor—thus justly subjecting ourselves to the scorn and contempt of the world?

These things are worthy the serious consideration of the people and of our legislators, as only upon the practical application of these principles to all under the protection of the Constitution can we be considered worthy to bear the sacred name of freemen.

Therefore. to establish this government on a firm and enduring basis, that shall be pointed to with just pride by our children, and our childrens children, forever, as being the embodiment of that truly democratic doctrine of equal rights. "Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you," as taught by Christ, and adopted by our forefathers as the fundamental principles of our government; we would urge with the earnestness the importance of the subject demands upon our representatives the justice and necessity of making a liberal and permanent provision by the State for the instruction of the masses; as upon their instruction alone, and upon no other foundation can we permanently secure our liberties, or ever hope to become liberal, intelligent, and enlightened freemen.

Miss Edgeworth's Works.—These tales being of a decidedly moral tendency, inculcating the strictest morality, and recommending nothing but the most virtuous conduct, have been generally considered as exerting a beneficial influence. On this account, they have often been purchased by parents, and recommended to their children.

We can conceive of but few things more injurous in the education of children than the inculcation of morality and virtue without piety—a kind of Pharisaic self-righteousness, of which it is truly said the more a man has the worse he is off. A person who makes religion to consist in 'doing unto others as they would that others should do unto them,' evidently knows nothing of the Bible or religion, is talking of what he is entirely ignorant, and better be silent until he is better informed.—Plainfield Union.

The profession of religion, to us selfish mortals, is so much easier than its practice, that we do not wonder that there are so few who deny themselves, to take up the Cross to practice its precepts. "Sell all that thou hast and give to the poor," does not suit the spirit of this money getting world; of course, they had rather be saved by their faith without their works, "having much possessions,"

Has it indeed then come to this?—an open avowal that the practice of morality and virtue has no necessary connection with true religion! we ourselves have ever believed that they had but little connection with the practice of sects, but we were not prepared for the open avowal that there was no necessary connection between them and true religion!—this discovery and development is made by the editor of the 'Union'!

By piety then we must suppose him to mean that hypocritical pretension to that which they do not possess—as a person who condemns the practice of morality and virtue, and also condemns that which Christ "makes religion to consist in"—feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, relieving the sick and distressed—"doing unto others as ye would that others should do unto them," "evidently knows nothing of the bible or religion, is talking of what he is entirely ignorant, and better be silent until he is better informed."

IMPORTANT ARREST OF IRON THIEVES.—For some months past, but especially during the summer, Messrs. Stephens, Condit & Co. and T. V. Johnson & Co. have at different times lost several thousand dollars worth of iron, as much as $200 worth being taken in a single night. A special watch was set, a suspicious looking perigue was watched, and on Saturday night about 11 o'clock three men from her put off in a small boat and proceeded to load her with pig iron. They had made three trips, when the watchmen discovered and hailed them: whereupon they hastily cast off to proceed to New York with their plunder. In about an hour and a half, the propellor Edward Payson was under way with a possee of twelve men, and the rogues were overhauled. They had several tons of the iron in their vessel, in which was also found a full set of burglars' tools and a loaded pistol. They had about $50 in money on their persons. One is a German, who speaks good English and gave his name as Henry Ungar; the other calls himself William Wall, and both said they were from New York.—Newark Sentinel.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

"Press Onward."

There are few persons, in my opinion, no matter what may be their habits, but at times are much cast down on account of unexpected obstacles which obstruct their paths. When we commence the Battle of Life we feel strong and confident of victory; but our foes are not inactive, and after fighting manfully for a season, we feel at times like throwing down our weapons, and retiring ingloriously from the contest. We are apt to forget that it is only to him that endureth hardness as a good soldier until the end of the war, that the Captain has promised a crown of life. It is true, the faithful soldier has to encounter many hardships; the enemy is well forfitied and ready to make a vigorous resistance; and it is no wonder that a pretty firm heart should occasionally throb with fear. It is in seasons like this that the words I have quoted are applicable. "Press Onward!" soldier, a few months or years longer, and you will receive an honorable discharge. Have you never, O christian soldier, in moments of depression, had your blood stirred as by the sound of the trumpet by hearing those glorious words of St. Paul, 'I have fought the good fight; I have kept the faith," etc.? If words like these do not rouse you to Press Onward, there is greal reason to fear that the victor's crown will never adorn your brow.

Those who labor—no matter in how humble a sphere—to advance the cause of human happiness, frequently need something to strengthen their hands and encourage their hearts. There are so many drawbacks, so many reasons to discourage their attempts to check Vice and banish Misery from the world, that were it not that angel-voices cry "Press Onward!" they would often be tempted to quit their god-like work, and leave the children of Sorrow to their own utter wretchedness.

—Press Onward! These are glorious words, and calculated to bless all who heed their import. There is no one this side the grave, actuated by right motives, but should adopt them as their watchwords, and form the resolution that, whatever was their duty to perform, they would engage in it with all their souls. The true man or woman will never permit questions of expediency detain them a moment when the path of duty is made plain for their feet. The giddy may laugh, the self-righteous sneer or frown, but the just man will do right be the consequences what they may. What matters it to him whether sect or party approve or condemn? He heeds not their counsels; their threats affect him no more than the idle wind. His duty is enjoined by his God, and to him only is he accountable. Whether he subscribes to the doctrines of a fashionable church and votes the regular political ticket; or whether he serves God by doing good to his creatures, and discharges his duty as a citizen by voting for such men and measures as he thinks are right, is nobody's business. He will Press Onward in doing good though bigots in church and state may threaten him with the dungeon and the rack because he will not cast out devils in their name. It is enough for him to know that He who, when on earth, went about doing good, smiles upon his labors, and has promised to reward him.

J. A. N.

Terrible Steamboat Explosion—Awful Destruction of Human Life.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.

A terrible steamboat explosion occurred here last evening. The steamer Louisiania, bound to St. Louis, when about starting from her wharf, burst both her boilers, shattering her to atoms, and also badly injuring the steamers Storm and Bostona which were lying alongside.

The Louisiana was crowded with passengers, as were also the other two, which had just arrived.

It is supposed that, altogether, 160 lives were lost, beside many wounded. Already 50 dead bodies have been recovered. The levee is strewn with the dead and dying and hundreds of our citizens are around the melancholy scene, rendering all the assistance in their power to those in whom a spark of life remains.

Dead bodies, legs, arms and heads are scattered in every direction, and the sight presented is most awful. It is at present impossible to ascertain the names or number of those who are lost.

Saturday, Nov. 17.

Captain Kennon, of the steamer Louisiana, has been arrested, and held to bail in the sum of $8,000.—The explosion having been attributed to carelessness, a searching investigation will shortly take place. Many more dead bodies have been found. The number of killed, it is believed, will reach 200, besides many dreadfully wounded. The flags of the shipping are all at half-mast.

From the Portland Pleasure Boat.

"Ye worship ye know not what."

Such was the language addressed by an ancient preacher to a people who were very righteous in their own estimation, and very zealous in the performance of what they regarded as worship. And this language may with all propriety be addressed to a large majority of the most zealous worshipers in the present age. Very many worship the creatures of their own imaginations; they picture to themselves some sort of a personage in the form of man, seated on a throne beyond the clouds, and worship that from childhood to old age, while trampling goodness the true God under foot. All their prayers are addressed to this picture; they have no idea of any other God, and though they zealously attend church from childhood to old age, they are never once told of their error, for their teachers themselves know no better way. The blind lead the blind, all fall in the ditch of error together, and 'worship they know not what.'

Others entertain no definite ideas of the form and size of the supreme, but have only a confused idea of his character. They see no form nor comeliness in him, nothing desirable, but have been taught that he is a dreadful angry, wicked being, and if they do not in some way appease his wrath, he will finally cast them down to the bottomless pit; so they perform such unmeaning ceremonies as their leaders require them to, for the purpose of escaping the dreadful suffering; the fear of hell is the mainspring of all their religious acts. They are generally selfish, have little love for goodness, see no beauty in their religion, and were it not for the fear of that angry being, that bug-bear of priest craft, they would never trouble themselves about religion. Such 'worship they know not what.'

There are others again who have no definite ideas of either the form or character of the Supreme power; but have attended the idolatrous meetings from childhood, and witnessed the ceremonies. These delight in the sound of the church music, take pleasure in seeing and being seen at the religious gatherings and never learn that these acts are not the sum and substance of devotion. These too, 'worship they know not what.'

There are some who wish to be popular, and so join with the multitude in their worthless ceremonies; there are others who desire employment or custom in their occupations or trades, and attend church to gain favor with the people. All these 'worship they know not what.' There are some who have sincere hankerings for pure happiness, but have been taught that these desires can be satisfied only after death, and that, on condition that they follow the directions of their priests who burden them with forms and ceremonies that mean nothing. These also worship they know not what.

We might continue the description of false worshipers to almost any length, for very few know what they worship, but the above must suffice.

Now the sincere inquirer may desire to know what is the true worship, how it is acceptably performed, &c., that he may come to know what he worships. To this I answer, let the sincere love goodness and be directed by this love in all their doings. Let them live to do good and every act willbe an act of worship. He who gives but a cup of cold water to the thirsty from a love to good, performs a more acceptable act of worship than he who dabbles out bread and wine to his flock for form's sake, or as a religious ceremony. Everything which true worship requires is useful—is designed in some way to benefit man or beast, and add to the sum of happiness. He who is kind to his brute from a love of kindness or a principle of goodness, though an infidel in profession, performs a more acceptable act of worship than he who prays in the temple while his poor brute in suffering from cold or hunger at the door. Nothing is true worship unless it does good. If a man goes into the water from a love of cleanliness, and purifies his body he performs an act of acceptable worship, but if he enters the water and is immersed regarded the act merely as religious, performed to bring him into favor with God, it is only an act of idolatry, though it is true, the washing may benefit the body, but as the thing was done not to purify the body, but only blindly as a religious seremony, there is no more worship in it than there would be in bowing down to a wooden god.

If a man cheerfully feeds the hungry simply because they hunger, expecting no reward, he performs an act of acceptable worship, but if he gives to the hungry with the expeptation that it will assist him in escaping divine punishment, or in obtaining mercy, the mind performs no true worship.

These simple hints, hastily written, without premeditation, or time to review them, may, perhays, enable some to discover whether they are worshiping goodness, the true God. or bestowing their acts on 'they know not what'

☞ A gang of New Yok burgulars, it is supposed, are lurking in this vicinity. The house of Mr. Horace Clark, on the corner of Popular and Maine street, was entered the other night, the burglars carrying off a number of silver spoons, besides other property. We also lerrn that they have been committing similar depredation in Plainfield. Look out for the rogues.—Rahway Register.

New Jersey Legislature.

It will be seen by the following list of the members elect of the next Legislature, which convenes at Trenton on the 2nd Tuesday (8th.) of January, furnished for the State Gazette, by the Secretary of State, that parties will stand viz:—10 Whigs and 9 Democats in the Senate, and 34 to 25 in the House.

MEMBERS OF THE SENATE....Term expires.

Atlantic,	Lewis M. Walker,	1851
Bergen,	John Van Brunt,	1851
Burlington,	*Joseph Satterthwaite,	1853
Camden,	*John Gill,	1852
Cape May,	*Enoch Edmunds,	1853
Cumberland,	*Stephen A. Garrison,	1851
Essex,	*Asa Whitehead,	1852
Gloucester,	*Charles Reeves,	1852
Hunterdon,	John Manners,	1853
Hudson,	John Cassedy,	1851
Mercer,	*Charles S. Olden,	1851
Monmouth,	John A. Morford,	1852
Morris,	*Ephraigm Marsh,	1851
Middlesex,	*Edward Y. Rogers,	1853
Passaic,	Silas D. Canfield	1853
Salem,	John Summerill, Jr.	1852
Sussex,	Joseph Greer,	1853
Somerset,	*Joh W. Craig,	1852
Warren,	George W. Taylor,	1852

MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

ATLANTIC.	MERCER.
Robert B. Risley.	*Josiah Buzby,
BERGEN.	*John F. Hageman.
John Huyler.	John H. Philips.
John H. Hepper.	MIDDLESEX.
BURLIHGTON.	*James Bishop.
*Edward French.	*Henry Vandyke.
*Samuel Stockton.	*Charles Abraham.
*William R. Braddock.	*Israel R. Coriell
*William Brown.	MONMOUTH.
*William S. Emley	Alfred Walling,
CAMDEN.	George W. Sutphen.
Charles D. Hineline.	William G. Hooper.
Thomas W. Hurff.	James D. Hall.
CAPE MAY.	Charles Butcher.
*Mackey Williams.	MORRIS.
CUMBERLAND.	*John L. Kanouse.
*John T. Nixon,	*Andrew B. Cobb.
*Benjamin Ayres.	*Freeman Wood.
*Joel Moore.	*George H. Thomson.
GLOUCESTER,	PASSAIC.
*Thomas Gasskill.	*Corn. S. VanWagoner.
*John Duell.	*Thomas D. Hoxey.
ESSEX.	SALEM.
*Joel W. Condit.	Charles B. Newell.
*Obadiah Meeker.	David Sithens.
*William F. Day,	Benjamin Remster.
*Stephen Personett.	SOMERSET.
*Jonathan Valentine.	*John M. Wyckoff.
*David Wade.	*John Demott.
*Isaac H. Pierson.	*Samuel S. Doty.
HUDSON.	SUSSEX.
Edmond T. Carpenter.	Jacob Hornbeck, Jr.,
HUNTERDON.	Guy Price.
John Marlow,	William Simonson.
Luther Updyke.	WARREN.
John R. Young.	Andrew Ribble.
William Tinsman.	Benjamin Fritz.
	John Loller.

Those marked thus * are Whigs.

XXXIst CONGRESS.

(Convenes Dec. 3, '49. Expires March 3. 1851.)

STATES	WHIG	DEMOCRAT
Alabama,	2	5
Arkansas,	0	1
Connecticut,	1	3
Delaware,	1	0
Florida,	1	0
Georgia,	4	4
Illinois,	1	6
Indiana,	1	9
Iowa,	0	2
Kentucky,	6	4
Louisiana,	1	3
Maine,	2	5
Maryland,	3	3
Massachusetts,	8	0
Michigan,	1	2
Mississippi,	0	4
Missouri,	0	5
New Hampshire,	2	2
New Jersey,	4	1
New York,	32	2
North Carolina,	6	3
Ohio,	9	10
Pennsylvania,	15	9
Rhode Island,	2	0
South Carolina,	0	7
Tennessee,	4	7
Texas,	0	2
Vermont,	3	1
Virginia,	2	13
Wisconsin,	1	2
Total,	112	115

PROCLAMATION.

By Daniel Haines

Governor of the State of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, it becomes a Christian people publicly to acknowledge their dependence upon Almighty God, and unitedly to render Him humbly and hearty thaks for all his benefits:

AND WHEREAS, during another year, the people of this State have been placed under peculiar obligations for the removal of the pestilence, and the restoration of health; for the abundant products of the earth, and for the peace and prosperity that prevails througout the land:

I do, therefore, hereby set apart and appoint THURSDAY, the 29th day of Novembr next, as a day of public thanksgiving, prayer, and praise; and I respectfully recommend to all my fellow-citizens, that, abstaining from their usual employments, they assemble on that day in their respective places of public worship, to offer unto God the incense of humble and grateful praise; and to supplicate the continuance of His Goodness to us, and that he would extend the gospel of His grace, and the blessings of peace, and of civil and religious liberty to all nations.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name, and affixed the privy seal, at the City of Trenton, the twenty fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine.

[L. S.]

DANIEL HAINES.

THANKSGIVING —-The 29th of this month will be observed as a day of Thanksgiving in the following named States:

Maine, Vermont, Massachusets, Rhode Island Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana.

This festival was celebrated in Florida on the 1st inst., and in New Hampshire rnd North Carolina, on the 15th.

THE PLAINFIELD BURGLARY.—After we went to press last week, Theodore Boice, who we stated had been arrested, was examined before E. Kirkpatrick Esq. and acquitted. Nothing further has transpired respecting the theft; $100 reward is offered for the recovery of the goods.

STATES BANK AT MORRIS.—The Morristown Banner of Thursday says:—'We understand that about $30,000 which were wrongfully put into the hands of E. A. Thompson, are likely to be got back by the receivers without having been put in circulation.'

Hints to Farmers.

It is an error to plant seeds from a State further South. In a cold season only the seed from a colder climate will ripen well.

Never keep your cattle short; few farmers can afford it. If you starve them they will starve you.

It will not do to hoe a great field for a little crop, or to mow twenty acres for five loads of hay. Enrich the land and it will pay you for it. Better farm thirty acres, well, than fifty acres by halves.

In dry pastures dig for water on the brow of a hill, springs are more frequently near the surface on a height than in a vale.

The foot of the owner is the best manure for land.

Cut bushes that you wish to destroy, in the summer, and with a sharp instrument—they will bleed freely and die.

Account should be kept, detailing the expenses and product of each field.

When an implement is no longer wanted for the season, lay it carefully aside but first let it be well cleaned.

Obtain good seed, prepare your ground well, sow early, and pay very little attentention to the moon.

Cultivate your own heart aright; remember that 'whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.'

Do not begin farming by building an extensive house, nor a spacious barn, till you have something to store in it.

Keep notes of remarkable events on your farm.

Recording even your errors will be of benefit.

Good fences make good neighbors.

The better animals can be fed, and the more comfortable they can be kept, the more profitable they are, and all farmers work for profit.

Sow clover deep, it secures it against the drought.

Cows well fed in winter, give more milk in summer.

When you see the fence down put it up if it remains untill to-morrow the cattle may get over.

What ought to be done to day, do it, for to-morrow it may rain.

A CARD.

TO THE PATRONS OF

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

The close of the current Volume is deemed a proper period to announce to the patrons of this "Magazine" that arrangements have been completed which cannot fail to increase its attractions during the coming year. The best writers in the country will continue to enrich our pages with their productions, and our engravers—who stand foremost in their profession—will put forth the best efforts on their art to make this peculiar department of the "Magazine" more beautiful than ever.

Promising unremitted exertions to merit a continuance of the favor bestowed upon the "Magazine," we respectfully solicit a renewal of the subscriptions of all its old patrons, and the addition of the names of all who desire to avail themselves of the satisfactionof reading what is universally conceded to be 'THE BEST MAGAZINE IN THE COUNTRY.'

Attention is called to the following list of Terms, which are unquestionably more advantageous to subscribers than those offered by any other work of the kind.

TERMS.—For THREE DOLLARS, in advance, (par money in the States from which it is remitted,) one copy of "GRAHAM" and a copy of a LARGE AND MAGNIFICENT PRINT, by a distinguished Engraver, and which may be considered one of the most beautiful specimens of Art ever presented by any Magazine publisher, and also a new and beautiful Engraving, suitable for framing, of a Sacred Subject, "Bearing the saviour to the tomb," prepared expressly, and at a very heavy cost, as a Premium Gift to new subscribers to Graham's Magazine. Or, if desired, we will furnish in lieu of either of the above Prints, a complete set of our Mezzotint Portraits of the AMERICAN HEROES OF THE LATE WAR WITH MEXICO.

For FIVE DOLLARS, Two Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints to each subscriber.

For TEN DOLLARS, Five Copies for one year, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person forming the Club, and either of the above prints, or a set of portraits to each subscriber.

For TWENTY DOLLARS, Eleven Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints, or a set of the portraits to each subscriber, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person sending the Club, with a copy of each of the large prints as an additional premium.

☞ Any person forwarding a Club of 20 or upwards, shall receive for his trouble a complete copy of W. H. Graham's "American Historical and Biographical Library."

SAMUEL D. PATTERSON & Co.,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by

E. C. BEAM. No. 402 Broat st. Newark.

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

MOST EXCELLENT

SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at
W. M. DRAKE'S.

GREAT REWARD

IF WALKED AWAY OR TAKEN THROUGH MISTAKE.

A large DOG purchased in Plainfield of one Mr. Frazee very highly recommended by him as being a Superior Watch Dog, said dog is a large size, minis his narrative (alias) Tail, of a good standing Color, and has not been known to Bite, he has a large wound on his right shoulder received a few days since in an encounter with a small dog. Any person finding said dog will confer a great favor by retaining him or so disposing of him that it will not be necessary for us to keep two men to prevent so valuable an animal from being enticed away, and in addition to our thanks the finder shall receive a reward of 50cts by calling on Mr. Frazee in Plainfied or at the Broadway Branch 182 Broad st. opposite the Park Newark, N. J. where there is this day opened

500 SHAWLS,

Comprising every variety and price shawls from 2 shillings to $40,00 among which are some handsome all Wool Broche Shawls for $7,50 cost $12,00 to import. [55.

GEORGE VANNESS'

SHAVING & HAIR DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call. ☜

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do a way with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY.
No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.
L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy; her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No. 61 Fourth-st

Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Upstairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜
November 1849. [98.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning: they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.
J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.
Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

TAKE NOTICE.

TO all whom it may concern.—I hereby forbid any person trusting my wife Martha Wilson on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation.
ZACHARIAH J. WILSON.
November 14. 1849.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. S. BROOKS.
Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1849. [72.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N.J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m. Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk. Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.
October 30. 1849. [52.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,
59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜
E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. ☜ [54.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15.00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.
SAMUEL C. DUNN,
54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary, Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufncture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.
80] AGENS & Co.
No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of HARNESS, COLLARS, WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜
MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.
Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜
MOSES P. DEMMINGS.
Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.
PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.
TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.
Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.
Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.
DANIEL BULLMAN.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

The Weekly Republic.

THE undersigned will commence the pulication of a new Democratic Weekly Newspaper, bearing this title, on the 14th November, 1849.

It will be of large size; printed on good stout paper, from handsome new type. It will be mailed to subsbribers at the low price of.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR—in advance.

In addition to strong, sound Democratic ORIGINAL ARTICLES, it will contain selections from all the best Democratic journals in the country, showing the state of public feeling on every topic of interest that attracts the attention of the pubiic.

All the Local News of the City of New-York will be fully given in the columns of THE WEEKLY REPUCLIC, as well as the General News—both Domestic and Foreign. A writer who wields a powerful pen will furnish us, by every steamer, a letter from london, which will keep the readers of The Republic fully apprised of the state of Europe, and give a truthful account of the progress of liberal opinions in all parts of the Old World; unwarped and unbiased by passing through the tory journals of England or the papers of the Continent; emasculated by the rigors of the censorship.

A full and truthful account of the state of the Produce Market will also be given and the state of the Money Market and Sales of Stocks, will like wise be accurately chronicled in the weekly Republic.

Letters containing subscriptions, or any other business—in all cases post paid—to be addressed to

E. P. WILLIAMS, Republic Office,
82 Nassau street, New-York.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

 Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.
Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

121-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway, at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtow, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings, of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

• ☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1849. | NO. 50.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 15 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

From Graham's Magazine.

UNFADING FLOWERS.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

THIRTY years ago, a small, barefooted boy, paused to admire the flowers in a well cultivated garden. The child was an orphan, and had already felt how hard the orphan's lot. The owner of the garden, who was trimming a border, noticed the lad, and spoke to him kindly.

'Do you love flowers?' said he.

The boy replied, 'Oh yes. We used to have beautiful flowers in our garden.'

The man laid down his knife, and gathering a few flowers, took them to the fence, through the pannels of which the boy was looking, and handing them to him, said as he did so.

'Here's a nice little bunch for you.'

A flush went over the child's face as he took the flowers. He did not make any reply, but in his large eyes, as he lifted them to the face of the man, was an expression of thankfulness, to be read as plainly as words in a book.

The act, on the part of the man, was one of spontaneous kindness, and scarcely thought of again; but, by the child, it was never forgotten.

Years went by, and through toil, privation and suffering, both in body and mind, the boy grew up to manhood. From ordeals like this come forth our most effective men. If kept free from vicious associates, the lad of feeling and mental activity becomes ambitious, and rises in society above the common level. So it proved in the case of this orphan boy. He had few advantages of education, but such as offered were well improved. It happened that his lot was cast in a printing office; and the young compositor soon became interested in his work. He did not set the types as a mere mechanic, but went beyond the duties of his calling, entering into the ideas to which he was giving verbal expression, and making them his own. At twenty-one he was a young man of more than ordinary intelligence and force of character. At thirty-five he was the conductor of a widely-circulated and profitable newspaper, and as a man, respected and esteemed by all who knew him.

During the earnest struggle that all men enter into who are ambitious to rise in the world, the thoughts do not often go back and rest, meditatively, upon the earlier time of life. But after success has crowned each well-directed effort, and the gaining of a desire position, no longer remains a subject of doubt, the mind often brings up from the far-off past most vivid recollections of incidents and impressions that were painful or pleasureable at the time, and which are now seen to have had an influece, more or less decided upon the whole after life. In this state of reflection sat one day the man we have here introduced. After musing for a long time, deeply abstracted, he took up his pen and wrote hastily—and these were the sentences he traced upon the paper that lay before him.

"How indelibly does a little act of kindness, performed at the right moment, impress itself upon the mind. We meet, as we pass through the world, so much of rude selfishness, that we guard ourselves against it, and scarcely feel its effects But spontaneous kindness comes so rarely, that we are surprised when it appears, and delighted and refreshed as by the perfume of flowers in the dreary winter. When we were a small boy, an orphan, and with the memory of a home forever lost too vivid in our young heart, a man, into whose beautiful garden we stood looking pulled a few flowers, and handed them through the fence, speaking a kind word as he did so. He did not know, and perhaps never will know, how deeply we were touched by his act. From a little boy we loved the flowers, and ere that heaviests affliction a child ever knows—the loss of parents--fell upon us, we almost lived among them But death seperated between us and all those tender associations and affections that, to the hearts of children, are like dew to the tender grass. We entered the dwelling of a stranger, and were treated thenceforth as if we had, or ought to have, no feelings no hopes, no weakness. The harsh command came daily and almost hourly to onr ears; and not even for work well done, or faithful service, were we cheered by words of commendation.

'One day—we were not more than eleven years old—something turned our thoughts back upon the earlier and happier time when we had a true home, and was loved and cared for. We were once more in the garden and among the sweet blossoms, as of old, and the mother, on whose bosom we had slept, sat under the grape arbor while we filled her lap with flowers. There was a smile of love on her dear face, and her lips were parting with some word of affection, when, to scatter into nothing these dear images of the lonely boy, came the sharp command of a master, and in obedienee we started forth to perform some needed service. Our way was by the garden of which we have spoken; and it was on that occasion, and while the suddenly dissipated immage of our mother among the flowers was reforming itself in our young imagination, that the incident to which we have alluded occurred. We can never forget the grateful perfume of those flowers, nor the strength and comfort which the kind words and manner of the giver imparted to our fainting spirit. We took them home, and kept them fresh as long as water would preserve their life and beauty; and when they faded, and the leaves fell, pale and withered, upon the ground, we grieved for their loss as if a real friend had been taken away.

'It is a long, long time since that incident occurred; but the flowers which there sprung up in our bosom, are fresh and beautiful still. They have neither faded nor withered—they cannot, for they are unfading flowers. We never looked upon the man who gave them to us that our heart did not grow warm toward him. We know not now whether he be living, or dead. Twenty years ago we lost sight of him; but, if still among the dwellers of earth, and in need of a friend, we would divide with him our last morsel.'

An old man, with hair whitened by the snows of many winters, was sitting in a room that was poorly supplied with furniture, his head bowed down, and gaze cast dreamily upon the floor. A pale youug girl came in while he thus sat musing. Lifting his eyes to her face, he said, while he tried to look cheerful.

'Ellen, dear, you must not go out today.'

'I feel a great deal better, grandpa,' returned the girl, forcing a smile. 'I am able to go to work again.'

'No, child, you are not,' said the old man firmly; 'and you must not think of such a thing,'

'Don't be so positive, grandpa.' And as she uttered this little sentence, in a half playful voice, she laid her hand among the thin gray locks on the old man's head and smoothed them caressingly. 'You know that I must not be idle.'

'Wait child, until your strength returns.'

'Our wants will not wait, grandpa.' As the girl said this, her face became sober. The old man's eyes again fell to the floor and a heavy sigh came forth from his bosom.

'I will be very careful and not overwork myself again,' resumed Ellen, after a pause.

'You must not go to-day,' said the old man, arousing himself. "It is murder. Wait until at least to-morrow. You will be stronger then.'

'If I do not go back to-day, I may loose my place. You know I have been home for three days.'

'You were sick.'

'Work will not wait. The last time I was kept away by sicknees, a customer was disappointed; and there was a good deal of trouble about it.'

Another sigh came heavily from the old mans heart.

I will go,' said the girl. 'Perhaps they will let me off for a day longer. If so, I will come back. But I must not loose the place.

No further resistance was made by the old man. In a little while he was alone. Hours went by, but Ellen did not return. She had gone to work. Her employer would not let her go away, feeble as she was without a forfeiture of her place.

About mid-day, finding that Ellen did not come back, the old man, after taking some food, went out. The pressure of seventy years was upon him, and his steps were slow and carefully taken.

'I must get something to do. I can work still,' he muttered to himslf, as he moved along the streets. 'The dear child is killing herself and all for me.'

But what could he do! Who wanted the services of an old man like him, whose mind had lost its clearness, whose step faltered, and whose hand was no longer steady? In vain he made application for employment. Younger and more vigorous men filled all the places, and he was pushed aside. Discouraged and drooping in spirit, he went back to his home, and there awaited the fall of evening, which was to bring the return of the only being left on earth to love him. At night-fall Ellen came in. Her face, so pale in the morning, was how slightly flushed; and her eyes were brighter than when she went out. The grandfather was not deceievd by this; he knew it as the sign of disease. He took her hand—it was hot; and when he bent to kiss her gentle lips, he found them burning with fever.

'Ellen, my child, why did you go to work to-day? I knew it would make you sick,' the old man said, in a voice of anguish.

Ellen tried to smile and appear not so very ill; but nature was too much oppressed.

'I brought home some work, and will not go out to-morrow,' she remarked. 'I think the walk fatigued me more than any thinge else. I will feel better in the morning, after a good night's sleep.'

But the girl's hope failed in this. The morning found her so weak that she could not rise from bed; and when her grandfather came into her room to learn how she had passed the night, he found her weeping on her pillow. She had endeavored to get up, but her head which was aching terribly, grew dizzy, and she fell back under a despairing consciousness that her strength was gone.

The day passed, but Ellen did not grow better. The fever still kept her body postrate. Once or twice, when her grandfather was out of the room, she took the work she had brought home, and tried to do some of it while sitting up in bed.—But ere a minute had passed, she became faint, while all grew dark around her. She was no better when night came. If her mind could have rested—if she had been free from anxious and distressing thoughts, nature would have had some power to react, but as it was, the pressure upon her was too great. She could not forget that they had scarcely so much money as a dollar left, and that her old grandfather was too feeble to work. Upon her rested all the burden of their support, and she was now helpless.

On the next morning Ellen was better. She could sit up without feeling dizzy, though her head still ached, and the fever had only slightly abated. But the old man would not permit her to leave the bed, though she begged him earnestly to let her do so.

The bundle of work that Ellen had brought home, was wrapped in a newspaper, and this her grandfather took up to read some time during the day.

'This is Mr. T——'s newspaper,' said he, as he opened it, and saw the title. 'I knew T—— when he was a poor little orphan boy. But of course, he don't remember me. He's prospered wonderfully.'

And then his eyes went along the columns of the paper, and he read aloud to Ellen such things as he thought would interest her. Among others was a reminisence by the editor—the same that we have just given. The old man's voice faltered as he read. The little incident, so feelingly described, had long since been hidden in his memory under the gathering dust of time. But now the dust was swept away, and he saw his own beautiful garden. He was in it and among the flowers; and wishfully looking through the fence stood the orphan boy. He remembered having felt pity for him, and he remembred now as distinctly as if it were but yesterday, though thirty years had intervened, the light that went over the child's face as he handed him a few flowers that were to fade and wither in a day.

Yes, the old man's voice faltered while he read; and when he eame to the last sentence, the paper dropped upon the floor, and clasping his hands together, he lifted his dim eyes upward, while his lips moved in wispered words of thankfulness

'What ails you, grandpa?' asked Ellen, in surprise.

But the old man did not seem to hear her voice.

'Dear grandpa,' repeated the girl, 'why do you look so strangely?' She had risen in bed, and was bending toward him.

'Ellen, child,' said the old man, a light breaking over his countenance, as though a sunbeam had suddenly come into the room, 'it was your old grandfather who gave the flowers to that poor little boy. Did you hear what he said?—he would divide his last morsel.

The old man moved about the room with his unsteady steps, talking in a wandering way, so overjoyed at the prospect of relief for his child, that he was nearly beside himself. But there yet lingered some embers of pride in his heart; and from these the ashes were blown away, and they became bright and glowing. The thought of asking a favor as a return for that little act, which was to him, at the time, a pleasure, came with a feeling of reluctance. But when he looked at the pale young girl who lay with her eyes closed and her face half buried in the pillow, he murmered to himself, 'It is for you—for you!' and taking up his staff, he went tottering forth into the open air.

The editor was sitting in his office, writing, when he heard the door open, and turning, he saw before him an old man with bent form and snowy head. Something in the visiter's countenance struck him as familiar; but he did not recognize him as one whom he had seen before.

'Is Mr T——in?' inqaired the old man.

'My name is T——,' replied the editor.

'You?' There was a slight expression of surprise in the old man's voice.

'Yes, I am T——, my friend,' was kindly said. 'Can I do any thing for you? Take this chair.'

The offered seat was accepted; and as the old man sunk into it, his countenance and manner betrayed his emotion.

'I have come,' said he, and his voice was unsteady, 'to do what I could not do for myself alone. But I cannot see my poor, sick grandchild wear out and die under the weight of burdens that are too heavy to be borne. For her sake I have conquered my own pride.'

There was a pause.

'Go on,' said T——, who was looking at the old man earnestly, and endeavoring to fix his identity in his mind.

'You don't know me?'

'Your face is not entirely strange,' said T——, 'It must have been a long time since we met.'

'Long? Oh yes! It is a long, long time. You were a boy, and I unbent by age.'

'Markland!' exclaimed T——, with sudden energy, springing to his feet as the truth flashed upon him. Say—is it so?'

'My name is Markland.'

'And do we meet again thus!' said T——, with emotion, as he grasped the old man's hand. 'Ah sir, I have never forgotten you. When a sad-hearted boy you spoke to me kindly, and the words comforted me when I had no other comfort. The bunch of flowers you gave me—you remember it, no doubt—are still fresh in my heart. Not a leaf has faded. They are as bright and green, and full of perfume as when I first hid them there; and there they will bloom forever—the the unfading flowors of gratitude. I am glad you have come, though grieved that your declining years are made heavier by misfortune. Heaven has smiled on my efforts in the world. I have enough, and to spare.'

'I have not come for charity,' returned Markland. 'I have hands, and they would not be idle, though it is not much that they can accomplish.'

'Be not troubled on that account, my friend,' kindly answered. 'I will find something for you to do. But first tell me all about yourself.'

Thus encouraged, the old man told his story. It was the common history of loss of property and friends, and the approach of want with declining years. T—— saw that pride and native independence were still strong in Markland's bosom, feeble as he was, and really unable to enter upon any serions employment; and his first impulse was to save his feelings at the same time that he extended to him entire and permanent relief. This he found no difficulty in doing, and the old man was soon after placed in a situation where but little application was necessary, while the income was all sufficient for the comfortable support of himself and grandchild.

The flowers offered with a purely humane feeling, proved to be fadeless flowers; and their beauty and perfume came back to the senses of the giver when all other flowers were dead or dying on his dark and dreary way.

A HUMANE HART.—Judge Hart of Cincinnati, lately caused the 'criminal box' to be taken out of the court, on the ground that no man need be disgraced before he is found guilty of crime.—Ex. Paper.

Give that Hart a chance to send the warm life-giving blood of humanity through the frozen, selfish system of human society, and not only 'criminal boxes,' but jails and court houses will be taken away, and better means will be used to save the erring.—Pleasure Boat.

FINDING AND NOT RETURNING IS STEALING.—In the Court of Common Pleas at Manchester, N. H., Mrs. Polly Lord, of Deering, was recently sentenced to the State Prison for two years, for retaining and using two hunded and fifty dollars which she picked un and kept—knowing the owner.

☞ 'Shall we take a 'bus, up Broadway?' said a young New Yorker, who was showing his country cousin the wonders of that city.

'Oh, dear! no!' said the frightened girl; 'I would not do that, in the street!'—Lynn News.

☞ When a dentist pulls out an aching tooth for us says the Boston Post, we call it a dental operation; so if he were to pull out a sound tooth instead of the 'rager,' we should call it an accidental operation, should'nt we?

'Wake up here and pay your lodgings,' said the Deacon, as he nudged a sleepy stranger with the contribution box.

☞ A sign over the door of a tairlor's shop in New Orleans, designates it a 'pantaloonery.'

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, November 29, 1849.

Village Newspapers.

The importance of a well conducted newspaper in every village of 500 inhabitants or over must be apparent to all. If a village can afford to support three or four public houses; four or five lawyers; eight or ten ministers; odd-fellow's societies, &c., it can and ought most assuredly to support as many good schools and newspapers. There is nothing in our estimation better, if so well, calculated to advance the prosperity,—"moral and physcal," as a well supported and well conducted public school and newspaper. To all intelligent minds these are self-evident propositions, that unless a village has good and efficient schools and newspapers it will not, because it cannot, thrive.—As well might the body expect to thrive without nourishment suitable to its organization, as to make intelligent, moral, industrious and useful citizens without schools and newspapers. It may be said that our village is not without newspapers, that there are a great many papers of the first class received here from the large cities, or that our village papers do not give as late news and are not as well edited, or are too partisan, or are not partisan enough, to suit the fastidious tastes of its citizens. This is undoubledly true, and yet just to the extent that foreign papers are patronized to the neglect of our own must this ever be the case. It cannot be expected by reasonable and intelligent men, that a paper can be well edited without an efficient support, that the editor may have time to prepare and select articles which shall be worthy the attention of an enlightened public. He cannot do this; we say, and attend all the multifarious duties of a printing office, the devil's included, to make fires, sweep the office, roll the form, etc. yet all this have we done.

We do not complain. Our own anticipations have been more than trebly realized. With all these impediments we have succeeded; we challange comparison with any paper in the State in appearance or contents, excepting our own imperfect cogitations; but this is not what we want; we want to go ahead! we want this, our native town, to stand forth the proud example of surrounding villages as the patron of efficient public free schools and of well conducted village newspapers. As before observed, without this it is impossible for a village ever to become intelligent, enlightened, prosperous and happy.

In conducting our paper we have, as stated in the commencement, expressed our opinion candidly, on all matters coming under our notice, without fear, perhaps against favor, of any party or clique, which we shall continue to do. At the same time our columns have been and still are open to the free discussion of any matter in any way connected with the welfare and happiness of man, believing such a course would best conduce to and promote the views of enlightened freemen.

The village newspaper is the medium through which it becomes known abroad, and by which its enterprise, and future capabilities, location, advantages, etc. also become known abroad; as well as thorugh which its merchants, mechanics, manufacturers, farmers, traders, etc. make known their several wants, business, pleasure, etc. It is the powerful assistant of the pulpit, the bar, and the bench. These are but a few of its advantages which we here have room to enumerate. All this to individuals can be had for the insignificant sum of ten shillings per annum. Reader, will you refuse your mite towards giving Plainfield good schools and an efficient newspaper—we trust not. Send immediately to the latter ten shillings, and to the former your due proportion.

Cotton Manufactory.

The Citizens of Plainfield and its victnity are respectfully invited to meet at Laing's Hall on Monday evening, December 3d, to take into consideration the expediency of organized a Cotton Manufacturing Company, to be located in this village.

As all men in Plainfield and vicinity are interested in its prosperity, let all attend.

☞ Look closely at our advertising columns or you may regret it. We have a number of new advertisements which for want of room we cannot more especially notice this week.

Plainfield Lyceum.

The members of this time honored and meritorious association met agreeable to public notice given, at the School House of Mr. W. W. Davidson. The meeting was called to order by Zachariah Webster Esq. and proceeded to elect a presiding officer:—Whereupon Randolph Dunham Esq. one of its oldest and most respected and influential members was unanimously chosen; Mr. E. M. Dunn was elected Secretary:

This association we believe originated from a debating club which was formed in 1832, its present chairman being one of the original members. This association has numbered among its members many very worthy and influential men, who doubtless owe something to its influence in the formation of their character. There is nothing better calculated to promote a moralizing influence on society than an institution of this kind, we hope to see an intesrest taken in its proceedings by all, and especially by the young.

The members of the Plainfield Lyceum will meet in Mr. W. W. Davison's school house, on Tuesday evening the 4th of December at 1-4 of 7 o'clock. The question for discussion will be:

"Is War ever Justifiable."

☞The public are respectfully invited to attend. E. M. Dunn, Sec'y.

Plainfield, Nov. 27. 1849.

The Side Walks.—In dry weather the side walks in our village are certainly good, none better, therefore there is no necessity to have them paved as they cannot be improved; in wet weather it cannot be done, therefore we must be content to wade through the mud, the prey to wet feet, coughs, colds and consumption—of course the doctors must live.

The Sunday Dispatch.—Those wishing to subscribe for a paper from abroad, we would cheerfully recommend the Sunday Dispatch. It contains a large amount of interesting miscellany together with the news of the day, is neatly printed on good paper, published weekly at $1 per annum in advance, by Lawlor, Everett & Hicken, at 83 South Third st. Philadelphia, Pa.

The Scalpel.—We have read the fifth number of this truly valuable journal with increased interest. Dr. Dixon evidently asks nor gives no favors other than deserving ones; a more bold, fearless and independent writer we have never read; humor and satire abound on every page. The work will be found valuable and interesting to all, containing as it does the causes, nature and treatment of disease, and the exposure of quackery. It is a neat pamphlet of sixty-four pages, entirely original, published quarterly at $1 per annum in advance, by E. H. Dixon M. D. New York

The Planets Inhabited!

Incontestible evidence that the moon and perhaps all the planets are inhabited, presented itself a few days ago to the inhabitants of Green Valley, Somerset Co. N. J., by the explosion of what at the time was supposed to be a meteor, but which proved upon examination the next day to have been the bursting of a lunar printing press! as several fragments were found, one piece of which it is supposed weighed three hundred pounds, the broken edges of which has the appearance of bell metal, and reasoning from analogy bears a striking resemblance to one of Hoe's cylinder presses. What confirms the opinion of its being a printing press is the finding two days after by a wood carter about two miles distant from where the others were found, a piece of sterotype plate, with ink of a deep blue color, fresh upon it; from this last fact, and the appearance of the pieces it undoubtedly was destroyed by the inconceivable velocity with which it was worked, and these pieces must have flew off at a tangent with such force as to overcome or pass beyond the power of gravitation.

The following is a fac simile of the portion of the sterotype plate found.

qzzz?!lmumnueedoooo?!zxx—1iauuqvxvs gff24rrlzxqmz!cc?!oo—£xqzcc,'¶hhmtrrn œ&dz?———z2iss3&. hhenm kk?zoo
———?hkjx7r~~k~~ky——zyn
wwnt☞Æm~~☞Æm!!
§☞ [illegible] §.—}~☞ ——— {~~nÆ?zxm☞
—~~GEW~~y000,1~☞
—£Œœæ§—☞!!
———&~~~X— P·§.P.Y·X.X~~.

☞ If possible we will have the above plate interpreted in time for our next, having put it in the hands of a learned linguist for that purpose.

For the Plainfield Gazette.

Decision of Character.

One of the most important qualifications that a person can possess is firmness. It matters but little what other gifts he may be blessed with, if decision of character is wanting, his existence will not be a happy one, nor will his attempts to be useful be very successful. He will be like a harp with a broken string; in vain do we expect harmony in such an instrument. A steam engine—no matter how skillfully constructed—is incomplete and worthless, so far as use is concerned, if the balance-wheel is wanting. So with the individual who is lacking in firmness; he may have great advantages—wealth, honors, learning, may all be his, and yet he will seek in vain to accomplish any act which shall cover himself with glory, or prove of very great service to mankind.

The want of this important trait of character is a great hindrance to the successfnll prosecution of any branch of industry, and is calculated to embarrass all who are so unfortunate as not to possess it.

How often is the heart pained to hear it said of one whom we may have admired for some generous act, "He is a very good sort of a man, but he is impulsive and not to be relied on." Or, "He would do much good if he was not so easily drawn off before his undertaking was brought to a succesful issue."

Firmness is necessary to preserve us from a thousand evils. There are so many tempters besetting our path that we are constantly becoming involved in difficulties if we do not set our face as a flint against everything calculated to mar our peace. O how many have stumbled and fell, no more to stand erect, because, when the tempter first whispered the lie in their ear, they did not instantly exclaim, "Get thee behind me, Satan!" How many thousand young men, surrounded with everything, almost, to make life desirable and pleasant, have finally filled a felon's grave because they faltered for a moment when the thought arose in their mind that they could reap undetected where they had not sown, and gather where they had not strewed. Our criminal courts daily furnish evidence that the great reason why men become felons is because they halted a moment on their journey to listen to the syren song of sinful pleasures, or gave ear momentarily to the Prince of Darknes while he made use of all his eloquence to persuade them that if they ate of the forbidden fruit, they should not surely die. Too late they find to their sorrow that they have been listening to a lie; for they now realize that sin will ever be followed by its necessary companion, Suffering.

—There is but little use in alluding to evils if we do not suggest a remedy. Let me say to those of my readers who are not decided in all their actions. It is your own fault if you experience many evils from your vacillating course. Your character will not be respected; your influence will not be felt; you will be a mere blank in society, if you do not act with decision. Study well the importance of this matter, and learn to cultivate habits which will command respect and fit you for usefulness. It wil require some effort but if you are successful you will be repaid a thonsand-fold. Aim at decision of character, and learn that it is necessary to your well-being, and you will succeed. A. J. N.

☞ This morning about 9 o'clock, the office of the State Bank, at Camden, N. J. No. 12 Church Alley, was entered, by means of false keys, and robbed of five thousand two hundred and eighteen dollars. The money consisted principally of the notes of the Camden bank of small and large denominations, there being in the amount three or four of five hundred dollars. A reward of $500 is offered for the detection of the robber.—Philadelphia Bulletin, Nov. 24.

☞ We presume, as a matter of course that our state Legislature, this Winter, will prove Anti-Monopoly to the back bone. We presume they will go to Trenton fully prepared to grapple with the 'monster,' and as fully determined to let out his life blood as he has been tenancious in feeding upon the life-blood of the people. The honest portion of our legislators must reckon upon a desperate conflict with the enemy;—let them but remain study to their purpose, however, and all the influences he can bring against them will vanish into thin air. Every tyrant is a coward, and, when once he is fairly met, it is wonderful how he succumbs. So will it be with the tyrant monopoly of our State.—Rahway Register.

Business Man, put your sign in the newspaper. The spirit of the times requires it.

Modification of the Tariff.

The Journal of Commerce, which by the way is the best commercial paper in the Union, and in relation to matters of finance is about as well posted up as any paper with which we are acquainted; holds the following language in regard to the premature announcement of a deficiency of revenue, and a modification of the tariff.

"The Protectionists may make themselves entirely easy as to any precipitate modification of the tariff. A majority of the members of both Houses, we have no doubt, will take sufficient time to understand the nature of this deficit, so called, and whether an increase of duties on protected articles would be likely to increase the revenue or diminish it. The experiment of the new Tariff under the last Administration showed a decided increase of revenue compared with the tariff of 1842; and fortunately there is no chance for mistification on this head. It was stated in the annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury last december, and will not be denied, that the nett revenue from imports during the entire operation of the Tariff of 1842, viz., four year and three months, was $23,895,208 per annum; whereas under the new Tariff, from 1st December, 1846, when it went into operation, to the 30th June, 1848, the nett revenue was $56,654,563-79, or 30,902, 489 per annum. Showing an average annual increase of revenue under the New Tariff, compared with the old, of $7,007, 281. It is very clear, therefore, that if the present revenue is insafficient, a return to the Tariff of 1842 is not the way to increase it. That was a high protective Tariff; the present is called a Free Trade Tariff, though it is far from being so in fact. If, however, an approximation towards Free Trade has increased the revenues $7,000, 000 per annum, why may we not conclude that a still further advance in the same direction, would add still further to the revenue? At least, it is a more logical conclusion than the opposite.

If, under the present Administration, the revenue is less than it was under the last, with the same Tariff in operation, it will be a matter of some interest to ascertain the cause. It cannot be the 'advalorem principle,' for that was in operation during the last years of Mr polk's adminstration, and did not prevent large increase of revenue over that of 1842, in which specific duties predominated. If the ad valorem principle is 'a fraud,' the specific principle must be a still greater one, if any conclusions can be drawn from the pecuniary results of the two systems.

Another thing is to be noted, viz., that less than five months of the two years during which this alarming deficit is to occur, have yet elapsed; so that in the main, the announcement of a deficit of 15 or 20 millions in the two years, is little else than a prediction by the enemies of the present Tariff. The same men predicted, when the same Tariff passed into a law, that the revenue would fall far below that of the Tariff of 1842. The result proved them false prophets then; we trust it will do so now.

If however it be a fact (which we do not believe) that the present revenue is insufficient to meet our current expenses and interests on the public debt, together with a respectable surplus to be applied annually towards the extinction of that debt the obviously proper couse is, to impose a duty on some of the numerous articles which pay no duty at all. An increase of the duties on the dutiable articles, or many of them, would diminish the revenue, instead of increasing it.

The disguise under which this alarm for the state and prospects of the revenue is veiled, is too thin to decieve any body. Better come out frankly and say, 'we want more protection to the few, at the expense of the many. The magnificent fortunes realised in four yeats under the Tariff of 1842, do not satisfy the recipients; they wish to have further taxes laid upon the masses throughout the country, for the benefit of themselves and their children.' Silly politicians! Stange you do not percieve that the day of ultra protection, in this country at least, is past and gone forever. England is pressing still more strongly in the same direction. Even Spain, Mexico and Austria, the ne plus of protectionists, are beginning to relax the rigors of the system, finding that it leads to the destruction of commerce and general ruin.

The Burning Alive Case.—The West telegraph reporter lately startled and horrified our readers with the intelligence that a negro man was about to be deliberately burned alive for two cruel murders, at Hannibal, Mo. The Courier for that place publised the particulars of the case, but makes no mention of the purposed burning altho' it says that the mob was with great difficulty restrained from tearing him to pieces, when he wes taken to jail.

Newspapers.—The reading of a good and well conducted newspaper, even for the short space of one-quarter of a year, brings more sound instruction, and leaves a deeper impression, than would be acquired, probably, at the best school in twelve months. Talk to the members of a family who read the papers, and compare their information and intelligence with those who do not. The difference is beyond comparison —Irish paper.

☞ Suppose, some sultry Sunday morning, a being, habited and mannered like him who came eighteen hundred years ago, to redeem the world, should present himself, dusty and weary from his travel and toil among the poor and cast down, at the door of one of our gorgeous churches, and say 'I am Christ,' would it not require a greater miracle than ever confounded Pharasee, or Sadducee, to convince our proud Christians that he was verily the Son of God. And should he ascend the pulpit, and preach as of old joy and peace to the poor, and teach the brotherhood of the race; or should he go into Wall street and say to the rich young man, 'if thou wouldst follow me, sell all thou hast and give to the poor,' would not the cry of hypocrite, and blasphemer, be raised as loudly as it ever was in Jerusalem. Would not the money changers shout socialist, and red, republican, and the worshippers of golden images cry, 'Great is Dianna of the Ephesians!' If the humble but divine Christ, were to appear on earth, in all the beauty and majesty of the Godliness he manifested eighteen hundred years ago, he would find the temple doors shut against him, and his loudest mouthed disciples would be first to deny and revile him.—N. Y. Sun.

A young girl of twenty in male attire, is said to have been actively engaged in sixteen conflicts during the late war in Hungary as aid-de-camp to one of the Magyar generals, Murder near Cranbury.—A correspondent of the Daily Trentonian writes from Hightown, Nov. 19th, that a murder was committed near Cranbury, in Mercer County, on the evening previous. The victim was Mr. James Applegate—the murderer a man named William Petty, effected his escape. He had on an old straw hat, dark green frock coat, cotton striped pantaloons, patched about the knees. Hair and eyes dark height 5 feet 8 or 9 inches, and apparently between 46 and 50 years of age.

A Coroner's inquest was held, and the following verdict returned by the Jury:—'That it is our belief that the deceased came to his death by a wound from an axe, or some other sharp instrument, inflicted by Petty.'

MARRIED.

At Elizabethtown Nov. 25th by the Rev Dr. Murray, Aaron T. Marsh, to Henrietta P. Davis.

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments wsrranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.

Dec. 28. 1849. [102.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—John Higgins, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent. less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing. All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

CHAIN PUMPS.

THE best machine for raising water, in use.—This Pump has many advantages over any other in use on account of its simplicity of construction, being made wholly of wood and galvanized iron, not liable to get out of order or to get deranged in any way. It can never freeze in winter, and can be put in wells of any depth.

It takes less power to work it than any other machine, to raise the same amount of water.

It is never obstructed by gravel or sand; it keeps the water perfectly sweet and fresh; the action of the chain mixes the gasses with the water always keeping it lively and fresh; on ceasing to work it, the water in the tube descends to the level of the water in the well; on commencing to work the pump, the first water that is drawn is from the bottom of the well.

☞ This pump received the premium at the late Essex county fair.

These Pumps may be had at the Pump Factory of S. B. Miller, 340 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

63.] E. W. WHITEHEAD, Superintendent.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 19 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.
102.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,

CHEAP

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT
SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

GEORGE VANNESS'
SHAVING & HAIR DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call. ☜

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven
COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

STANLEY'S
Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,
For sale cheap by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [52.

TAKE NOTICE.

TO all whom it may concern:—I hereby forbid any person trusting my wife Martha Wilson on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation.

ZACHARIAH J. WILSON.
November 14. 1849.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law.
R. S. BROOKS.
Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1840. [72.

A CARD.
TO THE PATRONS OF

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

The close of the current Volume is deemed a proper period to announce to the patrons of this "Magazine" that arrangements have been completed which cannot fail to increase its attractions during the coming year. The best writers in the country will continue to enrich our pages with their productions, and our engravers—who stand foremost in their profession—will put forth the best efforts on their art to make this peculiar department of the "Magazine" more beautiful than ever.

Promising unremitted exertions to merit a continuance of the favor bestowed upon the "Magazine," we respectfully solicit a renewal of the subscriptions of all its old patrons, and the addition of the names of all who desire to avail themselves of the satisfactionof reading what is universally conceded to be 'THE BEST MAGAZINE IN THE COUNTRY.'

Attention is called to the following list of Terms, which are unquestionably more advantageous to subscribers than those offered by any other work of the kind.

TERMS.—For THREE DOLLARS, in advance, (par money in the States from which it is remitted,) one copy of "GRAHAM" and a copy of a LARGE AND MAGNIFICENT PRINT, by a distinguished Engraver, and which may be considered one of the most beautiful specimens of Art ever presented by any Magazine publisher, and also a new and beautiful Engraving, suitable for framing, of a Sacred Subject, "Bearing the saviour to the tomb," prepared expressly, and at a very heavy cost, as a Premium Gift to new subscribers to Graham's Magazine. Or, if desired, we will furnish in lieu of either of the above Prints, a complete set of our Mezzotint Portraits of the AMERICAN HEROES OF THE LATE WAR WITH MEXICO.

For FIVE DOLLARS, Two Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints to each subscriber.

For TEN DOLLARS, Five Copies for one year, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person forming the Club, and either of the above prints, or a set of portraits to each subscriber.

For TWENTY DOLLARS, Eleven Copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints, or a set of the portraits to each subscriber, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person sending the Club, with a copy of each of the large prints as an additional premium.

☞ Any person forwarding a Club of 20 or upwards, shall receive for his trouble a complete copy of W. H. Graham's "American Historical and Biographical Library."

SAMUEL D. PATTERSON & Co.,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

NEW CANDIDATE.
THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.
HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by
E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark.

GREAT REWARD

IF WALKED AWAY OR TAKEN THROUGH MISTAKE.

A large DOG purchased in Plainfield of one Mr. Frazee very highly recommended by him as being a Superior Watch Dog, said dog is a large size, minis his narrative (alias) Tail, of a good standing Color, and has not been known to Bite, he has a large wound on his right shoulder received a few days since in an encounter with a small dog. Any person finding said dog will confer a great favor by retaining him or so disposing of him that it will not be necessary for us to keep two men to prevent so valuable an animal from being enticed away, and in addition to our thanks the finder shall receive a reward of 50cts by calling on Mr. Frazee in Plainfied or at the Broadway Branch 182 Broad st. opposite the Park Newark, N. J. where there is this day opened

500 SHAWLS,

Comprising every variety and price shawls from 2 shillings to $40,00 among which are some handsome all Wool Broche Shawls for $7,50 cost $12,00 to import. [55.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufncture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.
No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.
FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,
OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,
No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

A. WILCOX,
MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEWARK
CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15.00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1.50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,
54] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. ☜ [54.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.
AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.
Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

WHO
WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,
Plainfield, Aug. 23. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.
Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,
AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,
OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N.J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m. Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk. Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceites the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY,
No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.

L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.
New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy: her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st
Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Up stairs.

☞ L. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜
November 1849. [98.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.
Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breasts, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup, or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lungs and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the posession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heart, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health.—The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is.

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable Physicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearsons' Pulmonic Expectorant. "Having made use of Dr. Pearsons Pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the Breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed."

A. Pearson, M. D. U S. Navy; S K Leedem, M, D, Champlain Co., Ohio; W R Cadwallader, M D, U. S. Navy.

DR. PEARSON'S

Carminative Balsam.

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their posession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A M Sandford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M SANFORD,
No 160 East Broadway N. Y,

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U S and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies which are best calculated to remove diseases, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. SWALLOW. General Agent No 123 Fulton st N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attend to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, and M. F. CUSHING, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas & West Indies.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your 'Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours Respectfully,
AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; Also by J. R. Swallow, General Agent 123 Fulton street, New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. KIRKPATRICK, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

June 13. 1849. [77.

AMERICAN FASHIONS.

JUST RECEIVED at the New-York One Price Cheap Clothing Store, COLLET HALL, near the Rail Road Depot Elizabethtown, ☞ Genio C Scott's celebrated Fall and Winter Fashions for 1849–50. ☜

JOHN LUTZ has on hand a good assortment of Ready-made Clothing, of every description. Also a large assortment of Fashionable

Cloths, Cassimers and Vestings,

of all colors, which will be made up at the ☞ lowest rate. ☜

N. B. All Clothing warranted to fit or no sale.

The subscriber is thankful for the liberal patronage he has received during the past year, and solicits a continuance.

[49.] JOHN LUTZ.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1849. | NO. 51.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breast, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lung and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the possession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heat, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health. The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable phisicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant. 'Having made use of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed.'

A. Fearson, M. D. U. S Navy; S. K. Leedem, M. D. Champlain Co., Ohio; W. R. Cadwallader, M. D. U. S. Navy.

Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A. M. Sanford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M. SANFORD,
No. 160 East Broadway N. Y.

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U. S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearon M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. Swallow, General Agent, No. 123 Fulton-st. N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attended to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. [54.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

An Interesting Incident of the Last War with England.

]From Noah's Suday Times.]

The Americans are probably the most remarkable people on earth for promptness and preparation for war after it exists. A valuble corps of 200,000 men, armed, equipped, and disciplined, can be ready for the field in thirty days after war is declared, and so it may be said of ships of war. We will state one fact illustrative of this position. During the war with England, and while stationed on the Barbary coast, we were surprised one day, while exploring the ruins of Carthage, to to see a sharp clipper-built schooner under full sail, with the American flag floating to a brisk breeze, doubling Cape Bon, and making direct for the Bay. We rode down to the fortress of Goletta, ordered a launch to be made ready, and found ourselves along side the schooner just as she had cast anchor.

"Where are you from, sir?"

"From Boston," replied the captain, a smart dashing-looking young fellow.

"In what passage?"

"Twenty-three days, sir.'

We began to have our misgivings.—Twenty-three days from Boston? We suspected she had been fitted out at Marseilles to cruise in the Mediterranean. It was the Abeleno, Captain Wyer, of six guns and seventy-five men—a magnificent little craft. We went down into the trunk cabin.

"Now, sir,' said the captain, "I'll convice you that we are from Boston, and will show you Boston notions of every kind, from pumpkins and smoked herrings down to wooden nutmegs." He soon filled the table with all the good cheer and solid comforts with which the Bostonians know so well how to furnish a ship. "And here," said he, "is the Boston Centinel, Major Russel's paper.' All doubts were now at an end; and while we had been partaking of fare to which we had long been accustomed—homely fare, but more welcome on that account—the captain said:

"If you are surprised at our short passage so far up the Mediteranean, what will you say when I tell you it is just sixty days since the keel of this vessel was laid in Boston; yet here we are!" 'We could scarcely credit it.

"Nay, that's not all, sir," continued Captain Wyer. "On my way here, off Cagliari, I captured two large British ships filled with valuable cargoes, and ordered them for this port. They will be here tomorrow morning."

"What! in a neutral port, in which the British exercise unlimited influence? They will never permit us to sell the cargoes."

"Well, sir, we can only try."

Sure enough, next morning early, the ancient city of Tunis, honored once by the presence of Scipio Africanus, Hannibal, and other distinguished personages known to history, was thrown into the greatest commotion on seeing two large and deeply laden ships entering the port, the stars and stripes floating over the union jack. It startled the British consul and all the corps diplomatique, and we soon saw the whole bevy on horseback making for the palace.

"I smell sulphur," said the captain.—"There's a storm brewing, and we shall have it soon."

In an hour a message arrived by a mameluke that we were wanted at the palace.—After making our toilette, Sidi Ambrosio, our chancellor, and Mustapha, the dragoman, were soon mounted, and off we paced at a moderate rate for Bardo. The consular corps were all present when we entered the salla. The Bey, reclining as usual on his large crimson cushions, was busily engaged combing his long black beard with a tortise-shell comb, studded with brilliants, and looking unusually grave.

"What does all this mean, cousul—two British prizes entering our port, and for what purpose?'

"To sell them, your highness!"

"What! against our treaty with England?"

"Certaily not, if there is such a prohibition in the treaty."

The British consul, a most excellent man, unrolled the prachment, to which a seal of wax was appended nearly as large as one of our western cheeses, and commenced reading as follows:

"It is further stipulated and agreed upon, that no European power at war with England shall be permitted to fit out privateers or other armed vessels to cruise against the commerce of Great Britain from, or bring prizes into, the Tunisian ports."

'Well, sir,' said the Bey, 'what have you to say to that? Is it not full and conclusive?"

"Entirely so; but it does not apply to us. We are not an European power.'

"That, sir," said the British consul, "is a mere evasion of the spirit of this section of our treaty. It was intended to apply, and does apply, to all Christian powers."

"Very probably sir; but we are not a Christian power!" The whole court looked amazed. The Bey raised himself up from his cushions, took a hearty pinch of snuff from a diamond box, and gave us an anxious and inquiring look.

"How will you make that appear, sir?" said the British consul.

"Very easily, sir." We then read the following section from our treaty with Tripoli:—

"As the United States is in no manner a Christian government, and entertains no hostility towards any denomination, it is hereby understood that no disturbance shall arise between the powers on any religious question."

It was useless to argue the point further. We did not in any shape come within the purview of that treaty, so permission was given to land the goods; and the ships and cargoes, consisting of every variety of merchandise, were sold in a single day. The consul sent for a British blockading squadron from Malta; but the privateer slipped out of the bay, ran up the Archipelago, destroyed nearly two millions of British property, was chased round the Mediteranean by two ships of the line and two frigates, escaped through the Gut of Gibralter, and arrived home safely.

The commerce of any power would, by this private marine, be utterly destroyed in a war with the United States; and all the navy of Great Britain could not blockade so as to prevent privateers from escaping. We should find them on the Atlantic, the Pacific, in the Indian oceans, the Baltic, and the Mediteranean. They would be every-where.

☞ Some years ago a witness was examined before a judge in a case of slander, who required him to repeat the precise words spoken. The witness hesitated until he revetted the attention of the whole court on him, then fixing his eyes earnestly on the judge, began—

'May it please your honor, you lie and steal, and get your living by cheating.'

The face of the judge reddened, and he immediately exclaimed—

'Turn to the jury, sir, if you please.'

☞ A poor tailor being released from a troublesome world and a scolding wife appeared at the gate of paradise: 'Peter asked him if he had ever been to purgatory?'

'No,' said the tailor, 'but I have been married.'

'O!' said Peter, 'that is all the same.'

The tailor had scarcely got in, before a fat, turtle-eating alderman, came puffiing and blowing.

'Holloo! you fellow,' said he, 'open the door.'

'Not so fast,' said Peter; 'have you ever been to purgatory?'

'No,' said the aldermen; 'but what is that to the purpose? You let in that poor, half-starved tailor, and he had been no more in purgatory than I.'

'But he has been married!' said Peter,

'Married!' exclaimed the alderman. 'why I have been married twice.'

'Then please go back again,' said Peter, 'paradise is not the place for fools!'

☞ A fond couple who got divorced in Brooklyn the other day—the husband having become a base inebriate—grew almost distracted at their seperation. He reformed and courting his wife over again, they were re-married last sunday in New York!

Going to Law.

Two beggars travelling along,
One blind, the other lame,
Pick'd up an oyster on the way,
To which they both laid claim:
The matter rose so high, that they
Resolv'd to go to law,
As often richer fools have done.
Who quarrel for a straw.
A lawyer took it straight in hand,
Who knew his business was
To mind nor one nor t'other side,
But make the best o' th' cause,
As always in the law's the case;
So he his judgment gave,
And lawyer-like he thus resolv'd
What each of them should have;
Blind plaintiff, lame defendant share
The friendly law's impartial care.
A shell for him, a shell for thee,
The middle is the lawyer's fee.

Poor Richard

Something Wrong.

Mr. Barnum has offered Jenny Lind $200,000 if she will come to this country and perform for him two hundred nights, besides paying her expenses and those of her companion, financier, and two servants on their outward journey, and during her engagement here. Now there is something wrong in this—that a singer should make $1,000 a night, and all expenses paid, while many a poor girl, in every way as deserving, has to work day and night, till the eye grows dim, and the heart grows sick, and then can scarcely keep soul and body together. There is a wrong in this, a foul wrong, a wrong to your beggard brother, a wrong to your suffering sister: and you are answerable for this wrong—you who, because it might be fashionable, would give your dollar or your two dollars, to hear this woman sing. On those who have wealth hangs a heavy responsibility, and while want and suffering go unrelieved, we believe that every fashionable folly and frivolity is treasured up against the day of wrath. Wo to those who give their hundreds of dollars for an opera-box during the winter, and starve their seamstress and turn the beggar from their doors! Wo to those who would pour their thousands into the full purse of a singer, and at the same time let their brother and their sister go cold, or hungry or sick!—Literary American.

CORNERS.—Corners have always been popular. The chimney corner, for instance, is endeared to the heart from the earliest to the last hours of existence.—The corner cupboard! What stores of sweet things has it contained for us in youth? With what luxuries have its shelves groaned in manhood? A snug corner in a wall! Who ever objected to such a thing? A corner in a woman's heart! Once get there, and you may soon command the entire domain. A corner in the temple of fame! Arrive at that, and you become immortal. But a word of caution to the corner loafers. It is said by a good-natured cotemporary, that young men who hang around the corners of our streets, very often hang in a different corner when they grow up,—that of a prison yard.

TOUGH STORY.—A correspondent of the Spirit of the Times tells a wonderful feat of an ox down in Newhampshire. The farmer who owned this animal, could not keep him out of the barn. The tarnal critter would undo the button on the barn door, and open the grain boxes, and get up into the hay mow, and commit all sorts of devastation. He tried all manner of ways to fasten his barn door, but the ox would circumvent him. At last he made a large button out of a piece of hard wood scantlin', got a ladder and fixed the button right over the door. So he walks into the house and told his folks what he had done, 'and now,' said he, 'I guess old Brin won't get in that barn again in a hurry.' His words were scarcely out of his mouth when he heard a dreadful poundin' out in the yard. He run to the winder, and what do you 'spose he saw? Why the ox had seen him fix the button, and knowin' he couldn't never reach it he took up a two year old bull that was runnin' in the yard and held him up and actually made that innocent little critter turn the button for him!

THE following are the dates when the respective States entered the American Union:—Deleware, December 7, 1787; Pensylvania, December 12, 1787; New Jersey, December 18, 1787; Georgia, January 2, 1788; Connecticut, January 9, 1788; Massachusetts, February 6, 1788; Maryland, April 28, 1788; South Carolina, May 23, 1788; New Hampshire, June 21, 1788; Virginia, June 26, 1788; New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, November, 21, 1789; Rhode Island, May 29, 1790; Vermont, March 4, 1791; Kentucky, June 1, 1792; Tennessee, June 1, 1796; Ohio February 19, 1803; Louisiana, April 8, 1812; Indiana, December 11, 1816; Mississippi, December 10, 1817; Illinois, December 3, 1818; Alabama, December 14, 1819; Maine, March 15, 1820; Missouri, August 10, 1821; Arkansas, June 14, 1836; Michigan, January 26, 1837; Florida, March 3, 1845; Texas, December 24, 1845; Iowa, 1846; Wisconsin, December 29, 1848;

A RECENT INCIDENT.—In the crowded marketplace of one of the south-western cities, a northern vender of our religious books was exhibiting his stock in trade, and calling on the people to step up and buy. He was a colporteur of the American Tract Society, but seemed to be so abundantly supplied, that he had the book which every man called for, whatever its subject or title. Indeed, the variety of his supply was so curious and extensive that one man offered to bet another (Mr. B.,) that he could not name a book which the vender had not on hand. Mr. B. took him up, and cried out—

'I say, Mr. Bookseller, have you got the Memoir of the Devil?'

'The very thing,' replied the agent, taking out a book, 'the only authentic memoir of his majesty ever published, called the Holy Bible, price twenty-five cents; will you have it, sir?'

Mr. B. was obliged to pay his bet and buy the Bible, which he took in the midst of general applause.

A GOOD RETORT.—An old woman seeing a sailor go by her door, and supposing it to be her son William, called out to him—

'Billy, where has my cows gone?'

'The sailor replied in a contemptuous manner—'To the d—l, for what I know.'

'Well, as you are going that way,' said the woman. 'I wish you'd just let down the bars.'

A negro having purchased a hat, was observed to take it from his head on the fall of a shower of rain, and to manifest considerable anxiety to preserve it from the wet. On being remonstrated with for his supposed stupidity in thus leaving his head exposed, he wittily observed, 'Hat belong to me—head belong to massa.'

'It's time to wind up,' as the Watchmaker said, when he found he couldn't pay his debts.

'I'm going all to smash,' as the Crockery merchant said, when in the same predicament.

SOME.—A friend of ours was talking to an Irishman upon the subject of religion: 'what you will to do, you can do; and you can do nothing against your will.' 'Och hold yer whist, now; I know better nor that—look in me eye, till I tell yez: I had a brother wons't they transported him for staling—they tuk him to Botany Bay, they did. He hadn't a will to go—but he wint against his will.'

Once upon a time the Yankees undertook to limit the rates of interest by law. An old money-loving deacon, who was famous for a little extra interest, but was a little concientious about violating the usury laws, always had an old hat to sell, and when some poor chap was compelled to be 'shaved,' he would give ninety nine dollars in money, and the old hat for a note of one hundred dollars, and then buy the hat back for sixpence.

☞ 'Will you have a Daily Sun;' said a newsboy to Mrs Partington.

'Will I have a daily son? Why you little scape grace! How dare you insinuate against a lone woman from home! No indeed—I guess I won't have a daily son. My poor dear man used to complain awfully when I presented him with a yearly son A daily son, indeed! Begone, you little upstart imp!'—and the old lady called for the old turkey fan to keep her from swooning.

☞ it is believed that a strong Anti-Monopoly majority has been CHOSEN to the legislature, and we hope that they will each and all seal their faith in the outset by refusing the free ticket bribe, usually tendered by the rail road managers, preliminary to affecting a full and complete mortgage upon the members.—Sussex Register (Whig.)

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, December 6, 1849.

☞ Mr Albert D. Drake is our authorised agent to receive subscriptions and advertisments.

It will be perceived by a reference to a list of applications to the Legislature, in another column, that their number is legion, and their objects as various as the ingenuity of the mind of man can invent. Doubuless the applicants concieve that their projects are of vast importance to the public welfare, and will endeavor by every means in their power to have them adopted. In looking over the list we perceive there is one application for renewal of bank charter and eleven for new banks! six for railroads! and seven for plank roads &c. &c.

These special applications for exclusive privileges, granted to the few at the expense of the many, and in wilful derogation of their rights, were made the direct issue by the people at our recent election and the candidates, most of them specially, for themselves, and all of them by their parties were pledged against granting any future special and exclusive right; and woe be unto them if they redeem not their pledges.

Legislation on the tickle me and I'll tickle you principle we certarnly have had enough of, and we trust our representatives will prove the honest men we have taken them to be, and that they will not entertain any application for banks but under a general law.

The repeal of the charter of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, and Deleware and Raritan Canal Company, or so much of it as conflicts with the equal rights of the people, was especially made by them the test question; and if there is any man elected, knowing as he does that this was made the grand issue by the people, who does not use all the talents he posesses to accomplish this their object, he must be a knave and a hypocrite, as no honest man would accept a situation to thwart their will under a promise to fulfil it.

There are a number of our cotemporaries, and perhaps members elect of our legislature who are waiting for and will be guided by the decision of our Judiciary, on the subject, and some we fear would be glad if their decision were adverse to the interest of the people; their acts at least favor such a construction.

How the Judiciary, who are men like ourselves, and of ourselves, can be any better judges of the rights of the people, than the people themselves, is more than we can see. The people have declared—and the proposition is so plain and just that it is pronounced self-evident—that all men are created equal—that the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them to equal rights—and that these rights are unalienable, they cannot be destroyed—that to secure these rights governments were instituted among men—that whenever any government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the People to alter or abolish it.

The people of the State of New Jersey declare that the Camden and Amboy Rail Road and Deleware and Raritan Canal Company, and all other exclusive privileges are a violation of these their equal and inalienable rights—the proposition is self-evident—they therefore demand their repeal.

This is a simple matter, however much lawyers may quibble at, or judges decide in favor of, or legistators may cover up by whereas'es—which the people fully understand to be a usurpation of their rights, which all the decisions or enactments in the universe cannot deprive them of. The constitutionality of the act the people understand quite as well as their servants. They have declared that EQUAL RIGHTS to ALL are alone constitutional, and that exclusive privileges however plausible they may be made to appear by the sophistry of interested men, although sanctioned by authority of the legislature and also by use, are none the less usurpations of their rights, unconstitutional null and void—they therefore demand their restoration.

On the 4th. day of July 1776 our fourfathers declared the equal inalienable rights of all men, they successfully maintained this declaration against the tyrants of the earth, made it the fundamental principle of our government, sealed it with their blood.

Strange indeed does it appear that in the nineteenth century, the age of steam and electricity, that any can be found who are so far lost to the ennobling influences of the patriotic spirit that inspired our forefathers, as to submit to be deprived of their birthright, and thus become the degraded serfs of a monopoly railroad—of a power which possesses the exclusive right of way across the State!—of a one man power—which boasts that it carries New Jersey in its breeches pocket! the inalienable rights of the freemen of New Jersey buttoned up in the breeches pocket of a monied aristocrat! Hail Columbia happy land! Equal rights! Equal laws! Where are they? Commodore Stockton says in his breeches pocket! We trust this pocket will be unbuttoned, and the people's rights restored, and that there will be no application for a railroad entertained, or any other application that will admit of it but under a general law. Those who maintain these principles will meet the people's approbation, and we shall endeavor to sustain them—those who oppose these principles will meet their disapprobation and we shall oppose them with what force we may, let them belong nominally to what party they may, as those who oppose these principles are the enemies of man's equal rights, those who support them are alone their friends.

Cotton Manufactory.

The disagreeable storm of Monday evening doubtless prevented a great many from attending the meeting, which was held agreeable to notice given, to take into consideration the subject of the above caption. The meeting was called to order by Cornelius Boice Esq., Randolph Dunham Esq. was appointed Chairman and J. O. Moriac Esq. Secretary.

After a statement of the object of the meeting by Cornelius Boice and Elston Marsh Esq's., a committee was appointed consisting of Zachariah Webster, Cyrus Townsend and Cornelius Boice Esq's to obtain and give any information on the subject, and to call another meeting when necessary. Those who wish to invest capital in this desirable enterprise will confer with the committee appointed.

PETERSONS MAGAZINE. The January number of this Magazine for 1850, has already come to hand, and a more splendid specimen of the arts in book-making, we should think it impossible to present. The contents, which are entirely by American authors, are, as they ever have been of a high moral tone, and reflect credit not only on themselves but on their country. Now is the time to subscribe; the prospectus will be found in another column.

☞ Great bargains in furniture can be had at the New Furniture store of Mr. John Higgins 168 canal st. N. Y. Doubts on the subject will be removed by a call. Read his advertisement.

☞ Those wanting musical instruments, or sheet music, will find a superior assortment of every variety of the former, and a complete assortment of the latter at the Music Saloon of S. P. Hinds 102 Market Street. Newark N. J. See advertisement.

☞ The attention of our merchants is requested to the card of Messrs. Geo. W. & Jehial Read, Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in Hats, Caps, Straw Goods, Silk and Satin Bonnets, Umbrellas and Parasols. Their location will be found convenient, being at 19 Courtland st, adjoing the Western Hotel. Give them a call.

☞ The Chain Pumps advertised in another part of our paper are said to be the best machine for raising water in use. Their advantages are many and obvious. They never freeze in winter, and can be used in wells of any depth. The labor is less than by any other method.

☞ The card of Mr. Jacob Stucky will be found in another column, Mr. S. has a general variety of ready made Clothing, constantly on hand, which will be found to give every satisfaction, prices moderate.

THAT STEROTYPE PLATE.—The person who found this plate has demanded it of us, and we were compelled to return it before the interpretation was made out.—This is not only a great loss to us, who have been at enormous expense to get it interpreted, but also to the public who doubtless with us believe that its interpretation is of the utmost importance, giving as it doubtless does the history of another world. The person claiming it declares he understands all known languages, ancient and modern—Jersey included—and that if possibe we shall have it in time for our next.

Plainfield Lyceum.

The members of the Plainfield Lyceum will meet in Mr. W. W. Davison's school house on Tuesday evening next at 1-4 of 7 o'clock. The question for discussiou will be:

"Would the Annexation of Canada to the United States benefit this Nation."

☞ The public are respectfully invited to attend.

E. M. DUNN, Sec'y.

"Is War ever Justifiable."

This question was most ably debated by Messrs. Dunham, Moriac, Wallace, Dunn, and Crandall, on the affirmative, and by Messrs. Webster, J. Corriell, Marsh, A. Coriell, Moore, and Lacy, on the negative.

We would especially revert to that of Mr. E M. Dunn, who although but a boy in years expressed himself in a dignified manner, a worthy example to the youth of our village. The eloquent and glowing terms in which he set forth the struggle of our forefathers for liberty, that only boon worth living for, as without it life to the freeman is only a curse. The justification by the whole civilized world of their acts, and the determination of other nations to become free, and the just indignation we all feel at the oppression of the down-trodden is a sufficient justification of war so long as tyranny exists.—What is life without liberty? "Who so base as be a slave?" Therefore, "Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God."—The question was decided in the affirmative.

The young men of our village are particularly invited to become members of the Lyceum; opportunites to become useful and honorable members of society should not be neglected.

Supposed Discovery of Dr. Parkman's Remains.

BOSTON December 1.

A great sensation has been caused in this city by the arrest of Dr. John Webster, professor of chemistry in the Massachusetts Medical College Parts of a body, supposed to be that of Dr. Parkman, have been found in Prof. Webster's room, under the closet floor. The remains of bones, mineral teeth, gold filling, &c., were found in the grate of his room. It is rumored also that Parkman's watch has been found.

Webster has been locked in his room much during the past few days. The last time Parkman was seen he was going into the medical college, Webster owed Parkman money, and shows his (Parkman's) receipt for it, dated on the afternoon on which Parkman was last seen. He cannot tell what kind of money he paid.

No one admits having seen Parkman after he entered the college except Webster, who says he saw him in Cambridge street.

It required four men to hold Webster when he was arrested.

The authorities are preparing to check any demonstration that may be made tonight. The military are under orders, so that they may be called out on a moment's warning, should it be necessary.

Dec. 2.—Further discoveries have been made, tending to fasten the murder of Dr. Parkman upon Professor Webster. In his own laboratory has been found a chest in the bottom of which, coveredw ith tow, was found further portions of the body.

All the body has now been found save the head, feet and arms. The Police assert that they have further information against the accused, which will not be made public until the Coner's Jury sit. A number of Chemists and Physicians are now engaged in analyzing the ashes in the grate of the room, and placing the recovered fragments of the body in their true position. From the peculiar shape of the limbs after the pieces were put together, there is no doubt now that it was the body of Dr. Parkman.

☞ From the list of Legislative applications already noticed, which we have had carefully compiled, and heretofore published, we have digested the following summary:

For New Banks,	8
Renewal of Bank Charter,	1
For Plank Roads,	7
Railroads,	6
Ferry and Steamboat Companies,	2
Fire Company,	1
New County,	1
City and Borough Charters.	6
Manufacturing Co's (one silk,)	4
Other Incorporated Companies,	4
Insurance Company	1
Electric Telegraph Company,	1
Savings Banks,	3
Turnpike Companies,	3
Transportation Company,	1
Pursuing and Detecting Society,	1
Applications from Hudson county mostly from Jersey City,	15

[True American.

The Printers of Washington are about to contribute towards the National Monument. They are the right sort of men as a waggish correspondent of the Phila. News remarks, 'to set up a column!'

☞ The Legislature of this State will meet on the 8th of January.

The following article is from Walker's Edition of Williams' Lives of the Presidents:

Comparative View of the State Constitutions.

In the six New England states, the executive and legislative branches of the government are all elected annually. The representative in the lower branch of the legislature is more numerous in those states than in the other states of the Uniion; the representatives in the New England states being elected by towns to the house of representatives, while in all other parts of the Union the representation in that branch of the legislature is by counties; districts in South Carolina, and parishes in Louisiana, being local divisions synonimous with counties.

An executive council, elected by the people, is peculiar to the state of New Hampshire. There are, however, executive councils, elected by the legislature, in Maine, Massachusetts, Virginia, and North Carolinia.

The governor possesses the veto power, or qualified negative, on bills and resolutions which have been passed by the legislature, in the following twelve states viz.: Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Pensylvania, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Michigan, Texas, Iowa, and Wisconsin; in these states the executive veto can only be overruled by a two third vote of both branches of the legislature.

In the following ten, States the governor may return bills or resolutions passed by the legislature, but his veto may be overruled by a majority of the members elected to both houses, viz.: Vermont, Conneticut, New Jersey, Alabama, Florida, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri.

In the following eight states, the approval of the governor is not required to bills or resolutions passed by the legislature, but the same may become laws, after receiving the signature of the speaker or presiding officer of each branch of the legislature, viz.: Rhode Island, Delawere, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennesee, and Ohio.

In all of the states, except Virginia and South Carolina, the governor is elected by the people; in those two states he is chosen by the legislature. Lieutenant-governors are chosen by the people in Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, Conneticut, New York, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Michigan, and Texas; in Virginia and South Carolina, by the legislature. In the other states, the office of lieutenant-governor does not exist.

In the New England states, a majority of all the votes given is required to constitute a choice in elections generally, by the people; there are exceptions in Maine, Vermont, and Connecticut, in elections for state senators, and in Connecticut on second trials, at adjourned meetings, for the choice of representatives to the general assembly, in which cases a plurality of votes only is required for a choice. In Maine, New Hampshire, and Conneticut, members of Congress are also elected by plurality. In all of the states except those of New England, a plurality of votes given effects a choice in elections by the people.

In all of the states, at popular elections, the manner of voting is by ballot, except in Virginia, Kentucky, Misssouri, and Arkansas, in which states, in all elections to any office of trust, honor, or profit, with exceptions as to electors of president and vice president the votes are given openly, or viva voice, and not by ballot.

North carolina is now the only state which requires a freehold qualfication for electors for either branch of the legislature members of the senate in that state being chosen by freeman possessed of a freehold within the district where they reside and vote, of fifty acres of land. In Virginia freeholders may vote for members of the house of delegates, in any county where they own a freehold of the value named in the constitution; housekeepers and heads of families who shall have been assessed with a part of the revenue of the commonwealth, within the preceding year when they vote, are also entitled to vote, at elections.

Persons of color are entitled to vote at elections in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. In the states of New York, they are also qualified to vote, if possessed of a freehold estate of the value of two hundred and fifty dollars, without any incumbrance. In all other states of the Union, persons of color, or those of African descent are excluded from the right of voting at elections.

Ministers of the gospel are not eligible as legislators in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennesee, and Texas. In south Carolina, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Missouri, they are eligible neither as governors nor legislators. In Delaware, they are not eligible to any office whatever.

New Hampshire and Massachusetts are the only states whose constitutions make provisions for religious establishments. In New Hampshire the legislature is empowered to authorize, and in Massachusetts the legislature is enjoined to, require, the several towns, parishes, &c., in the state to make adequate provisions, at their own expense, for the support and maintainance of protestant teachers. or ministers of the gospel. The consitation of 'New Hampshire requires the governor, members of the council, and of both branches of legislature, to be 'of the protestant religion.'

The council of censors is peculiar to Vermont; that body is chosen once in seven years, and among their other powers, they can call a convention to amend the constitution of the state.

Massachusetts and New Hampshire are the only states whose constitution appoint titles to the officers of government. The governor of Massachusetts is entitled 'His Excellency,' and the lieutenant-governor 'His Honor.' The governor of New Hampshire is entitled 'His Excellency.'

Organization of the House.

The House met yesterday morning and ballotted four times for Speaker, without any result, after which it adjourned. The number of votes cast on each ballot was 221. Of these Mr. Winthrop had steadily 96; Mr. Cobb on the first ballot had 103, and on the other three 102. The Free Soil vote was cast for Mr. Wilmot. It seems that six Southern Whigs determined not to vote for Mr. Winthrop, because the caucus nominating him would not pledge the Whig party against the abolition of Slavery in the District of Columbia, and against its exclusion from the Territories. These gentlemen voted for Mr. Gentry of Tennesee.

—From these facts it appears that there is some confusion just now in the ranks of both parties, and that the uncertainty as to how it will be cleared up is as great as ever. We fear, however, that Mr. Winthrop will be beaten.—N. Y. Tribune.

STATE BANK OF MORRIS.—The Grand Jury of Morris County during its laborious session last week, found bills against the President, Cashier, and Directors of the broken concern at the time of the explosion, and the president, Lambert Norton has been arrested and is now closely confined in the county jail. The indictment against him, we understand, is for purjury, in having sworn according to the requirements of the law that the actual cash capital of the bank had been paid in, whereas it is alleged that it held nothing more valuable than worthless Susquehanna Bank paper and other irresponsible promises to pay. The Cashier, H. Dayton suddenly disappeared last week when the Grand Jury convened. There are several indictments against him, and his property in town, we learn by the Banner, has been attached.

Recent developments show that the Susquehanna Bank affair at Montrose is even more criminal.

A FREE GOSPEL.—The Louisville Examiner tells a story of a church member who had always been more remarkable for opening his mouth to say amen than opening his purse. He had, on one occasion, taken his usual place near the preacher's stand, and was making his response with great, admiration. After a burst of burning eloquence from the preacher, he clasped his hands and cried out in a kind of ecstacy: 'Yes, thank God! I have been a methodist for twenty-five years, and it hasn't cost me twenty-five cents!' 'Bless your stingy soul!' was the preacher's emphatic reply.

Road Across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

A stage road across this Isthmus, belonging to Mexico, is now nearly completed, and stange coaches will soon be running on it from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A line of steamers will yet run from this city, and it will yet be found that this is the most important route to our Californian Territories, because it is the shortest of all by 2000 miles. A railroad is contemplated across this route, and an Agent from Mexico has been in this city during the past summer, making arrangements for its construction.

[Scientific American.

ATTENTION!

The Whole World and half of Staten Island.

THE fact is passed into a proverb that "our's is as cheap as the cheapest," and that at I. S. DUNHAM'S may be found as good a general assortment of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,

as at the next place, and upon as accommodating terms; the public are respectfully invited to give him a call at the old stand opposite the Mountan Road.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

A LARGE BEAR

HAVING been killed some weeks since in Sussex county, the circumstance is said to be (by the oldest inhabitant) a precursor of a severe winter. Those in want of Furs of any kind will call on mills and select while the assortment is full.

Muffs, Cuffs, Victorines, Neck-Ties, Buffalo Robes, &c.

Old Furs repaired. JOHN MILLS,
202 Broad-st., opposite the Common.
Newark Dec. 1, 1849.

CHILDREN'S MUFFS.

A Small lot of beautiful Muffs for small children—Also Victorines to match, at MILLS'S 202 Broad-st. Newark.

ALL IMPORTANT,

TO those who wish garments to fit and give satisfaction: Mr. E. B. TITSWORTH will be found always on hand, to cut garments to order at the shortest notice, at the old stand opposite the Mountain road; where may be found constantly a good assortment of

Coats, Pants, Vests, &c.,

Cheap for cash. I. S. DUNHAM.
Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

INCREASE IN SIZE: REDUCTION TO CLUBS.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE,

(OR: LADIES' NATIONAL.)

EDITED BY ANN S. STEPHENS AND C. J. PETERSON.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1850,

For 1850, the subscriber, anxious to introduce the Ladies' National into every family in the United States, will increase its size and reduce its prices to Clubs.

SAVE A DOLLAR.

The price of this magazine is but two dollars per year, or One Dollar less than the other magazines yet the press unanimously pronounces it as complete as its more costly cotemporaries. When a Club sends $10 or $20, the Ladies' National can be had for little over a dollar per copy.

INCREASE IN PAGES MONTHLY.

In 1850, at least twelve extra pages will be given every month; and sometimes twenty-four thus it will maintain the regular number of pages of the three dollar Magazines, at one-third less price.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENTS IN 1850.

Still other improvements will be made in the Magazine. Without abandoning its costly mezzotints, the Ladies' National will add new styles of illustration, in every walk of pictorial art. New type has also been purchased.

ILLUMINATED IN GOLD.

The January number will be out by the first of December, and will be unequalled in beauty. In addition to the usual costly embellishments, will be an illuminated title-page, printed in seven colors, on a ground of gold. In other respects, also, the January number for 1850 will excel anything we have ever published.

EMINENT LITERARY WRITERS.

The literary contents of the Ladies' National are entirely by American authors. The best writers are uniformly employed, and the consequence is that the newspaper press, which has a good opportunity of comparing the magazines, generally pronounces this periodical the most readable of all. No translation from immoral French authors, such as appear in other magazines, shall deface the pages of the Ladies' National. Our aim is to instruct as well as to amuse.

FASHIONS AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS.

This Magazine has always been the best guide for the fashions which we get in advance. The costumes are selected, engraved, and colored for us a month ahead of all rivals. To each plate is added a full letter-press description, besides information on all the latest styles. This Magazine is, in our Eastern cities, the TEXT-BOOK of fashion; and the other magazines, in their fashion department, are but poor imitations of this!

BEST LADIES MAGAZINE.

As its name imports, this periodical is peculiarly a Magazine for the sex, and it is also, what none others are, thoroughly national. The general aim of its literature renders it more American than any rival. Its monthly pages on Horticulture; its illustrated articles on embroydery, Crochet-Work, and Netting, in addition to its colored Fashion Plates, make it unquestionably the best Magazine for ladies.

NO WORN OUT ENGLISH PLATES.

Several of our cotemporaries impose on their readers with worn out English plates, which they publish as original. We patronize American art, regardless of the extra expense. One of our superb mezzotints costs us more than two, or even three of the ordinary plates that appear in other magazines. Our series of mezzotints, in a single year, makes a more splendid pictorial book than two six dollar annuals can furnish.

TERMS.

One copy, per annum,	$2.00	Eight copies.	$10.00
Three copies, "	5.00	Seventeen copies.	20.00
Five copies, "	7.50	Forty-three "	50.00

The money at our risk, and the letter franked, or post-paid. All the Magazines of a club must go to one post-town, to come within these terms.

As a premium for procuring any of the above clubs, a large and splendid engraving, of a size to hang up in a parlor, and valued at a print store at three dollars, will be sent. Or a bound volume for 1849. Or an "Annual of Plates" for 1850.

Address, CHARLES J. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,
N. B. A specimen copy sent when desired.

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments wsrranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.
Dec. 28. 1849. [102.

CHAIN PUMPS.

THE best machine for raising water, in use.—This Pump has many advantages over any other in use on account of its simplicity of construction, being made wholly of wood and galvanized iron, not liable to get out of order or to get deranged in any way. It can never freeze in winter, and can be put in wells of any depth.

It takes less power to work it than any other machine, to raise the same amount of water.

It is never obstructed by gravel or sand; it keeps the water perfectly sweet and fresh; the action of the chain mixes the gasses with the water always keeping it lively and fresh; on ceasing to work it, the water in the tube descends to the level of the water in the well; on commencing to work the pump, the first water that is drawn is from the bottom of the well.

☞ This pump received the premium at the late Essex county fair.

These Pumps may be had at the Pump Factory of S. B. Miller, 340 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.
63.] E. W. WHITEHEAD, Superintendent.

KEEP WARM.

JOHN LUTZ'S CHEAP CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT, Collet Hall, Elizabethtown. The subscriber respectfully advises persons in want of a good warm Coat, Pants, Vest, Shirt, Under Shirt, Drawers, Handkerchief, Cravat, Suspenders, Gloves, &c. to call and examine his large assortment of ready made Clothiniug of every description which he offers for sale chaper than any other store in the city. All garments warranted to fit or no sale. Remember,

JOHN LUTZ, Collet Hall.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 19 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.
102.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,

CHEAP

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT
SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

GEORGE VANNESS'

SHAVING & HAIR DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call. ☜

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [S9.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,
Counsellor at Law,
AND
Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [52.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—JOHN HIGGINS, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent. less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing. All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

A CARD.

TO THE PATRONS OF

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

The close of the current Volume is deemed a proper period to announce to the patrons of this "Magazine" that arrangements have been completed which cannot fail to increase its attractions during the coming year. The best writers in the country will continue to enrich our pages with their productions, and our engravers—who stand foremost in their profession—will put forth the best efforts on their art to make this peculiar department of the "Magazine" more beautiful than ever.

Promising unremitted exertions to merit a continuance of the favor bestowed upon the "Magazine," we respectfully solicit a renewal of the subscriptions of all its old patrons, and the addition of the names of all who desire to avail themselves of the satisfaction of reading what is universally conceded to be 'THE BEST MAGAZINE IN THE COUNTRY.'

Attention is called to the following list of Terms, which are unquestionably more advantageous to subscribers than those offered by any other work of the kind.

TERMS.—For THREE DOLLARS, in advance, (par money in the States from which it is remitted,) one copy of "GRAHAM" and a copy of a LARGE AND MAGNIFICENT PRINT, by a distinguished Engraver, and which may be considered one of the most beautiful specimens of Art ever presented by any Magazine publisher, and also a new and beautiful Engraving, suitable for framing, of a Sacred Subject, "Bearing the saviour to the tomb," prepared expressly, and at a very heavy cost, as a Premium Gift to new subscribers to Graham's Magazine. Or, if desired, we will furnish in lieu of either of the above Prints, a complete set of our Mezzotint Portraits of the AMERICAN HEROES OF THE LATE WAR WITH MEXICO.

For FIVE DOLLARS, Two copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints to each subscriber.

For TEN DOLLARS, Five copies for one year, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person forming the club, and either of the above prints, or a set of portraits to each subscriber.

For TWENTY DOLLARS, Eleven copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints, or a set of the portraits to each subscriber, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person sending the club, with a copy of each of the large prints as an additional premium.

☞ Any person forwarding a club of 20 or upwards, shall receive for his trouble a complete copy of W. H. Graham's "American Historical and Biographical Library."

SAMUEL D. PATTERSON & Co.,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by
E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark.

GREAT REWARD

IF WALKED AWAY OR TAKEN THROUGH MISTAKE.

A large DOG purchased in Plainfield of one Mr. Frazee very highly recommended by him as being a Superior Watch Dog, said dog is a large size, minis his narrative (alias) Tail, of a good standing Color, and has not been known to Bite, he has a large wound on his right shoulder received a few days since in an encounter with a small dog. Any person finding said dog will confer a great favor by retaining him or so disposing of him that it will not be necessary for us to keep two men to prevent so valuable an animal from being enticed away, and in addition to our thanks the finder shall receive a reward of 50cts by calling on Mr. Frazee in Plainfied or at the Broadway Branch 182 Broad st. opposite the Park Newark, N. J. where there is this day opened

500 SHAWLS,

Comprising every variety and price shawls from 2 shillings to $40.00 among which are some handsome all Wool Broche Shawls for $7,50 cost $12,00 to import. [55.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.
No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE.

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8.00 to $14.00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2.50 to 8.00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6.00 to 15.00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3.50 to 6.00
Fancy " "	2.50 to 5.00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1.50 to 3.00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2.00 to 5.00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3.00 to 4.00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1.00 to 2.00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3.00 to 20.00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,
54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.
Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN;
Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapecas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.
Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.
N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.
Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,
59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

TAKE NOTICE.

TO all whom it may concern.—I hereby forbid any person trusting my wife Martha Wilson on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation.

ZACHARIAH J. WILSON.
November 14. 1849.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. S. BROOKS.
Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1849. [72.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your Embrocation, for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours respectfully, AB'M. C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; also by J. R. Swallow, General agent 123 Fulton-st. New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas ane West Indies. [77.

KEEP WARM.

JOHN LUTZ'S CHEAP CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT, Collet Hall, Elizabethtown. The subscriber respectfully advises persons in want of a good warm Coat, Pants, Vest, Shirt, Under Shirt, Drawers, Handkerchief, Cravat, Suspenders, Gloves, &c. to call and examine his large assortment of ready made Clothining of every description which he offers for sale chaper than any other store in the city. All garments warranted to fit or no sale. Remember,

JOHN LUTZ, Collet Hall.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier I N. River	N.J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

HO! FOR CALIFORNIA.

THE subscriber having purchased the store, formerly Tittsworth & Dunham's, would inform his friends and the public generally, that he intends to continue the business at their old stand fronting the mountain road, where he will be happy to serve all who may give him a call, with anything they may want of his assortment of goods, among which are

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings, Trimmings of all descriptions, Ginghams, Callicoes and Muslins,

and all kinds of fancy and staple goods, selected with care, and special reference to Spring and Summer trade, which new stiles are received weekly, also will be found a good assortment of Groceries; which he will sell as low as his neighbors for the ready cash, or country produce.

N. B. Having engaged the services of Mr. E. B. Titsworth whose skill as a cutter cannot be surpassed, is ready to receive all orders for cutting any garments that may offer, for which one to three days will be set apart; coats, pants and vests constantly kept on hand, and all orders filled with dispatch for making and trimming any garment. He is thankful for past patronage, and a continuance of the same is earnestly solicited.

Wanted 100 hands to work on coats, pants and vests, constant employment, and ready pay.

I. S. DUNHAM.

Sole agent for Dr. Roses family medicines, among which will be found Dr Rose Prophylactic Syrup or Panacea for all chronic diseases, Syrup for Coughs, diseases of the Lungs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough; Croup or Hive Syrup; Dr. Rose concentrated compound extract Sarsaparilla superior to all the nostrums of the day; Asthmetic Elixir; Cough Lozenges; Liniment for weakness and pain in the chest; Tonic mixture for Chill and Fever; Vegetable Vermifuge; Tonic anti dyspeptic for all diseases of the Stomach and Liver; Female Pills; Tonic Alternative Pills; Golden Pills; Specific for Epilepsy, Rheumatic Mixture; Astringent Compound for Spitting Blood; Syrup for Cholera and all Bowel Complaints; Patent Inflating Breathing Tubes; Compound Extract of Buchu for all diseases of the Kidneys, also a specific for Gout; Mixture for Night Sweats.

July 18. 1849. [82.

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY,

No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he [illegible] on derived benefit from the use of a few bottle[illegible] medicine, and now considers himself perfectly [illegible]

The undersigned has [illegible] confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters [illegible] the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.

L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy; her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st

Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Up stairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜

November 1849. [98.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

FOR SALE.

12 1-2 Acres of Land, seven Acres of which are in a good state of cultivation and enclosed by first rate fence, lying near the main road leading from Basking Ridge to New Market Depot: price $200, for further particulars Enquire at this Office.

Also near the above 6 1-2 Acres unimproved, will be sold together or seperately prcie for the whole $230.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

☞ Copies of the Gazette neatly done up in wrappers, ready for transmitting by mail can be had by applying at the office.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.

Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS, FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offlces, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.

195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,

Fire Board prints in great variety,

Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,

Transparent Window Shades,

Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME I. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1849. | NO. 52.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

Terms.---To Village Subscribers and those calling at the Office for their papers One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per year payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per year payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines, a square,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00
For two squares in length
One year (paper included)	8 00
For three squares in length
One year (paper included)	10 00

December 21, 1848.

Job Printing

EXECUTED WITH NEATNESS AND DISPATCH, ON REASONABLE TERMS.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breast, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lung and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the possession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heat, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health. The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable phisicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant. 'Having made use of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed.'

A. Fearson, M. D. U. S Navy; S. K. Leedem, M. D. Champlain Co., Ohio; W. R. Cadwallader, M. D. U. S. Navy.

Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A. M. Sanford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M. SANFORD,
No. 160 East Broadway N. Y.

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U. S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearon M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. Swallow, General Agent, No. 123 Fulton-st. N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attended to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas and West Indies.

COME TO PLAINFIELD

AND BUY CHEAP FOR CASH.

REUBEN TITSWORTH,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

HE invites the attention of purchasers to his assortment, and returns his thanks to the public for the very liberal patronage they have already bestowed upon him, and hopes by attenrion to business and a desire to accommodate all who may call on him, to secure a continuance of the same.

☞ Repairing done at shor notice. Give us a call. ☜ [54.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

From Peterson's Magazine.

The Country Lassie and her Lover.

BY RICHARD COE, JR.

"To-morrow, ma, I'm sweet sixteen!
And Billy Grimes, the drover,
Has popp'd the question' to me, ma,
And wants to be my lover!
To-morrow morn, he says, mamma,
He's coming here quite early,
To take a pleasant walk with me
Across the field of barley."

"You must not go, my dear,
There's no use now a-talking;
You shall not go across the field
With Billy Grimes a-walking.
To think of his presumption, too!
The dirty, ugly drover!
I wonder where your pride has gone,
To think of such a rover!"

"'Old Grimes is dead,' you know, mamma
And Billy is so lonely!
Besides, they say, to Grimes' estate,
That Billy is the only
Surviving heir to all that's left;
And that, they say, is nearly
A good ten thousand dollars, ma—
About six hundred yearly!"

"I did not hear, my daughter dear,
Your last remark quite clearly,
But Billy is a clever lad,
And no doubt loves you dearly!
Remember, then, to-morrow morn,
To be up bright and early,
To take a pleasant walk with him
Across the field of barley."

From Sartain's Union Magazine.

A WINTER SCENE.

OR LILY FORD.

BY MARY SPENSER PEASE.

The knowing ones of the pretty little village of Winslow very portentiously shook their heads, thereby giving the wisdom contained in them an additional impetus. Some, upon the strength of this impetus, said, 'We'll see what we shall see.' Others said much more; while some very significantly drew down the left corner of the mouth, and elevating the right eyebrow, said nothing. And all this, because Ellen Grant, the village beauty and the likeliest maiden all the country round, "would throw herself away on that handsome, worthless Ned Ford, when she might have had William Walton, the young schoolmaster, or young Grey the lawyer, or the rich farmer, Silas Greene; or almost any of the best-to-do bachelors of Winslow, just for the asking—no, for the accepting." Thus spake Aunt Hetty, and Aunt Hetty knew; and Aunt Hetty added, that "all Ned Ford cared for was to play on that eternal fiddle and read Burns and Shakespeare—that he had not three dollars beforehand, and never would have." And what had Ellen to urge in reply? That she loved Edward Ford.

She loved him as such warm gentle natures as her own can love. In those delicious hours when he came wooing, she felt her whole nature drawn in tenderness toward him, and when he took her unresisting hand and poured forth in fervent meaning a question from his soul to hers, he felt her tremble to her heart's core, and insensibly her beautiful head inclined more and more softly towards him, until, as his arm enclosed her nearer, it lay nestling upon his manly breast, and he was answered as, with the warmth and silence of summer dew, he felt her very being in sweet accord melt into his.

Edward Ford owned a snug little cottage with a small farm attached, situated about a mile from the villlage, and to this home he took his young bride; and, disproving the predictions of Aunt Hetty, and the rest of the villagers, the loving couple lived on in comfort and harmony.

If Ned Ford would draw forth touching melodies from his violin, and if he would persist in reading Burns and Shakespeare, and if he would occasionally indulge his fancy in the construction of some plaintive verses of his own, setting them to his own music for Lily, his precious first-born, to try her sweet voice upon—and all this while he might have been patching up fences, or rethatching his sheds for the better comfort of his cattle—still they got on very happily. Ellen loved his music, and loved to hear him read, and love to see him teach her darling Lily. The indefatigable little woman spun, and churned, and tended her poultry; and sent or took her yarn and butter and eggs to the village market, which greatly added to their means of comfort.

Thus until their Lily was sixteen, their life glided smoothly on. That winter, however, brought to Ford a severe rheumatism, which lasted all the weary months of that dreary season. Although Ellen spun, working almost night and day, yet her husband required so much of her care that all her efforts availed not much in keeping that stern truth—poverty—out of their cottage door.

Spring came with its genial influences; and in warming into life the tender grass-blades, and the young crocuses and dandelions, it also thawed out the cold and pain in the stiff limbs of Ford, and to Ellen's great joy he was able to be about again.

The young Spring had gradually matured into the mellow, fruit yielding Autumn before the bitter knowledge came fully upon Ellen, that her husbands recovery to health had not brought her own recovery to happiness, that her first sorrow was likely to prove her least.

That long illness had put them so far behind hand that Ford, finding bills press upon him that he had no means of paying, was forced to mortgage his little property. Affairs still continued to grow worse. Edward had become lazy or disheartened. His farm was ill-worked or neglected, and by fall, his horse and oxen had to go for necessary expenses.

Ellen still kept her cows and poultry, but it was now very little help she received from her husband. He had taken more and more to his beloved fiddle, although it was not at home he played. Therein lay ellen Ford's deepest sorrow. Edward, who had been originally the most temperate of men, now spent his days—often his nights—at the village tavern, wasting in senseless riot the time, the health, the means that God had given him for other purposes. Poor Ellen could not help thinking that his thirst for intoxicating drink commenced with the potions of brandy ordered by his physician during his convalescence.

It was now deep into the month of December. In two days more would come that season of rejoicing and roast turkey "Merry Christmas." Ellen sighed at the dreary prospect for mirth that lay before her. The sigh had scarcely parted her lips, when the door opened, and Edward, earlier than was his wont and perfectly sober, stood before her. With a lightened and grateful heart, Ellen set about preparing the supper. With gentle homely endeavors she made all that evening pleasant as for him as she could.

Upon the next morning, earlier than usual Edward was prepareing to go out. The weather was bitter cold, and Ellen's wood-pile waned low. She had forborne the evening before to ask him to split her some wood, as she did not wish to vex him in any way. Of late he had often very harshly refused her simple request. It was now with a timid voice, fearful of a rebuff, that Ellen begged him to split a few logs.

"Why did you not ask me yesterday, when it would have done some good? You saw me doing nothing all the evening You must get along untill night the best way you can. I have engaged to work today for Squire Davis, and I shall be late unless I go at once"

"To work! Have you?" said Ellen in a pleased and startled tone.

"Yes, so don't detain me. I am to get a dollar and a half a day as long as I choose to work for him."

"How very fortunate!" ejaculated Ellen.

"Very," replied Ford in a bitter tone, for the necessity to work for another as a day labourer, instead of working for himself and of his own sweet will, galled his pride sorely.

After he was gone, Ellen busied herself in making things comfortable for the children. It was market day' and she must carry her heavy basket to the village for the different families who depended upon her for their supply of fresh butter and eggs. A year ago she had a neat little wagon and a good horse to drive. Even now Edward might have helped her with her heavy basket but somehow he was sadly altered.

A dim presentiment of something not good shot through Ellen's breast as she stepped across the cottage threshold into the chill air.

"Mind, Lily dear, and take good care of the baby. I may be gone longe than usual, for I have to buy some things at the store. If anything should happen, send Hetty for me, And, darling, be a little woman now, and take the best of care of your little baby brother." Lily promised, and Ellen was gone.

For a time the children got along very comfortably. But the bitter cold without grew colder, and the colder the air grew, the faster and merrier burned the diminished wood. At length the intense cold seemed to soften. The great black clouds flattened and spread themselves sullenly and murkily over the wide canopy as far as the eye could see. Then the soft white snow came stealthily down, and the baby clapped his tiny hands, and crowed in baby glee to see the little feathery, airy, joyous things chase each other down, down, down so rapidly.

Again the air grew colder. The wood was all burned, not a stick nor chip remained. What was poor Lily to do to keep her baby brother warm?

"Hetty, dear, we will go out and see if together we cannot roll in one of those great logs." Hetty was the next child after Lily, and was eleven years old.—Lily put the baby in the cradle, and worked hard with Hetty at the unwieldly log. They rolled it to the stone step, and up the step but there, alas! it stuck fast; with all their united strength they could not move it one inch back or forth. What should they do?—The door was now fastened wide open; the wind and snow beat in from without; the fire within was gradually settling away in its embers. Poor children! Ellen's presentiment was not a vain one.—Before three o'clock that afternoon little Hetty, cloaked and hooded, was sent out to face the whirling storm in search of her mother, with a tale that would almost rob the poor mother of her heart's life.

"What is it, dear child?" said she, as Hetty entered the village store. "You look cold and pale. Come to the stove and warm yourself, and tell me what has gone wrong."

"Oh mother! dear mother, make haste home. Little Eddy is dreadfully sick.—Lily says it is the croup, and that he is dying. The fire is all out, and the room is full of snow, because the big log we tried to roll in, stuck fast in the door way. Then, mother, when we went into the garden to find some bits of old fence, the spotted cow followed us. We were afraid she would hurt the bushes, and while we were trying to drive her out, she ran down to the end of the garden where the fence is broken away, and plunged into the frozen pond. And there she is above her knees in the water, freezing to death, for the ice broke and let her feet through, and she coald not get out again."

What a chapter of calamities! Ellen's heart vibrated in pain to every word the child uttered. As she was hurriedly crossing the street, there was her husband just entering the tavern. A few words from Ellen, and he was as anxious as she, for in his heart he dearly loved his bright boy. He promised to go for the doctor, and to over take Ellen on her way home. It was not until the mother and daughter had half reached the cottage, that Edward joined them.

The three proceeded in sorrow and silence until they neared their cottage. There stood two of their old cows who gave them a look of recognition as they passed. But the third—all because Edward had been too lazy to mend the fences—the third was freezing in the pond. But no! as they came up to the coottage, there, in the shed, looking crestfallen and demure, to be sure, but alive, and seemingly like to live, stood their "spotted cow!" And—was it magic?—from the cottage window gleamed the brightest, cherriest of roaring fires. The log, too, was away and the door closed. What could it mean? With a trembling hand and beating heart Ellen opened the door. There in the warm firelight sat, with her babby in his arms, a form that seemed to her bewildered gaze more divine than human. His clear open eye and brow, his light flowing hair, and radient sunny face, as he looked up at her, brought but one image to her mind, and instinctively she felt for him a mysterious awe, in which strange to say Lilly did not seem to participate. Ellen bent over her baby as she lay in the strangers arms, and seeing him still, and with closed eyes, she almost breathlessly whispersd—

"Is he dead?"

"He is not dead, he only sleeps."

"His very words—almost his words!" continued Ellen in a low voice, checking herself for her impiety in thus involuntary mingling the presence of the young man before her with that of the Divine Christ.

And what did the stranger not do for this family? Upon each member of the cottage his presence ever acted like a spell for good. He went to the bottom of Ford's trangled affairs, untwisting all clearly. With order came hope and honest effort. In time the mortgage was paid off, the farm restocked; Burns and Shakespeare were again taken from the shelf; when the fiddle gave forth its voice it was not at the tavern; and when, after a short period, and in the age of her now budding womanhood, the stranger asked in wedlock the hand of Lily Ford, he was not refused.

A MAIDEN LADY'S SOLILOQUY.—'Tis wondrous strange how great the change since I was in my teens; then I had a beau and billet doux, and joined the gayest scenes.—But lovers now have ceased to vow; no way they now contrive—to poison, hang or drown themselves—because I'm thirty-five. Once if the night was e'er so bright, I ne'er abroad could roam, without—'The bliss, the honor, Miss of seeing you safe home.' But now I go, through rain and snow—fatigued and scarce alive—through all the dark without a spark—because I'm thirty five.

CLERICAL PUN.—A young lady engaged in writing, observed to a clergyman present that she was a Scribe. To which the man in orders, with a sagacity and clerical discernment truly creditable, replied, 'And fair I see,' (Pharieee.)

QUEEN VICTORIA'S PIANO.—The splendid piano of her majesty, Queen Victoria is completely veneered with ivory, in sheets of from fourteen to seventeen feet in length, and thirty inches and upward in width, from a single elephant's tooth! by a spiral process peculiar to M. Pape. It is also encrusted and ornamented with the rarest woods, forming original designs and rendering it worthy of its place in the new palace of her majesty.

The paper from which I cut the above does not tell us how many women and children of Queen's subjects were starved to death to furnish money to pay for that costly idol, but as the robbery was committed under the name of government, perhaps she thinks it no matter how many were starved.—Portland Pleasureboat.

Interesting Fact in Grafting.

Du Hamel, the celebrted French pomologist and horticulturist, ingrafted a young lemon, of the size of a pea, upon the branch of an orange tree. It grew there, ripened and had all the qualities of the lemon, without partaking of any of the properties of the orange. It is evident, in this instance, that the stalk of the lemon chanced the color, taste and smell of the juices of the orange tree. And from this experiment, we have reason to conclude, that all the different figures, colors, tastes, and smells which we find in different plants, are formed in the plants themselves.

TO PRESERVE CABBAGES.—Dig trenches about two feet deep and insert the cabbages upright; then put a layer of straw around them, and cover up, with a tube made of reed stuck down to circulate air among the buried plants. They will keep well all winter.

NO.—Union is not strength, as the old toper said, when he put water in his brandy.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, December 13, 1849.

☞ Mr Albert D. Drake is our authorised agent to receive subscriptions and advertisments.

Plainfield Lyceum.

The members of the Plainfield Lyceum will meet in Mr. W. W. Davison's school house on Tuesday evening next at 1-4 of 7 o'clock. The question for discussion will be:

"Do the present signs of the times portend rather to good than to evil."

☞ The public are respectfully invited to attend.

E. M. Dunn, Sec'y.

☞ The present number completes the first year of our experience as the publishers of a public journal. It is with much satisfaction we revert to the past. Our commencement although made under the most unfavorable circumstances, being totally inexperienced in even the smallest matters pertaining to its publication, discouraged by nearly all to whom we applied for advice, we really had some doubtful forebodings; but notwithstanding these discouraging prognostications we have more than realized our highest anticipations. Doubtless our success has been owing more to the generous sympathies of the public, in our efforts to succeed, than to our merits, as we are well aware of and shall endeavor to correct our many deficiencies; for their encouragement of the past we return our sincere thanks.

All persons we think must admit that a town of three thousand inhabitants can beneficially support, or rather that the business of the town requires at least two good newspapers. Besides their usefulness to the merchant, mechanic, farmers and business men generally, to make known their wants, what more efficient aid can there be in building up the moral and physical prosperity of the town, both at home and abroad than a well conducted newspaper?—that such has been our object we think our columns will show, and which also the liberal patronage of the public abundantly proves.

Believing that a well conducted and independent journal, one that shall truly have an opinion of its own, and dare express it, at the same time that it pays proper deference to the opinions of others by allowing and inviting them to express their opinions through its columns—will ever have the support and merit the favor of all liberal minded men—and as well calculated to advance the prosperity of our thriving town as any other means that can possibly be applied—we therefore shall go on our way rejoicing, trusting that a liberal and enlightened public will continue to appreciate our endeavors to make our paper every way worthy of their increasing patronage.

☞ Every one of our subscribers can easily induce another to take our paper. Will our friends make so much exertion for us? Opportunity, and want of time from our business, prevents our making a personal application. To all who will induce another besides themselves to take our paper, Two Dollars in advance will be receipted in full for their years subscription. Those out of the town, at Scotch Plains, Short Hills New Market, Stewart's Hotel, Stone Mills, Washington Valley, Liberty Corner, Basking Ridge, &c., who receive their papers by package, can continue to receive them free of Postage, by remitting $1. in advance. Will they also endeavor to increase our list in those places?

Congress—The Speakership.—After 31 ballotings, consuming 8 days of the people's time at an expense of about $5000, daily of the people's money, making in the aggregate about 40,000, have not yet chosen a Speaker. How easy a matter it would have been to have effected this object long before if men were only disposed to do right—to abandon the god of party—that wooden idol, so utterly incapable of affording any relief—and of appointing any man who is known to be in favor of, and who would conscientiously support the first principles upon which our government is founded—Equal rights to All—Aye, but there's the rub! The great difficulty in the way of legislation in the general government, as well as in our state or township affairs, is, that exclusive rights are sought to be sustained and perpetuated. The equal rights of all men which we boast to the world are guaranteed to All by the Constitution as the inalienable right of man, is practically denied by our government to those who are so unfortunate, or rather whose grevious crime it was to be born with a dark skin! It is further denied in almost every State in the Union, to those who are not possessed of a certain amount of property, or money!—the god of this world—to our shame be it said—especially in this State, is mede the sine qua non, by which man's equal rights are measured. If he is too poor to pay to the Camden and Amboy Railroad Co. its price to ride to Philadelphia—thanks to the Legislature of New Jersey—he has the inalieaable right to go on foot, and even bare foot at that!!

This happy land of Hail Columbia!—this boasted land of liberty!—this assylum of the oppressed!—this Christian nation which adopts as the basis of its government that only democratic principle, "Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you"—dares not even trust as Speaker of the House of Representatives any man who is in the least tainted with this only true democratic doctrine!

We trust the time is coming—and that before the present generation shall have passed away—that not only will the President of the United States, but the most humble individual in the land, will treat with scorn and contempt the degrading and anti-republican doctrine—so contrary to common-sense, so utterly degrading to the best and holiest aspirations of man—as the qualified conditions to freedom—of money or color. Every immortal soul, bearing as it does the imprint of the God who made them should be unqualifiedly—as our forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor to maintain—entitled to their equal and inalienable rights.

Another Burglary.—Two coats and other property was stolen from the Tailor-shop of Mr. John . Titsworth, occupied by Mr. Joel Tappan, on Second st. in this village, on Friday night last, an entrance having been effected through a window. $25 Reward is offered for the detection of the Thief, and $10 for the recovery of the goods.

Snow, to the depth of four inches, fell on Monday night, displaying in the glorious sunlight of Tuesday morning the gorgeous and fantastic prodigality of natures delight—the warm sun is causing its speedy disappearance. The belles and beaux will have to defer unto another opportunity their anticipated pleasure of a merry Sleigh ride.

☞ The Boston Murder.—A thousand rumors are constantly being circulated in regard to this mysterious case. The matter is undergoing judicial investigation, and as this is strictly private, of course no confidence should be placed in mere idle rumor—they will undoubtedly endeavor to impartially and efficiently examine every circumstance that shall give light on the subject. Idle rumor would undoubtedly have been to a great extent prevented by an open examination.

Sartain's Union Magazine.—This Magazine for the past year has received we believe universally, and justly, the commendation of the public press. The The present number which commences a new volume is every way worthy of its predecessors. We believe the Union Magazine can't be beat, for Sartain. Those wishing to subscribe should do so while the first numbers can be had.

☞ The most beautiful and extensive asortment of Marble Mantels sculptured and plain, together with monuments, and ornamental works of all kinds, to be found at any place can be had at 372 and 374 Greenwich-st. N. Y of Mr. John H. Ferris. He has recently erected a new and powerful Steam Mill, and is therefore enabled to supply the Trade, as well as individuals, on the most reasonable terms. See advertisement.

☞ Our readers will perceive by a reference to our advertising columns, that Mr. David Vail, one of our enterprising young men, has opened a Grocery and Provision Store. Mr. D. is well known to our citizens and needs no commendation from us. We think, however, that his enterprise and business tact, added to a wish to accommodate his customers, must enable him to compete with any other store in town.

☞ To the Ladies, and all others, but especially to the Ladies, of all this section of Country, who are in want of Dry Goods, (and who is not) the extensive (being wholly a Dry Goods establishment) store of the Messrs. Bassetts, 182 Broad-st. Newark, N. J. opposite the Park, will be found every way worthy of their patronage. The unprecedently low prices at which they are selling Dry Goods, and especially their large assortment of Shawls, selling at about the importers price, being purchased by one of the firm at auction in New York for Cash enables them to sell at a much lower price than they can be had at probably any other establishment. Quick sales, at small profits for cash, being their motto—of course all who wish to purchase will find it to their interest to give them a call.

Graham's Magazine.—This Magazine is too well known to need commendation from us. The universal approbation of the public stamp it as being one of the very best published. We would simply say that the January number, which commences the new volume, equals any which we have seen. Its splendid embellishments, and neat typography are an assurance that no pains are spared to make it worthy of the patronage it receives. Now is the time to subscribe.

☞ Public attention is requested to the advertisement of Lucius Hart, Manufacturer and Importer of Britannia Ware, No. 6. Burling Slip, N. Y. Mr. H has every variety of Britannia ware, which those wishing to purchase would find to their advantage to examine. In addition to the polite attention shown to customers, every article is warranted perfect, and the price as low as the market affords.

☞ Our merchants and others wishing to purchase manufactured Furs, as Muffs, Tippets, &c. would find it to their advantage to call on Mr. E. L. Tredwell, 25 Maiden Lane N. Y. who offers his stock at cost,—he intends changing his business. His card will be found in another column.

The State Printing.

It is high time that the legislature of this State made some movement in favor of reform. Many abuses of long standing call for the application of the pruning-hook; and the present time is highly favorable for inquiry and action. Party spirit is at an unusually low ebb and the people have learned to distrust the party politicians. There are many questions of practical reform calling for legislative interference, but at present we only intend to direct public attention to one particular.

Heretofore the public printing has been given to the leading paper of the party in power, at prices shamefully exorbitant. The last session the bill of the State Gazette alone, against the State for public printing amounted to about two thousand dollars! These 'partizan reward bills' are passed upon on the last night of the session, and all efforts at investigation are immediately smothered by the party in the majority. In brief, it has ever been the custom of our State legislature to take the hard-earned money of taxpayers to reward partizan editors. There is no reason, either in morality or sound political expediency, why the money of the people should be taken to fill the pockets of individuals, already in the receipt of munificent incomes from the profits of a regular business

The congress of the United States, and the legislature of New York have reformed this gross abuse, by giving their public printing to the lowest bidder. Let the same reform be commenced in New Jersey. The public printing of this State can be done at least 25 per cent lower than the prices heretofore paid, and still afforded a handsome remuneration to the printer.

This a matter entirely devoid of a partizan aspect, and one that calls for the co-operation of all parties. If a printing office can be found in this city were the printing of the legislature can be promptly, expeditiously and neatly executed, at prices 25 per eent cheaper than a party mouth-piece is willing to undertake the job for, we should like to see the party that would refuse to give such office the printing The robbing of the public treasury, in such case, would assume an aspect so indefeasible that the rebuke of the people would most certainly light upon the wrong doers.—Trentonian.

Postmaster-General's Report.

The following statistics are interesting:

The number of Post-Offices in the United States at the close of the year ending June 30, 1849, was 16,747, there having been 921 established and 333 discontinued within the year, making an increase within the year, of 588.

The number of poastmasters appointed within the year ending June 30, 1849, was 6,333.

Of that number, 2,782 were appointed in consequence of resignations; 183 were appointed in consequence of death; 284 were appointed in consequence of changes of sites of offices; 2,103 were appointed in consequence of removals; 11 were appointed in consequence of commissions expired and not renewed; 26 were appointed in consequence of commissions renewed; 23 were appointed in conquence of becoming Presidential by income exceeding $1,000; 921 were appointed in consequence of new offices.

In 1837, the number of Post-Offices was 11,767—now 17,164—417 having been established since June last. Number of dead letters in 1837, 900,000—now 2,100,000. Number of quarterly returns in 1837, 48,000—now 73,000. Number of mail contractors in 1837, 16,082—now 4,190.—Length of routes in 1837, 141,242—now 167,703. Annual mail transportation in 1837, 32,597,006—now 42,544,069.

The number of communications received at the Department annually cannot be less than 370,000.

Large Fire in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Dec. 7.

The extensive Pork packing House of Messrs. Pugh & Co. iu Sycamore-st. also the establishment of Messrs. Stagg & Sharp adjoining, two of the largest establishments in the city were reduced to ruins in less than one hour. Pugh's House was full of provisions, including 3,000 dressed Hogs, the whole of which will prove a total loss. It is impossible to state at present the amount of the loss by this calamity, but it is doubtless very heavy. Stagg & Co.'s largest stock of Hams was destroyed. Both houses were partially insured.

☞ The synopsis of the Europa's news, from Boston, over the wires of the N. Y. and Boston Telegraph, consisted of 3930 words, the cost of telegraphing which was $118.

☞ The Great Shawl Sale at Niblo's Saloon. There were one hundred and seventy-eight of them, of various patterns and colors, equal, if not superior, to any lot ever before sold in this city. The lowest price given was $50, and they ranged from that sum, at intermediate prices, as high a $875! The product of the sale reached nearly $18,000.

☞ It has been suggested by a wag that it would be well for some of those who talk of making a settlement in California to begin by making a settlement at home before they go.

XXXIst. CONGRESS.

SENATE.

[Convenes Monday, Dec. 3, '49. Expires March 3, '51

President, Millard Fillmore, Pice President U. S.
Secretary, Asbury Dickens.

Alabama	Term Expires	Michigan.	Term Expires.
§Jeremiah Clemens	1853	§Lewis Cass	1851
§William R. King	1855	§Alpheus Felch	1853
Arkansas.		Missouri.
§William K Sebastian	1853	§Thomas H Benton	1851
§Solon Borland	1855	§David R Atchinson	1855
Connecticut.		New-Hampshire.
Roger S. Baldwin	1851	†John P Hale	1853
Truman Smith	1855	§Moses Norris, Jr.	1855
Delaware.		New-York.
John Wales	1851	§Daniel S Dickinson	1851
Presley Spruance	1853	William H. Seward	1855
Florida.		New-Jersey.
§David L. Yulee	1851	William L. Dayton	1851
Jackson Morton	1855	Jacob W Miller	1853
Georgia.		North-Carolina.
John M. Berrien	1853	Willie P Mangum	1853
William C. Dawson	1855	George E Badger	1855
Indiana.		Ohio.
§Jesse D. Bright	1851	Thomas Corwin	1851
§James Whitecomb	1855	†Salmon P Chase	1855
Illinois.		Pennsylvania.
§Stephen A. Douglass	1853	§Daniel Sturgeon	1851
§James Shields	1855	James Cooper	1855
Iowa.		Rhode Island.
§George W. Jones	1851	Albert C Greene	1851
§Augustus C. Dodge	1855	John H. Clarke	1853
Kentucky.		South Carolina.
Joseph R. Underwood	1853	§John C Calhoun	1853
Henry Clay	1855	§Arthur P Butler	1855
Louisiana.		Tennessee.
§Solomon U. Downs	1853	§Hopkins L Turney	1851
Pierre Soule	1855	John Bell	1853
Maine.		Texas.
§Hannibal Hamlin	1851	§Thomas J Rusk	1851
§James W. Bradbury	1853	§Samuel Houston	1853
Massachusetts.		Vermont.
Daniel Webster	1851	Samuel S Phelps	1851
John Davis	1853	William Upham	1853
Maryland.		Virginia.
§Benjamin C Howard	1851	§James M. Mason	1851
James A. Pearce	1855	§Robert M T Hunter	1853
Mississippi.		Wisconsin.
§Jefferson Davis	1851	§Henry Dodge	1851
§Henry S. Foote	1853	§Isaac P Walker	1855

Those marked thus § are Dem.; thus † Free Soil.
Total 34 Democrats, 24 Whigs, 3 Free Soilers,

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

[Speaker, Clerk, &c. to be chosen on assembling, Dec 3

MEMBERS COMPLETE.

Arkansas.
1 *Robert W Johnson,

Alabama.
1 William J Alston,
2 Henry W Hilliard,
3 *Sampson W Harris,
4 *Samuel W Inge,
5 *David Hubbard,
6 *Williamson R W Cobb
7 *Fran. W Bowdon.

Connecticut.
1 *Loren P Waldo,
2 †Walter Booth,
3 *Chancecy F Cleveland,
4 Thomas B Butler.

Delaware.
1 John W Houston.

Florida.
1 Edward C Cabell.

Georgia.
1 Thomas Rutler King,
2 *Marshall J Welborn,
3 Allen F Owen,
4 *Hugh A Haralson,
5 *Thomas C Hackett,
6 *Howell Cobb,
7 Alexander H Stephens,
8 Robert Toombs.

Illinois.
1 *William H. Bissell,
2 *John A McClerand,
3 *Thomas R Young,
4 *John Wentworth,
5 *William A Richardson,
6 Edward D Baker,
7 *Thomas L Harris

Iowa.
1 *William Thompson,
2 *Shepperd Leffler,

Indiana.
1 *Nathaniel Albertson,
2 *Cyrus L Dunham,
3 *John L Robinson,
4 †George W. Julian,
5 *William J. Arown,
6 *Willis A. Gorman.,
7 Edward W McGaughey,
8 *Joseph E McDonald,
9 *Graham N. Fitch,
10 *Andrew J. Harlan.

Kentucky.
1 *Linn Boyd,
2 James L Johnson,
3 Finis E. McLean,
4 *George A Caldwell,
5 John B Thompson,
6 Daniel Breck,
7 Humphrey Marshall,
8 Charles S. Morehead,
9 *John C Mason,
10 *Richard H Stanton,

Louisiana.
1 *Emile La Sere,
2 Charles M Conrad,
3 *John H Harmanson,
4 Isaac E Morse.

Maine.
1 *Elbridge Gerry,
2 *Nathaniel S Littlefield
3 John Otis,
4 Rufus K Goodenow,
5 *Cullen Sawtelle,
6 *Charles Stetson,
7 *Thomas J D Fuller.

Maryland.
1 Richard I Bowie,
2 *William T Hamilton,
3 *Edward Hammond,
4 *Robert M McLane,
5 Alexander Evans,
6 John Bozman Kerr.

Massachitts.
1 Robert C Winthrop,
2 Daniel P King,
3 James H Duncan
4 Vacancy,
5 †Charles Allen,
6 George Ashmun,
7 Julius Rockwell,
8 Horace Mann,
9 Orin Fowler,
10 Joseph Grinnell.

Michigan.
1 *Alexander W Buel,
2 William Sprague, (F.S)
3 *Kinsley S. Bingham.

Missouri.
1 *James B. Bowlin,
2 *Willsam V N Bay,
3 *James S Green,
4 *Willard P Hall,
5 *John S Phelps.

Mississippi.
1 *Jacob Thompson,
2 *Win'd S Featherston,
3 *William McWillie,
4 *Albert G Brown.

New Jersey.
1 Andrew K Hay,
2 William A Newell,
3 *Isaac Wildrick,
4 John Van Dyke,
5 James G King.

Rhode Island.
1 George G King,
2 Nathan F Dixon.

South Carolina.
1 *Daniel Wallace,
2 *James L Orr,
3 *Joseph A Woodward,
4 *James McQueen,
5 *Armistead Burt,
6 *Isaac E Holmes,
7 *William F Colcock.

Wisconsin.
1 †Charles Durkee,
2 Orsamus Cole,
3 *James Duane Doty.

Texas.
1 *David S Kaufman,
2 *Volney E Howard.

Virginia.
1 *John S Milson,
2 *Richard K Meade,
3 *Thomas H Averett,
4 *Thomas S Bocock,
5 *Paulus Powell,
6 *James A Seddon,
7 *Thomas H Bayly,
8 *Alexander R Holladay,
9 Jeremiah Morton,
10 *Richard Parker,
11 *James McDowell,
12 *H A Edmondson,
13 *Fayette M'Mullin,
14 *James M H Beale,
15 Thomas S Haymond.

New York.
1 John A King,
2 David A Bokee,
3 Jonas Philips Phœnix,
4 Walter Underhill,
5 George Briggs,
6 James Brooks,
7 William Nelson,
8 Ransom Halloway,
9 Thomas McKissock,
10 Herman D Gould,
11 Peter H Sylvester,
12 Gideon O Reynolds,
13 John L Schoolcraft,
14 George R. Andrews
15 John R Thurman,
16 Hugh White,
17 Heny P Alexander,
18 †Preston King,
19 Charles E Clarke,
20 Orsamus B Matteson,
21 *Hiram Walden,
22 Henry Bennett,
23 William Duer,
24 Daniel Gott,
25 Harman S Conger,
26 William T Jackson,
27 William A Sackett,
28 Ab. M Schermerhosn,
29 Robert L Rose,
30 David Rumsey,
31 Elijah Risley,
32 Elbridge G Spaulding,
33 Harvey Putnam,
34 Lorenzo Burrows.

Peynsylvania.
1 Lewis C Levin (Nat).
2 Joseph R Chandler,
3 Henry D Moore,
4 *John Robbins, jr.
5 John Freedley,
6 *Thomas Ross,
7 Jesse C Dickey,
8 Thaddeus Stevens,
9 *William Strong,
10 *Milo M Dimmich,
11 Chester Butler,
12 †David Wilmot,
13 Joseph Casey,
14 Charles W Pitman,
15 Henry Nes,
16 *James X McLanahan,
17 Samuel Calvin,
18 Andrew Jackson Ogle,
19 *Job Mann,
20 Robert R Reed,
21 Moses Hampton,
22 †John W Howe,
23 *James Thompson,
24 *Alfred Gilmore.

Ohio.
1 *David T. Disney,
2 Lewis D Campbell,
3 Robert C Schenck,
4 Moses B Corwin,
5 *Emery D Potter,
6 *Amos E Wood,
7 *Jonathan D Morris,
8 John L Taylor,
9 *Edson B Olds,
10 *Charles Sweetzer,
11 *John K Miller,
12 Samuel F Vinton,
13 *William A Whittlesey
14 Nathan Evans,
15 Wm F Hunter, (F. S.)
16 *Moses Hoagland,
17 *Joseph Cable,
18 *David K Carter,
19 John Crowell, (F. S)
20 †Joshua R Giddings,
21 †Joseph M Root.

Tennessee.
1 *Andrew Johnson,
2 Albert G Watson,
3 Josiah M Anderson,
4 *John H Savage,
5 *George W Jones,
6 *James H Thomas
7 Meredith P Gentry,
8 *Andrew Ewing,
9 *Isham G Harris,
10 *Frederic P Stanton,
11 Christopher H Williams.

Vermont.
1 William Henry,
2 William Hebard,
3 James Meacham,
4 *Lucius B Peck.

New-Hampshire.
1 †Amos Tuck,
2 *Charles H Peaslee,
3 James Wilson,
4 *Harry Hibbard,

North-Carolina.
1 Thomas L Clingman,
2 Joseph P Caldwell,
3 Edmund Deberry,
4 Augustus H Shepperd,
5 *Abraham W Venable,
6 *William S Ashe,
7 *John R J Daniel,
8 Edward Stanly,
9 David Outlaw.

Those marked thus * are Dem. thus † Free Soil.
Delegates Chosen.—Minnesota—H H Sibley.—Oregon—S R Thursto. New Mexico—Hugh N Smith. Desert—Almon W Babbitt.

Real Christianity.—It is not Christianity merely to give our assent to a creed or a set of dogmas; for this is often done while the character remains unchanged. The devils believe and tremble. It is not Christianity merely to be baptised, to partake of the eucharist, to submit to rites and ordinances of the church;—for this is not necessarily attended with a character. But plainly, it is Christianity to be imbued with the spirit of Christ, and to live as he lived. This is the idea—Christianity is a life. Not a mere outward life, but an inward spiritual life, leading to a corresponding outward life. The inward life is the power and principle; the outward life the exponent—the development—the fruit. Creeds and dogmas are a logical construction—a theological science. Rites and ceremonies are symbolical institutions. This life is the reality. The most diverse forms of character—the good and the bad may unite in the former. Only one form of character—only the good unite in the Christian life. The unity of the life, therefore, is the highest unity; nay, the only real and essential unity.—N. Y. Evangelist.

☞ Most purchasers consult newspaper advertisements in order to discover where the best bargains may be had.

☞ There appears to be a general revival in the Methodist churches throughout the country.

MARRIED.

On the 3d inst. by Rev. W. E. Perry, James E. Razeau of Staten Island, to Mary E. Frazee, of Scotch Plains, N. J.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

WINE AND LIQUOR

STORE, No. 29 Fair-street, Newark.—The Subscriber respectfully informs the public that he still has constantly on hand at the above old established stand, a full and choice supply of all kinds

Foreign Wines and Spirits,

which he offers for sale at the lowest cash prices, and delivered to order to any part of the city or country. Brandy of every grade. Meder's Swan Gin, Irish, Scotch and Monongahela Whiskey. St. Croix and Jamaica rum, Port Maderia, Malaga, and Champagne Wines, Losey's Bitters, &c.

Philadelphia Bottled Porter and Pale Ale of the first quality; also, a very choice article of Bottled Cider, (almost, equal to Champagne,) always on hand and delivered without charge to any part of the city.

☞ A continuance of patronage is solicited.

LOUIS L. BELANT.

AGENTS WANTED.

IN EVERY SECTION OF THE UNITED STATES TO PROCURE SUBSCRIBERS TO THE FOLLOWING WORKS:

SECOND VOLUME EOR 1850!

SEARS' PICTORIAL

☞ DOLLAR FAMILY MAGAZINE. ☜

NOW ready for subscribers and agents, the January number of the second volume of the above Magazine for 1850, to be continued in monthly parts of from 40 to 50 large octavo pages each; making, at the close of the volume, a beautiful pictorial work of more than five hundred pages, for the small sum of one dollar per year, payable in advance.

We take this method of thanking each of our subscribers for the patronage bestowed upon the previous volume. And we doubt not but their great kindness will be continued, even more successfully, in aiding us in our effors to diffuse useful knowledge among all classes. We would call the special attention of our friends and patrons to the PREMIUMS FOR 1850!

All persons subscribing to the new volume for 1850, and sending two dollars, free of postage, shall receive one copy of the

PICTORIAL FAMILY ANNUAL,

Containing 400 pages octavo, and illustrated with 212 engravings; designed as a valuable and cheap present for parents and teachers to place in the hands of young people; or the

PICTORIAL HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

A handsome octavo volume of more than 400 pages, with an account of the early history of the country, the constitution of the United States, and a chronological index; illustrated with several hundred engravings.

All persons subscribing to the volume for 1850, and sending one dollar free of postage, shall receive, in addition to the Magazine, one copy of Sears' Family Receipt-Book.

☞ Any person wishing to see the work, either with a view of subscribing, or acting as agent, will be cheerfully furnished by addressing the editor, free of postage, which the post masters will readily do, if politely requested.

☞ Great inducements to post masters and clubs, unequalled by those of any other establishment in the union, for a Magzaine of this size.

One copy, one year,	One dollar.
Six copies, one year,	Five dollars.
Twenty-five copies,	Twenty dollars.

☞ We will mail the numbers as the post master or agent shall direct, and also give the person sending the twenty-five names one copy of either our "Annual," "Revolution," or Philadelphia American Courier, for one year, and a copy of the Family Receipt-Book.

One copy of the Magazine for one year, and one copy of either the "Bible History," "Bible Biography," "Pictorial Sunday-Book," "Description of Great Britain and Ireland," "Scenes and Sketches in Contiental Europe," "New and Popular Pictorial Description of the United States," "Treasury of Knowledge," or the "Wonders of the World," will be sent for $3.

Ten copies of the magazine for one year, and one copy of the "Annual," "Revolution," or "American Courier," $10.

Twenty copies of the magazine, and one copy of the Pictorial Family Bible will be sent for $20.

The Family Annual and all the above works offered as premiums (with the exception of the Pictorial Bible) are in form to send by mail, and can be forwarded to any part of the United States, or held subject to the order of the subscriber.

☞ Sixteen copies of the Family Receipt Book will be forwarded for $1.

A Liberal Offer.—To such persons as may not choose a copy of the "Annual" or "Revolution," for every two dollars (postage paid) sent in so that we shall receive it by the first of January, 1850, a copy of the Magazine for one year, together with Sears' new and popular description of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and the British Islands. Embellished with several hundred handsome engravings.

Illustrating the natural scenery, curiosities, antiquities, Druidical and Roman remains, mansions, cathedrals, abbeys, churches, colleges, castles and other great works of architecture, etc. etc. which abound in those celebrated countries. Carefully compiled from the best and latest sources.

☞ The above volume contains a complete description of the parent land, and is embellished with the largest collection of engravings, with explanatory letter-press, that has ever been published in America. To describe the work would occupy too much room. It must be seen to be admired; and read to beappreciated. Every American will desire a copy, after he has seen the beautiful style in which the work is got up.

Please address, ROBERT SEARS, Publisher.
No. 128 Nassau-street, New-York.

GEORGE VANNESS'

SHAVING & HAIR-DRESSING SALOON,

☞ At the old stand, next door to the Gazette Office in Plainfield. Gentlemen please give a call. ☜

IMPORTANT NEWS!

THE undersigned would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally, that he has opened in the BRICK BUILDING opposite Cherry-st. a fresh and choice assortment of

FAMIY GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS.

Consisting of every description in general Family use, which I will sell as cheap for Cash or country produce at as low a rate as can be had in Plainfield or elsewhere. A general invitation is hereby given to the inhabitants of Plainfield and surrounding country to bestow a portion of their patronage.

DAVID VAIL.

Plainfield, Dec. 12. 1849. [104

Largest Stock of SHAWLS in the State, at

BASSETTS ! !

BROADWAY BRANCH ! !

Opposite the Park, Newark, N. J.

50 New Bay State Long Shawls, just landed.
300 " Scotch Plaid do do " "
50 " Waterloo Long Shawls.
50 Rich Cashmere do do. Lyons & Co. best quality
100 all Wool Broche Shawls from auction, Cheap.
100 Mourning Long Shawls, very choice patterns.

Many other styles of Shawls that we are offering at reduced prices.

The largest assortment of RICH DRESS GOODS in the city.

Closing our large stock of French Merinos at cost, at BASSETTS, 182 Broad-street.

Newark, Dec 11. 1849.

BRITANNIA WARE AND METALS.

LUCIUS HART,

(Late Boardman & Hart.)

MANUFACTURER AND IMPORTER of BRITANNIA WARE, No. 6. Burling Slip, offers for sale at the lowest market prices Britannia Urns, Tea and Coffee Pots, Castors, with cut, mould and pressed bottles, Pewter plates, platters, dishes and basins. Flagons, tankards, goblets, plates and baptismal bowls. Metallic counting-house ink stands, assorted sizes, soup-ladles, table and tea-spoons, a great variety. Mantel candlesticks, chamber do. Britannia lamps. Pitchers, Mugs, Tumblers and molasses cups. Planished tin coffee urns, filterers and egg-boilers. Patent Table and tea-spoons, with steel handles. A full assortment of Dixon's Sheffield Britannia goods.

Particular attention paid to supplying families at retail, and evry article warranted. [65.

MUFFS, TIPPETS, &C,

SELLING OFF AT COST.

TO CLOSE THE CONCERN.

☞ The undersigned intending to change his business, will sell his entire stock of manufactured Furs, at and below cost prices. The trade and persons wanting for their own use, will do well to look in.

E. L. TREDWELL,
56.] 25 Maiden-Lane, N. Y.

STEAM MARBLE WORKS,

Nos. 372 AND 374 GREENWICH-STREET, NEW YORK.

The subscriber, late of the old and well-known firm of Underhill & Ferris, offers for sale at the old establishment, as above, the most extensive and beautiful assortment of superior MARBLE MANTELS, sculptured and plain, in the latest and most fashionable styles, and at the lowest prices. Also,

MONUMENTS,

And ornamental Marble Works of all kinds.

☞ He has lately erected a new and powerful Steam Mill, (equal to any in this country) and constantly keeps on hand quantities of Marble to supply the Trade, on liberal terms, either with slabs or blocks. JOHN H. FERRIS. [104

INCREASE IN SIZE: REDUCTION TO CLUBS.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE,

(OR: LADIES' NATIONAL.)

EDITED BY ANN S. STEPHENS AND C. J. PETERSON.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1850,

For 1850, the subscriber, anxious to introduce the Ladies' National into every family in the United States, will increase its size and reduce its prices to Clubs.

SAVE A DOLLAR.

The price of this magazine is but two dollars per year, or One Dollar less than the other magazines yet the press unanimously pronounces it as complete as its more costly cotemporaries. When a Club sends $10 or $20, the Ladies' National can be had for little over a dollar per copy.

INCREASE IN PAGES MONTHLY.

In 1850, at least twelve extra pages will be given every month; and sometimes twenty-four thus it will maintain the regular number of pages of the three dollar Magazines, at one-third less price.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENTS IN 1850.

Still other improvements will be made in the Magazine. Without abandoning its costly mezzotints, the Ladies' National will add new styles of illustration, in every walk of pictorial art. New type has also been purchased.

ILLUMINATED IN GOLD.

The January number will be out by the first of December, and will be unequalled in beauty. In addition to the usual costly embellishments, will be an illuminated title-page, printed in seven colors, on a ground of gold. In other respects, also, the January number for 1850 will excel anything we have ever published.

EMINENT LITERARY WRITERS.

The literary contents of the Ladies' National are entirely by American authors. The best writers are uniformly employed, and the consequence is that the newspaper press, which has a good opportunity of comparing the magazines, generally pronounces this periodical the most readable of all. No translation from immoral French authors, such as appear in other magazines, shall deface the pages of the Ladies' National. Our aim is to instruct as well as to amuse.

FASHIONS AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS.

This Magazine has always been the best guide for the fashions which we get in advance. The costumes are selected, engraved, and colored for us a month ahead of all rivals. To each plate is added a full letter-press description, besides information on all the latest styles. This Magazine is, in our Eastern cities, the TEXT-BOOK of fashion; and the other magazines, in their fashion department, are but poor imitations of this!

BEST LADIES MAGAZINE.

As its name imports, this periodical is peculiarly a Magazine for the sex, and it is also, what none others are, thoroughly national. The general aim of its literature renders it more American than any rival. Its monthly pages on Horticulture; its illustrated articles on embroydery, Crochet-Work, and Netting, in addition to its colored Fashion Plates, make it unquestionably the best Magazine for ladies.

NO WORN OUT ENGLISH PLATES.

Several of our cotemporaries impose on their readers with worn out English plates, which they publish as original. We patronize American art, regardless of the extra expense. One of our superb mezzotints costs us more than two, or even three of the ordinary plates that appear in other magazines. Our series of mezzotints, in a single year, makes a more splendid pictorial book than two six dollar annuals can furnish.

TERMS.

One copy, per annum,	$2,00	Eight copies.	$10,00
Three copies, "	5,00	Seventeen copies,	20,00
Five copies, "	7,50	Forty-three "	50,00

The money at our risk, and the letter franked, or post-paid. All the Magazines of a club must go to one post-town, to come within these terms.

As a premium for procuring any of the above clubs, a large and splendid engraving, of a size to hang up in a parlor, and valued at a print store at three dollars, will be sent. Or a bound volume for 1849. Or an "Annual of Plates" for 1850.

Address, CHARLES J. PETERSON,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,

N. B. A specimen copy sent when desired.

ATTENTION!

The Whole World and half of Staten Island.

THE fact is passed into a proverb that "our's is as cheap as the cheapest," and that at I. S. DUNHAM'S may be found as good a general assortment of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,

as at the next place, and upon as accommodating terms; the public are respectfully invited to give him a call at the old stand opposite the Mountan Road.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

A LARGE BEAR

HAVING been killed some weeks since in Sussex county, the circumstance is said to be (by the oldest inhabitant) a precursor of a severe winter. Those in want of Furs of any kind will call on mills and select while the assortment is full.

Muffs, Cuffs, Victorines, Neck-Ties, Buffalo Robes, &c.

Old Furs repaired. JOHN MILLS,
202 Broad-st., opposite the Common.

Newark Dec. 1, 1849.

CHILDREN'S MUFFS.

A Small lot of beautiful Muffs for small children—Also Victorines to match, at MILLS'S 202 Broad-st. Newark.

ALL IMPORTANT,

TO those who wish garments to fit and give satisfaction: Mr. E. B. TITSWORTH will be found always on hand, to cut garments to order at the shortest notice, at the old stand opposite the Mountain road; where may be found constantly a good assortment of

Coats, Pants, Vests, &c.,

Cheap for cash. I. S. DUNHAM.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 10 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.

[82.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,

CHEAP

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT

SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [2

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments warranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.

Dec. 28. 1849. [102.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.

No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—JOHN HIGGINS, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent. less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing. All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

A CARD.

TO THE PATRONS OF

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

The close of the current Volume is deemed a proper period to announce to the patrons of this "Magazine" that arrangements have been completed which cannot fail to increase its attractions during the coming year. The best writers in the country will continue to enrich our pages with their productions, and our engravers—who stand foremost in their profession—will put forth the best efforts on their art to make this peculiar department of the "Magazine" more beautiful than ever.

Promising unremitted exertions to merit a continuance of the favor bestowed upon the "Magazine," we respectfully solicit a renewal of the subscriptions of all its old patrons, and the addition of the names of all who desire to avail themselves of the satisfaction of reading what is universally conceded to be 'THE BEST MAGAZINE IN THE COUNTRY.'

Attention is called to the following list of Terms, which are unquestionably more advantageous to subscribers than those offered by any other work of the kind.

TERMS.—For THREE DOLLARS, in advance, (par money in the States from which it is remitted.) one copy of "GRAHAM" and a copy of a LARGE AND MAGNIFICENT PRINT, by a distinguished Engraver, and which may be considered one of the most beautiful specimens of Art ever presented by any Magazine publisher, and also a new and beautiful Engraving, suitable for framing, of a Sacred Subject, "Bearing the saviour to the tomb," prepared expressly, and at a very heavy cost, as a Premium Gift to new subscribers to Graham's Magazine. Or, if desired, we will furnish in lieu of either of the above Prints, a complete set of our Mezzotint Portraits of the AMERICAN HEROES OF THE LATE WAR WITH MEXICO.

For FIVE DOLLARS, Two copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints to each subscriber.

For TEN DOLLARS, Five copies for one year, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person forming the club, and either of the above prints, or a set of portraits to each subscriber.

For TWENTY DOLLARS, Eleven copies for one year, and a copy of either of the prints, or a set of the portraits to each subscriber, and a copy of the Magazine to the postmaster or person sending the club, with a copy of each of the large prints as an additional premium.

☞ Any person forwarding a club of 20 or upwards, shall receive for his trouble a complete copy of W. H. Graham's "American Historical and Biographical Library."

SAMUEL D. PATTERSON & Co.,
No. 98 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

☞ Several new advertisments and notices are unavoidably crowded out.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns. Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MACKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to	$14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to	8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to	15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to	6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to	5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to	3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to	5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to	4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to	2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to	20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,
54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500. No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No. 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No. 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard. 80 acres good Land, near town, $50 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times.

J. B. WARD,
59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

TAKE NOTICE.

TO all whom it may concern.—I hereby forbid any person trusting my wife Martha Wilson on my account, as I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation.

ZACHARIAH J. WILSON.

November 14. 1849.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law.

R. S. BROOKS.

Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1849. [72.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

WATCHES, CLOCKS,

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☜

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 23. 1849

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various Styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct 17, 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

CHAIN PUMPS.

THE best machine for raising water, in use.—This Pump has many advantages over any other in use on account of its simplicity of construction, being made wholly of wood and galvanized iron, not liable to get out of order or to get deranged in any way. It can never freeze in winter, and can be put in wells of any depth.

It takes less power to work it than any other machine, to raise the same amount of water.

It is never obstructed by gravel or sand; it keeps the water perfectly sweet and fresh; the action of the chain mixes the gasses with the water always keeping it lively and fresh; on ceasing to work it, the water in the tube descends to the level of the water in the well; on commencing to work the pump, the first water that is drawn is from the bottom of the well.

☞ This pump received the premium at the late Essex county fair.

These Pumps may be had at the Pump Factory of S. B. Miller, 340 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

63.] E. W. WHITEHEAD, Superintendent.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr. Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your Embrocation, for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours respectfully, AB'M. C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; also by J. R. Swallow, General agent 123 Fulton-st. New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas anc West Indies. [77.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N. J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m. Freight
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2 cts

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

KEEP WARM.

JOHN LUTZ'S CHEAP CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT, Collet Hall, Elizabethtown. The subscriber respectfully advises persons in want of a good warm Coat, Pants, Vest, Shirt, Under Shirt, Drawers, Handkerchief, Cravat, Suspenders, Gloves, &c. to call and examine his large assortment of ready made Clothining of every description which he offers for sale chaper than any other store in the city. All garments warranted to fit or no sale. Remember,

JOHN LUTZ, Collet Hall.

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action; to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY,

No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.

L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy; her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st

Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Up stairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜

November 1849. [98.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

CARRIAGE MAKING,

AND REPAIRING.

THE subscriber having taken part of the Carriage shop on Fourth street occupied by Heath & Dunning near the Public Free School, would inform the public that he is prepared to make all kinds of

CARRIAGES, FARM WAGONS,

&c. &c. of the best materials, and at short notice as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Repairing of all kinds done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. J. B. BROWN.

BLACKSMITHING.

Also at the same place all kinds of

Blacksmithing, Carriage and Wagon Ironining, Horse Shoeing, &c.

and all kinds of repairing done at short notice, and on reasonable terms. WM. REED.

Plainfied, June, 6. 1849. [50.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon. L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

EVERY BODY'S ATTENTION

IS INVITED to the splendid assortment of DRY GOODS now being opened by the subscriber.

SILKS, LAWNS, GINGHAMS,

Linen Ginghams, Plaid and Plain, Cashmere Shawls, all wool, Silk Shawls that must be sought after, Prints a large assortment of entirely new styles;

Broadcloths, Cassimers, Tweeds,

Codrington and Victoria Cloths, and every style of Goods suitable for Men and Boys' Wear; a good stock of trimming for Ladies' Dresses, and a full assortment continued throughout the season.

With the above we have BOOTS, SHOES, CARPETS, Carpet Bags, Boston Rockers, Sitting Chairs, Wash Stands, a good assortment of China, Crockery and Glass Ware, Groceries, and a thousand other things that we cannot think of.

DANIEL BULLMAN.

A First rate One horse Wagon, with box body for sale cheap if applied for soon at this office.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B. Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

MAP OF NEW JERSEY.

PROPOSALS for publishing, by subscription, a new and improved Map of the State of New Jersey, with parts of the adjoining States originally compiled by Thomas Gordon, now Revised Corrected and Improved, to the Year 1849; Under the patronage of the Legislature of New Jersey, by

R. E. HORNER.

This Map is compiled from original materials, procured with the assistance of a number of gentlemen, from the most recent and authentic sources, and where these failed, recourse was had to the Coast and other actual surveys, so that no reasonable expense or pains were spared to render the work one of the most acurate and useful State Maps in the Union. It includes a considerable portion of Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware.

It is projected on a scale of three miles to one inch forming a Map of 33 by 57 inches, on which is exhibited all the counties and townships in the state, with the cities, towns, churches, roads, mountains, waters, mills, railroads, canals, etc., including five new counties, and more than twenty new townships, to be illustrated with handsome vignetts of the State House, Coat of arms of New Jersey, etc.

TERMS.—The Map will be printed on good paper, handsomely colored, by townships, varnished and mounted on rollers at $5 per copy.

ROBERT E. HORNOR, Publisher.

Princeton, N. J.

Princeton Sept. 16. 1849.

* * Some good Agents are wanted to thoroughly canvass some of the Northern and Southern counties of the State. Applications must be POST PAID to receive attention.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES. ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes. public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer, by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2 They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher. 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy snbstances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848."—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.

JOHN MAYHER & CO.

195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,

Fire Board prints in great variety,

Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,

Transparent Window Shades,

Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME II. NO. 1. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1849. | WHOLE NO. 53.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front-st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

TERMS.—To Village Subscribers, One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per annum, payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per annum payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

☞ No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid, except at the option of the publishers.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year (paper included)	6 00

☞ Those who wish to contract for a more extended privilege are invited to call on the publishers or their agent.

Job Printing

NEATLY EXECUTED AT THE LOWEST CASH PRICES.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breast, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lung and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the possession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heat, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health. The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable phisicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant. 'Having made use of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed.'

A. Fearson, M. D. U. S Navy; S. K. Leedem, M. D. Champlain Co., Ohio; W. R. Cadwallader, M. D. U. S. Navy.

Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against thr change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A. M. Sanford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M. SANFORD,
No. 160 East Broadway N. Y.

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U. S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearon M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. Swallow, General Agent, No. 123 Fulton-st. N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attended to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas and West Indies.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c. &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash.

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN.

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

Yes or No.

When of man I ask a question,
I whish he'd answer yes or no;
Not stop to make some smooth evasion,
And only tell me "May be so."

I always doubt the friendly meaning
Of "Well perhaps, I do not know.,"
When for a favour I am suing:
I'd rather hear the answer, no.

When of a friend I wish to borrow
A little cash—to hear him say
"I've none to-day—but on to morrow"—
Is worse than if he told me, nay.

Why all this need of plastering over
What we in fact intend to show?
Why not at once with much less labor,
Say frankly YES, my friend, or NO.

And when I ask, that trembling question,
"Will you be mine, my dearest Miss!"
Then may there be no hesitation
To say distinctly—"YES, SIR—YES!"

A Cure for 'Sparking.'

Some months since, a joyous, courageous young woman, residing in this city, the daughter of highly respectable parents, found herself somewhat intentionally detained at a house, one evening; and before she was aware of the fact, scarcely, night had set in. The distance to her home was but a few blocks, however, and as she expected a little gathering of ladies and gentlemen that evening at her father's, she determined upon returning homeward unattended; and bidding her friends good night, she hurried along upon the walk towards her residene, into which her family had quite recently removed from another part of the city.

Upon turning the first corner, she was suddenly startled by the approach of a well-dressed young man, who accosted her with a 'good evening,' and offered his services to escort her home! Alarmed, for an instant, she would have avoided the stranger; but as he advanced to her side, she ventured to turn towards him, and a glance satisfied her;—she recognized the young gentleman as familiar acquaintance. Disguising her voice and replying in a timed tone, she accepted the proffered gallantry, determined at once to administer a lesson to her young friend, which he should not forget. The conversation which passed was brief, and the beau suspecting nothing, as he was unaware that the family had changed their quarters, tripped along the lady's side, apparently very well pleased with his companion. In a few minutes they halted before a modest brick house, in a somewhat retired street, at the west end, and the lady relinquished her attendant's arm.

'Will you come in?' whispered the lady, softly.

'Thank you,' was the reply; and his fair companion opened the front door. Closing it carefully, they found themselves in the entry, in total darkness.

'Wait a moment,' said the young woman, 'and be perfectly quiet. I will return instantly;' and with these words, she ascended the stairs which led to the parlors.

The first thought of the young man, as she retired, was to open the front door and move; for he suspected all was not as he at first anticipated. He turned to the door it was fast. He fumbled for the latch, or lock, but what ever secured it was not to be found; and an instant afterward, he heard footsteps approaching in the darknes. His heart thumped against his ribs, and he began to wish himself safely out of doors again; but he was quickly reassured by the encouraging whisper of the new made acquaintance, who approached him, apparently with great caution

'Hush,!' she said, 'all is safe. Be quiet now, a moment—remove your boots from your feet—I will return in an instant.'

Our hero was content; and drawing off his boots, he secured them together, and held them in his hand, to await the return of his lady friend, who again ascended the front stairs.

Entering the parlor a moment afterwards, the female rogue found some half a score of young lady friends, with their brothers and beaux present, to whom she quickly and briefly communicated the adventure.

'I've got him in the entry, down stairs,' she said. 'Put out the lights, keep perfectly still, don't betray the slightest sound, and I will show you some sport in a moment.'

The lights were removed, the party arranged themselves around the room—the bulk of the company knew the victim intimately—and again the lady descended the stairs, and approaching her friend.

'Softly, now,' she said, taking the hand which was unoccupied with the boots, 'softly All is quiet up stairs—all is arranged—come!' and she led her gallant slyly along, up the stairway. His boots dangled against the railing—'sh!' exclaimed the fair one; 'for pity's sake, make no noise—or all is lost!"

The beau moved on; grasped his boots more securely at his side, nor dreamed of aught save bliss! Least of all did he suspect the existence of a huge rent in his stockings—but he was a bachelor, and this was but a trifle!.

They entered the parlor. All was darkness and silence. The lady closed the door behind them, and led her companion into the centre of the room. Not a breath was heard, and little did the gentleman suspect that he was at that moment surrounded by a dozen of his acquaintances.

'Remain here one moment,' said the girl 'I will get a light—'

The gallant raised the soft hand which had conducted him thus far towards—he knew not what!—and ventured to press upon it a kiss; but it was dexterously withdrawn, at the very 'nick of time,' and his lips came in contact with his own fingers!

'Wait a moment,' added his inamorata, leaving him quickly—and, then, passing through a door at the farther extremity of the room, she disappeared. A minute had scarcely elapsed, but it seemed a month to the little party, who were nearly choking with suppressed merriment—it was an age to the victim. But gentle footsteps were heard again; the beau gazed anxiously towards the direction of the door; it opened with a single movement, a blaze of light gushed into the parlor, and behind it he beheld the face of an old familiar acquaintance!

'Ladies and gentlemen,' she said, 'this is Mr. Smith.'

Such a 'ha, ha!' as went up from that little coterie, at that moment, was seldom heard in the neighborhood before or since! Poor smith stood for a moment, not exactly paralyzed—that would be a faint term of expression; he was frozen—actually statu-ized, in his tracks, and he hugged his boots to his side, coughed, sneezed choked—then grinned, a ghastly smile!

As soon as the paroxysm of laughter was over, the lady brought foward a chair, and placing it before the victim, said—

'Pray be seated, Mr. Smith.'

'He turned upon his tormentor a look of comical recognition, and, like Falstaff, his wits coming quickly to his relief, he plied:

'Did you think, Cally, I didn't know you?'

Another roar followed this remark, and the company was very soon upon good terms.

This was his first and last effort at picking up an acquaintance; and it proved a cure for 'sparking' with him. Within six months he made ample apology for his error, by making Miss Cally—Mrs. Smith!—Flag of our Union.

THE HIT PALPABLE.—A few days since a traveller stepped into a bank located in a village in the neighborhood of this city, and immediately after his entrance pulled off his hat, coat and cravat; this done, he cast a look at the cashier, who was seated in a corner 'calmn as a summers morning,' and with a commanding shake of the head said, 'Hadn't you better be gittin that ere water heated?' The teller informed him that he was in the wrong 'shop.' 'You are in a bank, sir, not a barbers shop.' A bank, eh!' ejaculated the stranger; 'dang me, they told me it was a shaving shop'

Effects of Imagination.

The following anecdote was related by the celebrated father Taylor, in the course of a recent lecture: "It happened years ago, in the days of old-fashioned meeting houses, with their pews like pens, and their pulpits perched up at an elevation which placed them without the pale of human sympathy, and when a fire for the purpose of warming a church was a thing unheard of, that some enterprising young men who had worshiped in such a church, determined to have the house warmed by stoves. But the project encountered the most violent opposition from all the old people. They declared that it should not be; that stoves were not a gospel ordinance; that the congregation must sufficate. The young men, however, prevailed; and one Sabbath the congregation beheld in the church two formidable black stoves, with the pipes traversing the entire length of the house. The old men and women looked on with horror, and held their breath for the result. The exercises of the church proceeded. Soon a lady fainted away, and in a few moments another gasped for breath, and was carried out of the church, and then another. At last a stout burly man swooned and fell. The frightened minister at once dismissed the church, and there was a general rush of the indignant people toward the stoves. The windows were Thrown open, and they were about to precipitate the offenders from the house, when, lo! and behold! the stoves were cold! and not a particle of fire had been kindled in either of them. The mason had not quite time to finish putting them up, and no fire had been made. The Triumph of the young advocates of stoves was complete.'—Alta Monthly Advertiser.

STRIKING COINCIDENCE.—The New Haven Register had the following striking paragraph relative to the horrid butchery of smith and his wife:—On Monday, 59th of October, at about 9 o'clock in the morning, the Court room was crowded, to hear sentence of death pronounced on Foot, the murderer—an unusual occurrence in our community; and within (probably) the space of three hours following, two more murders were committed in our city. What a commentary on capital punishment!'

Such is the certain effect of cruelty in every nation. The less value governments set on human life and the more they murder legally, the less will individuals value life, and the more common will murders become. If governments held life sacred individuals would, but as long as governments claim the right to kill men for what they consider great offences, individuals will consider that they have the same right to kill, for what they consider great offences. The truth is murder is murder, whether committed by a government according to law, or by an individual without law; but the murdering a man by government has a more powerful influence for evil than a murder committed by an individual.—Portland Pleasureboat.

FRIGHTENED BY AN INFERENCE.—Mary the maid, who had gone up on Monday morning to make the beds, came flying down stairs, screaming 'Murder, murder!' and staggered into the breakfast room, where she fainted at the feet of Mrs. Gotobed and Miss Ditto, of ——, in this county. The ladies thought of flight but their knees shook so industriously that no other motion was performable. Mary, beginning to recover, sighed heavily; her little heart fluttered and beat; her rosy lips parted, and an ejaculation escaped—'O-h-h-h-o! ma'am!' Where is the villain?' gently whispered Miss. 'Under the bed!' Mrs. and Miss uttered a dreadful scream, and Mary screamed in sympathy. But no succor was at hand; Mary's first cries had scared the poodle dog out of gunshot. 'Is the wretch a very big man?' inquired the old lady. 'I did not stay to see him,' replied her maid; 'I ran away the moment I saw his sword behind the pillow?' 'O, you young fool!' exclaimed her mistress, bursting into a peal of laughter. I put the sword there myself to be ready for robbers!' Mrs. Gotobed has drawn the sword, and Mary had drawn an inference.

SPIRIT OF THE AGE.—The Free School law submitted to the people of the State of New York at the recent election, has been adopted by the following vote: For Free Schools, 249,872; against Free Schools, 91,951. Majority, 157921.

Past Events.

The first white child born in North America, was Virginia, daughter of Annanias and Eleanor Dare, and grand-daughter of Gov. John White.—She was born on the 18th of August, 1597, in Roanake, in north Carolina. Her parents were of the expedition sent out by Sir Walter Raleigh in that year. There is no record of her history save that of her birth.

The first minister who preached the gospel in North America was Robert Hunt, of the Church of England, an exemplary man, who came out in the same company wilh Capt. John Smith, in the year 1608. He was much esteemed as a man of peace, and was in many ways useful to the colony. There is no record of his death, or of his return to England; he died at Jamestown. He had a good library, which was burn with all his other property, in the burning of Jamestown the next winter after he came out.

The first females who came Virginia proper were Mrs. Forrest and her maid, Anne Burns, in the expedition of Newport, 1608. The first marriage in Virginia was in the same year—John Laydon to Anne Burns. The ceremony was probably by the same "good master Hunt."

The first intermarriage between the whites and Indians was John Rolfe to Pocahontas, in April, 1613. Pocahontas was also the first of the Virginia Indians that embraced Christianity and was baptized.

The first legislative assembly in Virginia met in July, 1619, at the summons of Gov. Geo. Yeardley. One month later, negroes were brought into the colony, by a Dutch man-of-war.

The first periodical in North America was the Boston News Letter, which made its appearance in August, 1705. The first in the Old Dominion was the Virginia Gazette, published at Williamsburg, by William Parks, weekly, at seven shillings. It appeared in 1736, and was long the only paper published in the colony. Slavery preceded the periodical press 117 years.

The Blue Ridge was first crossed by the whites in the year 1714.

The first iron furnace erected in North America was by Gov. Spottswood, in 1730, in Spottsylvania county, Va.

The Poor Boy's College.

"The printing office," says the New York Globe, "has indeed proved a better college to many a poor boy—has graduated more useful and conspicuous members of society—has matured more intellect, and turned it into practical, useful channels; awakened more minds, generated more active and elevated thought—than any of the literary colleges of the country. How many a drone has passed through these colleges, with no tangible proof of his fitness other than his inanimate piece of parchment, himself more inanimate than his leathern diploma?—There is something in the very atmosphere of a printing office calculated to awaken the mind and inspire a thirst of knowledge. A boy who commences in such a school will have his talents brought out; if he has no mind to be drawn out, the boy himself will be driven out."

Printers.

Who was William Caxton, one of the fathers of literature? 'Nobody but a printer!' Who was Earl Stanhope? 'A printer!' Who was Samuel Woodworth, the poet? 'A printer!' Who was Benjamin Franklin, the great American philisopher, and statesman! 'A printer!' Who was Governor Armstrong of Massachusetts? 'A printer!' George P. Morris, James Harper, Horace Greeley, N. P. Willis, Robert Sears, Joseph Gales, and Senators Cameron, Hill, Dix, and Niles, and a host of no less conspicuous names—who are they? 'Nobody but printers, any how!'

BUTTER MAKING.—Scene up in Vermont.—[Aunt Debora salting butter. Enter Mrs. Noddle.]

Mrs. Noodle.—Now, then, aunt Deborah, that is just like, for all the world. You salt the butter that you sell bettern'n what you eat. Why, Mr. Noddle always tells me that salt costs money.

Aunt Deborah.—So it does, but our Bill is pretty bute, and he says, when salt don't cost more n a cent a pound down in Bosting, and we get twenty-five cents a pound for it in butter, we can afford to put in some.

A coacoa nut tree has been lately drifted ashore on the Island of Valentia, near Kerry, Ireland, another proof that the Gulf stream, after running along the American coast, sets across the Atlantic.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, December 20, 1849.

☞ Mr Albert D. Drake is our authorised agent to receive subscriptions and advertisments.

Plainfield Lyceum.

The members of the Plainfield Lyceum will meet in Mr. W. W. Davison's school house on Tuesday evening next at 1-4 of 7 o'clock. The question for discussiou will be:

"Are fictitious works boneficial."

☞ The public are respectfully invited to attend.

E. M. DUNN, Sec'y.

MURDER.—We learn from a citizen of Somerville that Peter Mc Culligan, a man about 50 years old, was found murderd in a Shantee near the village of Raritan Somerset Co on Saturday last, and that the occupants, Patrick Burns and Wife were arrested, examined, and committed to Somerset Jail as the perpetrators of the act. Rum it is said was the cause.

☞ The Hon. Thomas H. Benton will please accept our thanks for a copy of the Patent Office Report for 1848. and map of Oregon and Upper California.

☞ The appreciation in which our efforts are held in endeavoring to establish a paper that shall be worthy of the patronage of our citizens, and the public generally, will be perceived by a reference to our advertising columns, and also to our subscription books; an addition to our subscription list of about 50 names at the commencement of our new volume is highly gratifying to us—we will endeavor by renewed exertions on our part to merit continued favors.

That there is a general and increasing desire for knowledge on the part of the great mass of the people, we think must be evident to all. The agitation of the question of free-schools throughout the land, the demand generally throughout the country for a uniform and cheap postage, the demand also of the people to have the laws published in the news papers generally, that they can be discussed, understood, and made available by all, as all are expected to obey them, bears indsisputable evidence that the people are desirous of becoming enlightened and intelligent freemen—that they are no longer to be carried away from their true interests by the dictation of party demagogues, is another encouraging fact that the people are becoming sovereigns in fact and in deed as well as in name.—That the people are determined to practically carry out the theoretical principles laid down in the Constitution we think will not be denied. The principle is certainly a true one—which the two extremes of our Union most abundantly illustrate and confirm—that the intelligence of the mass is incompatible with slavery or tyranny in any form. The impossibility of enslaving an intelligent mind is self-evident to all who reflect upon the subject. Tyranny, ignorance, and vice disappear before intelligence like the dew of the summers morn before the rising Sun.—Knowledge in dispelling ignorance, destroying tyranny and superstition, is emphatically, power. That this power is in the hands of the people the recent events in the world's history, and especially of our own country abundantly proves; and it is also proven by this same reference, that where knowledge is most generally diffused, that there liberty in its most delightful aspect abounds. What a glorious thought, what encouraging signs these to the friends of liberty throughout the world, and especially of our own country, to be the happy pioneer in the glorious cause of liberty—to instruct, enlighten, and free mankind.

What is our country destined to become under the ifluence of a free and independant press, that bulwark of a nations freedom. What would soon be the condition of down trodden and unhappy Ireland, had she but an independent press and free schools in every village in the land? Would she long submit to be tyranized over by the oppressive yoke of absentee landlords—by the enormous and increasing demands of a foreign priesthood? No, never. The knowledge, the self respect inspiring knowledge, of their inalienable rights—the right to representation with taxation—their right to a portion of the soil, in its cultivation—the right to education, growing out of taxation and representation—the free and unrestricted right to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences, without paying tribute therefor to any—all these things would the establishment of newspapers and free schools in their villages teach to unhappy and degraded Ireland.

What would soon become the condition of the world, were the Yankee's permitted to enter the villages of the despotic governments of Europe and establish therein free schools and newspapers; would not tyranny soon crumble into dust? Can the people then who have these blessing in their midst, over appreciate them as assertors, protectors, and defendors of their rights?

To the Editors of The Gazette:

Gentlemen: I deem it not amiss at the close of the first year of your enterprise, to address you and your readers on the importance of a well conducted and neatly printed newspaper to the prosperity of our village and vicinity. The interest I take in all that concerns the well-being of our citizens, is the only apology I shall offer for claiming a few moments of their attention. If I succeed in exciting an interest in the minds of any, in a plan to promote the public welfare, I shall not have labored in vain.

The publication of a newspaper, even of the most humble and unpretending character, is a far more difficult task than is generally supposed. It is very easy to say that such a paper is not as large or interesting as some others, but, all things considered, perhaps it is quite as good as its readers desired or were entitled to. Some of the papers in this state are not very beautiful specimens of workmanship, certainly; while their contents are hardly as interesting and valuable as well qualified and well paid editors might have made them. And yet these, in some instances, are the only papers in the county, and are published in a thickly-settled and wealthy community. For many years the proprietors of these journals have toiled hard to render them serviceable to the public and profitable to themselves; and if they have not been as useful as—under more favorable circumstances—they might have been, it is because their patrons did not consult their own interest by giving them a more efficient support. To one who has a knowledge of the difficulties under which the newspaper publisher often labors, the only wonder is that he is able and willing to print a paper affording him such a pitiful return. I am acquainted with newspaper publishers—men who are as industrious, econimical and worthy as any in the state—who have devoted several of the best years of their lives to the service of the pnblic, hoping that after a long period they would receive the reward to which they were entitled; and as yet they are not able to lay up a shilling against a wet day. If it be said that a man should not engage in a business which is not immediately profitable, I answer that there are many wise men who think differently. Some of the most useful men in the country in early life engaged in persuits which, for many years, hardly made them a sufficient return to keep soul and body together. They knew that they deserved to succeed, because they labored to promote the public good, and with strong hands and courageous hearts they toiled on, believing that a "good time" for them as well as others would finally reward their labors. I need not go from Plainfield to point out an individual who has served his fellow men long and faithfully, and who—although for many years enjoying a competence—often speaks of the difficulties which beset him in the earliest years of his professional life.—There are few persons for many miles around our village but will bear testimony to the skill and untiring industry of the gentlemen to whom I refer; and there are thousands who will, as long as memory is faithful to its office cherish the name of JOHN W. CRAIG as one of their greatest benefactors, and honor him as one of the most useful men in the state. I should despise myself if I attempted to lavish undeserved praise on any man; but at the same time I deem it only an act of justice to make honorable mention of one who has done so much to alleviate human suffering, and, in every way, labored to advance the best interests of his fellow citizens.

I take it for granted that a large number of those who may read these remarks are interested in every thing which tends to promote the intellectual improvement of out citizens. A community will only flourish in proportion to the intelligence of its members. We may beautify our town by the erection of elegant mansions; and seek to induce capitalists to invest their funds in manufacturing establishments; but if corresponding efforts are not made to diffuse useful krowledge, our village will not be favorably known for the virtue cr wisdom of its inhabitants. I am aware that many entertain the opinion that, with our numerous churches, it is hardly possible but we should be a very moral and orderly community; and yet the watchful observer cannot fail to note a growing disposition in many of our youth to engage in disreputable acts; and he must be blind indeed who does not discover that as our town grows larger, it become the home of some who neither fear God nor regard man.

I have lived in vain if it is not true that a taste for reading is one of the greatest safeguards a young man can have to keep him from evil habits. He will not wander far from the path of the just, who learns that sin is always swiftly followed by its necessary consequence, suffering. Let a youth learn from standard scientific works that every indulgence in vice will certainly be attended with its reward—often one which is more horrible than anything which we could suppose a human being capable of enduring—and he will pause long before he will risk encountering such a fearful retribution. If our maidens but knew the intimate connection that exists between tight-lacing and thin slippers and that terrible form of death which awaits the consumptive, they would as soon take fire in their bosoms as indulge in customs which are so fearfully destructive to human life. They are not properly educated, if they have not read and studied works which point out the evils which attend those who sacrifice comfort and health to the silly behests of fashion.

A somewhat close attention to the matter has convinced me that there is no method by which the youthful mind can be so easily awakened to the importance of acquiring knowledge, as through the newspapers. A child, even of the most tender years, who is accustomed to seeing papers and hearing them read, will early wish to read for himself. Even those who have become old enough to attend the district school, will drop their lessons to snatch up the newspaper, which they look upon as smilingly as they would on the face of a dear friend It is perfectly natural that they should welcome the paper to their fireside, and regard it as one of their greatest luxaries. It must be a dull sheet, indeed, which can not cause the young face to light up with joy; and make the heart to throb with pleasurable emotions. I would rather see those dear to me interested in a good paper, than have them fascinated with the pleasures of the ball-room, or engaged in the thousand silly pursuits which too often attract the attention of the young. I feel keenly how many days of my youth passed away without improvement, becuse I had few books, and as for newspapers, it was not my good fortune to have any to read. I trust there are few children in these days of cheap papers, but have at least one or two weekly for their own use. The parent who adds dollar to dollar, and refuses paying for a good paper or two for the instruction and entertainment of himself and family, is unworthy of the name; and when he draws near the close of life, if his children think more of his money than himself, he is only reaping the bitter fruit of his niggardness and folly Think of it is as you please, ye who are parents, but sooner or later you will find that if your children are not intelligent, they will think you defrauded them in their youth; and when your limbs totter toward the close of your pilgramage, they will hardly regret that the evening of your life is sad and gloomy.

—I have written at greater length than I intended, and yet, like the idle boy on his way to school, I have so rambled by the way, that I have not accomplished my task. I designed, gentleman, to congratulate you on the close of the first volume of your healthy-printed and interesting paper, and to urge our citizens to consult their best interests by encourageing an enterprize so intimately connected with their welfare. I need hardly tell you that I have watched your progress with much interest, and am very much gratified that you have succeeded so well. You have done much for our villlage, and our people owe it to themselves and to you to strengthen your hands and encourage your hearts. If the orientals honor those who dig wells by the wayside that the weary traveler may drink and be refreshed, how much do we owe those who minister to the wants of the spirit, and labor to satisfy the higher aspirations of our souls? The unthinking may smile, but it is not less true that those who labor for the diffusion of useful knowledge among men are worthy of the highest honors.

Continue, gentlemen, to make your paper the advocate of everything that is right; let it ever be the friend of the down trodden, and the foe of the oppressor; give utterance to Truth, no matter how unpalateable it may be to the hypocrite and the time-server; encourage the humble to walk erect and fear the frown of none; remember that truth is eternal, and will always triumph whether promulgated from the pulpit the lecture-room, or the press; be neither awed nor coaxed by sect or faction, but labor at all times to promote the greatest good of the greatest number; and you will have the sympathies and aid of the wise and good of every name; and, better than all else beside, you will meet the approval of your own consciences, which is but another name for the approving smiles of a gracious God.

J. A.

Cheap Postage.

The Postmaster General's report shows that our Post Office system is in a very healthy condition, with a great surplus revenue. Many prophesied that when the postage was reduced from 25 to 10 cents for the highest rate of letter postage, that the Post Office Department would become a burden to the Government, as it barely paid expenses at the time. Now what is the result, we have a cheaper postage, and instead of a decrease, we have an increase of revenue. We never like to advocate a reduction of price for any thing whereby a fair competence is only obtained, at best, by individuals; but in governments, corporations and chartered companies, every reduction in their prices benefits the community at large: cheap water, cheap gas light, are general benefits to inhabitants of cities, and cheap postage a general benefit to all our citizens. We advocate the reduction of letter postage to two cents in every case prepaid, for a distance not exceeding 100 miles; and no single letter to be more than five cents for any distance. We also advocate a cheap Ocean Postage—not over five cents for a single letter to Europe. The revenue would be increased by the reduction (argument, the P. M. G.'s Report) and the public would be greatly benefitted.—Scientific American.

☞ Great attractions at the Newark Museum! Read the list of curiosities advertised in our paper. Mr. W. B. Ludlow, Manager, 85 Broad-st. Newark.

☞ The attention of Stationers and others, wishing to purchase superior 'Patent Self Sealing Envelopes,' is directed to the card in another column, of the only manufacturer, W. Alderton, 295 Pearl-st, N, Y.

☞ Dealers in Camphene and Burning Fluid.—We request your notice to the advertisment of Mr. H. A Whitney, in another column The article of Mr. W. needs but a fair trial to convince all that there is none better manufactured.

☞ As the season for Sleigh-riding has come, the belles and beaux will require that indispensable article to comfort, Furs. A large assortment of every variety of Manufactured Furs can be had at reduced prices at 96 Bowery, N. Y. of Mr. Thos. Young.—See advertisement.

☞ We would direct the attention of our readers generally, and those who cannot tell the 'time a day' without troubling their neighbors, particularly, to the advertisement of Mr. A. K Cory. If he can't put them in a way to guess at it then we will admit that they did not find the place, that's all.

Our readers in all this section of country who are in the habit of visiting New-Brunswick to make their purchases, if in want of Fashionable and Cheap Clothing, can undoubtedly, suit themselves at the clothing Store of Mr. Wm T Runk. He has an extensive assortment of every imaginable variety. His advertisement will be found in another column.

☞ We ask our readers attention to the advertisment of Mr A Ackerman. His assortment of gift-books for the season are splendid and most appropriate; while his stock of school books and stationery comprises an extensive variety. Give him a call.

☞ It will be perceived by a reference to the advertisment of Mr. Jessee Vail, that he has removed his business to the store recently occupied by Mr Reuben Titsworth. The well known character of Mr. Vail for uprightness should induce our fellow citizens to favor him with a liberal share of their patronage.

'Competition is the life of trade.' This you will find verified if in want of Cheap and Fashionable Clothing, by a visit to the Clothing Depot of Mr. Wm M. Woodhull, 22 Peace-st opposite Church-st New-Brunswick. Read his advertisment

Some may think it a very easy matter to purchase a hat; and so it is provided they are satisfied with any 'sort of a thing' that can be made to stay on the head: but if they wish to have a graceful, becoming and durable hat, and at the same time a pleasant fit to the head, they will find it a more difficult matter: To find all these qualities combined visit the establishment of Mr O. D. Stewart, Burnet-st, opposite Church-st New-Brunswick. See advertisment.

THE BOSTON MURDERER.—The coroners Jury, after ten days session in hearing the evidence, which fills 80 pages of large foolscap paper, have rendered a verdict charging Doct. John W. Webster with having committed the murder betwen the hours of one and a half of the clock P. M. on the 23d. of Nov. and the hour of 4 of the clock in the afternoon of the 30th day of Nov. in the Medical college when the body was found.

XXXIst. CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—2 P. M.

In the SENATE the election of the standing Committee was postponed.

Mr Bliss delivered a message from the President.

On motion of Mr. Berrien, the Senate went into Executive session.

HOUSE.—After a brief debate the House proceeded to ballot for a speaker, with the following result:

Winthrop 70: Boyd 86; Stephens 18; Morehead 16; Potter 17; Cobb 1; Outlaw 2; Robison 1; strong 3; Carter 1; Disney 4.

The President's communication contained little except nominations, upon which there was no action.

Later from Europe.

By the arrival of the Hibernia from Europe we learn that the difficulties between Turkey and Russia are stil unsettled. Prussia and Austria are at issue, German Nationality opposed by Austria, and sustained by Prussia. The Hungarian exiles, it is feared, are about to be imprisoned in the fortress Shumia. What a disgrace to civilized nations, and especially to France, England, and the United States, to suffer such a wrong to take place. The noble Kossuth, suffered by the countrymen of Washington to be imprisoned for imitating his glorious deeds. May his spirit inspire them to demand his release.

CONCERT.

The Somerville Brass Band,

Respectfully announce to the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity that they will give a Concert of Instrumental Music, at LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield, CHRISTMAS NIGHT. Dec. 25th.

No pains has been spared by the Band to get a collection of Music which cannot fail to give entire satisfaction to all lovers of Music, viz: Marches, Quicksteps, Songs, Waltzes, Polkas, Hornpipes, &c.,

Doors open at 6 1-2 Concert at 7. Admittance 25 cts, 5 Tickets for $1. Children half price.

RAISINS, CITRON & CURRANTS.

NEW Citron 2s a pound; new dried Currants 8 cents; new Raisins only 8 cents. The right place to purchase good, new and cheap Fruits for the Holidays. PRIME FAMILY BUTTER.

☞ Extra Family Flour, by the barrel, bag, or 1s 8d and 1s 6d per 7 lbs. Also, good Orange county Butter at 1s 8d a lb; crushed Sugar 5s per 7 lbs; refined do. 4s do; New-Orleans do. 3s do; good green and black Teas for only 3s; extra flavored fresh imported black and young hyson Teas, 4s; new Lard only 8 cents; new Rice only 4 cents; and a general assortment of Groceries.

☞ White Winter Oil, warranted to stand the coldest weather, only 6 shillings per gallon. ☞

ASA PARKER, 242 BROOME-STREET,

57] (corner of LUDLOW,) NEW-YORK

IMPORTANT NEWS!

WHO would have believed it, as one of my neighbors said, that D Vail would have such a grand rush on his first appearance at the

BRICK BUILDING.

What else could you expect, when he has a general assortment in the Grocery and provision line, and selling them for cash at an unusual low profit—Young Hyson Teas, from 1s 6d to 8s per pound; Black Tea 4s and 5s; Imperial Tea worth 6s for 4s; eighteen penny butter for 1s 4d; Orange County butter for 1s 8d; new hams and smoked beef 11d per pound; Virgia bacon 1s per lb; New Orleans molasses, 2s 6d and 3s; Lamp oil 6s and 8s per gallon; Lard 10d per lb; Coffee from 10 to 1s 3d per lb; also, Raisins, Dried Currants, Fancy, Graham, Soda, Boston and Wafer Crackers, Aberneathy Biscuit, Ginger Snaps, &c., and as good an assortment of sugars as can be found in the state from 3s 6d to 5s 9d 7lbs; also the best of sugar house Molasses; and every article that belongs to a Grocery and Provision Store.

☞ Cash paid for all kinds of Poultry and Wild Game at the Brick Store opposite Ayers' Hotel.

Plainfield, Dec. 14. 1849. DAVID VAIL. [104

1850

WM. T. RUNK'S

CHEAP CLOTHING STORE.

No. 2 Patterson Block Commerce Square New-Brunswick, N.J.

FALL AND WINTER CLOTHING

Lots of Pilot Overcoats from 3 50 to $5, usually sold from 5 to 8. Blue black Beaver lined, wadded and quilted throughout, from 8 to $12 Black French Cloth, elegantly trimmed, with silk velvet collars, 14 to $20—price in many stores $25.

MEN'S SACKS.

A good article made of Glasgow Jeans and Pilot Cloths at the extreme low price of 2 50 to $4.

PELTOS & DARK SACKS,

Made from Pilot Cloths, Sweeds and other materials at 3 50 to $10—former price $12

FIGURED TWEED SACKS & PELTOS

A lot of extra made, silk collars and facings, for 6 and $8—usual price asked is from 8 to $12.

CLOAKS.

A Lot made from superior French and Wool-dye Black, very cheap, from 14 to $20.

DRESS & BROCK COATS,

A great variety of all qualities, from 7 50 to $14—usually sold at from 12 to $20

PANTALOOS.

Heavy Jeans for $1, Satinets 2 to $3, handsome stripe and Plaid for 2,50 to $4,50. also of Premium Cassimeres entirely new from 4 to $6,50—in other shops from 5 to $8.

VESTS,

Of every description of fashion, cut and quality. A genteel Winter Vest for $1. Black Satin good article for 2 25 to $3 50. Elegant stripe Velvet and Valencia, new patterns. 3 to $3 50 warranted the same as formerly cost 4to $6.

FURNISHING GOODS.

Linen Collars a good article for 12 cents. Linen Bosoms as low as 25 cents—Stocks of all kinds, some very rich fig'd Satin with bows, ruffles and long ends from 50cts to $1—usually sold for 1 50. Scarfs various kinds, from 18 cts to $3. Cravats, Braces, Gloves from 12 to 50cents. Best India Rubber Braces for 37cts, former price $1—Drawers, Undershirts, Green Jackets, &c. and an endless variety of Clothing, adapted to all classes, at a less price than ever before offered in this place, and better made than can be purchased in New-York for the same money.

Always on hand a good assortment of

French and English Broad-Cloths Cassimeres, Vestings, &c.,

WILLIAM T. RUNK.

New Brunswick, Dec. 17. 1849. [104

DRY WOOD.

First rate Seasoned Wood in quantities to suit purchasers can be had on application to

STEPHEN VAIL.

OYSTERS!

THE subscriber having taken the saloon recently occupied by James Laing, at Laing's Hall, is prepared to supply families with OYSTERS by the hundred, or opened by the quart.

N. B. Oyster Soup constantly on hand; Stews at short notice. JOHN W. FRAZEE.

Dec. 18. 1849. [56.

O. D. STEWART,

FHSHIONABLE HAT EMPORIUM

Burnet-st., New-Brunswick.

Nearty opposite Mr. John Hatfield's Store.

THE subscriber having newly fitted up his establishment in a neat and commodious manner is now prepared to furnish every thing in his line at prices to suit the times. His style of

FALL & WINTER HATS,

are the latest, and made up of the best material and splendidly finished.

CAPS! CAPS!! CAPS!!!

His Caps, both for men and boys are a tasty article and deserve attention. The styles are altered almost every month and cannot fail to please. Call and examine. O. D. STEWART.

Dec. 15. 1849. [104

WM. M. WOODHULL'S

CLOTHING DEPOT

IS now ready for inspection. The Fall and Winter Stock is complete in every particular. The goods have been purchased with the greatest care. As to style and price we are able to compete with any establishment in the sale of

READY MADE CLOTHING.

The stock comprises all that is new and desirable, cut in the most fashionable style, and made up in the best manner.

OVER COATS made from Drab, Beaver, Brown, Black, and Mixed Broad Cloths, in the latest style and of the best quality.

BUSINESS COATS of every description.

Pantaloons and Vests.

Made from the most fashionable goods in the market.

A good assortment of SHIRTS. Black and Fancy Silk Cravats, Suspenders, Woolen half hose, Gloves, Bosoms and Collars.

Valises, Trunks, Carpet Bags, &c.

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings.

Persons wishing to have their clothing got up in the best manner, and a handsome fit, are respectfully requested to call.

MR. CHARLES C. HUTCHINSON, so favorably known as a fashionable Cutter, still continues in charge of the cutting department.

☞ Remember the one price Cheap Cash Store.

No 22 Peace Street, opposite Church street.

New Brunswick, Dec. 16. 1849. [104

CAMPHENE & BURNING FLUID,

THE purest and best in the United States by the Barrel and half-barrel at the New York Manufacturers prices, Dealers will do well to buy of the undersigned. H. A. WHITNEY.

65] 163 Market-st Newark, N. J.

PATENT

SELF-SEALING ENVELOPES.

ALDERTON'S PATENT SELF-SEALING

Envelopes with Name, Occupation, and Address, or with Coats of Arms, Crests, Initials, or Devices. Manufactured only by W. ALDERTON, 295 Pearl-st. New-York.

A. ACKERMAN.

Wholesale and Retail Bookseller and Publisher.

No. 32 Burnet-st. Opposite Patterson Block.

Blank Books, Gold and Steel Pens, Pencils, School Books, Envelopes, Slates, Cards, Silver Pencils, Inks, Bibles, Wafers, Almanacs, Quills, Annuals for 1850, Portfolios, Thermometers.

And a superior assortment of English, French, Dutch and American fancy Stationery: Gold pens and pencils for Gentlemen and Ladies; Gold and Silver Ink; the monthly magazines, &c., for sale at the lowest possible prices.

A splendid assortment of Books suitable for presents, just received.

Teachers and country merchants supplied at the lowest prices.

Paper hangings and window shades for sale at greatly reduced prices.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65

NEWARK MUSEUM.

UNPRECEDENTED ATTRACTION!—Over 60,000 NATURAL CURIOSITIES!!—Being a combination of Nature and Art, from the unrivalled Mammoth of the Nile to the most minute Dwarf in Christendom!!!

At the opening of this establishment we beg leave to state to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, that we have spared no pains or expense in making our vast Hall one of splendor and magnificence. The inducements, though too numerous to mention, cannot fail to attract all lovers of variety of whatever grade in society. But as

COLD WEATHR IS COMING,

and the Printer wants a job, I'll not leave you in wonder, but will give a request to all ladies and gentlemen, young and old, to call at 85 Broad-st.

AND SEE THE FUN!

For such rattling of Stoves and clatter of Tin,
Never, in Newark before has been.
Stoves, yes, we've the Fashion, the Empire, U. S. and the Bride,
A host of gay parlors, with office beside.
But of all the fine patterns named in our invoice,
The one that ranks highest is the famed Pople's choice.

W. B. LUDLOW,

56] 85 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

A. K. CORY,

DEALER IN

WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY,

AND SILVER WARE.

No. 19 Peace-st. New-Brunswick.

HAS constantly on hand a large assortment of GOLD & SILVER WATCKES, Gold Breastpins, Earrings, Watch Keys, Finger Rings, Bracelets, Lockets, and Pens, Gold and Silver Spectacles, Pencils, Watch Guards, &c., besides an extensive lot of Gentlemen's Canes, Spectacle Cases, Razors, Strops, and every other article in the line, all of which will be sold very cheap for CASH. Also a large and general assortment of Silver Ware.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry carefully repaired, and warranted.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65.

NEW FUR STORE.

No. 96 Bowery, between Grand and Hester-streets N. Y.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and numerous customers, that he has opened with a large and handsome assortment of imported and domestic Furs, comprising a variety of Muffs, Victorines, &c. of sable, stone and all other kinds of martin, with filtch, lynx, short lynx, Issabella, and all kinds of bears, cross fox, blue fox, coney, jennet, and different kidds of Furs, too tedious to mention. which are of the choicest kind and finished in the ior manner, as he has the very best workmen that can be found in the country. He therefore flatters himself, from the judicious manner in which he has selected his stock, and the care taken in the manufacture of it, to give satisfaction to those who may favor him with their patronage.

☞ All kinds of repairing done in a workmanlike manner and with despatch. THOS. YOUNG.

STOVES! STOVES!!

CHEAP FOR CASH.

JESSEE VAIL,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

THE Subscriber having taken the Store recently occupied by Reuben Titsworth, would respectfully invite the attention of the citizens of Plainfield and surrounding country to examine his assortment of Stoves and House-keeping articles before purchasing elsewhere. If a desire to accommodate the public by a strict attention to supply their wants, and fulfil their orders punctually, be an inducement to bestow a portion of their patronage I shall be thankful therefor.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.

JESSE VAIL.

Plainfield, Dec. 14. 1849. [104

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

WINE AND LIQUOR

STORE, No. 29 FAIR-STREET, NEWARK.—The Subscriber respectfully informs the public that he still has constantly on hand at the above old established stand, a full and choice supply of all kinds

Foreign Wines and Spirits,

which he offers for sale at the lowest cash prices, and delivered to order to any part of the city or country. Brandy of every grade, Meder's Swan Gin, Irish, Scotch and Monongahela Whiskey, St. Croix and Jamaica rum, Port Malerin, Malaga, and Champagne Wines, Losey's Bitters, &c.

Philadelphia Bottled Porter and Pale Ale of the first quality; also, a very choice article of Bottled Cider, (almost, equal to Champagne,) always on hand and delivered without charge to any part of the city.

☞ A continuance of patronage is solicited.

LOUIS L. BELANT.

Largest Stock of SHAWLS in the State, at

BASSETTS!!

BROADWAY BRANCH!!

Opposite the Park, Newark, N. J.

50 New Bay State Long Shawls, just landed.
300 " Scotch Plaid do do " "
50 " Waterloo Long Shawls.
50 Rich Cashmere do do Lyons & C. best quality
100 all Wool Broche Shawls from auction. Cheap.
100 Mourning Long Shawls, very choice patterns.

Many other styles of Shawls that we are offering at reduced prices.

The largest assortment of RICH DRESS GOODS in the city.

Closing our large stock of French Merinos at cost. at BASSETTS, 132 Broad street.

Newark, Dec 11. 1849.

BRITANNIA WARE AND METALS.

LUCIUS HART,

(Late Boardman & Hart.)

MANUFACTURER AND IMPORTER of BRITANNIA WARE, No. 6. Burling Slip, offers for sale at the lowest market prices Britannia Urns, Tea and Coffee Pots, Castors, without, mould and pressed bottles, Pewter plates, platters, dishes and basins. Flagons, tankards, goblets, plates and baptismal bowls. Metallic counting-house ink stands, assorted sizes, soup ladles, table and tea-spoons, a great variety. Mantel candlesticks, chamber do. Britannia lamps Pitchers, Mugs, Tumblers and molasses cups. Planished tin coffee urns, filterers and egg boilers. Patent Table and tea-spoons, with steel handles. A full assortment of Dixon's Sheffield Britannia goods.

Particular attention paid to supplying families at retail, and evry article warranted, [65.

MUFFS, TIPPETS, &C,

SELLING OFF AT COST.

TO CLOSE THE CONCERN.

☞ The undersigned intending to change his business, will sell his entire stock of manufactured Furs, at and below cost prices. The trade and persons wanting for their own use, will do well to look in. E. L. TRUMBWELL,

56.] 27 Maiden-Lane, N. Y.

STEAM MARBLE WORKS,

Nos. 372 AND 374 GREENWICH-STREET, NEW YORK.

The subscriber, late of the old and well-known firm of Underhill & Ferris, offers for sale at the old establishment, as above, the most extensive and beautiful assortment of superior MARBLE MANTELS, sculpured and plain, in the latest and most fashionable styles, and at the lowest prices Also,

MONUMENTS,

And ornamental Marble Works of all kinds.

☞ He has lately erected a new and powerful Steam Mill, (equal to any in this country) and constantly keeps on hand quantities of Marble to supply the Trade, on liberal terms, either with slabs or blocks. JOHN H. FERRIS. [104

GUTTA PERCHA MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.

No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by

E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark.

ALL IMPORTANT,

TO those who wish garments to fit and give satisfaction: Mr. E. B. TITSWORTH will be found always on hand, to cut garments to order at the shortest notice, at the old stand opposite the Mountain road; where may be found constantly a good assortment of

Coats, Pants, Vests, &c.,

Cheap for cash. I. S. DUNHAM.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

ATTENTION!

The Whole World and half of Staten Island.

THE fact is passed into a proverb that "our's is as cheap as the cheapest," and that at I. S. DUNHAM'S may be found as good a general assortment of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,

as at the next place, and upon as accommodating terms; the public are respectfully invited to give him a call at the old stand opposite the Mountan Road.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

A LARGE BEAR

HAVING been killed some weeks since in Sussex county, the circumstance is said to be (by the oldest inhabitant) a precursor of a severe winter. Those in want of Furs of any kind will call on mills and select while the assortment is full.

Muffs, Cuffs, Victorines, Neck-Ties, Buffalo Robes, &c.

Old Furs repaired. JOHN MILLS,

202 Broad-st., opposite the Common.

Newark Dec. 1, 1849.

CHILDREN'S MUFFS.

A Small lot of beautiful Muffs for small children—Also Victorines to match, at

MILLS'S 202 Broad-st. Newark.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 19 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.

102.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,

CHEAP

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT

SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by

ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.

WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by

E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments warranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.

Dec. 28. 1849. [102.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—JOHN HIGGINS, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

☞ Several new advertisments and notices are unavoidably crowded out.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND, No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,

332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2.50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15.00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3.50 to 6.00
Fancy " "	2.50 to 5.00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1.50 to 3.00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2.00 to 5.00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3.00 to 4.00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1.00 to 2.00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3.00 to 20.00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500 No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield. New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. S. BROOKS.

Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1840. [72.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church

---

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schench, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours respectfully, AB'M. C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; also by J. R. Swallow, General agent 128 Fulton-st. New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas ane West Indies. [77.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N. J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk Pa, and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, light case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

OYSTERS!

THE subscriber having taken the saloon recently occupied by James Laing, at Laing's Hall, is prepared to supply families with OYSTERS by the hundred, or opened by the quart.

N. B. Oyster Soup constantly on hand; Stews at short notice. JOHN W. FRAZEE.

Dec. 18. 1849. [56.

O. D. STEWART,
FHSHIONABLE HAT EMPORIUM
Burnêt-st., New-Brunswick.

Nearty opposite Mr. John Hatfield's Store.

THE subscriber having newly fitted up his establishment in a neat and commodious manner is now prepared to furnish every thing in his line at prices to suit the times. His style of

FALL & WINTER HATS,

are the latest, and made up of the best material and splendidly finished.

CAPS! CAPS!! CAPS!!!

His Caps, both for men and boys are a tasty article and deserve attention. The styles are altered almost every month and cannot fail to please. Call and examine. O. D. STEWART.

Dec. 15. 1849. [104

WM. M. WOODHULL'S
CLOTHING DEPOT

IS now ready for inspection. The Fall and Winter Stock is complete in every particular. The goods have been purchased with the greatest care. As to style and price we are able to compete with any establishment in the sale of

READY MADE CLOTHING.

The stock comprises all that is new and desirable, cut in the most fashionable style, and made up in the best manner.

OVER COATS made from Drab, Beaver, Brown, Black, and Mixed Broad Cloths, in the latest style and of the best quality.

BUSINESS COATS of every description.

Pantaloons and Vests.

Made from the most fashionable goods in the market.

A good assortment of SHIRTS. Black and Fancy Silk Cravats, Suspenders, Woolen half hose, Gloves, Bosoms and Collars.

Valises, Trunks, Carpet Bags, &c.

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings.

Persons wishing to have their clothing got up in the best manner, and a handsome fit, are respectfully requested to call.

MR. CHARLES C. HUTCHINSON, so favorably known as a fashionable Cutter, still continues in charge of the cutting department.

☞ Remember the one price Cheap Cash Store.

No 22 Peace Street, opposite Church street.

New Brunswick, Dec. 16. 1849. [104

CAMPHENE & BURNING FLUID,

THE purest and best in the United States by the Barrel and half-barrel at the New York Manufacturers prices, Dealers will do well to buy of the undersigned. H. A. WHITNEY.

65] 163 Market-st Newark, N. J.

PATENT

SELF-SEALING ENVELOPES.

ALDERTON'S PATENT — SELF-SEALING

Envelopes with Name, Occupation, and Address, or with Coats of Arms, Crests, Initials, or Devices. Manufactured only by W. ALDERTON, 295 Pearl-st. New-York.

A. ACKERMAN.

Wholesale and Retail Bookseller and Publisher.

No. 32 Burne.-st. Opposite Patterson Block.

Blank Books, Gold and Steel Pens, Pencils, School Books, Envelopes, Slates, Cards, Silver Pencils, Inks, Bibles, Wafers, Almanacs, Quills, Annuals for 1850, Portfolios, Thermometers.

And a superior assortment of English, French, Dutch and American fancy Stationery; Gold pens and pencils for Gentlemen and Ladies; Gold and Silver Ink; the monthly magazines, &c., for sale at the lowest possible prices.

A splendid assortment of Books suitable for presents, just received.

Teachers and country merchants supplied at the lowest prices.

Paper hangings and window shades for sale at greatly reduced prices.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65

NEWARK MUSEUM.

UNPRECEDENTED ATTRACTION!—Over 60,000 NATURAL CURIOSITIES!!—Being a combination of Nature and Art, from the unrivalled Mammoth of the Nile to the most minute Dwarf in Christendom!!!

At the opening of this establishment we beg leave to state to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, that we have spared no pains or expense in making our vast Hall one of splendor and magnificence. The inducements, though too numerous to mention, cannot fail to attract all lovers of variety of whatever grade in society. But as

COLD WEATHER IS COMING,

and the Printer wants a job, I'll not leave you in wonder, but will give a request to all ladies and gentlemen, young and old, to call at 85 Broad-st.

AND SEE THE FUN!

For such rattling of Stoves and clatter of Tin,
Never, in Newark before has been.
Stoves, yes, we've the Fashion, the Empire, U. S. and the Bride,
A host of gay parlors, with office beside.
But of all the fine patterns named in our invoice,
The one that ranks highest is the famed Pople's choice.

W. B. LUDLOW,

56] 85 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

A. K. CORY,
DEALER IN WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY,
AND SILVER WARE.
No. 19 Peace-st. New-Brunswick.

HAS constantly on hand a large assortment of GOLD & SILVER WATCKES, Gold Breast-pins, Earrings, Watch Keys, Finger Rings, Bracelets, Lockets, and Pens, Gold and Silver Spectacles, Pencils, Watch Guards, &c., besides an extensive lot of Gentlemen's Canes, Spectacle Cases, Razors, Strops, and every other article in the line, all of which will be sold very cheap for CASH. Also a large and general assortment of Silver Ware.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry carefully repaired, and warranted.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65.

NEW FUR STORE.
No. 96 Bowery, between Grand and Hester-streets N. Y.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and numerous customers, that he has opened with a large and handsome assortment of imported and domestic Furs, comprising a variety of Muffs, Victorines, &c. of sable, stone and all other kinds of martin, with filtch, lynx, short lynx, Issabella, and all kinds of bears, cross fox, blue fox, coney, jennet, and different kidds of Furs, too tedious to mention. All of which are of the choicest kind and finished in superior manner, as he has the very best workmen that can be found in the country. He therefore flatters himself, from the judicious manner in which he has selected his stock, and the care taken in the manufacture of it, to give satisfaction to those who may favor him with their patronage.

☞ All kinds of repairing done in a workmanlike manner and with despatch. THOS. YOUNG.

STOVES! STOVES!!
CHEAP FOR CASH.
JESSEE VAIL,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

THE Subscriber having taken the Store recently occupied by Reuben Titsworth, would respectfully invite the attention of the citizens of Plainfield and surrounding country to examine his assortment of Stoves and House-keeping articles before purchasing elsewhere. If a desire to accommodate the public by a strict attention to supply their wants, and fulfil their orders punctually, be an inducement to bestow a portion of their patronage I shall be thankful therefor.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.

JESSE VAIL.

Plainfield, Dec. 14. 1849. [104

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

WINE AND LIQUOR

STORE. No. 29 FAIR-STREET, NEWARK.—The Subscriber respectfully informs the public that he still has constantly on hand at the above old established stand, a full and choice supply of all kinds

Foreign Wines and Spirits,

which he offers for sale at the lowest cash prices, and delivered to order to any part of the city or country. Brandy of every grade, Meder's Swan Gin, Irish, Scotch and Monongahela Whiskey, St. Croix and Jamaica rum, Port Madeira, Malaga, and Champagne Wines, Losey's Bitters, &c.

Philadelphia Bottled Porter and Pale Ale of the first quality; also, a very choice article of Bottled Cider, (almost, equal to Champagne,) always on hand and delivered without charge to any part of the city.

☞ A continuance of patronage is solicited.

LOUIS L. BELANT.

Largest Stock of SHAWLS in the State, at

BASSETTS!!

BROADWAY BRANCH!!
Opposite the Park, Newark, N. J.

50 New Bay State Long Shawls, just landed.
300 " Scotch Plaid do do " "
50 " Waterloo Long Shawls.
50 Rich Cashmere do do Lyons & Co. best quality
100 all Wool Broche Shawls from auction. Cheap.
100 Mourning Long Shawls, very choice patterns.

Many other styles of Shawls that we are offering at reduced prices.

The largest assortment of RICH DRESS GOODS in the city.

Closing our large stock of French Merinos at cost. at BASSETTS, 132 Broad street.

Newark, Dec 11. 1849.

BRITANNIA WARE AND METALS.

LUCIUS HART,

(Late Boardman & Hart.)

MANUFACTURER AND IMPORTER of BRITANNIA WARE, No. 6. Burling Slip, offers for sale at the lowest market prices, Britannia Urns, Tea and Coffee Pots, Castors, without mould and pressed bottles, Pewter plates, platters, dishes and basins. Flagons, tankards, goblets, plates and baptismal bowls. Metallic counting-house ink stands, assorted sizes, soup ladles, table and tea-spoons, a great variety. Mantel candlesticks, chamber do. Britannia lamps Pitchers, Mugs, Tumblers and molasses cups. Planished tin coffee urns, filterers and egg boilers. Patent Table and tea-spoons, with steel handles. A full assortment of Dixon's Sheffield Britannia goods.

Particular attention paid to supplying families at retail, and every article warranted, [65.

MUFFS, TIPPETS, &C,
SELLING OFF AT COST.

TO CLOSE THE CONCERN.

☞ The undersigned intending to change his business, will sell his entire stock of manufactured Furs, at and below cost prices. The trade and persons wanting for their own use, will do well to look in. E. L. TREDWELL,

56.] 27 Maiden-Lane, N. Y.

STEAM MARBLE WORKS.

Nos. 372 AND 374 GREENWICH-STREET, NEW YORK.

The subscriber, late of the old and well-known firm of Underhill & Ferris, offers for sale at the old establishment, as above, the most extensive and beautiful assortment of superior MARBLE MANTELS, sculptured and plain, in the latest and most fashionable styles, and at the lowest prices. Also,

MONUMENTS,

And ornamental Marble Works of all kinds.

☞ He has lately erected a new and powerful Steam Mill, (equal to any in this country) and constantly keeps on hand quantities of Marble to supply the Trade, on liberal terms, either with slabs or blocks. JOHN H. FERRIS. [104

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

80] AGENS & Co.

No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having then to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by

E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark,

ALL IMPORTANT,

TO those who wish garments to fit and give satisfaction: Mr. E. B. TITSWORTH will be found always on hand, to cut garments to order at the shortest notice, at the old stand opposite the Mountain road; where may be found constantly a good assortment of

Coats, Pants, Vests, &c.,

Cheap for cash. I. S. DUNHAM.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

ATTENTION!
The Whole World and half of Staten Island.

THE fact is passed into a proverb that "our's is as cheap as the cheapest," and that at I. S. DUNHAM'S may be found as good a general assortment of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,

as at the next place, and upon as accommodating terms; the public are respectfully invited to give him a call at the old stand opposite the Mountan Road.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

A LARGE BEAR

HAVING been killed some weeks since in Sussex county, the circumstance is said to be (by the oldest inhabitant) a precursor of a severe winter. Those in want of Furs of any kind will call on mills and select while the assortment is full.

Muffs, Cuffs, Victorines, Neck-Ties, Buffalo Robes, &c.

Old Furs repaired. JOHN MILLS,

202 Broad-st., opposite the Common.

Newark Dec. 1, 1849.

CHILDREN'S MUFFS.

A Small lot of beautiful Muffs for small children—Also Victorines to match, at

MILLS'S 202 Broad-st. Newark.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 19 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.

102.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,
CHEAP
CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,
252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT

SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by

ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,
DEALERS IN
FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.
80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.

WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by

E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!
354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments warranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.

Dec. 23. 1849. [102.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—JOHN HIGGINS, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing. All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

☞ Several new advertisments and notices are unavoidably crowded out.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.
MRS. S. MACKNETS,
OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,
No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfuly solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,

332 Broad-st. opposte the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchasod principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15.00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3.50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1.50 to 3.00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3.00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN,

54.] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

REAL ESTATE,
Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No. 1, 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500. No. 2. 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn, Land good, Fruit, Wood and Water, price $3,500. No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500 No. 4. 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No. 6. 100 acres of good Land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre. No 8. 84 acres of good Land. House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot. No. 10. 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12. 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit. No. 13. about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No. 15. 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield; 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st. 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard 80 acres good Land, near town, $30 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad. 108 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerille.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No. 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey. ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. S. BROOKS.

Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1840. [72.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church

---

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.
FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &
OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,
27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price.

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60.] J. C BOOTH & CO.

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR. S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours respectfully, AB'M. C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street, Philadelphia; also by J. R. Swallow, General agent 128 Fulton-st. New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas ane West Indies. [77.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,
OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N J. Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk Pa, and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

UNDERTAKING.
COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webstor & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [51.

REVOLUTION IN PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

HOLDEN'S ILLUSTRATED DOLLAR MAGAZINE.

Since the death of the projector of this popular magazine, the property has passed into the hands of the subscriber, who will continue to publish it at the publication office, 109 Nassau-street, New-York. To be commenced on the first of January, 1850, will comprise many important improvements, which, it is believed, will render the magazine one of the best periodicals published in the country, as it certainly is the cheapest. Among these improvements will be new and beautiful type, fine calendered paper, a higher order of illustrations than those heretofore given, and contributions from some of the most able writers in America. It is the aim of the proprietor to publish a popular magazine, adapted to the wants of all classes of reading people in the republic, that shall be both instructive and amusing; and free alike from the grossness which characterizes much of the cheap literature of the day, and from the vapidity of the so-called 'Ladies' Magazines.' The illustrations will consist of original drawings engraved on wood by the best artists, portraits of remarkable persons, and views of remarkable places, illustrated by pen and pencil. A strict revision will be exercised that no improper article, or word, shall ever be admitted, so that it may be safely taken by persons of the utmost refinement, and read at the fireside for the amusement or instruction of the family circle.

The review department of the magazine will contain brief critical notices of all the new publications of the day, and will form a complete chronicle of current literature.

From the business and literary connexions already established, the best assistance that the country can afford will be secured for completing the plans of the publisher, and nothing will be wanting that ample pecuniary resources and watchful industry can obtain to make the magazine the leading literary periodical of America.

The extremely low rate at which it is published precludes the hope of profit, except from a circulation greater than that which any literary periodical has ever yet attained; but, with the new avenues daily opening for the circulation of works of merit; the constantly increasing population of the country; the cheapness of the magazine, and the superiority of its literary and artistic attractions to those of any other work now issued; the proprietor fearlessly engages in an enterprize which will be sure to benefit the public, if it should not enrich himself.

The magazine will be under the editorial charge and supervision of Charles F. Briggs, who has been connected with it from the beginning.

The 'Pulpit Portraits,' a series of biographical sketches, accompanied by well-engraved portraits of eminent divines of the American churches, which have formed a conspicuous feature of 'Holden,' will be continued in the succeeding volumes of the magazine, and will render it of peculiar value to religious people of every denomination.

The fifth volume will commence on the 1st of January next, but will be issued on the 15th of December. Each number will consist of 64 pages, and numerous engravings.

☞ The terms are: One Dollar a year in advance. The magazine will be plainly and carefully directed, and sent by mail at the risk of the subscriber. As each number will be stereotyped, missing or lost numbers can be at any time supplied when ordered, but will be deducted from the time for which payment has been received. Remittances may be sent at the risk of the proprietor, provided a description of the bills are taken, and enclosed in the presence of the postmaster as evidence of the fact.

Five copies will be furnished for $4, and 20 copies for $15. Nos. for the year 1848, excepting the month of January, will be furnished at 4 cents each, and bound volumes in cloth, with gilt edge, from July to December exclusive, at $1 each.

Letters must be addressed to 'Holden's Dollar Magazine, No. 109 Nassau-street, New-York,' and post-paid in all cases.

WM. H. DIETZ, Proprietor.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock.

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (post-paid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums theron	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,770

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H. Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer.

ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

64.] Office, 294 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action: to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted, very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY,
No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq., late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.
L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept. 3. 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy; her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters; in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st
Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st., New York, Up stairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜
November 1849. [98.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c. &c. &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜
E. KIRKPATRICK.
Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery.

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.
TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct. 17. 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Brandreth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

☞ THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.
JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.
May 1. 1849. [71.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon; L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa. Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinete Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics. It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st. under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

CHAIN PUMPS.

THE best machine for raising water, in use.—This Pump has many advantages over any other in use on account of its simplicity of construction, being made wholly of wood and galvanized iron, not liable to get out of order or to get deranged in any way. It can never freeze in winter, and can be put in wells of any depth.

It takes less power to work it than any other machine, to raise the same amount of water.

It is never obstructed by gravel or sand; it keeps the water perfectly sweet and fresh; the action of the chain mixes the gasses with the water always keeping it lively and fresh; on ceasing to work it, the water in the tube descends to the level of the water in the well; on commencing to work the pump, the first water that is drawn is from the bottom of the well.

☞ This pump received the premium at the late Essex county fair.

These Pumps may be had at the Pump Factory of S. B. Miller, 340 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.
63.] E. W. WHITEHEAD, Superintendent.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.
October 30. 1849. [52.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, thst he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by
FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.
N. B. Chairs bottomed.
Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.
54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes, public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.
FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.
LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TIRAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

KEEP WARM.

JOHN LUTZ'S CHEAP CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT, Collet Hall, Elizabethtown. The subscriber respectfully advises persons in want of a good warm Coat, Pants, Vest, Shirt, Under Shirt, Drawers, Handkerchief, Cravat, Suspenders, Gloves, &c. to call and examine his large assortment of ready made Clothining of every description which he offers for sale chaper than any other store in the city. All garments warranted to fit or no sale. Remember,
JOHN LUTZ, Collet Hall.

TO FARMERS.

Wheeler's Patent Improved Portable

Railroad Horse-Power, Thresher and Seperator—The advantages of the above horse-powers, are: 1. They occupy but little more space than a single horse. 2. They can be moved by the weight of the horse only, by placing them at an angle of 10 or 15 degrees. 3. They are comparitively light and portable, and can be easily transported. They are simply constructed, not liable to get out of order, and move with little friction, the revolving plane gearing without any complex or intermediate wheels directly into the pinion upon the shaft on which the pulley belt runs.

The Threshers consists of a small spiked cylinder with a concave plane over it, and a level feeding table. There are several improvements in the overshot thresher: 1. They admit of a level table for feeding, thus enabling the tenders to stand erect and control the motion of the horse and machine by means of a brake, by which accidents are avoided. 2. In consequence of the spikes lifting the straw and doing the work on the top, heavy substances such as stones, blocks, &c. drop at the end of the table, and are not carried between the spikes, by which they and the machine are broken. 3. The overshot cylinder does not scatter the grain, but throws it within three feet of the machine. 4. This arrangement also admits of attaching a separator high enough from the floor or ground to allow all the grain to fall through it, while the straw is deposited by itself in the best condition for binding. 5. Neither grain nor straw are broken by this machine. 6. The cylinder is longer, which admits of faster and more advantageous feeding; it is smaller and with fewer teeth than ordinary threshers, thus admitting of more rapid motion and faster work with less power; and the diminution of teeth in the cylinder is fully made up by those in the concave which is stationary. 7. The separator is a great advantage in diminishing the labor of raking out the straw, as it leaves the grain in the best condition for the fanning mill. Three men with a single power can thresh from 75 to 100 bushels of wheat or rye; or four men with a double power 175 to 225 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity of oats or buckwheat per day. All the above are compact and can be carried where wanted complete, or they may be readily taken apart and packed for distant transportation by a wagon or otherwise.

Price of a single Power	$80
" Thresher	28
" Separator and fixtures	7
" Bands for driving, &c	5
" Saw-mill complete and in running order	35

The price of the double-power thresher, separator, &c. complete, is $145, including rights of using. The above are sold singly or together as desired.

The above power is warranted to work well and give satisfaction.

Having been appointed agent for the sale of the above machines they cannot be obtained at any other house in the city; therefore, we caution the public against buying machines represented to be of Wheeler's Patent, as none are genuine except those branded "Wheeler's Patent, July 8, 1848.'—N. B. We have together with the above a large assortment of agricultural implements.
JOHN MAYHER & CO.
195 Front-st. N. Y.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,
Fire Board prints in great variety,
Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,
Transparent Window Shades,
Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City.

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.
DAVID FREEMAN.
Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

By William M. Drake & Son. | Freedom to all opinions candidly expressed. | One Dollar and twenty-five cents per year.

VOLUME II. NO. 2. | PLAINFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY, N. J., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1849. | WHOLE NO. 54.

THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY, BY

William M. Drake & Son.

☞ Printing Office in Front-st. opposite the 2nd. Presbyterian Church.

TERMS.—To Village Subscribers, One Dollar and Twenty-Five Cents per annum, payable in advance.

Mail Subscribers One Dollar per annum payable in advance.

Fifty cents will be added to the above rates if not paid in advance.

☞ No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid, except at the option of the publishers.

Advertisements will be conspicuously inserted, not exceeding 16 lines,

One insertion,	37 cents.
Two insertions,	62 "
One month,	$1 00
Two months,	1 75
Three "	2 25
Six "	3 50
One year	6 00

☞ Those who wish to contract for a more extended privilege are invited to call on the publishers or their agent.

Job Printing

NEATLY EXECUTED AT THE LOWEST CASH PRICES.

DOCT. PEARSON'S

PULMONIC EXPECTORANT,

FOR the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption of the Lungs, Influenza, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pain in the Breast, spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, Croup or Hives, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, and every other disease of the Lung and the Breast.

This invaluable medicine should be in the possession of every family. In a country where the continual and sudden changes of the atmosphere, from heat to cold, and from cold to heat, render the inhabitants extremely liable to diseases of the Lungs and Breast, it is of the most vital importance that every one should be in possession of a remedy that shall at once effectually and permanently cut short those diseases, and restore the patient to health. The first symptom of cold or influenza should be immediately attacked and reduced by some remedy that has power over the disease. The medicine which has the most complete control over these diseases, and will most speedily restore the health of the patient is

PEARSON'S PULMONIC EXPECTORANT.

The following Card of three respectable phisicians sets forth the virtues of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant. 'Having made use of Dr. Pearson's pulmonic Expectorant, we feel it a duty to recommend it as a safe and effectual cure for the various diseases for which it is intended. We are acquainted with many persons who have been cured of Cough, Bronchitis, pain in the breast and side, spitting blood, palpitation of the heart, and incipient consumption, by its use, and many of them after all other means had failed.'

A. Fearson, M. D. U. S Navy; S. K. Leedem, M. D. Champlain Co., Ohio; W. R. Cadwallader, M. D. U. S. Navy.

Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam

Is decidedly the most beneficial remedy for the cure of Dysentary, Cholera Morbus and Summer complaint, that is known to man. Parents will find it the best medicine that can be used for young children and infants. And every person who is travelling in the summer months should not be without a bottle of it in their possession; as it is an infalliable remedy against the change produced in the system by drinking bad water.

We annex the following certificate of Mrs. A. M. Sanford, of New York, in reference to the Carminative Balsam. We might add a long list, but consider this sufficient.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pearson's Carminative Balsam, and confidently believe it to be the best medicine that can be used for the various diseases for which it is recommended, and recommend it to the ladies who are travelling in summer months, and to mothers for the fretting and crying of infants for which it is a certain cure.

MRS. A. M. SANFORD,
No. 160 East Broadway N. Y.

The proprietor of the above valuable medicines, as also of Dr. Pearson's Barber's Embrocation for Horses, being himself a Physician and graduate of one of the best medical schools in the U. S. and having had the advantage of years of experience in an extensive practice, is therefore from the practical knowledge which he has acquired, well qualified to prescribe those remedies, and restore the patient to sound health.

Prepared only by S. A. Pearson M. D., and for sale wholesale and retail, at No. 106 North 4th street Philadelphia. Also, by J. R. Swallow, General Agent, No. 123 Fulton-st. N. Y., by whom all orders for the above medicines will be promptly attended to.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M. F. Cushing, sold also by Druggists and country storekeepers generally throughout the United States Canadas and West Indies.

WATCHES, CLOCKS.

AND JEWELRY.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform his friends an the public generally, that he has purchased and fitted up the building opposite

LAING'S HALL, in Plainfield,

Where he intends to devote his whole attention to the repairing and cleaning of CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, GUNS, &c &c. A general assortment of

CLOCKS, WATCHES, JEWELRY,

CUTLERY, &c., together with an assortment of Gun Accoutrements constantly on hand, all of which he will sell cheap for cash as can be had elsewhere.

☞ All Clocks and Watches entrusted to his care, will be repaired or cleaned in a superior manner, and at the shortest notice, cheap for Cash. ☞

MOSES P. DEMMINGS.

Plainfield, Oct. 1849. [82.

WHO

WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT.

THE subscribers having commenced business under the firm of FRENCH & BRYAN, have taken the store on the corner of Front street and the Mountain Road, formerly occupied by John Briant, where they intend keeping for sale all kinds of Merchandize, cosisting in

DRY GOODS,

of Ladie's and Gentlemen's substantial wearing apparel with a full assortment of articles of a more fanciful character, together with all kinds of GROCERIES, such as Flour, Butter, Molasses, Sugar, Tea, Coffee, Pepper, Ginger, and all such articles as are required by persons of family; with a well selected variety of Crockery, Glass and Hardware which they will sell as cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best. ☞ Terms Cash or Country Produce.

PHINEAS M. FRENCH,
FREDERICK H. BRYAN,

Plainfield, Aug. 28. 1849

WRITTEN FOR THE PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

In the year 1820 Henry Grafton and myself were schoolmates in a neighboring city. He was the only son of a widow lady of respectable connections, and his amiable disposition secured for him the love and respect of all who knew him. I disliked severe study and although I could read and spell very correctly, for arithmetic I had a great distaste and in it could make no progress. Our master was one of the severest pedagogues that ever wielded a rattan and drank bad brandy. My heart yet aches when I remember how this tyrant mangled the limbs of delicate children with a rattan, which he used with terrible power. Wo to the luckless lad whom he caught playing pin, or eating apples or roast corn. Henry was very quick at figures, and as we sat side by side, he aided me in my arithmetic, while I amused him by making "faces" at the master, and drawing his "mug" on my slate.

I have seen the world "in the rough" since the period of which I write. Many dark days and stormy nights have I encountered; the friends of my youth are far scattered, or lie in peace beneath the turf of the churchyard; and at times I grieve that my task is not accomplished that I might also be at rest; but amid all the trials of life the remembrance of Harry's friendship has been more precious than the possession of much gold and silver, or the applause of my fellows.

Harry was blessed with an only sister, who loved him as her own soul. It was not in her nature to slight any one whom he regarded with favor; and as he was ever eloquent in my praise, Mary—for this was the angel's name—soon looked upon me as one of her most intimate friends. It is not my intention, however, to dwell on this part of my subject, but to speak briefly of an event which in a moment blasted the happiness of this lovely family.

One beautiful mornining in the latter part of May, Mary, Harry and myself had taken a long walk, and, after returning to the house of my friends, Mrs. Gafton spoke of a contemplated visit to the country with her children and urged me to accompany them. I need hardly say that the invitation was joyfully accepted. When we arrived at school, the pedagogue was whipping a small boy for coming late, and, as he had drank an unusual quantity of brandy that mornig, he was extremely brutual. As we passed him he demanded of Harry in an offensive manner why he came so late; and at the same moment struck him a severe blow on his shoulder. Never shall I forget the looks of the latter at the moment; his eyes fairly sparkled and the veins of his forehead swelled almost to bursting, under the indignity and pain he suffered. With one spring he seized the rattan, and quick as the lightning's flash he made it crack over the head and shoulders of the drunken teacher. When young Nickleby flogged Squeers at Dotheboys Hall, he was not more deserving of immortality than was Harry for chastising one who was, if possible, more hard-hearted and worthless than him whom Dickens has held upto the execration of mankind.

I am forced to cofess that hundreds of bright eyes smiled, and many young hearts beat quicker, while Harry was using that rattan, with severe effect, on the body of its owner. He assured me afterwards that when he occasionally thought of relenting, the remembrance of some comrade whose tender limbs had been torn by this instrument, nerved him to the task, and it was not until he became exhausted that the pedagogue was suffered to escape.

Such an unusual proceeding on the part of a pupil in a large school, made a great stir in the city. At that time the rattan was in general use, and many parents believed children could not be taught if they were not occasionally whipped. The public knew but little of the sufferings of thousands of children, at the hands of hard-hearted, brutal teachers. O, how many times my blood has boiled at witnessing lads of six to ten years of age with limbs bruised and mangled by men who were so harsh as to be unfit to drive oxen. It is a favorable sign that "There's a good time coming" that the rattan is now generally banished from our schools.

—The rage of the pedagogue was uncontrolable; he would listen to no proposition from the friends of Harry, but determined to effect his ruin, if possible, by a criminal prosecution. I will not dwell on the events of the trial, nor speak of the grief of Mrs. Grafton and Mary to see one whom they loved so tenderly hurried into court to meet the serious charges brought against him. Able council had boen employed, and for three days the crowded court-room bore testimony to the interest taken in the fate of one who had, instead of being flogged, merely, flogged one who richly deserved all he received. The fact that Harry had committed an assault and battery could not be denied; and we were not therefore surprised at the conclusion. Mrs, Grafton, although her friends had endeavored to prepare her mind for the result, was crushed as by a thunderbolt.—When, in answer to the clerk who asked the jury for their verdict, the foreman replied "guilty," she uttered one piercing shriek, and fell to the floor.

—It was many months before she was able to lift her head from her pillow, and when, in reply to her question concerning Henry, Mary related that he had placed on board of a man-of-war at the close of the trial—instead of being sent to prison—she merely replied that she hoped to meet him in heaven, and giving Mary's hand a gentle squeeze, resigned her spirit to Him who gave it.

I had been absent from the city for a few months, and on my return hastened to the residence of Mary's aunt, with whom she had lived since the death of her mother. I was ushered into the front parlor, and was informed that the lady of the house could not be seen as she had just returned from the funeral of her niece. I well knew the young lady to whom he referred was my own Mary, and, unwilling to let the servant be a witness of my emotion, I immediately took my leave. It was but too true! Mary Grafton, the loved and good and beautiful, had fallen a victim to that scourge of our race, consumption—hasty consumption, as some call it, having been confined to her bed but a single week! The worm had gnawed away the heart of the plant, and the beautiful flower quickly withered and fell to the earth.

Mary and her mother sleep side by side in a village churchyard, not many miles distant; and a small weeping willow which, nearly thirty years since, was planted at their feet, has now become a large tree. I never pass the place without emotion, and as long as memory is faithful to its trust; the friends who repose beneath its branches shall not lack for one to revere their virtues and mourn their untimely end.

J. A. C.

[FROM PETERSON'S MAGAZINE.]

THE TIFF;

OR, JEREMY SHORT GIVING IN HIS EXPERIENCE.

"As thistles wear the softest down,
To hide their prickles till they're grown,
And then declare themselves, and tear
Whatever ventures to come near."—HUDIBRAS.

How are you, my dear fellow?—John, a chair for Mr. Graham—excuse my rising, you see I'm gouty—beef-steaks and bumpers have done it at last, and, though only eighty-seven, I'm really beginning to feel old.'

'Sorry to hear it, Jeremy! But you look quite hearty yet. Ah! what have you there?—'Shirley,' I vow a good novel isn't it?'

'Passable, my young friend, but inferior to 'Jane Eyre.' Caroline Helstone the principal heroine, is a little angel; but in Shirley herself there's a cross of the devil I'm afraid. Her husband led a dog's life of it, if the truth was but known. She reminds me of the heroine of that picture—the one over the mantel-piece 'The Tiff,' I call it.'

'I have often heard you say, Jeremy, that there was a story connected with it. Tell us the tale.'

'Well—stir up the fire—take a cheroot. John, retire till you're called—and now, my dear lad, we'll be as cosy for the rest of the evening, as if we'd just eaten a Tanksgiving dinner, and had had our fill of boiled turkey and oyster sauce. 'Blessed be the man,' as Sancho Panza says of sleep, that first invented turkeys—though to my taste, it would be better if they all ran about, ready boiled, swimming in gravy and oysters. But to my tale.

'When I was about twenty—that was in the year 1783—cotemporaneous, I believe, with your granfather's marriage—I knew as pretty a girl as ever sewed a sampler on week-days, or carried her prayer-book on Sunday to church.

'Bella Belgrave was the beauty of the district. Her step was like a dryard's might be supposed to be; her eyes were as dazling as the sun at noon-day; her lips were fragrant as strawberries, and twice as sweet; and her voice—sir, if you could have heard it, you would have fancied that a nightingale had nestled in her throat, or that St. Cecilia herself was come down from heaven. At twenty a man falls in love as naturally as he takes to smoking: and he does both, I suppose, to prove himself full-grown. Well, I soon lost my heart to Bella. Nor was my suit hopeless. I am handsome yet as you see—don't laugh at me, you young scapegrace—and, of couse, I was handsome at twenty. I Wrote poetry, too, which won girls' hearts just as a moustache does now; and I had a pretty little fortune: so I was soon the accept ed lover of Bella.

'Bella possessed but one fault. She had a deuce of a temper. Now a little sharpness in a wife occasionally may be very excellent, just to spice the monotony of matrimony, as mustard spices beef; but too much of it is as bad as spilling the contents of a whole pepper-box in your plate when you had just taken the last bit of what was nice on the table. Not that Bella was what is called quick-tempered—I often wished she had been—for it's better to blow off superabundant steam now and then, than to keep it screwed stubbornly down, till some day a grand explosion takes place, that sends everything to kingdom come. Unfortunately, Bella both took offence easily, and then 'nursed her wrath to keep it warm.' She had been so much petted that nothing short of abject slavery on the part of a lover would suit her: and i'fath, I grew tired of it at last as you shall hear.

'One day I had been singing to her a ballad she had asked me to write to some of her music, when one of her friends came in—a dashing little creature she was—since a great-grandmother, my lad, with three hundred and fifty lineal descendants, egad—and I, as in duty bound, did my best to be agreeable. Scarcely, however, had the visitor gone, when Bella, with a face like a thunder-cloud, began—

''Mighty sociable you and Alice Green are,' she said, 'I suppose you're half in love with her yet; I always heard you were her most devoted admirer.'

''Now Bella,' I said, 'don't be jealous——'

''Jealous!' she exclaimed, stamping her little foot, while her eyes flashed fire, 'it's time to be jealous, sir, when every pretty face you meet tempts you to neglect me: but I'm not jealous—I'm only ashamed of you sir.'

''My dear, lovely creature,' I began again, trying to take her hand. But she jerked it pettishly away.

''Don't dear me,' she broke forth—'you know you don't love me; you never come here more than once a day, while Harry Saville, whom I dismissed for you—more fool was I—used to be here three times a day, and always dined with us on Sundays.'

'I began to grow red in the face, I assure you, at being thus talked to; but I mastered my rage—you know I'm a meek man, its because of that I was chosen president of the Peace Society—and said meekly—

''Bella, dear, dont be foolish! I love you better than all the rest of your sex put together: but you musn't expect me to neglect, nay, insult by my rudeness, every other woman I meet. Once for all, let this be understood betwen us.'

'Woman's rights were not yet thought of, my boy, and wives were expected to obey their husbands, as nature and Scripture command. I deemed it high time I was asserting my prerogative: and spoke accordingly.

''Yes!' I reapeated, 'you are unjust: you ask too much, my dear Bella.'

'She made no answer; but sat sullen and sulky. I again attempted to take her hand, and, thinking I had spoken too harshly, used a tone of mild persuasion. But she only replied by jerking her hand away, and removing her chair from me. I expostulated with her; I told her how idle was her jealousy; but, the more earnestly I defended myself, the further she hitched her chair around, until, at last, she brought its back directly against that of mine.

'I now gave up explanations; and sat silent on my part. Her pettishness began to open my eyes. She had always been unreasonably exacting; her vanity forever ran ahead of possible attentions; and the jealousy, thus unjustly entertained, yet continually smothered by her sullen temper, was now finally come to a head. As I stole an occasional glance at her, over my shoulder, I saw no longer any beauty in that sulky face. My love was fast changing to anger. I asked myself why I had submitted so long to her tyranny.

'Yet fearing that I might be also in the wrong, though unconscious how, I made a last effort, after we had sat for some time in silence, to conciliate her. For this purpose, I threw my hand over my shoul- and dangling my glove so as to let it playfully strike her head, I said, smiling and speaking gaily—

''A penny for your thoughts, Bella. Come, forgive and forget. We've had a very pretty quarrel, now lets make up! you know the making up is always the sweetest part of it.' And as I spoke, I wheeled my chair around, and would have put my arm aronnd her as of old.

'Did you ever se a tigress in a fury? If not, you've no idea how Bella looked then She had been sitting, pouting, pulling at a chain to which was attached my miniature; she now sprang to her feet, her eyes emitting fire like an electric-machine in the dark, and her whole countenance blood-suffused with passion.

''Unhand me, sir,' she cried, 'how dare you touch me after having insulted me? Leave the house, this instant, sir!'

'I had borne a good deal: I was not going to endure any more. I had never dreamed my charmer had such a temper. I replied, haughtily—

''As you please, Miss: but if I go now remember I go forever.'

'She became white as death for an instant—I had spoke firmly, and she knew me to be resolute—but directly her face grew redder than ever; and, with a jerk, breaking the miniature from its chain, she cast it, shivered into atoms, at my feet.

''I discard you, as I discard that,' she hissed between her teeth. 'Never dare to come here again!'

'My eyes darted lightnings at her: I was for once in my life, in a towering passion; but I remembered that I was a gentleman, and, therefore, controlling my tongue, I merely bowed low, bade her a good morning, and walked from the house.'

'And is that all, Jeremy!'

All; She repented, the next day, and sent a verbal message to me that she forgave me; but I took no notice of it. Forgave me, egad! Yet it was long before I cured myself entirely of my passion. I often found myself on the point of going back to her; but, in such moments of weakness, I called up the vision of her face inflamed with passion, and thought what a precious life I should lead, if my wife was to treat me to such exhibitions every now and then, as if my every now and then, as I felt sure Bella would if I married her. She actually did drive her first husband into being a drunkard; but her secone was too tough for her; he had buried three wives before, and knew how to manage viragos; he said nothing to her when she got into a passion; and, consequently, in three years she fretted herself to death. And now, my dear fellow, take another cheroot, and I'll ring for coffe.'

'And the picture was painted to commemorate your escape?'

'Just so: Wellington has one of Waterloo, and thanks heaven, they say, whenever he looks at it; and, I am sure I do the same when I regard THE TIFF.

PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Thursday, December 27, 1849.

☞ Mr Albert D. Drake is our authorised agent to receive subscriptions and advertisments.

Plainfield Lyceum.

The members of the Plainfield Lyceum will meet in Mr. W. W. Davison's school house on Monday evening next at 1-4 of 7 o'clock. The question for discussiou will be:

"Is the existence of God discoverable by the light of nature."

☞ The public are respectfully invited to attend.

E. M. Dunn, Sec'y.

The Presidents Message.—This document we received to late for the present number of our paper, and its length, although shorter than some, is nevertheless too long to give entire in our columns.—We have casually read it and must say that we are somewhat disappointed with its contents. Whether Martin Van Buren has had any thing to do with its concoction or not we cannot say, it is certainly non-committal enough to have been written by the great magician. We shall give it a more careful perusal and in accordance with our judgment give a candid opinion of its contents; in the mean time all should read, reflect, dijest, and act upon it in accordance with such examination for their best interests.

Congress.

On Saturday last the House of Representatives finally elected on its sixty-fourth ballot, the Hon. Howel Cobb of Georgia, Speaker, by a plurality of two votes. Congress can now begin the regular business of the session. It is indeed time, we certainly have had enough threats of a disolution of the Union. How utterly imbecile do all such threats appear to a sensible and patriotic people. Have our members of Congress—the chosen servants, the mere representatives of the sovereign people—the power to divide the Union? were they sent there for such a purpose? Would the down-trodden of that portion of the Union making these threats be any worse off than at present should such a contingency take place? They may threaten what they please it is mere idle wind—we trust the people will yet long uphold this glorious Union—aye, that liberty will yet be the practical as it is the theoretical principle of our government—that every son and daughter of Adam will soon partake of that glorious boon which our forefathers declared were the equal inalienable rights of All men. The threats may, are, hastening this period, the actual secession would fully accomplish it.

Some may suppose should such a contingency occur that there would be an awful and sanguinary war to compel them to partake of the blessings which on their part are only to be enjoyed by an adherence to the Union. Have such forgotten nullification--the same bravado which now threatens disunion went farther then and actually prepared vast quantities of the munitions of war—when the fiat of a single man, the true representative and assertor of the People's rights, quashed the purile rebellion in the bud.

"Knowledge is power." This oft quoted aphorism is undoubtedly true, as every persons experience must prove. We would wish to impress this fact upon the minds of all workingmen particularly, for with their interest do we consider our own identified. Never, from the commencement of our government until the present time—and certainly not under any other government, have the people, the great mass of the workingmen, the men by the sweat of whose brows alone the wealth of the world is created, and by the strength of whose arms our independence was achieved, and by whose intelligence alone can we hope to see it sustained—exercised or enjoyed a due share of the rights pertaining to those who occupy so important a position. We would ask those whose interests are here alluded to whose fault this is? Is it the fault of nature, or of God? Neither, we think we hear you answer, neither nature nor God can be justly chargeable with the tyranny and usurpations of man over his fellows. If men then are endowed by nature, and by natures God with equal inalienable rights, and which rights are also guaranteed to all by the Constitution of our government, whose fault can it be if we do not enjoy them? Those who answer this question intelligently must admit that it is our own fault, their own fault, by permitting their fellow men to usurp exclusive privileges over them—privileges which are the birthright of every living soul, being stamped upon it by the God who made it! Dare man, that puny mortal, claim as his property that which Cod has endowed with his spirit? Are not such men, although living under a republican government, at the very antipodes of republicanism. Although nominally our government is called a republic it can never be so in fact while slavery exists on a single foot of its soil.

This although subversive of the first and fundamental principles of a republican government, is not the only grievance nor the most dangerous foe which the people have to complain of, or that they have to fear; neither is it the one to which we would at this time so particularly call their attention.

The constant tendency of wealth is to concentrate power in few hands—to create a monied aristocracy whose interest it is to constantly oppose the democracy, or republican principles of the people. Not content with its natural advantages, wealth, makes allies of the government and all that is connected with it. Also the Press, the Pulpit, the Bar and the Bench, all lend their powerful aid towards the same result. Need we wonder then that the working-man has ever been deprived of the rights which his position in society justly entitle him to. "Knowledge is power," therefore having knowledge that you are inalienably entitled to equal rights, use that knowledge to maintain them.

Exclusive privileges—In almost every State in the Union does this insiduous foe to the liberties of the people exist. This, almost wholly it is which deprives the workingman of his rights. There is scarcely any subject wherein man's rights are concerned that is not invaded by an exclu-privilege, which of course creates a privileged class. To prove that this is so, we have only to refer you to our laws. They are all more or less contaminated with it. If there is any one more prominent than another at the present time it is the law granting to the Camden and Amboy Companies the exclusive right to build a railroad and canal to transport passengers and merchandise across the State—This, if there was any use to have achieved our independence of Great Britain—if there was any use to have a Constitution guaranteeing equal rights—is an absolute nullification of the first and a direct violation of the latter, which wealth in collusion with the government have deprived the people of. This it may be said is only one instance, and which under recent prognostications will soon be done away. It may be so, we trust it will be so, it yet depends however upon the people, they now have the knowledge—which is power—that it is an usurpation of their rights, and which they must use if they would rid themselves of it.

Although this is only one instance, it is all that we think necessary to particularize showing as it does the evil effects of the principle; yet there are many others, although not so glaringly outrageous on the people's rights which nevertheless contain the same pernicous principle. All other railroads contain this principle, all banks contain it, ferry companies, bridge companies, and many others which it is unnecessary to enumerate contain it, in fact all companies which contain a privilege which all cannot enjoy upon the same conditions contain it, and are unjust and anti-republican.

Our common law also contains it—they are so ambiguous or of such doubtful interpretation—being founded on the arbitrary and obsolete laws of a tyranical government, totally unsuited and rediculously absurd and oppressive when applied to a republican people. There are but few men, even among the mercantile classes, who can enter even a Justices Court—where the opposite party employs a lawyer—and collect a simple demand for groceries—the nonsuits (nonsense) which a slight informality in the state of demand—most rediculously contrasting with the matter at issue, and not at all necessary to its full explanation or elucidation—are allowed to interfere in the colection of a just demand, and the unjust debtor—for no honest man will suffer a just debt to be collected by law—laughs to scorn all efforts to collect it by law. What a rediculous humbug then is the law!—when through its latin abominations, its repitions, and inconsistent absurdities, it defeats the very end for which it was established. Judges, juries, lawyers, and the people, laugh at its absurdities, while rogues, and more especially rich ones look upon it with contempt while they make it the instrument of oppression to grind down the already too scanty pittance of the poor, to add to their overflowing treasures.

Will the workingmen, having this knowledge of their rights, continue to submit to these oppressions when the power—the conservative power--is in their own hands, and only needs union to most effectually eradicate it.

The Slavery Question.

The recent proceedings in Congress have given an exceeding interest to the question of Slavery, as regards its introduction into the territory now free. Never have the south been driven so closely to the wall, or placed in a more defenceless position than at the present time, when the moderation of the North presents a fine contrast to the hotspur insolence of the South. A period has arrived however, when moderation and calmness are essential to the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of those republican institutions, which are the hope of all true lovers of freedom. The Representatives of the North, should act cautiously, prudently, wisely; but they should not surrender, be the issue what it may, one foot of territory now free to the grasp of Slavery. It is not simply a question of political policy. Higher duties call upon us than those of mere political expediency. Humanity, religion are shocked to hear the representatives of a free people pretending sympathy for freedom yet declaring for disunion if they cannot carry on their accursed traffic in human flesh in territory recently acquired. Upon this great question of Slavery extension we believe there can be no compromise, that will not of necessity sacrifice that principle of eternal hostility to every form of tyranny, which should animate every friend of our country. The claims of the South are incompatible with the designs and objects of our government, and although its union and zeal have hitherto bent the pliable men of the North, yet now a new race firmer in spirit, stronger in action have taken the place of those who would compromise away the most precious rights of man.

The ballots for Speaker have demonstrated that the South has lost the control it once possessed, and accordingly they have shown the desperation of desperate players. Perfectly heartless as their politicians are, they have manifested with some few honorable exceptions, and entire recklessness of the Union and its preservation. Whatever may be the result no nothern man must come before his constituents who cannot come with clean hands upon this question.—Newark Mercury.

☞ The old system of doing business, of charging 25 to 200 per cent profit on an article is fast being superseded by those who better understand its true philosophy; they are well aware that more extensive sales at small profits is a more expeditious and economical way of making money. There are none perhaps who understand this system better than Messrs. Lane & Porter, 65 Catharine-st, N. Y. By this system they are enabled to constantly present fresh goods to their customers and at prices unprecedently low, for instance beautiful de lains for 1s. per yard, cashmere 1s. 6d. and 2s. together with every article in dress goods at proportionably low prices. Their extensive stock of Shawls, Silks, Merinoes, Velvets, Satin, Ribbons, and Lace goods, are well worthy the attention of every person wishing to purchase.

☞ It will be perceived by a reference to the advertisement of Messrs Owens & Metlar, in another column, that they are determined to sell off their stock of winter clothing at greatly reduced prices. knowing that it is better to sell a stock of goods at even cost prices than to have them lay over. Their stock is very extensive, comprising every variety, which they are determined to sell in their season, that they may be prepared with fresh goods suitable for the spring trade. Those who have not yet purchased their supply of winter clothing will undoubtedly find it to their advantage to give them a call.

Santa Claus.—In honor of the arrival of this distinguished visitor Mr. James Vanfleet, our unfortunate but worthy fellow citizen is prepared with a variety of Toys. Our readers while preparing to gratfy the young by a presents of this description should not forget to extend a share of their patronage to one so needful and deserving of it.

☞ Our readers who may miss the advertisement of Mr. Daniel Bullman, are informed that he has not retired from business, but is prepared with his usual full supply of seasonable Dry Goods and Groceries, which he is prepared to sell to his customers and the public generally, at unusually low rates. The affability and courtesy of Mr. B. (which we have taken advantage of to crowd out his advertisement) and known accommodating qualities should induce our readers to give him a call.

The Era.—Some one has taken an unwarrantable liberty in appropriating to themselves our exchange of the above title for several weeks past—we trust they will not again deprive us of what we consider one of the best on our list. The spicy and ably written editorials, to say noth- of its literary articles and miscellany, we cannot afford to be deprived of, $2, enclosed to the Editor, Thomas Picton Esq. 22 Spruce st. N. Y. will procure you a copy one year.

Great Fire in New York.—A tremendious fire occurred in New York, on Saturday last, in the great Sugar Refinery of Woolsey & Co. The loss is estimated at $600,000, only $250,000 of which is covered by insurance.

☞ A Gutta Percha company will lay down and guarantee its integrity for ten years, a line of insulated wire through the Ocean for $3,000,000.

Burning of the Capitol in Alabama.

From the Montgomery Advertiser and Gazette we learn that the State Capitol in that city was consumed by fire on the 14 instant and nought is left of that once beautiful building but the crumbling walls. Every possible provision was to be immediately made for the convenience of the Legislature and the State officers. The clerks of the two house saved all their papers; and the archives of the State, in the offices of the Governor, Secretary of State, Treasurer and Controller, were also all saved. Most all the furniture, and the larger portion of the different libraries, were likewise preserved from the flames, so that the great loss is the building.

Senate Committees.—The cast of the Standing Committees of the Senate is exceedingly sectional, the Judiciary Committee being composed of three slaveholders (including Chairman and two non-slaveholers. The Committe on the District of Columbia has a pro-slavery Chairman, two members from the South and two from the North. But the Committee on the Terriotries is the most sectional of all, having a slaveholding Chairman (Senator Douglas of Illinois, who owns a plantation in Mississippi,) and but one Northern member.

New-York is represented on but one Committee, while the little State of Arkansas is represented on six, South-Carolina three, Mississippi four, Virginia four Lousiana four. Senators King of Ala. and Atchinson of Mo. are each on two Committees. The South have a majority in fifteen of the Committees, and the North in twelve. Three of these Commitees are entirely composed of Southern men and two of Nothern. Sixteen of the Chairmen are from the South and eleven from the North.—Tribune.

☞ We announce with much pleasure, that L. Norton Esq. late President of the State Bank, gave security for his appearance hereafter, and was liberated. The Cashier has also given security. On Monday last, all the Directors appeared in Court. and gave security. We hope the public withold all opinion until the law shall define their position. They are all anxious to have the matter thoroughly investigated, as they are confident that no blame can attach to themselves for the actions of others, and the honor and good faith of the citizens of our county will thereby be thoroughly vindicated.--Moristown Dem. Banner.

Toleration.—When Abraham sat at his tent door, according to his custom, waiting to entertain strangers, he espied an old man, stooping and leaning on his staff, weary with age and travel coming towards him, who was an hundred years old he received him kindly, washed his feet, provided supper, and caused him to sit down; but, observing that the old man sat and prayed not, nor begged a blessing on his meat, he asked why he did not worship the God of Heaven. The old man told him that he worshipped fire only, at which answer Abraham grew so zealous, that he thrust the old man out of his tent, and exposed him to all the evils of the night, in an unguarded condition. When the old man had gone, God called to Abraham, and asked him where the stranger was. He replied, "I have thrust him away because he did not worship thee." God answered him, "I have borne with him these hundred years, although he dishonored me, and couldst thou not have endured him for one night when he gave thee no trouble?" Upon this, saith the story. Abraham fetched him back again, and gave him hospitable entertainment and wise instruction. "Go thou and do likewise," and thy charity will be rewarded by the God of Abraham. Franklin

The Appointments.—The commissions of the following officers in this State will expire on the respective dates given below, and the duty of nominating their successors will devolve upon Governor Haines, whose official term will expire on the 18th of Junuary 1851.

Abraham Browning, Attorney General Feb. 5, 1850.

Thomas Sinickson, Judge of the Court of Errors, Feb 5, 1850.

Elias P. Seely, Prosecutor for Cumberland, Feb. 5, 1850.

John C. Ten Eyck, Prosecutor for Burlington, Feb. 5, 1850.

William C. Morris, Prosecutor for Warren Feb. 5, 1850.

Isaac W. Scudder, Prosecutor for Hudson, Feb. 5, 1850.

Charles G. McChesney, Secretary of State November 10, 1850.

Samuel R. Gummere, Clerk in Chancery November 17, 1850.—True American.

☞ The legislature of South Carolina have adopted a series of resolutions approving the course pursued by Southern members in the present Congress.

Tennesee.—The lower House of the Tennesee Legislature has passed an act for the election of the entire Judiciary by the People.

New York City Expenses.—The estimates of the expenses of New York for 1850, are $3,415,390.

There are one hundred professional thieves in Pittsburg.

Take a Newspaper. Winter has come with its long evenings and cheerful firesides. The howling blasts, drifting snow and other concomitants in the region of the ice King, will soon shut up the attractions of the outer world, and revive the endearments of the domestic hearth.—The family circle that has been broken by the deranging influence of the business season, when toil and fatigue have courted an early repose, will again be re-united, and a season for a recreation for the intellectual and social powers will ensue. The mind must have food, with its amusements, or else it becomes morbid and senseless—and what a never failing fountain for its improvement is provided in the family newspaper.

Take a newspaper, and you do more to secure the morals of your children and prepare them for future usefullness with two or three dollars, than by five times that amount bestowed in any other way. It is a duty which every man owes to his family and country to take a newspaper. It cultivates a taste for reading, and spreads before the minds of the rising generation a chart of the passing events of the age, which they will consult, and will, by so doing, add daily or weekly to their stock of knowledge. No person who reads a newspaper regularly and carefully, goes into the world without a knowledge of its doings that secures for him intelligence and respect. We say to every man, and every man should say to his neighbor,—'take a newspaper.'—[Newark Mercury.

Honesty.

A spice merchant of Constantinople carrying a piece of fine cloth to a tailor, desired to have a cloak and tunic made of it, and enquired if there was enough. The artist having measured the stuff, declared it sufficient, and then requested to know the cost of it.

'Five sequins,' replied the customer, 'was the price; and, considering the quality, it is not at all dear.'

The tailor paused a moment.

'I am but a beginner in trade,' said he to the spice dealer, at length, 'and money is an object to me Give me two sequins, and I will show you how you may save three in this affair.'

'I agree,' said the other, and the money was produced and paid.

'It is well!' said the man of the needle—'I am a person of my word. This cloth has cost five sequins, and I have promised to save three. Take it to some other tailors, and Allah direct you to one of more experience; for I have never made such a dress as you want; and if I attempt it, it will be spoiled.'

This reminds us of an anecdote related of Sheridan, who went to a hair-dresser's to order a wig. On being measured, the barber, who was a liberal soul ivited the orator to take some refreshment in an inner room. Here he regaled him with a bottle of port, and showed so much genuine hospitality that Sherdan's heart was touched. When they rose from the table, and were about separating, the latter, looking the barber full in the face said, 'On reflecting, I don't intend that you shall make my whig.' Astonished, and with a blank visage, the other exclaimed, 'Good heavens! Mr. Sheridan, how can I have displeased you?' 'Why look you,' said Sheridan, 'you are an honst fellow; and I repeat it, you shan't make the wig, for I never intend to pay for it. I'll go to another less worthy son of the craft.—New Orleans Picayune.

New Jersey Legislature.—One hundred and thirteen notices of applications to the Legislature have been made through the public prints in New Jersey for acts of incorporation. Among them are applications for 9 plank roads, 19 railroads, 12 new banks, 3 ferry companies, 1 renewal of bank charter, 3 insurance companies, 2 new counties, 12 municipal corporations, 3 savings bank, 1 electric telegraft, 5 turnpike companies, 6 manufacturing companies, 1 transportation company, and 7 other incorporated companies.

Weighty News.—The other day a verdant genius stood in the street near the Telegraph office, gazing at the telegraph wires with mouth agape and extended ears at the vibrating sound caused by the transmission of news.

While in the midst of his wondering bewilderment, the American House gong sounded for dinner. The fellow jumped back and exclaimed, 'The tarnal consarn has got as much as it can stand under now. Another French Revolution in China, I guess.

☞ 'Day does say, that way down in Georgia, they makes nigga work twenty-five hour ebbery day, Now, look, hea, I'se been told that day hasn'd got no more nor twenty-four hours, an I wants you Mr. Johnsing, to 'splanify to dis child how the make em Work twenty-five hours.'

'Golly mighty, what ignerammesuss nigga you is. Scipio, why way down dare, they make poor nigga get up one hour afore day—dos'nt that make em twenty-five?' Scipio was convinced.

Model Epitahh furnished by the Snubtown Gazette:—

Here lies the body of Ephragm Snubbs,
Who got his living by mending tubs;
He caught his death while it was rainin,'
And met his fate without complainin'.

PRINTING.

Having recently made large additions to our assortment of

JOB TYPE,

AND OTHER PRINTING MATERIALS.

WE ARE NOW PREPARED TO EXECUTE

Printing of Every Description,

IN THE

NEATEST MANNER,

AND ON TERMS AS REASONABLE AS THE SAME DESCRIPTION OF WORK CAN BE DONE ELSEWHERE.

☞ As punctuality, neatness, and reasonable prices will characterize all our work, we respectfully invite all who wish Printing done to call at the office of the PLAINFIELD GAZETTE.

A FARM FOR SALE.

A FARM OF 23 ACRES,

SITUATED at NEW MARKET, within half a mile of the Central R. R. Depot, in a high state of cultivation, with an apple and peach orchard in full bearing, together with pear, plum, cherry and shade trees in abundance, land well watered by springs; on the premises is a large and convenient DWELLING HOUSE, 28 by 34 feet, 20 feet posts, containing parlor and dining room, kitchen, bedroom, and pantry on the first floor and 4 rooms and entry on the second floor, also 3 rooms finished on the third floor, in the rear and attached is a shed with a well and cistern under it.—Also Barn and Wagon House, 22 by 44 feet with well, cow house 16 by 30 feet with all other necessary out buildings.

On the premises is another Dwelling House 18 by 26 feet with four rooms and well by the door. Also, A Lot of Land near the first, containing 6 1-2 Acres, in a high state of cultivation, being meadow land with a stream running through it.

Also, A two story house 26 by 32 feet in South Boundbrook.

The above property will be sold together or separately to suit purchasers, at a great bargain, as the subscriber has determined to go West in March.

For particulars apply to the subscriber on the premises. Terms easy.

JONATHAN SCHUREMAN.

New-Market, Dec. 25. 1849.

LARGE SALE OF

READY MADE CLOTHING.

OWENS & METLAR.

No. 23 Church-st. New Brunswick,

WOULD call the attention of all who are yet in want of

WINTER CLOTHING

to their extensive stock of goods. They have manufactured a much larger assortment than ever before, and intend to dispose of all at greatly REDUCED PRICES to make room for spring goods. Among their stock may be found all the different styles of OVER COATS.

Made from Brown, Drab, Black, Olive, Pilot and Beaver Cloths.

BUSINESS COATS.

Sacks, Peltos and other styles made from Brown, Black, Green and other coloured Cloths, Satinets, Cassimeres, Tweeds, Kentucky Jeans, &c. &c.

PANTS & VESTS

of every style of goods, cut and price.

BOY'S CLOTHING, a large assortment unusually low. Also Flunkys of Pilot Cloth, Green Baize &c. an excellent article for working—Rounds, Overalls, Shirts, Collars Stocks, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Silk, Merino and Cotton under wear, Dressing Gowns, and all other goods usually found in an establishment of the kind—at prices to accommodate all. They have always on hand a large stock of Cloths, Cassimers, Satinets, Vestings, for sale by the yard, or to cut to order for those who wish their garments made at home. ☞ Please call and examine their goods and satisfy yourselves as to price and quality.

WM. OWENS,
62.] GEO. W. METLAR.

PAPER WAREHOUSE.

CYRUS W. FIELD & CO.

No. 11 Cliff-st. N. Y.

Offer for sale—
Bleaching Powder—200 casks best quality.
Soda Ash—25 tons good quality
Alum—100 bbls ground and 100 bbls crude.
Smalts—Best English 3 F E, 4 F E, and 4 F E super
Ultramarino—Best French and German, various brands
Rags—120 tuns Domestic, all qualities.
Rags—626 bales Foreign, assorted qualities.
Together with a complete assortment of all kinds of PAPER and PAPER-MAKER'S MATERIALS.

CASH PAID FOR RAGS, canvass bagging, grass and tarred rope, and all other descriptions of paper-maker's stock, by

CYRUS W. FIELD & CO.
At their Rag Warehouse, 94 Beekman-st.

CYRUS W. FIELD & CO. No. 11 Cliff-st New York, offer for sale:

Newspaper, 29x48 inches.		Newspaper, 22x32 inches.
do	28x46 do	do	22 1-2x35 do
do	28x42 do	do	22x37 do
do	26x37 do	do	23 1-2x38 do
do	26 1-2x38 1-2 do	do	25 1-2x35 do
do	26x38 do	do	26 1-2x40 1-2do
do	24x38 do	do	28 1-2x40 1-2do
do	24x36 do	do	19x24 do
do	24x34 do	do	24x40 do

ALSO

Envelop Paper—2,400 reams all sizes.
Colored Paper—1,750 reams assorted sizes.
Writing Paper—600 cases, a complete assortment.
News and Book Ink—Superior quality.
News and Book Paper made to order of any size and quality at short notice.

RAISINS, CITRON & CURRANTS.

NEW Citron 2s a pound; new dried Currants 8 cents; new Raisins only 8 cents. The right place to purchase good, new and cheap Fruits for the Holidays. PRIME FAMILY BUTTER.

☞ Extra Family Flour, by the barrel, bag, or 1s 8d and 1s 6d per 7 lbs. Also, good Orange county Butter at 1s 8d a lb; crushed Sugar 5s per 7 lbs; refined do. 4s do; New-Orleans do. 3s do; good green and black Teas for only 3s; extra flavored fresh imported black and young hyson Teas, 4s; new Lard only 8 cents; new Rice only 4 cents; and a general assortment of Groceries.

☞ White Winter Oil, warranted to stand the coldest weather, only 6 shillings per gallon. ☜

ASA PARKER, 242 BROOME-STREET,
57] (corner of LUDLOW,) NEW-YORK

IMPORTANT NEWS!

WHO would have believed it, as one of my neighbors said, that D Vail would have such a grand rush on his first appearance at the

BRICK BUILDING.

What else could you expect, when he has a general assortment in the Grocery and provision line, and selling them for cash at an unusual low profit—Young Hyson Teas, from 1s 6d to 8s per pound; Black Tea 4s and 5s; Imperial Tea worth 6s for 4s; eighteen penny butter for 1s 4d; Orange County butter for 1s 8d; new hams and smoked beef 11d per pound; Virgia bacon 1s per lb; New Orleans molasses, 2s 6d and 3s; Lamp oil 6s and 8s per gallon; Lard 10d per lb; Coffee from 10 to 1s 3d per lb; also, Raisins, Dried Currants, Fancy, Graham, Soda, Boston and Wafer Crackers, Aberneathy Biscuit, Ginger Snaps, &c., and as good an assortment of sugars as can be found in the state from 3s 6d to 5s 9d 7lbs; also the best of sugar house Molasses; and every article that belongs to a Grocery and Provision Store.

☞ Cash paid for all kinds of Poultry and Wild Game at the Brick Store opposite Ayers' Hotel.

Plainfield, Dec. 14. 1849. DAVID VAIL. [104

MUFFS, TIPPETS, &C,

SELLING OFF AT COST.

TO CLOSE THE CONCERN.

☞ The undersigned intending to change his business, will sell his entire stock of manufactured Furs, at and below cost prices. The trade and persons wanting for their own use, will do well to look in.

E. L. TREDWELL,
56.] 25 Maiden-Lane, N. Y.

DRY WOOD.

First rate Seasoned Wood in quantities to suit purchasers can be had on application to

STEPHEN VAIL.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church

---

OYSTERS!

THE subscriber having taken the saloon recently occupied by James Laing, at Laing's Hall, is prepared to supply families with OYSTERS by the hundred, or opened by the quart.

N. B. Oyster Soup constantly on hand; Stews at short notice. JOHN W. FRAZEE.

Dec. 18. 1849. [56.

O. D. STEWART,

FHSHIONABLE HAT EMPORIUM

Burnet-st., New-Brunswick.

Nearty opposite Mr. John Hatfield's Store.

THE subscriber having newly fitted up his establishment in a neat and commodious manner is now prepared to furnish every thing in his line at prices to suit the times. His style of

FALL & WINTER HATS,

are the latest, and made up of the best material and splendidly finished.

CAPS! CAPS!! CAPS!!!

His Caps, both for men and boys are a tasty article and deserve attention. The styles are altered almost every month and cannot fail to please. Call and examine. O. D. STEWART.

Dec. 15. 1849. [104

WM. M. WOODHULL'S

CLOTHING DEPOT

IS now ready for inspection. The Fall and Winter Stock is complete in every particular. The goods have been purchased with the greatest care. As to style and price we are able to compete with any establishment in the sale of

READY MADE CLOTHING.

The stock comprises all that is new and desirable, cut in the most fashionable style, and made up in the best manner.

OVER COATS made from Drab, Beaver, Brown, Black, and Mixed Broad Cloths, in the latest style and of the best quality.

BUSINESS COATS of every description.

Pantaloons and Vests.

Made from the most fashionable goods in the market.

A good assortment of SHIRTS. Black and Fancy Silk Cravats, Suspenders, Woolen half hose, Gloves, Bosoms and Collars.

Valises, Trunks, Carpet Bags, &c.

Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings.

Persons wishing to have their clothing got up in the best manner, and a handsome fit, are respectfully requested to call.

MR. CHARLES C. HUTCHINSON, so favorably known as a fashionable Cutter, still continues in charge of the cutting department.

☞ Remember the one price Cheap Cash Store.
No 22 Peace Street, opposite Church street.
New Brunswick, Dec. 16. 1849. [104

CAMPHENE & BURNING FLUID,

THE purest and best in the United States by the Barrel and half-barrel at the New York Manufacturers prices, Dealers will do well to buy of the undersigned. H. A. WHITNEY.

65] 163 Market-st Newark, N. J.

PATENT

SELF-SEALING ENVELOPES.

Envelopes with Name, Occupation, and Address, or with Coats of Arms, Crests, Initials, or Devices. Manufactured only by W. ALDERTON, 295 Pearl-st. New-York.

A. ACKERMAN.

Wholesale and Retail Bookseller and Publisher.

No. 32 Burnet-st. Opposite Patterson Block.

Blank Books, Gold and Steel Pens, Pencils, School Books, Envelopes, Slates, Cards, Silver Pencils, Inks, Bibles, Wafers, Almanacs, Quills, Annuals for 1850, Portfolios, Thermometers.

And a superior assortment of English, French, Dutch and American fancy Stationery; Gold pens and pencils for Gentlemen and Ladies; Gold and Silver Ink; the monthly magazines, &c., for sale at the lowest possible prices.

A splendid assortment of Books suitable for presents, just received.

Teachers and country merchants supplied at the lowest prices.

Paper hangings and window shades for sale at greatly reduced prices.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65

NEWARK MUSEUM.

UNPRECEDENTED ATTRACTION!—OVER 60,000 NATURAL CURIOSITIES!!—Being a combination of Nature and Art, from the unrivalled Mammoth of the Nile to the most minute Dwarf in Christendom!!!

At the opening of this establishment we beg leave to state to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, that we have spared no pains or expense in making our vast Hall one of splendor and magnificence. The indudements, though too numerous to mention, cannot fail to attract all lovers of variety of whatever grade in society. But as

COLD WEATHER IS COMING,

and the Printer wants a job, I'll not leave you in wonder, but will give a request to all ladies and gentlemen, young and old, to call at 85 Broad-st.

AND SEE THE FUN!

For such rattling of Stoves and clatter of Tin,
Never, in Newark before has been.
Stoves, yes, we've the Fashion, the Empire, U. S. and the Bride.
A host of gay parlors, with office beside.
But of all the fine patterns named in our invoice,
The one that ranks highest is the famed Pople's choice.

W. B. LUDLOW,
56] 85 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

A. K. CORY,

DEALER IN

WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY,

AND SILVER WARE.

No. 19 Peace-st. New-Brunswick.

HAS constantly on hand a large assortment of GOLD & SILVER WATCKES, Gold Breastpins, Earrings, Watch Keys, Finger Rings, Bracelets, Lockets, and Pens, Gold and Silver Spectacles, Pencils, Watch Guards, &c., besides an extensive lot of Gentlemen's Canes, Spectacle Cases, Razors, Strops, and every other article in the line, all of which will be sold very cheap for CASH. Also a large and general assortment of Silver Ware.

Watches, Clocks, and Jewelry carefully repaired, and warranted.

Dec. 14. 1849. [65.

NEW FUR STORE.

No. 96 Bowery, between Grand and Hester-streets New York.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and numerous customers, that he has opened with a large and handsome assortment of imported and domestic Furs, comprising a variety of Muffs, Victorines, &c. of sable, stone and all other kinds of martin, with filtch, lynx, short lynx, Issabella, and all kinds of bears, cross fox, blue fox, coney, jennet; and different kidds of Furs, too tedious to mention. All of which are of the choicest kind and finished in superior manner, as he has the very best workmen that can be found in the country. He therefore flatters himself, from the judicious manner in which he has selected his stock, and the care taken in the manufacture of it, to give satisfaction to those who may favor him with their patronage.

☞ All kinds of repairing done in a workmanlike manner and with despatch. THOS. YOUNG.

1850

WM. T. RUNK'S

CHEAP CLOTHING STORE.

No. 2 Patterson Block Commerce Square New-Brunswick, N. J.

FALL AND WINTER CLOTHING

Lots of Pilot Overcoats from 3 50 to $5, usually sold from 5 to 8. Blue black Beaver lined, wadded and quilted throughout, from 8 to $12. Black French Cloth, elegantly trimmed, with silk velvet collars, 14 to $20—price in many stores $25.

MEN'S SACKS.

A good article made of Glasgow Jeans and Pilot Cloths at the extreme low price of 2 50 to $4.

PELTOS & DARK SACKS,

Made from Pilot Cloths, Sweeds and other materials at 3 50 to $10—former price $12.

FIGURED TWEED SACKS & PELTOS

A lot of extra made, silk collars and facings, for 6 and $8—usual price asked is from 8 to $12.

CLOAKS.

A Lot made from superior French and Wool-dye Black, very cheap, from 14 to $20.

DRESS & EROCK COATS,

A great variety of all qualities, from 7 50 to $14—usually sold at from 12 to $20.

PANTALOOS.

Heavy Jeans for $1, Satinets 2 to $3, handsome stripe and Plaid for 2,50 to $4,50. also of Premium Cassimeres entirely new from 4 to $6,50—in other shops from 5 to $8.

VESTS,

Of every description of fashion, cut and quality. A genteel Winter Vest for $1. Black Satin good article for 2 25 to $3 50. Elegant-stripe Velvet and Valencia, new patterns. 3 to $3 50 warranted the same as formerly cost 4to $6.

FURNISHING GOODS.

Linen Collars a good article for 12 cents. Linen Bosoms as low as 25 cents—Stocks of all kinds, some very rich fig'd Satin with bows, ruffles and long ends from 50cts to $1—usually sold for 1 50. Scarfs various kinds, from 18 cts to $3. Cravats, Braces, Gloves from 12 to 50cents. Best India Rubber Braces for 37cts, former price $1—Drawers, Undershirts, Green Jackets, &c. and an endless variety of Clothing, adapted to all classes, at a less price than ever before offered in this place, and better made than can be purchased in New-York for the same money.

Always on hand a good assortment of

French and English Broad-Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, &c.,

WILLIAM T. RUNK.

New Brunswick, Dec. 17. 1849. [104

STOVES! STOVES!!

CHEAP FOR CASH.

JESSEE VAIL,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

Cooking, Parlor, Air Tight, Hall and Office Stoves; Pipe, Zinc, and Stove Fixtures; worker in Tin, Sheet Iron and House Keeping articles.

THE Subscriber having taken the Store recently occupied by Reuben Titsworth, would respectfully invite the attention of the citizens of Plainfield and surrounding country to examine his assortment of Stoves and House-keeping articles before purchasing elsewhere. If a desire to accommodate the public by a strict attention to supply their wants, and fulfil their orders punctually, be an inducement to bestow a portion of their patronage I shall be thankful therefor.

☞ Repairing done at short notice.

JESSEE VAIL.

Plainfield, Dec. 14. 1849. [104

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

WINE AND LIQUOR

STORE, No. 29 FAIR-STREET, NEWARK.—The Subscriber respectfully informs the public that he still has constantly on hand at the above old established stand, a full and choice supply of all kinds

Foreign Wines and Spirits,

which he offers for sale at the lowest cash prices, and delivered to order to any part of the city or country. Brandy of every grade, Meder's Swan Gin, Irish, Scotch and Monongahela Whiskey, St. Croix and Jamaica rum, Port Maderia, Malaga, and Champagne Wines, Losey's Bitters, &c.

Philadelphia Bottled Porter and Pale Ale of the first quality; also, a very choice article of Bottled Cider, (almost, equal to Champagne,) always on hand and delivered without charge to any part of the city.

☞ A continuance of patronage is solicited.

LOUIS L. BELANT.

Largest Stock of SHAWLS in the State, at

BASSETTS!!

BROADWAY BRANCH!!

Opposite the Park, Newark, N. J.

50 New Bay State Long Shawls, just landed.
300 " Scotch Plaid do do " "
50 " Waterloo Long Shawls.
50 Rich Cashmere do do. Lyons & Co. best quality
100 all Wool Broche Shawls from auction, Cheap.
100 Mourning Long Shawls, very choice patterns.

Many other styles of Shawls that we are offering at reduced prices.

The largest assortment of RICH DRESS GOODS in the city.

Closing our large stock of French Merinos at cost. at BASSETTS, 182 Broad-street.

Newark, Dec 11. 1849.

BRITANNIA WARE AND METALS.

LUCIUS HART,

(Late Boardman & Hart,)

MANUFACTURER AND IMPORTER of BRITANNIA WARE, No. 6. Burling Slip, offers for sale at the lowest market prices Britannia Urns, Tea and Coffee Pots, Castors, with cut, mould and pressed bottles, Pewter plates, platters, dishes and basins. Flagons, tankards, goblets, plates and baptismal bowls. Metallic counting-house ink stands, assorted sizes, soup-ladles, table and tea-spoons, a great variety. Mantel candlesticks, chamber do. Britannia lamps. Pitchers, Mugs, Tumblers and molasses cups. Planished tin coffee urns, filterers and egg-boilers. Patent Table and tea-spoons, with steel handles. A full assortment of Dixon's Sheffield Britannia goods.

Particular attention paid to supplying families at retail, and evry article warranted, [65.

STEAM MARBLE WORKS,

Nos. 372 AND 374 GREENWICH-STREET, NEW YORK.

The subscriber, late of the old and well-known firm of Underhill & Ferris, offers for sale at the old establishment, as above, the most extensive and beautiful assortment of superior MARBLE MANTELS, sculptured and plain, in the latest and most fashionable styles, and at the lowest prices. Also,

MONUMENTS,

And ornamental Marble Works of all kinds.

☞ He has lately erected a new and powerful Steam Mill, (equal to any in this country) and constantly keeps on hand quantities of Marble to supply the Trade, on liberal terms, either with slabs or blocks. JOHN H. FERRIS. [104

EMPTY BARRELS.

Empty Pork, Flour, and Mackerel Barrels, for sale at

W. M. DRAKE'S.

ATTENTION!

The Whole World and half of Staten Island.

THE fact is passed into a proverb that "our's is as cheap as the cheapest," and that at I. S. DUNHAM'S may be found as good a general assortment of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,

as at the next place, and upon as accommodating terms; the public are respectfully invited to give him a call at the old stand opposite the Mountan Road.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

A LARGE BEAR

HAVING been killed some weeks since in Sussex county, the circumstance is said to be (by the oldest inhabitant) a precursor of a severe winter. Those in want of Furs of any kind will call on mills and select while the assortment is full.

Muffs, Cuffs, Victorines, Neck-Ties, Buffalo Robes, &c.

Old Furs repaired. JOHN MILLS,
202 Broad-st., opposite the Common.
Newark Dec. 1, 1849.

CHILDREN'S MUFFS.

A Small lot of beautiful Muffs for small children—Also Victorines to match, at

MILLS'S 202 Broad-st. Newark.

GEO. W. & JEHIAL READ,

MANUFACTURERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

HATS, CAPS,

Straw Goods, Silk & Satin Bonnets, UMBRELLAS & PARASOLS.

☞ 19 Courtlandt-st., adjoining the Western Hotel.
102.] NEW YORK.

JACOB STUCKY,

CHEAP

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

252 Broad St.

63.] NEWARK, N. J.

MOST EXCELLENT

SOAP STONE GRIDDLES.

OVAL and Round Soap Stone GRIDDLES, a very desirable article for baking Cakes, as you need not use any grease, thereby avoiding entirely the disagreeable smell arising from its use. For sale by

ELIAS C. BEAM, No. 302 Broad st. Newark.

Mott's Tubular Air Tight Quick Oven

COOKING STOVE,

(Warranted to bake most beautifully.) For sale by E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

FORD & RAYNOLDS,

DEALERS IN

FLOUR AND OTHER PRODUCE.

80 Cortlandt Street,

ONE DOOR FROM WEST ST.

THOMAS J. FORD, NEW YORK.
WILLIAM L. RAYNOLDS. [80.

STANLEY'S

Air Tight Rotary Cook Stove,

WITH A SPACIOUS OVEN AND GOOD BAKER,

For sale cheap by
E. C. BEAM, 302 Broad-st. Newark.

JOSEPH ANNIN,

Counsellor at Law,

AND

Master, Examiner and Solicitor in Chancery,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Office—in Front-st opposite the Rail Road Hotel.

RIBBONS! RIBBONS!!

354 Broad-st., Newark.

THE largest and richest stock of Ribbons in the city are to be found at SEATON'S "HALL OF COMMERCE," the New York One Price Cheap Lace and Bonnet Establishment, 354 Broad st., a few doors north of William st. Great bargains may be had. A word to the wise is enough. [77.

PIANO FORTES,

AND MUSIC SALOON.

102 Market-st. Newark, N. J.

THE subscriber greatly encouraged by the liberal patronage bestowed on him, feels stimulated to renewed exertion to meet the wishes of his friends and the public in all that pertains to music, in view of which he has increased his assortment of Instruments and Music, so that it embraces all that is most desirable in any of the largest establishment in New York. He has now at his Ware Rooms seventeen Piano Fortes, forming as rich and varied an assortment as can be found at any Piano Ware Room in the country. Anxious to suit the tastes of all, he has [in addition to Mr. Stodart's and others of the most approved make in New York,] obtained a selection of Instruments from the manufactory of Mr. Lemuel Gilbert of Boston, so well and favorably known, all of which he will sell as low as they can be bought at the factories. All new instruments wsrranted, second hand Pianos taken in exchange at a fair valuation. Melodeons, Violins, Flutes, Guitars, Clarionetts, Accordians, Flutinas, and

Sheet Music of all kinds.

By far the largest assortment ever offered in the State of New Jersey. S. P. HINDS.

Dec. 28. 1849. [102.

NEW FURNITURE STORE.

166 CANAL-STREET, NEW-YORK.—JOHN HIGGINS, desirous of informing his friends and the public generally of his New-York location, respectfully adopts this method, and solicits their attention to a very handsome stock of fashionable and well made the whole of which I offer for sale as low as the same style and quality can be bought in the city, and 15 to 20 per cent. less than the down town stores.

Cabinet Furniture, Chairs, Sofas, Looking Glasses, Mattrasses, &c.

☞ Strict attention given to shipping and packing. All articles in the above line made to order.

☞ Branch Store, Petersburg, Va. [62.

☞ Several new advertisments and noticesare unavoidably crowded out.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

MRS. S. MACKNETS,

OLD ESTABLISHED STAND,

No. 332 Broad-st. Newark.

Mrs. M. Would most respectfully announce to the Ladies of Plainfield and its vicinity about purchasing FALL and WINTER BONNETS, that she will open for their inspection on Thursday the 18th inst with an extensive assortment of Silk Millinery, of the richest materials made and trimmed in the Parrision styles. She flatters herself that with the assistance of the most experienced hands, no establishment will excel her in point of taste and workmanship, she respectfully solicits a call. Her prices and goods being in strict accordance with the times, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best—therefore invites one and all to an examination of her stock of Millinery and convince themselves that 332 Broad-st. is the place where they get for their money its full valuation. It consists

Of Bonnets, Ribbons, French and American Artificial Flowers, Feathers, Lace Edgings, &c. &c. &c.

In addition a large assortment of Fancy Dress Caps, made after the latest Foreign patterns, Dress Caps made to order. Ladies will find it to their advantage to call. ☞ Large sales, and small profits. ☜

MRS. S. MAKCKNETS MILLINARY,
332 Broad-st. opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

N. B. Tuscans and straws, cleaned and altered in a superior style. MOURNING BONNETS, constantly on hand, a good assortment.

Newark, Oct. 15. 1849. [57.

NEWARK

CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

In the Field again with a new and desirable stock of FASHIONABLE

READY MADE CLOTHING.

THE subscriber would take this opportunity to tender his acknowledgements to the public for past favors and notifies them that he is now receiving his stock of Goods (both Foreign and Domestic) which he is making up in all desirable styles, so as to suit the tastes of all.

His stock being purchased principally for Cash, they will be sold at a small advance. Take notice of the following prices and judge for yourselves—

Black Dress and Frock coats from	$8,00 to $14,00
Tweed Coats of all styles	2,50 to 8,00
Cloth Sacks of all colors,	6,00 to 15,00
Black Cassimere Pants,	3,50 to 6,00
Fancy " "	2,50 to 5,00
Satinet, Kentucky Jean, &c.	1,50 to 3,00
Black and Fancy Satin Vests,	2,00 to 5,00
Figured Cashmere, very handsome,	3,00 to 4,00
Valentia, &c. &c.	1,00 to 2,00
Overcoats of all kinds,	3,00 to 20,00

A large assortment of Gents. Furnishing Goods consisting in part of the following:

Merino and Cotton Undershirts and Drawers, fine Muslin Shirts, Collars, Bosoms, Stocks, Scarfs, Cravats, Suspenders, Hosiery, Gloves, Umbrellas, all quantities and prices. Also a good assortment of Caps of all styles.

Please call and examine, as Goods will be freely shown whether you purchase or not.

SAMUEL C. DUNN.
54] 320 Broad-st., Washington Hall.

STOVES.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Plainfield and vicinity that he continues the STOVE business in all its branches at the old established stand,

148 Market-st. Newark.

The system of cash sales and consequent low prices is pursued, and purchasers may always have perfect confidence that the article they buy is exactly what it is represented.

Pierce's Brick Oven American Air-Tight, a large oven stove and a perfect baker. Atwoods Empire, seven hundred of which have been sold in this city. Pierce's Commercial Tight and and many others, good cooking stoves, are kept on hand.

Stanley's Unrivalled Coal Burners, (for parlors) are constantly kept, and sold at less than New-York prices.

Culver's superior Hot Air Furnaces and Kitchen Ranges put up in the best manner and at low rates. Any information on the subject of warming houses with a hot air furnace will be cheerfully given at all times. J. B. WARD,

59.] 148 Market-street Newark.

UNDERTAKING.

COFFINS AT REDUCED PRICES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to his complete assortment of Coffins, where all the different sizes are finished and ready for use at a moments warning; they are made of Mahogony, Black Walnut and Cherry, and finished in every style, so that all can be suited, also a superior style of stained ones, which he offers remarkably low; he has hitherto defered giving his prices, but as he has understood that there is some misrepresentation in regard to his prices, he deems this sufficient excuse to the public for to say that for a large size Black Walnut Coffin including hearse in attendance he has $6, Mahogany $14, Cherry $6, and small ones accordingly, tight case made in coffin style $1,75. By leaving the order with him, the sexton of either of the churches will be seen if required, and all necessary arrangements made without any extra expense.

J. W. S. MARTIN, Principal.

HE has given up the idea of Cuba being annexed this fall, consequently he has made up his mind to stay a little longer at his old stand adjoining Webster & Marsh's store, where he offers a new and splendid assortment of Cabinet Furniture, unequalled in this or any of the neighboring towns for stability or neatness of finish, patterns being all new, and we advise all who wish to be fitted out with such articles as he offers, to make their purchases of him instead of going out of the place, do not forget the minerel and you will get a bargain as sure as the whale swallowed Jonah. J. W. S. MARTIN.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [54.

GUTTA PERCHA

MOLESKIN HATS

FOR Gentlemen's wear, are now ready and for sale at our store and Manufactory

No. 244 Broad street, Newark.

Fur and Moleskin Hats of all descriptions, kept constantly on hand. Persons buying hats of us, may feel perfectly secure against the common difficulty of which is met with in a majority of Moleskin hats, in the liability of the plush blistering, as we are now using a new preparation of Gutta Percha sizing for the body in the manufacture of our Hats. The effect of which is to make them more pliable, and at the same time impervious to water and prespiration. Caps of various styles kept constantly on hand.

AGENS & Co.
80] No. 244 Broat-st., 4 doors south of the Morris Canal.

NEW CANDIDATE.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

HOT AIR AND AIR TIGHT

COOKING STOVE.

THOSE who desire to carry out economy in the kitchen without either keeping a scanty larder or a lean table, or consuming too much fuel, will call and examine the STOVE known as

The Peoples' Choice,

Which is acknowledged by those having them to posses advantages superior to any other. The heat being so concentrated and condensed directly under the vessels, so that none will escape unused, and so arranged as to be more easily cleansed and kept much neater than most Stoves. (Warranted to perform to satisfaction, if set up as directed.) For sale by

E. C. BEAM. No. 302 Broat st. Newark.

INSURANCE.

2,500 MEMBERS!

THE CLINTON MUTUAL INSURANCE CO. AT NEWARK NEW-JERSEY. This company has now completed the fifth quarter of its active operations with unparalled success, having issued 2500 policies into all parts of New-Jersey, as well as beyond its limits, and have sustained losses to the amount of less than $2000 during that period.

This success, though extraordinary, has not surprised the directors of the company as the peculiar system of insurance adopted by them offers advantages and inducements which need only to be understood to command public confidence and patronage.

The company insures both on the mutual and special principle. Policies on the mutual principle are issued for any period not exceeding five years, and are confined to the best classes of risks, and generally to buildings and property in the country not haxardous, nor in blocks or in exposed parts of cities, towns or villages; a precaution which enables the company to insure at unprecedently low prices.

In such cases a premium note is taken and only 33 1-3 cent. on the amount of the note is required to be paid in cash at the time of insurance; no other payment being required except on assessments to pay losses accruing during the continuance of the policy; and the company confidently anticipating that no such assessment will be necessary, as it has been ascertained by experience that the cash payment at the time of insurance will suffice for all probable losses.

Every person insured on the mutual principle becomes thereby a member of the company, and is entitled to vote at the election of its directors, and, after having been insured for five years successively, is allowed at his option, on renewing his policy, to take scrip for the amount of his premium, thus securing a return of his premium in a dividend paying stock

Policies on the special principle are issued when preferred, on the most reasonable terms, but generally for periods not exceeding one year, and risks termed hazardous will be taken on the special principle, at corresponding rates.

This company addresses itself most strongly to the farmers of the country, as it is among them that it finds and prefers to select its patrons.

The policies issued by this company are of the most liberal and equitable character, and all deceptive and objectionably provisions, calculated to produce litigation and defeat a recovery, too often found in the policies of the other companies, are scrupulous excluded.

The company invites the closest scrutiny into its character and business. It is responsible for the accuracy of all surveys taken by its agents. All differences may be settled by arbitrators, at the option of either party. Every person insured is at liberty to surrender his insurance at any time and take up his premium note. The business of the company is flourishing and prosperous, and persons insured may rely on having all losses settled with promptness and liberality.

☞ All communications should be directed (postpaid) to the secretary. Newark, N. J.

The company beg leave to refer to the following statement of its business:

Amount of property insured	$2,150,000
Number of policies issued	2,500
Amount of premiums thereon	$76,500
Losses during the operations of the company	$1,779

DIRECTORS:

Samuel H Gardner,	Henry Meeker,
Samuel Baldwin,	Nehemiah Perry,
James J. Mapes,	William Brown,
Daniel Squier,	John C. Beardsley,
Alvah Sherman,	A. C. M. Pennington,
Lewis Pierson,	S. H. Meeker.

OFFICERS: SAMUEL H. GARDNER, President. CHARLES A. SHERMAN, Secretary. ALEX. C. M. PENNINGTON, Treasurer. ALVAH SHERMAN, General Agent.

54.] Office, 291 Broad-street Newark.

☞ WM. M. DRAKE, Agent for Plainfield. ☜

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.

DR. PEARSON'S BARBER'S

EMBROCATION

IS decidedly the best preparation that can be used for the cure of sprains, bruises, cuts, galls, splint, curb, ringbone, spavin, stiffness of the joints, &c. It is an article which should be in the hands of every horseman, and no stable should be without a bottle of it. Price only 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

The following is the testimony of Mr Schenck, proprietor of the "Somerset House," Somerville, N. J., a gentleman well known to horsemen in New Jersey.

DR, S. A. PEARSON: Dear Sir—I feel it a duty which I owe to you and the community at large, or rather that part of the community who possess, or in any way have charge of Horses, to say, that I have used your Embrocation,' for horses. It is decidedly the best preparation that I have ever used, or have any knowledge of for the various diseases which it is recommended.

I also know a great number of my friends who have used it—and they all say, that it is the best medicine for horses that they have ever used. I would confidently recommend every person who has a horse should keep a bottle of this valuable Embrocation in his stable.

Yours respectfully, AB'M C. SCHENCK.

Prepared only by S. A. PEARSON, M. D. and for sale wholesale and retail at No. 106 North 4th street. Philadelphia; also by J. R. Swallow, General agent 123 Fulton-st. New York.

For sale in Plainfield by E. Kirkpatrick, and M F. Cushing, also by Druggists and country store keepers generally, throughout the United States, Canadas ane West Indies. [77.

CENTRAL RAIL ROAD,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Winter Arrangement,

TO COMMENCE ON THURSDAY NOV. 1st. 1849.

The extension of the Railroad from Somerville to White house (10 miles) was opened for travel on the 16th of October last, reducing the staging between the terminus of the Road and Easton to 25 miles.

LEAVE NEW YORK.

Steamboat Pier 1 N. River	N J Road Courtland-st.
At 11 o'clock a. m.	9 o'clock a. m.
4 " p. m.	4 1-2 " p. m.

FOR NEW YORK.

LEAVE WHITE HOUSE	NORTH BRANCH
At 3 3-4 a m. Freight	4 a m Freight.
6 1-3 " Passenger	6 1-2 " Passenger
1 40m p m "	1 50m p m "
SOMERVILLE	BOUNDBROOK
5 a m Freight	5 1-4 a m Freight
6 50m a m Passenger	7 " Passenger
2 5m p m "	2 1-4 p m "
PLAINFIELD	WESTFIELD
5 3-4 a m Freight	6 1-2 a m Freight
7 25m " Passenger	7 3-4 " Passenger
2 40m p m "	3 p m "
Fare by N J R 62 1-2 cts	Fare by N J R 50 cts.
" steamboat 50 cts	" steamboat 37 1-2ct

ELIZABETHTOWN

At 7 a m Freight, 8 1-4 a m and 12 3-4 p m Passenger.

Stages will be in readiness on the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from New York, at the White House, to convey passengers to Easton, Wilkesbarre, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk Pa., and to Flemington, Lebanon, Clinton, Milford, Bethlehem, Bloomsbury, New Hampton, Washington and Belvidere, New Jersey.

On Tuesday's, Thursday's, and Saturday's, to Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Bartonsville, Stanhope, Daleville, Buck Town, Lackawana Iron Works to Providence, Pa.

N. B. All Baggage at the risk of the owners until delivered into the actual possession of the Agents of the company, and checks or receipts given therefor.

ALL IMPORTANT,

TO those who wish garments to fit and give satisfaction: Mr. E. B. TITSWORTH will be found always on hand, to cut garments to order at the shortest notice, at the old stand opposite the Mountain road; where may be found constantly a good assortment of

Coats, Pants, Vests, &c.,

Cheap for cash. I. S. DUNHAM.

Plainfield, Dec. 4. 1849. [82.

GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY.

Vegetable Dyspepsia Bitters.

TO THE PUBLIC,

DR HUTCHINGS would call the attention of all afflicted with dyspepsia, and the various disorders arising from a diseased stomach, to his remedy therefor. His DYSPEPSIA BITTERS will be found, on trial, to contain every property requisite to restore the disordered stomach to a healthy action: to reproduce the lost appetite of the patient, and do away with the periodical nervous headache and general debility consequent on this afflicting disease. Thousands have tested its efficacy, and thousands more are now under treatment; and not one solitary case of failure has yet been reported to him. This is consolatory, and urges him on in his efforts to relieve poor suffering humanity. He could fill a volume with certificates of those who have been permanently cured; but he conceives the testimony of a few well-known citizens will answer every purpose. The reader will find, on looking over the following testimonials, they are not "got up" for the occasion; but bona fide letters from gentlemen who can be seen at any time at their places of business.

The following Certificate is from M. B. Brady, the Celebrated Daguerreotypist:

Having been afflicted very severely with Dyspepsia, together with extreme weakness, I was advised to take Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, and have every reason to believe it has perfectly cured me. I have since felt no symptoms of a return of the disease and believe from the effect it had on me that it will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia. M. B. BRADY,

No. 205 Broadway, N. Y.

From Luther B. Wyman, Esq, late President of the New York Musical Society, now of Brooklyn.

The undersigned was afflicted with the Dyspepsia of the worst form for one year and a half during a greater portion of which time he made use of no remedies, but suffered the disease to take care of itself, until he was recommended to try Hutchings' Dyspepsia Bitters, he very soon derived benefit from the use of a few bottles of this medicine, and now considers himself perfectly well.

The undersigned has every confidence in the efficacy of Hutchings' Bitters for the cure of this troublesome and dangerous complaint, and he has no hesitation in recommending it as a most valuable medicine.

L. B. WYMAN, 38 Burling Slip.

New York, Sept 3 1849.

Dear Sir—My wife having been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, low spirits, palpitation of the heart, and having been cured as I believe by your Bitters, I most cheerfully attest their efficacy: her case was a bad one. In the space of four months she lost her strength and thirty-five pounds of flesh; was compelled to abandon her household affairs; there seemed but little probability of a cure until she began to take your bitters: in one week she was greatly relieved, and in three weeks she was perfectly well, and has since gained thirty pounds. You are at liberty to use this if it will at all further your laudable purpose of circulating this valuable remedy.

With respect, NATHAN SAYRE, No 61 Fourth-st

Principal Office: 122 Fulton-st, New York, Up stairs.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK Agent for Plainfield ☜

November 1849. [98.

PLAIN AND FANCY

STATIONERY &C.

E. KIRKPATRICK,

KEEPS constantly on hand a general assortment of Plain and Fancy Stationery, consisting of Note & Letter Paper Copy, Blank and Memoranda Books of various sizes and prices, Law Blanks, Visiting Cards, Writing Paper, Plain and Fancy Envelopes, Plain and Fancy Wafers, Sealing Wax, Gold Pens, Slate, Lead, Silver and Drawing Pencils,

A Variety of School Books,

Premium Black, Blue and Red Inks, Ink Stands, Steel and Quill Pens, Penknives, Razors, Razor Strops, Thermometers, Spy Glasses, Pocket Books, Quills, Blacking, Hair and Tooth Brushes, Shaving Soap, and various other Fancy and Stationary articles, all of which will be sold cheap by the subscriber. Also,

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA.

Surpassing all others by its astonishing cures, Gay's Canchalaqua, Townsend's Sarsaparilla, Brandeth, Wright, and Clickener's Pils, Sweet and Hair Oils, Perfumery, Fancy Soaps, &c &c &c.

☞ Pictures framed to order. ☜

E. KIRKPATRICK.

Plainfield, N. J. 1td.

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, AND

CROCKERY.

THE subscribers are constantly receiving fresh additions to their stock of DRY GOODS suitable to the season, consisting of

Cloths, Cassimers, and Vestings,

of the various Quantities, Styles, and Patterns, together with a good assortment, of Ladies Broche, Cashmere, and Woolen Shawls, Silks, Bombasin, Alapacas, Prints of various styles, Flannels Muslins, Tickings &c.

CARPETS AND OIL CLOTHS.

Als a good assortment of Ladies Shoes and over Shoes, Mens and Boys Boots and Shoes, with a general assortment of Hardware and Crockery

Also, as good an assortment of GROCERIES and SPICES, as can be had elsewhere, all of which we offer at prices to suit the times. Past favors thankfully acknowledged and a continuance provided for.

TITTSWORTH, DUNN & CO.

Plainfield, Oct 17 1849.

N. B. We are Agent for Dr. Branderth's and Jayne's Patent Medicines.

NEW STORE.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

THE subscriber would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Plainfield and its vicinity, that he has purchased and fitted up the property next door to Stewart's Bakery, (formerly J. Pound's) where he intends to keep constantly on hand a general assortment of BOOTS and SHOES which he will sell as cheap as can be had elsewhere.

Men's and boys boots and shoes, also Ladies shoes of all kinds made to order at short notice and on reasonable terms.

Repairing done at short notice.

JOHN BOYLAN.

A general assortment of

LADIES CAPS, COLLARS,

RIBBONS, &c. &c.

Constantly on hand at the above named place, by MARY P. VAIL.

May 1. 1849. [71.

Job Printing

Of all kinds, at short notice, and on reasonable terms, executed at this Office.

THE EMPIRE COMPANY.

Incorporated by the Legislature of the State of New York.

ARE the exclusive Agents for Green's Oxygenated Bitters, which is the best and strongest certified medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Costiveness, &c., in the world. In every disease arising from imperfect digestion, or deranged stomach, this remedy has been certified to by Hon: L. Arnold, Ex-Governor of Rhode Island, Hon. Wm. Woodbridge, Ex-Governor of Michigan; Hon. J. T. Moorhead, Ex-Governor of Kentucky, Hon. J. S. Simmons, Senator from R. I; Hon. S. S. Phelps, Senator from Vt. Hon. Wm. Upham, Senator from Vt. Hon. S. Foot, Senator from Vt. Hon. H. D. Foster, member of Congress from Pa Hon. W. S. Martin, Wisconsin, Gen. A. C. Dodge, Iowa, C. C. Trowbridge, Esq. Detroit, S. H. Holmes, Esq. Ct. G. W. Jones, Esq. Dubuque, Joseph Hoxie, New York, and many others who are living witnesses of its superior efficacy. N. B.—One peculiar property of the bitters is, that it does not contain any spirituous liquors, and is on an entirely new plan of cure for Dyspepsia. The EMPIRE COMPANY, to whom orders should be addressed, are at No. 53 Courtland-st. N. Y.

Pain Killer!

A medical preparation by the name of the PAIN KILLER, has been put into the market by the Empire Company in new York, which bids fair to cast all other preparations into the shade. It cannot, perhaps, be better described than by stating that it is in a liquid form, and is adapted to internal and external use, holding instantaneous control over all Nervous Affections, Rheumatism, Croup, Inflammations, Tooth and Ear ache, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, &c. Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland st.

Deaf Persons

Can be made to hear in almost Every case! by proper treatment, but they should remember that the organization of the Ear is the most delicate structure of the body, (except the eye,) and hence is oftener injured than benefitted by syringes. The ACOUSTIC OIL sold by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland-st. is the surest and most successful article ever known for cures.

Chemical Cleansing Fluid.

Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, is to every person who washes or has washing done, of very great and essential service. It obviates more than half the ordinary labor and also the wear to clothes. It sets the color fast to fading calicoes, and answers as well for cambrics muslins, and woolen goods.

Ornamental and Useful.

The Laundry Starch Polish is used to give that peculiar polish to collars, bosoms and linens, that nothing else can give; besides, it greatly, facilitates the ironing. The genuie has the stamp of the Empire Company, No. 53 Courtland-st.

Be sure about Vermifuges!

Some kill the CHILDREN! as well as the WORMS, and the only safe article that kills, the WORMS, and not the CHILDREN, is the one made and sold by the Empire Company, at 53 courtland-st.

The Empire Company.

Is the only one of the kind incorporated by the Legislature of this state as a Stock Company, and under such legislative enactments as to make the stock always at par, and the Company clear of liabilities. Individuals holding any of the Stock of the Company, will be entitled to their pro ratio amount of the profits of the business, declared upon the affidavits of the trustees, at the end of each year. The Company receive their own stock at par in the payment for goods at the New York office, 53 Courtland st.

The Empire Company.

Are Manufacturers of, and Agents for some of the finest and most popular kinds of Shaving and Fancy Soaps, such as Vanilla, Napoleon, Toilet, &c., Barbers' Shaving Soap in bars.

The Genuine Hay's Liniament,

Balm of Columbia, Hews Nerve and Bone Liniment, Sphons, Sick Headache Remedy, the Chinese Celestial Skin Powder, &c., have been transferred to the Empire Company 53 Courtland st. to whom all orders and applications should be made.

The Empire Company.

Has the Agency of the Nervine Balsam, the Great Indian remedy for Fits, the only sure and certain cure for Epiliptic Fits, Cramps, Convultions, &c. It has been administered with astonishing success, and is as near a specific as anything can be. It forms a new era in the practice of Physicians, many of whom use this Balsam, as the only remedy. Persons wishing the Nervine Balsam, must apply to Empire Company, 53 Courtland st.

Dr. Bush's Health Pills

Are only to be had genuine from the Empire Company! This caution is necessary to avoid a spurious article. The genuine Rush Pills are harmless effectual, and the ne plus ultra of specifics It was invented by the great Dr. Rush, and used as a universal remedy for disease.

Dr. Bartholemew's Expectorant Pink Syrup.

Is manufactured perfectly pure by the Empire Company, 53 Courtland st under incorporation from the State, for Coughs, Colds, Pain of the Side, Lungs, &c. It is sure preventive of Consumption, but not a certain cure after the disease is once thoroughly seated. The genuine is only to be had from this Company.

The Thing is Done!!

Those who do not believe it, are respectfully desired NOT to read! But BALD-HEADED Persons may read and test, and have the head covered with a fine, luxuriant, glossy hair, by the use of the MAGNETIC HAIR RESTORER and INVIGORATOR. Manufactured and sold by the Empire Company, incorporated by the state of New York, No. 53 Courtland st.

☞ E. KIRKPATRICK, Agent for Plainfield.

CHAIN PUMPS.

THE best machine for raising water, in use — This Pump has many advantages over any other in use on account of its simplicity of construction, being made wholly of wood and galvanized iron, not liable to get out of order or to get deranged in any way. It can never freeze in winter, and can be put in wells of any depth.

It takes less power to work it than any other machine, to raise the same amount of water.

It is never obstructed by gravel or sand; it keeps the water perfectly sweet and fresh; the action of the chain mixes the gasses with the water always keeping it lively and fresh; on ceasing to work it, the water in the tube descends to the level of the water in the well; on commencing to work the pump, the first water that is drawn is from the bottom of the well.

☞ This pump received the premium at the late Essex county fair.

These Pumps may be had at the Pump Factory of S. B. Miller, 340 Broad-street, Newark, N. J.

63.] E. W. WHITEHEAD, Superintendent.

NOTICE.

Application will be made to the Legislature at its next annual sitting for a law to incorporate the Trustees of School District number one in the Township of Plainfield, authorizing them to hold real estate and mortgage the same, and to perform such other duties as devolve upon said Trustees by virtue of an act passed March 9th 1848.

October 30. 1849. [52.

J. C. BOOTH, & CO.

FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, &

OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,

27 Courtland-street, New York, a few doors below the Western Hotel.

FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, at Wholesale and Retail.

THE Subscribers enter the field of competition with a Large and Elegant assortment of all the NEW STYLES of FASHIONABLE GARMENTS for the Fall and Winter Trade. Fully determined to maintain the increasing reputation of the Establishment, they have made great efforts in producing Styles of Garments well adapted for every age and condition in life, from the very LOWEST PRICE to the most Elegant and Superior

French Cloth Suits,

Full FIFTY PER CENT. LESS than the same are furnished to order by many Houses in the Trade.

Our Garments we guarantee to be as well made as Custom Work, and our Corps of Cutters are not to be excelled in point of taste and skill by any in the United States. Our Stock has been selected from the best fabrics of Foreign and Domestic Manufacture, and purchased at the lowest Cash Prices, one of the firm devoting his whole time at the Auction or Importing Houses. Presuming it is unnecessary to enumerate a long list of prices, as the establishment has been long and favorably known as THE House where DURABILITY and ECONOMY are combined, in the manufacture of Clothing—where the customer can always depend on finding Garments WELL MADE, however low the price

Merchants and Clothiers are invited to examine our Stock before purchasing, as we are determined not to be undersold by any House in the Trade.

The FANCY DEPARTMENT embraces all that is new or desirable in French, English and Italian Black and Fancy Silk CRAVATS; SUSPENDERS, of French, English, and American manufacture; GLOVES of Chassons, Black and Col'd Kid, Heavy Buckskin—Cassimere and Merino do; of every description.

Linen and Cotton SHIRTS, of all qualities, at Wholesale Prices.

Merino, Cohoes, and Shaker Flannel UNDER SHIRTS and DRAWERS, of every description.

CARPET BAGS at Wholesale Prices, with every other article usually kept in a

GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT.

FULL SUITS furnished to order at a few hours notice, and sent to any part of the United States.

60] J. C BOOTH & CO.

REAL ESTATE,

Of all kinds, for sale in all parts of New Jersey, and some in New York and Philadelphia.

No 1. 114 acres of land, a good farm House, Barn and Cow House, well watered and Fenced, with fruit, plenty of Wood, price $2,500 No 2 80 acres, a good small House, large Barn. Land good. Fruit. Wood and Water, price $3,500 No 3. 50 acres, farm House, new Barn and cow House, well Watered and Fenced Fruit plenty, and Wood, price $1,500 No. 4 84 acres, new House and Barn, plenty of Wood, Land rough and stony price $1,400. No. 5. 174 acres, large House, Barn and Carriage House, good Land, well Watered, 30 acres of Wood, price $35 pr. acre. No 6. 100 acres of good land, large House and Barns, plenty of Wood and Fruit, price $5,000. No. 7. 88. acres, farm House, Barn, good Land, Wood and Water, price $35 per acre No 8. 84 acres of good Land, House, Barn and Carriage House, large Garden, Land first rate. No 9. 83 acres large House, plenty of Barns and out houses, Wood Land, Fruit, well Watered, 1-4 of a mile from the Depot No. 10 200 acres, a large good House, Barn, large Orchard, 60 acres of Timber, well Watered, price $30 per acre. No. 11 and 12 36 1-2 acres each, very good Land, farm House, Barn, good orchard, plenty of Fruit No 13 about 2 acres of Land, well stocked with Fruit and Shrubery of all kinds, large good House, Barn, &c. in the centre of Plainfield, in a beautiful place. No. 14. Splendid country seat of 140 acres, large first class House, Barn, Carriage House, and all necessary out buildings in complete order. No 15 14 acres, the completest country seat in the State for House, Barn and Garden. Also, 4 good Houses and Lots in Main-st. Plainfield: 4 on Second-st; 4 on Fourth-st 15 acres good Land, good House, Barn and Orchard, 1-4 of a mile from depot. 17 acres small House, and Orchard 80 acres good Land, near town, $50 per acre. 37 1-2 acres, large House, Barn, good Garden, land near the Railroad 103 acres farm house, barn, cow house, carriage house and 20 acres of good timber, is a fine farm for truck or grain. Farms of all sizes and prices, in about all parts of New Jersey, and some in the State of New York; Houses and Lots in Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, and in all the principal towns in New Jersey, viz: Newark, Elizabethtown, Plainfield, New-Market, Bound Brook, New-Brunswick and Somerville.

☞ Call on STEPHEN VAIL, No 5 Courtland street, New York, every Saturday from 10 to 2 o'clock, other days at Plainfield, New Jersey ☜

P. S. 184 acres of Land, with 2 Houses and Barns for $20 per acre, cheap. [53.

T. BENEDICT & CO,

MANUFACTURERS OF

And Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of

HARNESS, COLLARS,

WHIPS, TRUNKS, VALISES, CARPET BAGS, &c.

At 364 A Broad-street,

NEWARK, N. J.

TERAH BENEDICT. ALEX. M. W. BALL.

N. B. No efforts will be spared to render it advantageous to our country friends to purchase of us. [66.

A. WILCOX,

MARBLE MANUFACTORY,

142 Market Street Newark,

NEW JERSEY,

Where can be had Monuments, Head Stones, Marble Mantles, Wall Plates, Fonts and Vases.

With every variety of work in his line of business executed with neatness and dispatch. A share of patronage will be thankfully received. [73.

PUMPS! PUMPS!! PUMPS!!!

THE subscriber would inform the public, that he is prepared, at the shortest notice, to manufacture out of the best White-oak, the old fashioned and

BEST KIND OF WOOD PUMPS.

Also to repair all kinds of pumps; or to conduct water into houses with lead pipes.

My pumps are taking the place of all kinds of patent pumps, being found to give every satisfaction required, at the lowest cash prices.

DAVID FREEMAN.

Plainfield, March 28. 1849. [66.

RAHWAY, ELIZABETHTOWN,

AND NEWARK EXPRESS.

LEAVE Crowell's hotel, Lower Rahway at 8 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Leave Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, 9 3-4.

Returning, leave City hotel, Newark, at 4 P. M. Elizabethtown about 5 1-2 o'clock.

☞ Packages from Plainfield and other places on that route directed "Express," and left at Seiple's hotel, Elizabethtown, will be forwarded agreeably to directions, and in return will be left at the same place.

Errands promptly attended to, and goods of every description delivered in any part of the above named places, at reasonable rates.

☞ Packages will be forwarded to Paterson, Woodbridge and Amboy.

54.] A. V. WILLIAMS, Proprietor.

☞ LOWEST CASH PRICES ☜

BLANK BOOKS,

PAPER, STATIONERY ARTICLES, GOLD PENS. FRANCIS & LOUTRELL, 77 Maiden Lane, New-York, Manufacture and Import all goods in their line. We offer great inducements to purchasers. Orders receive prompt attention.

Account Books,

every style and size for business purposes, public offices, lodges, and others, with printed headings, Time Books, Hotel Registers, Diaries and Daily Journals for 1850, Copy, Pass and Memorandum Books, &c.

Papers at Mill Price,

Cap, Commercial, Letter, Note, Tissue, Colored, Mourning Letter and Note Papers, Drawing and all other styles of writing and wrapping papers.

Stationery.

Fancy and Staple in great variety, Envelopes, all sizes and qualities, Cards, Preforated, Bristol and Bonnet Boards, Wax, Wafers, Slates, Pencils, Gold and Steel Pens, Quills, Gold and Silver Pencil Cases, Card Cases, Wallets, Inkstands, Tin Cash and Deed Boxes, Chessmen, Backgammon Boards, &c.

Croton Ink.

If you want good black writing Ink use Francis' Croton Ink; flows freely from the pen and keeps the color, also Indelible, Blue and Carmine Inks.

Francis' Manifold Letter Writer,

by which a letter is written and copied at the same time, no extra trouble and a perfect copy, Copying and Notorial Presses, cheap.

Book Binding,

executed in any style desired, also Job Printing.—Our factory is in the most complete order, please call at our store.

FRANCIS & LOUTREL.

Manufacuring Stationers, 77 Maiden Lane.

LEWIS FRANCIS, CYRUS H. LOUTREL.

PAPER HANGINGS DEPOT,

18 COURTLANDT STREET,

Near Broadway, and opposite the Western Hotel New York.

The Croton Manufacturing Company (Organized under the General Manufacturing Law of the State of New York), Offer at Wholesale, in Quantities to suit Purchasers, at Manufacturers' Lowest prices, for cash or approved Credit,

Paper Hangings of every variety of style and price, Borders to match,

Fire Board prints in great variety,

Wide Window Curtain Papers Plain and Shaded,

Transparent Window Shades,

Oil Painted Window Shades, and

Window Shade Trimmings,

Of the Latest Styles and Superior Finish, all of their own Manufacture and Importation. As their Stock is large and entirely new, they invite Merchants, Booksellers and Dealers in these articles to call and examine their Styles and Prices whenever they visit the City

☞ Country Merchants can examine this Stock from 6 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock in the evening.

New York, April 18. 1849.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

THE subscriber, thankful for past favors, wishes to inform his numerous Patrons, that he still continues with his usual promptness to execte all orders in House, Sign and Ornamental Painting. He is still agent for the sale of the Fire Proof Paint which is said to be

Imperishable and Incombustible,

He also continues to keep most kinds of PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS, PUTY, &c.

☞ Painting and Paperhanging, in all its branches attended to by

FRAZEE MARSH.

☞ Punctuality in all cases.

N. B Chairs bottomed.

Plainfield, Oct. 3. 1849. [67.

TAKE NOTICE.

ANY person or persons infringing on my premises by Trap or Gun shall receive the benefit of the law. R. S. BROOKS.

Washington Valley, Nov. 1. 1840. [72.

☞ For Cheap Job Printing, neatly and promptly done, call at the Gazette Office, opposite the 2nd Presbyterian Church